LI HUNG CHANG and the Men Who Tried to Poison Him.

When Li Hung Chang was Chinese premier and was having a bitter feud with some of the more conservative members of the Tungshing-yamen he received as a present a magnificent cake which he had reason to suspect contained poison. He put the cake aside and set all his powerful machinery to work to find out who was at the bottom of the plot. The investigation was partly successful, the crime being traced to three men, of whom one at least was absolutely guilty. Li had the trio arrested and brought to his mansion. When they arrived they were ushered into his presence and were received in his courtliest manner. The cake was produced with the remark that policemen forbade his tasting it until the three generous donors had had an opportunity to enjoy its excellence. Li cut the cake, and one of his servants handed it to the smiling guests. Each took a piece and ate or pretended to eat it. One crumbled the pieces and let them fall upon the floor, but the other two ate calmly, without manifesting any emotion. Ten minutes and the two men began to show symptoms of suffering. Li smiled benignly and said to the man who had not eaten, "Your wisdom is so great that I am compelled to preserve your head as a souvenir to transcendental genius."

The man was removed and promptly despatched. To the other two the premier remarked: "The cake that you are eating is not the one you sent, but one which I had my cook imitate. The poison from which you are suffering exists only in your imagination. I know of no way to cure your present pain except by letting you share the same fate as your friend who has just left the room."

As they were led away the statesman said to his retinue: "It is a pity that a man who can eat a deadly corruptive poison with an unmovable countenance should so misapprehend the talent wherewith heaven has endowed him."

ICEBERGS.

How These Found in the North Atlantic Are Formed.

The distance covered by an iceberg of the north Atlantic from the time it is formed until it reaches the banks is fully 2,500 miles. It may have been afloat for a year, exposed to wide changes of temperature, battered by ice, tossed by waves and buffeted by winds, yet some of these sea monsters south of their starting point are nearly 200 feet in height and truly of majestic proportions, often 1,000 or more feet in length, while it is an established fact that so much more of the bulk is under water than is visible that the largest bergs may extend into the ocean to a depth of over half a mile.

Their enormous size when they become detached from the glaciers is proved by the observations of explorers along the Greenland coast. A few years ago a berg was measured as nearly as possible around the edges. This distance was about five miles. It had several peaks estimated to range from 200 to 300 feet high. Judging from its appearance, it was a solid mass that had separated in its entirety from the great ice field of Greenland.

As Arctic navigators who venture far north often see a score or more of great bergs in a day, the tremendous glacial activity in this region can be appreciated. The majority of these that drift to the Grand Banks come from Melville bay. Some of the distinct glaciers that terminate the Greenland ice cap in this section extend along a distance of fifty to sixty miles. Their thickness or height can only be estimated, but in places near the open sea it is believed to be several hundred feet.

Recent examinations of this coast show that during the short summer the formation of bergs in the bay is almost continuous. The glacial movement keeps pressing the ice forward until a thick stratum often projects many feet beyond that beneath. After the ice retreats the weight causes the tensile strength of the mass and it falls into the sea, and a berg is created.—Day Allen Wiley in Scientific American.

Those Elaborate Defenses.

"Would you shoot a man who has killed your comrade?"

"No," answered the peaceful citizen. "I'd rather take a chance on his personal opinion than to go before a jury with charges that might constitute a general public that he was right."

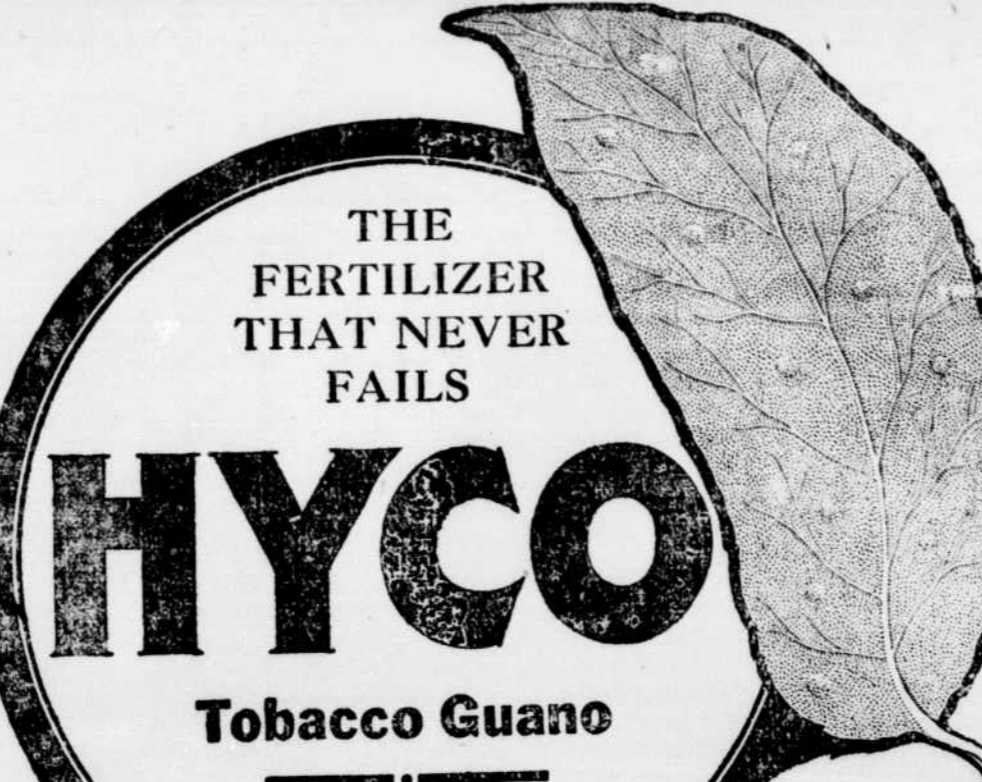

Washington Star.

Pretty Light.

"I'll have to ask you to pay in advance," remarked the hotel keeper. "Don't my luggage good enough security?"

"I fear it is a little too emotional," "Yes; easily moved."—London Mail.

THIS IS ADOPTED AS THE SLOGAN FOR GREENVILLE

Over 250 Suggestions Considered by the Committee
Mr. J. W. Brown Wins the Prize for The Best Suggestion.

Greenville, N. C., June 3, 1909.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE REFLECTOR:

We, the undersigned, selected by you to pass upon the proposed slogans for Greenville and to award to that person, who, in our opinion, suggested the most appropriate slogan, the Fountain Pen so generously offered by The REFLECTOR, beg leave to report as follows:

After two days' careful consideration of the more than 250 proposed slogans submitted, many of which in our opinion are most excellent, we have selected the following:

"OUR GREENVILLE, YOURS IF YOU COME."

The selection of the slogan from the great number submitted to your committee, we found no easy task. The one chosen by the committee, which was proposed by Mr. J. W. Brown, was selected not alone on account of the words forming the slogan, but also on account of the sentiment expressed by the words; which we, your committee, believe should be, and is, the spirit in which Greenville welcomes all persons.

SUNKEN SHIPS.

Wooden Wrecks Sometimes Rise to the Surface.

When a ship disappears beneath the waters it is by no means certain that it will never be seen again. It may rise after a few days or even a few hours and continue about for months, a constant menace to navigation. This, of course, applies only to wooden ships. When an iron ship goes down it stays down. In less than ten minutes after the crew had been taken off the schooner's stern rose in the air, and she made her final plunge. As she went down the deck blew up with a noise like thunder. Two months later she was still floating bottom up below Cape Hatteras, the coal and the rest of the ship's cargo. The explanation of her resurrection was a simple one. Her cargo had shifted forward when the boat tilted down with the surge of the water and the rolling of a rough sea. As she went down the coal and the rest of the ship's cargo had shifted forward when the boat tilted down with the surge of the water and the rolling of a rough sea. As she went down the coal and the rest of the ship's cargo had shifted forward when the boat tilted down with the surge of the water and the rolling of a rough sea.

THE EDITOR'S COMPENSATION.

The man who edits the average country newspaper cannot well avoid treading on somebody's toes continually, must expect hard work and little thanks; must expect to be called a coward because he does not "pitch into" everything that somebody thinks is wrong and a fool if he speaks out too plainly on public evils. He must expect to grind other people's axes, and turn the grindstone himself. Still, we think it is one of the noblest professions on earth, the one in which the earnest man can do the most good to his fellow man and in which an honorable man can wield much power for good.—EX.

THE SQUID'S HUES.

Why the Creature is Able to Change its Color.

One of the most interesting of the discoveries of science is the secret of the means whereby certain animals change color. The most familiar and celebrated example in this line is the lizard called the chameleon, but there are many other creatures both on land and in the sea that possess a similar power. Noteworthy among them is the common squid. If a specimen of this interesting kind of mollusk is fresh out of water, he has on a pale and watery hue, but when he is in the water and watched, his hues will change so constantly that literal waves of color seem to be passing over him from moment to moment. That this happens in response to impulses conveyed through the nervous system of the animal is manifest, for when it is touched with a finger on the table causing a rush of the color waves described.

The secret lies in the fact that immediately beneath the skin of the squid is a sort of network of small channels, in which are frequent larger spaces occupied by pigment cells. These cells are under direct control of the nervous system, which causes them to contract or expand. When they contract the color disappears, which is why the squid is called the chameleon, for when it is touched, it turns dead white, although its normal hue in life is reddish brown.

Even in death, however, the pigment cells beneath the skin of the squid may be distinguished by the size of the minute spots. In life these spots expand to the size of a big pinhead and run together, thus producing the brown tint. It is substantially the same phenomenon that is accountable for the rapid changes in color observed in the chameleon in many fishes and in various other creatures—changes which are evidently for the purpose of disguise, enabling the animal to escape observation by assuming a likeness to its surroundings. Thus the common sea inkfish with its coloration whatever kind of bottom it may be resting upon, whether pebbles, sand or what not.

The pigment cells referred to are called "chromatophores," and sometimes they contain two or more different kinds of pigments, some of which disappear, while others persist, the result being that, as in the case of the chameleon, a considerable range of colors may be displayed.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Fair Exchange.

At a gathering of medical men one of the number was a noted practitioner who is almost as well known for his shabby attire as he is for his skill as a physician.

When the gathering was about to disperse the doctor in question could not find his hat. Instead, to his great surprise, he found a nice new glossy silk hat, which happened to fit him as though made to his order. When he got home he exhibited his headpiece with considerable pride.

The next day, however, a fellow doctor turned up to claim the hat. "Permit me, my dear doctor," said the second doctor, "to apologize for my little trick, which grew out of the fact that yesterday you carried an umbrella, while I had none. It occurred to me that, while my new silk hat would be ruined by the rain, yours would not. Accordingly I took the liberty of leaving mine in place of yours. Many thanks."—Harper's Weekly.

Not Like a Tax Receipt.

Accustomed to have the political boss of his ward provide him with a tax receipt, an organization follower went to the same boss with a demand for a favor. "Will you get me a marriage license?" he asked. "That I can't do," explained the politician, "because you have to appear in person when you get a marriage license." This answer to the politician seemed evasive, and he demanded to know: "How is it that you can get me a tax receipt every time there is an election? The marriage license costs just the same." To this further inquiry the politician gave a long explanation, but it was not quite satisfactory to the humble worker in the cause of organization.—Philadelphia Record.

WAITED FOR DAWN.

Four Poker Hands That Were Held All Night in the Dark.

A soldier told this poker story, which incidentally accentuates the distrust with which poker players regard one another when friendly "play-cases" are in the hands of a man in the hand he holds.

One night after taps four men gathered in a tent to do away with their pay. It was the night of pay day, and there was no convenient place in which to spend their money except in the hands of the men.

The game had gone on with varying fortune here and there. It was after midnight. The sentry was a chum and had been told not to see the light in the tent. At last a jacket was on the board and had been "covered" until it was very tempting. Every one was in it, and it was worth before the open about $20. When one of the players opened it, every one stayed and drew cards.

The ace had a full house, the next man four, the third man four queens and the dealer four aces. The opener threw a dollar into the pot. The next man raised, and it was raised and raised until it was beautiful to see.

At this point there was a scurry of footsteps outside. The sentry rushed in, grasped the lantern and dashed it out, jerking and extinguishing it as he did so. As he disappeared he whispered hoarsely: "Officers!"

Instantly four hands went out in the darkness and spread themselves over the pot, while four hands closely clutched five cards each.

"Hold on, fellows," whispered the dealer. "Every one take his hand off the table and keep it off until light comes back. We'll just sit here and nurse our cards. My hand is good enough to wait for."

"So's mine," said the others.

Then they waited. Slowly the night passed, growing chillier and more chill in its going. The sentry was cursed, the officer was cursed, but still they sat. At last the first glimpse of gray appeared in the sky, and as soon as it grew light enough the four played their hands and tumbled in for a few minutes' sleep before the bugle called them out again.—Exchange.

An Indecent Sentence.

During a lull in the program the members of a feminine literary society were discussing the case of three criminals who, though sentenced to the penitentiary for life, yet stood a chance under the law of being pardoned after fifteen years' imprisonment.

The crime of these men had been particularly atrocious, and one lady of the party was most emphatic in her determination to question the wisdom and the law of the state which opened an avenue for leniency.

"All that you say is true, Mrs. S.," said one of the members. "But did you ever consider that not one criminal in a hundred sentenced to life imprisonment ever serves out that term?"

"Why?" queried Mrs. S. innocently. "Don't they live long enough?"

Changed the Sign.

In the outer room of a Wall street office a sign was posted a few days ago: "Please Do Not Whistle. We Do All That Ourselves." The messenger boys on service in the building evidently saw a funny side to the notice, for within an hour more than twenty of them added their own "do not whistle." "When does the concert begin?" "How much for a ticket?" and similar queries. The sign came down after two days, and the manager of the office has had it replaced by one bearing in aggressively bold letters simply the words, "Don't Whistle."—New York Tribune.

Removing Scorch.

An old negro laundress is responsible for the following cure for bad scorching places caused by too hot on the stove in a porcelain lined soapstone. To this are added the juice of a large onion and two ounces of fuller's earth. The mixture is boiled for five minutes, strained, cooled and bottled. In removing the scorch a little of the mixture is put on a clean white linen rag and rubbed over the scorched place until it disappears. Several applications may be necessary.—New York Times.

The Largest Flower.

The largest flower in the world is the Rafflesia arnoldi of Sumatra. Its size is fully three feet in diameter—about the size of a carriage wheel. The flower is a mass of fleshy, growing round a center filled with countless long, violet hued stamens. The flower weighs about fifteen pounds and is capable of containing nearly two gallons of water. The buds are like gigantic brown cabbage heads.

FRIDAY JUNE 11 1909.

This is The Reflector's Greenville slogan issue.

OUR GREENVILLE, YOURS IF YOU COME.

Get on the band wagon and blow for Greenville.

Take up Greenville's slogan and make the town hum.

"OUR GREENVILLE, YOURS IF YOU COME," sounds good to me.

This week the senate is pulling wool on the tariff.

Greenville usually does what the people make up their minds to do.

If you are for Greenville in earnest, show your faith by your works.

It has the real ring of welcome, "Our Greenville, yours if you come."

So many strikes do not argue well for the boasted return of prosperity.

Fouls are creating trouble in Kentucky again.

Yes, sir, it is "Our Greenville, yours if you come."

Truly this is "Our Greenville, yours if you come."

The Reflector takes pleasure in saying to every reader, and everybody else, that this is "Our Greenville, yours if you come."

They have come to roasting Mr. Bryan again, but if he keeps up his past record he will come out of it without being much scorched.

Maybe Hunter Roosevelt is lost in the jungles of Africa, as nothing has been heard from lately.

One of the suggested slogans for Greenville that the town might well put into practice is "Watch Greenville get clean."

The senate has decided to do some night work and make the sessions cover ten hours a day. Then they will come nearer earning their pay.

On Thursday Governor Kitchen announced the appointment of Hon. J. S. Manning, of Durham, as successor to Judge Connor as associate justice of the Supreme court.

That Uncle Sam run short nearly a hundred million dollars in expenditures during the past fiscal years shows that his pocket book is getting in about as bad condition as ordinary folks. The difference in his favor is his good credit.

The fellow who has no money to count feels very little interest in the invention by a Rhode Island man of a machine to count money.

There are not any easy jobs, and the man hunting for a soft snap can go to the bean patch. Any job that is well performed requires plenty of work and attention.

The one thing that Pitt county folks should now keep uppermost in their minds is good roads. The sentiment ought to grow until every section of the county has good roads.

Judge H. G. Connor has been duly sworn in as judge of the Federal court of Eastern North Carolina and is now holding his first term of district court in Raleigh.

The mayor of Philadelphia says he will maintain order, but it is noticed the street car strikers are doing about as they please, even going to the extent of destroying property.

There is nothing that concerns the welfare of the farmers more than good roads, but taken as a whole there is nothing that they show less interest in—unless it be raising their home supplies.

Don't stop to grumble that your own place is not as good as somebody else's. Make the best of your surroundings, do your duty at whatever you are engaged in, let your presence be felt, and you will not find much time for complaining.

One of the spirits of the Charlotte Observer must think what begins with a G means Greenville, as we notice he oftentimes prints the product of this think shop to a similar institution in Greensboro. Look to the east, brother and you will see "Our Greenville, yours if you come."

The grand jury of the Federal court in Raleigh returned their bill of indictment for embezzlement against I. K. B. Carraway, cashier of the National Bank of New Bern. The bill also included the names of J. F. Taylor and Editor C. L. Stevens of the New Bern Journal as accessories to the embezzlement. The case will be watched with much interest.

In Buncombe county the practice has heretofore prevailed of putting striped convict suits on all persons sentenced to the roads, regardless of the offense for which sentence was passed. This is contrary to law, and the attention of Buncombe officials has been called to the fact that no persons are to wear strips except those convicted of a felony, and it is unlawful to put strips on persons convicted of misdemeanors.

Greenville folks usually stand together and when they do something happens that is worth while. But the division over the location of a site for the public building is not doing any good, only delaying the getting of a building that much longer. A representative of the government treasury department came here, went over the situation thoroughly and made his recommendation for a site. That recommendation should stand and be accepted by the government. Those who stop to consider the present financial condition of Greenville will go slow in the matter of making any breaks in the board of aldermen. The town has a floating indebtedness of some $20,000 that must soon be provided for. The present aldermen have the movement on foot to relieve this floating debt, and their experience makes them more capable of handling the matter. It is a time that the board needs men of experience rather than novices, and every citizen who has the proper regard for the credit and progress of the town will think well before joining a movement to make changes at this time.

A meeting of the trustees of East Carolina Teachers Training School is called for Friday, 11th. This meeting is for the purpose of making plans for the school to open next fall. We take it that the most important work of the trustees at this meeting will be the selection of a president for the school. In this no mistake should be made. If the school is to be the success desired the very best man possible to obtain should be placed at its head. The Reflector believes from expression heard in various sections of the State that there is a wide spread desire on the part of the people that Hon. J. Y. Joyner, present State Superintendent of Public Instruction, be president of this institution. There is no doubt that there is not another man anywhere who could do as much for the school as Mr. Joyner, and every effort should be made to induce him to take the presidency of it.

Again The Reflector feels like doling its hat to the people of Greenville on their wise action in the primaries Friday night. The unanimity with which the voters of every ward went to their meetings and re-nominated the entire old ticket shows that they want experienced men to conduct the important affairs of the town that must be looked after in the next few months. The same men who have been looking after these matters can now go right on with them without interruption and we believe the result will be beneficial to the town. Let all dissensions and misrepresentations now cease and everybody work together for the advancement of Greenville.

In past years there have been some people who would not list their taxes before the appointed township list takers, but would wait later to list before the county commissioners. This course may have been prompted by ulterior motives, but we will not argue that point. We will say, however, that those who have practiced that way of listing in the past had better not do so again unless they prefer to pay double tax. The last legislature passed a very stringent law on this point and leaves the county commissioners no discretion in the matter except to follow the law. The entire month of June is set apart for listing and that is time enough, and every person subject to tax had just as well step up and do his duty.

If The Reflector has one pet more than another among the business institutions of Greenville, it is The Home Building and Loan Association. Its record has been watched with pride and we have many times made reference to its splendid work. In our news columns today mention is made of the last statement of the secretary of the association, and the showing there ought to be gratifying not only to every shareholder but also to every person interested in the upbuilding of Greenville. Though the association is just a little more than three years old, in that time it has banished more than $17,000 to people of the community with which to build, buy or pay off indebtedness on their homes. It is a remarkable record, and the splendid management and success of the association entitles it to the cooperation and good wishes of everybody in the community.

The committee consisting of Mayor H. W. Whelbee, Postmaster R. C. Flanagan and Mr. H. A. White, who were requested to take charge of the suggestions for a slogan for Greenville received by The Reflector and select from the list the one deemed most suitable for the purpose intended, has performed this duty as will be seen by the report published elsewhere. The gentlemen went over the different suggestions carefully, and their earnestness and interest is shown in the elaborate report they may make. It was no small task that they performed, and The Reflector certainly feels greatly indebted to them. The town is also indebted to them, for there are no citizens among us who have a deeper interest in the welfare of the town than these gentlemen.

Mr. J. W. Brown is to be congratulated that his suggestion has been adopted as Greenville's slogan and that the committee awards him the $3 Parker fountain pen at Reflector Book Store. That his suggestion is a splendid one all will admit as it speaks for itself—or rather, speaks for Greenville.

Regular services at Flat Swamp Sunday. Several from the Stokes and Whichard sections came up one night last week on a hay ride, composed of a crowd of clever young men and pretty girls. As you have probably noticed, most shoes have a tendency to wrinkle and "bunch up" across the toes after the shoes have been worn a few times. This is the fault of the lasting (the process of pulling and stretching the leather over the wooden last.)

The RALSTON method has remedied this fault. Ralston vamps are first crimped (see illustration) then lasted. There are no bunches, no wrinkles, because every part of the vamp fits the last perfectly without straining the leather at any point. This adds to the wear of the shoe. It also explains the reason why Ralstons retain their smart appearance until worn out.

There are other unusual features of RALSTON SHOE construction which will appeal to you. Come in and look over our new styles.

A SLEADY DRAIN

Sick Kidneys Weaken the Whole Body—Make You Ill, Languid and Depressed.

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of it giving albumen from the blood into the urine, and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that rots the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor, depression, Uric poisoning causes rheumatism, nervousness, causes, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment is a kidney treatment, and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Great Greenville cures prove it.

James Hardison, 319 E. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "My kidneys were weak and the secretions passed too frequently, especially at night when I was forced to rise several times. In the morning my back was very lame and I was subject to pains through my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wooten's drug store, restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I am now able to sleep well and the lameness and soreness across the small of my back has entirely disappeared. I have found Doan's Kidney Pills to live up to representations and I have no hesitation in giving them my endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

N. & S. Sunday Train.

Round trip fare from Farmville and Arthur $2. from Greenville, Simpson and Grimesland $1.50.

Though you drive Nature out with a pitchfork, she always comes back.—German Proverb.

An Isle of Man Oath.

What is regarded as the quaintest oath still in use is that taken by the high court judges in the Isle of Man, the terms of which are as follows: "By this book and the contents thereof, and by the wonderful works that God hath miraculously wrought in the heaven above and the earth beneath in six days and six nights I do swear that I will, without respect of favor or friendship, loss or gain, consanguinity or affinity, envy or malice, execute the laws of this Isle justly between party and party as indifferently as the herring backbone doth lie in the midst of the fish. So help me God and the contents of this book."

Selfishness.

Jones worked so hard and denied himself so much in order to pay his life insurance that he had neither time nor the means to be sick, and he outlived all the beneficiaries, who were meanwhile engaged in the relatively unhealthy business of lying back and waiting for him to die. Moreover, in thinking of the matter he became convinced that he had a good deal of fun after all—more fun, indeed, than most. "I'm a terribly selfish fellow," exclaimed Jones guiltily.—Puck.

Partially Bounced.

A good example of the extremely courteous in public correspondence was the notice sent to Charles James Fox that he was no longer a member of the government of George III. It read thus: "His gracious majesty has been pleased to issue a new commission in which your name does not appear."

THIS WILL INTEREST MOTHERS.

ARAB SCHOOLS.

Their Peculiar Methods in Teaching and Studying.

"An Arab school," said a traveler, "is one of the most interesting places in Cairo to visit. The children, with the schoolmaster, sit upon the floor or the ground in a semicircle, and each has a tablet of wood which is painted white and upon which the lessons are written. When the latter are learned they are washed out and replaced by other lessons. The children are very quiet and studious. During study hours the Arab schools resemble one of the Chinese, for the children all study aloud, and as they recite they rock back and forth like trees in a storm, and this movement is continued for an hour or more at a time. The schoolmaster rocks back and forth, and recites the lesson one or two times. The children's progress is very slow, but the method is very effective. The children are very quiet and studious. "The desks of the Arab schools are old contrivances of palm sticks, upon which is placed the Koran, and one of the thirty sections of it. After learning the alphabet the boys take up the study of the Koran, memorizing entire chapters of it until the sacred book is entirely familiar. "A peculiar method is followed in learning the Koran. The study begins with the opening chapter, and from this it goes to the last. The last but one is then learned, then the last but two, and so on in inverted order, ending finally with the second chapter. "During the student's progress it is customary for the schoolmaster to send on the wooden tablet a lesson printed in black and red ink and given to the father, who returns it after inspection with a couple of plasters pasted upon it. The salaries of the schoolmasters are very meager indeed."—Washington Herald.

When the safe reaches the bottom of the vault it is fastened down by massive steel lugs, operated by a triple time lock. Until these lugs are released automatically at a fixed time no human agency can raise the safe. As for breaking through the substantial walls of stone and concrete ten feet thick, even with dynamite—well, the burglar must shake his head sorrowfully and admit that he has met his Waterloo in that safe.—Boston Post.

Not Particular.

"Sir," said the young man respectfully, "I am a poor man, and you are a millionaire. It seems presumptuous in me to doubt to aspire to the hand of your daughter. But my love for her is so great that I cannot be stopped by such considerations. Love seems conventions and conveniences. Ah, sir, will you give her to me?"

The old magnate seemed interested. "But which of my four daughters do you want?" he asked, not unkindly.

Eagerly the suitor made answer, "Oh, I'll leave that to you, sir!"—Pearson's.

Birds in Winter.

Though birds have a much higher temperature than man's, man's is 98, while theirs is 107—they suffer cruelly from the winter cold. In a mountain country it is not uncommon to find sheep with dead birds fastened on their backs. The little, cold creatures snuggle in the sheep's wool to get warm, their feet become entangled in the fleece, and they starve to death.

"Thousands are sick every year with some form of bowel complaint. Thousands are cured by taking Dr. Sathern's Bile Beans. Warned to give satisfaction by J. L. Wooten.

Instead of the girl's effort to provide as much in the way of clothing for her marriage bed, she is actually the reverse—a variety of vanities.

A sufficient supply for a year's wear is all that should ever be made for the lingerie part of the trousseau; and as to hats and gowns, only enough for the season in which one is being married. There is something distinctly vulgar in this mad rush for clothes during the engagement period. It is not the finest way by any means to fit one's self for the new duties of life. Half of the sewing hours devoted to making trousseaus and the string of domestic economy would prove a far better investment.

McElhorm, vice president; Miss Laura Cox, teacher; Miss Ethel Carro, assistant teacher; Miss Kate Chapman, secretary; Miss Olive Pitt, assistant secretary; Miss Venetia Cox, musical director; Spurgeon Carroll, reporter; Willie Morris, treasurer.

GOOD ADVICE FOR BRIDES.

Pay More Attention to Cooking Lessons and Less to the Preparation of Trousseau.

What secret relation there is between matrimony and needlework is one of the seven wonders of the world. As soon as the engagement ring is safely on, the girl flies to a sewing machine or embroidery frame, and there she stays up to the last moment, says Helen Corinne Hambridge in the Lelinelator for June.

There is no prettier sight than a woman engaged on a dainty bit of needlework for her trousseau—artists have made it immortal—but in the name of all that is reasonable, where is the necessity for providing dozens and dozens of undergarments, dresses enough to last years, and hat ditto? I know a young bride whose bonnet is the she tied seven hundred baby ribbon bows for her lingerie and worked one thousand eyelets in the same. Before marriage she was perfectly capable of existing without all this profusion of stock of undergarments and was content to be simply well supplied. She was not going to the far north or darkest Africa where white goods are practically unobtainable, but intended to stay in her home city where she could buy what she wanted right along, and get things at bargain sales occasionally.

Instead of the girl's effort to provide as much in the way of clothing for her marriage bed, she is actually the reverse—a variety of vanities.

A sufficient supply for a year's wear is all that should ever be made for the lingerie part of the trousseau; and as to hats and gowns, only enough for the season in which one is being married. There is something distinctly vulgar in this mad rush for clothes during the engagement period. It is not the finest way by any means to fit one's self for the new duties of life. Statistics of Lynchings.

New York, June 3. That 3,284 men, women and children have been lynched in this country in the last quarter of a century, was the assertion of Mr. Ida Wells Barnett, at the National Negro Conference, in this city.

Asking why this was permitted by a Christian nation, Mrs. Barnett quoted John Temple Graves as saying that the main stands as the most potent influence between the women of the South and such a carnal of crime as would precipitate the annihilation of the negro race.

All know that this is untrue, Mrs. Barnett said.

"The lynching record," she added, "discusses the hypocrisy of the lynchers."

PROF. R. H. WRIGHT PRESIDENT OF EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS TRAINING SCHOOL.

Prof. C. W. Wilson Also Secured Plans for Opening the School This Fall.

The trustees of East Carolina Teachers Training school were in session here all day Friday. The most important matter before them was the election of a president of the school. After considering this important question in all of its phases Prof. Robert H. Wright was unanimously chosen. Prof. Wright, who was in the city at the invitation of the executive committee, had an interview with the board and after going fully over the situation and the opportunity for the development and growth of the school, accepted the presidency.

Prof. Wright was born in the county of Sampson in 1870 and is therefore in the very prime of life. He is a son of Mrs. R. H. Wright, who is herself a noted teacher and was the founder and promoter of the Coharie high school in that county. After completing the course in his mother's school he entered the University and graduated at that institution in 1897. He then taught a year at Spring Ridge and two years at Oak Ridge Institute. He then took a year's course in training at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

While at Johns Hopkins he was elected a professor of English in the Woman's College, Baltimore. His work in that department was so eminently satisfactory that he was chosen principal of the East Carolina high school, which position he now holds. This is a high class institution, having 800 students and 23 teachers.

Prof. Wright is a scholar of high attainment and a Christian gentleman in the best sense of that term. The board of trustees esteem themselves fortunate in securing him for president of this new institution.

Prof. Wright will come to Greenville as soon as he can arrange to move his family and take up his new work with a spirit and determination to build up a great State institution, which shall render eminent service to the State and be one of its chief ornaments.

The board arranged to secure the services of Prof. C. W. Wilson, who has been for a number of years principal of the graded school at Scotland Neck. Prof. Wilson will do work under the direction of the executive committee. This school is fortunate in securing the services of this fine teacher and most excellent business man.

We are informed that the board elected some of the lady teachers, but their names will not be given out until they have accepted.

The board also directed the executive committee to select other teachers and make their report to a subsequent meeting of the board when final action will be taken in completing the faculty.

We are assured by the board that the work of organization of the teaching force will be completed at an early day and that everything will be in readiness to open the school, the exact date to be determined hereafter, notice of which will be given in ample time.

The four buildings originally constructed, to wit: administration, refectory, and two dormitories are now completed, and the work on the power house and infirmary is progressing rapidly so that the public may now accept it as a fixed fact that the school will open this fall.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Woman's Home Mission Society.

On Tuesday night, June 1st, the Woman's Home Mission Society of the North Carolina conference, M. E. church South, convened at Louisburg for its 18th annual session. Mrs. R. E. John, president in the chair.

The conference was extended a most hearty welcome by Rev. F. A. Bishop, on behalf of the church; by Mrs. McKenzie on behalf of the W. F. M. Society, by Mrs. J. A. Turner on behalf of the W. H. M. Society, and by Mrs. Ivey Allen on behalf of L. Female college. These were responded to by Miss Eliza Smith, of Gatesville.

The roll call on Wednesday morning showed a large number of delegates and visitors present.

The president's message was gracefully delivered, her subject being "What it means to be a member of the W. H. M. S." The reports from the conference officers showed a marked increase along all lines; and by comparison with our work ten years ago Mrs. Scott showed we had grown from twelve auxiliaries, to sixty-one, and instead of five present at the annual meeting we had nearly seven times as many. On Wednesday night, Rev. J. H. Shore, of Greenville, in his impressive manner preached the annual sermon.

He complimented the work of the W. H. M. S. and assured us that his heart is with us in this great work. The district secretary of the Washington district was glad to note this, and she hopes soon to see Greenville join in this great Home Mission work.

There were quite a number of new auxiliaries reported, five of which are in the Washington district. There were also many good papers read and discussed, some of which were "Needs in the Field of the M. E. Church, South," by Mrs. J. E. Underwood, "The Extra," and how to raise it, by Mrs. T. W. Costen, "Rescue Work," by Mrs. J. E. Brown. After Mrs. Brown's paper was read, Miss Elizabeth Davis, our deaconess from Tampa, Fla., spoke very interestingly of her experience in rescue work.

Miss Sarah Lowder, our trained worker at Robelld then spoke of her work among the factory people at that place. On Thursday night of conference there were special services by the children of the baby roll and brigade department. A collection of $10 was taken, and on motion of Mrs. J. A. Spier, who has charge of this work in our conference, the baby of Mrs. J. A. Turner, president of Louisburg Auxiliary, was made a life member of the W. H. M. Society.

On Friday night Mrs. R. B. John gave a most interesting and instructive lecture on one of the books of the Reading Course, "The Frontier," which showed the great possibilities of Home Missions in the west. This being the closing service of the greatest annual meeting the N. C. conference ever held.

It was encouraging to note the intelligence of our women in the work, and the improvement in speechmaking. Why, when the subject of titling was discussed, Bro. R. C. Craven, being the only man present, remained in case he was needed to settle the question.

Another encouraging feature was the popularity of the conference.

It had four invitations for next year: namely Hertford, La Grange, Elizabeth City and Louisburg again. Mrs. Scott put in her application 3 years ahead for New Bern. It was unanimously decided to go to Elizabeth City as they have oysters there.

Louisburg entertained the conference royally, giving a grand reception at Louisburg Female college, and had planned to give one at Greene Hill House, one mile from Louisburg, where was held the first Methodist conference in America, April 20, 1785, but the weather was so inclement.
