OLD CLIPPER SHIPS.

Records That Were Made by These Fast Sailing Vessels.

In these record smashing times one is apt to smile when mention is made of fast sailing ships of other days, but it is a fact nevertheless that no mean records were achieved by the famous American clippers of the last century, many of which were even faster than the swiftest of the steamers today. Today even there are sailing ships that with anything like a fair breeze can outstrip nine out of ten ocean tramps.

During the period between 1850 and the civil war the Flying Cloud made some neat records in the transatlantic trade, and these still fill the hearts of mariners across the ocean. The Flying Cloud liner Alaska in 1882. The Flying Cloud made one day's run of 433 knots and another of 427 knots, equal to about twenty-one land miles an hour.

During the period between 1840 and 1860 there were packet ships that beat the mail steamers across the ocean eight-six times. Dickson crossed in the old Britannia, a steamship, but he returned by the packet George Washington, which beat the liner home by twenty-nine hours.

A small packet boat, the Fidelity, of about 300 tons, accomplished the Atlantic trip in 13 days 7 hours, and the Dreadnought, whose owners boasted that she had never been beaten in a race, averaged on one trip 16 knots an hour.

There was a British ship, the Thermopylae, that made a really wonderful record from Melbourne to London—sixty days, an average of 12 knots an hour for the voyage. She came home afterward from China in ninety-one days. The performance of the Thermopylae showed a speed greater than that of most freighters of today.

It is a fact that with a fair wind the big five and six masted schooners of today develop a speed that frequently enables their crews to have the pleasure, coming up the coast deep with cargo, of sailing pleasantly past some New Englander's big tramp steamer plugging along on its most economical coal consumption at a rate of 6 or 8 knots an hour.—Harper's Weekly.

FIGURE PROBLEMS

Gems That Are to Be Found in the Old Arithmetics.

ALL OF THEM "PRACTICAL"

That Was What the Inquisitive Boy's Father Told Him, and the Lad Started Out to Verify the Statement—The "Practical" Examples He Dug Up.

Was education more practical a generation ago, or did John's father study his books more thoroughly than John does? John is a seventh grade student in the public school. He asked his father to help him solve the following problem:

"A. asked how much money he has in the bank, replied, 'If I had $10 more I would have $1,000 more than half what I now have. How much money had A.'"

"Such a fool problem," said the father. "Tell that teacher to ask the cashier. You have been pestering the problems like that for a week. Suppose your teacher asked you how old you are. Would you tell her 'I was ten times as old as I am, diminished by forty-two. I would be thirty years older than dad, and if dad were one-fourth as old as he is now I would be my age?' What would your teacher do if you answered in such a manner? In my day we had practical problems in our arithmetic."

In order to investigate his father's statement John went to the public library and asked for an old arithmetic. The librarian gave him Richard's Natural Arithmetic. He turned to the page marked "Practical Exercises" and read:

"A. puts his whole flock of sheep into three pastures. Half go into one pasture, one-third into another and thirty-two into a third. How many in the flock?"

"That's queer," said John. "Practical exercises too. Here is a man who wants to find how many sheep he has. He counts them so he will know he has half of them. This half he puts into a pasture. Then he counts out a third and puts it in another pen. Next he counts what's left and finds he has thirty-two. After a little figuring he finds how many in the whole flock. Very practical. I guess dad didn't study that book."

The next problem he examined was Mene's Inductive Arithmetic, edition of 1870. In miscellaneous examples he found the following:

"Two ladders will together just reach the top of a building seventy-five feet high. If the shorter ladder is two-thirds the length of the other, what is the length of each?"

"Why didn't we measure each ladder separately?" John asked himself. "That problem is not practical. I guess dad is older than I thought. I want an older book."

The text written in 1828 was handed to him. The book was evidently influenced by the civil war, for it was filled with problems dealing with battering down fortifications and the surrender of soldiers. One problem was:

"If twelve pieces of cannon (eighteen pounders) can batter down a fortress in three hours, how long will it take for nineteen twenty-four pounders to batter down the same fortress?"

"That's fine for a general," John replied. "I don't say that I am going to be a captain of artillery."

Another arithmetic of the same date had the famous fish problem with which John's teacher had troubled him for six weeks before he himself finally explained it to the class. The fish problem is:

"The head of a fish is ten inches long. Its tail is as long as its head and one-half the body. The body is as long as the head and tail both. How long is the fish?"

Very hard problem for a butcher. John turned to the Common School Arithmetic, edition of 1853. "Here I'm sure to find something good," he reflected and read:

"A hare starts up twelve rods before a hound, but she is not perceived by him till she has been up one and one-fourth minutes. She runs at the rate of thirty-six rods a minute, and the hound runs at the rate of forty rods a minute. How long will the race last, and what will be the distance the hound runs?"

"What difference does it make how far the hound runs?" John asked as he turned to the Scholar's Arithmetic, edition of 1867. The present high cost of living made the first problem impractical for present day purposes. John concluded. The problem was as follows:

"I give fifty bushels of potatoes to a man who has a bag and 240 pounds of flax at 15 cents a pound for sixty-four bushels of salt, what is the salt worth a bushel?"

Another problem was:

"A good man driving his guest to market was met by another, who said, 'Good morning, master, with your 100 geese.' Says he in reply, 'I have not 100 geese, but if I had half as many as I now have and two and one-half geese besides the number I now have already I should have 100.' How many geese had the man?"

How long would you permit a man to live if he made such an answer to you?

"That's John's staid as he wiped his forehead and handed the book back to the librarian. "Did must have skipped these practical problems,"—Kansas City Star.

FRIDAY, JUNE, 24, 1910.

Good roads are the thing that must come.

Get on the good roads wagon and go forward.

As I said unto you, even so say I again—good roads.

The candidates are busy and other folks are at work.

Will Greenville ever have a park or place for out door recreation?

When a man thinketh he standeth he falls in a mud hole. Talk good roads.

Both sides of the family in Wake county are saying mighty hard things about each other.

One thing about the flying machine, it can go high enough not to frighten the mule.

The aviation dance is the newest fangle. Guess some wings will go along with it.

Whatever a man sows that shall he also reap—if the rain does not come and wash it away.

If they beat the governor of California in the fight matter, he has certainly given it a big advertisement.

The governor of California says the Jeffries-Johnson fight shall not take place in that State.

If North Carolina does not get a square deal it will not be the fault of our senators and congressmen.

It looks like some Northern papers had rather lie than tell the truth when printing things concerning the South.

Possibly the way they arrived at the correct pronunciation of automobile is that the biggest part of it is the bill.

The man whom the Florida mob lynched by mistake cannot express his approval or disapproval of the error.

An exchange says the campaign in Wake county is at fever heat. Something ought to be given to reduce the fever.

When you see a network of good roads all over Pitt county you will feel like a different man. They are coming, too.

Yes, it is dull, but you do not help things by complaining about it. A better plan is to do some hustling and advertise.

T. Roosevelt has expressed the desire to drop out of public sight for the time being. Didn't know he would ever grow tired of the strenuous life.

A Pensacola, Fla., mob that went out to do some lynching got the wrong man. The mistake made their crime all the worse.

You need not worry over the governor of California breaking up the Jeffries-Johnson fight as long as the Wake county scrap is in progress.

It is better for Raleigh that the legislature did not meet in extra session, as there is already enough going on in Wake to keep the people occupied.

Don't forget that little matter of listing your taxes. You haven't got much, you know, so it will only be a small job and take but little of your time.

So many aviators have come to the front now that you seldom hear the Wrights mentioned. Yet they once seemed to have a monopoly on the flying machine.

Getting close to the time for primaries and county convention to select delegates to State, congressional and judicial conventions. The primaries for county officers will come later.

In a column dispatch of some of the Tuesday morning papers about the marriage of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. to Miss Eleanor Alexander, just nineteen lines were given to talking about the bridegroom's father.

The Vermont Grand Army of the Republic has adopted a resolution condemning the action of the State of Virginia in placing the statue of Gen. R. E. Lee in stately hall at Washington. Who cares what Vermont thinks about it?

Why don't you talk more politics? a would-be candidate wants to know. Hang politics, man, we want good roads. And the man who wants to go to the legislature had better let it be known where he stands on this question.

In Virginia a law has just gone into effect which makes it a misdemeanor for any person to use profane or indecent language over the telephone. The penalty upon conviction being not over $100. That is not a bad law.

The bitter campaign between the ring and anti-ring factions in Wake county over the nominations, makes us wonder how the line up is going to be after the nominations are made and the real fight comes on between the Democrats and the Republicans.

Justice Brown, of the United States Supreme court, believes that the government should disarm and not be pushing preparations for war. He is right. All the nations should disarm and there should be universal peace.

The promoters ought to have felt of the governor of California to learn how he stood on the fight before they dropped $25,000 in the big pavilion that was being prepared for it. The fighters and spectators can move to Reno, but the pavilion cannot go along with them.

You may forget to list your taxes, but the list taker will not forget that you failed to do so, nor will the county commissioners forget to impose the double tax penalty prescribed for such failure. You had best get busy and interview the list taker. There is just a week left in which to do this.

As long as there is no occasion for any to be offered at present, the hint can be dropped without fear of getting on anybody's toes, that it is no longer good taste to put cards of thanks in the newspapers. Hereafter The Reflector will make a charge of one cent a word for cards of thanks or resolutions of respect that it prints. If any are sent to the paper for publication the sender should count the words and enclose the price accordingly.

There are people who stand with their shoulder constantly to the wheel, doing all they can for the advancement and upbuilding of their community. There are others who never put forth a helping hand toward community building, but are ever ready to take advantage for their personal benefit of what the town and community builders do. The non helpers simply stand by and wait for their property to enhance in value from what the others do. Towns and communities grow faster when all are united and work together for progress. Let's all get together to advance Greenville and Pitt county.

The Greenville Reflector, like The Times here, is agitating a park for Greenville. We hope The Reflector is meeting with more encouragement at Greenville than The Times. Both of these growing towns need a park and the longer the purchase of a lot is deferred the greater will be the cost if the park is to be in a convenient location—Wilson Times.

If The Times is meeting with any encouragement at all on the park matter, it is that much ahead of what The Reflector has found. Both towns do need parks, no doubt about that, and some of these days the people will realize how unwise they were in failing to make such provision.

One thing good can be said for Greenville that deserves notice and that is we have such a decent lot of men and boys that a near-beer saloon can't prosper here. Of course there is some of the vile stuff sold, but it is handled as a side line, and not through an imitation saloon, the one that was here having moved away for the lack of patronage.

Raise the license tax and run it all out so that we will continue to have a good moral tone. We wish we could say that blind tigers couldn't prosper here also, but the old socks will have it you know. They will die a natural (?) death though after a while and then we will be the better for prohibition. Near-beer and blind tigers are two things we will rejoice in seeing pass away.

Listen, gentlemen to this answer by Parson Whichard, of the Greenville Reflector, to a request for a description of Editor Cowan, of the Wilmington Dispatch: "He might easily be taken for our twin brother. He is just a little bit larger in size and almost as good looking, but we outshined him on the hair proposition, his top knot only reaching a sandy hue. If so near like us, you know he is bound to be the real article. If Cowan can't recover under the libel law for that there is no justice in the courts.—Salisbury Post.

It would be a matter of the deepest regret to have the serenity and fraternal good feeling, existing between the members of the Press Association disturbed, but if Bro. Cowan don't institute that libel suit he will have done himself a great injustice, and charges ought to be preferred against him at the next meeting.—Concord Tribune.

Say, you fellows stop that racket. You are both jealous because you haven't got brilliant top knots like Cowan's and ours. And you can't make any break between us by your libel talk. At any rate you might wait for Cowan to "acknowledge the compliment." He is of age, let him speak for himself.

THE REFLECTOR COMPANY.

In order to increase facilities and enlarge its sphere of usefulness, both as a newspaper and job printing establishment, The Reflector has been incorporated under the name of The Reflector Company. This step places The Reflector in better position to reach its ambition of being the leading paper in the first congressional district and of having a job printing plant surpassed by none in its field. What we hope to do is to have a daily and weekly newspaper truly representative of this progressive section, and in which the people who patronize it can feel a pride and be glad to call their paper.

Early in May after it was definitely decided to incorporate the business, which had been in contemplation for sometime, orders were placed for a linotype machine, folding machine, an extra job press and other equipment for the plant, and the installation of these has since been going on. Still further equipment will be added from time to time as the business develops, that the plant may be recognized for its completeness and ability to turn out the very best work.

The present editor, who has conducted The Reflector for more than a quarter of a century, is a large shareholder in the enterprise, has been elected president of the company, and asks every patron to lend his aid in helping to make The Reflector a useful and creditable newspaper. We feel gratified at having associated with us in this work a class of men of the highest integrity and business qualifications, and who are interested in the development of this eastern section.

The officers of The Reflector Company are as follows: President, D. J. Whichard. Vice President, A. G. Cox. Secretary and Treasurer, B. B. Sugg.

Assistant Secretary and Treasurer, C. B. Whichard.

Directors—D. J. Whichard, O. L. Joyner, S. J. Everett, H. W. Whedbee, R. J. Cobb, C. W. Wilson and Dr. C. O'H. Laughlinhouse.

made in the appearance of The Reflector until about the first of July, and after that time the paper will speak for itself.

This tops it. A man who had been confined in jail at Southport prints a card about the excellent treatment received at the hands of the theesteemed jailer. He says—"I wish to say in behalf of myself, my boys and Mr. Bullard that Sheriff Knox and his jailer and deputies have been as kind to us and as courteous to us as obliging to us as we could expect to be treated. I make this statement in justice to these officers to contradict a report that I have heard of being circulated against them. I want to thank them, and also the people of Southport for kindness shown us while we were imprisoned." Reminds us of some other cards of thanks seen in the papers.—Greensboro Record.

It is said that a French workman never goes in debt without first seeing where the money is to come from to get out, in which he is quite different from most men in this country. What most of us want is a chance to get in debt; getting out is left to the other fellow.—Greensboro Record.

It will be time enough for the Democratic party to be looking around for a candidate for president after it has found out that it is going to be allowed to put up anybody.—Durham Herald.

SUCCESS OF TRAINING SCHOOL.

Making a Remarkable Record and Capacity Nearly Twice Overrun.

It is a requirement in several counties that public school teachers attend some summer school for four weeks. The first four weeks of the summer term at East Carolina Teachers' Training School ended Saturday, and some forty odd of the four weeks' classes left today for their respective homes. Many others who came with the intention of taking the four weeks' course have expressed themselves as so delighted with the teacher training that the school is giving that they cannot afford to miss it and are going to remain through the full ten weeks' summer term. Still others are coming in to take the places of those who leave.

Up to the present time, since the school opened last October, the individual enrollment, not counting twice those who first entered for the regular term and then re-entered for the summer term, has reached 470, about twice the normal working capacity of the school. For a new institution this is a remarkable record and indicates the phenomenal success of the school. It also bears strong testimony of the thorough work of the school and foretells that the East is destined to have the greatest educational institution in North Carolina.

President Wright and his excellent faculty are enthused with their work and are gratified at the success of the school, and everybody rejoices with them in this.

More Pitt Counties in Norfolk.

The Consolidated Produce Co. is a new concern that opened here June 2, at Roanoke Dock, the place vacated by J. W. Banks Co., who skipped last week. The partners in the Consolidated Produce Co. are J. W. Lee, M. B. Bryan and Kittrell & Co., of Winterville, N. C., Messrs. Lee and Bryan are here looking after the receipt of consignments, and will be the local representatives of the company. They expect to do a general commission business in all produce, including poultry, eggs, fruits, vegetables, meats, hides, etc.—Produce News.

THE FATS AND THE THINS.

Brilliant Game of Ball for Independence Day.

On the next anniversary of our national independence, Monday, July 4th, Greenville is to have a game of base ball that is the real article. It will be purely a local affair between the fats and the thins of the town, and the proceeds of the game, which should be large in contemplation of the immense amount of fun, will be divided between the Greenville public library and the Greenville baseball team.

Daily practices among the fats and the thins have already begun with a view of each side selecting its line up for the contest. There are many on both sides to select from, and those fortunate enough to get a call "on deck" must win that honor by their skill with the hickory, twirling the sphere, or dexterous springing. Here are the candidates for honors:

Fats—Dr. E. A. Moye, R. L. Humber, Hayward Dail, A. M. Moseley, Ernest Daughtridge, Simon Moye, Charlie Moore, Charlie Forbes, Herbert White, Roy Flanagan, C. W. Wilson, D. C. Moore, Paul Metrick, Z. T. Broughton, Harry Whedbee, Jimmie Starkey, W. H. Long, Walter Dreaback.

Thins—Sam White, Stuart Carr, E. H. Taft, Tom Duke, Fred Forbes, Tom Hooker, Kid Skinner, Claude Tunstall, Dolly Overton, James Little, R. H. Wright, T. A. Person, W. A. B. Y. Z. Hearn, E. B. (Bandy) Ficklen, Reddy Clark, D. C. Beach, Frank Wooten, Triv. Hooker, Robert Jeffries, W. H. Klagsdale.

NORFOLK SOUTHERN WRECK.

Freight Train Gets Off Track and Delays Passenger Trains.

The Norfolk Southern railway had considerable trouble Saturday night and Sunday, and in consequence passenger trains, especially on Sunday, were put badly off of schedule time.

Owing to softening of the road bed by excessive rains, a freight train in which were several heavy coal cars, got off the track Saturday evening a few miles above Wilson. Until a track could be constructed around the wreck, passenger trains had to meet there and transfer. The train from Raleigh due here at 12:30 Sunday morning did not come in until 8:45, a little over eight hours late. The excursion train to Morehead and Beaufort, due to pass here at 8:36 a. m., was two hours late, hence very few people went on it.

Nervous Break-Down

Nerve energy is the force that controls the organs of respiration, circulation, digestion and elimination. When you feel weak, nervous, irritable, sick, it is often because you lack nerve energy, and the process of rebuilding and sustaining life is interfered with. Dr. Miles' Nerveine has cured thousands of such cases, and will we believe benefit if not entirely cure you. Try it.

"My nervous system gave away completely, and left me on the verge of the grave. I tried a skilled physician but got no permanent relief. I got so bad I had to give up my business. I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerveine. In a few days I was much better, and I continued to improve until entirely cured. I am in business again, and never miss an opportunity to recommend this remedy."—Miss W. L. BURKES, Myrtle Creek, Oregon.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Nerveine, and we authorize him to refund price of first bottle (only) if it fails to benefit you.

R. W. Smith, one of Pitt county's most substantial sons, died at his home, near Ayden, on Tuesday June 15th, in his 42nd year.

He was a man without a single fault and his friends were numbered by his acquaintances. We have known him from boyhood, and have been closely associated with him in many ways and in his exemplary life, we have never seen, nor have we heard him criticised in any way. He was patient, sober, and industrious. His word was his bond, his life was one continued sermon. He leaves a wife and five children. His interment was a pathetic scene, strong men and women weeping as children. He was buried near the old home stead, on the Tar road, beside his father, who preceded him only a few years. Rev. T. H. King conducted the funeral obsequies.

MISS VENETIA COX ENTERTAINS. For the last few weeks the home of Dr. B. T. Cox has been the centre of social life for our little village, Miss Maude Louise Keehn, of Salem, being the guest of Miss Venia Cox, who several evening ago, gave a six course luncheon in honor of Miss Keehn, and on Monday evening June 20th, a delightful party, as a fitting climax of the enjoyable social functions.

After a few minutes spent in very pleasant progressive conversation, there were various amusements, the most interesting of which was a drawing contest that engrossed the attention of each one for sometime.

Miss Mimie Cox was the winner of the first prize—a picture, and she did it just as well as the body was won by Mr. Jesse Rollins.

Refreshments consisting of cream and cake were served. Several selections of music were rendered before the hour of parting when each declared that a most delightful evening had been spent.

The New York Sunday World, ever alert to supply its readers with the most popular music, will give two songs from the Mikado, One is "Three Little Maids From School Are We," and the other is "For He's Going to Marry Yum Yum." Words and music complete. Sunday World June 26 and July 3.

Why Do Town People Wait?

There are not many more days left for tax listing, yet the list takers tell us that not many of the people living in town have listed. Just why they wait to get in the rush of the last few days of listing time is not easily explained, but it seems to be a habit they have fallen into.

When you know a thing must be done, it is just as well to go along and attend to it.
