The Prime Need in Need in North Carolina

The most important need in North Carolina is the Torrens system of Land Registration," said Mr. John A. Wilkerson, of Belhaven, who is doing more to drain and put fertile land on the market than any man in Eastern North Carolina.

Mr. Wilkerson is right, and large experience in buying and selling land makes his opinion of value. Proceeding upon the necessity of this great reform Mr. Wilkerson said: "If I own $1,000 worth of bank stock or stock in any railroad or industrial corporation I can take that stock to any bank deposit it as security, and borrow money on it. It costs me nothing to do so and the fact that I am borrowing is known only to me and the bank or individual lending me the money. But if I have $1,000 worth of land or more, or own a little home or farm, and need to borrow money on it I have to pay an attorney to examine the title, I have to pay him to write a mortgage, and the fact that I have borrowed the money is put on record in the court house, thus advertising my private business. And this trouble, expense and publicity are made necessary every time I wish to borrow money on land. It is a hardship and a burden upon owners of land that makes dealing in land slow and costly whereas it is to the interest of the State that land transfers should be so easy and inexpensive that everybody will wish to invest their money in land."

Not long ago Mr. Eugene C. Massie, of Richmond, Va., discussed at length the Torrens system. The Traveler's Protective Association, which favored the Torrens system, requested Mr. Massie to prepare a brief statement showing the wisdom of that system. In response to that request, Mr. Massie wrote the following admirable, succinct and comprehensive summary of the argument for the Torrens system.

"The State claims to be the owner—the original and ultimate owner—of all her lands. This ownership first appears in her lands grants and is now found in the exercise of the right and eminent domain, or escheats and in levying taxes.

"Claiming and exercising the original rights and sovereign powers, it is the duty of the State to grant good titles to her citizens and to enable them to keep their titles good under the just administration of equitable land laws.

"This plain duty has never heretofore been performed by the State, and the time has now come when she must meet her high obligation.

"You can sell your personal property or borrow money on it quickly and at little expense. You do not have to employ a lawyer to examine the title to your horse or cow, to your oats and hay, nor to your stocks and bonds

"If you try to sell your land or borrow money on it, the first question is:

"Have you got a good title?"

"No one will buy nor lend you money without being satisfied about your title. It must be examined by a lawyer, and you have to pay the bill.

"It does not matter how often the title has been examined before, it has to be re-examined every time a new deal is made.

"The same old titles are examined over and over again, and every time you have to pay the bill.

"A conservative estimate, based upon the returns from the County Clerks throughout the State, shows that the people of Virginia paid more than $420,000 for abstracts of titles to lands in one year.

"This is nearly as much as was spent upon all the public schools in the 100 counties of our State, and more than half of what was spent for public education in every city and county in the Commonwealth.

"This heavy and perpetual tax on the people will be saved by the Torrens System of Land Registration.

"It is not only expensive, but it takes days and weeks to make an examination of title, and so many difficulties are encountered that business men frequently have not the time to bother with transactions involving so many problems.

"All this makes land hard and slow to handle, and men hesitate to bury capital in lands.

"The Torrens System will make your lands merchantable. It will convert lands into quick asset and render them available as a source of ready commercial credit.

"It operates in the following manner:

"1. A title is examined once officially and confirmed by order of court. That ends the matter and cuts out the endless examinations of titles now necessary. Your title is registered, and you have made a permanent improvement, which will last as long as the law prevails and will never call for betterments or repairs.

"2. You are then given a certificate of title, which guarantees to all the world that you have such title as is set forth therein to the lands therein described—for example, a life estate or a fee simple, in whole or in part, free from encumbrances or subject to such encumbrances as are mentioned in the certificate.

"3. You can deal with this certificate of title almost as freely as with a certificate of stock, because everybody can see from the certificates exactly what your title is.

"This will put your real estate on a footing with your personality, and will add millions to the business capital of Virginia.

"The Torrens Act will help the farmers and everybody who owns real estate in the country, as well as in the city.

"It will help everybody who deals in real estate.

"It will lessen the cost of transactions in real estate, stimulate and enlarge the market, and thus increase values; and when a poor man buys a home he will get a good title to it and no one can take it away from him.

"It will promote development of the whole State by settling titles. And it will invite immigration, because strangers will not hesitate to buy such guaranteed titles.

"The Torrens System is no experiment.

"The Torrens System has found congenial soil in the United States in Illinois, California, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Oregon, and Colorado; and the Federal government has established it in Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. In addition to this, Arkansas, the District of Columbia, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Porto Rico, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin have taken steps more or less pronounced for its adoption.—News and Observer.

—Somebody has said that there are more young men in the penitentiary in this country learning trades that there are outside of them. The principal cause of this is, we are educating our young men for gentlemen; trying to make lawyers, doctors and clerks out of the material nature intended for blacksmiths, carpenters and other "hewers of wood and drawers of water." It is a mistake and a big one, to teach boys and girls by insinuation or other wise that to labor is disgraceful, or if labor is necessary for a livelihood to follow a genteel occupation, and that to do nothing for a living is more becoming to the society in which they expect to move and have respect. Hang such society! It is rotten to the core and there are many men's sons and daughters who are now being educated to play the part of "leading lady" and "walking gentleman" in the great drama of life, who will light out for a poor house or penitentiary before they have played their parts on the curtains drop. Go to work.—Louisburg Times.

GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.

Good Sales—Spirited Bidding and the Best Feeling Seen in Years.

As noted elsewhere in "The Reflector," the absence of the editor and sickness in the working-force, prevented a report of the opening of the tobacco market Thursday, the 18th. There were about sixty thousand pounds sold, and considering the quality of the offerings, the prices were very satisfactory—much stronger than last year at the opening sale, and the average over last year is about thirty per cent.

The Greenville market starts out this year more auspiciously, and under more favorable conditions than it has in years. There are a large number of buyers, and some new ones in addition to the regular buyers that have been here before. Messrs. John E. Hughes & Co., of Danville, represented by Mr. Meade, are an addition to the market this year. This company are large exporters and heavy buyers of our Eastern North Carolina tobacco. They occupy the factory formerly run by Messrs. Geo. S. Pritchard & Co., and are fully equipped for handling large quantities of tobacco.

With six large, modern steam plants in full operation, the Greenville tobacco market is in position to take care of and re-dry from 400 to 500 thousand pounds of tobacco daily, and with the buyers here anxious to buy it, there is no probability of supplying the demand this year. The farmers in this and adjoining counties can rest assured that the Greenville market is able to take care of and protect their interest, and with plenty of warehouse space; plenty of buyers, ample means and facilities, we do not see how any farmer can fail to realize that it is to his advantage to sell tobacco on the Greenville market. The warehouses are all practically under the same management as last year. We have not had the opportunity of getting the names of the entire working forces, but suffice it to say that no pains will be spared by the warehouses to protect the interest of the farmers selling with them.

In speaking for the Greenville tobacco market, the Reflector has never attempted by word or intimation to disparage the smaller markets, but with its superior advantages and equipment for taking care of tobacco that is offered by this market, with the warehousemen and the buyers fully prepared and determined to place Greenville in the lead as the best tobacco market in the East, we believe that this year, more than any year we have had, it will be to the interest of tobacco farmers to come to Greenville.

RISKS IN PATENT MEDICINES

Sure-Cure Remedies Are Usually Compounds of Narcotics.

It must be frankly recognized in considering patent medicines that, broadly and philosophically speaking two risks have to be taken with all of them: the risk that the medicine, though a useful remedy in this disease, may not find your particular case or stage of it; and the further risk that you may not have the disease you think you have, in which case, of course, the poor medicine will be a hopeless misfit.

Bearing these facts in mind, it is obviously only the course of prudence and good sense to avoid all powerful or drastic remedies of this class, such as, if they do not do good, have the power to do harm. Remedies, therefore, which are advertised to cure immediately "like magic," "overnight" that are guaranteed to cure every case or money refunded; that "have never been known to fail," etc., are good things to let alone, even if you give credence to their claims. Usually, as a matter of fact, the claim of these "Sure Cure" remedies are based upon one of two things: prevarications, or some narcotic, most commonly opium or alcohol.

There is also another universal source of risk which it is only fair to mention, and this is the impossibility of knowing what you are taking. The vast majority of so-called patent medicines have nothing that is patent about them except the name or trademark. Really to patent a remedy would be necessary to disclose its ingredients and to prove that they have never before been used for the cure of this disease; and this, for obvious reasons, is the last thing that the proprietors of these remedies would think of doing. The composition of the remedy is their most valued secret, which naturally they guard with most jealous care, and it is inevitable in the very nature of the case that any one who takes a dose of it is taking it in the dark. If he chooses to run that risk, it is one of his inalienable rights and privileges; but let him remember that—to paraphrase—he is taking a drug of which he knows nothing for a disease which he often knows less, for guess at its nature may be entirely wrong.

Not even an analysis of the remedy by a government chemist will help him, because the rigid secrecy as to its composition, which is maintained for commercial reasons, enables the manufacturers to change the formula at any time, according to the changes in the prices of the different drugs, or the denunciation of one or other of them as injurious. Some well-known patent medicines in the United States have changed their formulas three or four times within the last five or six years.—Woods Hutchinson, in The Delinicator.

Filial Piety in Japan.
Few Japanese parents hold property in their own right, assigning it to those of their children on whom they are dependent. A son who would ignore the claims of loyalty and filial piety would be considered outside the pale of human society. Seldom indeed are there found in Japan such examples of forsaken parents as are too often seen in occidental lands.

Terrace Farming.

Jean Napoleon Ingram, of Cedar Park has recently made a tour through Georgia and Alabama and observed the terrace system of farming in those States, by which fields are protected from washes and the soil preserved from destruction by heavy rains. Every slope or hillside field, he says—is crossed by a series of terraces of sufficient fall to guide the water from the land into main ditches, that carry it from the farms. By such means the slope and hillside soil is left on the fields and the washing of gullies by winter and spring floods prevented. The land is thereby preserved for posterity. The Georgia and Alabama fields are not destroyed year by year by unscrupulous cultivation and butcher farming; their crop producing elements and value are held in reserve for future generations. Such a system of land culture should be followed in North Carolina, where the fields are fast becoming barren by the old slave method of farming, the soil carried from the fields by rainfall, and the farms made worthless, where future tillers will find the land a waste of naked and furrowed clay.

He thinks that the best way to bring the matter to the attention of the country land holders, is for the Farmers Union to charter a train and sell round trip excursion tickets to Montgomery for $5, to allow the people to investigate and study the Alabama and Georgia system of terrace farming, and enable them to introduce similar soil protection and establish similar land improvements in North Carolina.

A special car would possibly accommodate the first excursion, and the Southern Railroad would doubtless make low rates for such an enterprise, as transportation interests are benefited by improvement in soil cultivation along railway lines. The professor also thinks it would greatly aid agriculture for the farmers to bring some tenants from those States familiar with the terrace system to show how such improvement can best be effected on the farms of this country.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Advertising Defined.

At a recent banquet of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Erman J. Ridgeway asked, "What is advertising?" and answered himself as follows:

"Advertising is faith. The substance of things hoped for. Advertising is bread upon the prairies. Fertilizer upon waste places. Advertising is merchandising by wireless; the winged salesman, tireless, sleepless, silver-tongued hail fellow in office, kitchen and library, suggesting comforts and necessities before the need is born, creating new markets, building new factories, selling the surplus. Advertising makes for better furnished homes, better dressed people, better food, more health, big people, better food, more health, bigger life and greater comfort, and incidentally, advertising makes the advertiser a bigger, broader man—a national figure"

Tutulary Trees.

Ancient people had their tutulary trees just as they had their tutulary gods—the former being the altars and shrines of the latter. Among the Scandinavians the ash was held to be the most sacred tree. Serpents, according to their belief, dared not approach it. Hence the women left their children with entire confidence under its shade while they went on with their harvesting.

AT HOME.

Miss Helen Laughinghouse Delightfully Entertains The Little Folks

In honor of her cousin, Miss Helen Grimes, little Miss Helen Laughinghouse was at home to a number of her friends Thursday evening from eight to ten.

The porch was beautifully lighted with Japanese lanterns and electric lights and decorated with palms and ferns.

The little hostess and her guest of honor met the guests as they arrived and served them to fruit punch and sandwiches. Flinch was the game of the evening.

Miss Rena Smith was the lucky winner of a pair of embroidery scissors. The guest of honor's prize was a gold pin.

After the game delicious ices were served. The color scheme of pink was carried out in the ices, as in the decorations and score cards.

Tilling the Soil With Dynamite.

Probably no stranger use for dynamite has ever been devised than its substitution in place of the plow for the tilling of clay land. It is being put to such a use on a considerable experimental scale in Kansas and by a planter of Spartanburg, S. C., and a picture in the September number of Popular Mechanics shows how it was done.

The cartridges were planted three feet apart, in rows, and at a depth of four feet. The holes were made by driving crowbars to the desired depth. The dynamite was exploded by a line of men, provided with red hot irons. The line went rapidly down the field, the explosives following the men in a steady roar that was deafening. The explosions threw clouds of soil 30 feet into the air and covered the men from head to foot with dust and dirt.

Miss Stokes Entertains.

Stokes, N. C., Aug. 19, 1910.
Wednesday proved to be quite an eventful day in the week of Miss Stokes' house party.

The day was delightfully spent on a picnic at Sheppard's Mill, where boating was enjoyed and lemonade, melons and everything were served which go to make an occasion of this kind a success.

Returning home in the early evening and quite unexpected to her guests and friends who happened to be present she gave a surprise party. About 8.30 the guests began to arrive, they were received at the door and ushered into the parlor by Misses Davenport and Moore.

A short while was spent in music and laughter until the hostess entered and passed numbers which proved to make couples, then Miss Davenport presented score cards which began their romances.

Misses Moore and Kittrell proving to be the romantic couples were allowed to cut for the prize, Miss Kittrell being successful, Dr. Basnight presented the prize, a sheet of music, at the contest which was a musical romance.

At eleven o'clock refreshments were served. The midnight hour soon came and each one present declared Miss Stokes a charming hostess.

Those present at the house party are Misses Dowell, of Williamston; Bullock, of Bethel; Moore, of Greenville; Kittrell, of Williamston; Roberson, of Robersonville.

New Industry in Wilmington.

It has been ascertained from a reliable source that the Pocomoke Guano company will install large manufacturing and storage fertilizer facilities here during the next few months. With this idea in view, it is stated that the company has purchased a most valuable tract of land on the west bank of the Northeast river, a mile or two above the city limits. It is stated that the property secured by the company embraces fifteen acres, more or less. The land is situated between the Swift Fertilizer factory and Hilton bridge. Quite a large sum is said to have been paid by the Pocomoke Guano company for the newly acquired property.

It is stated that the plans of the company are to improve the purchase at an early date with the erection of a large and modern fertilizer factory and storage plant. The business of the Pocomoke company is steadily on the increase. It is to be in a better position to handle the rapidly increasing volume of business that the company has acquired property of its own upon which to build. The tract has a river frontage for a considerable distance and it is ideally located for the purpose for which it will be used.—Wilmington Star.

Good Cotton for This Year.
Mr. E. B. Whichard, of Carolina township, who is a juror at court this week, tells us that he has twenty-four acres of cotton this year from which he hopes to pick twenty bales. That is good cotton for the season that came early in the growing period this year.

Fodder Pulling.
Messrs. Editors: As there seem to be so many that object to cutting and curing corn in the shock, I will give some of my failures and successes. My first and only failure was with the first that I ever cut. I lost about one-fourth of that. Soon found that it was too green when cut. Since that time I have always let my corn get ripe before cutting, and have never had any trouble. I also find that I get much more feed and much better corn from cutting and curing in the shock than I did when I pulled fodder. In fact, that seems to be the only way that I could do now, for there is so much work attached to pulling off the blades that I could never think of it again as a mode of getting roughness for my stock. When I did pull I was always short when spring came and my cows were not so fascinating the first of April; but bad as they looked, I never sawed off any of their horns for the hollow horn or split their tales for the worm in the tail, that is so prevalent in the spring. JUDGE WHEDBEE AT KINSTON.

The Free Press Says He Presides With Easy Grace.

Superior court convened this morning for the trial of criminal cases only with Judge H. W. Whedbee, of Greenville, presiding. His honor opened court promptly on the stroke of ten o'clock and declared his intention at the start of conducting the business with the greatest dispatch consistent with proper deliberation, and set the hours from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., allowing one hour for noon recess.

His honor's charge was plain direct and comprehensive. It was delivered with an easy grace that would be fitting to an older wearer of the ermine than Judge Whedbee, who has been on the bench but about a month. He reviewed crimes and punishments in North Carolina and called the attention of the jury to the importance of their duties in making diligent inquiry into all matters coming before them. The charge was delivered in a dignified manner and made a strong impression upon the minds of the bar spectators. In all disputed points Judge Whedbee's decisions were quick, crisp and delivered with firmness and confidence. He has presence, temperament and knowledge of the law.—Kinston Free Press.

Keep your temper. The man who loses it gets hot under the collar and is in danger of having all the starch taken out of him.

You could not expect the breach to stand open long between Teddy and Bill. An election is coming on.

Maybe a self government plank is just a plank that governs itself, without anybody knowing what it is going to do next.

One reason for their getting together is that Mr. Taft knows that Mr. Roosevelt could get it himself if he would just say he wants it.

The meeting of the Atlantic waterways association in Providence next week is expected to give a great impetus to the movement for an inland waterway from Massachusetts to Florida.

There is this thing about it—in the recent change of chairman the Republican party in North Carolina got Morehead than they had before. Whether any better pie distribution will follow remains to be seen.

Mr. Roosevelt has got his dander up, and is calling folks liars about the report that he had sent an ultimatum to President Taft demanding that Vice President Sherman's selection as temporary chairman of the New York convention be repudiated.

They are feeling so sure of Cannon's retirement as speaker that they are already looking about for his successor. The old man is going to give them a fight before he turns loose his job.

One might be led to think from the action of the New York Republican committee that a vice president is a bigger man than an ex-president. But the latter is only a has been, and maybe that accounts for it.

The Butlers are wanting everything in reach this time, but Marion is not going to be able to pull George through for congress in the third district. Still by George making the run he hopes to be in line to get something from the administration.

The Democrats are keeping up their record for carrying the country before the votes are counted.—Greensboro News.

And the Republicans are keeping up their record of claiming everything which they never carry.

Some Republicans are saying that the "local self government" plank in the recent Republican platform applied to the prohibition question, while others say it had no reference to that at all. Looks like it was put there to mean anything handy.

The report of the Agricultural Department shows that the markets in Pitt county sold about sixteen millions pounds of tobacco the past fiscal year. Tobacco is only one of the county's crops, and Pitt produces more of this than any other county. There is not a better farming section to be found.

R. W. Vincent, of the Charlotte Observer, is entitled to a high seat in the school of prophets. Two weeks ago in a special sent from Morehead City, where he was sojourning at the time, he predicted that D. H. Blair, of Winston-Salem, was going to be the Republican nominee for congress in the fifth district. The committee met in Greensboro Saturday and nominated him.

The recent change in leadership of the Republican party in this State has put the Greensboro News to guessing whose bank account it can hereafter look to for support. Dun-can has heretofore been bearing most of the burden, but since his defeat for chairman he has withdrawn his check book from The News. Possibly Butler and Morehead will put their barrels on tap.

R. A. P. Cooley, of Nashville, is acting in bad health by coming out as an independent candidate for congress in the fifth district. He was a delegate to the convention that renominated J. H. Pau, and it was on his motion that the nomination was made by acclamation. His action in now coming out as an independent candidate gives comfort to the Republicans, to whom he looks for support, but the election is going to show him the mistake he has made.

Thomas J. Pence, Washington City correspondent of the News and Observer, gives an interesting story of how Marion Butler after getting back to Washington from North Carolina, tried to palm off seven page type written interview on the correspondents of the big papers, and was much surprised the next morning to find that not one of the papers had printed it. Marion is foxy, but he don't catch the newspapers every time.

Thousands of North Carolinians have migrated to all parts of the country. This State has played a great part in the winning of the west and in the development of all sections. North Carolina variably, pluck and ability have proved notable factors in many other States. People from the Old North State have set their mark everywhere, but have never lost their love for their mother State, North Carolina. Complete arrangements have been made for a great "Home-Coming Jubilee and Reunion" for all persons born in North Carolina; this to be held at Raleigh during the fiftieth State Fair, October 17-22. Mayor J. S. Wynne is chairman and Fred. A. Olds secretary of the committee which has this matter in charge and they desire to an invitation to deliver an address far as possible, of any people from this community who now reside in other States, in order that invitations may be sent them.

Congressman Longworth gave out a very sensible interview yesterday in which he repudiated Cannon. The last sentence, however, spoiled the effect it would have had when he said that what he did say did not emanate from any other source; intimating that his father-in-law did not tell him to say it. Nicholas Longworth is quite an able young man and won his spurs before he got into the Roosevelt family. He is at a little disadvantage in having such a prominent father-in-law, but it is not necessary for him to emphasize this disadvantage.—High Point Enterprise.

Other Great Sanitary Victories.

The mortality from diphtheria one of the most dreaded diseases, has been reduced since 1895 80 per cent. Do you realize what this means? It means that, being the estimate on the census reports 100,000 lives are saved every year in the United States alone. This is due to the discovery by von Behring an antitoxin as a cure and preventive of this disease. The French and German governments gave von Behring $50,000 as a prize, for what they considered the discovery most beneficial to the man that was made between the years 1850 and 1900.

Typhoid fever has had its mortality reduced 33 per cent during the last forty years. Many cities have reduced their typhoid mortality from 45 to 98 per cent by installing filters for their public water supply. Many of these cities have still further reduced their typhoid death rate by providing dairy inspection. After a pure water and milk supply have been provided, the remaining cases will disappear just in proportion as the sanitary intelligence of the community grows. And the food for this growth must be furnished by the press and public schools.

Tuberculosis, certainly the greatest mortality from consumption or tu-yielding just in proportion to the extent of the educational campaign waged against it. For example, in Germany, with its present rate of disease continuing thirty years, the disease, will be exterminated.

During the last half century the mortality from consumption or tuberculosis among the English people has dropped 49 per cent. In England and Wales from 1870 to 1906 the mortality was reduced about 60 per cent. Should the present rate of decrease in England continue forty years, that country will be free from the disease.

Prussia, in the twenty years between 1886 and 1906, has reduced her tuberculosis death rate about 45 per cent.

In five Eastern States and ten cities of the United States the tuberculosis mortality has been reduced 18 per cent since 1887. Massachusetts, the foremost State in the Union in public health work, has reduced her tuberculosis death rate 63 per cent during the last fifty years.—State Board of Health Bulletin.

It hurts us to say it, but it's a fact which we might as well acknowledge, that our Southern farmers have the reputation in the business world of being slower pay than farmers anywhere else in the United States. There may have been some excuse for this in the misfortunes of war and reconstruction times, but there is no excuse for it today, and we must get out of it right away. Every farmer who either refuses to pay a debt, or fails entirely to pay it, must not only lose his self-respect, but he hurts the reputation of the whole South. Along with what they are doing in better farming methods, prettier homes, and better roads and better schools, we hope that every member of the Progressive Farmer and Gazette Family will try to make a reputation for prompt settlement of all accounts. It is a good thing to do on one's own account, and it is also a patriotic duty we owe our home land.—Progressive Farmer

About The Farmer.

Says the Griffin, Ga., Herald: "No longer does the plowman homeward plod his weary way.

No indeed. The plowman plods no more; and seldom is he weary. He is about the periest, chipperest gentleman in all creation—nowadays Things are coming his way—coming in clusters, bunches, and festoons, we might say.

There was a time when the farmer was a humble citizen, whose principal business was paying the fiddler and voting cheap skates in political offices. Now all that is changed. The farmer is the most independent, up-to-the-minute, got more where that came-fromish individual at large and around and about the country! He is the cock of the walk; and it is his walk, to a large and more or less extensive extent, moreover. We know all this must be so because the newspapers throughout the land are ringing with it. The "Back to the farm" slogan has even the "Back from Elba" warwhoop running a poor second. Everybody who is anybody, and everybody else, is patting the farmer on his broad and amply clothed back and saying, "Go it Reuben! You are it, with a great big it!" No, sir, The plowman plods his weary way no more. He scatches it, inside the speed limit, of course, in an automobile.—Jackson County Journal.

Don't laugh at a boy who magnifies his place. You may see him coming from the postoffice with a big bundle of his employer's letters, which he displays with as much pride as though they were his own. He feels important, and looks it, but he is proud of his place. He is attending to business. He likes to have the world know that he is at work for a busy concern. The boy who says "we" identifies himself with the concern, its interest are his. He sticks up for its credit and reputation. He takes pleasure in his work and hopes to say we are in earnest. The boy will reap what he sows if he keeps his grit and sticks to his job. You may take off your hat to him as one of the future solid men of the town. Let his employer do the right thing by him; check him kindly if he shows signs of being too big for his place, counsel him as to his habits and associates, and occasionally show him a pleasant prospect of advancement. A little pride does an honest boy a heap of good. Good luck to the boy who says "we."—Gaffney (S. C.) Ledger.

MATTERS BEFORE THE TEMPLE OF JUSTICE.

AUGUST SUPERIOR COURT IN SESSION IN CITY HALL.

Judge Ward Makes Instructive Charge to Grand Jury—Solicitor Abernathy Representing State.

The August criminal term of Pitt Superior court opened at 10 o'clock Monday morning in the city hall with Judge G. W. Ward presiding and Solicitor C. L. Abernathy representing the State. In calling the jury list there were very few excuses or absentees. One who was drawn on the grand jury asked to be excused on account of deafness. "How long have you been deaf?" asked Judge Ward in a moderate low voice, to which the juror replied "About ten years." The question and answer convinced the judge that the juror could hear well enough to serve.

The following were drawn as grand jurors for the term: A. J. Moye, foreman; M. D. Yelverton, Iredell Moore, D. M. Johnson, J. H. Williams, B. N. Boyd, (colored), Jesse L. Cherry, J. W. Allen, C. L. Tyson, J. S. Williams, R. B. Summerell, J. T. Moore, W. J. Smith, W. H. Congleton, R. B. Bynum, A. J. Flanagan, L. D. Phelps, J. J. Oakley.

Judge Ward told the jury in his charge that great trust rested upon them, to sit in judgment for the State on one hand and for the people on the other, and it was a duty they should regard with dignity and impartiality.

The old saying that "it takes all sorts of people to make a world," is literally true, and it is not different in this county from elsewhere. While it is the sworn duty of a grand jury to give information of any violations of law within their knowledge, or any creditable knowledge from others, but it is not his duty to act upon the suggestions of those busy bodies who are usually around on the first day or two of court trying to get somebody indicted, but does not want his own name disclosed as the informant.

The grand jury is not a legislative body. You have seen men go into the grand jury box with the idea that certain laws are bad laws and they will not present any one for violation of such laws. That is a species of anarchy. If a law is a bad law the best way to get it repealed is to enforce it.

Judge Ward then went into a brief explanation of offenses against person, property and society, showing how fully these are protected by our laws. The crimes growing out of dishonesty could be largely corrected or prevented if our citizens would take hold of them at the proper time. Parents too often, perhaps unintentionally, implant impressions upon the minds of their children that in later life lead to dishonesty and crime. Examples of this were given in the man who misrepresents the age of his child when going upon a railroad train, and those who tell their children in packing up apples or potatoes for market to save out the larger ones to put on top in order to make them sell better. This is planting principles of dishonesty.

Upon the whole Judge Ward's charge was very instructive and listened to with close attention.

When the solicitor was asked what he had for trial, said about 120 cases.

The first case called was J. F. King, for assault with a deadly weapon, who plead guilty, fined $25 and costs. Leon Sutton, carrying concealed weapon, pleads guilty, fined 10 and costs.

Will Evans, carrying concealed weapon, pleads guilty fined 10 and costs.

Prernus Gorham, assault with deadly weapon, not guilty; carrying concealed weapon, not guilty.

Marshall Tripp, removing crop, not guilty; disposing of mortgaged property, not guilty.

Hebert Boyd and Vernon Taft, assault with deadly weapon, pleaded guilty; judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

H. C. Moore and John Moore, affray, plead guilty.

John Dennis, selling liquor, not guilty.

L. H. Lee, false pretense, plead guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

Simon Wooten, assault with deadly weapon, plead guilty.

William Dixon, larceny, plead guilty, judgment that he be sent to the State reformatory two years and pay costs.

D. J. Whichard and J. R. Hutchings, affray, Whichard not guilty; Hutchings guilty; fined $25 and costs.

John Allen Kinion and J. T. Pope, affray, Kinion guilty, sentenced to 90 days to roads; Pope not guilty.

John Allen Kinion, resisting officer, plead guilty; judgment suspended.

Tom Andrews and Henry Chapman, cruelty to animals, plead guilty; pay $15 to owner of animal and costs.

The Farm.

Why do men instinctively love the farm? Business men of city traits of long standing, whose love for the city might be thought to be well founded glow at the mention of the life producing farm, whose fertile fields in the South especially, are yet unexplored. Waving fields of grain and orchards and vineyards aglow with fruits are calling for someone to come and get them. The South is the "Garden of Eden," from which men have lately fallen from the abundant harvest season. "Till the soil." Nature says "and your reward will be many fold." The men who own the land (?) should see that the earth yields her increase, a million acres of untilled, unproductive land is of no use in feeding a nation, and those who own or control the land will have to give an account of their stewardship. Better get to turning up the soil in the South and see what is buried beneath its fertile folds. We should make an effort to induce staidward land working immigration to Eastern Carolina, if we want to build up a substantial prosperity for this community. Get busy!

To The Democratic Voters.

I would like to suggest a pair of representatives to the House of Representatives for the people of our county to vote for. Both men are of intelligence and integrity; men who would do credit to our county. One a young man of more than ordinary intelligence and square to his conviction, the other an old Veteran of '61, of whom no man can say ought against, a gallant soldier, a true citizen; possessing all the inquisitry we could ask for—John T. Thorne and Maj. Henry Harding—both would dignify the position and cause our county to take a stand second to no other county in the state.

This is merely a suggestion of one.

NEGRO MAN HELD UP IN TRUE WESTERN STYLE.

OLD NEGRO ROBBED BY TWO OTHERS ON N. S. ROAD.

Robbers Proceed to Do Work Train Crew But Get Worst—Old Negro Got Officers and Caught Them.

Monday night, about 8 o'clock, when Alonzo Staton, an old negro, struck the Norfolk Southern "Y" just south of the city, walking to his home at Artlurs from Simpson, where he had been to visit his daughter, he was surprised "coon" as a couple of young negro bucks—Will Joyner and Jim White—walked out and told him to put up his hands or be shot. He wasn't long, however, about doing what he was told to do, and while Will Joyner held a pistol in his face in the great Western style, Jim White proceeded to do some robbing.

The old man was relieved of all his personal effects, including $3.17, a valise and contents and the coat and shoes which he was wearing, after which he was told to move on and not lose any time. He thought it wise to do as he was told and moved, but he "come back."

After Joyner and White had divided their spoils and had put on the old man's clothing, discarding theirs and throwing the valise in a small stream further down the road, they proceeded to do some more holding up, this time striking their match. A work train was stationed near by and Joyner betook himself over to do the job single handed. He slipped into the caboose from opposite side of car where the workmen were out enjoying the night air. When he walked out and said hands up, these negroes were surprised, too, but they were so quick recovering and so active Joyner was almost beaten to death, while White moved off at a rapid rate to the boiler room of the ice plant where he was later found by the officers. After Joyner received his whipping he crawled about a hundred yards out into a field, where he collapsed entirely.

While all this was happening, Alonzo Staton was busy. He waited to see where the young negroes went and after being certain about them, he came down town and got Officers McGowan and Jackson who went out and found the criminals in the places and condition above mentioned. The old man identified his belongings which were returned to him except the money and valise, which could not be found.

Joyner and White were given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Rountree, and were bound over to the Superior court. They are in jail.

Dear Sir:
It gives me pleasure to attest to the promptness of the Maryland Casualty Company in the adjustment of its claims. It has just been one week since I made proof of claim on account of recent accident, which occurred in my saw mill, and I have received check in settlement.

Kindly accept my appreciation for this prompt service.

Yours very truly,

BEAVER DAM ITEMS.

Good Crops and Other Things in This Good Township.

Beaver Dam, Aug. 20, 1910.

Beaver Dam township was formed in 1881 out of portions of Farmville and Contentnea, and was named by the late Mr. Jesse Smith. He served well as a county commissioner from 1874 to 1882. He was born on the hills near Beaver Dam swamp, in whose forests he hunted the raccoon and the squirrel and ate its delicious chiquapins, and in its waters fished for the redfin, perch and catfish. This good old man died in 1885 at the age of 75, and sleeps beneath the soil he love so well.

On July first crops in this section were the poorest in the memory of the writer, but the warm, copious showers since then have brought them to the front, except tobacco. Now the farmer smiles as he walks over his fields.

Corn is all the talk. The boys have corn patches for the prize contest, while their fathers are growing demonstration corn, and some of the boys are ahead of the fathers. Ivey Smith and Moses Moye have corn that is hard to beat, and Wm. McArthur and G. T. Tyson have some that will make Dr. Knapp and John Evans smile.

Miss Irene Anderson died on the 15th inst. at the epileptic home in Raleigh. Her remains were brought home and laid to rest in the family burying ground. She was a daughter of the late Mr. Isaac Anderson, and is survived by her mother, three brothers and two sisters.

Mr. Walter Carter, a Confederate veteran aged 85, died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Calvin Jones, on the 16th inst. He was a good and quiet man old man. I am sorry at all times to chronicle the death of a follower of Lee, for they served in a war that tired men's souls.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cobb have returned from Asheville where they had been enjoying the land of the sky.

Mrs. J. R. Moore, late of Greenville, is visiting Mrs. Nau Tucker.

DELIGHTFUL MOONLIGHT SAIL.

Given by Dr. R. L. Carr, Complimentary to Miss Whichard's Guests.

One of the most delightful sails of the season was given Thursday evening, by Dr. R. L. Carr, complimentary to Miss Hennie Whichard and her guests, Misses Josephine Harris, of Wilmington; Bettie Gray Sutton, of LaGrange; Susie Perry and Hazel Mitchell, of Kinston.

The fun-seekers met at the wharf about seven o'clock. Soon the moon rose and added her silvery light to the already pretty scene. For three short hours, the merry crowd enjoyed long rides up and down Tar river. About ten o'clock they landed at Greenville Heights. Here an appetizing lunch was served. After enjoying about an hour more on the water they returned to Greenville, declaring the evening ideally spent.

Those present besides the guests of honor were Misses Lillian Carr and Essie Whichard, Messrs. Norman Warren, H. L. Carr and Dr. R. L. Carr; Mrs. D. J. Whichard chaperoned.

A cricket makes more noise than a hornet, but commands less respect.

HONEYMOON ON DOG SLEDS.

Miss Helen G. Arnold Weds Alaskan Deputy Marshal.

Miss Helen Gertrude Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Reese Arnold, was married yesterday at 6 p. m., in Glyndon Methodist Episcopal church, Glyndon, to Clifton Culvert King, United States Deputy Marshal of Alaska, with headquarters at Teller, Alaska, Rev. T. T. Copes, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, and a reception followed in the home of the bride.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a robe of fibre crepe, trimmed in Irish point lace over mesaline, with tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms, and carrying a shower bouquet of bride roses and ferns. The flower girl was Miss Reese Arnold, of Myersdale, Pa., niece of the bride. Miss Katie F. Evans, of Chester, Pa., was maid of honor and was gowned in chiffon muslin and carried pink carnations.

The other attendants were Mrs. John O. Cockney and Mrs. T. Henry Penn, Mr. Seba D. King, of Durham, N. C., brother of the groom, was best man, with John O. Cockney, Wilbur Hicks Gorsuch, Wooton T. Mercer, and Phillip Trueheart as ushers. Mrs. Ida Capels, of Glyndon, played the wedding march.

After a tour, which will include New York, Buffalo, Niagara, the Lake Shore to Cleveland, Detroit to Chicago by boat, Milwaukee and St. Paul, there taking the Soo Line to Moosehead, Canada, then to Winnipeg, over the Canadian Pacific into Vancouver, British Columbia; down to Louise, Seattle and Portland, Ore. Mr. and Mrs. King will then take the steamer Victoria, at Seattle, Wash. Crossing the Pacific Ocean, they will enter the Behring Sea at Umak Pass, going to Nome, Alaska, then overland with dog teams to Teller, which is situated on Port Clarence Bay, where they will make their home.

Mr. King, who was a former resident of Greenville, N. C., was appointed a year ago to the position he now holds.

Mr. Arnold, the bride's father, is superintendent of bonded warehouses at the port of Baltimore, under Collector Stone.—Baltimore Sun

WANT THE TAXES.

Washington and Chowan Both Wait Taxes From Long Bridge.

Information from Washington and Chowan counties is that the county commissioners of those two counties are each hot after the taxes from the million-dollar bridge of the Norfolk Southern Railroad across the Albemarle Sound, and that there is a contention as to the proper division of the tax assessments.

The information is that Chowan county is claiming taxes for the entire bridge as far as the Washington county water line, while the insistence of the Washington county commissioners is that they are entitled to taxes on the value of the bridge to mid-channel. It is probable that the matter will have to be settled by the courts unless there is some agreement reached.—News and Observer.

REPUBLICAN HUMOR.

Local Option Platform and an Incidental Touch on Duncan.

Four Republicans of some note were on the train that left here this morning for North Wilkesboro. J. Ruff Henderson, of Wilkesboro, was returning from the Republican State convention at Greensboro. J. Ruff explained that he remained over for a few days to add a little strength to that paragraph in the platform relating to local self government. The ex-postmaster at Wilkesboro explained that he endeavored to make this plank so plain on the subject of local option that it would not be misunderstood, but it appears that a majority of the platform committee were too weak-kneed to accept Henderson's ideas.

The other members of the party consisted of District Attorney Holton, who was enroute to Wilkesboro to attend Wilkes Superior Court; E. O. Masten, of Guilford College, also enroute to the State of Wilkes, and C. M. Bernard, of Raleigh, who was going to Pinnacle to look after his interest in the old Pilot Mountain. A member of the party authorized The Sentinel to say that Mr. Bernard was the man who was succeeded in the office of district attorney of the eastern district by Harry Skinner, who secured the job through the influence of one E. C. Duncan, who recently had Skinner ousted on account of some "dislike."

"You may add, too," said Mr. Bernard, "that in the recent fight over the State chairmanship, that we routed Duncan in his own ward and county."

REPORT OF PITT COUNTY.

Crops in Better Condition—75 Per Cent. of Average.

Following is an extract from the general crop report of the New Orleans Times-Democrat, August 15, which gives the report of Pitt county: Greenville, N. C., Aug. 10.—Since last report there has been a marked improvement in the condition of the cotton crop in Pitt county. The improvement generally is believed to be fully 25 per cent. The damage mentioned in the last report as being caused by root lice has disappeared, and there has been no insect damage in the past month. The maturity of the plant as compared with last year is about the same.

There will hardly be any free movement of the crop in this section before about Oct. 10. The farmers would be very willing to sell at present prices if they had any ready market.

The plant is larger and better fruited than it was at the time last year. A month ago it was estimated that only about 50 per cent. of a crop would be made in this county, but with the good weather and improvement during the month it is now believed 75 per cent. of an average crop will be reached. The farmers are very much more hopeful and in better spirits over the improved prospects.

COTEN FOR SENATE

Ayden N. C., Aug. 19, 1910. Editor Reflector and Fellow Democrats of Pitt County:

The 10th day of September is fast drawing near, when it behooves us to name our choice of our party for the various county offices. I wonder how many farmers have thought who would best represent them in the next House and Senate? Did you know that most any bill for the betterment of the doctor, lawyer or merchant's business could be easily passed in any legislature?

Now, Bro. Farmer, have you not had a throgt for the past two years that needed to be converted into a law which would give you and your neighbor advantages with the professional man? The farmer with his small tract of land should be on the same proportionate footing with the man with his thousands of acres, his big bank account, stocks and bonds. Just so long as we have to pay a lawyer $5.00 to $10.00 to search the title to our real estate and pay him a bonus of $20.00 to $50 to write the mortgage so we can get the money all right, just so long will we have our hands tied and continue to be the "under dog" in the progress of civilization.

Men! why not champion the leadership of the pioneer of the Torrens Land Title System in North Carolina—our senior Representative from Pitt—Hon. R. R. Cotten? When have we ever had a man in North Carolina to try to pass a more needed measure which would be of such universal uplift to the farmer? The man who owns his bank stock, rail road stock, or legal corporation stock takes it to his nearest bank, writes his name across the back thereof, signs a note for the amount of money desired, gets it and goes on his way rejoicing, but poor Mr. Farmer, (though he may be rich in lands) who owns possibly several times the amount in real estate, has to pay a lawyer to search the title and his fee for writing the mortgage. But does it stop there? By no means. The clerk of the Superior court and register of deeds both have to have their share. Is that all? No; the mortgage is then placed on record and thereby published to the world of his encumbrance, and the condition thereof. And if it be a deed and a small mistake is made therein, we unto our courts, for there will be labor for you.

In like manner as we championed the leadership of Hon. John H. Small, our representative in congress for his uniting service in the advancement of our interests and the drainage of our low lands, so let us on the 10th day of September cast our nominating ballot for that sterling gentleman and farmer, Hon. R. R. Cotten, to represent us in the next senate, and on the 8th day of November next, elect him by the largest vote any man has received in Pitt county for a generation.

WOMEN'S CLUBS EVERYWHERE.

From Skagway to Porto Rico One Hundred Thousand Are Busy.

The woman's musical clubs follow the flag. Skimming through the pages of the latest musical directory, the inquisitorial eye discovered the existence of the ladies' amateur club in Skagway and Nome, Manilla and Guam. Even Honolulu and Ponce, in Porto Rico, are in the record. But, sad to relate, the heavenly art, which soothes the savage breast, is as yet without classified disciples in Jolo and Samar and a few other haunts of our untamed little brown brothers.

A little arithmetical persistence reveals one thousand of these women's musical clubs in the record, with an aggregate membership of one hundred thousand and a geographical universality covering every urban community of importance under the Stars and Stripes.

The woman's musical club is entirely indigenous to American life, and it is to the credit of the American woman that, having attained leisure, she has employed it in acquiring higher standards of living. The one million enrolled club-women of America, the most intimate of the arts, the most general in its appeal, the easiest of appreciation has been the most widely seized upon as an avenue of growth in the feminine campaign for culture.

With growth in membership and increased musical activities, the musical activities, the musical club, particularly in the larger cities, has evolved beyond a parochial influence. Thorough its engagement of native artists and foreign virtuosos, its support of the great orchestras of the country, when on tour, and its promotion of music festivals, the music club exerts a potent influence on our national musical development.—John Warren in the Delineator.

AMERICANS READY TO ACT.

Nicaragua in the Hands of The Insurgents.

By Cable to The Reflector. San Juan Sur, Nicaragua, Aug. 22.—The entire government of Nicaragua is now in the hands of insurgents, whose army is encamped only a few miles from the capital.

Last night Jose Estrado, on whom President Madrid conferred his toga, in turn surrendered his title of a few hours to President Estrado, his brother being in lead of the insurgents. Transfer of presidency was made in the hope that the announcement would serve to quiet the mobs who are pillaging and robbing, but it had little effect. Marines from American gun boats are ready to march from Carinto to Nicaragua and take possession of the city if necessary to restore order.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Mr. Nathan Eason and Mule Struck by Same Bolt.

Mr. Nathan Eason, a farmer of Greene county, was killed by lightning Friday afternoon. Mr. Matt Hardee, a brother-in-law of Mr. Eason, had been visiting him, and they were on their way to Farmville where Mr. Hardee was to take the train for Greenville. On the road they were caught in a storm and stopped in a house for shelter. Mr. Eason was standing just inside the door holding on to the buggy reins, when a bolt of lightning struck and killed the mule. The lightning also ran up the reins and killed Mr. Eason, and Mr. Hardee was slightly shocked. About two years ago Mr. Eason married Miss Florence Hardee, of Greenville.

The Law for Saturday Hall.

The attorney general, with the approval of President Taft, has made public opinion that the law allows each state to choose the two citizens, not living at the time who may be honored by a statue in the hall of the capitol at Washington. No extraordinary learning was needed to reach this decision because the law is plain and to the point; those who objected to the statue of Lee did so for other mental or moral deficiencies than ignorance of the law. Of course Virginia had the legal and moral right to choose statues of Washington and Lee for her contribution and nobody had the right to object—it is exactly as it was long ago when fanatics accused Davis and Lee of treason without warrant from the law.

Some are now urging that Mississippi send a statue of Jefferson Davis. But when her right to do so conceded their ceases to exist any person to assert the right: while Davis is the statesman and soldier of whom his state should be proudest, her refusal to exercise a right which can only occasion outbursts of ignorance and proofs of bitterness will do her and him more honor than its assertion. We hope Mississippi will not insist on sending a statue of Jefferson Davis to this hall of honors, although she should refuse to fill one of her niches with a smaller man. Our real heroes do not need the honor that may accrue to them from the unwilling recognition of their character and services by any man.

Davis and Lee were great and pathetic Americans, worthy to stand with the rebel Washington or any other company. Humanity does them justice now and the verdict of history is assured; they need only that they live forever in the hearts of the southern people and that no opportunity be given to the world for doubt as to our loyalty to their memories. We would not affront the prejudices of others by forcing our convictions upon them—let the controversy rest where it is since there is no need for further words. Corp. Tanner may rave and Senator Heyborn may spout, but they have no power to disturb the rest of the illustrious dead and they know in their hearts that silence and contempt are the answers they dread most. The American who thinks he serves his country by erasing the name of Davis from a monument or casting a statue of Lee from its pedestal is not to be condemned, but to be pitied. And the American who seeks to serve his country in violation of its laws serves his cause so badly that he cannot harm opponents, Jacksonville, Fla.

EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA A GARDEN SPOT.

ON MIDDLE ATLANTIC SEABOARD
—PITT CO. ONE OF RICHEST

Most Fertile in This Favored Section, Possessing at Once a Combination of Soil and Climatic Conditions, That Make For the Very Best Development of an Agricultural People.

(Written by Mr. O. L. Joyner, for Messrs. Collins and Vanderburg, of Norfolk, Va., representatives at a North Western Immigration Bureau.

The soil and climate of Eastern North Carolina are about as near ideal as can be found in a temperate zone. This is one of the oldest sections in the United States, and many of the plantations of Eastern North Carolina have woven around and about them an historic association that goes well back into the Colonial period, yet there are many of these old plantations that have, in the last few years, been improved by crop rotation, and under new management are producing today larger crops of the same products than is produced per acre on much of the high priced land of the northwest, and there is no section of country in these United States where a greater variety of products of the soil can be made than right here in Eastern North Carolina. Many of the abandoned farms of this section instead of becoming poorer would, under skillful management, increase in productiveness and value but the old system of farming in this section embraced the cultivation of large areas on an extensive instead of an intensive system, the result of which was, in many instances, the deterioration of the soil, and the loss of its productivity. Where these farms have fallen into the hands of men who have employed the intensive system, they have rapidly increased in fertility, and although land in this section can be purchased at a much lower price than the same character of land in the newer states, yet, from every standpoint, it is much more valuable.

This section can produce almost every crop that is grown in the Temperate Zone. Corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, fruits and all kinds of vegetables for home consumption and for northern markets reach their highest development here. The principal money crops are tobacco, cotton and peanuts. Some estimate of the cost of producing these crops, with their comparative market value may be of interest.

The actual cost of cultivating, fertilizing, harvesting and selling a crop of tobacco depends largely upon conditions and the circumstances of the farmer who makes it. To hire everything done, at the present price of labor the cost of cultivating, harvesting and delivering an average crop of tobacco on the market in an average year will range from $65.00 to $80.00 per acre. The average yield per acre in an average year is from 700 to 1100 pounds. The average price at which tobacco has sold for the last few years on the Greenville market has been from 9½ to 11½ cents. There are exceptional cases, where some farmers produce as much as 1500 pounds of tobacco to an acre, and these farmers secure higher prices because of the superior quality of their tobacco, and consequently, this class of farmers have made a great deal of money out of the tobacco crop. The purpose of this article is to give to those not familiar with the cultivation of our money crops a general idea and therefore averages are mentioned in general terms.

Cotton costs something less to cultivate and market than tobacco, the principal difference being in the cost of the fertilizing material. The cotton crop does not require anything like the attention that tobacco does, although it is a crop that would pay very well for the extra attention given it. The average yield of cotton in this section, I judge, is from 300 to 400 pounds of lint in an average year. The cost of growing and marketing a crop of cotton will run from $35.00 to $50.00 per acre, where the labor all has to be hired.

Peanuts can be cultivated cheaper than either of the other two crops, requiring less high grade commercial fertilizer, and less cultivation, although, like cotton, peanuts respond profitably to good cultivation.

The swamp lands of Eastern North Carolina will yield anywhere from five to fifteen barrels of corn to the acre, which means from 25 to 75 bushels. In some places in Beaufort and Hyde counties, the yield of corn is even more than this. The uplands of this section produce an average of from three to five barrels of corn to the acre without fertilizer, but with careful attention and the judicious use of the right kind of fertilizer, the corn yield in the uplands can be materially and profitably increased.

Owing to the close proximity of the Gulf Stream to the Carolina coast and the range of Appalachian Mountains on the west, which protect this section from blizzards and fierce winds of the Northwest, the winter climate of Eastern North Carolina is about all that can be desired. There are but a few days during the winter, from December until March, when almost at any time farm work cannot be carried on in comfort. We have some hot days in this section during the summer, but generally speaking, they are of short duration, and for the full development of the crops are necessary. However, the climate of this section, as a whole, both summer and winter, can hardly be improved upon in any section of our country. There is no healthier section in the state than Eastern North Carolina. The great "Bugaboo—Malaria," which all the people fear, who live in other sections, is more a scare-crow than anything else. Some of the healthiest and stoniest specimens of humanity can be found here, while the general health of the section compare favorably with even the mountain section of the state. Under an act of the last legislature the drainage of the swamps of Eastern North Carolina will reclaim millions of acres of very rich land, and at the same time, remove to a large extent the cause of malaria.

LITTLE VIRTUES.

Do not be troubled because you have not great virtues. God made a million spears of grass where he made one tree. The earth is fringed and carpeted, not with forests, but with grasses. Only have enough of little virtues and common fidelities and you need not mourn because you are neither a hero nor a saint.—Henry Ward Beecher.

A PROGRESSIVE SECTION OF PITT COUNTY.

A VISIT THERE AFTER TWENTY-YEARS BY FORMER TEACHER.

His Eyes Opened to Wonderful Progress Made—Better Farming, Better Roads and Better Schools.

In 1887, twenty-three years ago this month, I took charge of a public school, at what was then called Calico Hill, which the people of that section permitted me to teach, and generously paid me thirty dollars per month. I boarded with the family of the late Mr. George Venters. The people of that section were very good and kind to me then, and since, in my business career, some of the best friends I have ever had are the people I came to know at that time. Although actually engaged in the tobacco business in Greenville since soon after that time, I have not visited that section since. For some time I have promised to go down there, and Monday evening I fulfilled that promise. It seems to me but a short time since I was there, but when I was met at Shelmerdine by the grown and bright young man, son of Mr. H. C. Venters, with whom as a boy I associated when I boarded at his father's I was forcibly reminded of the flight of years.

I spent the night at the home of Mr. H. C. Venters, and next morning together we rode around the country. Although it has been more than twenty years, I have never seen more positive evidence of thrift and progress than there is in that section. Much of the land thereabout that was then an almost unbroken wilderness of wood land has been cleared, and thrifty crops are growing. The little 14 x 16 school house in which I attempted to teach has been replaced by a modern school building that would do credit to any town. The post office at that time was Calico, and occupied a small space in the back room of Mr. Venters' store, the only place of business there. Our townsman, ex-register of deeds, T. R. Moore, was in charge of the store, post office and business of Mr. Venters. The Calico
