One evening there was a convivial gathering of men from many different nations seated about a table in an open court of the Bauer Grunwald, a well known Venetian restaurant. The conversation, I believe, was in English, and the subject of Whistler's pastels was brought up by one of his enthusiatic American admirers. A Russian named Wolker was flippant and depreciating, ridiculing them as works of art, jeeringly saying that he was willing to bet that he could make half a dozen pastels as good as Whistler's, and, if they were mixed with his, nobody could tell mixed with his, nobody could tell mixed with his, nobody could tell is, "Give your best to get the best."

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one. Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Brilding In the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred agree, of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled. Altogether it is greedly to Altogether it is a credit to

Not, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the censtruction of this splendid edi-

Ddd Contest in the Early Days of Steam Fire Engines.

In what are sometimes called the haleyon days of the volunteer fire department of New York there was a prejudice against the use of steam power on fire engines. The New York freem still believed in the work of ready hands and proved their sincerity by challenging an Ohio inventor of a steam fire engine mandel Latta to a public trial of strength and excellence in the city hall park.
