STATE NEWS

Things Mentioned in our State Exchanges that are of General Interest.
The Cream of the News

Joe Williams, in Warren county, whipped his wife to death one day last week and then escaped. The poor woman died two days after her cruel treatment at the hands of the inhuman wretch.

A gentleman living within six miles of Raleigh told a News and Observer reporter that he had twenty-five acres in cotton this year, and that thus far he had picked twenty-two bales of 450 pounds each, and was good for seven more bales.

Mr. B. J. Moore, of Hillsdale, Guilford county, has on his place an oak tree which measures thirty feet in circumference, covers one half an acre, and will shade five hundred people at noon, allowing two square feet to the head.

Kinston Free Press: Earnest Dallas, two-year-old son of Mr. Jno. T. Aldridge, who lives about three miles from Kinston, was accidentally run over by a cart hauling cotton from the field Friday. He was playing under the cart and was not seen. The wheel ran over his hip and injured him so that he died that night.

What Populists Denounce.

The North Carolina Populist platform denounces "the McKinley tariff bill and the pending Democratic tariff bill."

We quote again: We especially denounce the pending tariff bill as a cowardly makeshift for tariff reform." The Populists thus "especially denounce":

1. Free cotton bagging.
2. Free cotton ties.
3. Free agricultural implements.
4. Free salt.
5. Reduction of $141,300,000 on woolen goods.
6. Cheaper hardware.
7. Cheaper necessities in all lines.

8. The Income tax.
9. The Anti-Trust law.
That's the Populist platform. It denounces the McKinley law, but "especially denounces" these reforms which take the place of the McKinley law.

Is there any honest farmer in the State who can stand on that platform?—Raleigh News and Observer.

OUR NOMINEES.

The REFLECTOR resumes to day the sketch of our candidates and gives all but the Treasurer and Surveyor, which are reserved for next issue.

FOR SUPERIOR COURT CLERK—WILLIS R. WILLIAMS.

Willis R. Williams came of Revolutionary stock. His great-grandfather, John Williams, walked down off the bench (he was judge of the County Court), and volunteered his services to get up a Rebel Legislation against King George in 1776.

He was a member during the entire seven years war and several years after. His mother was a Dupree of the strictest Huguenot type. Mr. Williams was an old Wake Forest student. His first political service was in 1856-57, when he was elected with the late John Galloway to the House of Representatives and Mr. Churchwell Perkins to the Senate.

He was then disfranchised by reconstructionists and carpet baggers, but it did not prevent him from denouncing them, and assisting to overthrow them by all legitimate means. He then remained quietly on his farm until the Republicans and a few recalcitrant Democrats took possession of the country. When he was nominated without even his presence for the Senate, Mr. A. M. Moore, an able lawyer and popular man, was his opponent. It was like leading a forlorn hope with near six hundred votes to overcome, but he, together with the entire ticket was elected with the exception of the Sheriff. He was again nominated to succeed himself in 1891, when he determined not to accept a nomination any longer for the Senate—troubles of a financial nature resulting from neglect of his farm, by his devotion to the party being the cause. When in the Legislature he was chairman of the committee of Agriculture, Mechanics and Mining for three terms. He has steadily voted the Democratic ticket forty years and has been conspicuous in almost every campaign during that period. At the last Presidential election he was under the direction of the Democratic Executive Committee for seven weeks, speaking sometimes twice a day, without any reward, or the hope of reward.

Mr. Williams has ever been on the side of the people. He has been Master of the State Grange for twenty years. In the Legislature he was the author of the bill making it criminal to speculate in futures, ever fought hard for lower interest, and was the first to start in favor of a Railroad Commission and first for the Womens Training School.

He is now nominated for Superior Court Clerk and will have two candidates against him, but he has never yet been beaten, and will come out together with the entire ticket glorious and triumphant.

FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS—H. HARDING.

Henry Harding, our candidate for Register of Deeds, is 58 years of age, was born just across the Pitt county line in the county of Beaufort, his father owning lands on both sides of the county line. He worked when a boy in both counties. He went into the army at the very beginning of the late war and arose from a private, through the several gradations of promotion, to the rank of Major of a Regiment. Was a member of the Lower House of the Legislature in 1866 and 67 where in concert with Willis R. Williams rendered efficient aid in the repeal of the Ca-Sa, and abolished imprisonment for debt—also the act restoring to married women the common law right of dower—in the passage which acts both Harding and Williams were the principal instruments.

Maj. Harding was six years a member of the Board of County Commissioners of Beaufort county, together with Hon. W. A. B. Branch our present Representative in Congress. Of their administration as such, we have only to say that their Board found the county $16,000 in debt with county script selling as low as 40 cents and their people burdened with the incubus of a tollbridge across the river at Washington. They left the county out of debt, county script worth 100 cents and the toll bridge a thing of the past.

Maj. Harding informs us that 20 years of his life has been spent in teaching school, and "yearly, by their fruits ye shall know them," in looking over his list of old pupils we find the names of prominent men in the counties of Hyde, Beaufort, Craven, Pamlico, and Pitt. Some of them are prominent and prosperous farmers, some are merchants, some are doctors, some are lawyers, and quite a number are ministers of the Gospel. Mr. Harding was four years the Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pitt county. How well and how efficiently he discharged the duties of that office, we leave the teachers and the children of Pitt county, both white and colored, to tell; ask them. Maj. Harding has served us for two years as our Register of Deeds, and as we stated two weeks ago, no county in the State has a better one, and the people of Pitt county are going to try him for two years more. In all the vicissitudes of life through which Mr. Harding has passed, whether in peace or in war, it has been the one object of his ambition to discharge the duties of his position in life, in a manner creditable to himself and satisfactory to the people whom he served.

FOR SHERIFF—R. W. KING.

Richard W. King, our present Sheriff and candidate for reelection is a native of Pitt county and was born in what is now Farmville township, September 9th, 1853. His early life was spent upon the farm and his education was that received by attending the country schools.

In 1882 he entered the Sheriff's office as deputy under his Uncle W. M. King, and served under him six years. In 1883 Mr. J. A. K. Tucker was elected Sheriff and he was retained as deputy, serving four years under him (Tucker.) In 1890 he received a very flattering vote for the nomination of Sheriff against his chief.

In 1892 he was nominated for Sheriff on the first ballot ever several competitors by a big majority, and was elected, receiving a majority over both his competitors Harrington and McGowan.

This year he was re-nominated by acclamation, the same two men are running against him, but Dick King is going to beat them both by a still larger majority.

His official duties have always been faithfully performed and he has made the county an excellent Sheriff.

FOR CORONER—DR. C. O'H. LAUGHINGHOUSE.

Dr. Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse is a young man of whom the county may well feel proud. He is twenty-three years old, a son of Mr. J. J. Laughinghouse, of Grimesland, and a grandson of Dr. C. J. O'Hagan, of Greenville. If nothing more were said about him this would be all the introduction or recommendation he needed to the people of Pitt county. Dr. Laughinghouse attended the Horner School of Oxford, from where he went to the State University, and then graduated in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Since graduating and joining the State Medical Society he has been practicing his profession in co-partnership with his grandfather and enjoys a wide practice. He was nominated for Coroner by a large majority and will make an efficient official.

Hon. Walter R. Henry spoke in the Court House last Friday night. He has been an earnest laborer for the Democratic party for the past fourteen or fifteen years and is a young man yet. He is a natural born orator, a fine writer and one of our best campaigners. He presented the issues which are now agitating the American mind with that power and clearness which gives force to all of his speeches. His question and short comment on some of the utterances of the third party leaders just two years ago brought down the house. This was especially true when he came to those of Col. Sarry Skinner. They were such as these: "Everybody knows that I am a Simon pure Democrat." "For us to divide is like butting our brains out against a brick wall." "What a change my countrymen." Mr. Henry's speech was heard by a good audience.

The Democracy owes Mr. Henry a debt of gratitude for the good work he is doing in this campaign. He has just spoken in many of the counties of the eastern part of the State, and in Pitt county alone delivered four speeches which had telling effect in winning votes to the party. He will ever occupy a warm place in the hearts of our people who yet hope to see him rewarded as his labors and ability deserve.

Georgia had her State election last week and the Democrats carried the State by 30,000 majority. This is a much lower majority than that State gave in the election two years ago.

Some gentlemen at the association at Old Sparta, Sunday, were telling that J. B. Lloyd, the Populist mogul of Edgecombe, had an appointment to speak on Saturday at a place above Tarboro, and when he got there he did not find a man out to hear him. Alas! great is fame.

SAVED BY HIS RUBBER BOOTS

A Man Was Struck by Lightning and Lived.

Propped up with pillows in a large willow rocking-chair, with his eyes tightly bandaged, sits a young man of Cambridgeport, who was struck by lightning but lived to tell the story.

When a storm came up on an afternoon recently the pilot boat Florence was moored a quarter of a mile from Boston light.

Then came a third, and Mr. Folger knew nothing for over an hour. The current evidently selected the highest object—the bamboo pole above the main topmast, and tore it into small pieces after it had ripped the flag off.

After an hour of rubbing and dosing Folger began to show signs of life and complained of a violent headache, the sensation of sickness, a paralyzed condition of his left side and throat and a prickly feeling through his whole body.

It was not until the next night that even water passed his lips. In the meantime his left eye began to pain him intensely when he opened it and his skin felt tough as leather.

NORTHMEN AND VINELAND.

Proofs of an Ancient Norse Colony Near Boston.

The late Prof. Horsford published several books in which he undertook to fix the spot on which the Northmen landed, says the Philadelphia Ledger, and identified their Vineland with a locality on the Charles river, near Boston.

Both Prof. Horsford and his daughter have gone to work so thoroughly, have mastered every detail of the subject, and gathered evidence as well as from the results of the best explorers in other fields of archaeological and ethnological investigation, that there is a special interest in seeing the results announced by the father thus, after his death, confirmed by the daughter.

Precognition.

She (whispering nervously)—Now, Dick, I—I hope you haven't lost the ring—you are so absent-minded, dear!

He (confidently)—Eh? Oh, no; not upon this occasion. I locked it in the time-lock safe at the bank and aw—er—it's there yet!—Judge.

Mostly a Native.

"Are you a native of this parish?" asked a Scotch sheriff of a witness who was summoned to testify in a case of illicit distilling.

"Maistly, yer honor," was the reply. "I mean were you born in the parish?"

"Na, I wasna born in this parish, but I'm maist a native for a that."

"You came here when you were a child, I suppose you mean," said the sheriff.

"No, sir; I'm here about sax year noo."

"Then how do you come to be nearly a native of this parish?"

"Weel, ye see, when I came here sax year sin' I jist weighed eight stane, an' I'm seventeen stane noo, sae ye see that about nine stane o' me belongs to this parish, an' the other eight comes from Comleekie."

IF WE FAIL, WE FAIL.

Tuesday, November 6th, 1894, is big with results to North Carolina. Should the Democratic party meet defeat on that day there is not a contract from the smallest to the greatest, from the hire of the very cook in the kitchen to the payment of the millions of bonded debt of the State that will not shake and quiver in the wake of that dire event.

The question of the present status of the negro race, that has been so happily settling itself under wise and conservative legislation, will all be reopened. False and illusory hopes will again fill the breasts of the unsuspecting but credulous colored man where contentment and happiness now universally prevail.

In private conversation, in their public utterances, in their party platform they snipe and they spare not. Ballots and bullets are with them one and the same, so cruel their threats, so hot their hate.

The judges of our courts of last resort, who for a full quarter century have so held the scales of justice that the quivering balance has been ever rightly adjusted, these men, too, are dragged into the contest to answer an unholy purpose.

North Carolina, since the dawning of her bright sun of Democracy in the year 1874, challenges the people of the world to parallel her in the just, wise, honest and economical administration of all the departments of her government.

Her debt is fended. Her 4's are at par. Economy is her watchword.

Turn from these pleasant things to those other thoughts suggested by the foul conspiracy of the worst elements of Republicanism and Populism. From this fair mountain leaye to feed and fatten on that moor. County government gone—debt, extravagance, strife and combinations to loot the treasuries of a score of counties and of as many defenseless and unmasked cities and towns; high taxes, arms struck from the hands of the State's militia—the State's credit impaired, her bonds a drag in the market—perhaps, some Populist, South Carolina ideas, resulting in bloodshed and creating a feeling of class bitterness, hard, obdurate and permanent—notice to the business men in and out of the State that North Carolina's immortal past is gone; that there be none left to cherish, protect and defend her.

Most of these men were honest in their indignation and never contemplated coalition with the Republicans. At that time we foresaw and predicted what the end would be, and warned our friends of the destination that awaited them if they followed the men who had been accepted as their leaders.

"Much of the present political discord in North Carolina," says the Clinton Democrat, "is due to a failure of the people to understand the situation and the enormity of the task which confronted a democratic administration. When the people get better informed some of them will be better democrats. It is the policy of populist politicians to create dissatisfaction among the people, by attributing all manner of evil and no good to democratic rule. Democracy should receive no more credit than it deserves. That is sufficient to demand its continuance in power. It may not be the only party that promises relief, but it is the only one through which the people of this country can get it."

When a Populist tells you that the Democratic tariff bill was framed in the interest of the Sugar Trust and other special interests, ask him how it was, then, that two Populist Senators voted for it as it finally passed the Senate, and that seven Populist Representatives voted for it and none against it when it got back to the House?—Charlotte Observer.

WHAT "ANYTHING TO BEAT THE DEMOCRATS" MEANS.

When a large number of Democrats broke away from their party two years ago and joined the new Populist party, they declared that they had not changed their principles but had left the Democratic organization because it was not true to its time-honored principles. They became indignant if any Democrat suggested that they were getting ready to combine with the Republican party, and said that such a charge was fully false for the reason that their principles were directly opposed to those of the Republican party.

This prediction was verified sooner than we expected, for in 1892, in several counties, fusion was effected between the immaculate new Populist party and the "corrupt" old Republican party. At its birth the Populist party was ready for deals on the sly, but the leaders engineering these deals had to do so with great caution for fear of offending the rank and file whose stomachs couldn't stand Radicalism. But step by step, by abuse and misrepresentation of Democratic action and saying nothing about the Republicans, the leaders who had agreed to deliver the Populist voters to the Republican party have so incensed the people against their old party that many of them went into fusion with real pleasure.

"Anything to beat the Democrats," was the cry raised by Gideon Wilson and without reflection, former Democrats took it up, and are acting upon it. Gideon Wilson can afford to make this cry and to act upon it, for there is no socialist who wars more on good government than he. But the honest, conservative voters in North Carolina cannot follow such a leader into the camp of the anarchists, and sacrifice everything for the pleasure of beating the Democrats.

"Anything to beat the Democrats," interpreted by the action of the men who utter the cry, means "anything to give success to the Republicans." The Republican cat has swallowed the Populist rat.

The Populist party in North Carolina, as a self-respecting, earnest organization, seeking good government, does not exist today. It once advocated lower taxes, more money, better men and promised to stand out at least, for certain ideas, however visionary. Men who stand for something always command respect, but men who are ready to trade and dicker with all comers for a few leaves and fishes are the contempt of all honest men, and soon perish from the face of the earth.

Who can deny that the Populists in this State have abandoned every notion and idea that animated them two years ago? Who can longer doubt that it is now the tail to the Republican dog? Who can doubt that it has forfeited the right to command the allegiance of honest men who prefer reform to office?

The duty of every honest Populist is clear. He went into the party to advance certain reforms. Finding that the party has forgotten, if not repudiated, these measures, he is in duty bound to leave the party. Self-respect, self-interest and patriotism alike demand that he shall not longer affiliate with a party that trades and traffics with the party that is responsible for all the evils of which the people complain.

"Come out from among them, my people."—Raleigh News and Observer.

There is doubt in some people's mind as to whether the Republican party has swallowed the Third party or whether the latter has swallowed the former. As we have no authority on the question we cannot give our friends any information, but we can tell them this however, that we believe that both parties will be choked to death in trying to perform that feat.—Lenoir Topic.

Some Facts About the Government Ownership of Railways.

In compliance with a resolution of the Senate, introduced by Senator Pittgreav, the Inter-State Commerce Commission has compiled some data regarding the ownership of railroads by foreign governments. This is summarized as follows:

It appears that ten countries do not own or operate railways: Columbia, Great Britain and Ireland, Mexico, Paraguay, Peru, Spain, Switzerland, Turkey, United States and Uruguay.

The following governments own and operate some of the railways: Argentina, Australasia, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Cape of Good Hope, Chili, Denmark, France, Germany, Guatemala, India, Japan, Norway, Portugal, Russia and Sweden.—18.

The following governments own and operate practically all their railways, viz: Egypt and Nicaragua.—2.

The following governments own part of their railways, but do not operate any, leasing all the present mileage to private companies, viz: Greece, Holland and Italy.—3

The relative rates charged for freight and passenger service on the government owned railroads and the other facts cited in connection with such roads are calculated to afford little encouragement to the advocates of government ownership. A comparison of passenger charges per mile shows an average in Great Britain of 4.42 cents for first-class, 3.20 for second class and 1.94 for third class. In France the average is 3.85 cents for first class, 2.86 for second class and 2.09 cents for third class. In Germany the rate is 3.10 cents first-class, 2.32 second class and 1.64 cents third class. In the United States the average charge is 2.12 cents.

The average charges per ton per mile are as follows: In France, 2.20 cents; in Germany, 1.64 cents, and in the United States, 1 cent.

Every crown that comes from hand of man has thorns in it.

Below we print a portion of the platform adopted by the Republicans in New York at their recent convention.

We want every man who has gone or shown any inclination to go to the Third party and thence into fusion with these people who are in league with the New York Republicans, to read this carefully. If you have had any doubts about whether the tariff bill just passed is favorable to the South read carefully what these Republicans say. If you don't believe in protection to a favored few, read what is said along this line and see if you can afford to vote with them. Do you believe in an income tax so that the wealthy may help bear the burdens of taxation? Read what the Republicans say about this. If you will consider for one moment you will see that you have not a single interest in common with the Republican party and you are degrading yourself, when you vote thus in direct opposition to what you know to be to your interest. Read and ponder well the following:

The platform denounces the Northern Democratic Congressmen for permitting the Southern members to protect the chief products of their section while removing or largely reducing the protective duties on the products of the North, thus permitting the South by legal enactment in time of peace to destroy our prosperity and accomplish what it failed to do by illegal enactment in time of war. And we especially denounce the Democratic Representatives from this, the greatest manufacturing State in the Union, whose annual manufacturing product exceeds that of the entire South by $600,000,000, for their treachery and cowardice in aiding the passage of a sectional tariff bill that has crippled the industries and reduced the wages of workmen and that levies a tax on incomes which is a tax on prosperity. We ask all who favor a discontinuance of tariff a, imitation or believe in the restoration of Republican protection, to elect Republican members of the House of Representatives in every district so that our industrial interests may be properly represented in the councils of the nation and not as at present left utterly unrepresented in the leading committees upon which the framing of tariff and financial legislation largely depends.

A BIT OF ROMANCE.

An Old Bachelor's Peculiar Way of Proposing.

A Birthday Present That the Pretty Little Waitress Probably Appreciated—How They Shared the Professor of the Restaurant.

He was a rich old bachelor. Not too old, either, but just old enough; and he was a nice old bachelor, too, who seemed happiest when he was making other people happy. The pretty waitress-girl at the restaurant where he took his meals liked him immensely, but she would have to do that to like him one-half as well as he liked her. Indeed, he liked her so that his friends insisted that he eat seven meals a day, not to mention lunches between meals. But he didn't care for their talk. He laughed cheerily to aid his digestion, and went there as often as he wished. One day after he had finished a meal he hurried out, and in a minute or less he hurried back again.

"Didn't I leave something here?" he asked her as he began looking around.

"I think not," she replied as she joined in the search.

"I'm sure I did," he insisted, poking around among the tables and chairs.

"What was it like?" she inquired.

"Oh, it's about so big, I've heard say," he said, holding up his hands in measurement.

She looked at him curiously and tried to remember how many glasses of wine he had taken at lunch.

"I'm sure you didn't leave it here," she said. "Perhaps you left it somewhere else."

"I hope not."

"Well," she suggested reassuringly, "if I come across it I'll keep it for you."

"Are you sure you will?" he asked in a tone so strongly implying doubt that the girl's face flushed.

"You know I will," she answered warmly. "Haven't you known me long enough to trust me?"

"But this was valuable," he said, still searching for it.

For the first time in their acquaintance the girl didn't like him.

"Suppose you speak to the proprietor about it, then, and let him keep it for you," she said, half angrily.

"Gracious, no," he exclaimed, "I don't want him to have it."

"Tell me what it is," she insisted, "and I'll return it to you."

"But I don't want you to," he laughed softly.

The girl's pretty face grew prettier, for was not the next day to be her birthday?

"Oh," she chirruped, "was it something for me?"

He nodded laughingly.

"What was it?" she asked, coaxingly, as a child might.

He looked into her dancing eyes, and it made him so happy that he fairly fluttered.

"I think it was my heart, my dear," he said, becoming serious and tender at the same time, and the pretty girl was so greatly embarrassed that she put both her hands to her eyes before the proprietor and shocked him extremely, until they told him what had happened.—N. Y. Advertiser.

Work for Christian Unity in England.

The conference of clergymen which met lately at Grindelwald for the purpose of securing greater unity of feeling among English Protestants has issued an appeal signed by the bishop of Worcester, Archdeacon Farrar and other prominent clergymen of the Church of England, as well as Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist and Methodist ministers.

They urge upon the churches of Great Britain and Ireland, first, the importance of continuing to pray for unity on Whitsunday; second, the further formation of social unions with the object of concerted action on the part of the churches for the solution of the great problems which confront Christians everywhere, on principles common to the whole brotherhood of believers; third, the adoption of periodical conferences between Christian ministers of different districts for counsel and encouragement; with the object of preventing the wasteful overlapping of Christian agencies; fourth, the cultivation of the belief that by brotherly conference differences may be overcome, mutual concessions made and a desire for real unity cultivated among Christians that all the disciples of the Lord may be one.—Chicago Post.

When a Girl Is in Love.

When a girl looks fresh and blooming and good looking it is a sign she is in love.

A girl who doesn't know how to make plum preserves has no right to allow a young man to call on her a second time.

When a girl is in love she doesn't stay very long when she goes out of town on a visit. She has to come home to keep an eye on her property.

The American Florists.

The bill for the incorporation of the American Society of Florists passed by the recent congress provides for an organization with a charter membership extending from Washington and Philadelphia to St. Louis. Its sole purpose is to propagate and spread the interest in horticulture and advance the science. The measure owes its origin to William R. Smith, superintendent of the Botanic gardens, who has been for forty years in charge of the flower department of the government. Mr. Smith is the possessor of the best and most extensive library on horticulture, botany, etc., in the United States, embracing several thousand volumes, and it is his desire to see an organization of florists formed to which he can donate his books. The bill passed the senate by a unanimous vote in the last congress, but was never called up in the house. It was introduced by Mr. Hatch, but in the absence of that gentleman was called up by Representative Torman, of Illinois, and passed of

The Reflector and Constitution $1.50.

WILL YOU HELP?

In the great contest which is to be fought between now and the next presidential election for

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY—The Coinage of both Gold and Silver, without discrimination, which means the free coinage of both as opposed to the policy of contraction, which is being dictated by England, and which levies tribute on every product of the farm, on valuations of all kinds and on all compensation for labor.

The Great Issue now is the double standard against the single standard—the use of both gold and silver as standard money metals, against the organized effort to hold the currency of the country strictly to the gold basis.

THE ATLANTA CIRCULATION, 156,000. WEEKLY CONSTITUTION

published at ATLANTA, GA., and having

A CIRCULATION OF MORE THAN 156,000, chiefly among the farmers of the country, and going to more homes than any weekly newspaper published on the face of the earth is

The Leading Champion of the People in this as well as in other great contests in which they are engaged against the exactions of monopoly.

By special arrangement with The Constitution the paper publishing this announcement is prepared to make

A REMARKABLE CLUBBING OFFER, by which both this paper and The Constitution will be offered for one year at almost the price of a year's subscription to one paper.

BOTH PAPERS FOR $1.50.

THE CONSTITUTION IS THE BIGGEST AND BEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published in America, covering the news of the world, having correspondents in every city in America, and in the capitals of Europe, and reporting in full the details of debates in congress on all questions of public interest. It is

THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, and as the exponent of southern opinion and the purveyor of southern news it has no equal on the continent.

THE CONSTITUTION'S SPECIAL FEATURES

are such as are not to be found in any other paper in America.

THE FARM AND FARMER'S DEPARTMENT, THE WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT, THE CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT,

are all under able direction and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. Under the editorial management of Clark Howell, its special contributors are writers of such world-wide reputation as Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Frank R. Stockton, Joel Chandler Harris, and hundreds of others, while it offers weekly service from such writers as Bill Arp, Sarge Plunkett, Wallace P. Reed, Frank L. Stanton, and others, who give its literary features a peculiar Southern flavor that commends it to every freeman from VIRGINIA to TEXAS, from MISSOURI to CALIFORNIA.

Do Not Delay, but send your name now. If you are already a subscriber to your home paper, and you want The Constitution only, communicate with The Constitution direct, and send One Dollar for one year's subscription with your guess in the prize contest. You can get your home paper, however, publishing this, and The Constitution, for almost the price of one, and remember that all clubbing subscriptions must be sent to this paper and not to The Constitution.

THE CONSTITUTION is among the few great newspapers publishing daily editions on the side of the people against European Domination of our money system, and it heartily advocates:

1st. The Free Coinage of Silver, Believing that the establishment of a single gold standard will wreck the property of the great masses of the people, though it may profit the few who have already grown rich by federal protection and federal subsidy.

2d. Tariff Reform, Believing that by throwing our ports open to the markets of the world and levying only enough import duties to pay the actual expenses of the government, the people will be better served than by making them pay double prices for protection's sake.

3d. An Income Tax, Believing that those who have much property should bear the burdens of government in the same proportion to those who have little.

Two Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes!

To those who take advantage of this clubbing offer The Constitution will distribute Two Thousand Dollars in CASH PRIZES, by the following plan: We have placed in a sealed envelope in the keeping of the Treasurer of the State of Georgia, and locked in the great vaults of the State, a legal tender note, which like all federal paper currency is numbered, each note of every denomination issued by the government having its own number. The number on this particular note is composed of eight figures, and on the arrangement of these figures as they appear on the note depends the distribution of the two thousand dollars in prizes offered.

The following figures compose the number of the note: } 5-3-4-0-1-0-7-8 though of course they are not given here in the order in which they appear on the note.

To those who in sending with their subscriptions a rearrangement of these figures so as to give the number as it is on the note, we will distribute prizes as follows:

- $1,000 IN CASH to the person who gives the number of the note.
$500 IN CASH to the person who, not giving the exact number, comes nearest doing so.
$250 IN CASH to the person who comes second nearest.
$100 IN CASH to the person who comes third nearest.
$50 IN CASH to the person who comes fourth nearest.
$30 IN CASH to the person who comes fifth nearest.
$15 IN CASH to the person who comes sixth nearest.
$10 IN CASH to the person who comes seventh nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming eighth nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming ninth nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming tenth nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming eleventh nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming twelfth nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming thirteenth nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming fourteenth nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming fifteenth nearest.
$5 IN CASH to the person coming sixteenth nearest.

Each of these prizes will be delivered in cash, subject to the following conditions: (1st). Each guess must accompany a clubbing subscription to the paper publishing this announcement and The Constitution at the above announced clubbing rate, which must be in cash. (2d). All clubbing subscriptions must be sent through the paper making this publication and not to The Constitution. (3d). This offer is to be closed on the first of May, 1895, and guesses received with subscriptions after that time will not be counted in the distribution of these prizes. (4th). Should there be any ties in the guesses, the prizes will be divided. (5th). Every new or renewal subscription to either of the two papers will be entitled to a guess with every subscription.

THE CONSTITUTION heartily advocates an EXPANSION OF THE CURRENCY

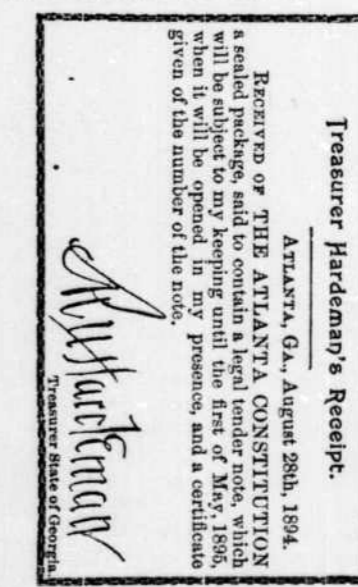

Until there is enough of it in circulation to do the legitimate business of the country. If you wish to help in shaping legislation to these ends, GIVE THE CONSTITUTION YOUR ASSISTANCE, lend it a helping hand in the fight, and remember that by so doing you will help yourself, help your neighbors, and help your country!

AS A NEWSPAPER: THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION has no equal in America! Its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every ballwick in the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE: It prints more such matter as is ordinarily found in the great magazines of the country than can be gotten even from the best of them.

AS AN EDUCATOR: It is a school house within itself, and a year's reading of THE CONSTITUTION is a liberal education to any one.

AS A FRIEND AND COMPANION: It brings cheer and comfort to the fireside every week, is eagerly sought by the children, contains valuable information for the mother, and is an encyclopedia of instruction for every member of the household.

THE PAINS OF MARRIAGE.

AN INQUIRY.

My uncle came to a stop outside a stationer's shop in Oxford street. When I saw what had caught his attention I reproached myself for my thoughtlessness.

"Come," said I, "tell me what you think of our representative government."

"It's no good, George. You did the same thing at the cake shop. Do you think I never saw the cake shop? Since this affair was settled I think every shop I pass reminds me of it—

"It's queer," said he, "that a little while ago the thing that worried me was the idea of being married, and now it is so near it entirely the getting married that upsets me. I have forgotten the horrid consequences in the horror of the operation."

"It's much the same," said I, "at an execution."

"Look at those cards." He waved his hand towards a neat array of silver and white pasteboard. "Jemima Smith," with an arrow, through the Smith, and "Podger," written above it, and on the opposite side "Mr. and Mrs. John Podger." That is where it has me, George.

We went on past a display of electro-plate with a card about presents in the window, past a window full of white flowers, past a carriage-builder's and a glove shop. "It's like death," said my uncle; "it turns up everywhere and is just the same for everybody. In that cake shop there are piles and piles of cakes, from little cakes ten inches across up to cakes of three hundred-weight or so; all just the same rich, unchangeable, greasy stuff, and with just the same white sugar on top of them. I suppose every day they pack off scores. It makes one think of marrying in swarms, like the gnats. I catch myself wondering sometimes if the run of people really are separate individuals, or only a kind of replica, without any tastes of their own. There are people who would rather not marry without one of those cakes, George. To me it seems to be almost the most assinine position a couple of adults can be in, to have to buy a stone or so of that concentrated biliousness and cut it up, or procure other people to cut it up, and send it round to other adults who would almost as soon eat arsenic. And why cake—infantile cake? Why not biscuits, or cigarettes, or chocolate? It seems to me to be playing the fool with a solemn occasion."

"You see, it is the custom to have cake." "Well, anyhow, I intend to break the custom."

"So did I, but I had it all the same." My uncle looked at me. "You see," said I, "when a woman says you must do this or that—must have cake at a wedding, for instance—you must do it. It is not a case for argument. It is a kind of privilege they have—the categorical imperative. You will soon learn that."

PHOTOGRAPHING NEBULAE.

Discoveries Made by the Camera in Recent Years.

Interesting Revelations in the Heavens.—The Camera and the Development of the Science of Astronomy.

Great surprise was expressed five years ago when the Henry brothers, of Paris, discovered by photography a strange nebulous spiral apparently attached to the star Maia, one of the Pleiades. The nebula seemed to start from the star, and bending round through a quarter of a circle, in a sweep of hundreds of millions of miles, finally became forked at the end like the tail of a comet.

Issuing out of one side of this great spiral sprang a nondescript mass, part of which swept backward parallel with the original spiral in such a way as to give to the whole object the appearance of eddying round the star.

Two or three years later the same astronomers made a photograph which showed that the entire group of the Pleiades, or Seven Stars, is mingled with fantastic nebulous shapes. In this photograph several stars appear strung, like beads, upon a nebulous line or ribbon that must be many thousands of miles in length. The conclusion was irresistible that an intimate connection existed between the stars and the nebulae which together constitute the Pleiades.

Since then a similar condition of things has been shown to prevail in other quarters of the heavens. One of the latest discoveries of this kind was made by Prof. Barnard at the Lick observatory last autumn.

When we see a star, or a group of stars, closely associated with nebulous spirals and streamers, it looks as though the stars were consuming, or feeding upon, the nebulae, or, in other words, as if the process of sun-making were, in such cases, not yet completed.

Yet it is possible that our own solar orb, which, for our purposes at least, seems to be a completed sun, would, if photographed from a far point in space, appear as a nebulous star. From such a point of view, if they were visible at all, the Zodiacal light, the Gegenschein, and other glowing appearances that are apparently connected with the sun, would perhaps be blended into a great system of luminous rings of spirals as wonderful in form as those attached to the Pleiades, though far less imposing in extent.—Youth's Companion.

Passengers' Rights. Recently a decision regarding the rights of passengers in sleeping cars was handed down by the court of general term in the Fifth department of New York which further defines the rights of passengers. Courts in New York and other states have held that the sleeping car company was responsible for the loss of money or other property stolen while the passengers were asleep, if porters were not kept on hand to guard the property of the sleepers.

Horrid Shipmates. A vessel that has been invaded by Tarantulas and Scorpions. Life on board the British steam ship Kennet, which arrived at this port in command of Capt. Davis, laden with logwood, is rendered miserable by the invasion of myriads of tarantulas, scorpions and other pestiferous strangers, and it is difficult to keep the sailors from deserting the ship on this account.

These unwelcome visitors found their way on board with a cargo of logwood, which was taken in at Port de Paix, a small settlement in Hayti, and many nights of discomfort have been spent on board the Kennet by both her officers and crew. Tarantulas by the hundreds and numbersless scorpions have been killed in the after cabin, and so thickly was this portion of the ship populated by these and other bugs that the officers have been unable to sleep.

PUBLIC SPEAKINGS.

The following appointments of speakings in Pitt county have been made by the chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee: County Canvass.

The Democratic candidates for the Legislature and county offices will address the people at the following times and places: Langs School House, Wednesday, October 10th.

Farmville, Thursday, October 11th. May's Chapel, Friday, October 12th. Falkland, Saturday, October 13th. Grifton, Wednesday, October 17th. Haddock's X Roads, Thursday, October 18th. Calico, Friday, October 19th. Grimesland, Saturday, October 20th.

Parker's School House, Wednesday, October 24th. Burney's, Friday, October 26th. Ayden, Saturday, October 27th. Stokes, Wednesday, October 31st. Grindool, Thursday, November 1st. Cobb's Store, Friday, November 2nd. Black Jack, Saturday, November 3rd.

Life on board the British steam ship Kennet, which arrived at this port in command of Capt. Davis, laden with logwood, is rendered miserable by the invasion of myriads of tarantulas, scorpions and other pestiferous strangers, and it is difficult to keep the sailors from deserting the ship on this account.

These unwelcome visitors found their way on board with a cargo of logwood, which was taken in at Port de Paix, a small settlement in Hayti, and many nights of discomfort have been spent on board the Kennet by both her officers and crew. Tarantulas by the hundreds and numbersless scorpions have been killed in the after cabin, and so thickly was this portion of the ship populated by these and other bugs that the officers have been unable to sleep.

The officers of the Kennet, like all sailors, are afraid of the tarantulas and scorpions, and now that her cargo is being discharged every effort will be made to rid the ship of the plague before she sails from here. Banana-laden ships frequently bring with their cargoes a few tarantulas, but this ship is fairly alive with them. The only relief the crew of the Kennet had on their voyage north was on the day before sighting the capes, when the cold weather caused their disappearance from the decks.

As the cargo was being discharged it was found to be actually alive with both scorpions and tarantulas. The old sailors on board the Kennet say they will never ship in a logwood-laden vessel again, and remain now only in the fear that desertion would cause a forfeiture of their wages.—Philadelphia Press.

There are thousands of bicycle riders in Buffalo, fast racers and fancy men, women who do their "century" in a day and many other varieties of the genus bicyclist. But so far as we are aware there is only one man in Buffalo or anywhere else who has successfully converted his bicycle into a family carriage with comfortable seats for five. That is Mr. Henry J. Von Scheidt, with his four boys. On setting out the wheel is steered by the father and Johnny, the youngest, is lifted into his place; then Arthur is established in front of him, and Willie climbs to his place in front of all. The father then takes the saddle and when under slow headway Henry runs after and mounts to his seat behind.

Personal.

Miss Lena Matthews returned Saturday from a visit to Kinston.

Mr. J. C. Albritton left last Wednesday to accept a position in Altany, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Pender and little daughter left for Littleton, Saturday, to spend some days.

Mrs. C. Stephens left Saturday for Dunn to visit the family of her son, Mr. V. L. Stephens.

Mrs. Annie H. Burch returned to Greenville Thursday evening after an absence of several months in Wilmington, Lumberton, Laurinburg and Raleigh.

Rev. Jesse Cunningham, D. D., of Raleigh, spent from Friday to Monday with the family of Maj. H. Harding. He preached two splendid sermons in the Methodist church Sunday.

Rev. J. C. McCall returned Saturday evening from Laurinburg, where he had been to attend the burial of his mother who died on Tuesday of last week. His many friends in this section sympathize with him in his bereavement.

Mr. Frank Tisdale, of Newbern, who is now advance agent for Belle Boyd, the famous Rebel Spy, was here Saturday arranging for an entertainment here last night. It was given under the auspices of the Pitt county Rifles.

Mr. H. Westfall, agent of Bob Hunting's circus, was here Friday afternoon and Saturday with his special car and advertising corps billing the town for the circus. He paid the REFLECTOR a visit and showed his faith in printer's ink by contracting for a large advertising space. If Hunting's is as good a circus as Mr. Westfall is a clever man you may look for a fine show.

Died.
Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, mother of Mr. W. P. Hall, died at the latter's home in this town on Thursday evening. She had been living in Greenville only a short while, coming here after the death of her daughter which occurred at Mt. Olive about a month ago.

The Canvass
The county candidates met the first three appointments in their canvass, last week, and spoke at Keelsville, Pactolus and Bethel. Good crowds were present each day, the candidates made a splendid impression, and the interest manifested shows the Democracy of Pitt in good shape. There are some good speakers among the candidates. Hon. W. R. Henry was with them at Pactolus and Bethel, and Hon. W. M. Robbins will be with them at Lang's school house to day.

What the Reflector Does.
"It's all advertisements," may be your first impression when you only a glance has been taken at to-day's REFLECTOR. But don't jump at any such conclusion until you have looked over the paper and seen what is on the surface six pages. Besides our splendid display of advertisements, this paper gives you twenty-one columns of reading matter which is more than you get any time of the year when we send out a four page issue. Compare the REFLECTOR with any other paper in this section and you will find that it gives more reading matter than any other, and in many instances twice as much. There is just this thing in having a large advertising patronage—it shows that your county paper is prospering and that is the kind of paper the people want. When a paper is not prosperous nobody wants it, but when it is prosperous everybody wants it. The business men believe in the REFLECTOR, hence they give it a liberal advertising patronage; the people believe in it hence it has the largest circulation it has ever had. And whether advertiser or subscriber, the REFLECTOR gives full value for your money.

Bethel Items.
October 8th, 1894.
Hon. F. I. Osborne passed through here yesterday.

Rev. W. A. Forbes preached at Shiloh Sunday. He filled the pulpit here at night.

Mrs. Jesse W. Thomas has been quite sick the past two weeks. We hope she may soon recover.

Mrs. T. T. Cherry returned home last week from Halifax county where she had been visiting her parents several weeks.

Rev. J. W. Powell filled his regular monthly appointment in the Baptist church Sunday morning and night and probably preached his farewell sermon. Mr. Powell is an able and eloquent preacher and has made a host of friends who will regret to see him leave.

The Democratic candidates according to appointment were here Saturday. The speaking began about half past one o'clock P. M. The candidates did not make long speeches but made a fine impression on the people here and everybody seemed pleased both with the candidates and the speeches. We have never seen an audience pay more marked attention to speaking than did the people here Saturday. At the conclusion of the speeches of the candidates, that grand exponent of Democracy and eloquent speaker, Hon. W. R. Henry, was introduced and delivered one of the most powerful, eloquent and logical speeches we ever listened to. He held the crowd spell bound until a late hour in the evening. His speech made a fine impression here and is bound to make votes for the party. Suffice to say Saturday was a field day for Democracy in Bethel.

Fusion Ticket.

The Populists held their county convention here last Saturday and brought out their ticket. Rev. J. L. Burns was chairman of the meeting, James H. Barnhill secretary and Andrew Joyner assistant secretary. The ticket selected was as follows:
For the Senate—A. A. Forbes.
House of Representatives—Rev. J. T. Phillips and Victor Cox.
Superior Court Clerk—E. A. Moyer.
Sheriff—W. H. Harrington.
Register of Deeds—W. M. Kirtland.
Treasurer—J. A. Thigpen.
Coroner—Dr. J. W. Perkins.
Surveyor—J. R. Jenkins.

Three of the ticket are Republicans. After the Populists adjourned the Republicans met and went through the form of ratifying the ticket.

Circus Coming.
Bob Hunting's Big Rail Road Circus and Menagerie with appear in Greenville, Thursday, October 18th, giving two Performances, afternoon and night. The tents will be pitched on the grounds in rear of the tobacco warehouses near the depot. The Newark (N. J.) Advertiser says.

The performances of Hunting's Railroad Circus, Museum and Menagerie were greeted yesterday by packed houses, and the extraordinary performances of this unrivaled aggregation of first class female equestriennes and male riders, signing and tugging clown, acrobatic and aerial exhibitions of strength and agility, and last though not least the wonderful performances of the highly educated horses, ponies, mules, goats and dogs were received with shouts of laughter and applause. To say that the show gave universal satisfaction would be only to repeat what has been said of it, by our exchanges throughout the country during the past season.

The management are to be congratulated upon their thorough efficiency in looking after their legion of patrons, more particularly in the absence of all the rough element of card sharppers and swindling devices so common with the many shows that infest the country during the tenting season, in addition to this feature, and the gentlemanly manner of all connected with the show, we bespeak for it the immense business they are bound to receive.

A Notable Family.
Mrs. Isabella, widow of James S. Moore, in Pactolus township is near 72 years old. She raised twelve children, six boys and six girls, to be grown. Out of that number she has lost only one, the second son, Mr. G., who fell at the charge of Fort Harrison in 1863. About three weeks ago, she with her eleven children came to Greenville and had a family group photograph made. There were six girls viz: Charlotte, (Mrs. B. H. Hearne), Emily, (Mrs. David Hyman), Lissie, Jackie, Ellen and Isabel, (Mrs. Joe Fleming) and five boys (the sixth being dead). The boys were G. L., whose wife died some years ago leaving nine children, L. C. (Tuck) who lives near his mother; G. C. (Ned), of Greene county "Streeter Place" fame; Z. L., living with his mother and Zeno, the baby, of Greenville. The four last named are unmarried.

Their father was a Democrat in 1828, and none of the six sons have ever voted otherwise. Mrs. Moore is the grand mother of twenty-four children, and the great-grand mother of four. At her advanced age she continues the habit formed in early life of rising at 4 o'clock every morning and takes pleasure in preparing her own household work.

Pitt county may justly feel proud at having among her citizens such a family as Mrs. Moore has raised. God bless such noble women! We trust there are yet in store for her many years of peace and joy.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS, He has pleased an Allwise Providence to remove from our midst by death our beloved brother, Fernando Fleming, who departed this life on Tuesday, September 11th, 1894, be it

RESOLVED, 1st, That we bow in humble submission to this dispensation of our Master, knowing that He doeth all things well.

RESOLVED, 2nd, That in the death of brother Fleming, Covenant Lodge has lost an active and zealous member, and the community in which he lived a worthy, energetic and respected citizen.

RESOLVED, 3rd, That we extend our mutual sympathies to the bereaved family and friends of our departed brother.

RESOLVED, 4th, That we wear the usual badge of mourning and that the Lodge room be appropriately draped in mourning for thirty days.

RESOLVED, 5th, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Lodge, that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and a copy be sent to the press with request to publish.

I Was Weak,

Tired and nervous, my food did not digest easily. In fact I was in poor health generally. I had to sleep propped up in bed to breathe easily at night. I had the grip and afterwards a severe cough. I found relief in Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have taken seven bottles and can eat what I please, sleep soundly and feel rested unless I overwork. I feel as young as I did 10 when I use judgment in my daily regimen. I cannot begin to express my thanks sufficient for such a great soothing, health restoring medicine.

MAY'S ERROR.

May Manning, an only daughter, was blest with fond loving parents. The fair girl was standing at twilight at the garden gate of her parent's pretty residence. A horseman soon appeared. He was young, handsome and smart. It was Dr. Monteith. He loved May and she loved him. He had never made known his love. He had been a constant visitor at the Manning residence for nearly two years and had just that morning nerved himself to ask that all important question. He soon arrived at the gate and gallantly doffed his hat and shook hands with May. She greeted him with a smile and he saw he was welcome and broached the subject nearest to his heart and was accepted. The next day Dr. Monteith obtained the willing consent of May's parents. The mother, however, insisted that the marriage should not take place in less than four months. Dr. Monteith had a wealthy friend, Capt. Sadler, who had a beautiful daughter, Lillian. The Captain's wife, an invalid, was a patient of the young doctor.

When May trusted, she trusted with all her heart. She confided in her friend Helen Foster. This girl proved a traitor. She had fixed her love on Dr. Monteith, May's engagement had dashed the cup from her lips. Gradually she poured into May's ears a most terrible falsehood.

At last she so far succeeded as to lead the poor girl to a spot where she beheld the young doctor and Lillian Sadler, seated alone. More than this, she saw her lover clasping the other woman's hand in earnest entreaty. This, and the reports that Helen Foster did not fail to eventually bring her, convinced her as to the purity of her lover.

When next he called, she broke off the engagement. Yes, she cast to the winds the man whom she loved with all her heart, soul and body.

So far Helen Foster had succeeded, and the lovers were separated.

The news flew round that Dr. Monteith was about to sell his practice and go abroad. The announcement aroused poor May's suspicions as to the truth of affairs and she was determined to make amends.

"I must ask his forgiveness before he goes abroad and tell him of my suspicions," she sobbed to herself.

She sat down and addressed a note to Dr. Monteith and he quickly hastened to her. He was very stiff, very cold, and very stern; but ere he had been for half an hour in May's presence all had been explained; she had asked his forgiveness for her error, and he had granted it all freely.

Nor was this all, for May had once again vowed to become his wife, and she faithfully kept her promise for they were to be married the next month.

Preparations were entered into to arrange her wedding outfit and a cheap place to get it. May and her mother drove to Greenville and at once began the tour. As they were passing up Main street they spotted the lovely young widow and met the smiling C. T. Munford at the door and after the morning greeting they went inside and astonishment was plainly visible on both faces as they saw the beautiful display and heard the extremely low prices. Mrs. Manning was heard to exclaim, "Surely the low prices have struck this store with both feet." She purchased a lovely bridal dress of Shaggy. And bought two bolts of bleaching, hosiery, ribbon, buttons, laces, embroidery, dress trimmings of every kind at prices truly marvelous. They also got two dresses of that beautiful camel hair and fine check tweed. They got the complete outfit for so small an amount that they said they were surely going to tell Dr. Monteith so he could get his outfit and did.

On next day Dr. Monteith was met at the front door by Mr. Munford and escorted through his mammoth store to look over and select his wedding suit for which he only paid $12.50 and Mr. Munford gave him a guarantee. He then passed him over to Mr. Bo Cherry who fitted him out with shoes, collars, cuffs, shirts, underwear, &c., and threw in a necktie for a wedding gift.

Just before leaving Dr. Monteith expressed a desire to find a cheap furniture store and Mr. Munford politely escorted him two doors below to the Furniture & Racket Store where he was dumbfounded at the beautiful sight that met his eyes and wonderfully low price of everything. He purchased him a parlor suit for $39.00. A bed room suit of antique oak for $24.00. Then he completely fitted up his house in the way of rugs, pictures and extension dining table at low prices. Small tables, carpets, matings, safe, &c. In the Racket Store he fairly shopped at the new and nobby things he could get for a mere song. He purchased crockery, tinware, glassware, table cutlery, lace curtains, curtain poles, counterpanes, &c., and fitted up his whole house.

One would think that the doctor was broke by this time but not so, the goods were so cheap that he hardly felt it. You go and do likewise.

TOBACCO DEPARTMENT.
Conducted by O. L. JOYNER, Proprietor Eastern Tobacco Warehouse

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS
Mr. E. O. McGowan is now employed at the Planters.

Mr. J. W. H. VonEberstein, of Chocowinity, was here with tobacco Friday. He sold at the Eastern.

The warehouses afford much amusement for the boys with their roller skates after the floors have been cleared off.

Mr. Henry Strause, of Henderson, is again in our midst. Mr.
Strause says he is just from Richmond, and that the Strause
Co., are slaying things there.

The Planters' Warehouse has swung a large sign across the street in front of their house. A smaller sign under this tells whether they have first, second or third sale each day.

Mr. W. D. Hobgood was at the Eastern with another big lot of tobacco last Thursday and averaged $18 on 900 pounds. He was well pleased and said he knows just where to sell his crop.

The sound of Pat Gorman's engine can be heard day and night, reordering and getting his tobacco out of the way. For the last three weeks it has required several engines to keep our tobacco sufficiently out of the way.

Last week Mr. J. Bryan Grimes, of Grimesland, sent several loads of tobacco up to the Eastern warehouse, which, owing to the extreme high order and damaged condition, sold at only medium prices. We understand that Mr.
Grimes, has lots of good tobacco, and if he will bring some of that on our market he will be well pleased at the prices it brings.

Messrs. Hines & Hamilton have had to build another prize house
just in the rear of the old Greenville Warehouse. The house was built for J. S. Jenkins & Co., who have leased it for two years. If Greenville had many such men as Hines & Hamilton, who never wait to be shown that an investment will pay from 75 to 100 per cent but are satisfied with a reasonable profit on their outlay, it would not be long before there were prize hoases enough to meet our increasing demand, and it would not be necessary to beg for others to be built.

Referring to the situation in South Carolina, the Raleigh
News and Observer says "events there are but another evidence of the fatal mistake the Democrats of the South made when they undertook to placate the hydra, Populism. When the Southern Democrats began to drift into the Third party, there were those who said, let them alone, yield to them now and they will come right in the end. That was the fatal mistake. There the Democratic party warmed a serpent on its hearthstone. The Southern Democrats now see their mistake. There is but one way to deal with heresy—kick it out; suppress it. It is immensely better and safer." Our contemporary speaks the words of truth and soberness, and it affords the Landmark great pleasure to print this testimonial or vindication of the wisdom of its course during the troublous times when an effort was being made by Populists in the disguise of Democrats to capture the party organization and machinery in this State. It was then that the Landmark contended that the only way to deal with heresy was to kick it out—suppress it. But "conciliators"—many of whom are now holding high places in the Democratic household—cried out that the Landmark was driving people away from the party.
Their idea was to give Marian Butler everything he asked for and a little more, and how near Butler succeeded in capturing the State convention of '92 is known of all men. But, thank God! a few who had not bowed the knee to Baal, and who preferred defeat to dishonor, stood up against a surrender and saved
the party. Today the "conciliators" recognize who was right and who was wrong in that contest, but it is well, as we go along, to remember occasionally who it was that tried to turn the party over to the enemy in '92—Statesville Landmark.

THE SOLID SOUTH.
The South is solid because the Republican party makes war upon her, and thus compels her in self defence to show a solid front to the North. It is not because all the southern people hold exactly the same opinions on the question of protection to American industries, or the silver problem, or the income-tax, or any other question that divides the people of the North, but because,
as we have said, they are forced to stand together in defence of their rights.

Naturally the southern people are more generally States-rights men than the northern. The war between the States was, so to speak, a war involving the rights of the several States. We say, therefore, that naturally the southern people are more disposed to stand by the rights of the States than the northern people, who feel themselves identified with the National Government, and disposed to look at all questions through sectional spectacles. Governor Stone, of Missouri, in his campaign speeches, says the Statesrights fight is still
"on"

As Oliver P. Morton once said of the Democrats, it may now be said of the Republicans, that they are like men riding backwards in a carriage and seeing nothing until they have passed it. This remark describes accurately the position of the Republican party.
It sees too much of what is behind it. It seldom or never forgets to keep its eyes upon the past. Its platforms, State and national, never fail to be charged with the sectionalism which has characterized that party from the first day of its existence until
now. It was born of sectionalism.
It is lived upon sectionalism.
It is afraid to go before the people upon the issues which ought to divide the people of this country into two parties. No matter how many appropriate issues may be incorporated into a national Republican platform, they must have a sectional plank or two worked into that platform to strengthen them with the sectionalists of the North.

The Wilmington (N. C.) Star says of the Republicans that if they had the power they would even now deprive the South of her strength and negative her as a political factor. But it is the bounden duty of the southern people to stand by their allies in the North and continue to present an unbroken front to the enemy. "If there be doubt of this or of the animus that inspires
the leaders of the Republican party to day," read their harangues, their platforms, their appeals to the old soldiers, their threats, and their promises. It would be strange if the South were not substantially solid under the circumstances, and it must be an intolerable burthen for the southern Republicans who are attached to their southern homes and friends to have to stand upon such platforms as are those constructed by the Republican leaders out of rotten sectional timber.

Yes, the Republican party is a sectional party and ought to be buried out of sight. We quote from the Star:

"However it may be afterwards,
until the Republican party is so crippled as to be no longer a rational power, the South must of necessity be and remain politically solid, for weakening or disruption means eventual subjugation, bondage, and ruin. Democratic supremacy is necessary to the preservation of white su-premacny in the South, and that means the liberty of the southern white man and his right to say who shall make the laws under which he and his children are to live and what those laws shall be.
Solidity is not a matter of choice;
it is a matter of imperative necessity that admits of no debate.
To abandon it is to eventually lose or surrender all that we have won by such heroic effort."

"Solidity is not a matter of choice. It is a matter of imperative necessity." Ponder these words, ye Democrats, and act upon them. "We must hang together or hang separately."

Who Knows that Nose?
One of the most amusing games for a large company is called by the punning title, "Who knows that nose?" Let a sheet, or a similar cloth, be hung in the doorway between two rooms.
Let the company be divided into two groups, one for each room.
In one room let a light be placed and let the members of the group in the other room take turns in sticking their noses through a slit in the sheet, into the lighted room. The group on that side is to guess the owner of each nose.
After three trials, lights in the first room are to be put out, and lights in the second room lighted and the game is to be continued, the parties being reversed. If a nose is correctly guessed, the owner thereof must go on the other side; and so the game proceeds until one side or the other has lost all its members.

This game may be varied by trying eyes, instead of noses, but it is not so funny in that way. It is astonishing how strange and unheard of is the nose of even the most familiar friend, when isolated from the other features of his countenance. Indeed, it is doubtful whether any one of us, if confronted with an accurate picture of our own nasal appendage, would recognize it as an old friend.

This game, and similar games, startle us with the disclosure of how little we have observed, even in matters that we think we know
all about.—Golden Rule.

Sporting News.
The Overman Wheel Co., Chicopee Falls, Mass., makes of the Victor, the best and most favorably known bicycle manufactured, have entered the sporting goods trade, and will hereafter manufacture a complete line of such goods as base balls, base ball bats, base ball gloves and mitts, tennis rackets, tennis balls, tennis nets, footballs, football suits, boxing gloves, athletic and gymnasium shoes, sweaters, etc.

The aim of the Overman Wheel
Company will be to have Victor Sporting Goods as widely known as Victor Bicycles, and they guarantee better goods than are now offered by other manufacturers.

Any article bearing the Victor trade mark will be as good as it is possible to make it, and all athletes and lovers of outdoor sports will welcome the advent of Victor Sporting Goods.

The new Victor line is complete, as a copy of catalogue will show, and this, together with the fact that impartial competitive tests have demonstrated the superiority of Victor Sporting Goods over other sporting goods, makes a clear field for the new Victor product.

Their reputation as leaders and makes only of the best, combined with unlimited facilities, assures the Overman Wheel Company of success in their new departure.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.
By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure Deafness,
and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars or any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
