

JOE JOHNSON CAUGHT THURSDAY IN RALEIGH

FRED BARNHILL RECOGNIZES HIM AND CALLS POLICE.

Johnson Implicated in The Murder of Luke Harris Last Sunday Morning—Officer Goes After Him.

Had not the colored excursion been run today from Greenville, Joe Johnson, a colored citizen of that town, would be a free man at this very hour, but instead, fate was against him and at this writing is resting quietly behind the prison bars, awaiting the officers from Greenville, where he is wanted on a charge of murder.

F. B. Barnhill, a negro passenger on the train, came out of the union depot and saw Joe Johnson standing there on the sidewalk. Barnhill at once recognized his man as the one who shot Luke Harris and phoned for the police. The patrol wagon was sent down and Joe was given a ride up to the station house where he was searched and a pistol found on his person.

It was learned that Johnson is a bad man around Greenville, being a drinking man and one who works just occasionally. It is said he has served a sentence on the county roads of that county. Luke Harris was a quiet, peaceable fellow and worked for Dr. Laughinghouse.

While sitting in the presence of Chief Stell the negro seemed very nervous, but was well dressed.—Raleigh Times.

Sheriff L. W. Tucker received a telegram from Chief of Police Stell, of Raleigh, Thursday afternoon, advising that Johnson had been arrested there, and asking that an officer be sent for him. Deputy Sheriff R. Hyman left this morning for Raleigh and will return tonight with the prisoner.

JOE JOHNSON ARRAIGNED.

Justice Rountree Commits Him to Jail Without Bail.

Deputy Sheriff R. Hyman returned from Raleigh Friday night with Joe Johnson, who was arrested there Thursday. Johnson, who is implicated in the murder of Luke Harris, last Sunday morning, was given a preliminary hearing today before Justice C. D. Rountree, who committed the prisoner to jail without bail.

Two witnesses were examined in behalf of Johnson, and he was also put on the stand. The two witnesses testified that they saw Frank Forbes and Joe Johnson enter the house of Annie Hinton together, and saw Luke Harris go there a little later. The pistol shot was heard a few minutes after Harris went in. They also saw Forbes push Johnson out the door, Forbes saying that Johnson had shot Harris.

Johnson testified that it was Forbes that shot Harris, and that after shooting Forbes pushed him (Johnson) out of the door. He said Forbes gave him the pistol with which Harris was shot and $3 in money, and told him to go away. It was the same pistol that the officer found on him when he was arrested in Raleigh.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL VIEW.

Making the Most of an Unwise Marriage.

Even in our unsystematic union when I felt that I had not an atom of influence over my husband, I was making an undeniable impression upon him, so that the old home when he returned to it was not the satisfying place it once had been; and the new home, indifferent as he had appeared to it, was after all the best place on earth to him.

On this slender foundation of encouragement I began the evolution of our life. It was not an easy task that I had taken upon myself. The love with which I had married my husband was dead, and in its place was only a mild sort of respect for the new interest he was manifesting in me and our home; his love for me I had questioned for years.

But this much I had in favor of success: I was making the most of every favorable indication rather than constantly comparing Richard's conduct unfavorably with some imagined "affinity."

Richard began spending his evenings more and more with me, and I strove to the limit of my ability to make myself interesting. I humored his hobby for horses, and we rode much. I interested him in reading by introducing something about which I required his superior knowledge of men and the business world. This led to other reading, until we have reached a position of mutual interest in literature. As he read more his ideas of life broadened, and we found ourselves less at variance on many points.

We gradually grew more confidential, and learned much of each other's natures never before understood. For instance, I found that very often his indifferent manner was but a mask for his deeper feelings, and that he actually did not know how to express himself about matters that touched him most sincerely. On the other hand, I told him of the little graces and attentions that meant so much to me, but which were entirely foreign to his scheme of life. So we learned of each other many things that broadened both our lives; and herein lies one of the great advantages of married existence when both enter into it believing that both have much to take as well as give.—September Designer.

COTTEN-TYSON.

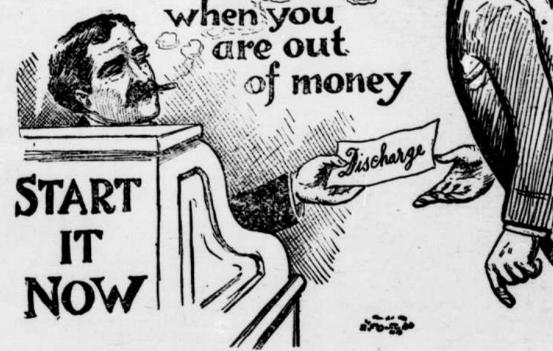

North Carolinian Weds a Baltimore Society Leader in England.

Baltimore, Aug. 4.—Information has been received in Baltimore from Seven Oaks, Kent, England, to the effect that Mrs. Edith Tyson, widow of Jesse Tyson, was married to Lieut. Bruce Cotten, United States Army, of North Carolina, yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at Tunbridge Wells, in the parish church by the Vicar, and was exceedingly quiet. The only persons present were a few friends of the contracting parties.

Following the ceremony Lieutenant and Mrs. Cotten left in the motor car of Mrs. Douglas Wesson, a friend of the couple and they will spend their honeymoon motoring about England. Later they will visit a number of places on the continent, and it is possible that they will remain in England a year or more before returning to America.

ALDERMAN BUSY UNTIL TWO O'CLOCK A. M.

DISCUSSING STREET IMPROVEMENTS AND OTHER MATTERS.

Levy Taxes for The Year—Motion Permitting Cold Drinks Sold on Sunday Passed, Then Reconsidered.

The board of aldermen of Greenville met in regular monthly session Thursday night, with all the members present. The meeting continued until nearly 2 o'clock.

The street committee made a report in respect to the Norfolk Southern crossing in Dickinson avenue, that the railroad preferred to take up the brick between the rails and replace with plank. It was referred to the street committee for decision.

The matter of improving Eighth street was deferred, other streets needing more attention at present.

The street committee also recommended postponement of extending culvert across Third street at Yellowley branch, but propositions from C. T. Munford and W. H. Harrington, to help do the work, the board voted to build the culvert and fill in the street there.

Postmaster R. C. Flanagan appeared before the board in regard to free city delivery of mail to be established by the government, and called attention to certain requirements that must be complied with before the service begins. The mayor was instructed to have these requirements met as early as possible.

A proposition of W. H. Harrington's for the extension and opening of Fourth street eastward through his property, was referred to the street committee for report and recommendation to a subsequent meeting.

The street committee was instructed to notify D. W. Hardee to put down cement sidewalk by his property on south side of Fifth street.

It was ordered that the width of Fifth street between Pitt and the A. C. L. railroad be made 49 1-2 feet. Also that the driveway portion of this street between Evans and Pitt be made 29 1-2 feet wide.

The finance committee recommended the following tax levy for the year 1910 which was adopted: For general purposes 66 cents, maintenance of schools 40 cents, first series improvement bonds 15 cents, second series 17 cents, funding bonds 5 cents, school bonds 2 cents. Total $1.45 on each $100 valuation; poll tax $4.35.

The cemetery committee reported that work was in progress and that the cemetery would soon be in good condition.

The street committee was instructed to collect Fourth street paving accounts.

The several officers made reports for the past month which was accepted.

Applications of J. H. Barnhill and L. B. Fleming for position as foreman of the street hands, were referred to the street committee.

Bills as approved by the finance committee were allowed and orders issued to pay same.

It was ordered that concrete crossing be put on Evans street at the intersection of Eighth street.

The water and light commission was instructed to put street lights on the corner of Washington and Eighth streets, and on the corner of Cotanch and Tenth streets.

The clerk was instructed to prepare a financial statement of the town for the past fiscal year and have the same published.

A motion was made and carried by a majority of one, to allow drug stores to sell cold drinks on Sundays from 8 to 10 a. m., and from 4 to 6 p. m. This was later reconsidered and action deferred to a later meeting.

The recommendation of the finance committee that no accounts be paid at a regular meeting unless the same are in the hands of the clerk on Wednesday before the first Thursday in each month, in order that the finance committee may check over and approve them, is explanation why some bills were not paid at this meeting.

A Sensible Doctor.

The Chronicle is in entire accord with Dr. Neff, the director or health for the city of Philadelphia, in his explanation as to the number of cases of typhoid fever brought back annually by persons returning from vacations. Dr. Neff says that 25 per cent. of the typhoid fever cases in Philadelphia can be traced directly to infection at summer outing places. He believes that many people would be better off if they stayed at home through their vacation time, declaring that they "returned to the city after a short vacation weakened and run down from dissipation, late hours and the strenuous life led during their outing, instead of returning refreshed and strengthened by spending their time in a proper and healthful manner." In a bulletin, Dr. Neff gives this advice to those who do go away: "Avoid eating fruit that is green or over-ripe. Ripe fruit is not injurious. Do not frequent places where flies are numerous especially in the kitchen and where food supplies are kept." All this is the deliverance of a sensible doctor.—Charlotte Observer.

Explanation.

Two years ago while the bridge across Tar river was being built and the county was operating a ferry, some people who did not want to take their horses across the ferry left them in my charge on C. T. Munford's farm, north of the river. For this a small charge was made, just sufficient to pay a man for caring for the horses and feeding them.

Some persons are now making the charge against Mr. Munford, who is a candidate for county treasurer, that he charged people for the privilege of leaving their horses in his lots and stables. Mr. Munford had nothing to do with this small charge being made, but I alone was responsible for it, and the charge was only enough to cover the actual expenses incurred.

LARGE CROWD AT OPENING.

Central Mercantile Co. Open Doors at Sale.

Visitors down the street about 9.30 o'clock this morning were attracted to the store of the Central Mercantile Co. by a large crowd which was gathered in front waiting for the doors to open at the big sale just begun there.

The crowd continued large all day and the purchasers seem to be highly pleased with the bargains they are getting.

Mr. A. E. Tucker is in charge of the sale and is dealing out bargains, the kind of which has never been seen here, just as advertised in the big posters.

The floor space was too small for the crowd and the doors had to be kept close until noon, only admitting the capacity of the store at a time.

WHERE THE SOUTH LOST.

Two or Three Ways by Which New England Forged Ahead of Us.

New England was wise enough to see that buying negroes to do poor work did not pay, and that educating her own children to do good work did pay. The South has fallen behind because it has had the wrong end of both these propositions. Thank God, however, we are at last waking up and are beginning to train our own people, and we shall soon begin to give our Southern children the same educational advantages that the New England children have had, and so have our agricultural and manufacturing development such as will make us worthy rivals of New England even in material prosperity.

Just in this connection, moreover, I am reminded that while New England has been far too wise to allow her children to be worked in cotton mills, or any other manufacturing enterprises, thousands of our own white children have been stunted in body and mind in order to make dividends for New England capital invested in the South. In Massachusetts no child under fourteen is allowed to work in a factory under any circumstances whatever; no child under, or between fourteen and sixteen, unless able to read and write,—and not only to read and write, but to read and write well enough to enter the fourth grade,—and no child is allowed to do night work under any circumstances. More than this, no child can be employed by any factory unless a sworn certificate as to its age be given by its parents, and this certificate approved as correct by the local school committee or their agent, and kept on file for inspection by truancy officers whose duty it is to see that all children who ought to be in school. Going further, the manufacturer must keep posted, a list of the names of all minors employed by him, and the State employs fourteen factory inspectors, a part of whose duties it is to see that these laws are enforced.

Massachusetts is far too wise to sacrifice her future by grinding out the lives of little children, however much the Yankee may be said to care for the dollar. It is with shame that we confess that the same can not be said of every Southern State.—Clarance Poe, in Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

It Does Pay.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expense for advertising, wedding outfit, etc., was $11. He died within a year, leaving her an insurance policy of $10,000. And yet some people claim that it doesn't pay to advertise.

Fortunate The Opening Postponed.

It is a good thing for the farmers and warehousemen also that the tobacco market did not open the first of August this year, as it has done formerly. Selling tobacco such weather as this would not be any good job.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank the good people of Greenville, who were so kind to my wife during her long term of ill health, and to us of the family who are left to mourn our great loss of wife and mother.
JOHN S. CONGLETON.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the tobacco growers of Eastern North Carolina:

With the opening of the tobacco market August 18th, the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company begins its eighth year of service in the interest of tobacco farmers.

Our record for seven years, during which we have paid to tobacco growers who own the stock of this company over 140 per cent in cash dividends is irrefutable argument to sustain us in saying—that this company is operated for and in the interest of those who grow tobacco. In addition to this, by our methods of placing every branch of our business in charge of thoroughly competent men who have no other interest than to discharge their duty to the patrons of the company, we have paid those farmers who are not stockholders thousands of dollars more than similar tobacco sold for on the other warehouse floors.

During last year we paid our customers a little over sixty thousand dollars more than the same tobacco sold for on other floors, as reported under oath by the warehousemen to the secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade. You ask why this is so, and how could this company pay the farmer more than other warehouses. Well, we did it, and we have proven it beyond the shadow of a doubt. The answer, however, as to how we did it, should claim the attention of every man who has tobacco to sell. If this question is seriously studied by the tobacco growers it will result in increasing the business and therefore the usefulness of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company more than anything we could do or say. It is to the intelligence and common sense of the people that have appealed, and on which we shall continue to rely for support and patronage.

We have a strong organization of intelligent farmers in Eastern North Carolina that is doing more for the well being of the farmers; doing more to give them useful, reliable information; more to bring about an intelligent understanding of the application of supply and demand, measured by the results that have been accomplished since its organization, than all the calamity howlers, hard time pushers or political spouters have ever done since the dawn of time. The farmers, the plain common sense people of the country know this, and knowing it, they have given this company their confidence and patronage. For this, we desire to acknowledge our profound appreciation and gratitude, and for continued confidence and esteem; in the future as in the past, we shall endeavor in every possible, honorable way to prove to you that we are worthy of, and entitled to it.

With best wishes to the tobacco growers of Eastern North Carolina, and hoping for you, that which you deserve, profitable and satisfactory prices during the coming season, we are,

Yours very respectfully,
Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co.,
O. L. JOYNER, President.

WHALE NEARLY CAPSIZES BOAT.

Tennesseans Have Thrilling Experience at Beaufort Inlet.

(Special to The Reflector.)
Atlantic Hotel, Morehead City, Aug. 9.—This afternoon while Colonel Tate and son and Mr. Hardee, of Tennessee, were out in Capt. Charles Bennett's boat trawling for macerel, a large whale arose about 20 feet astern at the time they were near the sea by the inlet, about two miles from Morehead City. Capt. Bennett says the whale was the species known as fishing whale, and was probably following a school of mackerel. From what the party could see of the whale the monster was fully 30 feet long. They think the boat had just passed over the whale before it came to the surface. The whale coming up so near the boat gave the occupants some fright, but after it was over they were glad to have had the unusual experience of seeing the monster.

TENN. GIRLS IN NEW YORK.

Mayor Gaynor Captivated by Fair Southerners—He's "Just Lovely"

Mayor Gaynor was "captured"—it appears also that he was captivated—yesterday by twenty-two of the fairest daughters Tennessee ever let pass outside her borders. All of the machinery of the city government assembled under the roof of the City Hall also was stopped by their invasion.

The Mayor's callers are winners in a popularity contest (Mr. Gaynor suggested beauty contest) held by the Nashville American. The prize is the trip to the metropolis, in charge of W. N. Hudiburg, business manager of the newspaper.

After the visitors had assembled in the reception room of the City Hall and shaken hands with the Mayor, they adjourned to the main steps and posed for a photograph. Mayor Gaynor, as the central figure in the picture, seemed to enjoy his surroundings immensely.

"What do you think of me, anyway?" the Mayor asked Miss Gussie Dodd and Miss Zelma Stokes, who came in for much of the Mayor's attention. Both agreed that he was "just lovely."

Mayor Gaynor made a short address, in which he complimented the South on its beautiful women, but added loyally that Greater New York has her proportion of fair ones.

The Tennessee visitors will be here eight days. Their plans tonight call for a theatre party, and tomorrow night they will be initiated into the pleasures of Coney Island.—New York World, 5th.

Rochdale Items.

Rochdale, N. C., Aug. 4, 1910. Rochdale's nine went to Farmville Thursday evening and crossed bats with the Farmville boys and came out in defeat. The score being 8 to 6 in favor of Farmville. Rochdale was ahead until just at the last when they made one mistake which gave Farmville three runs and put them two ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn, Mrs. Mills Smith, Joe and Miss Tilley Smith, attended the Hookerton Union meeting at Red Oak Saturday and Sunday.

The Free Will Baptists of the second district held their union meeting at Arthur Friday, Saturday and Sunday. They had very good preaching to large congregations on Sunday. I don't think more than half of the crowd could be seated. The business was transacted in love and unity. The preachers present were R. R. Jones, G. C. Vause, W. W. Lupton, D. A. Windham, C. B. Jones, and E. L. St. Claire.

Miss Mary Ellen Kittrell, of Farmville, is visiting Misses Callie and Hilda Smith, of Smithtown, this week.

We have heard this evening of some bold stealing. George Hemby, colored, who lives a little more than a mile from Rochdale, went out in the woods this morning to cut some wood and came up with a negro that had a hog butchered very nicely. He told George to go and get some meal and bring him and he would give him some meat. Of course George went, but when he returned he had the officer with him who arrested the man and took him to jail. The man said he slept in a car at Hemby's siding last night. We did not learn his name. He told George that he had been in the woods for three years.

A LETTER FROM MR. HASKETT.

He Writes Interestingly of the Farmers' Institutes.

Edenton, N. C., Aug. 8, 1910. Editor Reflector:

This is the sixth county that the Farmers' Institute people have been in and the attendance is something great.

Last January I was with the State party in fifteen counties, the attendance was small then, not being more than 200 at any one meeting, but now we find the court houses filled and some of them to an overflow. What does all this mean? Farmers are awakening to their own interest and realizing that they are getting great benefit from these meetings, and why shouldn't they? The doctors, the lawyers, the merchants, and the mill men seek every opportunity to keep up with the times by reading the latest books, procuring the latest machinery and spare no expense in preparing themselves for their vocations of life.

The Hon. John H. Small has charge of this party and every farmer should hear his remarks on soil improvements, better drainage, good roads and agricultural schools. He is sowing seed that will germinate, grow and mature and will leave impressions upon the minds of the people in this generation that will continue to grow on and on into the future.

And last, but not least, the Progressive Farmer is doing its part of this work and while these men can only come to the people once each year the Progressive Farmer comes 52 times.

We came from Columbia by the Scuppernon and Albmarle sound and reached here at 8.30 p. m. It makes a fellow feel a little peculiar to pass over water from 8 to 78 feet deep in a small launch and a little stormy, too. D. D. HASKETT.

The Proof That Greenville Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

Mrs. T. S. Norman, 911 Evans St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I gladly give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement, as they have proven of greater benefit to me than any other remedy I ever used. I suffered severely from a dull ache through the small of my back. There was also a soreness across my kidneys and I was hardly able to get around on account of sharp, darting pains through my loins. Upon arising in the morning, I felt tired and languid and had but little ambition or energy. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wooten's drug store, the backaches and pains have disappeared, I do not suffer from backache and that tired, languid feeling has disappeared."

George W. Baker.

Little George W. Baker, the infant son of Mrs. George W. Baker, after a few days' illness died at Beaufort, N. C., August 1. He was brought home to Greenville and interred in Cherry Hill cemetery August 2. He was just one year and two months old, but in this short time had become the idol of his mother's heart. It was in him that all her hopes of the future were centered as his father had recently died and left him as the only living child of the family. O! what a ray of sunshine, hope and promise he was to the dear mother, who in the years passed has seen so many of her loved ones summoned to the other shore. With our finite minds we can't understand why this sunbeam should be taken from this household; but when we remember that our heavenly Father doeth all things well and in love, we must know it is right, though we may not see it.

Yes, removed from earth he left a vacant place in her home, but oh! to think of the years all through an endless eternity where he will be happy in heaven. This idol will be no more visible here, but with the eye of faith and trust his mother can look beyond time and the horizon of the natural eye and see him fondly enfolded in the arms of his Saviour, in the presence of his father, sisters, grandmother and other dear ones, who have preceded him to that better land and who wait the coming of the dear ones who are still lingering on the shores of time. "Sometime we'll understand." Until then let us all trust in our Father's wisdom and with faith in Him and unbounded love towards Him, say even amid our deepest sorrows, "Father, thy will be done." A FRIEND.

Pitt Hears Sound Doctrine.

We have heretofore called attention to the good roads propaganda which is being carried on in Pitt county this summer. Some months ago the Greenville chamber of commerce made plans for a mass-meeting to be held in Greenville at which the movement should be discussed, not in the abstract but with practical reference to the needs and possibilities of Pitt county. Behind the project lined up practically the entire population of the county, The Greenville Reflector doing yeoman's service, and the meeting on Monday which was the result shows what may be expected to follow such well-directed efforts. More than six hundred people gathered in the auditorium of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School and the seed sown fell into the best and most fruitful soil.

The gathering listened with eager interest to four addresses, which covered in outline the entire subject of good roads. Representative John H. Small, whose district includes Pitt county, emphasized the necessity for united action if good roads are to be obtained. Mr. Lester E. Boykin, road engineer of the United States Department of Agriculture pointed out the immense economic value of road improvement and showed why the sand-clay road is the type best adapted to that section. Dr. J. H. Pratt, president of the North Carolina Good Roads Association, discussed from a practical standpoint the various ways available for making serviceable roads, emphasizing the advantages presented by the issue of bonds. Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes presented education, agriculture and good roads as the three great issues before the people today, and showed how any advance in the two first named must depend upon a corresponding advance in the last.

These four addresses as a whole gave a bird's-eye view of the entire situation. The reasons why good roads are necessary and the best methods to obtain them were discussed in a very comprehensive and yet readily comprehensible way, and the logical result of such a meeting can be nothing else than a great advance in road making, the benefits of which will by no means be confined to Pitt. The county has given unmistakable evidence of its sensibility to progressive influences. Land values have doubled in the last ten years and within the last fifteen the county's school property has actually increased more than 600 per cent. When these figures are considered in the light of the natural advantages of soil and climate shared in common with the whole of eastern North Carolina, it would take the most doubting of doubting Thomases not to see that Pitt county is going to push the leaders in the honorable roll of North Carolina counties which have harkened to the good roads call.—Charlotte Observer.

Statute of Lee in Old Uniform in Hall.

President Taft has approved, without comment, an opinion by Attorney General Wickersham to the effect that there is no provision of law by which the statute of General Robert E. Lee, in Confederate uniform, can be removed from Statuary Hall in the capitol at Washington.

In addition to deciding the question on a purely legal basis, Mr. Wickersham urges the matter from the ethical point of view, declaring that Lee has come to be regarded as typifying all that was best in the cause to which he gave his services and the most loyal and unarmurming acceptance of the complete overthrow of that cause.

Why He Advertises.

A prominent business man of Michigan explains why he advertises and why he uses newspapers for that purpose as follows:

"I advertise in the newspapers because I am not ashamed of my goods or my work and to let people know about myself, my store and my stock; because I cater to the intelligent class, and they read the papers, and I believe in increasing my business; because I can talk to more people through the newspapers at a greater distance in less time and at a more reasonable price than in any other way; because my newspaper advertising has brought me greater returns for the least expenditure of any advertising I have done; because when I write an ad. I am not too stingy to pay for placing it in the best possible medium or to have it inserted so it is attractive; because I know my ad. is seen and read by every one in the house where the paper goes."

The Motor Was Working Well

A Canadian lawyer tells this story: A bailiff went out to levy on the contents of a house. The inventory began in the attic and ended in the cellar. When the dining-room was reached the tally of furniture ran thus:

- "One dining-room table, oak.
One set chairs (6), oak.
One sideboard, oak.

"Two bottles whiskey, full." Then the word "full" was stricken out and replaced by "empty," and the inventory went on in a hand that struggled and lured diagonally across the page until it closed with:

"One revolving door-mat."—Everybody's.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

"BACK TO THE FARM"

I.—The Growth of the Cities and the Increased Cost of Living.

By C. V. GREGORY, Author of "Home Course in Live Stock Farming," "Making Money on the Farm," "Home Course in Modern Agriculture," Etc.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

THE high cost of living, or the "cost of high living," as James J. Hill puts it, is a subject which just now is engrossing the attention of the entire nation.

The wage and salary earners in the cities have seen the "bread line" gradually drawing closer. The margin between income and expenses, narrow at best, has shrunk to the vanishing point.

Whatever the cause of this increase in the cost of necessities and comforts, there are but two ways in which the citizen as an individual can meet it. The first is to increase his income, and the second is to lower his standard of living. The wage earner, banded together with his fellows in a union, has been able to increase his scale of wages to some extent, though not nearly enough to fill the gap between income and expenses.

USING CORN FOR FUEL IN 1896.

The salaried man has borne the hardest brunt of the rising prices. He belongs to no union, and his demands for increased pay have brought little response.

All classes that are compelled to work for a living have had to turn to the other alternative in a greater or less degree. They have been forced to lower their standard of living.

As the cost of living increases the use of meat decreases, the proportion of dark rooms increases and child labor becomes plentiful. Less meat means poorer nourishment, less resistance to disease and a higher death rate.

lands of canned goods are used.

Aside from food, the big item of expense in the city is rent. In order to keep up with the increased cost of things property owners have been forced to raise rents. The frenzied crowding of the people to the cities has enabled landlords to make these increased rents effective.

Many causes have been advanced by economists and others to account for the rise in prices. Many blame the tariff, but that will not explain why prices are rising nearly as rapidly in England as in the United States.

Other writers try to lay the whole trouble to the growing extravagance of the American people and to the increased standard of living. It is true that at the present time we regard as necessities what yesterday were luxuries.

If we are to seek the real cause of this crisis that confronts our country we must go back to the old cause of supply and demand, coupled with other factors that have grown out of this. The period from 1870 to 1895 was the period of development of the middle west, the bread basket of the world.

By 1896 the middle west was pretty well settled. The bloom of its virgin fertility had been removed. Soon the days of using corn for fuel and wheat to feed the hogs were past.

In buying cough medicine don't be afraid to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is sure to follow.

they would soon have reached a normal level, and the readjustment would have come with little trouble. Unfortunately the tide of population toward the cities had become too strong to be turned in a day.

From 1880 to 1900 the percentage of farmers decreased from 44.3 to 35.6, a decrease of 8.7 per cent. During the same period the percentage of persons engaged in manufacturing increased from 21.8 to 24.3. This increase of 2.5 per cent is no more than normal and may be accounted for by the increase in the standard of living and the consequent demand for manufactured articles.

The great increase came in the number of persons engaged in trade and transportation, an increase of 5.5 per cent. Of the 16.3 per cent of the working people engaged in trade and transportation in 1900 only nine-tenths were engaged in transportation proper.

Here is the true explanation of the high cost of living. There are more than one-third as many men engaged in distributing food as there are in producing it. The consumer's dollar is worn thin before it gets to the producer.

to the 12,000,000 people who are doing nonproductive work and to the 40,000,000 people who do not work at all. And because the changed ratio of supply and demand are enabling the farmer to make a profit where before he worked at a loss there is a great outcry over the high cost of living.

There is only one remedy: a reversal of the tide of population. The abnormal growth of cities must be checked. Farming must be restored to its proper place in the industrial world.

In buying cough medicine don't be afraid to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is sure to follow.

Got His Receipt.

He had run up a small bill at the village store, and went to pay it, first asking for a receipt.

The proprietor grumbled and complained it was too small to give a receipt for. It would do just as well, he said, to cross the amount off, and so drew a diagonal pencil line across the book.

"Does that settle it?" asked the customer.

"Sure."

"An' ye'll niver be askin' for it again?"

"Certainly not."

"Faith, thin," said the other coolly, "an' I'll keep the money in me pocket."

"But I can rub that out," said the storekeeper.

"I thought so," said the customer dryly. "Maybe ye'll be givin' me a receipt now. Here's yer money."

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, God in His wisdom, has seen fit to call little George Baker to that home where only such as little children are found; and, whereas, He in His great love for children, has taken the child from the loving arms of it's heart-stricken mother, that it's spirit may dwell safely in His warm tender arms; and, whereas, He in taking the little one to be with Him has removed it from the Cradle Roll of our Sunday school, therefore be it resolved:

1st—That we of the Cradle Roll and the members of Memorial Baptist Sunday school express our deepest sympathy to the mother in this hour of bereavement.

2nd—That we of the Cradle Roll, though sad, willingly give up little George to be with Jesus, who was once a child and loves all children.

3rd—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the child's mother, a copy placed upon our Sunday school record, and a copy sent to The Daily Reflector for publication.

FAYORS LEGALIZED PRIMARY

Congressman Small Approves Suggestion for State Primary Election Law

Editor, Roanoke-Chowan Times:
I have read the editorial in your last issue advocating a primary election law for North Carolina. In my opinion your proposition is absolutely correct. The legislature should pass a primary law based upon the experience of other states, and under which every Democratic voter may exercise his individual preference in the nomination of candidates for office, and which shall insure honesty in primary elections and provide the necessary machinery for carrying into effect the will of the majority of the voters in their respective county conventions.

There can be no question that such a law would meet the approval of a large majority of the intelligent voters, and it would be strictly in line with the principles of the Democratic party.

It is no answer to the proposition to suggest that legalized primary would involve effort and that the machinery might be complicated. Nothing worth the having may be had without some sacrifice, and the price of government by the people affords no exception. Neither does it constitute any objection to say that the people may make mistakes. They may do so but if mistakes occur, they will be committed by those upon whom rests the responsibility of nominating candidates, and such mistakes will be infinitely preferable to those committed by a few who might assume to represent the body of the voters. Again if a mistake is made, the body of the voters of the party will blame themselves and they will rectify such mistakes within party lines when the next opportunity occurs.

If the Democratic party shall disintegrate and come to defeat, either in the state or in any county, it will more likely come from dissatisfaction based upon alleged unfitness of officials whose nominations were secured with out submissions to the party voters, than from any other cause. In my humble judgment the time has come for a primary law.

Very respectfully,
JOHN H. SMALL,
Washington, N. C.

ABOUT THE OPEN SUNDAY.

Law of God Should be Sufficient for Sabbath Observance.

I wish to take off my hat to the members of the board of aldermen who had the moral courage to oppose the opening of the drug stores on Sunday for the purpose of selling cold drinks. Greenville does not need or want an open Sunday. We want the things that are for the uplift of our young men and not those that degrade.

And there, think of the effect it would have on visitors to our town! They would think at once that Greenville was an open town, and our reputation as a moral community would be destroyed. "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, the seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, in it thou shalt not do any work, thou or thy servants," (clerks). I would think that this plain law of God would be sufficient reason for any man not to open his place of business on the Lord's day.

STRANGELY AFFECTED.

Rev. J. W. Little Charged With Lightning Sluice Being Struck.

Two years ago Rev. J. W. Little, one of the best known Baptist ministers of this section of the State, was struck by lightning in Lee county. After being stricken he was unconscious for quite awhile and for several weeks hovered between life and death. After a long time, however, he recovered sufficiently to again enter actively upon the work of the ministry, though the electricity never seemed to entirely leave his system. He still suffers severely during electrical storms, the extent of the pain he feels being commensurate with the intensity of the electrical disturbance.

Tuesday night this section was visited by a very severe electrical, rain and wind storm. Mr. Little, when the storm came up, was assisting Rev. J. A. Summey in a meeting at Mt. Deulah church, three miles south of town. He had just finished his sermon and was preparing to close the service when he was completely overcome by the electricity in the atmosphere. He suffered excruciating pain and finally his heart seemed to fall him and he lapsed into unconsciousness, remaining in this condition several hours. Finally Mr. Little recovered his senses and ability to walk, and now is none the worse for the experience.—Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligencer.

The County Records Unsafe.

Greenville, N. C., Aug. 8, 1910.
Editor Reflector:
I was glad to see your editorial in The Daily Reflector, "Records not Safe at Present." It is undoubtedly a critical condition for the county records to be as at present, and our commissioners should proceed at once to protect them. Your suggestion as to a temporary vault is good, for should these records be destroyed, there is no telling the amount of litigation that would ensue and the effects would be felt forever. We believe our commissioners, now that their attention has been called to this matter, will take the necessary action to preserve them.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

From a Teacher Who Attended The Summer School.

It is not because we are scripturally enjoined to "give credit where credit is due," that these remarks are made; but that the fullness of heart prompteth them.

For the past ten weeks, I have been one of that great body of teachers at the new East Carolina Teachers' Training School, and it was a privilege indeed to have been a sharer in the advantages extended to us there. Not only am I giving personal opinion, but I am voicing the sentiments of our whole body of students when I say that the summer course we have just finished has filled a very long-felt need. This was the first term of summer work but already the faculty understand conditions, and already are they seeking to remedy them. The managers of this summer school are giving the help for which the conscientious teacher in the rural school has been yearning. It is not a case of "cramping," as we have had at short institutes. It is a series of carefully prepared lessons which demonstrate facts that the teachers have to face. It gets down to the root of things. It deals with practice, not theory.

Bacon says, that, "Natural abilities are like natural plants that need pruning by study, but studies themselves do give forth directions too much at large except they be bounded in by experience." Here, in our new training school, we can boast of a faculty with experience enough to temper directions so they may guide and not confuse the young teacher. Besides that, every member of our faculty the present summer, has shown that whole hearted sympathy with our work and such genuine consideration for our welfare, that we are sure of their individual interest if we should ever turn upon them again for aid.

It has been a sacrifice on their part, no doubt, to give so freely of their time during the warm weeks that should bring complete relaxation from work, and no one appreciates the efforts these good friends have made in our behalf more than we do ourselves.

The spirit of the student body has been especially fine. On the whole the summer term at the school has been as full of pleasure as it has been of work. We are indebted to many of the Greenville citizens for favors extended us from time to time. One that was especially helpful was The Daily Reflector, kindly donated by our good friend, Mr. Whichard. He needed but to see how the teachers devoured its news to prove to him that it was appreciated.

The Training School has scored a big point for its first year, surely.

How One County Secured Good Roads

By MAJ. GEO. E. BUTLER, Clinton, Sampson County, North Carolina.

There are several ways by which a county can obtain good roads; when one plan fails another may succeed. Sampson county failed in its first effort but succeeded in its second.

In 1903 we held an election by authority of an act of the general assembly of an act of the general assembly of good roads. Our local paper did not advocate it and the leading politicians were "hands off," and the taxpayers and voters being naturally opposed to increased taxation, the proposition was defeated at the election by a most decided majority.

In 1907 a few of the progressive citizens of our county met and decided to get good roads by a different method. We appointed a committee of our number to draw up a bill and submit it to the legislature, then in session, and at the request of our county representatives, it was passed. This bill did not submit the question to a vote of the people, but to the contrary, provided for the appointment of a road commission, composed of two Democrats and two Republicans, and the chairman of the board of county commissioners was ex-officio chairman of the commission.

This plan took the question out of politics. We secured the endorsement of our local papers and we already had the endorsement of our select committee of leading citizens who planned the measure.

This bill provided that the county commissioners at the request of the road commission should issue $50,000 of good roads bonds in such amounts as needed each year and no more than was needed, bonds to run ten years from date of issue. This was done and our banks and citizens readily took the bonds although they were not sanctioned by a vote of the people. We secured a road expert from a neighboring county and on the first day of August, 1907, began the construction of sand-clay roads. We did not make the mistake many counties have made by investing too much money in useless and expensive road machinery. We soon learned that a steel scraper, a few steel two-horse plows, steel scoop and drags, a few dump carts, with plenty of shovels, spades, etc., and good labor were all that was necessary to construct a sand-clay road in this section.

Before any decided opposition to the movement could gain headway among the people, we were building roads and the people were so much pleased that all opposition vanished.

Since August 1, 1907, we have worked on an average about twenty hands. At first we worked hired laborers, but only for a few months.

Soon our own convicts and those from neighboring counties sent us by the courts in our district supplied us with a sufficient number of laborers. We have hired no high priced man-hands. Instead of all the hands After a few weeks, we selected a local farmer for superintendent of the roads and he was satisfactory and successful from the start. We have built 64 miles of sand-clay roads and about 2½ miles of dams and causeways since we began, and have spent only $28,000, of which $4,000 has been invested in teams, machinery and camp equipment and tools.

The legislature of 1909 amended our road law and added a new feature. We now have a highway commission whose duty it is to have control of all the free labor or road hands in the county. In other words, he has charge of all the overseers and directs their work.

He first made a map of each township in the county, locating all the public roads. He then divided these roads into sections, numbering each section. He secured the name and address of each township road supervisor and each overseer in the county. He then held township meetings and organized each township and went over every section in the county in company with the road overseers of each section and pointed out to him the best methods of working his section. His next move was to arrange a schedule of dates for the working of each section so that he could attend with the overseer and hands and actually demonstrate road building. Heretofore little had been done on the roads by the overseers and road working six days in the year and for eight full hours each day, they usually worked only three or four days in the year and then only for about four hours a day; and this work was done without any uniform system. The roads, therefore, remained in bad condition.

The new plan has created enthusiasm for better roads and a uniform system of work with all the free labor working full time. Consequently more actual work on the roads is now being done by our free labor than by our convict force and there is a remarkable improvement in our roads. The progress of the convict force is naturally slow, but now this organized free labor is paving the way in the outlying districts for the convict force and at the same time is giving our people better roads while they wait.

There is no reason why any county should longer postpone the building of good roads if it will only go about it in the proper way. However much we all believe in the governmental principal of submitting all local questions to a vote of the people, yet the hereditary conservatism of our people is often the chief impediment to internal improvements. If road improvement is properly planned and the roads built with economy and with sufficient rapidity to reach people before the tax becomes burdensome, you will merit and receive the fullest co-operation of the people.

DUTY OF MAN.

The duty of man is not a wilderness of turnpike gates, through which he is to pass by tickets from one to the other. It is plain and simple and consists but of two points—his duty to God, which every man must feel, and, with respect to his neighbor, to do as he would be done by.—Thomas Paine.

"Everywhere that sand and clay are available," said a thoughtful man the other day, "the farmers ought to start a campaign this summer in behalf of sand-clay roads. In all such communities no cheaper way of bettering the highways can possibly be found. Last year I went through a county where the roads had not been improved. This year I went back and found that sand-clay roads had been made, and I could hardly realize that I was in the same community."—Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer

The treasurer of Aiken county, S. C., recently deposited nearly $25,000 in various banks to the credit of the county school fund in order that it might draw interest instead of lying idle, and it is reported that the same fund has more than $20,000 still to its credit on the treasurer's books. Aiken must be emulous of the most progressive North Carolina counties as far as educational matters are concerned.—Charlotte Observer.

Easy Way of Measuring Heights.
Anybody who knows how to take the altitude of the sun or a star with a sextant and wishes to take that of any distant hill, steeple or the like should put a tea tray on the ground, fill it with water and then retire from it until the top of the hill, steeple or what not is reflected in the liquid. Now take the sextant and make the image of the summit coincide with its reflection in the liquid. The angle of elevation will thus obviously have been measured double. Half of this will give the measurement required.
