FRIDAY OCT. 8, 1909.

I love my overcoat, but oh, you straw hat!

The air ships have a way of getting better too.

A woman's club is more than apt to be a hat pin.

And the new hats this season are larger than ever.

Nothing is cheap at any price if you have no need of it.

With it all the county needs good roads more than anything else.

Do you realize that the year is on the home stretch quarter?

Pretty soon the air will be filled with talk of holiday things.

Raleigh should not fall into the Greensboro class of easy marks.

Prof. Coon stands a good show of being like the one Brother Ephraim got.

You can watch Greenville under her sail and keep going forward.

The next big amusement for Greenville is Howe's circus on the 13th.

The fairs for next month are advertising lying machines and North Pole attractions.

Do not let "Got busted at the carnival" be an excuse for not paying your first of the month bills.

Pearly might have expected a noise like trouble when he started to find the pole in a ship named Roosevelt.

Now and then the officers pull a fellow who is trying to get too intimate with the president in his tour around the country.

The Cook and Peary controversy may warm them up, but it does not have the same effect upon the weather.

Peary may give his reasons for not bringing back Cook's records and instruments, but the public has an opinion of its own about it.

The opening of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School on the 5th marks the beginning of a new era for Greenville.

The Wilmington Star in response to an inquiry "What is the North Pole?" says it is "the bone of contention." Smart boy.

Strike Greenville people any time you please and you always find them the right kind. That is why everybody likes Greenville so well.

Good roads is a subject every Pitt countyman should keep in mind and talk to his neighbor about. We must have them all over the county.

South Carolina has a way of keeping in the lime light, and the acquittal of the dispensary grafters did not add any credit to the reputation of that State.

Roanoke, Va., held another local option election Thursday, and the wet side won by a small majority. At a previous election the drys won, but the courts threw it out and made the city vote again.

If Mars is having anything to do with this early cold weather, we wish she would let it alone and attend to her own affairs. We earthly fellows have enough troubles already.

It brings a feeling of pride to see the good looking gathering of students at the training school, Eastern North Carolina can hold her own against the world.

A London paper predicts that it will be no great while before serviceable airships can be bought for $750. Here is notice that they must get below that price before we invest.

The sheriff of Rutherford county went out and stopped a crew in their work building a railroad bridge on Sunday. That work was not a necessity and should be allowed no more than any other.

Talk! Of course we will. We had rather say one word for Greenville any time than a dozen words against it. And further we do not have any patience with any fellow who knocks his town. Move on when you get dissatisfied.

Up in Iredell county a "blind tiger" was found under a hay stack. There was a barrel of liquor on storage, and the manipulator also had a sleeping den under the same stack. He was sticking close to his business, but happened to be out when officers called.

The Wilmington Star says "There'll be something doing when a man quits yawning for his town and goes to yelling for it." That's the thing. We want to see everybody here yell for Greenville and wear Greenville slogan buttons. Are you doing your part?

Senator Bailey, of Texas, has challenged Candidate Bryan for a joint debate on the tariff question. As the Republicans are the boss of the tariff situation, and manipulate it to suit themselves, we wonder what good Senator Bailey thinks is to be derived from a debate between two Democrats.

We would like to see Greenville mentioned often in the list of places where new industries are established. It is a little strange that this town does not take hold of the cotton mill spirit. Factories are needed here about as much as anything that could be mentioned, but the town is slow starting in that direction.

Many of us started out as poor in life as Rogers or Harriman, and while our store of wealth looks like thirty cents as compared with that those gentlemen accumulated, we doubt if they were able to surpass us in happiness. Wealth is a good thing to have, but its possessors are not always the happiest people you see.

The Reflector wishes every student of East Carolina Teachers' Training School to feel that the motto of Greenville, "Our Greenville, yours, if you come," applies to them. They are here the town extends them a cordial welcome and wishes them every success. May their school life in Greenville be so filled with happiness that they will ever look back with pleasure to the days spent here.

It gives The Reflector pleasure to print in this issue the call by County Superintendent Ragsdale for the first meeting of the Teachers' Association for the present school year. This association has been of great benefit to the teachers and has given Pitt county more educational prominence than perhaps any other agency. That the coming year may be the best in the history of the association is earnestly wished for.

The Wilmington Star came out with such a scintillating new head Sunday morning, that we had to look twice before recognizing our old friend. The Star was founded in 1867 and grows better as the years add to its age. Sunday's issue also gave a sketch of the progress of the paper through the forty-two years of its career, and it shows an excellent record. New equipment has just been added, indicating still further progress.

When the people of Pitt county fully awake to the needs of good roads and make up their minds to spare no effort to get them, you will see this become the greatest county in the State. Pitt county has a people who are unsurpassed, her lands are rich in fertility, her educational advantages are the equal of any, and a system of good roads added to these advantages would bring an era of prosperity that would put the county well in the forefront. Talk good roads and do not rest until every section of the county has them.

Greenville has had a week of carnival, and while it gave the people much amusement it cannot be said that it helped business. Of course in some instances, such as the market, the transfers, the express office, the railroads, the hotels and boarding houses, there was more patronage than ordinarily, but taking business generally it was more hindered than helped. Several of the merchants who have been spoken to say it gave them a very poor week, as both people and money were taken away from the stores to the carnival. The carnival people say they did a good business here, and they likely took away much money.

Certainly money is sent away for whiskey. That will be the case just as long as it can be shipped into prohibition territory. But the money sent away is very small in comparison to what was spent for the stuff when it could be purchased from open saloons or a dispensary. Not near so much liquor is drunk as before prohibition buildings in 1908 and has gone into effect, so there is no use in arguing that prohibition is not proving a benefit. One of the greatest benefits arising from it is the removal of temptation from the rising generation, and it is well worth while even if nothing else was accomplished. But more is accomplished, for the good results of prohibition become more apparent every day.

This is truly a glad day for Greenville and Pitt county, as it marks the opening of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School, an event that has been labored for and looked forward to for nearly three years. Seeing the need in Eastern North Carolina for a training school for teachers, activity to secure one first began here near the close of the year 1906. The matter was carried before the legislature of 1907 and so strongly urged that a bill was passed by that body providing for the establishment of such a school. While most of the work done to secure the passage of the bill was by the people of Greenville and Pitt county, the bill itself did not provide where the school should be located but left the selection open to competition.

Seeing the school was to be a certainty, it was a prize to be coveted, and many Eastern towns, some of which had taken little interest in the first agitation, went to work in an effort to secure the school. The contest was both long and spirited, but Greenville and Pitt county joined hands and voted together $100,000 and a choice of several beautiful sites, and there was great rejoicing when the State Board of Education, in whose discretion was the matter of location, decided that the school should come to Greenville. Actual work began on the buildings in 1908 and has gone steadily forward until now there are six handsome structures, making an ideal school plant that the entire State can point to with pride.

And now that the doors of the institution are thrown open and the first session started, Greenville begins realizing her hopes, and it filled every heart with pride to see so many students arriving to enter it. The school is well equipped, an admirable faculty has been chosen, and there is every indication that it is to be a great institution of learning and accomplish a great work in equipping teachers. Verily, this is Greenville's glad day.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is today the best known medicine in use for the relief and cure of bowel complaints. Try a bucket of Cottoline, use one third less than lard, at J. R. Smith Co. A visit to the large manufacturing plant of J. R. Smith Co. & Dixon will convince you that they can furnish you with lumber to build a house, and nice material with which to complete it, such as mantels, brackets, moulding and turned work.

Sell you a nice open or top buggy, surry, wagon, cart or wheelbarrow or repair any of the above for you. Make you wire doors and screens for your windows. Shoe your mules and horses; grind your corn, gin your cotton, while you live, and then can furnish you with a nice coffin or casket and hearse for yourself or family. Come to see us. Yours to please, J. R. Smith Co. & Dixon.

Miss Myrtle Flanagan returned to her home near Farmville Sunday. Mrs. R. M. Starkey and Mrs. McArthur visited Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn Sunday. Miss Janie Tyson, of Renston, is visiting relatives here.

We had very good preaching at May's chapel Friday night, Saturday and Sunday by Rev. Waters, of Ayden seminary. We had the best Sunday school at Smith's school house Sunday evening in its history. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Joyner and two children, from near Farmville, spent Sunday evening at C. E. McLawhorn's and attended Sunday school here. Miss L. E. Gray, of Murfreesboro, came in Saturday to take charge of the school at Smith's school house Monday morning, and Miss Mary Joyner, of Farmville, came Monday morning to take charge of the primary class. We think them both very good teachers. C. R. Townsend, of Greenville, was in our town Sunday evening. Miss Agnes Smith went to Greenville this morning to enter school there. C. L. Tyson, of Renston, was in our town yesterday evening and took his daughter, Miss Janie, home. H. A. Timberlake, of Farmville, was at R. A. Willoughby's yesterday evening. Its getting rather here for watermelons, but C. E. McLawhorn cut two nice ones Sunday, and he is having plenty of constant ears. His James grape vines are loaded with delicious fruit.

Subscribe for The Reflector. "Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults, sold by all dealers.

Why We Are Stronger. The old Greeks and Romans were great admirers of health and strength; their pictures and statuary made the muscles of the men stand out like cords. As a matter of fact we have athletes and strong men—men led on to their strength making food such as Quaker Oats—that would win in any contest with the old Roman or Greek champions. It's a matter of food. The finest food for making strength of bone, muscle and nerve is fine oatmeal. Quaker Oats is the best because it is pure, no salt or stems or husk specks. Farmers' wives are finding that by feeding the farm hands plentifully on Quaker Oats they get the best results in work and economy. If you live in a hot climate buy Quaker Oats in hermetically sealed tins. It keeps sweet and fresh.

NOTICE. W. H. Smith has purchased the interest of A. D. Cox in the Carolina Milling & Manufacturing Co. and will conduct the business at the same place. All work promptly looked after. SYSTEMIC CATARRH.

One of many cases where Peruna has done what other remedies failed to do. MR. C. A. LANDGRABE. Mr. C. A. Landgrave, Box 25, Coakburg, Ohio, writes: "I had been a slight sufferer for a number of years, but paid little or no attention to it, until the spring of this year, when my sufferings became more severe."

"I had pain in the head, back, spine, liver, chest, and various parts of my body, besides indigestion that caused me much trouble and anxiety. I often thought when I retired at night I would not live through it. I tried medical aid, but to no purpose. "Not knowing what was my malady I wrote to Dr. Hartman, after reading of his treatment, for advice, telling him of my various ailments, and he notified me at once that I had systemic catarrh."

"After using the first bottle of Peruna I felt relief, so I continued to use it until I had taken four bottles, when I felt entirely cured. I recommended it to all others, believing that they will experience the relief that I did."

Peruna as a Tonic. Mr. William F. Hawkins, 12 West 8th, Westport, N. Y., writes: "I wish to give my testimony in favor of Peruna as a tonic. I have used the same for catarrh and can recommend it to all who are troubled in that way."

MISS MARJORIE C. BENEDETH, Graduate Nurse Ayden, North Carolina.
