County Expenses.

The Board of County Commissioners at the March meeting issued orders on the treasurer in payment of current expenses, etc., aggregating for different objects as follows:

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition.

Fire in Country. Mr. Elihu Briley, who lives about 5 miles from town, lost his dwelling house, kitchen and smoke house by fire Monday night between 12 and 2 o'clock.

Stubborn as Mules are liver and bowels sometimes; seem to balk at hot cause. There's a trouble—loss of appetite—indigestion, no energy, constipation, headache, but such troubles fly before Dr. King's New Life Pills.

Chamb-lain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invariably bring relief to women suffering from chronic constipation, headache, biliousness, dizziness, sallowness of the skin and dyspepsia.

DEES LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP. CONFORMS TO NATIONAL PURE FOOD AND DRUGS LAW. An improvement over many Cough, Lung and Bronchial Remedies.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM COUNT LORENZO DE VISCONTI

More about the beautiful and fertile country. Takes Trip up the Picturesque Panuco River—Describes Resources.

In my last I had promised the readers a trip up the picturesque and charming Panuco river, to take a view of the valley.

It is 6 o'clock in the evening; the signal of the steamboat for departure is given. In a short time we pass the mouth of the Tamesi river. It is a clear starlight night.

ters here, and 10 miles from LaBolsa a German Mennonite colony has settled down on a tract of land of about 8000 acres.

It is evening, our boat is landing in order to unload freight for the Ganahl sugar plantation.

We are now 100 miles from Tampico, about 60 miles air-line. At the "Ganahl Plantation" there are 800 acres planted with ribbon cane which is worked into alcohol.

The production of sugar is 8500 tons annually besides great quantities of alcohol. Between Ganahl and El Higo, on the river lies the LaBolsa colony, my destination for this time.

Between Ganahl and El Higo, on the river lies the LaBolsa colony, my destination for this time. After I had landed I immediately went in search of the administrator of the colony.

How Good News Spreads. "I am 70 years old and travel most of the time," writes E. P. Toison, of Elizabethtown, Ky.

LaBolsa Colony is owned by Americans contains 23,000 acres of land, situated on the Panuco river. One half of the land is subdivided into 10, 10 and 100 tracts which can be bought for ten dollars per acre.

CALL FROM R. L. DAVIS.

Prospects of Bill to Regulate Interstate Shipment of Liquors. Wilson, N. C., March 19.—While there is a universal cry going on, not only in our State, but in all other dry territory of the nation, against the protection that the Interstate Commerce laws give the liquor traffic, the National Anti-Saloon League and other temperance organizations are hard at work to secure relief.

In other words, our Ignorance Tax on the one side, solitary item of commercial fertilizers alone is more than the total amount we are spending on public schools for increasing the intelligence of our children!

If the $50,000,000 spent by these States is profitable now, reasonable knowledge of fertilizer facts would make it twice as profitable. Or to put it differently: reasonably careful study of soil needs, crop needs, the functions of different fertilizing elements, etc., would add $50,000,000 a year to the profits of our Southern farmers.

And $50,000,000 a year properly expended in bond issues, as interest and sinking fund, would put an eight months' centralized graded school within reach of every farm boy and girl in these States, would put a macadam road in these States, and it would carry on a campaign against tuberculosis, typhoid fever, malaria and hookworm diseases that would probably increase by one fifth the average length of human life.

How fearful the waste of ignorance on one despised commodity—Ration (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

It is hereby declared to be a nuisance for any person to spit or expectorate upon any of the paved or granite sidewalks of the town or to spit or expectorate upon the floor or walks of any building owned or occupied by the town of Greenville or its officers or upon the floors or walks of the post office, court house, waiting rooms of the railroad companies or churches or upon the floors or walks of any other hall or building used for public purposes.

FRIDAY, MAR. 25 1910.

Pearly continues to catch it in the neck, where he ought to be.

Have a little care that Easter eggs are not too ripe.

The Easter hat and Easter suit are both on the way.

It is hard to tell who the laugh is on in congress.

Looks like Baxter Showwell will have to take his medicine.

They are certainly giving Speaker Cannon a run for his money.

Almost everything can advance in price except the subscription to a newspaper.

If the pretty weather holds out through Easter there will be some thankful new hat wearers.

If the thing keeps going we certainly will be believing that the next congress will be Democratic.

Packages of seeds in the mail this time of year reminds one that congressmen are holding down their jobs.

March is yet short on blowing, but outlook for what will come between now and the middle of April.

Since being shorn of his locks, Speaker Cannon may feel very much like Sampson and try to "pull down the house".

It is getting almost time for Pearly to disappear. He will not stand the fake pressure much longer.

Some of the hats are actually so large that the wearer has to get somebody else to open the door for her.

We bet that Hunter Roosevelt regrets that he did not get back in time to see the fun when they swatted Uncle Joe.

It is mighty close to census taking time for some towns to be making large population guesses. The real showing may put the laugh on them.

Pearly has even lost his pull as a lecturer and as a result has had to cancel many dates. Just as well fess up now that he never reached the North Pole.

The man whose "girls are all boys" may get the taunts of the other fellow now and then, but he can turn the laugh on them when it comes time to buy Easter hats.

Here's congratulations to the Wilmington Dispatch over Wrightsville getting the next meeting of the North Carolina Press Association. We are hoping to be with you.

The move of the prohibitionists to break up the jug trade ought to succeed. When a State adopts prohibition other States should not be allowed to ship liquor into it.

Since he has discovered that Peary is in the same boat with him, so far as credibility goes, Dr. Cook is said to be thinking of letting himself be discovered.

"A quiet and orderly Arkansas mob hung two negroes," is the way an exchange heads a press dispatch. The mob may have been quiet, but hanging two men does not look very orderly.

Two hundred and fifty Republican editors met at Springfield, Ills., and adopted resolutions endorsing President Taft, his policies, the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and Speaker Cannon. Must be a lot of the boys wanting "pie."

They had a regular monkey and parrot time with an all night session of congress, Thursday night, and the insurgents with the aid of the Democrats whipped out the regulars. And it made Speaker Cannon "cuss-in" mad.

The first execution by electrocution in this State took place in the penitentiary on Friday, when Walter Morrison, a Robeson county negro, was put to death. Owing to delay in getting the electric chair installed the condemned man was deprived four times before being finally executed.

This year is certainly making a record for great disasters. Several have already occurred that were attended by great loss of life, and the wrecking of a passenger train in Iowa with a death list of forty is another awful addition to the list.

The decreasing number of saloons in large cities where the sale of liquor is permitted, gives an indication of the growing sentiment for prohibition throughout the country. The day is fast coming when there will be no licensed sale of liquor.

The building prospects in Greenville promise to make this a record year for the town. All ready many plans are on the way, and there is much talk about things to be done this year. We would like to see the factory idea get mixed in the other improvements, for there is nothing the town needs more. They must come, and the sooner the better.

The Chamber of Commerce Thursday night took up the suggestions mentioned in Congressman John H. Small's recent letter concerning the public building for Greenville, in a way that means business. The committees appointed are at work and will leave nothing undone to meet the needs of the occasion. That is Greenville's way, go after things with a determination to get them, and we expect to see the appropriation for the public building here included in the omnibus bill before the present session of congress.

On next Tuesday, 29th, the Board of County Commissioners will hold a special meeting to give further consideration to the matter of building a new court house and a new jail. People all over the county are showing much interest and expressing themselves as favorable to building on such a plan as will be creditable to so large a county as Pitt and meet the public needs for generations to come. From what talking we have done with members of the board, we feel sure this is their purpose. They are men who have the welfare of the county at heart, and they want to do just what is best. Pitt county should certainly have a creditable court house, and that is what she is going to have.

terprise, and if he becomes discouraged and quits, all may be lost. Continued effort is the way to bring results, and when you start out after anything never give up. This is a good rule to apply in any undertaking.

This is an important period for Greenville, and what the town does now will have a bearing on years and generations to come. There is much building to be done to replace the losses in the recent fire. The county must build a court house and jail, the Masons will likely rebuild the temple, and individuals will also erect buildings. Then the government is to erect a public building in the near future, and from these things there will be an impetus of improvement that will go on and on through years to come. One matter The Reflector wants to emphasize is that all these new buildings soon to be erected should be in keeping with modern times, and such as to meet the requirements of rapidly growing population and business.

To this end every citizen of the town and county should feel interested, and all should cooperate together in bringing about the best results for the future. Let there be no division of sentiment now that will be regretted later.

The Western doctor who is advertising to pay half the funeral expenses in cases where he does not prove successful, must not be proceeding in accordance with the ethics of the profession, though he may be getting more business.

DON'T BE A QUITTER.
The Spring Hope Leader has been trying to awaken interest in the establishment of a tobacco market in that town, but seems to have become discouraged and quit the effort. It says:

The Leader has made its last call for a meeting of the citizens to consider the establishment of a tobacco market. The next time a call for a meeting is made it will have to be made by some one else.
A newspaper man is about the last one who should ever think of getting discouraged. He may get hard knocks, and even at times feel from the indifference of those for whom he is laboring that his efforts toward rebuilding the town are not appreciated, but he should never be a quitter. Often the newspaper man has to fight alone for an

"VANDERBILT" IN WASHINGTON

By "VANDERBILT" Himself.

After leaving home on the 16th of February on a mission of conquest, I was thinking of the slogan for Greenville: "Our Greenville—Yours if you come." So I concluded that I would see how it felt to be a millionaire for at least one day, so I got off the cars and took charge of the town. While viewing the premises, it was my pleasure to run up against the editor and told him my business, that so far as Greenville was concerned for that day, it was mine. Well, I spent the day walking around and visiting my friends—E. C. Flanagan, your very polite and genteel postmaster, C. T. Munford, A. E. Tucker, those merchant princes doing business in my town, and I know they were all highly honored to have the "Boss" come in and talk "shust a little mit dem." I spent most of the forenoon in this way, and about the noon hour went to call on my very much loved kinsman and patriarch, Col. W. M. King and lady, and enjoyed their hospitality until the afternoon when I took the Coast Line train for Washington, D. C.

After stopping at Weldon, N. C., until 2 o'clock the next morning our train came to take us through to the capital city of the greatest and best Nation on God's green earth, and that's all I'm going to say along this line, for if I don't stop right now the thoughts will crowd in on my mind so fast it might cause me to run away with myself and get all out of shape or go crazy or some other place, and I don't want to go there yet awhile—erazy.

Well, after riding through the country across creeks and rivers, up and down hills, and through valleys, at about 8 o'clock, a. m., on Thursday 17th, we entered the depot. Well, we said we are here, but where is here? I was just like a new born babe, I found that I had struck a place that was all strange to me. In the first place I wanted to know where I was or how to get there, I concluded to strike out and trust to luck or limber tongue, so I went up in the union depot, and after getting in I did not know how to get out. I walked on my tongue up to the first one I met and told him in the first place, I wanted to know how to get out of that place to some place higher down, not "fer frum" the ground so I could run up against some hotel that had some folks I knew some how or other or some other how, get acquainted with some folks who knew "Vanderbilt." Well, he shewn me the door, and away I went like a shot and made out like I knew all about it. So after I got on the avenue a porter came up and blazed away at me and said, "Metropolitan Hotel!" and said, "You got to h—l, that's the place I'm looking for, you see of places, you blame your soul's salvation there or lose your soul's salvation for I am in a desperate mood and I'll tackle your carcase until I make your soul crack if you don't hurry. He thought I was the "Old Biz" himself, looking with lightning eyes and sulphurous breath, and don't you "fer git" it, he was the most anxious Nigger to get me off his hands in charge of the Metropolitan Hotel you "eber need."

Well, after I entered the door, the first place I got to was cigars, periodicals and all kinds of the newspaper tribe, and thinking that the next thing to do would be some-ere appointed to take Tom Settle to the devil, and the devil would not take this man for him, he wouldn't get any Settle at all." Why, he is so much like Settle it ought to make Settle ashamed of himself. I had the pleasure also of meeting our young friend, Price, of Salisbury. Well, this takes me down, or up, to supper, and when I got there I was approached by one of the sable sons of Africa, who asked for my ticket. I told him I was not looking for a theatre but I was on my way to refreshments as my inner man was hawling for something to eat and I had to take him around. Well, then he wanted to know what plan I desired, European or American? I told him I wanted the best he had in the shop, if it didn't cost too much, and would be the means of my getting something for the man inside of me. He said, as I had no ticket I would have to take the European plan. I told him all O. K., that rather than take the red out of his tape I would go to Europe and get supper. "Oh! no," he says, "Just walk right in this room." "O. K.," says I, "If you don't want me to go to Europe, you can bring it over here, and I will help myself without any further bother." I thought it quite strange, that an American would have to live on European style when we had all the style you're looking for, without any messing or doing about it. But let her go gallagher, and let her go slow, thank. When he brought around the programme with a list of the victims and the price there f, I selected 1-2 shad, broiled, and after waiting half an hour, the waitman came in with a large dish of shad, nested in celery leaves, spinach, sage, and all such yeaves, and capped the climax with a lemon, with olives and Japanese sissonn stuck in the lemon on a stick or tooth pick one, I didn't know which. Well, after supper he pulled my leg for 75 cents, and when I paid him thinks I, Ole man, I got the best of that trade, for that shad with all his Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes, on was well worth $1.50, good money, and my appetite was worth the same. So you see, I got $3.00 worth for 75 cents.

Well, I must hurry along with my tale and let you know some more. When I entered the office after supper, a nice, depper good-looking young man grabbed me by the arm and told me to consider my self as a prisoner. I surrendered and told him it was one of the greatest pleasures of my life to be arrested by a good looking young man as he was, and I certainly was glad to have the privilege of placing my habern corpus in his custody. It was that clever, genteel gentleman, Col. Geo. Buchner King, who always makes his prisoners feel very much at home in his custody. Well, after staying a short while in my room talking and planning out a course of procedure for the next day, we parted at 1:30 A. M. and surrendered to Morpheus, in whose arms we gently reposed until 8 o'clock next morning. We agreed to meet at the Metropolitan at 1 o'clock P. M., the 18th, and make a tower of the capital and see congress in session; to pass through the Hall of Fame, and on through the whole thing. We first visited the Senate and my friends pointed out Senator Borah, the colleague of Senator Hayburn, of Idaho, I think. And when I looked upon the Senator's physiognomy I was not at all surprised at the stand he took about the rights of the States to honor any of their noble sons that they saw fit by placing a statue of them in the Hall of Fame. It was there that I saw the noble and grand man, soldier, patriot and citizen, Lee, of Virginia, and in the same hall was also Gen. U. S. Grant. I took off my hat to them both. I took off my hat to General Lee for the advice he gave me boys at the surrender to go home and make ourselves good citizens of this our one and common country. I took off my hat to General Grant for the affection I had for him because he gave his fallen foes protection assured them at the surrender. God bless his memory forever. I hope I may live to see the time when the statues will be placed side by side, and then the blue and the gray will worship at the same shrine, together in the Hall of Fame sufficiently to destroy all the demagogy not dead, who would live upon the bloody shirt that should have been buried in the long ago. I was proud of the stand Senator Borah took when asked by his constituents about our right to honor whom we would honor, and it was full of logical reasoning. I told my friend, King, I just had to shake Senator Borah's hand before I left the capitol, so we went to the reception room of the Senate and sent up my card. In a few minutes the Senator made his appearance. After the acknowledgement of our introduction to each other, I told him I was from North Carolina, and what was termed by some people, a Rebel during the Civil War, and that when it was over and we lay down our arms we took up, with patriotic pride, our allegiance to the Union, and that when I saw his letter to his constituents defining his position about the States' rights, in the Hall of Fame he had expressed my sentiments so much better than I could myself, that I just felt like I could not leave Washington City until I had met him and shook his hand. I felt like I was taking hold of the hand of a statesman, who, in my estimation, was second to none in this country had ever produced. He seemed to appreciate the display of admiration I entertained for him and thanked me for the interest manifested as a representative Southern Reb.

Well, Mr. Editor, I could write a volume, but I expect you are getting tired, so I will quit by saying, that if you ever go to Washington, D. C., and it should be your fortune to run up with Col. G. B. King, you'll never regret it. By all means stop at the Metropolitan and get acquainted with Mr. Harris, the hotel clerk. No more at present.

Salvage Fire Extinguisher

Fire Department statistics show that some eighty per cent. of all fires are extinguished by chemical apparatus.

Nearly all fires are discovered at the start and are readily put out if means are at once available. A stream is thrown to a distance of about fifty feet, carrying a large amount of carbonic acid gas, which excludes the oxygen and prevents combustion.

A fire cannot live if a small per cent. of carbonic acid gas is in the air.

It is forty times as efficient as water and will extinguish fires of oil, naphtha, gasoline, etc., which water only spreads.

Protect your home and property before it is too late.
