NORTH CAROLINA.
Things Mentioned in our State Exchanges that are of General Interest The Cream of the News.

The Newbern people are preparing to give the State Press Association a nice time when it meets there of April 26th and 27th.

Plymouth Beacon: A nest of rattlesnakes has been captured by Mr. T. W. Blount and preserved in alcohol. We don't know the number of them, but they are small and fill a quart jar.

Kinston Free Press: Representative Woodard has secured the ousting of the negro postmaster at Windsor, Bertie county, and recommended G. Gray for the place. Miss Laura A. Sugg has been appointed postmaster at Snow Hill.

Goldsboro Headlight: The Canaan wreck recently moved here by "Maryam" Butler, unable to hold its way, was mortgaged in its entirety last Thursday to Pat Exum, the Gideonite, for the sum of $1,100. Suffice it to say that the "concern" will be run by means of "natural gas" hereafter. How have the mighty fallen!

Washington Progress: A farmer of Camden county last week fell asleep under a tree. While slumbering, with his head against the tree, his dog got after a large gray squirrel which, in its haste to reach a place of safety, jumped in the farmer's mouth, taking it for a knot-hole. The farmer not being used to raw game, disgorged the squirrel with an effort and has not yet fully recovered.

Roxboro Courier: Last Saturday some one is supposed to have put on the street a lot of poison—at any rate Sunday morning there was found scattered over town about 36 dead dogs, 3 cats and one buzzard. The Legislature of North Carolina may be afraid to tackle the dog, but when they get too thick around Roxboro some one here (of course his identity is unknown) never fails to thin them out. It has to be done about once year.

He announced that all persons convicted of swearing and using vulgar language on the streets shall be punished as promptly and unmercifully as for any other crime committed against the city ordinance.

THE BANE OF LIFE.

The Lay of the Sluggard.

Tell me not in caustic numbers
Early rising makes us men;
That the lad's fool who slumbers
Sweetly on till half-past ten.

Foot is real! And he is splendid,
Better far to melt than freeze;
Such advice was not intended
For such lither times as these!

Bed is warm—'tis cosy weather,
Frozeen fingers cannot shave;
Better shirk it altogether;
Early rising means the grave.

Now that Horus is so surly,
And the streams are hard as lead,
Do not idly rise early
Believers in bed!

Let us, then, be down, when others
Rise as though we were in June;
Lying warm, my sleepy brethren,
Learn to slumber on till noon.

A Reply.
Tell me not in soothing numbers
Of your bed and morning dream,
Of the caustic words of late slumbers—
Man—you are not what you seem.

Some must rise, and some one's fingers
Strive man's breakfast to prepare
While some sit in bed, and linger,
Some must freeze in morning air.

Women are the bravest workers,
It is the earliest from warm bed,
But philosophers are shirkers,
Still—such sagas must be fed.

Sleep, man, till noon, don't hurry,
But reflect upon your fate—
How you'll starve and freeze and flurry—
If the women too were late!

—Fall Mill Budget.

The Captain Wondered.

"Talking about betting," said a Lake Superior captain to the hotel clerk, "and the spirit of gambling, I recall an instance in my experience that rather beats anything I ever heard of. I was running an old sidewheel, the Illinois, from Cleveland to Marquette and points beyond, and on one trip I had a passenger that would bet on anything, and if nothing happened to turn up that he could gamble on invented something.

One day we stopped in mid-lake, off Saginaw Bay, to repair a wheel, and my passenger began betting on doing various hazardous things, and nobody took him up, so he proceeded to do them anyhow. While at one of them he fell overboard. The alarm was raised and one of his friends grabbed a rope to throw to him.

"I'll bet you $50 I got him," he yelled to me as he braced himself to throw the rope.

The man in the water heard him.

"I'll take that," he yelled back, and as the rope came flying through the air he dodged it by diving, and I'm blamed if he ever came any more.

"Didn't you ever find him?" inquired the clerk.

"No," replied the captain reflectively, "and I don't see why, either, for it was worth $50 to him net, because the other fellow had a barrel of money."

And the clerk joined the captain in wondering. — Detroit Free Press.

Unnerved.

He didn't have them again, that was evident, but when he came in at 6 o'clock from his office he was badly rattled.

"What's the matter?" asked his wife.

"I saw a woman a while ago," he stammered nervously, "wearing one of those confounded skoop hirts."

"Skoop hirts?" queried the lady, eyeing him closely.

"No—no," shaking his head, "one of those confounded hook spirits."

"Hook spirits?" and again his wife looked at him suspiciously.

"No, not that, one of those confounded skoop hirts."

"Skoop hirts?" interrupted his wife.

He rubbed his head hard and tried again.

"One of those confounded skoop hirts."

"Henry, my dear," interrupted Mrs. Henry, getting up and taking him by the arm, "suppose you go out and soak your wits at the hydrant for a few moments."

Henry obeyed, and when he returned he said it was one of those confounded hoop skirts that had unnerved him so.—Detroit Free Press.

Pathetic Passages.

A correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch tells of a young woman who went to the matinee prepared for the affecting part of the play. She carried lightly sewed to the center of a second handkerchief a tiny powder puff, which she proceeded to dust with powder from a little enamelled box into which it fitted. With the puff concealed in the handkerchief she calmly watched the scene progress to the agony point, ignoring the tears that, sure enough began presently to stream down her cheeks. When the curtain fell, however, she took instant advantage of the momentary reaction of the audience, and wiping her face with her handkerchief, with the second and cleverly dusted her too red nose and cheeks with the toning-down powder, and triumphantly beamed upon the women about her who were not so cleverly forewarned.

Eating.
Eating too much is not healthy. The stomach can only properly digest the amount which is needed to nourish the system. The remainder is either thrown off or undigested, or is crowded into parts of the system where it is not only not needed, but is injurious.

ALL BUT.

FROM THE SPANISH BY M. L. S.

So, my life, you want a story as rosy-colored as your tempting cheeks?

Then listen to this, though I very much fear you know it already but too well.

Once upon a time the King of Heaven called the most mischievous of his angels.

"With this purse," said He, "go to the bazaar where they retail prices of women; with the sixty celestes that is necessary to make up one that will proclaim your taste in the matter, and when it is finished send it to the world by way of the first conveyance, directed to that poor poet who is asking us for it with such extremity. Be careful that you do not forget any piece and let us see how you acquit yourself."

The angel reached the bazaar in a single flight.

"Good day, master."

"Good morning, child. What brings you here?"

"I have to buy a woman in pieces. Come now; take down all you have and of the first quality, for there is no lack of money."

"Very well, boy. First, the eyes, if it suits you to begin there. Here you have all kinds and colors; green, blue, black."

"Let us see. How much are those blue ones, so light and pure?"

"Ten celestes."

"They are dear."

"The best in the shop."

"Put them aside. Raise that glass and take out that little dewy, red mouth."

"It is marked four celestes. There is nothing fresher in all the bazaar."

"Buy it with the eyes. And that nose as well. Oh! what hair was ever prettier than that!"

"Which?"

"That hanging up there, colored like rays of the sun."

"You don't choose badly, youth. You light on the best I have."

"Well! and these little ears; I think they will match those velvety cheeks."

And, as for that, with this set of pearly teeth. What do you say?"

Pearly appear to be just the thing to guard the rosy tongue that I see in the furthest showcase. Bless me! What a throat and neck. How finely the head we have just formed will set upon them! Let us now see some bodies."

"Here they are. Choose. I have a fine assortment."

"That is so, but, hold on. Not this one, nor that either. But that over there which is so beautiful. What forms! What contours! It is a work that does you honor, master."

"Many thanks, little fellow; I see you understand it."

"All right. Now, after putting those alabaster arms to it and fastening on those shapely legs, and to the arms those delicate white hands, and to the legs those neat little feet, our work is complete, is it not?"

"And what a lovely result, now that we have it all put together. How handsome, how successful! The poet must be very hard to please who is not enthusiastic over such perfection."

"Something is wanting, however."

"Can it be possible?"

"Yes, child, the heart. You have forgotten it."

"How is that? Does it not go along with the body?"

"Very well, but in a most tender and loving one. Our poet will thank us for it."

"I must tell you, youngster, that the tender one comes high."

"Then, see, wait a minute. Cast up the amount of all that I have selected, and with the balance remaining we shall add a heart to her."

"That is soon done; ten here, nine there, eighteen over there—the throat, the hands. Here it is, just sixty celestes."

"Sixty celestes?"

"Not one less."

"Unfortunate coincidence—"

"What is up?"

"That this is precisely the total amount which I can spend."

"What shall we do then?"

"Could you not come down a little in price?"

"Impossible, not a farthing. You are getting the very best in the store."

"No, of course not. Certainly. There is nothing more perfect."

"Listen to this suggestion. Some piece might be exchanged for a cheaper one and with the difference—" all, as the want of it cannot be seen, nobody will notice the defect.

"As for me, do as you please."

"There is your money."

"Good-bye, young man."

"Good-bye, master, till I see you again."

And the cherub, light as a sunbeam, gathered the beautiful woman in his arms and descended to the earth, beating the air with his wings.

And as I reach this part of my story, you will not fail to ask me: "And could that woman live without a heart?"

And I then, with great distress, will be obliged to answer: "That, my charming ungrateful one, nobody can know better than yourself."

His Terrible Revenge.

"So!" exclaimed Harold Vere de Vere, folding his arms and regarding the young woman with a stern, pitiless gaze, "you have cast me aside, Mabel Featherbone, in order to get a rich widower, have you?"

If you choose to speak of it in that coarse manner, Mr. Vere de Vere, she replied, raising her head and meeting his gaze haughtily, "I have said I have promised to marry Mr. Wagonsellers."

Harold Vere de Vere crushed his hat down over his eyes and started for the door.

Mabel Featherbone, he said, pausing with his hand on the door knob, you have thrown me over for a man with a bar! You will find he is not the only man with a bar! I have one at home filled with your love letters! I shall sell them to the ragman! Good evening!—Chicago Tribune.

Notes of the Fashions.

Tight-fitting jackets with loose fronts and large lapels will prevail in 1893.

The fancy in jewelry is the making over of old-fashioned earrings into stick pins.

The latest fashion in hair dressing allows for an ornament being placed vertically, cutting it directly in two.

Very dainty card cases, photograph frames, pocketbooks and purses are made of white morocco, mounted either with silver or gold.

No Need of It.

Husband—I wish you would try to clean those white neckties of mine.

Wife—All right. I'll try some chalk and water on them.

Husband—Do you want me to get the chalk downtown?

Wife—Oh, no; I'll put out an extra milk ticket in the morning.

Arithmetic.

Teacher—If I divide anything into three equal parts, each of those parts will be called a third; or if I should divide it into four equal parts, each one would be called a fourth. But if I should divide it into two equal parts, what would one of them be called?

Small Boy—A tooth.—Judge.

What She Loved.

He—If you did not love me why did you encourage me?

She—If I encourage you?

He—For two reasons you have accepted every one of my invitations to the theatre, &c.

She—That was not because I loved you; it was because I loved the theatre.—N. Y. Weekly.

Sufficient Grounds.

Fair Client—I want to get a divorce from my husband.

Chicago Attorney—On what grounds?

Fair Client—Well, we were married—

Chicago Attorney—That's all that is necessary. I'll send you the decree C. O. D.—Puck.

Not at All Surprising.

Father—You seem to look at things in a different light since your marriage.

His Newly Married Daughter—Well, I ought to after receiving fourteen lamps and nine candelabras for wedding presents.

It Was No Go.

"I tried my poem on a dog, sir, as you advised me," said the poet.

"Well," said the editor, "what was the result?"

"I was arrested by an officer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

Unreasonable.

He—I own that there is one very unreasonable thing about me. She—What is it?

He—it is because I think there is no one in the world worthy of you that I want you to accept me.

THE JHOOT DEMON.

His Ways Were Mysterious and His Ravages Terrible.

Ghostly White, Hairless and Stone Blind, But His Victories Were Numerous—Narrative of Adventures in India.

The great Jhoot Demon, described by Colonel Bowling in his narrative of adventures in India, was a tiger whose ways were mysterious as his ravages were terrible. He could never be bagged. He killed every shikari, native or English who tried it. This truculent beast had never been seen, and as he never mangled a body, but only sucked the blood through an orifice made over the jugular vein, the terror the great Jhoot Demon inspired is not surprising. He never forced a door, yet he got into houses after hours. Two subalterns went out for him and the next day were found dead like all the rest.

One with his last strength had managed to scratch the words, "Look out for L—," but no account of conjecture could solve the riddle of these words. A famous shot, who once for a wager shot 100 tigers in twelve months, met the same fate. He, too, left a "creepy" and mysterious message—the letters "A. M." Then the Colonel goes. He built himself an ambush and watched.

"Just as the full light of the moon fell upon the stream and illuminated the surroundings there was an almost inaudible rustle of leaves close behind me, and turn on the instant, I saw a little gray-brown paw very cautiously putting itself into the twigs of my shelter, and behind the paw I could discern two small green eyes attentively regarding me."

"A hunter," I said to myself as it vanished from view, a monkey! That's what the lads and Dick Culverton meant to tell us, and by George! their mischief here. Moved by a sudden inspiration, for which I cannot to this day account, I hastened from the shelter and ascended the adjoining tree. I had scarcely time to seat myself comfortably upon one of the lower branches when I saw the lungoo return, followed by the most repulsive looking monster my eyes have ever beheld.

"You talk, Snapper, of your tiger being mangy, this one was absolutely naked, nude as a nut, bald as a bottle, not a hair anywhere—a huge, ghastly, glabrous monstrosity—a very Caliban of tigers, as big as a bison and as long as a crocodile."

As the ghastly creature crept after the monkey he followed the slightest curve and deviation of his guide with the delicate alacrity of a needle under the influence of a magnet. The adroitness displayed by the tiger was suddenly converted into a subject of horrified wonder, for as the brute approached the ambush he turned his hideous face up to the moon, and I could see that his eyes were of a dull dead white without light, intelligence or movement. The creature was stone blind. For that he he evidently knew, or thought he knew, what lay before him, for the salivary of anticipation was clinging to his withered jaws like a mass of gleaming icicles.

"The monkey, when it had come within jumping distance, giving a low signal cry, made one vigorous spring into my late shelter, alighted upon my camp stool and sprang out again on the other side. He was instantly followed by the tiger, who fell like an avalanche upon the stool, crushing it to match wood and at once began to feel about on all sides for his expected prey."

"Now was my chance; beneath me in the broad light of the full moon lay the Demon of the Jhoot. I aimed steadily at a deep furrow between the huge shoulder blade and held my breath for the shot. At that moment the keen eyes of the monkey caught sight of me, and the little animal uttered a shrill note of warning; but it was too late, my finger was upon the trigger and I fired both barrels in quick succession."

Aerolites.

"Do you believe in fate, Pat?"

"Sure and that would we stand on without 'em."

There would be a great deal less mischief in the world if a greater number of people stuttered.

A taste for music, when exhibited by young persons, is certainly commendable, but don't start them off.

Papa—Wonder how it is night shirts last longer than dress shirts? Mama—Because you don't wear them out.

"Why do girls kiss each other while boys do not?" "Because girls have nothing better to kiss, and the boys have."

He—My remark was a trifle complicated. She—Yes; the triviality and the complication were distinctly visible.

When a man begins by saying: "Of course it is none of my business, but—" it is a sign that he is going to make it his business, and advise you what to do."

The following inscription graces the signboard of a Long Island coney: "To parties returning from a funeral. Comfortable rooms for such as desire to weep in solitude. The finest wines and liquors of every description."

KILLING A WHALE.

How the monster of the Deep is Despatched.

The Great Danger Attached to the Exciting Work—Sometimes Dead Whales Are Not Always Dead.

The whine being well harnessed to the boat by means of the tow-line, which is fastened to the fish-imbbed harpoon, it may either turn flukes and sound, or bellowing at times like a bull—with a greater volume of voice, however—it may run, as it is termed, taking the boat in tow at a rate, it has been estimated, at the way from 15 to 20 miles an hour, when it first starts off, but settling down to about 8 or 10 knots per hour, when it gets warmed up to its work. This is the old "Nantucket sleigh ride." The whale having tired itself by running, the boat is hauled up by the line, and side by side the crew, with hair standing on end, and the affrighted whale, startled anew by the close proximity of so strange a load, rush through the surging and fast receding waves.

The "cutter" gets a "get" with his hand lance and plunges about five or six feet of cold iron into the lungs of the victim, and perseveres without ceasing in the up and down motions, familiarly known as "churning," as the boat persistently clings to the whale, until the spout of the unfortunate cetacean is tinged with the crimson of its own life blood. The muscles of the strong arm now relax upon the lance, the boat is laid off and the dying whale swims round and round in an unbroken circle. This is the furry. Death is now merely a question of time. The blood ejected through the spiracles now becomes as thick as tar.

It is not only a belief of whalemen, but it is usual; the fact, that the whale, during its dying moments, so times its enacting path as to place its head to the sun. It now makes a heavy lurch, the sea is lashed into a mad storm of bloody water, and the ponderous whale rolls heavily on its side or partly on its back, with the fin projecting above the water. This is finning out. A one-sided jury would say that the whale died of hemorrhage of the lungs. To use a paradoxical expression, some dead whales are not always dead.

It may be in a comatose state, but as to vivisection, and when the men again approach it and cut holes through the lips to make the line fast, to tow it to the vessel, a demolished boat or loss of life and limbs may be the reward.

Since the more cautious whalemen prick his eye, and if the whale does not flinch, it is supposed to be dead. Several boats take their position in line like a tandem team of horses; the tow-ropes are properly adjusted, and the men with merry boat song begin the laborious and monotonous task of towing the whale to the vessel. A dead whale may be towed more easily head first, and it is also always of mention that a dead whale, when cast adrift, will beat to windward, the natural motions of the flukes having a tendency to propel the body.—Century.

Baby Mental Philosophy.

Certain indices charged with the duty of obtaining data for a study of young humanity now send new mothers little blank books provided with questions as to when the baby first exhibited the sense of hearing, when he first took note of light, what were his earliest signs of distress, and many more such. The questions are designed to furnish hints for an investigation extending over the first four years of a child's life. In time all the books will be collected and sent to Germany as aids to the persons who are one day to announce the results of an elaborate study of mental development during infancy and early childhood.

Hints to Housekeepers.

Matting should never be washed with anything but salt and water—a pint of salt to half a pailful of soft water moderately warm. Dry quickly with a soft cloth. Twice during the season will probably be sufficient washing for a bedroom, but a room much used will require it somewhat often.

A useful addition to the laundry belongings is a laundress apron, for the benefit first, of the woman who takes the work from the lines, and incidentally for the one who pays for the clothes-pins. The apron should be a strong garment of ticking or denim, with the front turned up more than half and stitched into a pocket. Into this pocket the pins may be dropped—and saved.

Steel knives which are not in general use may be kept from rusting if they are dipped in a strong solution of soda—one part water to four of soda—then wipe them dry, roll in flannel, and keep them in a dry place; or the steel may be well covered with mutton tallow, then wrapped in paper and put away.

THE REFLECTOR.

Greenville, N. C.

D. J. WHITCHARD, Editor and Proprietor

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12th, 1893.

Entered at the postoffice at Greenville N. C., as second-class mail matter.

HALF CENTURY AGO.

Solicitor Woodard brought with him to Greenville last week a literary curiosity in the shape of an old paper that he was showing his friends and permitted us to examine it. The paper was a copy of the Raleigh Register and North Carolina Gazette dated June 10th, 1845.

Weston R. Gates was editor and the paper had then been established forty-six years. This copy contained an account of the annual commencement of the University of North Carolina. The graduating class consisted of William E. Barnett, Joseph J. B. Batchelor, Charles Bruce, Peter G. Burton, Ralph P. Buxton, Samuel S. Calvert, Samuel S. Cockrell, Thomas F. Davis, Edward Dromgoole, E. L. Dusenbury, Alexander B. Hawkins, James J. Herring, Eugene J. Hinton, Owen D. Holmes, Pleasant A. Holt, H. O. W. Hooker, Virginia H. Ivy, Frederick D. Lente, Langdon C. Manly, Richard H. Mason, Thomas C. McIlhenny, William T. Mebane, Alexander D. Moore, Lucien H. Sanders, Reuben C. Shorter, Thos. F. Slake, Jesse P. Smith, Dewitt C. Stone, George V. Strong, Thos. J. Sumner, Leonidas Taylor, Samuel D. Wharton, Thomas E. Whyte upon each one of these the A. B. degree was conferred.

The A. M. degree was conferred on Willis W. Alston, of South Carolina, David A. Barnes, Robert R. Bridgers, Francis T. Bryan, of West Point Military Academy, Kenelm H. Lewis, Thos. J. Morisey, William S. Mullins, Thomas Ruffin, of Missouri, Rev. Albert Shipp, Joseph T. Summerell, Calvin H. Wiley, Charles P. Heartwell, of Virginia, Jeremiah W. Murphy, and J. Randolph Clay, Secretary of Legation at St. Petersburg.

The degree of LL. D. was conferred on Willie P. Mangum of the U. S. Senate, a graduate of the class of 1815; on John Y. Mason, Attorney General of the United States, a graduate of the class of 1816; and on James K. Polk, President of the United States and a graduate of the class of 1818.

The paper had many other very interesting things in it about matters current throughout the State and nation. It also had a sketch of the military services performed by Guilford Dudley, then of the town of Halifax, during the Revolutionary War, with several letters to him written in 1781. This sketch was copied from the Southern Literary Messenger.

The entire two outside pages of the Register was filled with advertisements, the patronage of that department extending over several States. The price of the paper was $5 a year, half payable in advance.

Hon. Thos. F. Bayard of Delaware has been appointed Ambassador to Great Britain by Mr. Cleveland. He is the first man that ever held this rank or title from the United States to a foreign country. He was appointed under a law passed by the last Congress. No appointment, with perhaps the exception of Mr. Carlisle, has given such universal satisfaction. There is not a purer politician in America than Thos. F. Bayard and Mr. Cleveland has done himself honor in appointing him to the honorable position, possibly the best within his gift. Having been Secretary of State under Mr. Cleveland's former administration he is peculiarly fitted for the position to which he has been appointed.

Hon. Jefferson Davis remains are to be removed during the present month from New Orleans to Richmond. Gov. Carr has written Mayor Ellyson of Richmond asking that the remains be brought to Raleigh enroute for Richmond that North Carolina may show her respect and reverence for the honored dead.

SOLDIERS HOME. RALEIGH, N. C., April 6th 1893. EDITOR REFLECTOR. Dear Sir—Allow me through your columns to express my deep gratitude and love to Maj. John Peebles, C. A. Randolph, Jackson Corbett, C. H. Johnston and Mrs. L. C. Rountree for care and attention given me in my sickness up to the time I left for the Home. May the God of Heaven ever bless and protect them. I also extend heart-felt thanks to Messrs. W. H. Smith, C. M. Bernard, C. W. Hooker, E. H. St. Albans, C. W. Priddy, J. B. Cherry, E. Cobb and B. F. Suggs, for the nurse they gave me before I left for the Soldiers Home. It came in time of need. He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord. May the Lord pay them an hundred fold. May they live long and prosper in the prayer of their humble servant A word about the Home. I have been here since the 14th of March, and no word of complaint to make. It is a home for the homeless and dependent. The rooms are comfortable and comfortably furnished. The table is supplied with good and nourishing food. We have a small library and some newspapers. There are forty-five in the Home at present and some ten or twelve at home on furlough. Two have died since I have been here. Our Superintendent, Mr. Fuller and his noble wife are kind and attentive to the sick, in fact tries to make the Home comfortable and pleasant. W. C. Stronach our business director, supplies the Home with every comfort that the appropriation will allow. He is a high tone Christian gentleman. The right man in the right place. Yours respectfully, T. E. RANDOLPH.

There are several accumulations of filth about town that ought to be removed before warm weather sets in. There will be a debate at Frog Level on the Saturday night before the fourth Sunday. The public invited. TALK OF THE TOWN--That pretty dress goods at Higgs Bros. The REFLECTOR thanks Mr. J. T. Erwin for an invitation to the fourth annual debate at Trinity College. April 14. A large stock of nice Furniture cheap at the Old Brick Store. Greenville hasn't got any use in the world for a factory, at least that is the view some people seem to take of it. One week of good weather made a vast difference in vegetation. There is a great improvement in crop prospects. 300 PAIRS SAMPLE PANTS--and over all from 35 cents up, at Higgs Bros. Speaking of large fertilizer purchasers this season, a man said to us the other day that some farmers had bought more than they would be able to pay for in two years. A bad state of affairs it true. The Board of School Trustees of the North Carolina Christian Missionary Convention will meet at Ayden on April 19th. Mr. James Sutton brought the REFLECTOR a tobacco plant Saturday evening, 5th, Mr. A. R. Holton and Miss Fannie Covard were married, Rev. L. Winfield performing the ceremony. Less than three months ago folks were complaining long and loud about everything being covered in ice. Now their mouths are watering for some of that same ice. Those who gathered a good supply from the river are reaping the harvest. And, fortunately, it is cheaper than we have been able to get it here before, the price being 75 cents per hundred. SOMETHING THAT EVERY FARMER WANTS--A low price, but reliable fertilizer for Peanuts, CAROLINA SOLUBLE BONE AND POTASH fills the bill precisely. Manufactured by F. S. Royce, Tarboro, N. C. Personal. Mr. Mark Cherry, Jr., of Bethel has been spending a few days here. Miss Nannie Fleming has been spending a few days with Miss Aymer Sugg. Mrs. Dr. F. W. Lamberth went to Washington yesterday and preached in that town last night. Mrs. Dr. Powell, of Castoria, Greene county, was visiting her sister, Mrs. C. D. Rountree, last week. Mr. J. M. Griffin, of Beaufort county, has moved his family to the Rountree place near Greenville. Mr. W. M. Moore has moved his family to Grimesland. Mrs. Foley will occupy the house he has vacated. Eld. J. H. Purefoy, of Selma, Ala., a minister of the Primitive Baptist church, will preach in Greenville to-night. Mr. E. A. Baldrice, a young deaf mute of this county, went to Halifax county last week to make his home there. Mr. Claude L. Whitehead, of Norfolk, was in town a few hours Saturday evening, enroute home to visit his parents. Rev. J. L. Winfield, of Washington, editor of the Watch-Tower, was in town a short while last week and made us a call. Gov. Carr has appointed R. R. Cotten, Esq., of Falkland, director of the North Carolina Insane Asylum, vice Hon. R. H. Smith, deceased. Capt. E. L. Hart, of the N. & C. road, one of the cleverest and about the handsomest conductor in the service, spent Sunday here. Dr. Robert W. Joyner a prominent citizen and physician of Woodland, Northampton county is visiting his brother Mr. Andrew Joyner. Mr. E. E. Hilliard, editor of the Scotland Neck Democrat and President of the North Carolina Press Association, came down to Greenville Monday. Miss Jennie James who was visiting friends in Bethel, was taken quite sick there last week. She was brought home Friday evening and is now much better. Mr. J. T. Abrams a highly respected citizen and farmer of Falkland township removed with his family to Rocky Mount last week to get employment in the Cotton Mills there. Mrs. S. S. Cotten, of Falkland, a member of the World's Fair Committee for North Carolina, was in town Monday looking after matters connected with her department. Mr. Alex. Heilbronner left last week for New York. There is no person in this community who does not regret Alex. Heilbronner and all hope it will be no great while before he returns to Greenville. Andy Joyner has returned to his first love, and instead of being a missionary any longer again locates in Greenville and forms a law partnership with Mr. J. L. Fleming. Mr. Joyner is a good lawyer and is equipped to do himself credit to the bar. Marks & Bro. merchants will move from Klanton to Greenville and will open here next Saturday in the corner under the Opera House. They will carry a line of clothing, hats, shoes, furnishings &c. They have an advertisement in the REFLECTOR to day. The James city affair at Newbern seems not much nearer adjustment than when the officers attempted to serve the papers a few weeks ago. The negroes have refused Mr. Bryna's offer, though it seemed a liberal one, and the Journal says they may yet have to be forcibly ejected. All persons who have ever been students at Wake Forest College are requested to meet in Greenville on next Saturday, April 15th, for the purpose of organizing a "Local Alumni Association." The place of meeting may be ascertained by calling at the REFLECTOR office. The REFLECTOR would like to have several hundred subscribers like Mr. S. P. Erwin. He takes three copies, one for himself, one for his son at school and one for his married daughter who lives in another section of the State. That kind of interest in one's county paper helps wonderfully. A horrible accident occurred at Raleigh on Tuesday morning of last week. The girls of St. Mary's School were having a picnic at the fair grounds, and while they were riding on the switch-back two of the cars collided and nine of the girls were seriously wounded. It is almost miraculous that none of them were killed. Up in a Balloon. To-morrow there will be a balloon ascension in Greenville. Miss Nellie Steele, of Columbus, Ohio, whose thrilling flights and parachute leaps have won her great fame, will ascend in a balloon to a height of 600 feet and then leap out and descend to the earth with a parachute. Hundreds of people are expected to be here to witness the feat. More Eggs than Potatoes. The editor went into his patch Saturday to see if his potatoes were coming up. He found two sprouts had come through far enough to form a small leaf, and there were two potato bugs standing guard over each leaf. Fact. We had imagined that the very severe winter about which all of us had so much to say, had cleaned up the whole bug tribe, but if the pesky things are making this early start the potato is doomed to a hard time if it succeeds in getting here. Registrars and Poll Holders. The Town Councilmen at their last meeting appointed the following Registrars and Poll Holders in the several wards for the election to be held the first Monday in May: 1st Ward--Registrar, D. R. King. 4th Ward--Registrar, J. T. Moyer. Poll Holders, W. W. Humphrey, J. L. Sugg.

The County Records. Last week Register of Deeds Harding called the attention of the County Commissioners to the fact that so many record books accumulated in his office as to over-crowd the provision made for keeping them properly arranged, and about thirty volumes have to lay piled about on the tables. He suggested to the Board that they have the partition removed between his office and the room in the rear of it and make additional arrangements for the proper keeping and handling of the books. It is a good suggestion and we hope the Board will early take some action in the matter. The records of the county should at all times have special attention, and too much care to their preservation can hardly be given. If a suitable fireproof vault could be built in which to store them it would be all the better for the county. Appointments by the Bishop of East Carolina. COURT NOTES. Capt. Swift Galloway, of Snow Hill, and Hon. J. E. Moore, of Williamson, are the visiting attorneys. A witness in court testified that the defendant struck another with a piece of scantling. "Did it lay him up?" asked the anxious Solicitor? "No sir, it laid him down" replied the exact testifier. In one case in court Monday, three brothers, Elders Alfred Ross, John Ross and Samuel Ross, all Primitive Baptist preachers and among the best men in the county, were witnesses. The jury Saturday was called upon to decide whether a man indicted as Jerry Dildy was named Dildy or Williams. The jury brought in a verdict that the "defendant was guilty of being named Dildy." Whereupon the inimitable Capt. Galloway who appeared for defendant ejaculated. "My God what a crime!" The regular jury for this week is composed of B. F. Windham, W. M. Smith, L. L. Brown, John B. Smith, S. D. Overton, Thos. W. Stokes, B. W. Bell, W. G. McGowan, Joseph Pittman, A. B. Harse, J. T. Lewis, D. W. Hardee, J. D. Isahell, Cornelius Joyner, L. A. Arnold, W. S. Fleming, J. L. W. Nobles. The criminal docket was so small at the beginning of the Court that the civil calendar was set to begin on Thursday afternoon of last week, but the Grand Jury added enough cases to keep the court busy through Monday of this week and the civil docket was not reached until yesterday. Life is short and time is fleeting, but Hood's Sarsaparilla will bless humanity as the sign roll on. Try it this season.

When Magistrates Should Qualify. The law requires all justices of the peace to qualify within three months after their appointment, or their places will be filled by appointments made by the Governor. Therefore all magistrates appointed by the late Legislature must qualify by the first Monday in June, but their term of office does not begin until August. Church Notes. At a meeting of the congregation of the Episcopal Church Monday morning the following were elected as a vestry of the church for the ensuing year: Messrs. Henry Harding, W. B. Brown, Andrew Joyner, Charles Skinner and Robert Cox. The following were elected delegates to the Annual Council of the Diocese of East Carolina to be held in Washington in May: Messrs. W. M. B. Brown, Henry Harding, W. B. Brown, Charles Skinner. Alternates--J. F. Joyner, Andrew Joyner, Robert Cox, Robert Mumford. Horses at Auction. The Norfolk Horse Exchange, McCleary & McClellan, proprietors 59 Union St., Norfolk, Va., has regular auction sales of horses and mules on Tuesday of each week, beginning at 10:20 A. M. Buyers from this section can go to Norfolk any Monday, attend the sale Tuesday morning and get back home that evening. This arrangement saves long absence from home and affords buyers an open market and large assortment of stock to select from. McCleary & McClellan receive several car loads of stock each week and can supply any demand either at public or private sale. They sell number one stock at reasonable prices. Give them a trial. New Officers. At the annual meeting of the members of the Odd Fellows' Widows and Orphans Relief Association held in Richmond last week, the following officers were elected. President--N. E. Whitehurst. 1st Vice President--Thos. N. Kandler. 2nd Vice President--C. M. Busbee. 3rd Vice President--C. H. Meredith. Treasurer--L. A. Tucker. Board of Trustees--B. H. Woodell, J. J. Cherry, W. A. Bobbitt, T. H. Baine, D. W. Morris, Robt. Hill, J. S. Bethel, C. W. Bowles, P. H. Poir, Wm. Holzofel. There are 1260 members of this Association 18 of whom are in Covenant Lodge at Greenville. The Association selected a good man when they made Mr. J. J. Cherry, of this town, one of the Trustee.

WASHINGTON (N. C.) ITEMS. Shall be right down to from fifteen to thirty cents. Prof. A. G. Brown lectured in the Town last Friday night on the Sandwich Islands. At last the Town Council has granted the railroad company the privilege of extending their road to the river. We presume the work will commence soon. We learn that Rev. D. W. Davis will invite the ministers of the different churches of Washington to preach a sermon in his church giving the reasons for their religious beliefs. Mr. W. K. Jacobson is very sick at Hotel Nicholson. The mill belonging to Wm. Walling & Son, that was recently destroyed by fire, is being rebuilt and will be in operation again soon. The new market house will be a pride to Washington. The new line of steamers--the E. C. D. Line--is doing very good business. The Methodist District Conference convenes here next Sunday. J. E. P.

"Seeing is Believing." And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good--these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either. TOBACCO DEPARTMENT.

TOBACCO JOTTINGS AND LOCAL NOTES.

Mr. R. W. Royster says that Eastern North Carolina is the tobacco belt of the world.

Big preparations are being made by the buyers here for handling all of the next crop. All that is needed is prize rooms.

The property owners here had better keep their eyes open to the factory question. It is within their power to enhance the value of their property 100 per cent. and also keep our countrymen from going to other towns to seek employment the benefit of whose labor the property owners would then control.

Mr. W. T. Maugum left for his home in Oxford last week. Mr. Maugum has been on the Greenville market since it first opened and as we have said before this, while he has not been the largest buyer nor paid the largest prices for tobacco, yet he has been of great service to the Greenville market. Everyone here regrets his departure. He will be back again in the fall.

Mr. J. S. Jenkins came to our place last fall almost an entire stranger in the town. He bought prudently and carefully for his man and by his straight forward course he has not only secured for himself the very best orders for this market another season (provided he can get a prize house) but he has won the highest esteem of the people here and in his judgment of tobacco they have the utmost confidence.

Mr. Alex Heilbroner formerly of Joyner & Heilbroner left last week for New York City. Whether he goes to make it his home or not the National Cigarette and Tobacco Company will decide. He says that he has had a splendid position offered him by a Philadelphia firm but prefers coming back to Greenville with the National Cigarette Company's order. It is to be hoped that the order will be secured and Mr. Heilbroner return to our midst.

The entire business part of the city of Clarksville, Va. is in ashes. Only three houses on main street escaped the flames. The fire it is supposed started from a stove in a dry goods store on main street and it was thought to have been extinguished but soon it was discovered in the adjoining buildings and once started the wind fanned the flames until the whole block was destroyed. The loss is estimated at about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars only about half of which was insured. The American Tobacco Company lost one quarter of a million pounds of tobacco valued at $25,000. This was insured. Clarksville is the former home of Mr. R. W. Royster.

COMMUNICATED.

ED TOBACCO DEPARTMENT - If those who are thinking of investing their means in the mercantile business here would stop and think how much more could be made in that business if something could be started to give employment to the numbers of idlers that we have here with no visible means of support. Give us some factories and prize houses and put these people to work. They will increase your trade by buying their necessities from you.

SUGGESTER. We have been doing all we could along this line for some time and have not despaired yet. If we can only get a few more interested we shall feel that our efforts are not in vain. Will be glad to hear from Suggester again.

We notice that several new mercantile establishments will soon begin operations in Greenville. We are glad to see anything started up here that is for the upbuilding of the town yet we are forced to look at this matter just as it is. The merchants of Greenville are absolutely dependent on the sale of their goods upon the farmers in the surrounding country and there are enough establishments of this kind now to fully supply the demand. Of course there is always room on top but he who by perseverance and industry is fortunate enough to reach that coveted pinnacle in the mercantile business at this time in this town will necessarily witness the failure of others less fortunate in the same profession. For those who have money to invest would it not be better to place it in something that would draw people to the town and thereby increase the demand for groceries, dry goods and all other kinds of mercantile commodities.

Aside from the rail road employees at the depot and the wharf hands at the boat landing what other public business except the leaf tobacco business offers any steady employment to the scores of idle hands that we have in our town. There is no question of doubt about it grading the matter down to facts and figures. These people who are idling away their time here on the streets have got to live. Air and Light are essential elements to life yet these alone will not sustain the body. Mr. J. T. Abrams was in our office a few days ago and told us that he was preparing to move his family to Rocky Mount to get employment for himself and family in the cotton factory there. Why is it? Oh! why is it that Greenville can't have a cotton factory, a tobacco factory and a canning factory? There is plenty of raw material here to sustain any of these and aside from that it would increase the business of every man in town by bringing people from abroad just as Mr. Abrams is going to Rocky Mount to seek employment. Why remain in the same moss covered ruins that our forefathers left us when there is so many opportunities open to the prosecution and development of new industries and new enterprises that would make our town shine with the polish of increasing prosperity.

The American Tobacco Company has just lost $400,000 worth of tobacco and machinery in New York. This with the Clarksville fire makes a loss of nearly one half million dollars in one week. All their property is fully insured but this doesn't replace the tobacco. Cutters may go up. It surely seems that fate has decreed against this Company. Only a short time ago their preferred stock sold for $125 now it is selling for 105. Their days of prosperity are numbered.

The Deeds, a paper published at Maxton, N. C. by a colored man, speaking of the aid rendered the colored people during the late severe weather, has this to say: "This act on the part of the white people was truly magnanimous when we come to think that we had just passed through a heated political campaign in which race was arrayed against race. Revenge is sweet, and when the cold weather set in there was the opportunity for the white man's revenge. But he nobly and grandly held aloft from it, and forgetting the past, he proceeded to relieve the wants of his colored brother. If he had wanted revenge here was his chance. He needed no shot gun or Winchester."

THE HOME PAPER.

It Should Have the United Support of the Home People.

Atlanta Constitution.

A man should always get the best in the newspaper line, but where a man can not really afford to take more than one paper, we say in all candor that one should be his home paper, whether it be daily or weekly.

We mean what we say. A man's first duty is to build up and sustain the enterprises which contribute to the growth of the community of which he is a part and of all the enterprises the local newspaper is the best; no town can enjoy prosperity without a representative paper loyally sustained by appreciative citizens.

There is not a weekly newspaper in the smaller towns of this State which has the patronage it deserves. With few exceptions the testimony of the editors is that they are working "up hill;" their labor is great and its rewards small. And yet the weekly newspaper does more for a town than any other agency.

If the citizens are wise they will stand by their editor and second all his efforts to enlarge the influence of his newspaper; and just here let us say another word to subscribers who assert that they can take one newspaper only.

Newspapers are now published at rates which are within the reach of all, and we do not believe there is a man in any kind of business who is not fully able to pay for two or more newspapers. The press is a great educator, and on that line alone his money would be well invested. The more papers with which he surrounds himself, the greater will be the benefits derived. But the Constitution, for reasons given, repeats that if there be a man who is too poor to patronize any other than his home paper, that is the paper for his money, and may fortune increase his store.

The Palace of an Empress.

The costly palace which the Empress of Austria has had constructed at Corfu to gratify her whim for a new home is one of the most luxurious as well as one of the most curious buildings in Europe. It is a reproduction on an enlarged scale and with modern appliances of one of the patrician dwellings of Pompeii. The frescoes on the walls, illuminated by incandescent electric lamps half-hidden in the foliage of the friezes, represent scenes from the mythological legends relating to Achilles, and on the walls are inscribed prayers and apothegms, some of them borrowed from Lord Lytton's works. The furniture is strictly Pompeian in design.

Woman's Matrimonial Chances

A woman's chances to marry at from fifteen to twenty years of age is said to be 14-1-2 per cent. From twenty to twenty-five the chance is increased to 52 per cent.; from twenty-five to thirty it diminishes to 18; from thirty to thirty-five, to 15-1-2 per cent. From thirty-five to forty the chances of an unmarried woman sink to 3-3-5 per cent.; from forty to forty-five a still further diminution is seen, her chance being but 3-1-2. From forty-five to fifty the old maid's chance of getting a husband is but 3-3 of 1 per cent., while from fifty to fifty-five she is supposed to have but 1-4 of 1 per cent. of a chance. It should, however, be added that the table of averages does not apply to widows. Accurate statisticians, who would not be caught in a mistake for the world, affirm that a widow of any age has at least seventy-six spinster drawing power, and some place her figure up to eighty-two. The widow's chances at any age are, therefore, seventy-six to eighty-two times better than that of a spinster.

Cheap Gowns.

Very elegant and by no means means costly tea gowns can be made of the light summer materials and silks purchased at the sales, for fabrics too bright and too much out of date for general wear make up effectively in these accommodating little dresses in which the union of two or three fabrics lends charm to their never-fading attractiveness, and even the brocades and textiles designed for house decoration may be employed with perfect confidence in a pleasing result to the wearer and observer alike.

A pretty woman is never so pretty as when robed in the dainty grace of the tea gown, and a plain one is so attractive that even the most cynical critic forgives her for not being beautiful.

Divorces in Scotland.

There has been a large increase in the number of divorces granted in Scotland in late years. Between 1874 and 1874 the average number was thirty-five a year, which increased to fifty-nine between 1874 and 1880. Last year 127 divorces were granted there, as against 109 in 1891 and eighty-nine in 1890. Of last year's decrees sixty-eight were obtained by husbands and fifty-nine by wives. Infidelity was the ground for considerably more than half.
