NORTH CAROLINA.

Things Mentioned in our State Exchanges that are of General Interest The Cream of the News.

Windsor Ledger: A little child of Peter Prichard, colored, was cut by some glass the other day and bled to death yesterday morning from the wound.

Rocky Mount Phoenix: We are informed that a shad, was caught with a hook and line in the river near here recently by Wright Taylor. It appears that the shad swallowed the hook.

A correspondent informs the Statesville Landmark that Mr. N. A. Douglas cut his initials in a terrapin's shell in 1865. The same terrapin was found a few days ago near the same place.

Asheboro Courier: A buzzard was seen flying near Walker's mill a few days ago with a steel trap and a chain about three feet long attached to its foot. It seemed to be flying without much difficulty.

Fayetteville Observer: Edinboro Scrabble, charged with an attempt to take the life of his own child by saturating her clothing with oil and setting them on fire has been arrested and lodged in jail here to await the action of Cumberland Superior Court next week.

Mr. J. D. Clayton Sr., one of Person county's oldest and most highly respected citizens died at his home last Saturday, he was in the 86th year of his age, and leaves 11 children, 57 grandchildren, and 30 great-grandchildren to mourn his death, says the Roxboro Courier.

Plymouth Beacon: A very sad accident occurred near Roper on the N. & S. road on Monday. A number of workmen were on a flat car going up in the swamp when the car was thrown from the track. One of the men, Wm. Pearce, colored, fell on the track and five cars ran over his body killing him almost instantly.

Lenoir Topic: Mr. Jacob S. Lewis, of Watauga, sold a wagon load of good apples on the Lenoir market, last Thursday. Rather late for apples, though Mr. W. B. Coffey usually keeps apples till May and apples are generally peddled at the May term of Watauga court. Generally they are small, insipid and of an earthy taste.

Weldon News: The North Carolina Lumber Company has almost completed their plant at Tillery. It is the finest plant of the kind in Eastern Carolina and the company will carry on a most extensive lumber business, giving employment to a large force of hands. We learn that they will erect quite a number of residences at that place and that the town is to be greatly improved.

Goldsboro Argus: The prices returned for peas on the Northern markets are the poorest ever known thus early in the season. In fact, they are so poor as to fall below the cost of putting the truck on the market—and this, too, in the face of the shortest crop ever produced in the whole of the pea growing section. It looks like something is radically wrong somewhere in the centre of sales.

The mellow goose, the mallard duck, the blackbird and the crow, will soon be here, from southern lands to watch our cornfields grow; the hungry hawk and "thunder pump" will also come along, and join their cheerful racket with the bullfrog's tonerful song. All nature will don her garb of green and dapply-gray, while snow and ice and coal hills will sadly fade away. The farmer's boy sent out to plow will find a stack of hay, lie down upon its sunny side, and sleep for half the day. The dry goods clerk, with doleful yawn—no customers in sight—on sales of two-cent calico will rest from morn till night. A gentle languor steals upon the bravest and the best, and printers are the only ones that can't find time to rest.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

A few days ago a Maryland farmer made a very narrow escape from being swindled out of $1,400 by two sharpers who pretended at first that they wanted to buy his farm and afterwards roped him into a little bounce game. They were loaded down counterfeit money and offered to let him have $15,000 of it for $1,400 of good money. He went to the county seat of his county to get the cash and met a friend to whom he told the story. The friend said the whole thing was a fraud and notified the officers but they failed to catch the scamps. It is indeed very strange there are still men to be found who will allow themselves to be swindled by this old trick. If they read the newspapers they would know better.—Durham Sun.

H. B. Randolph, Brunswick, Ga., writes: "I was under the care of nine different doctors, but not one did me good that B. B. Botanic Blood Balm has done me."

NEST-BUILDING FISHES.

One Species Remarkable for Bird-Like Habits.

The Whistling Tree—Death of a Remarkable Railway Dog—An Elephant's Revenge After Fifteen Years.

The gouramis are chiefly remarkable for the fact that they build nests like birds. At the breeding season they pair off, each couple selecting a spot among water plants, and forming a nearly spherical nest, composed of a peculiar kind of floating weed which grows in tufts on the surface of the ponds, and plastered with mud. The nest is usually about six inches in diameter, its construction occupying the fish for five or six days. Where they are propagated their task is made easier by placing in the water branches of bamboo, to which bunches of the grass referred to are attached. The gouramis take this grass and with it make their nest in the submerged branches of bamboo. When it is finished, the female deposits her eggs in it to the number of from eight hundred to a thousand. While the eggs are undergoing the process of incubation, the parents guard their nest watchfully, rushing fiercely at any intruder; and this care for the safety of their young is continued after the latter are hatched. During infancy the young ones find refuge in the nest from a thousand dangers which would otherwise threaten them, and the grass composing the nest furnishes them with their earliest food. When they are a few days old, the small fry begin to make short excursions from the nest, always in charge of their parents, and swimming close together in a shoal. This is continued until they are able to look out for themselves.

In Nubia there are groves of acacia extending over one hundred miles long. The most conspicuous species, says Dr. Schweinfurth, is the Acacia fistula. Its Arabic name is "acafia," meaning figs or figs. From the larvae of insects which have worked their way to the inside, their ivory-white shoots are often distorted in form and swollen out at their base into a globular, bladder-like ball, about one inch in diameter. After the insect has emerged from a circular hole, this thorn-like shoot becomes a musical instrument, upon which the wind as it plays produces the regular sound of a flute. On this account the natives of the Soudan name it the "whistling tree."

The death is announced of a popular member of the staff of the Great Eastern railway, namely, the black-and-tan collie dog long familiar to passengers at the Lowestoft station. This well-known animal appears to have originally appointed himself to fulfill the duty of starting the trains, but time and habit seem to have fully ratified the appointment. By a marvellous instinct, the collie, it is said, seemed to know the exact time at which a train should begin its journey, and a restless excitement characterized him as the appointed moment drew near. As the bell uttered its first sound, he would scamper down the platform, and, planting himself close to the engine, bark furiously until the wheels began to move. Satisfied apparently in this respect, he would next make a move for the guard's van, and hurry to his post. As the train passed out of the station he retired, and no more was seen of him till a similar operation had to be repeated on the departure of another train. No other bell than that used for starting purposes would bring the animal to view.

A few miles out of the city of Bankok there is a mineral spring, and near it a bungalow much frequented by the Europeans of the city. One evening a gentleman was alighting from his howdah at the entrance. As soon as he had dismounted, his elephant was moved to one side, and a driver who was seated on the head of an elephant, ordered it to advance. The instant he spoke, the animal, which had moved aside to make room for us, flapped his great ears, and turned sharply round facing the driver. Suddenly, without the least warning, he stretched out his long trunk and wrapped it about the body of the man. Then, before anyone had time to interfere, he raised him high in the air and brought him to the ground with tremendous force! As the poor fellow struck the earth his bones cracked. But the elephant was not done with him. The next moment he had placed his huge foot on the head and chest of the prostrate driver. When he raised it again, all semblance of life was gone from the crushed, mutilated body. The gentleman whose elephant had committed the terrible deed was greatly distressed. He said that he had purchased the animal from the king's pen, that it had always been exceedingly gentle and well-disposed. The animal was blind, one eye having been put out by an attendant fifteen years previous. It was the driver who had put out the elephant's eye. He was at the time one of the guards at the king's stock pen, and for some misdemeanor committed by the animal had thrown a stone which struck the creature full in the eye. The

NEW YORK'S POSTOFFICE.

Interesting Details of Its Enormous Annual Business.

The most interesting details which can be told of the New York postoffice relates to the amount of business transacted in each division, for only in this manner can a true idea of the importance of this office be obtained.

For instance, the international money orders received and certified to Europe in 1891 numbered nearly a million, and aggregated $16,500,000.

The European country with which the New York postoffice had the largest transactions through its money-order department was Great Britain, the items amounting to nearly a half million. The Bahamas were at the foot of the list with only $8 items. The total number of items in the registry department was 8,273,659.

Nearly 30,000,000 letters were received from foreign countries, the New York postoffice easily handling over three-fourths of our foreign mail. We should lose faith in the intelligence of the human race on learning that in this one office 603,398 misdirected and insufficiently addressed letters were received, did we not learn at the same time that 505,974 of these letters were corrected and forwarded by other members of the human race. The items of mail matter handled averaged for each day 930,707, and the number of pouches, 10,126; the aggregate for the year being 428,973,500 letters and 3,770,450 pouches.

The postmaster receives a salary of $8,000 a year, a very small sum when the business of the office is considered. But then he doesn't have to receive, face, postmark, sort and distribute every letter himself. In fact, he doesn't even direct a mail wagon. For he spent $1,252,934.92 in 1891 for clerks hire and an express company does the carting under contract.

Transportation By U. S. Vessels.

In 1856 American vessels transported 75.2 per cent. of the value of all the merchandise exported from and imported into the United States. In 1888 they transported but 13.48 per cent. Between 1858 and 1888 the mercantile marine of the United States and its ocean tonnage declined in a far greater ratio than that of any other maritime nation. Between 1855 and 1880 there was a decline of over 60 per cent. in the number of vessels in this country. In 1861 we had no ocean steamers anywhere on the globe except on our own coasts.

Large Families.

Miss Lucy E. Dow, who is about to issue a "History of Hampton," N. H., to which her father and herself have devoted fifty years of laborious research, furnishes these instances of large families in the early days of the town:

Nathaniel Batchelder, grandson of the Rev. Stephen Batchelder, founder of the town, was twice married and had seventeen children. His son and grandson had, respectively, twelve and thirteen, and a great-grandson reared a family of thirteen. In later generations there were families of thirteen, twelve and fourteen.

Samuel Dalton, a nephew of the town's second minister, had fourteen children, and his son an equal number. The grandsons had each ten. The Rev. Silsbee Cotton placed on record that his first-born child "was born at 6, about 5 of ye clock in ye morning, 1676, and was named Wade in honor of his Grandfather Wade & put him in mind of wading through all trials to heaven, he died & was buried Oct. 11, 76."

GIGANTIC REPTILE.

Some of the Monsters That at One Time Inhabited the Deep.

The Rev. Dr. Gordon, of Boston, has recently made a study of the gigantic reptiles which are supposed to have been the ancestors of modern snakes and lizards. One species, the chidastus, was of enormous size, attaining a length of forty-five feet. Another, the mosasaurus maximus, was nearly twice as big, measuring when full grown not less than eighty feet. Yet larger was the lidon, hugest of all the mighty saurians of that vanished era, which has a long muzzle that is surmised to have been used as a ram in fighting.

These enormous creatures, in form resembling eels, glided through the waters with power and propeller-like tail, in pursuit of the fishes which were their food. Their heads were large and flat, and being able to take in animals of greater girth than themselves, owing to the arrangement of their jaws, which were provided midway in their length with hinges.

When they lived this Continent was lower than it is now. New Jersey and Delaware, as well as most of the Southern States, were under water and the Rocky Mountains, in places 10,000 feet less elevated than at present, appeared as a range separated from the Valley of the Mississippi by a broad expanse of salt water, that was, in fact, an inland sea, teeming with animal-life.

In those days real sea serpents not only existed, but their numbers were almost incalculable, as it proved by their bones left behind in the rock of subsequent formation, and in many cases so perfectly preserved that entire skeletons have been found and mounted in the museums. Prof. O. C. Marsh, of New Haven, speaks of having seen as many as six of these fossil monsters in view at the same time in one small valley out West. After all, the question is merely one of size, inasmuch as marine snakes are very plentiful at present in some parts of the world. They swarm in the Indian Ocean, and a naval officer was telling me the other day that he had seen them in shoals of thousands together in the Gulf of Siam. So numerous were they that it was necessary to thread the cables, while at anchor, through barrels in order to prevent the reptiles climbing up the ropes and coming aboard while the ship was at anchor.

Nor was such a precaution by any means superfluous, owing to the fact that, as anyone may learn by turning to the "Standard Natural History," these serpents are most dangerously poisonous. They evidently traveled in great numbers together. The seas from Madagascar to Panama, and from Japan to New Zealand are thickly infested with them. Dr. Stejneger, the reptilian expert of the Smithsonian Institute, says that they are among the most poisonous of all known serpents, their venom being not less deadly than that of the cobra or rattlesnake.

Furthermore, they are very fierce and aggressive, and will commonly attack human beings if they get a chance. They do not frequent the shallows, unless possibly for breeding, but live in the open ocean. When full grown they are from six to eight feet long. Fishermen in the waters where they are found are greatly afraid of them. Their bodies are flat, and the inside of them is almost wholly filled by the lungs, which are large, in order that they may be enabled to stay beneath the surface for a long time without coming up to breathe. They have eyes modified for seeing in the water, so that when they are taken out of their native element they seem blinded and strike wildly. Their fangs, like those of the cobra, are always erect.

The Gossip Corner.
Mrs. Annie Moore, of Mount Pleasant, Tex., is the only woman who acts as the President of a National bank in this country. Mrs. Oliphant receives about $1,000 for a story, and she writes several every year in addition to other literary work.

An Affecting Scene.
There was an affecting scene in one of the churches last evening after the prayer meeting. During the services a gentleman was called on to lead in prayer, and he prayed for those who have recently been bereaved, especially the motherless children. After the services were over and the congregation had started out, a little boy whose mother was recently taken, rushed across the aisle and throwing his arms about the gentleman's neck said: "Thank you so much for that prayer!"—Durham Sun.

A Little Girl's Experience in Light.
Mr. and Mrs. Loren Tresscott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed by a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "hamful of bones". Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at John L. Wooten's house.

Contentnea and Swift Creek Stock Law territory—Jerry McLawhorn 18 75, John A Smith 3 00, Joseph Quinerly 33 75. Lewis H Westinghouse complained to the Board that he is charged in both Swift Creek and Greenville townships with two tracts of land, one containing 350 and one containing 50 acres, while the land lies in Swift Creek township and should be given in only in one township.

Report of the Grand Jury for April term of Superior Court was read and ordered filed. A petition for a public road leading from the town of Parmelee, Martin county, on the South side of the Scotland Neck branch railroad and running south west over the lands of R Tillery, John Eubanks, M C Bryant and John D Bryant in Pitt county to the county road near J D Bryant's was read and ordered to lie over until next meeting.

The Board met according to adjournment, all the members present. The following orders were issued: John Flanagan 26 22, E A Moyer 72 80, R W King 27 45, J A K Tucker 5 80, John E Woodard 15 50, B S Sheppard 6 70, A J Moyer 72, M Z Moore 72, D S Spain 75, D C Moore 1 10, W B Moore 1 05, A F Pittman 1 50, A L Harrington 65, J B Ballock 1 40, W H Wilkinson 1 67, R W Smith 1 95, Mc G Ford 1 55, J A Harrington 1 75, W S Manning 1 55, R W King 2 00, R W King 19 70, R W King 83 53, R W King 101 25, R W King 17 30, B S Sheppard 2 00, S A Gainer 5 60, T E Keel 5 70, Jesse L Smith 4 30, C Dawson 5 80, H Harding 14 11.

The Board then proceeded to take action in the matter of the petition of J R Davenport, R B Fleming, Rufus Tucker and others for a public road across the lands of Elizabeth Grimes known as the Avon farm in Chicod township, which was filed at a previous meeting of the Board. It appearing that the said petition was regularly filed and that proper notice to Mrs. Grimes had been served and returned, and upon the hearing, the petitioners being represented by Latham & Skinner, attorneys and Mrs. Elizabeth Grimes being represented by E. G. James, attorney, upon petition and answer, and the affidavits filed and evidence introduced the Board doth adjudge that a public road across the lands of Elizabeth Grimes known as the Avon, in Chicod township, with a termini at a point on the Greenville and Washington public road, where a gate is erected to the entrance of a farm path across said land leading in a northerly direction to Tar River, and the other termini at a point on the north side of said Tar River, is necessary and would be convenient and useful to the public.

And it is ordered by the Board that an order be issued to the Sheriff of the county directing him to summon a jury of five free holders to lay out a public road between the termini herein mentioned according to law.

It is further ordered and adjudged that the said Elizabeth Grimes be permitted to erect and maintain gates across such road until the 1st day of Oct. 1893, and after that date she shall remove the same within 60 days after notification to do so from this Board.

From which order the said Elizabeth Grimes appealed to the next term of the Superior Court of Pitt county. Notice of appeal given before the Board. Notice waived by petitioners. Appeal bond fixed at $50. Ordered that T. E. Keel and Leonidas Fleming be appointed a committee to make settlement with J. A. K. Tucker, late Sheriff and Tax Collector for the taxes of 1892.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., May 6, '93.—President Cleveland and every member of his cabinet are again at their desks, all feeling better for their "week off," although none of them got any rest. Still it was a change, and everybody needs an occasional change. They were one and all pleased to find the Government finances in such a satisfactory condition and with prospects of continued improvement. The free gold now amounts to about $3,000,000 and there is a very marked decrease in the demand for gold for shipment to Europe, while offers of gold continue to be made to the Treasury. It is now also known that at the close of this fiscal year will find the Treasury with a surplus of nearly $3,000,000 available cash, instead of the deficit which was a short time ago feared.

There have been so many erroneous statements printed about the amount of gold in the United States that the official figures in the latest statement, issued this week, are herewith presented. The total amount of gold coin known to be in this country is $52,513,105, and of gold bullion, the most of which is in the U. S. Treasury, $80,529,784, making a grand total of $133,042,879. Of this gold National banks hold $190,751,183, and private firms $353,922,385, according to the last report of the Director of the U. S. Mint.

Senator McPherson, who is a member of the Senate Finance committee, has been watching the situation very closely, and he says of it: "I do not believe there is anything in the money situation that will necessitate the calling of an extra session of Congress earlier than the President intended—about September 15th. The financial condition of the country is all right if the people will only let it alone. The Secretary of the Treasury has the confidence of the public, which believes that he will be able to meet any contingency that may arise."

Congressman DeWitt Warner, of New York, is not one of those who think it will require six months or more to get the new tariff bill through Congress. He said: "I see no reason why a tariff bill should not be put through in a month or six weeks after the organization of Congress. The people put the democracy in power with a definite purpose, and that purpose should be carried out. If you hired a contractor to build a house within a specified time, and he failed to keep his agreement, would you not look around to get somebody else to finish it? Of course a reasonable time should be allowed for debate on a tariff measure, but all efforts at obstruction should be, and I believe will be, promptly squelched."

There are yet some very desirable places in both the diplomatic and consular service to be filled by Democrats, and it is expected that most of these appointments will be made by President Cleveland within the next few weeks. In this connection it may be interesting to note how the appointments already made in these branches of the public service have been distributed among the States. The diplomatic appointments have gone to the following: Alabama, Tennessee, New Jersey, Delaware, Missouri, Vermont, New Hampshire, California, Massachusetts, Arkansas, Texas, South Dakota and Illinois, one each; Indiana, Georgia, Louisiana and New York, two each; North Carolina four and Minnesota five. The consular appointments have gone one each to North Carolina, Georgia, Illinois, Michigan and Maine; two each to Massachusetts, Missouri, Mississippi, Ohio and Indiana, and four to New York. While that will probably have little to do with the President's selections, the candidates from those States not mentioned above appear to be more confident than those from the States that have already secured some of these appointments.

President Cleveland has made a few general appointments and appointed a large number of postmasters this week, and it is believed that he is now considering the claims and qualifications of the long list of candidates for the very important position of Public Printer. The lucky man who gets it will have about three thousand places, outside of Civil Service rules, at his disposal.

THE REFLECTOR.

Local Reflections.

Superior Court in Kinston this week. Checker boards are coming into play.

John Handy, a well-known colored man, died here last week.

In a few days the mails will be full of commencement invitations.

The rains have put enough water in the river to make boating good.

We have had some cool days the past week in which fires and heavy garments were comfortable.

Memorial day. Let the graves of loved ones be remembered with generous floral offerings.

The first and second Regiments of the State Guard will have their encampment this year near Morehead City.

Other towns around us are passing laws in reference to dogs—mad dogs especially. Take a hint, Greenville.

A friend tells us that a heavy wind storm—almost a cyclone—passed in the vicinity of Williamston last Thursday and did considerable damage.

The Economist-Falcon says that Mr. John B. Brockert has rented the Nags Head hotel. What pleasant recollections we have of that delightful place.

Maj Harding says setting out tobacco plants gave many a man the back ache Thursday and Friday. The season was fine for transplanting and good use of it was made.

From an announcement in the Newbern Journal we see that the steamer Greenville, that used to operate on Tar River and was named for this town, is soon to commence running on Neuse river.

The REFLECTOR remarked recently that this office was the place to get picnic invitations. A man came in the other day and said he'd like to have one, as he felt like he could enjoy a good picnic now. He had us.

The Baptist Sunday School is preparing to have an excursion to Yankee Hall and picnic there, probably on the 18th. The school first thought of going to Scott land Neck and spend a day there, but the figure set by the railroad folks for transportation was enough to stagger such intention.

It almost makes us jealous to read reports of the establishment of so many new cotton factories in the Piedmont section of the State, some of them in small villages. And we hear never a word about one in Greenville.

It is time the dogs were holding a 'fore day caucus to decide how they will receive the penalty the new Town Council has in store for the canine. We believe the days in which the cur is to be held to the privileges of the town is numbered.

Mr. W. H. Fleming, a young man from this county who is at Fort Worth, Tex., sends us a copy of the Gazette of that city, which contains a full account with illustrations of the terrible cyclone that visited Cisco and almost swept the entire city away. Many people were killed and hundreds of buildings completely demolished. The details of the disaster are horrible.

Died.

Mr. J. L. Ballard, a highly esteemed citizen of Beaver Dam township, and a most excellent gentleman, died on Monday morning after a few days illness. Mr. Ballard was 73 years old. He was the father of Mrs. John S. Congleton, of this town.

Rules Adopted by the N. C. Press Association.

The sum of not less than five cents per line will be charged for "cards of thanks," "resolutions of respect" and obituary notices; also for obituary notices other than those which the editor himself shall give as a matter of news.

Notices of church and society and all other entertainments from which revenue is to be derived will be charged for at the rate of five cents a line.

All the Rage.

The Columbian craze is getting tacked on to everything this year, and in addition to all kinds of Columbian entertainments, we see that the advertisers are offering Columbian this and Columbian that for sale. Next thing one knows Columbian spring chickens will be offering on the market. Already some eggs have appeared whose smell indicates that they were products of the Columbian or some other equally ancient age.

The Old, Old Story.

A merchant, bent on economizing, decided to cut off his advertising.

"It costs me ten thousand a year," he said.

"And I'll come out just that much ahead,"

His "ad" appeared in the papers no more. His customers went to an "advertised" store.

His business unheard of ran steadily down.

And now there is one merchant less in the town.

Colored Odd Fellows Celebrate.

Last Friday the colored Odd Fellows of this town celebrated their anniversary. Visiting lodges from Washington and Tarboro came to take part in the exercises. Bands from Hookerton and Washington were here, and these with the home band made the day lively with music. The lodges and bands paraded the streets and made quite a large procession. A more orderly assemblage of colored people has at no time been seen here. The orator of the day was Rev. W. J. Solomon, now of Hookerton but once a pastor in Greenville. He is an intelligent colored man who is much interested in the race problem, and gives his people good advice at every opportunity. Among other things, he told them Friday that the white and colored people had always lived here in the South together and they must continue to do so; that occupying an inferior stage his race must look up to the whites for guidance; that the best way to get along well together was to conduct themselves creditably, act honorably, endeavor to make good and useful citizens, and strive to raise themselves in the estimation of their white neighbors.

Personal.

Mrs. Nellie Williams returned home Monday from Kenly.

Mr. Robert Munford has been spending some days in Virginia.

Mr. S. F. Dunn, of Scotland Neck, is spending some days in this section.

Mrs. Nottingham, of Eastville, Va., is visiting her father, Mr. Wm. Murray.

Mrs. J. B. Cherry is attending the State meeting of King's Daughters at Oxford.

Mr. J. E. Langley, of Richmond, was here Sunday and Monday with Dr. D. L. James.

Drs. C. J. O'Hagan, W. E. Warren and W. H. Bagwell are attending the State Medical Convention at Raleigh.

Messrs. John H. Small and R. B. Smith, of Washington, were here two days last week.

Messrs. J. White and W. L. Brown are attending the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows at Raleigh.

Elder Purefoy, a Primitive Baptist preacher from Alabama, will preach in Greenville to-night, and at Great Swamp to-morrow.

Rev. J. N. H. Summerell postponed his appointment here until the third Sunday, at which time he will preach in Elliott Hall.

Take the Case.

There is a saying we sometimes hear in speaking of a man whose veracity is undoubted that "his word is as true as Scripture." There is a firm to which this saying may well be applied, and by an assertion made by J. B. Cherry & Co., you need not hesitate to give your fullest confidence. In all their advertising in the REFLECTOR no man can point at any word and say it was untrue. And just what they say in this advertisement a visit to their store will verify every time. Read it to day, and go see for yourself that they will do just what they say.

In the Grass.

When planting time arrived we staked out our intentions, fenced our plans, grubbed up our calculations, and resolutely the editor's garden this season should eclipse anything south of the Academy branch. But, alas, the best set of gardeners folks gang aft—rather get nipped in the bud by a potato bug or chawed down by a cut worm. As to our crop, verily, we are in it. If exuberance of grass, preponderance of cut worms and abundance of bugs count for anything we are ready to roll up our pants' legs and compete with anybody. Our dependance was the iniquitous patch, and now that is running up to seed.

Struck With a Chair.

An unfortunate difficulty occurred here on Friday night. We get the following particulars of it from one who was an eye witness: Alex. Harris, colored, was leaning on a chair talking to Dr. Warren in front of the latter's office. Mr. W. B. James was coming down the street and accidentally ran against Harris, who turned and asked what he meant by it. Mr. James explained that it was unintentional and he meant nothing by it. Harris seemed not satisfied at this and cursed James, when the latter picked up a chair and struck him a blow that fractured his skull. Harris has since been in a serious condition but was reported better at last accounts. Mr. James left town next morning.

A Day Pleasantly Spent.

Several young ladies and gentlemen went three miles down the river in row boats, last Thursday, to enjoy a fish-ry and picnic. In the party were Misses Jennie Williams, Hortense Forbes, Annie Perkins, Bessie Jarvis and Estelle Williams, Messrs. W. H. Long, R. Hyman, H. W. Woodbee, J. L. Fleming, E. Suck and some others. They feasted on fish fresh from the seine and the nice lunches taken along by the ladies, with apples, oranges and lemons for dessert.

After dinner, by the kindness of the lumber road officials, the party took a ride of about fifteen miles on the railroad. The sweet singing of the ladies to guitar accompaniment made the occasion all the more enjoyable. The number of young ladies along is a guarantee that the "suits" and "pleadings" received full attention. The party returned home late in the afternoon and voted many thanks to Mr. Buck, to whom they were indebted for so much enjoyment.

The Board Organizes.

The retiring Board of Town Councilmen held their closing meeting Monday afternoon to give the affairs of the town ready to turn over to the new Board. The incoming Board met Monday night and were sworn in by Mayor F. G. James.

The Board is composed of the following:

1st Ward—Isaac Rhoden, colored.

2nd Ward—W. H. White, J. S. Smith.

3rd Ward—R. J. Cobb, J. S. Congleton.

4th Ward—Austin Gorham, colored.

Councilman Rhoden being unable to write his name requested Mayor James to sign the oath for him and "made his mark" at the outset of his official life.

Upon ballot for Mayor, J. L. Fleming received 4 votes and F. G. James 2. Mr. Fleming was sent for, was sworn in and after a neat speech of a few minutes entered at once upon the duties of his office. The retiring Mayor, Mr. James, has held the position for ten years and always filled it with credit to himself and honor to the town. He has a worthy successor in Mr. Fleming.

Councilman Cobb moved that the office of Clerk and Tax Collector be consolidated. Upon a ballot for this office Henry Sheppard received 4 votes and W. B. Greene 2. Mr. Sheppard was sworn in and entered at once upon his duties.

Councilman W. H. White was elected Treasurer.

Councilman Smith moved that only one policeman be elected. J. T. Smith was placed in nomination for policeman and received the unanimous vote of the Board and the oath of office was administered.

Moses Williams, colored, was placed in nomination for Lamp Lighter. J. H. Kinton handed in a petition to be appointed to this position. Williams received the unanimous vote of the Board. J. L. Daniel was unanimously re-elected Night Policeman.

The Board then adjourned.

Protracted Meeting.

Rev. G. F. Smith commenced protracted services in the Methodist church Sunday. By special request Rev. J. H. Lamberth preached for him Sunday and Monday nights, the congregation being highly pleased with his sermons. Rev. R. A. Willis, of Newberne, who is to conduct the meeting arrived yesterday and preached last night. Services will be held twice each day, at 10 A. M. and 8 P. M. The meeting begins with good interest and we trust ere it shall close many will be true to salvation.

School Committee to be Appointed in June.

The last General Assembly of North Carolina made a change in the school law in respect to the time for electing school committees, and also for the beginning of their term of service. The law is amended so that public school committees shall be appointed the first Monday in June and whose term of office shall begin the first Monday in July thereafter. The Board of Education of Pitt county will be in session the first Monday in June next for the purpose of appointing committees in the several school districts, and it is desired that the people in each district interest themselves in the form of petition or otherwise will greatly assist the Board at its June meeting in making proper and satisfactory selections.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

ARMORY PITT Co. RIFLES, Greenville, N. C., May 4, 1893.

Our drums are muffled, our arms reversed.

For death who knocks with equal hand at the door of the palace and cottage has been busy at his appointed work. But this time he does not seek the leaflet or the bud of spring, nor does he pluck the golden fruit of autumn. In the quiet home of peaceful happiness the grim monster invades the tender field, the bivouac where heroes dwell and there not content with the "elbow to elbow" his cruel fangs are sunk into the mantle of our gallant leader while mounded at the post of duty, and as the storm bursts crushes the sturdy oak so he remorselessly snatched away from the noble side of his proud heroic manhood.

We deeply mourn the loss of our valiant Lt. Col. David N. Bogart. With the kiss of loved ones at home still warm upon his lips he goes from his post of duty to his heavenly home to receive the rich fruition of his well done labor.

His many friends and comrades, his soul is with his God we trust. To his loved ones and friends we feel a near kin and mingle our tears of sorrow with those who loved him so well.

Therefore be it resolved by Company H, 1st Reg't N. C. State Guard, that we tender our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family in their sad hour.

That by the death of the State Guard has lost an able and efficient officer. The State of North Carolina a patriotic and useful citizen and his family a loving, kind and generous husband and father.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of Col. Bogart, a copy sent to the Washington Gazette and Progress and EASTERN REFLECTOR for publication.

FIRST LOVE.

We met not in a crowd, but where
Mid sunny woodland ways,
A chosen few, we fell upon
The grass—and mayonnaise:
Yours was no part of food or drink,
You were not of the few;
But of the grass, sometimes I think,
There was some part in you!

Those happy days! How fair was life!
How green the world—and I!
How eagerly I woo'd you, dear!
How very anxiously,
I watched the sparkle of your eye,
Your color go and come
Still constant as the stars;
How sad and sick and dumb!

Again we met, and as of old;
You were all warmth and fire;
You were cautious, dear, and cold,
For all my great desire:
I yell'd my growing love, nor told
The world a word of it;
And yet the flame that in you glow'd
I knew 'twas I that lit.

In many a place, by many a name,
With titles manifold
And varifrom get up you came,
And I waxed ever bold,
Yet through all changes still the same
Still constant have you been;
And how the world may know your name—
My Lady Nicotine.

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

Mr. R. W. Royster is again confined to his bed with ear-ache.

A good many farmers tell us they are through setting out their tobacco. Mr. Warren Tucker among them.

Certainly we have the most God-favored section in the State. While the Central State planters are boasting of having tobacco leaves as large as a half dollar, numbers of our eastern planters are through setting.

Mr. D. A. Owen, of Winston, N. C. was in town last week looking after the plug tobacco manufacturing interest. He says this is a fine country and a factory is what is needed. Nothing however has yet been accomplished.

Mr. S. A. White, who for the past four years has been trying to get the people of Wilson to engage in the manufacture of plug tobacco, passed through here a few days ago and says that he intends visiting Greenville again.

We have thus far sold five Bemis tobacco transplanters and without a single exception we are informed that they are giving entire satisfaction. Improved farm machinery always pays a handsome profit besides it marks the owner as a progressive and wide awake farmer.

Talk about your wide awake get up and get business men but Bob Royster is one of them, and that he is hard at work trying to build up the tobacco interest of Greenville goes without saying.

About two months ago when the Confederate Bazar was inaugurated in Richmond by the southern women and each southern State was asked to send contributions of its products which after the exhibition should be sold and the proceeds applied to the purchase of a monument in memory of the Confederate dead, Mr. Royster was one of the first to respond with forty pounds of choice tobacco which cost him more than fifty cents a pound, marked from Greenville, Pitt Co., N. C., with his business card attached, his object being to contribute to so noble a cause and at the same time advertise this section of the State before the southern assemblage. He also has a fair sample of eastern tobacco at the Columbian exposition in Chicago. If we had a few more like him Greenville would soon get on her Sunday dress. It is already feeling his presence.

THE GUARD AT NEWBERN.

As most of the REFLECTOR readers know the writer of this department spent most of last week in Newbern. Being a member of the State Guard we were ordered to that place to assist in carrying out the laws in the case of Bryan vs. James City with which everyone is perfectly familiar. And while the object of this department is not to picture stories of travels or how to conduct a campaign belli, yet at this time for the want of a better subject we beg the indulgence of our readers for a short while and we shall endeavor to briefly speak of our trip what we saw and heard, and some of the advantages of the home guard.

The State's summons and the departure of the Rifles has before been told so to begin we find ourselves on the road speeding rapidly along to the scene of action.

At Parmele we were joined by the Washington Light Infantry, at Tarboro by the Edgecombe Guards and in Rocky Mount several other companies of the 1st Regiment steamed in and by the time we reached Goldsboro all of the companies expected arrived and the special ordered for the occasion took the entire regiment over the old North Carolina R.

R. to Newbern where all arrived in safety about 7 P. M., notwithstanding the fearful tales told by operators all along the line.

At the depot and along the streets scores of the dusky warriors gathered and gazed with astonishment mingled with admiration at so many "dem soljers dat cum here fur nuffin."

We were marched to the fair grounds where we were given comfortable and spacious quarters in the floral hall and here it must be said our comforts ceased. But as privation, hardship, starvation, sickness and death are the portion of a soldier, a true one should not complain, hence in this particular at least we shall endeavor to comply with the requisites.

After being assigned a room and depositing our blankets, haversacks, &c., it was the writer's good fortune to be first placed on guard duty. It is not always a good plan to stand at the head of the company. Everything passed off pleasantly, however, until about half past one o'clock, at this hour all was quiet save now and then the husky voice of a sentinel on his midnight beat speaking to some straggling passerby who all at once coming direct from the course of James City, the familiar roll beat of the kettle drum was heard, we stopped and leaning against a tree listened to be sure that we were not mistaken.

There was no mistake, James City was preparing for battle and we were about ready to get somebody else awake when an old darkey came to our rescue and in reply to our question what all that noise was said, "Boss dat de zaust to de dynamo." Great Scotts didn't we feel good! In a short while he had all the tobacco he wanted and wended his way onward. Nothing of interest occurred until Wednesday evening when orders were received that the guard would leave the next morning, all arrangements having been made for a settlement with James City. But this was only short lived however, for the order was soon countermanded and in its stead the report was circulated that we would be ordered to James City next morning which produced a singular effect upon some of the boys. It made them so deathly sick that the doctor was summoned, but about the only medicine that proved effective was the signing of the articles of agreement between Mr. Bryan and James City and when the order for dinner was given, canned beef and soda crackers held their own. Our mission being finished without trouble or bloodshed, before leaving next morning we were ordered on battalion drill through the streets of the city and but for the sad accident that occurred on this drill, everything would have passed off quietly and pleasantly. Everybody has heard of the painful news of the accidental death of our Lieutenant Colonel, David N. Bogart. It is needless to say that the State Guard has lost an able and efficient officer. His appearance was that of a Christian gentleman and a true type of a Southern soldier. The State Guard mourns his loss and sympathizes with his family in this sad hour of their bereavement.

At 8 o'clock next morning we were all at the depot anxious to see the home bound train which took us from the city about 9:30 and bore us home ward amid departing cheers and waving handkerchiefs from numbers of the pretty sparkling eyed maidens with whom that city so abundantly abounds.

Now in conclusion, those who like Judge Furches in his speech here last fall, think the State Guard appropriation should be stopped and every company disbanded, ought to hide their faces in shame. The ordering out of the State Guard on this occasion was not a question of love of home, family or country patriotism, heroism or the glory and honor of war, but simply a question of duty in which there was very little pay. Long live the State Guard and may that party remain in power that will give us an appropriation that will justify a larger, better and more powerful one of which our State can feel proud.

A BETTER SYSTEM.

A few days ago we rode out about three miles in the country with a gentleman from New Jersey and in the course of the conversation we asked him if the New Jersey farmers were oppressed and mortgaged up, if they traded on time or paid cash for their supplies? He said they knew no such thing as the mortgage system, that the farmers as a general thing were very independent and he described their system of farming which if put in operation here in the South would liberate a great many who are to-day laboring under a heavy burden of debt.

In substance he said that their truckers rarely ever planted more than seven or eight acres and they put on this land from two to four tons of some good commercial fertilizer which cost them from thirty to fifty dollars per ton. To us this of course seems almost incredible but when we take into consideration that they realize from three to six hundred dollars per acre and do it at about the same cost of cultivating that we do, it is thus explained how they make money farming. Now it must be remembered, however, that they have the advantage of a market, where they sell their stuff without having freight and brokerage to pay. We would not suggest that the South go into truck farming. This idea is only mentioned to show the application that could be made with the crops that we are now growing. Say for instance that A, who has been planting twenty acres in tobacco and sixty in cotton, reduces his acreage on both crops and plant just half and uses the same amount of fertilizer on it that he has been using on double the acreage. The result is obvious. He cultivates this land with just half the expense and uses just half the horses, &c., and reaps fully two thirds as much as if he had planted double the acreage the first year, and in a short while he can reap just as much on half the land as he formerly has on the full number of acres. Meanwhile this other land has been resting or planted in grain and is ready for the next year.

Farmers who are just entering the cultivation of tobacco had better watch carefully and steadily when the plants first begin to grow. In fact it is a crop that under skillful management can be rapidly pushed to maturity. If the ground is not worked around the plants when they first begin to take root it will buton too soon and thus amount to nothing, while if the ground is stirred deep and continuously it prevents this. It is generally considered by the best tobacco farmers that the best means of forwarding a crop. A cotton king, while it is a failure in cotton, is the best implement to go to a young crop of tobacco with, because you can get up right close to the plant, by taking off the right wing and there is no danger of covering up or breaking loose the roots of the plant. Intensive cultivation both in fertilizing and cultivating is an idea that our southern farmers are slow in taking hold of, nevertheless it is a progressive and philosophic one.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

The common and preferred stock of the American Tobacco Co. are quoted very close to each other, the common wavering a little below par while preferred goes a very little above.

The Warren Cigar Co., of Flint, Mich., will have the exclusive right to sell Cigars in the Michigan building at the World's Fair, and claim to be the only Cigar firm from Michigan that will have an exhibit.

The Person County (Roxboro, N. C.) Courier says: "Mr. A. S. DeVlaming sent a handsome cabinet of fine Tobacco to Mr. T. K. Bruner, Raleigh, N. C., last week, to be exhibited at the World's Fair. Mr. DeVlaming is one of our largest leaf dealers, and handles a high grade of tobacco. We are glad that he was so thoughtful, as it will be the means of Person county having an exhibit of her bright tobacco at Chicago. He has received a very complimentary letter from Mr. Bruner as to the quality of the Tobacco."

Judges Lacombe and Wallace, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New York, Tuesday last handed down decisions in the case of Blumlein & Co., vs. the Collector of New York, and Soby vs. the Collector of Hartford, Connecticut. In both cases the doctrine that the bale was the unit, and not the leaf, was upheld, and thus the United States Government will have to refund the difference between 35 and 75 cents per pound charged on the Sumatra tobacco of these importers, as well as probably on all other tobacco on which the 75 cent duty was levied and paid by protest on the assumption that the leaf was the unit.
