Weather Crop Bulletin.

The reports of correspondents of the Weekly Weather Crop Bulletin, issued by the North Carolina State Weather Service, for the week ending Saturday, August 10th, 1895, indicate a very warm, sunny week, with local showers. The temperature rose steadily during the week, with maximum temperatures on Saturday above 94 degrees, and a mean about 8 degrees above the normal.

EASTERN DISTRICT.—Reports from this district are nearly all favorable, and crops have made fine progress. The weather was very warm, with local showers nearly every day, except at some places, chiefly in the northern portions of the district, where not enough rain has fallen. There has been an abundant sunshine. On Sunday, August 11th, a heavy, heavy rain occurred in the southeast corner of the State, without great damage. Light hail reported from two points. There are a few sections in this district which can be said to be seriously suffering for want of rain. Corn especially doing very well; fodder-pulling has begun in the South. Tobacco crop good and cutting up fine. The majority of reports indicate improvement in cotton, which will make a good crop report. Sowing trunks and early planted have come up well. Field peas good. Sweet potatoes doing well, and second crop of rice doing well. Katus reported. Falkland 2.05 inches; Richlands, 1.25. Pantego, 1.10; Canton, 0.50. Mount Olive, 2.00. Trenton, 1.06. Jacksonville, 1.49. Wilmington, 2.30. Southport, 2.37.

A Warning to Cigarette Smoking Boys.

Speaking of the evils of cigarette smoking, a prominent physician says: "A good deal has been said about the evils of cigarette smoking. I am talking now to boys remember. The effect upon a grown man is of course not so marked. A cigarette will lie and steal just as a morphine or opium fiend will lie and steal. Cigarette smoking blunts the whole moral nature. It has an appalling effect upon the system. It first stimulates and then stupefies the nerves. It sends boys into convulsion. It gives them enlargement of the heart and it sends them to the insane asylum. I am physician to several boys' schools and I am often called in to prescribe for palpitation of the heart. In nine cases out of ten it is caused by the cigarette habit. Every physician knows the cigarette habit. I have seen bright boys turned into dunces and straight-forward, honest boys made into miserably cowardly by cigarette smoking. I am not exaggerating. I am speaking the truth, as every physician and nearly all of the teachers know."

The great dailies are every day full of expressions of fear, emanating from prominent men, that the bond syndicate will not protect the treasury from gold raids. The spectacle of a great government appealing helplessly to a half dozen bankers to stand between it and insolvency is a spectacle that is humiliating to every man in America except the out and out gold bugs. They see nothing to cede in a financial system that thus humiliates and dwarfs the Federal government.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. It cures all cases of Catarrh, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Trouble at Winston.

A serious riot between whites and blacks was narrowly averted at Winston Sunday night. It was given out in the colored churches during the day that an attempt was going to be made to lynch Arthur Tuttle, on trial there for murder of politician Vickers last May. After church, about 150 negroes organized and marched to the jail where they remained for several hours. They were armed with pistols and guns. Mayor Gray went to the jail and assured the negroes there was no danger of lynching and begged them to disperse. Sheriff McArthur and two of Winston's lawyers also addressed the negroes, assuring them that there was no danger of lynching; Judge Brown, who is holding court, notified the negroes that they were violating the law, telling them that Tuttle should have a fair trial and that he would be responsible for Tuttle's protection. The negroes said they would leave if the sheriff would put a guard of twenty men around the jail. This was done but many of the mob refused to go away. Sheriff McArthur then ordered the Fourth regiment besides the city police to surround the jail. They were ordered to march in a square in front of the jail, while Judge Brown also instructed the sheriff to arrest those who did not leave. The mob began firing on the officers, several of whom were struck with small bird shot, but none were seriously wounded. The Riflemen fired several volleys into the crowd, causing the negroes to disperse in quick order. Fourteen of the rioters were arrested by officers and put in jail.

There is every indication that the next election in New York State will wipe out last year's 150,000 Republican majority and substitute in its place a substantial Democratic victory. The present contest between the Republicans and the Democrats in New York cannot fail to result advantageously to the Democrats. "A great change has come over the Democrats since last fall" says the New York Times, "when the outlook was gloomy and the prospects for this year's war discouraging. Where six months ago there was left nothing but the divided, defeated and discouraged party there is now a substantially united and hopeful body, seeking to perfect its organization and making a strong effort to win victory that shall be deserved."

"If you die, I will sleep by your grave all the rest of my life." This remarkable vow was made fifteen years ago by his sick wife by Edwin L. Morrison, at that time chief clerk of the Pennsylvania freight department at Miami-Ohio. He built a rude hut at the side of his wife's grave in the cemetery. Now Edwin L. Morrison, once the handsome railroad man, is old, wrinkled and haggard, but still sits in his robe out by the side of the grave of the woman he loved so well. For fifty years he has kept up this solemn vigil. In rain or shine, summer or winter, he lingers around the little spot where his loved one lies. Day after day during so many years, he has spent amid the gloom of this old graveyard his whole existence.

A popular young man residing a mile west of Winston paid dearly for a visit Friday morning. He was one of the special venire drawn for the Tuttle jury and was promptly on hand, but thinking his name would not be reached for several hours, went to the home of his sweetheart, where he remained too long for the good of his bank account. His name was drawn but he failed to answer to the roll-call. When he appeared in the courtroom and made himself known Friday afternoon Judge Brown notified him that his absence would only cost him $20, with no cost attachments. His Honor added also that by paying this amount his young friend would be excused without any further ceremonies. He paid his cash to Clerk Wilson and left the courtroom a sadder but wiser young man.—Sallytown Herald.

In his youth John A. King, of Chicago, was a mule engineer on the Erie canal. Now he is very wealthy and president of a big national bank. This shows what perseverance with a mule will do.

A Pretty, Happy Girl.

There are many plain young girls whose faces are lined with discontent and unhappiness. There is a drawn, perplexed expression between the eyes, and corners of the mouth have a decided droop. These are the girls who have a settled idea that they are plain beyond remedy, and the distressing belief has deepened the lines of dissatisfaction; but in reality there is only a cloud over the face, cast by the habit of unhappiness.

A pretty story by which we can all profit is told in an exchange as follows: One morning a certain girl whose face was under this cloud walked out across the sunshine of the common. For a moment the lightness of the morning had lifted the gloom and her thoughts were unusually pleasant.

"What a pretty, happy girl that is who just passed," she heard one of two ladies passing say to the other. She looked quickly around, with envy in her heart, to see the pretty girl, but she was the only girl in sight.

"Why, they mean me! No one ever called me pretty before! It must be because I am smiling!"

Again, as she was getting on a horse car, she heard the fates were out in her favor! "Do you see that pretty girl?"

"Well, I declare I am always smiling! I feel happy all the time, and what comes of it! I have been called homely all my life, and here twice in one day I've been called pretty."—Ram's Horn.

Hot Weather Don'ts.

Don't walk on the sunny side of the street.
Don't work unless you have to, and then work slowly.
Don't fail to carry an umbrella if you are exposed long to the sun's rays.
Don't drink anything to excess. Ice water is about as bad as anything else.
Don't use a fan. The exercise of working it will overcome all the good you experience.
Don't think it is the hottest day you ever experienced, and if you do think it, don't say it.
Don't be afraid of perspiration. It is a good sign, and it reduces the temperature of the body.
If you follow out the majority of these don'ts you will feel that you followed the injunction to keep cool.
Don't feel it a duty to look at the thermometer every ten or fifteen minutes during the middle of the day.
Don't make a meal largely composed of meats. Vegetables come at this season of the year especially for the benefit of man.

He Knew Enough.

The esteem in which the sailor's calling is held in Massachusetts coast towns is indicated by a true story that comes from Gay Head, a primitive community on the island of Martha's Vineyard. A teacher was wanted at the village, and a sailor, with Indian blood in his veins, applied to the town committee for this position. He had to pass an examination by the committee, and trembled at the ordeal, being sadly unlearned in book-learning.

"Mr. —, what is the shade of the earth?" "It is round, sir," the candidate answered. "How do you know?" "Because I have sailed around it three times." "That will do, sir!" "He received the 'certificate' as a teacher without another question being asked.

The Cherokee form of marriage is, perhaps, the simplest and most expressive to be found among modern people. Man and maiden, their courtship happily ended, simply join hands over a running stream, emblematic of the wish that their future lives shall flow on in the same channel, and the thing is done. Among our other Indian tribes the marriage ceremony is equally simple and effective.

Protection a Needless Fraud.

When Anniston, Ala., is able to supply Tokio, Japan, with water pipe at a profit, in competition with English, German and Belgium bidders, how foolish and insincere seem the dolorous wails sent up from that quarter in 1893 when it was proposed to remove the duty from iron ore and pig. No protection was needed, it is clear, since Anniston can pay freight on its water pipe to Tokio via Liverpool, and yet underbid all competitors. Pittsburg is said to have sent 400 tons of pig to England recently, and Youngstown, Ohio, sent 1,000 tons of waste metal. The wool manufacturing industry prospers greatly with the free wool given by the Democratic tariff. The American Wool and Cotton Reporter states that there were, on June 1, 1895, in operation in this country 8,456 sets of cards, 77,199 looms and 64,250 knitting machines, as against 7,784 sets of cards, 71,000 looms and 33,691 knitting machines in May, 1892, under the McKinley tariff and the new one.

Wise and Beautiful Answers.

A Sophist, wishing to puzzle Thales with difficult questions which he had arranged, put the following, to which Thales answered without hesitation and with utmost precision: "What is the oldest thing? God for He existed always.

"What is the most beautiful? The world, for it is the work of God.

"What is the greatest of all things? Space, for it contains all things.

"What is the most constant? Hope, for it remains when all else is fled.

"What is the best of all things? Virtue, for without it there is nothing.

"What is the quickest? Thought in a moment it can reach the end of the universe.

"What is the strongest? Necessity, it makes men face all danger.

"What is the easiest of all things? To give advice.

"What is the most difficult? To know thyself.—Young Men's Era.

The following incident of New York life shows how badly our population is mixed: An Italian sent an American lad to a Chinaman for his laundry. The American gave the Chinaman a 50 cent piece. John bit on it and said: "Counterfeit; you gettee in trouble; me keepes," and put it in his pocket. The Italian then called and started to give the Chinaman a beating. A Greek left his cyster stand to act as peacer maker. The Italian drew a razor and the Greek shied a bottle of chutney pepper at him, which struck a Hebrew, a negro who was passing unoffended, and an Irishman in the uniform of a policeman arrested the fighting congress of nations which was presided over by a Dutch police justice.

The Burlington News hits the nail squarely on the head and gives excellent advice in these words: "Money invested in the cultivation of the talents of your children does good and yields a dividend as long as they live. Hence it is not economy to raise your boys and girls in ignorance for the sake of a small saving. Mind is worth more in the battle of life than muscle, and brings more on the markets of the world. Sequel: Put your children in a good school at the opening, keep them there for a term and watch the improvement."

42.35 per cent. of the people of North Carolina are church members. This is far above the average, which is about 27 per cent.

Near Lexington, Mr. H. Swing and a Miss Gallimore were out driving. While crossing a bridge the horse shied and backed the buggy off into the creek below. The young man tried to save the young lady, and in the struggle she held him too heavily about the neck and he was drowned. Another man appeared on the scene just in time to save the lady. The horse was drowned also.

A JAP'S VIEWS.

American Visitors to the Land of the Rising Sun. Many Tourists Have Been Looking That Way—For Ordinary Travelers It Is a Better Trip Than to England or the Continent.

A Japanese conception in his own country has done this for the purpose, as he says, of "looking at things." In an interview with a reporter of the New York Sun, he spoke of the good esteem in which Americans are held by the Japanese. "Never before," he said, "were there as many Americans in Japan as there are this year. The tourists are to be seen not only in Yokohama and other seaports, but in out-of-the-way places, which they explore that they may get glimpses of the old-time Japanese life and customs. If they cannot put up at big hotels they are always able to find some place to stay, for the natives are of a hospitable nature, and have all heard of the Americans. In Yokohama, we have always been accustomed to Americans, and I am sure that as many as two thousand of them have lived there longer than I can remember. But there are restrictions upon foreigners who want to travel over the country, and it is not everybody who can gain permission to do so.

"I am sure that Japan will yet be a great resort for American tourists. Before coming to New York I had visited Europe, and the thing that has struck me most since I arrived here is that this country is very much like the European countries I have seen. The streets there and here are the same; the residences and business buildings are the same; so are the manners and customs, the food, the religion, the theaters, the food and everything else. I do not understand why so many Americans go to England, or France, or Germany every year, and why they do not go to some country that is different from their own. When the American travels in Japan he sees things unlike any he ever saw before. The people are of another race; we have an ancient history and many things of antiquity; we have arts that are all our own; we have a social system that has descended to us from prehistoric times; you can go into Buddhist temples or into playhouses unlike yours; you can everywhere notice the abiding influence of our two great religions, which you call pagan; you can see novelties of every kind, all on hands, in a country which is healthy and beautiful and orderly, and which is inhabited by a people whom foreigners characterize as excessive in their politeness. Japan is not a second edition of Europe; it is unlike any other nation in the world; it is a country for American tourists who want change; and I think that thousands of them will go every year hereafter.

"I think that more of the usual number of Americans have traveled to Japan this year because of the revelations made during the war with China. The war has brought more fame to Japan than all the other events that have occurred since the mythological ages. It has given the world at large some knowledge of Japanese life and character and history. It has taught mankind that we are not a country of barbarians or simpletons, and that we are not like the Chinese or the Hindus or any other Asiatics. It has made many other Americans curious to learn more about us. It has been the means of attracting hundreds of Americans to the country which owes so much to Americans. If as many Americans as have gone to Europe this summer had thought of going to Japan both countries would be benefited. Besides the war, the many books about Japan recently written by American and European authors have aided in creating a new interest in it. There must be very many of these books. Of all the foreigners who have ever visited my country, Mr. Lafcadio Hearn has been the best understanding of it. He was very observant when last here. He is very subtle. He got into communication with the soul and heart of Japan. I think that he and the poet Arnold are much to be flattered to us in their books, and I could criticize some things that they say. It was their kindly spirit. One might believe that no American can read their language about my country without desiring to visit it. They may be assured that visitors will be welcome, more especially if Russia does not interfere with us. Yet another thing that has tended to promote the American interest in Japan is the coming of Japanese among you. There must be several thousand of Japanese in the United States, and many of them have got acquainted with your people, and have entered into business relations with them."

He Will Be Missed. Our former invaluable friend, the horse, that looked on the bicycle as the forerunner of his coming doom, will be sorely missed. The horse, as the doerunner of his coming doom, will be sorely missed. The horse, as the doerunner of his coming doom, will be sorely missed.

THE CLAY WAS SOAKED.

A University Extension Lecturer's Witty Retort. "The other day," said Byron King, "I was called to a town down south to address a meeting of mill-workers in a course of lectures on university extension. There was quite a large audience present and they all listened attentively. During the course of my remarks I had occasion to refer to our lowly origin, saying our Creator made us out of clay. At this a man, who was sitting away back in the audience, who was well known in the community for his capacity for absorbing liquor, and who, from his fondness for drink, had made a rank failure in life, while his fellows had succeeded, got up and said: 'I disagree with you; from my experience I would say that I was made out of mud.' It was a pretty good remark, knowing the man to be what he was, and I was stumped for an answer. Finally I said: 'You were originally made out of clay, but the trouble was you went out and got soaked.'"—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

COLLEGE MEN.

England Delights to Honor Men Bearing a Degree.

The prejudice which exists here against college men in politics evidently has no place in public life in England. Indeed, it is very doubtful whether an uneducated man could maintain in the legislature any significance in the legislative affairs of England, even supposing such a place that he could obtain such a place. Every one of the chief members of the new English ministry bears a college degree, and the coincidence certainly proves that a B. A. or an M. A. or LL. D. is no bar to advancement in English public affairs. Salisbury is a graduate of the university. Balfour, his nephew, got his schooling at Eton and Cambridge; he is lord rector of St. Andrew's university and of Glasgow university and lord chancellor of the University of Edinburgh. Chamberlain, the beau and dandy of the ministry, acquired learning at the university college school in London, and he always said that his Greek and Latin did him no harm as a business man when he became a manufacturer in Birmingham; he is a fellow of the Royal society. The duke of Devonshire was made an M. A. at Trinity college, Cambridge, in 1822, and ten years later the same college bestowed upon him an LL. D.; he is now a chancellor of Christ Church college, Oxford, where he took successively the degrees B. A. and M. A. Goschen was an honor man of his college and won distinction as an economist and as a writer in his book: "The Theory of Foreign Exchanges." Almost every one of the subordinate members of Salisbury's cabinet has achieved a college degree, either before or since entering public life.—Illustrated American.

BRIDES ON THE BRIDGE.

They Wear Gray or Brown Dresses and Quiz the Policemen.

"Was there ever a bride that didn't insist upon having in her trousseau a gray or brown traveling dress?" asks the New York Press. If you want to answer this question to your own satisfaction walk across the Brooklyn bridge any day, especially in midsummer, and you will see brides by the score. You can tell them at once by their gray or brown dresses and their leisures. They stroll along with their husbands and look at the river, marvel at the statue of liberty and wonder whether Governor's island could resist an invader, all with a delightful freshness that is restful to the sight of a nervous metropolitan resident.

The policemen on the bridge become wonderfully soft and kind in summer, for they have many colloquies with timid, blushing brides, who believe the police know everything and are animated guide books and encyclopedias rolled into one. And the policemen like the job of telling all about the points of interest to be seen from the bridge, and almost wish that "he" and his bride had nothing to do save to be astonished on the Brooklyn bridge and store up memories to be turned loose on the community at Wynkoop or Spring City.

One way that brides can be distinguished from ordinary people is by their far-away look. They do not seem to see the people near by. They seem not to care what interest they themselves excite. They are simply ridiculously happy and New York is only a gigantic pleasure ground to them. The bridegroom? Oh, yes; he is there, of course, but he is only an attendant of the bride and he doesn't count for much on the Brooklyn bridge.

A Young Lawyer's Mistake.

There is a certain judge in one of the higher courts of this city who rather prides himself on his knowledge of the law. The other day he was compelled to listen to a case that had been appealed from one of the police courts. The young practitioner who appealed for the appellant was long and tedious; he brought in all of the elementary text books and quoted the fundamental propositions of law. At last the judge thought it was time to make an effort to close the argument. "Can we not assume," he said, pompously, "that the court knows a little about law itself?" "That's the very mistake I made in the other court," answered the young orator, "and I don't want to let it defeat me twice." Motion denied.—N. Y. Recorder.

A Monarch's Heart. Louis XVII's heart has been presented to a representative of Don Carlos, the senior male Bourbon, by M. Edouard Drumont, the Jew biter. He inherited it from his mother, who had it from M. Gabriel Pelletan, whose father, Dr. Pelletan, examined the body of the unfortunate abductor, and removed the heart from it. The doctor gave it, in 1823, to M. de Quelen, archbishop of Paris, to hand over to the royal family, taking a receipt for it. During the revolution of 1830, the palace was sacked, the vase containing the heart broken, and the heart itself lost, but M. Gabriel Pelletan looked for it and found it a sand heap in the palace yard.

COINING SMALL PIECES.

One of the most profitable occupations of the United States government is found in the coining of five-cent nickel pieces and one-cent bronze pieces. The cost of the bronze disks from which the cents are stamped is about twenty cents per pound, and a pound of them produces one dollar and forty-six cents. Nickel ready for coining costs thirty-two cents per pound and a pound produces four dollars and forty-three cents in five-cent pieces. The average profit of seigniorage on the coining of these minor coins for the past few years has been about six hundred and fifty thousand dollars. There is a profit, and a considerable one, in the coining of subsidiary silver coin, but owing to the fact that the United States owns several million ounces of bullion which was purchased at the prevailing high rate of 1890, the profit in that species of coining is not as great as it would be if the government should go into the open market to-day and buy silver at its market value for this purpose.

There is a big demand at the treasury department for bright new coins of all denominations. Almost every request that is received from banks in various sections of the country for subsidiary coins ask that bright new ones be sent. Every month the street car companies and banks of the capital city turn into the treasury large quantities of nickels, dimes and quarters, for which they receive in turn paper money of large denominations. Of course the money thus redeemed is not "new" and there is no demand for it. The result is that there are large quantities of such subsidiary coin in the vaults of the treasury, and it is impossible to get it into circulation.—Exchange.

NOT THE FIRST.

Why the Selection He Wanted to Play Was Inappropriate.

They were engaged. That was apparent from their actions. They were together all the time, and he tried to anticipate her every wish. They wandered on the beach together and they sat out on the porch in the moonlight earnestly talking about nothing. Moreover, he could play the flute and they would occasionally steal away from the crowd around the hotel and he would entertain her with solos.

But she was more worldly than she looked, and one night some of the other guests overheard a conversation that was unique, but not intended for their ears. "Shall I get my flute?" he asked. "Oh, yes, do," she replied. "Do you like to hear it?" he inquired, fishing for a compliment. "Indeed I do."

"What shall I play this time?" "Anything you wish." "Well," after a few moments spent in thought, "don't you think the 'First Kiss' waltz would be very appropriate?"

He wished to be very complimentary, but somehow he seemed to have made a mistake. "No, I don't," she replied, shortly. "Why not?" "You're about three years too late."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The directors of the North Carolina Railroad, at their meeting at Burlington last week released the road to the Southern for a term of 99 years. The Southern is to pay 6 1/2 per cent. for 6 years, and 7 per cent. for 93 years, to keep up the property and to pay all taxes. Only two of the directors, Hon. Lee S. Overman, of Salisbury, and E. S. Spruill, of Lenoir, opposed the lease. The action of the directors is being severely criticized.

The silver conference of prominent Democrats, in Washington City this week, had a large attendance of delegates from twenty States. Senator Thos. J. Sarvis was present and was placed on most of the prominent committees. He with Senators Turpie, Harris, Gov. Stone and Mr. Henrichsen constitute a professional national committee with power to select national committeemen for each State and perfect the plan of organization. The gold advocates may ridicule the silver men as much as they please and say there are no men of brains on side, but this meeting in Washington shows just the contrary to be true. The silver advocates are going to be heard and their presence will be felt in the next national convention.

We see it stated that the Raleigh News and Observer announces by authority that Senator Jarvis is not and will not be a candidate for Governor. The Senator being absent from home we cannot get his confirmation of this, but taking it for granted that the News and Observer would not have made the statement without some grounds for so doing, the REFLECTOR cheerfully adds a second to the suggestion that Col. J. S. Carr be the next Democratic nominee for Governor of North Carolina. Every reader knows just where the REFLECTOR stands in reference to Senator Jarvis, but next to him we had as live see Col. Carr occupying the Governor's chair as any one. He is an able man, a patriotic citizen, a philanthropist without a superior in the State, and would fill the position with credit and dignity.

We take the following from the Richmond Dispatch of Saturday: Hon. M. W. Ransom, of North Carolina, is no longer Minister from the United States to Mexico. That office was practically declared vacant to-day by a decision rendered by Mr. Holmes Conrad, Solicitor-General of the United States and Acting Attorney General. Mr. Ransom's incumbency was declared to be contrary to the Federal Constitution, and the Acting Attorney-General sustained the action of Mr. Thomas Hopkins, Auditor of the Treasury for the State Department, in declining to pass favorably upon Mr. Ransom's vouchers for salary and expenses.

The decision of the Acting Attorney-General was based on a question raised by Auditor Holcombe as to the legality of Mr. Ransom's appointment to the Mexican mission, in view of the existence of section 2, article 6, of the Constitution, which declares that "no Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time."

This provision apparently fitted the case of Mr. Ransom, for he was nominated by President Cleveland and confirmed by the Senate before his term of office as senator from North Carolina had expired, and during that term the salary of the Mexican mission had been increased $5,000 a year.

German Judges do not always clearly consider the difficulties which confront the officers of the law in carrying out their sentences. Lately a criminal convicted of killing two women and attempting the life of a third was twice sentenced to be hanged, once for each murder, and to fifteen years' imprisonment for the attempt at murder, and what is now puzzling the officers whose duty it is to execute the sentence is whether they will hang the man a couple times and then imprison him, or imprison him for fifteen years and then hang him a couple times.--Wilmington Star.

A SELF MADE MAN.

WHAT PLUCK AND PERSEVERANCE WILL DO.

Beginning at the Bottom He Ascends the Ladder of Business Success.

There is scarcely a reading person throughout our land who has not read something of the great merchant of New York, who a few years ago wandered penniless through the streets of that city but is now worth his millions. While people have wondered at this, many of them have never stopped to consider that almost every business community has its self-made man, who, though their success may not have compassed such extremes as the great New Yorker, yet their achievements are equally remarkable and creditable. Every man cannot do business in the metropolis, else the smaller cities and towns would be unknown, and there are men conducting business in country towns who, had circumstance given them the advantage of such a population as New York, there is no telling what they would have accomplished.

Greenville has some men of this kind, and the purpose of this article in the REFLECTOR is to call attention to what one of them has done right here in our midst.

SAM'L M. SCHULTZ.
In the year 1855 Sam'l M. Schultz was born in the city of Richmond, Va. When he was 8 years old his father died, and three years later young Schultz went to New York and engaged in such work as a boy of his age could perform. At the age of 15 he went to the State of Minnesota where he spent four years on a farm. Having relatives in Tarboro, Mr. Schultz, then 19 years old, came to North Carolina. He took a position with D. Lichtenstein, a wholesale grocer of Tarboro. He had occupied that position only six months when his talent and tact for business had so impressed his employer that Mr. Lichtenstein decided to open a branch store in Greenville and put Mr. Schultz in charge of it.

So in 1875 we find Mr. Schultz in Greenville with a stock of groceries and furniture. He opened in what was then the only brick store in town, and when new ones were built later his place was styled the Old Brick Store, under which name it became famous through Pitt and surrounding counties. He conducted this business successfully for Mr. Lichtenstein through seven years and then became a partner with him. Under the partnership thus formed the business was carried on for seven years longer, when Mr. Schultz purchased the interest of his partner and became sole owner in 1882.

Early this year Mr. Schultz purchased from Mr. D. E. House the brick store in which Mr. Wiley Brown kept. He had another story added to this building which with the large basement it contains makes it practically a three-story building. This building was equipped especially for a grocery and furniture business, and Mr. Schultz moved in on July 15th. His new quarters are admirably adapted to his large business and we are satisfied he will go on meeting the success that has crowned his efforts here during the past twenty years. He carries a complete stock and does a large business both wholesale and retail. He is also our largest shipper of country produce.

When Mr. Schultz first came to Greenville in 1875 the motto of his business was "quick sales and small profits." He made such a cut in the price of groceries as to produce almost a sensation at the time, and as a result people for miles around and even from other counties flocked to his store recognizing him as the leader of low prices. He has always enjoyed the confidence of the people and is held in highest esteem in business circles. He is a man of push and enterprise and possesses a knowledge of business seldom surpassed. He is a firm believer in advertising and has always been among the REFLECTOR's best patrons.

friends by the hundreds. He is connected with the benevolent organizations of the town, and has never turned his back on any appeal for charity or assistance that came to him. He has always taken an interest in matters that would advance the town, and is a liberal contributor to our enterprises. While a thorough business man, his make-up is unmarked by selfishness in any form.

Mr. Schultz was married to Miss Bluma Abrams, of Rocky Mount, and has a bright, interesting, happy family.

Greenville is proud of Sam'l M. Schultz and the record he has made in our town.

MORE BANKS NEEDED.

For Better Handling Our Growing Interests.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Aug. 17th, '95. Editor Daily Reflector.

Friday's sales of tobacco on this market, and the general sentiment of the town and county, indicates that Greenville is in need of better and more extended banking facilities. There is nothing that so tends to the success and prosperity of a community as easy and liberal banking facilities. There are in Pitt county men with means who are capable of organizing and operating a bank or banks that would add to the progress of the entire community, and prove a highly profitable business to the parties engaging in it.

The tobacco industry has done much towards the advancement of the interests of this section, and those who are the promoters and engaged in the business know the great need of additional banking facilities. There are those in the county of Pitt who could during the present cotton and tobacco season start a bank with capital stock sufficient to greatly facilitate and encourage this market to greater competition with other markets. There are other markets which claim an advantage over Greenville their banking conveniences and ability to carry the business of the town.

Should it be said that Greenville, the best cotton and tobacco market, shall be behind in the greatest lever power to business and prosperity? With such stockholders as W. G. Lang, R. L. Davis and T. L. Turnage, of Farmville, J. R. Daventon, R. R. Fleming and J. J. Nobles, of Pactolus; Procter Bros. J. J. Laughinghouse, R. T. Wilson and J. B. Galloway, of Grimesland; A. G. Cox, of Winterville; J. H. Cobb and J. R. Smith, of Ayden, and many others from the different sections of the county, combined with the strong, healthy, active business men of Greenville, a bank could be operated that would give to Greenville and Pitt county such an impetus and success in business as would make our county and town the peer of any in the State.

We have the natural advantages to make us great and prosperous. Let there be a call of the people and stock taken in shares of $100 each, and we will soon have a banking institution able to accommodate the needs of the people, and the progress of our business would be astounding. It will pay in any aspect it can be thought of. Shall we have it or shall we go on cramped in every feature that makes progress a certainty. Will not our enterprising men start in this matter? Sooner or later foreign capitalists will see the results, and then what?

This is the Case.

Editor Reflector.

Please allow me to write to you and tell you of a fair I was walking over the other day. When the farmer asked me to just look at his watermelons we hauled the largest to the house and weighed it and it tipped the balances at two and a half pounds. Then he wanted me to see in his garden. He gave me his largest cabbage for dinner, which measured nearly two inches across. They were the Late Drumhead and he says are the finest he has ever raised, and he had raised them for twenty years. He is a good Democrat and an excellent farmer, but I don't judge his neighbors by what I have told you of him. I also have a neighbor who has worn out several rabbit boxes catching tobacco worms.

State Alliance Officers.

The Tobacco Department.

Conducted by O. L. Joyner, Proprietor Eastern Tobacco Warehouse.

Mr. A. A. Andrews, of Durham, has come to locate on this market.

Fully half the crop has already been cured, if not two-thirds, and from best reports the cures have been fairly good.

The number of new tobacco buyers coming in shows that the Greenville market is going to be lively this season.

There were many pleased farmers on the breaks Friday. That is a result of selling tobacco on the Greenville market.

Mr. W. Z. Mitchell, of Bullock & Mitchell, Oxford, N. C., came down Friday and will spend a few days on the market.

Winston's decrease in the sales of leaf tobacco this year according to the President of the Winston Tobacco Association is 1,348,108 pounds.

Mr. G. P. Fleming, of Clarksville, Va., came in Wednesday night and will locate on this market. He is a very extensive buyer and we are told.

J. N. Gorman & Co., continue to add improvements to their large prize house. It is the best equipped house here for handling tobacco.

Mrs. Geo. Thomas, of Roxboro, and W. L. Ferrell, of Durham, came in on Wednesday's train. We learn that Mr. Ferrell will locate on this market.

The most rapid selling of tobacco we have heard of was done by Mr. B. T. Bailey, auctioneer of the Eastern Warehouse, Friday. He sold 500 piles in just one hour and fifty minutes.

Mr. B. T. Bailey and wife came in Tuesday night from Clarksville, Va., and are stopping at the College. Mr. Bailey will auctioneer for the Eastern Warehouse this year.

The rains last week have seriously damaged tobacco standing on the hill, and yesterday we noticed in several fields tobacco firing up and getting diseased from bottom to top.

We learn that several tobacco barns were burned last week. Mr. J. W. Allen lost one, and we learn that it was very good tobacco. It requires very careful hands to work around a tobacco barn when the tobacco is in process of curing.

Mr. T. B. Hodges, of Beaufort, was up last week with a load of burnt tobacco. He says he has cured or will have cured this week thirty-five bars this year. He is satisfied with his cures and says the most of it is very bright. He lost a bara Saturday morning by fire.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has brought suit against the American Tobacco Company to recover license fees for doing business in that State, for the year commencing July 1st, 1895. The defense claims that if the legislature of Pennsylvania has passed any laws subjecting them to a fee for license that it is unconstitutional in that it conflicts with the Inter State Commerce Law.

The Liggitt & Myers Tobacco Co., the largest plug manufacturer in establishment in the world, The Drummond Tobacco Co., and the National Cigarette & Tobacco Co., have been in consultation in New York to adopt measures to head off The American Tobacco Co., says the Danville Journal. The war against The American Tobacco Company seems to be waging on all sides. The New Eng. Grocers Association some time ago refused to handle its goods any more and now the New York State Wholesale Grocers Association have joined hands with the New England.

The cut throat competition that has been going on between The American Tobacco Co. and the plug manufacturers in the West we are afraid will result in good to no one. Tobacco that a short while ago sold for 30cts by The American Tobacco Co. and a similar brand for the same money by The Drummond Tobacco Co. is now on the markets at 24 and 25c. Whenever one drops the other goes him one better and now they are selling their tobacco much below the cost of manufacturing it. What will be the result? They can't continue at this rate very long and if they keep the price as it is at present they will be compelled to get their raw goods cheaper. We hope these matters will be adjusted satisfactorily, and very soon, because there is no health in such spiteful competition as this and as a result of it innocent parties will be made to suffer.

WHAT WILL THE CROP BE?

The Popular Estimate at New Orleans is 7,500,000 Bales—Planters Out of Debt Will Not Run Their Cotton Market.

"The world's visible supply of American cotton on first prox. will be about 550,000 larger than September 1st last year, and yet the excess in the crop over last year is 2,251,000, thus proving the large consumption of it. The question of supply, so far as the next crop is concerned, is now the most important factor in the cotton market (as usual, at this time), inasmuch as we are on the eve of the marketing of it, and estimates of its size, are from 7,000,000 to 9,000,000. The popular estimates at New Orleans, where the people are in touch with the producer, and more familiar with crop conditions of the Gulf States and Southwest (where the greater portion of the crop is raised) are about 7,500,000 or 2-250,000 less than that of the current season. The crop of four years ago was 9,035,000, and the following year 6,700,000 and again, the crop of this year will exceed that of last year by 2,200,000, thus establishing a precedent for assuming a crop next season two and one quarter millions less than the present one. From September 1st to 28th, last year there came into sight, in round figures, 608,000 bales, and for the five weeks following, to November 23, 2,301,000 or 2,909,000 for the first sixty three days of the cotton season of 1894-'95. The average movement in September during the last fifteen years (including this season) was 577,933, and for October, 1,541,333 against 608,000 and 2,301,000, respectively, last year. The crops during that period ranged from 5,435,000 to 9,750,000. It is fair to estimate on account of the lateness of this crop, while last year it was early, that the movement in September will not exceed 400,000 bales, or 200,000 less than last year, and for the five weeks, to November 2nd, it is reasonable to suppose the movement will not exceed 1,700,000 or 2,109,000, as the probable movement for the two months, against 2,909,000 same period last year, while the average for September and October during the last fifteen years was 2,119,000. That there should not be a further loss of 1,000,000, at least, during the remaining ten months of the season, no one who investigates the matter closely will have a reasonable doubt about, we believe. As the loss in the movement, it is beginning to be felt, will show itself decidedly by the middle of September, or earlier, it is probable the spinning world will buy more freely, in anticipation of those expectations, and that higher prices will be in order."

THEATRICALS AT WILLIAMSTON
Thursday evening, August 15 the age, youth and beauty of Williamston assembled in the spacious and artistic parlors of Col. Wilson G. Lamb to witness a number of tableaux scenes that were original and interesting, beautiful and attractive, profitable and inspiring.

All the beauty and poetical inspiration that music, art and sculpture lends to an enchanted eye was presented in pantomimic grandeur. All the sentimentalism of "Idle Lore" the vicissitudes and marvelous development of cupid's art and the "Bliss of a Perfect Wedded Life" were excellently displayed in Dame Nature's vernacular.
The "Four Seasons" with their varied and ever changing hues were presented in living pictures that were indicative of the continued round of happiness, peace and joy and the whole intermingled with dread sorrow.
Nor were the tragedians unconscious that their audience possessed a faculty for the ludicrous, thus they interpolated the exercises with wit and humor to check the progress of a pathetic tear, and the twentieth century woman was alive and demanded all her rights, while the husband stooped in grace over the washtub in hated animosity.
"Miss Della Lamb's rendition of "The Flower Girl" touched the sympathies of the entire audience which gave vent to added applause and called forth again and again the eloquent selection "How Old Men counted the eggs."
Miss Della displayed great proficiency in that the rarest and noblest of the fine arts.
The comedy, "Error," entitled "Christian Anthems" was so well rendered that Misses Virginia and Della Lamb, Miss Moore, Messrs. Haughton and Herrick merit especial mention for their ability in the comedian's art.
This, with a number of vocal and instrumental selections by the male orchestra and "au revoir but not good bye" by those who participated in this performance closed an eventful and long to be remembered evening set apart in honor of Elizabeth City and other visiting friends.

THE REFLECTOR

Local Reflections.

Dog days being over we can look for busy days. Still a greater reduction in summer goods at Lang's. How about some factories? Greenville must have them. Red cool umbrellas have been sadly missing this season. Bout the whites of eggs at a open window if the kitchen be hot and steamy. Add lemon juice to the water in which rice is boiled to keep the grains separate. The REFLECTOR force thanks Mr. Walter Leggett for two fine cantelopes and a watermelon. DOG STOLEN.—A white and liver colored setter, named "Shot," was stolen from me July 28th. Will give $5 reward for return of the dog. E. M. McGowan. Mr. W. C. Hines has contracted with Mr. J. A. Dupree to build a dwelling house for the latter in Forbestown. A gentleman remarked that if Greenville don't get some factories the fault will not be with the REFLECTOR. It is feared the heavy rains of the last few days will cause such overflows as to seriously damage low land crops. A few days ago lightning struck and set fire to the old plantation barn on the J. L. Ballard place, nine miles from town. It was entirely consumed. Two white men inflicted very cruel treatment to a balking horse as they were going out of town Thursday evening. The Planters Warehouse, Forbes & Moye proprietors want 1,500,000 pounds of tobacco and say they will have it if high prices will bring it in. They have started the season by showing prices to the top of the market, and if you want the best averages read their advertisement and act accordingly. More Facilities Needed. Our attention has been directed back to the communication in Saturday's REFLECTOR relative to more banking facilities being needed in Greenville, and the suggestion advanced that portions of it might be construed as a reflection upon the bank the town already has. In glancing over the communication when it was handed in we caught no such suggestion from it, and we are sure the author had no such spirit or intent in writing it. There is no question that the bank here has been a great help to the town. It has given every encouragement to the tobacco market and is amply able to meet every demand that comes from that quarter. But Greenville is growing, and the town needs and is going to have other enterprises than a tobacco market, and we take it that "X" seeing this and knowing the advantages of banks to a town thought it an opportune time to suggest the establishment of sufficient banking facilities as will meet the requirements of our general business interests and to act as a stimulus to new enterprises.

BEETHLE, N. C., Aug. 19th 1895. Mrs. E. R. King and children, of Goldsboro, are visiting the family of Capt. Jno. King. Mr. Floyd Hyman and sister, of Wilson, returned home Thursday after spending a few days around Falkland. Miss Lottie Britt, of Tarboro, is visiting Miss Lydia Newton. Mr. Redding Corbett, of Edgecombe is visiting his father, Mr. Ivy Corbett. Our farmers are very busy cutting and curing tobacco.

BETHLE, N. C., Aug. 19, 1895. Mr. J. E. Whitehurst lost a fine horse last week. Mr. M. O. Blount returned from Wilmington this morning. Messrs. W. G. Lamb and son, of Wakeham, spent last Wednesday in town. Rev. E. J. Edwards assisted by Rev. J. A. McKangham conducted a series of meetings in the Baptist church last week, closing Sunday morning. We are glad to learn that Mrs. M. G. Davenport, who has been sick for several weeks, is improving.

Master Andrew Moore, who has been on the sick list the past week is better and able to be out. The Conetoe and Bethel boys will play a game of ball here tomorrow evening. Mr. James Cherry, of Richmond, Va., is visiting his father, Mr. M. C. S. Cherry.

QUINEBY, N. C., July 19th, '95. Rev. C. W. Howard filled his regular appointment at Salem last Sunday. Miss Essie Brooks is visiting friends at Maple Cypress. Messrs. Robert Best and Ed Bonner, of South Creek, spent last Saturday with Dr. Best. Tobacco was badly damaged by rain last week. Mrs. George Moore, of Ga., is visiting in this county. Messrs. Bayard Nunn and Yaceo Noble, of Lenoir county, spent part of the past week visiting friends and relatives in the city. Five of Dr. Best's horses ran over a barbed wire fence last Thursday night and were badly cut. One of the best ones will not get well.

A Good Firm With Good Methods. While on the grounds for news we stopped for a chat with Mr. J. G. Moye. He said "You can tell the people that J. B. Cherry & Co. are at the old stand selling goods cheaper than ever." Speaking about advertising and its benefits, Mr. Moye remarked further: "We will have to make a change in our advertisement in the weekly REFLECTOR by next issue, as we have almost made a clean sweep of our fruit jars, lanterns, thermometers and tobacco knives. And we had no reason cases of fruit jars, too, with a correspondingly large supply of the other goods." This reliable firm believes in the use of printer's ink, and it is a fact that they never print a word in an advertisement but what an examination of their stock will show you is true.

Mr. James Galloway, one of the best men of the county, died at his home near Grimesland at an early hour this morning. Mr. Galloway was 77 years old and had been in poor health for some time. He leaves a wife and eight children. The funeral was held on Monday morning at 10 o'clock and was attended by many friends and kindred.

Miss Maggie Lee Bailey, daughter of Mr. J. T. Bailey, of Clarksville, Va., has just five weeks old and her many friends are sending congratulations to the happy parents.

THESE SQUIBS

Just Give You a Gist of the News. R. Hyman, Photographer, offers three prizes for tobacco. See notice. J. B. Cherry & Co. in their new advertisement to-day call attention to their various lines of goods. Isaac Amey, a colored man who worked on the log train, got his leg broke at the ankle, Friday afternoon, by a log rolling on him. He was brought to Greenville and given proper attention. Be sure that you read the advertisement of J. O. Proctor & Bro., of Grimesland. They will carry a splendid stock this season and sell at bottom prices. There were only four marriage licenses issued in this county for the first seventeen days of August. Registrar of Deeds King's explanation of the small number was that it has been too warm for them. Mr. S. M. Daniel was given a preliminary hearing before Justice J. J. Perkins, this afternoon, under a warrant for slander and was bound over to Superior Court in a bond of $900. Wilkinson Female Institute and Tarboro Male Academy are both advertised in this issue. These are excellent schools and thorough in their work. The REFLECTOR is in receipt of a letter from Prof. Z. D. McWhorter, late of Bethel, stating that he and his family had arrived safely at their new home in Collinsville, Ala. We are glad to learn that he has bright prospects for a good school there. He is among the best of teachers and Pitt county regretted to lose him. Homicide in Greene. Information has reached here of a homicide that occurred in Greene county a few days ago, though particulars are very meager. All that our informant could tell us was that a young man named John Tarugo had killed another man who came from up the country to cure tobacco. The way he heard the particulars was that the two men were at a tobacco barn together and had a gun, that one of them was attempting to take the gun from the other when it accidentally discharged killing the up country man.

Falkland Items. FALKLAND, N. C., Aug. 19th '95. Mrs. E. R. King and children, of Goldsboro, are visiting the family of Capt. Jno. King. Mr. Floyd Hyman and sister, of Wilson, returned home Thursday after spending a few days around Falkland. Miss Lottie Britt, of Tarboro, is visiting Miss Lydia Newton. Mr. Redding Corbett, of Edgecombe is visiting his father, Mr. Ivy Corbett. Our farmers are very busy cutting and curing tobacco.

BETHLE, N. C., Aug. 19, 1895. Mr. J. E. Whitehurst lost a fine horse last week. Mr. M. O. Blount returned from Wilmington this morning. Messrs. W. G. Lamb and son, of Wakeham, spent last Wednesday in town. Rev. E. J. Edwards assisted by Rev. J. A. McKangham conducted a series of meetings in the Baptist church last week, closing Sunday morning. We are glad to learn that Mrs. M. G. Davenport, who has been sick for several weeks, is improving.

Master Andrew Moore, who has been on the sick list the past week is better and able to be out. The Conetoe and Bethel boys will play a game of ball here tomorrow evening. Mr. James Cherry, of Richmond, Va., is visiting his father, Mr. M. C. S. Cherry.

QUINEBY, N. C., July 19th, '95. Rev. C. W. Howard filled his regular appointment at Salem last Sunday. Miss Essie Brooks is visiting friends at Maple Cypress. Messrs. Robert Best and Ed Bonner, of South Creek, spent last Saturday with Dr. Best. Tobacco was badly damaged by rain last week. Mrs. George Moore, of Ga., is visiting in this county. Messrs. Bayard Nunn and Yaceo Noble, of Lenoir county, spent part of the past week visiting friends and relatives in the city. Five of Dr. Best's horses ran over a barbed wire fence last Thursday night and were badly cut. One of the best ones will not get well.

A Good Firm With Good Methods. While on the grounds for news we stopped for a chat with Mr. J. G. Moye. He said "You can tell the people that J. B. Cherry & Co. are at the old stand selling goods cheaper than ever." Speaking about advertising and its benefits, Mr. Moye remarked further: "We will have to make a change in our advertisement in the weekly REFLECTOR by next issue, as we have almost made a clean sweep of our fruit jars, lanterns, thermometers and tobacco knives. And we had no reason cases of fruit jars, too, with a correspondingly large supply of the other goods." This reliable firm believes in the use of printer's ink, and it is a fact that they never print a word in an advertisement but what an examination of their stock will show you is true.

Mr. James Galloway, one of the best men of the county, died at his home near Grimesland at an early hour this morning. Mr. Galloway was 77 years old and had been in poor health for some time. He leaves a wife and eight children. The funeral was held on Monday morning at 10 o'clock and was attended by many friends and kindred.

Miss Maggie Lee Bailey, daughter of Mr. J. T. Bailey, of Clarksville, Va., has just five weeks old and her many friends are sending congratulations to the happy parents.

The Greenville tobacco market went a humming Friday with one of the largest breaks in the history of the market. At an early hour wagons and carts full of the weed began coming in and they were still arriving when the sales started, swelling the aggregate on the four warehouse floors to nearly 60,000 pounds. The Greenville Warehouse started the ball on the first sale with 7,900 pounds. "Parson" Evans was in one of his finest humors and fairly shot in high prices on the boys, making every seller at his house happy. The old Greenville is a hummer. The Star came in for second sale with 10,000 pounds, and Capt. Pace's bail pate glistened like silver as it bobbed up and down over the piles. Prices kept a whooping up and Pat Gorman would cause no little fun when he would whistle and yell "come down from there!" causing the speculators to stretch their necks towards the roof to see who he was calling down. The Planters pulled off the third sale with 15,000 pounds. Ola Forbes was in all his glory and cried himself hoarse making the boys run 'em up. But he got there in great shape and every farmer smiled with joy over his prices. The Eastern rounded up with the last and best sale, having the enormous break of 25,000 pounds—the largest by 2,000 pounds that has ever been on any single floor here. "Old Man Gus" was strictly in it up to his neck, and Olthos Joyner hardly got a time to shake the floods of perspiration off his aburers locks while he shoveled the buyers on and made them do some fancy bidding. It was an all-around fine break. The tobacco was here and the buyers almost tumbled over each other after the bright piles. The high prices on every floor was the subject of general remark. It goes without saying that Greenville is the tobacco market of Eastern North Carolina. The farmers are finding this out and they will bring their tobacco where they can get good prices. You just can't keep Greenville down.

Confederate Reunion. The officers of Bryan Grimes Camp of Pitt county Confederate Veterans have handed the REFLECTOR the following names which compose the dinner committee for the reunion and picnic to be held in the College grove, near Greenville, on September 5th. It is expected of this committee that they all invite Confederate Veterans in their respective townships to be present, and that they will also solicit baskets of provisions for the dinner. Beaver Dam—Ruel Willoughby, chief, J. F. Allen. Belvoir—Jesse Bullock and his brother. Bethel—F. L. Brown, M. A. James. Carolina—Guilford Moore, W. H. Gurganus. Chicod—W. C. McGowan, W. W. Tucker. Contentnea—John Pierce, Biggs, Harrington. Falkland—Elbert Forbes, J. S. Harris. Farmville—Donald Horton, W. H. Wilkinson. Greenville—A. C. Nobles, Elihu Briley. Pactolus—E. P. Daniel, T. H. Langley. Swift Creek—John H. Cherry, Bryan Buck. The Committee previously appointed to get a speaker for the occasion expect to be able to report in a few days that they have secured one of the ablest men in the State. This reunion will be a great day for the old soldiers of Pitt. Let them all turn out.

One Boy Shoots Another. Two small boys, one a son of Mr. W. G. Webb and the other a son of Mr. Tom Hodges, in Belvoir township, were out with a gun Wednesday afternoon. Young Webb had the gun, and while trying to shoot a bird accidentally discharged it, the load striking the Hodges boy in the thigh making a bad flesh wound. Guns are dangerous things for little boys to have. Picnic. Invitations are being sent out for a picnic to be held in Mr. Henry Brown's grove, near Pleasant church, on next Friday. 22nd. The managers are J. E. Nobles, J. F. Davenport, W. S. Briley, B. A. Fleming, J. J. Spain, R. D. Harrington, W. J. Briley, M. T. Spior, W. S. Atkins, B. W. Ward. Floor managers, J. B. Fleming and J. E. Fleming. It is going to be a grand time. Go, and take a full basket.

Meeting of Physicians. There will be a meeting of the Physicians of Pitt county at the Court House in Greenville on the first Monday in September, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of electing a Superintendent of Health, and other business.

Bailey, of Clarksville, Va., she is just five weeks old and her many friends are sending congratulations to the happy parents.

THE GOLDEN WEDGE WAS HERE TO-DAY, AND EVERYBODY WAS HAPPY.

From the Weekly we learn that another attempt has been made to rob Mr. Joel Gardner, of Belvoir township, one of the wealthiest citizens of the county. It is known that Mr. Gardner keeps large sums of money about his house, and robbers make effort to get it. A few years ago one of his barns was set on fire and while his family were trying to put out the fire the robbers were in his house and took a trunk that had considerable money in it out of a window. About $3,000 of what was stolen at that time was recovered, but much more was lost.

After that robbery Mr. Gardner procured a safe of the old lock and key pattern and has since been keeping his money in that, and kept the key in a trunk. A few days ago while the family were occupied in the kitchen, a negro named Ned Walston, who worked with Mr. Gardner and knew where his money was, entered the house, got the key from the bottom of the trunk, opened the safe and was in the act of taking out money when Miss Alice Gardner walked in the room. The negro opened a window and escaped, leaving a bag of gold and a large roll of bills on the floor. It is not known whether he got away with any money. The negro was tracked for three miles. Mr. Gardner has offered $100 reward for his capture and delivery to the Sheriff.

NEARLY 60,000 POUNDS.

THE GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET WENT A HUMMING FRIDAY WITH ONE OF THE LARGEST BREAKS IN THE HISTORY OF THE MARKET. AT AN EARLY HOUR WAGONS AND CARTS FULL OF THE WEED BEGAN COMING IN AND THEY WERE STILL ARRIVING WHEN THE SALES STARTED, SWELLING THE AGGREGATE ON THE FOUR WAREHOUSE FLOORS TO NEARLY 60,000 POUNDS. THE GREENVILLE WAREHOUSE STARTED THE BALL ON THE FIRST SALE WITH 7,900 POUNDS. "PARSON" EVANS WAS IN ONE OF HIS FINEST HUMORS AND FAIRLY SHOT IN HIGH PRICES ON THE BOYS, MAKING EVERY SELLER AT HIS HOUSE HAPPY. THE OLD GREENVILLE IS A HUMMER. THE STAR CAME IN FOR SECOND SALE WITH 10,000 POUNDS, AND CAPT. PACE'S BAIL PATE GLISTENED LIKE SILVER AS IT BOBBED UP AND DOWN OVER THE PILES. PRICES KEPT A WHOOPING UP AND PAT GORMAN WOULD CAUSE NO LITTLE FUN WHEN HE WOULD WHISTLE AND YELL "COME DOWN FROM THERE!" CAUSING THE SPECULATORS TO STRETCH THEIR NECKS TOWARDS THE ROOF TO SEE WHO HE WAS CALLING DOWN. THE PLANTERS PULLED OFF THE THIRD SALE WITH 15,000 POUNDS. OLA FORBES WAS IN ALL HIS GLORY AND CRIED HIMSELF HOARSE MAKING THE BOYS RUN 'EM UP. BUT HE GOT THERE IN GREAT SHAPE AND EVERY FARMER SMILED WITH JOY OVER HIS PRICES. THE EASTERN ROUNDED UP WITH THE LAST AND BEST SALE, HAVING THE ENORMOUS BREAK OF 25,000 POUNDS—THE LARGEST BY 2,000 POUNDS THAT HAS EVER BEEN ON ANY SINGLE FLOOR HERE. "OLD MAN GUS" WAS STRICTLY IN IT UP TO HIS NECK, AND OLTHOS JOYNER HARDLY GOT A TIME TO SHAKE THE FLOODS OF PERSPIRATION OFF HIS ABURERS LOCKS WHILE HE SHOVED THE BUYERS ON AND MADE THEM DO SOME FANCY BIDDING. IT WAS AN ALL-AROUND FINE BREAK. THE TOBACCO WAS HERE AND THE BUYERS ALMOST TUMBLED OVER EACH OTHER AFTER THE BRIGHT PILES. THE HIGH PRICES ON EVERY FLOOR WAS THE SUBJECT OF GENERAL REMARK. IT GOES WITHOUT SAYING THAT GREENVILLE IS THE TOBACCO MARKET OF EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA. THE FARMERS ARE FINDING THIS OUT AND THEY WILL BRING THEIR TOBACCO WHERE THEY CAN GET GOOD PRICES. YOU JUST CAN'T KEEP GREENVILLE DOWN.

MORE ROBBERY.

AT SCOTLAND NECK. The picnic at Scotland Neck was a success. There were Masons and Odd Fellows from Tarboro, Greenville, Hamilton and elsewhere, besides many who belonged to neither order. The weather was fine and the crowd was estimated from eight hundred to a thousand people. We never saw a more inviting place for a picnic than Capt. Kitchen's Grove, where the speakers stand with ample seats for the crowd, and a large table supplied with everything to please a hungry man had been prepared. The speakers invited for the occasion, we are told, were unavoidably absent, but Halifax county is no beggar for oratory. She has speakers of her own. Capt. W. H. Kitchen in his broad sweeping style had entertained us near an hour when dinner was announced. After we had all eaten and were filled, Judge Whitaker and Claude Kitchen both made short addresses which were well received by this social body. We cannot undertake to enumerate all the "private addresses," as they were outside the order. But to an observer it seemed that everything looked inviting and the chances were good. If good shade, free lemonade, good dinner, good speaking and pretty girls make a picnic, there was a picnic. It was our first visit to Scotland Neck, but we never saw cleverer people nor a better behaved crowd. We note with pride that in all that crowd there was no drunkenness. M. BLACK ROSES.

The Unique Production of a German Gardener.

We learn, on good authority, that a certain enterprising gardener has at last succeeded in producing a black rose—"as black as soot," as he proudly declares. Perhaps, it is needless to say that this persevering, but rather melancholy, person is a German. So far his achievement is unique, though green roses were obtained some time ago by a member of his fraternity. Science, we suppose, makes every experiment worth while, otherwise one would be tempted to question whether the result were worth the trouble taken, as a black rose certainly cannot, from a purely Philistine point of view, be considered as beautiful as a pink or yellow one. Moreover, the good man is a trifle behind the times, since the artificial flower makers succeeded in making us all thoroughly tired of black roses quite a twelve-month ago. It is to be hoped that the grass for unnaturally colored flowers will not spread, otherwise we shall see black lilies, like those in the mosaic pavement of Santa Maria de Fiori, in Florence, and what a misfortune that would be.—Lady.

Queer Pool Playing.

"There are many ways of playing pool, but the queerest way I ever saw the game played was at the Louisville hotel the other night," said a rounder. "He was a young man, and was the admired of every pool player in the room.

"He played with two cues, but never struck a ball with his cue. He held a cue in each hand, with the points touching. He picked his cue ball up with the cues and rolled it back into the groove formed by holding the cues near together.

"Then he took aim, and slanting his cues down let the cue ball shoot down the improvised groove. He rarely missed running from five to ten balls every time his turn to shoot came."—Louisville Courier.

THE CAMPAIGN FUND.

One prominent public man makes a confession that might well give all Appropriations De Facto into the Mouth of Many Another.

"How did I get into politics?" asked a prominent public man, repeating the question which, according to the Youth's Companion, an old friend had put to him. "I can tell you in a few words. It was by adapting myself to existing conditions. "I was young, ambitious and poor," continued the great man. "A nomination, which nobody seemed to want, since it involved what was apparently a hopeless fight for election, came in my way. "Having obtained it, I went to Mr. Blank"—mentioning a political leader—"and thanked him for his friendly services. He inquired if I had any money to use for campaign purposes. I told him I had none. After a moment's reflection he said that he would have to raise the money in his own way.

"He ran over rapidly a list of corporations which were dependent upon state legislation, and checked them off. It was too soon to strike this one again, for it had been heavily drawn upon during the previous year. Another could not be touched, for it had no favors to ask at the capital, and was temporarily out of politics. Another had been levied upon by both parties in the last presidential canvass, and could not be approached. There was, however, one corporation which would require protection from adverse legislation. Would ten thousand dollars be enough for election purposes? Very well, he would manage it.

"Within five days," continued the rising young statesman, "the boss sent me the money. I made a vigorous canvass and was elected. The money was used legitimately for hiring public halls, printing circulars and sending ballots to voters.

"Having got into politics, I made the most of my opportunity. I now have influential friends, and have no need to take financial aid from anybody. But that was the only method by which I could have forced an entry into public life.

This is a true story. While names, localities and political associations are suppressed, it has so many direct applications to a good many public men of both parties as to be justified in thinking that somebody has told it at their expense. It is a parable of the politics of the day, and illustrates the demoralizing effects of campaign funds raised by what was virtually blackmail.

The candidate made his start in public life through the willingness of a corporation to pay tribute to a political leader for a guarantee of immunity from legislation at the state capital. The "boss" sold public law in advance, and mortgaged the convictions of the incoming legislators. By the profits of that transaction, and through the services of a corruption broker, the rising young politician was enabled to pay his election expenses and to get into office.

These are among the worst evils of American politics to-day. Public conscience ought to be aroused against them. An immortal beginning in political life by a young man is a degradation, the basing effects of which years may never efface.

Money in Trifles.

Some one has said that more money has been made of ingenious trifles than of some of the most important inventions of the age. A great and expensive machine or article can be purchased by only a few trifles, the little trifles, novelties, the little trifles, the needles and pins and things, everybody wants, is able to buy, and must have. Even such an insignificant article as a toothpick suggests the investment of a vast army of laborers. Some exceedingly fine inventions are used in the manufacture of these little splinters, and the money invested runs well up into millions. Toothpicks are used for many purposes besides the one that gives them their name. They are invaluable to the florist, and have their place in a great many household performances. As little skewers for boiled and stuffed eggs, and as splints to tie up broken plants, they are useful, indeed, indispensable, nothing seeming to answer so well. The day of small things is far from being despised, and there are companies representing large capital that are constantly on the lookout for trifling inventions from which they may receive large sums either by purchase and manufacture or by putting them on the market and paying royalty. The latter item, however small, foots up a very considerable aggregate to the inventor, and there are hundreds of people in this country who are living handsomely on the regular income derived from some of these children of their brains.—N. Y. Ledger.

Is a Rabbit a Coward?

Cowardice depends somewhat upon the way things are looked at. The Atlantic Constitution tells a little story illustrating this:

"A rabbit," said the young hunter, "is the most awful coward that there is in the world. My! how he does run from a hunter!"

"So you think the rabbit is a coward, eh?"

"Why, of course."

"Well, let us suppose a little. Suppose you were about six or eight inches tall."

"Well?"

"And had good, strong, swift legs."

"Yes."

"And didn't have any gun, and a great, big fellow came after you, who did have one. What would you do?"

"What should I do? I should streak it like lightning."

"I think you would. And I think, also, that you would have your own ideas as to who was the coward."—Chicago Times-Herald.

A NEW IDEA.

How the Time of Day May Be Told in the Dark.

"What time is it?" "I think I can tell you without looking up."

He drew out his watch, says the Boston Traveler, and held it up close to his ear and slowly turned the stem-winder.

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight," he counted, and then he said: "That means seventy-two minutes. I wound the watch up tightly at three o'clock, and so the time ought to be about twelve minutes past four. Let us see how wrong I came to it. Well, it's four fifteen. I was only six minutes off."

The other was regarding him with amazement. "Do you mean to say that you can tell the time of day by winding up your watch?"

"Not exactly; but I can come very near it; usually within ten minutes; and it's quite simple, too. All you have to do is to know how long one tick in winding up will run the watch. I'll explain to you: Suppose that at three o'clock I wind up my watch until it is tight, as we say—that is, until another turn of the winder would break a spring. At five o'clock I wind the watch again, and find that the winder clicks twelve times before the watch is wound up to the place where it sticks. Then you know that twelve clicks will run the watch one hundred and twenty minutes, and that one click represents ten minutes of time."

"What good is it to know that?"

"Well, suppose you go to bed at eleven o'clock to-night, and on retiring wind up your watch and put it under your pillow. During the night you wake up and wonder what time it is. You don't want to get up and light the gas. All you have to do is to pull that watch out from under your pillow, hold it to your ear and count the ticks as you wind. If you count eighteen, then you know that the watch has run down one hundred and eighty minutes since eleven o'clock, and that the time must be very near two o'clock. To be sure, you can't tell the exact time, but you can generally get within a quarter of an hour of it."

"Wouldn't the same rule hold good for a clock or watch which is wound for a key?"

"I dare say it would, but I have never tried it on anything except a stem-winding watch. I know a blind man who always tells time by winding his watch and counting the ticks. His sense of touch is quite delicate, and he can wind up his watch three or four times a day and then calculate within ten minutes of the correct time."

LINEN FOR LINERS.

No Laundries on Board the Great Transatlantic Steamers.

There are no laundries on board ship; they take up too much room. So the chief steward lays in thousands of pillow-slips, sheets and towels.

These come on board, says the Philadelphia Record, tied up in bales of a dozen each, and are stored in the linen locker, a cubbyhole of a place on the main deck. The ventilator pipes from the engine room run through it and keep it hot.

There is no danger of linen getting mildewed there. The linen which has been used is thrown into another room, provided with the same atmosphere, and is so kept thoroughly dry.

Where there are clean napkins every day, frequent changes of steamer-tiffen and a vast supply of replenishing of towel racks, the demands upon the locker are very extensive.

A liner like the New York puts to sea with about nine thousand serviettes, ten thousand towels, six thousand pillow-slips and about one thousand tablecloths. Most of these find their way to the soiled linen locker in the course of the voyage. When the vessel arrives they are carted off to a laundry.

The Jersey Mosquito.

In the town of Quantuck, N. J., which lies in a low, hot, swampy, surrounded by swampy land, the mosquitoes have been so thick this season that, when the breeze is gentle, they form a thick black cloud over the town. On several occasions of late this has been so noticeable that the hens have gone to roost at noon, under the impression that it was already nightfall, and without performing their daily task of egg-laying. As the poultry business is a leading one in the town, fanciers suffered for a time considerable financial loss, until the device was hit upon of sending up small dynamite cartridges among the thickest swarms of mosquitoes, by means of a kite flown by a wire, which, at the right moment, conveys a current of electricity to discharge the dynamite. After a few discharges the air is so cleared that the hens can resume operations, and the gory remains of the dead mosquitoes, falling to the ground, are plowed as fertilizers.—N. Y. Recorder.

CYCLE SLANG.

Much inelegant English Due to the Wheel Craze.

What a lot of slang verbiage has grown up out of the bicycle. The youth who talks boastfully and erratically is called down by the apt suggestion of the bicyclist: "Young man with the remark: 'Freddie, your lamps out.' The 'road-hog' is borrowed from old New England nomenclature, but 'scorching' is of the bicycle's own lingo, and means an undue haste in driving a wheel. The exhausted cyclist on the road and needing refreshments, suggests: 'Let's stop here and pump up,' referring to the fagged condition of the pneumatic. Bicycle girls are 'bloomers,' and 'here comes my bloomer' is equivalent to 'here comes my girl.' A policeman is 'the header,' and the cyclistometer is 'the ticker.' 'He has lost his tire' is equivalent to 'having tacks in your head' or 'being off your trolley,' and no doubt there is plenty more of the same.—Lewiston Journal.

FORGOTTEN FORTUNES.

Banks Holding Vast Piles of Unclaimed Wealth.

An Englishman Deposits Fifty Thousand Dollars and Immediately Forgets All About It. Other Cases of Like Nature.

To say that there must be at least $2,500,000 lying in London banks which has been forgotten, is no exaggeration at all, said a bank manager to a representative of Tit-Bits the other day. If an investigation could be made, he went on, it would most likely be found that this unclaimed sum was nearer $5,000,000 than $2,500,000.

A most curious case was that of a wealthy merchant in Leadhall street, whose forgetfulness was byword. Ten years ago he placed $50,000 in his bank, to his private account, and immediately forgot all about it, having neglected to fill up the counterfoil in his deposit book. A few months ago, while tearing up some old papers, he came across a penciled note bearing the words: "Bank $50,000," and a date which he was unable to decipher. He made inquiries into the matter, and found that he was wealthier than he thought by $50,000, with interest. How he overlooked the amount it is difficult to say. He is still noted for the taphazard way in which he keeps his private accounts.

The old woman who forgot the existence of a legacy of $1,000 a year from her master was another instance of carelessness. Here the old lady, a one-time housekeeper, could hardly read or write. When she received a letter from her late master's solicitors to the effect that the legacy would be paid quarterly on application at a city bank the lucky woman for a fortnight was none the wiser.

The important look of the seal on the envelope and the fine note paper caused her to make inquiries, and a friendly neighbor, after much effort, spelled through the letter. "The old lady, who was in poor circumstances, could not believe the good news, and so, without going to the bank, she decided that the letter was a hoax.

Five years passed away, when her only son—a soldier—returned from India. One day he accidentally came across the letter, read it, and asked his old mother the particulars. But her mind was a complete blank on the subject. However, the son made inquiries, and the result was that his mother and he found $5,000 awaiting them at the bank and the promise of $1,000 a year during the forgotten old lady's lifetime.

Old misers who have amassed small fortunes have more than once destroyed their bank books and all evidence showing they were possessed of money, and in this way have been known to come once more to the notice of $40,000. None of the relatives of the old man knew of his fortune and such things are never the concern of the bank.

The money was kept in the depositor's name for five years, when it passed into the bank's own account. No doubt, if a claimant came forward, they would give the money up; but they would probably fiercely fight the case if the evidence on the other side showed any weak loopholes.

At present there is money in different banks in the metropolis which never will be claimed, for naturally a bank is not inclined to go to great trouble in finding right owners if they fail to come forward of their own account.

Glass Bricks.

Hollow bricks of glass are being used in the construction of the walls of winter gardens and plant houses. They are so set that the hollows are filled with rarefied air, which is a non-conductor of heat. The bricks are laid in a cement that unites the entire mass. It is thought to be possible to use bricks without any support, and experiments are being made on roofing with this glass, which, put up in arch shape, will, it is hoped, be sufficiently strong to answer all purposes without the wood or iron frames ordinarily used in such buildings. Houses of this material are said to be heated at much less cost than those made after other methods. The light comes through the bricks, and extra windows are not necessary. The system is thought to combine great strength and economy, and if it is a success will almost revolutionize the building of plant houses.

China's Trade Statistics.

China's foreign trade in 1894 amounted to 290,277,433 taels, as compared with 267,965,180 taels in 1893, and 237,897,723 in 1892, according to the recently published reports of the Chinese maritime customs, the exchange value of a tael varying from 70¢ cents to 84¢ cents during the year. The imports were 162,102,911 taels, and the exports 128,104,522. A smaller quantity of opium was imported than in any of the 20 last years, but its value was higher. The chief causes of disturbance, apart from the change in the value of silver, were the serious drought in the south during the spring and the plague in Hong Kong, the war with Japan having had no effect till this year. One hundred and thirty-three million taels of the trade was with Hong Kong, 44 with Great Britain direct, 26 with the United States, 25 with the rest of Europe, except Russia, 22 with India and 18 with Japan. Wool is becoming an important staple of export, while gold in bars ranked next to tea and silk. The government's revenue from customs was 22,523,600 taels.—Philadelphia Record.

A Seeming Inconsistency.

Some years since, Dr. —, now the popular president of a flourishing western college, was the pastor of a congregation in an eastern city. He was one day preaching with great earnestness and, in defining his position on the question at issue, said: "In the language of the immortal Luther, 'Here I stand; I cannot do otherwise, God help me.'"

He had not finished the familiar quotation when, owing to the fact that he was unconsciously on the very edge of the platform, he fell off and down a distance of about three feet.

He quickly picked himself up, and, on entering the pulpit again, he said: "God helping me I will not change my moral position, but I will take my stand just a trifle farther from the edge of the platform."
