THE TRAINING SCHOOL.

Now Down to Regular Work of the Second Session.

Everything is now moving smoothly on the second session of East Carolina Teachers' Training School that opened last week. The preliminaries of registrations and class arrangements incident upon the first few days of a session have all been completed, and the students have entered eagerly and earnestly upon the work of the school year.

It is certainly an inspiration to see the school, especially when all gathered in one body for chapel exercise. It was our pleasure to see them this morning, and the two hundred young ladies and twenty young men there made a picture not soon forgotten. After the formal exercises conducted by President Wright and some explanation of classes, he introduced ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis, who addressed the school. In presenting Gov. Jarvis, President Wright truly said "He loves you and your interest better than any man in North Carolina." Governor Jarvis spoke on "Building a Good Foundation," and emphasizing the necessity of laying here in school a good foundation upon which to build their life work. He urged them to strict attention to every duty, using several forceful illustrations in his remarks. The students listened eagerly to the good words of advice from this noble man, and expressed their appreciation of all he said.

CONSERVATION DELEGATES.

Delegates Appointed to the Conservation Congress.

Governor Kitchin has appointed the following list of delegates to attend the Southern Conservation Congress, which meets in Atlanta on October 7th and 8th:

W. N. Hutt, Raleigh; D. C. Parks, Hillsboro; E. L. Marley, Lumber Bridge; J. Q. Gant, Burlington; W. E. Moore, Webster; W. C. Dowd, Charlotte; S. T. White, Greenville.—Raleigh Times.

A pious fraud is sin's best friend.

SOME FACTS ABOUT RALEIGH.

Her Chamber of Commerce Pushing the State Capital Forward.

A very attractive leaflet is issued by the Raleigh chamber of commerce and industry concerning the Capital City of North Carolina, containing much information of interest to the entire state. Raleigh, like Washington, is publicly owned; that is the streets and parks are the property of the state. This is because the state through a commission, selected the site and bought the land, laid out the streets and parks and sold building lots; in two or three cases the same family having held the property since the original sale; 118 years ago. Raleigh in this respect is the most unique of all the state capitals. The value of the state buildings and their contents is $2,500,000, exclusive of land, which is worth more than half million. The leaflet shows the capital is growing rapidly, the value of building and street improvements in progress totalling $1,115,000. The value of city property has in three years increased 25 per cent., and now amounts to $12,000,000. The $125,000 municipal building and auditorium the latter to seat 4500 persons, will be done January 1st. The street railway and power company is expending $250,000 in doubling the capacity of its plant. The Country Club, with hundreds of acres of land and very attractive buildings, is a notable feature. Raleigh is the educational centre of the state, having 23 schools, and a larger school population in proportion to the entire population than any other place in this country. It has two hospitals and, a third one, for the negroes, is being built. Here is the largest school for negro blind and deaf-mutes in the world, and the largest Baptist and Episcopalian schools for negroes. The Raleigh post office pays the 1233 R. F. D. carriers in the state $1,111,000, which is $487,000 more than four years ago. The money order division hauled $1,360,000 this year.

It takes well into the afternoon every day to finish the sales on the tobacco market. And double sales are on, too.

GRAND STAND COLLAPSES.

Hundreds of People Are Buried in The Wreck.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Madrid, Spain, Sept. 21.—During a bull fight at Mejorada today the grand stand collapsed, burying hundreds of occupants, and is feared scores more have been killed. Rending of the timbers gave a warning and while the mighty structure sagged men, women and children arose from their seats and attempted to fight their way to the exit. Many were badly injured by being trampled on before the building completely toppled. Soldiers were rushed to the rescue.

BMACK TO JAIL.

Crippen Will be Tried For His Life.

By Cable to The Reflector.
London, Sept. 21.—Following the police court hearing of Dr. Crippen and Ethel LeNeve charged with the murder of Belle Elmore, today the doctor was committed to jail to await trial for his life before the central criminal court. Miss LeNeve was also remanded. Crippen will be formally charged with murder when arraigned and the girl with being an accessory after fact.

POLICEMAN STALLINGS DEAD.

His Murderer Taken to Raleigh for Safety.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Raleigh, Sept. 21.—Chief of Police Stallings, of Spring Hope, died early this morning at Richmond hospital. The negro, Norman Lewis, who shot him, was brought here last night for safe keeping. Feeling is said to be high against him in Nash county and lynching was feared.

New Brokerage Firm.

The Carolina Brokerage Co., composed of J. D. Smith and W. J. Turnage, is a new firm that has just started business here. For the present they will have temporary quarters in the law office of Mr. C. C. Pierce.

TROUBLE IN VIRGINIA.

Threatened War Between Oystermen and The Authorities.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Portsmouth, Va., Sept. 21.—With a battalion of soldiers, detachment of light artillery with heavy guns, three armored cruisers held in readiness today to quell violence, war between the oystermen along James river and the Virginia fish commission over restrictions imposed on fishermen by authorities, is imminent this afternoon. The commission hopes a truce may be effected but the oystermen are ready to defend what they term their rights with bloodshed, if necessary. Word was brought here this afternoon that 4,000 oystermen are arming.

MOB AFTER MURDERER.

Say He Will Never be Brought to Court House Alive.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Louisville, Miss., Sept. 21.—A band of men armed with Winchester rifles thronged the streets here today awaiting leaders to discover and storm the jail where a young man named Perminter, a member of a prominent family, is detained on the charge of attacking and brutally murdering Miss Janie Sharp, a pretty 18-year-old girl. Threats were made so freely that Perminter was hidden by the authorities. Friends of the girl say he will never be brought to the court house alive.

GRAFT PROBING.

New York Committee Has Sensational Evidence.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Sept. 21.—With the promise of the most important and sensational evidence yet discovered, the legislative committee which is graft probing in New York state resumed its session here today with several new and untried issues before it. The committee is ready to go into the books of J. S. Bache & Co., which they had so much trouble in getting.

RESIGNS GREENVILLE ALSO.

Rev. R. C. Deal Will go to Western Part of the State.

While it was expected, the resignation of his pastorate here which Rev. R. C. Deal announced in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, was received with regret by the church and people of the community. Mr. Deal resigned the church at Kinston a week ago, and serving the church here jointly with that, dividing his Sundays between the two towns it was looked for that he would resign here also. He has accepted a call to Montreat, in the Western part of the State, and will go there the first of November. He will fill his appointment in Greenville the first and third Sundays in October before going to his new field.

A Domestic Tragedy.

There was published in Sunday's Journal the old, old story of the trusting husband, the weak wife and the unfaithful friend. The husband was compelled in order to earn meat and bread for a wife and two little girls, to spend the week away from home. He took the other man as a boarder so that his board money might help keep the wolf from the door. He left him at his home so that he might protect his wife and little ones. The rest of the story is so familiar that there's no need of telling it. The husband came home on Saturday night to find even the furniture gone. Four lives have been ruined. The husband, the wife and the two little girls will never live to forget the evil day. The other man will go his way as usual.—Winston Journal.

An Epoch in Circusdom.

When Mr. E. Haag proprietor of the Mighty Haag Shows which exhibits at Greenville, October 7th, decided to inaugurate his sixteenth season as a successful purveyor of all that is good in circusdom to the public, he decided to create a new departure, his idea being to combine a first-class circus and wild west performance under one mammoth stretch of water-proof and sunproof canvass, and for one price of admission; something never attempted before by any showman; both circus and Wild West will be complete exhibitions in itself in every detail making the best exhibition ever offered to the public. While giving two distinct exhibitions the price will be the same as charged for either circus or Wild West by other managers.

Truth is Stronger Than Friction

A number of papers in this State have recently published articles in regard to people who, although, they had lived near the cities, had not been in town for years. New Bern has any of these beat a mile. There is a lady who lives within half a mile of the court house who has never seen the Federal building the Elks' temple and many other place in the business-section of the city. She is in good health and is not incapacitated in any way that would hinder her from going down town if she so desired, but for seven years, this she has not done. Whenever an article is needed from any of the stores some other member of the family is the purchaser. This state of affairs sounds rather improbable, but it is absolutely correct, and can be verified at any time.—New Bern Journal.

CAROLINA CLUB COMMITTEE.

Will Give an Entertainment Sometime in October.

At a recent meeting of the newly elected board of governors of Carolina Club the following standing committees were appointed: On Library—H. B. Smith T. M. Hooper and W. S. Atkins. On Entertainment—D. J. Whichard, J. E. Higgs and D. M. Clark. On Music—W. S. Atkins. It is the purpose of the club to give an entertainment in October, date of which will be announced later.

The membership of the club is growing and its sphere of usefulness to the community is constantly increasing.

Too Stingy to Take a Paper.

The picture given below may be slightly overdrawn, but it points a moral:

"Once upon a time a farmer who was too economical to take a newspaper sent his little boy to borrow the paper taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a beehive and in ten minutes he looked like a watermelon summer squash. His cries reached his father who ran to his assistance, and, failing to see a barbed wire fence, ran into it breaking it down and cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $5 pair of trousers. The old boy took advantage of the gap in the fence, got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, his wife ran, upsetting a four-gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. In her hurry, she dropped and broke a set of $7 false teeth. The baby left alone, crawled through the spill cream into the parlor and ruined a $25 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the calves got out and the dog broke up ten setting hens."

And the moral of it all is that you should not try to practice an economy that is not practical. And it is not practical to sponge on the barber and the restaurant keeper for his newspapers.

No man can keep posted by depending on a chance glance at a newspaper that belongs to some one else.

Back to the School Room.

For the past two weeks back to the school room has been the all-consuming thought of thousands of the studious North Carolina children. Back to the pursuit of routine drudgery and the instructions of bookish professors will be their portion for the many months that are yet to come and truly a richly portioned it is. They have cast their long summer vacation in the background and for the next seven or eight months they will spend their precious time in an entirely different field of endeavor. A field that opens up the avenues of opportunity in many directions and bids them travel while they may. Though seemingly long they are to the average youth they soon speed by, and then you must squarely face the so-called tough old world. And

DULLEY & BOWEN Home of Women's Fashions, Greenville, C.

Some One Knew. Eugene Higgins, carpet-maker, accused of attempting to smuggle, cannot relieve himself by swearing at the tariff. He owes it too much. By the new carpet tariff a jute rug worth abroad 12 cents a yard pays 4 cents a yard and 30 per cent. additional—7.6 cents a yard in all, or 63 1-3 per cent. A two-ply Ingrain worth abroad 35 cents a yard pays 18 cents a yard and 40 per cent.—in all 32 cents a yard, or 91 per cent.—before it can cover the floor of a poor man's home. And it works! The exclusion of cheap carpets is absolute. In 1909 only $3,274 worth of jute, hemp or flax rugs and carpets worth less than 15 cents a yard was imported. These goods paid 2.28 in duties, an average of 69.89 per cent. Of Brussels carpets, druggets, treble, three-ply and two-ply ingrain combined only $40,000 worth got into the country, paying duties of from 60.48 to 72.47 per cent. Practically all our carpet importations are high-priced goods. Mr. Higgins pleads ignorance of the tariff law affecting returning travelers. So far as the tariff laws affect carpets some adviser of Mr. Aldrich seems to have known a great deal.—New York World. Many Greenville people went out to the yearly meeting at Tyson's church Sunday.

YOUNG MAN, DON'T DRINK.

Good Advice From Man High up in the World.

Andrew Carnegie is not a prohibitionist, but he is a great believer in temperance, as all successful men are. He has delivered himself of this most interesting and effective homily on the subject of temperance: "The first and most seductive peril, and the destroyer of most young men is drinking liquor. I am no temperance lecturer in disguise but a man who knows and tells you what observation has proved to him; and I say to you that you are more likely to fall in your career from acquiring the habit of drinking liquor than from any or all other temptations likely to assail you. You may yield to almost any other temptation and may reform—may brace up, and, if not reover lost ground at least remain in the race, and secure and maintain a respectable position. But from failure caused by the drink habit recovery is almost impossible. I have known but few exceptions to this rule."

Andrew Carnegie was a young man himself once; he was very poor; he had no friends; but he possessed great courage of conduct and found out early in his career that the young man who drinks liquor for the passing pleasure it gives, is the young man who will not succeed in the practical affairs of this life. Business men whatever their own personal habits may be, are not inclined to give remunerative employment to the youngsters who are fond of drink. The young fellow who starts out with his appetite uncontrolled is undone before he begins. Substantial people do not trust him; the great industrial corporations will not employ him, and in the vast majority of cases the young man who drinks is the young man who fails to make any mark in the world.

Andrew Carnegie is a wise man; he is worth millions of dollars; he has given away millions of dollars for many charitable purposes, but he never made a dollar that he owns by drinking liquor.—Richmond Times Dispatch.

FIRE IN BEAVER DAM.

Mrs. Allie Joyner Loses Her Dwelling House and Contents.

About one o'clock on Wednesday morning Mrs. Allie Joyner, of Beaver Dam township, lost her dwelling house and kitchen, and practically all the contents of both, by fire. Her son was first to discover the fire, and he barely had time to awaken his aged mother and get her out in safety. By the time the neighbors could be aroused with the ringing of the farm bell and reach the scene, the fire had so far advanced that practically nothing could be saved from the building. The fire started somewhere about the kitchen, but the cause is unknown.

Mrs. Joyner's loss is about $1,500 on which she only had $375 insurance. Notwithstanding her advanced age, she being over 80, she takes the loss of her home with remarkable resignation. She was heard to remark: "If the Lord saw fit to take away her home in her old age, it was all right, as he would soon take her and there will be nothing for her to trouble over."

GOES TO THE FOREIGN FIELD.

Miss Laura V. Cox Leaves Saturday For Mexico.

Miss Laura V. Cox, of Winterville, who has been called to the foreign missionary work as a teacher, leaves Saturday for Guaymas, Mexico, in which field she will labor under the direction of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Miss Cox was left an orphan, without means, in her early girlhood and spent the years from that time until maturity with relatives, working part of the time and attending school as opportunity afforded. In this way she fitted herself for teaching in the public schools and taught a few years. She joined the Baptist church at an early age and very soon thereafter resolved to give her life to missionary work. She was ambitious to obtain a thorough education, to equip herself for this work, and her relatives recognizing her true worth assisted her in going to college. She first attended the State Normal in Greensboro for two years, then attended Merith College in Raleigh for three years and graduated there with the B. A. degree. Last year she took a course in the mission teacher training department of the Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. In addition to her English studies Miss Cox mastered several of the languages, making a specialty of Spanish and goes to her work in the foreign field as well prepared as any woman the Southern Baptist Convention has sent out in mission work. Pitt county is proud of her, and the prayers and good wishes of many people will follow her in her labors for the Master.

The Reflector is glad to state that Miss Cox will let her many friends at home hear from her occasionally through the columns of the paper.

Good Way to Use Hyomei for Catarrh.

Besides broaching through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mee) from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Try it; it's very simple; gives quick relief and makes you breathe easier. Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a teaspoonful of HYOMEI, cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stiffness at once, and makes your head feel fine. You can get a bottle of HYOMEI at druglets everywhere or at Coward & Wooten's for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle HYOMEI Inhaler.

But bear in mind that a HYOMEI outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of HYOMEI costs $1.00.

But, as stated before, if you already own an inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI costs but 50 cents.

HYOMEI is guaranteed by Coward & Wooten and druglets everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup, or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

NOTES FROM THE UNIVERSITY

Good Work of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 20.—The University of North Carolina is now well started on its year's work and the students and faculty of the institution are once again conscious of their debt to the Young Men's Christian Association which has taken such a prominent part in getting things to running. Freshmen more than any other people, perhaps have a tender feeling for the association for it was the information bureau which was run by Y. M. C. A. members which enabled them to see some semblance of order in the chaos of red tape which seemed to confront them on their arrival here.

The association had sent each prospective new student a hand-book during the summer, which contained all the information that could be composed into the small space in regard to the new country into which the men seemed to themselves to be journeying. The association engineered college night, when a mass meeting in Gerrard hall brought together for the first time all the new students, old and new—the men for an introduction to the custom and unwritten laws of the life of the University community, the old men for a noisy cheering, gathering with everybody clapping everybody else on the shoulder, glad at the realization that he is back. At this meeting talks were made by Mr. C. L. Williams on the Educational Value of the Literary Societies; Mr. Archie Dees on the Honor System, by which the student body govern itself; The Function of Athletics in a Symmetrical Education by Mr. S. E. McIntosh; Mr. W. Turlington, the president of the Y. M. C. A., for the coming year spoke of the Achievements and Aims of the association. Tullington who is also the first scholar of his class and who won the Bingham medal in debate at the last commencement, told of what the Bible study groups conducted by the association had meant last year. The groups had included 400 men or half of the entire student body. A startling attainment of the Bible study enthusiasts in the eyes of many, was organization and successful year's work of a class which consisted of members of the football team only. He told of the various ways the association had made itself a part of the life of the college.

According to its time honored custom the association held its welcome meeting on the first Sunday of the session. Dr. Edwin Mims, Professor P. H. Winston, and Rev. R. W. Hougue made short talks. Dr. Mims told of what the association had meant to him in his student days at Vanderbilt and during the many years he had been a teacher at Trinity college. Professor Winston warned the new men against five evils which the man who lives the life of the college successfully must shun—laziness, drunkenness, gambling, immorality and profanity. Mr. Hougue, the pastor of the Episcopal church here pointed very forcibly the necessity for development among spiritual lines—a necessity which he considered more stringent than any other and one of which he feared college men are prone to neglect. The one thought which ran through all three of these talks was that the work of the association should appeal and does appeal to the strong men of the student body.

Mr. Ed. P. Hall, the newly elected general secretary of the association, had an active part in the engineering of these various meetings of the association. Mr. Hall graduated at the University of Georgia last spring, where he was a member of the honor board and president of the Y. M. C. A. He has already made a very pleasant impression on the large number of students who have become acquainted with him.

PLAYED A SHREWD GAME.

Politicians Know How to Play Other Things Besides Politics.

Messrs. E. J. Justice, Andrew Joyner, W. R. Land and one or two others journeyed to Madison Saturday in an automobile, where Mr. Justice made a speech that woke up the Democrats of that county. It was a great day. The party arrived in good time, but coming back they did not have such good luck. Some miles beyond Stokesdale a tire of the machine burst with a report like a rifle. The man in charge knew his business, however, and soon repaired it, but it would not stick and down it went again. Then he solemnly announced that they would have to foot it to a telegraph office or some phone and have another machine sent after them. Feathers fell and faces grew solemn, but just at this juncture a freight train was heard coming up a grade, puffing and snorting.

A wink is generally as good as a nod to a blind horse, but in this case Mr. Joyner said to the others "play lame; I'll flag that freight."

Freight trains are not permitted to carry passengers. Out on the track he ran and with the aid of two handkerchiefs he brought the train to a stop.

"Sorry, my friend to stop you, but our automobile was wrecked just back there, and some of the occupants are hurt, can't you take us on to Greensboro?"

Full of sympathy, the conductor told him to come ahead and he would at least take them to Stokesdale and wire for orders. The others were called and came limping up, badly hurt, of course, and boarded the train. At Stokesdale permission was obtained from Greensboro to bring them on to town, where they arrived at seven o'clock.

Not a man was hurt! Mr. Joyner, however, said the expert who was driving the machine came near spoiling everything, but when yelled at to come on, he started on a run; but the others were ever so lame.—Greensboro Record.

Unprejudiced Juror.

In a southern county of Missouri years ago, when the form of questioning was slightly different from now, much trouble was experienced in getting a jury in a murder trial.

Finally an old fellow answered every question satisfactorily; he had no prejudices, was not opposed to capital punishment and was generally considered a valuable find. Then the prosecutor said solemnly:

"Juror, look upon the prisoner, prisoner, look upon the juror."

The old man adjusted his spectacles and peered at the prisoner for a full half minute. Then, turning to the court, he said:

"Judge, juried if I don't believe he's guilty!"—Kansas City Star.

Take the Afternoon Paper.

Take a careful look at this copy of The Daily Reflector and you will find items of news in the press dispatches that will come to you in other papers tomorrow. This shows that when you get today's news today you must look for it in the afternoon paper. The telegraph service of The Reflector is right up to the time of going to press, and it gives you the news far ahead of any other paper. Strong argument it is that everybody in reach ought to be a subscriber to The Reflector.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald, wound or piles, stagers skeptics. Cellar Door Politics.

All this Roosevelt-Lorimer racket about the Hamilton club banquet at Chicago looks mighty trivial and childish to the proverbial man-up-a-tree. It's such a foolish little fuss for big men to engage in. "Smarty, smarty, gave a party," as the school children say, and invited Col. Roosevelt to be guests of honor, but Teddy, with whom politics was stronger than politeness, pouted and sent word that he didn't care to play in that back yard or slide down that particular cellar door unless that horrid Lorimer boy was tapped on the wrist and bounced over the fence. Some nerve, considering that it was Senator Lorimer's own back yard, for he was a member of the Hamilton club. But the other little boys were afraid of Teddy with his big stick, so they wrote and told Lorimer he mustn't come and play with them that day.

And now come Senator Lorimer's friends, with their thumbs to their noses, crying "Goody, goody, goody, we're going to give a party, too, and it's going to be bigger than your party and we don't want to play in your old back yard! And we're going to invite President Taft to sit at the head of the table—not because we want him particularly, but just to spite you."

Oh fudge!—Atlanta Journal.

This is good weather for hauling tobacco, and Greenville is the market to which the farmers should bring it.

MAIL DELIVERY BY MOTORCYCLE.

Pitt County Has Gone Ahead on This, Too.

Carrier Make Bost, of Route 5, has bought a motorcycle, and when the state of roads and the weather permits of his using same on his route, he will be able to serve all his patrons by noon each day, and also will get back in time to get off mail on the southbound C. & N. W. The machine is a Wagner, 3 1-2 horse power, one cylinder, and it sells for something above $200.—Catawba County News.

—Pitt county is way ahead on this, and some of her rural mail carriers have strictly up to date methods of carrying their routes. Some years ago Carrier Roberson on one of the Stoke's routes, got a motor buggy for carrying his route. He used this for some time and then changed to a motorcycle, finding that it was cheaper to operate the latter. And Carrier Anderson, on one of the Greenville routes, is even ahead of this. He has an automobile and frequently carries his route in his car. So you see Pitt county mail carriers are right on the dot in their work.

Chief of Police Smith is walking lame and having to use a cane to help along his navigation. He took a kick at a dog, and swung his foot so hard that he wrenched it out of place, hence the lameness.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

VII.—How Some Men Have Succeeded on the Farm.

By C. V. GREGORY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

THERE are many millionaire farmers, but most of them have made their millions elsewhere and are spending them on rural estates merely to gratify a fancy. There are a number of men, however, who have made millions on the farm. It is not such an easy thing to do, but the success of these men shows some of the possibilities that the farm holds for the man who desires to make money in large amounts.

Probably the most notable of the men who have made fortunes on the farm is David Rankin. When David Rankin was married he handed the preacher his last five dollar bill with the remark that now he could start square with the world. He bought land on time and borrowed money to buy cattle. His first purchases were in Illinois. Later he removed to Missouri, attracted by the cheap prairie land that needed only a little drainage to make it yield abundantly. Today David Rankin owns nearly 25,000 acres of this same Missouri land, and it would all sell for $100 an acre. Add to this his cattle and horses and machinery and a few incidentals, such as bank stock and the like, and he has a fortune approximating $4,000,000. This has all been made in farming. Corn has been his specialty, and it has always been marketed in the form of cattle. He has always used the most modern machinery and the best equipment that money can buy. It has been the same with help. His foremen are men who can get results. He furnishes them with automobiles to take them from farm to farm because he has found that it pays in the time saved. He attributes his success to close personal attention and the application of business methods to farming.

Another man who has made millions in farming is Colonel James M. Smith of Georgia. Colonel Smith started raising corn and cotton on a rundown quarter section in Oglethorpe county soon after the war. The first year he lost $400. Last year his net profits were $100,000. In the meantime his farm has increased to 23,000 acres. Colonel Smith was one of the first men to build cottonseed oil mills and make a profit from what formerly had been a waste product. His farm was twenty-five miles from the nearest railroad, but he solved the problem by building a railroad of his own. He has always been a personal friend of all his men, white and black alike. He has provided well equipped schools for both the negro and the white children of his employees. Unlike David Rankin, who never had even a common school education, Colonel Smith is a college graduate. He learned to handle men in the army, and he applied the same organization to his farm work with great results.

Colonel Smith's success has demonstrated what can be done on the farm land of the south. One of his 200 acre farms a year ago yielded 4,800 bushels of wheat and 200 bales of cotton. The wheat sold for $1 a bushel and the cotton for $50 a bale, making a total income from the farm of $14,800. After taking out the expenses there was a net profit of $51 an acre. This might well make even a Mississippi valley farmer envious.

The west has been heralded as the land of opportunity. In the early days, when land could be had almost for the asking and the cattle business was at its best, a young man of the name of Henry Miller started out to make a fortune in the ranch business. Today he is worth $20,000,000. He once announced that he hoped some day to own the whole state of California. In this he did not succeed, although his holdings in California amount to 600,000 acres. He also has large tracts of land in Nevada and Oregon.

The ranch business is on the decline in the west, and what was once one man's cattle ranch is now being cut up to make farms for the hundreds of thousands of land hungry settlers who are pouring into what is still "the land of opportunity." About twenty years ago an Iowa farmer sold a half section of land, paid his debts, and, with seven or eight thousand dollars in cash, a wife and four children, started for Arizona. He located in the Salt river valley, bought as much of the cheap land as his money would pay for and set out to learn irrigation farming. He learned it well and made money. The surplus went to buy more land. He joined the Water Users' association and was influential in getting congress to start the Salt river irrigation project. Government irrigation insured permanent prosperity for the Salt river valley, and today this pioneer farmer who set out to make a fortune in "the great American desert" is worth more than $200,000.

Success in the irrigated districts is not necessarily measured in extensive farms and large bank accounts. A few years ago a locomotive engineer, sixty years old and broken in health, moved from Minneapolis to the state of Washington. He bought an acre of irrigated land, paying $1,400 for it. It contained an apple orchard in poor condition, a house and a few dilapidated outbuildings. The purchase of the land took nearly all the old engineer's savings. He pruned the old apple trees and set out thirty new ones. He sold off a few mongrel chickens that were on the place and bought a pure bred rooster and three hens. After the first year's expenses were paid he had enough money left to put on many improvements. The next year he put money in the bank, and the year after. So well did the acre produce that at the Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland in 1905 it was awarded the prize for the second most productive and best managed farm in the west.

There are men who say land is so high that there is little chance for the man with small capital to get a start. Notwithstanding this more young men are buying farms every year. A dozen years or so ago a young German who had been working by the day in northern Iowa decided to get married. After the ceremony his chief possessions, in addition to a capable wife, were a horse and buggy and $150 in cash. He rented a farm and bought a grade Leffleron mare. The price he received for his first few colts opened his eyes to the profits of the horse business. He bought some more mares, pure bred this time. He made money from the start and has nearly enough money laid by to buy and pay for the farm he has been working.

Another young farmer in northern Iowa went into the dairy business six or seven years ago. Dairying was rather a new thing in his part of the country then. Most farmers preferred to raise corn, where they could do most of the work by machinery. Much of the land at that time was badly in need of drainage and was better suited to pasture than to corn growing. A few wet seasons reduced the profits of the corn growers almost to the vanishing point. The young fellow who had put his faith in dairy cows jingled milk pails and put money in the bank. After a few years of milking he bought the farm he was working and paid half cash. The mortgage cannot last long in the face of a prospering dairy business.

The average farmer of the middle west doesn't like to think of farming anything less than a quarter section. An eighty or a forty he considers rather "small business." Nevertheless there are many advantages in the smaller farms. The hired help problem is solved, for the owner can do all the work himself. It is much easier for a man with limited capital to buy a small farm, and the cost of stocking and equipping is less.

C. E. Hendle of Nebraska is one of the corn belt farmers who is making a living on forty acres of land. His average net income is $800 a year. He has a very comfortable house. To rent such a house in the city and live as well there as he and his family do on the farm would cost him $1,500 a year. Considered in that light, his little farm is really paying him a salary of $2,300 a year.

In the east the greatest opportunities are in truck farming. Only a few acres are required, and the returns are large. A certain truck farmer in the vicinity of Boston is making a small fortune on ten acres of ground. His intensive cultivation down to science. No sooner is one plant taken from the soil than another is ready to take its place. He has part of his truck farm under glass, so that he can grow crows in winter as well as in summer. Last year his net profits were $1,000 per acre.

Don't waste your money buying platters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for 25 cents. A piece of board damaged with this liniment is superior to any other for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by all druggists.

THE PAY ROLL COUNTS.

The Reflector has long been advocating the establishment of such manufacturing enterprises as have good weekly pay rolls. They are what count most in the business of a town. The capitalist may have his investments in stocks and bonds from which he can draw his dividends, yet but little of his income finds its way into the channels of business. He spends enough for the necessities of his family and for occasional pleasure trips, any residue he may have goes into other investments. It is not so with the wage earners. They draw their weekly wages and it at once finds its way into the money drawers of the merchants. The merchants may have stores well filled with goods, but unless there are wage earners with some money to spend there is not much business for them. Hence several manufacturing enterprises with good weekly pay rolls are worth more to the business of a town than many times the number of capitalists.

Take The Reflector establishment, for instance. While not given to much boasting, we do take pride in the fact that it is worth something to the business of Greenville. It does not begin to have the largest pay roll here, but the employees of this one plant and those dependent upon them spend an average of a hundred dollars a week with the merchants of Greenville. This being so, it is the duty of the merchants in town to give their business to the establishments that patronize them. What they pay for printing goes back to them in trade.

This is mentioned for illustration. The same thing is true of any other enterprise whose employees receive and spend their wages weekly. They their thanksgiving this year before the November election. No need of that at all. They will have it at the usual time and with plenty to rejoice over, not only in this State but elsewhere.

PITT HAS NOMINATED GOOD MEN

When any party puts out good, honest, capable men for the various offices to be filled, that party has the right to expect every man who pretends to be its adherent to support the ticket. Now we believe that when a party does not consider efficiency and normality, but just simply nominates men because they happen to have a pull with certain class of people, and nominates inefficient men, there is some excuse for a strict party man to scratch.—Roxboro Courier.

There is good reasoning in the foregoing. In the case of Pitt county, a ticket composed of good, capable men has been nominated, hence it is the duty of every Democrat in the county to support the ticket. Some of the men on this ticket have been tried in office for several years and have fully met every requirement. The new men nominated are equally good and worthy of all confidence. Of course the entire ticket in this county is going to be elected, but every Democrat should vote and make the majority as large as possible.

What is this coming to light now? Is Dr. Cook really going to make good? A Copentagan dispatch states that he is enroute there from Etah with proof of his claims to the discovery of the North Pole. From this it may be inferred, if the dispatch is not a fake, that the time Cook was in an asylum in some secluded place, he has been back in the Arctic regions gathering together the proof which he claims to have left behind.

are helping the business of the town and are entitled to the patronage of those with whom this money is spent. It is the way to make business. Every enterprise with a pay roll should be supported, and additional ones should be encouraged. Greenville needs a building up in this particular as the town has not as many manufacturing enterprises as it ought to have. Give employment to wage earners, encourage the enterprises that employ them, and you will have an increased number of people with money to spend.

The Wilmington Dispatch, the bright afternoon paper of the "city by the Sea," had so outgrown its former quarters that it erected and recently moved into a large and handsome new building. Immediately following the change also came a change in the size of the paper, and The Dispatch is now eight pages of seven columns, instead of six pages of six columns as before. The increase in size carries further the good quality that has all along marked The Dispatch.

A New York lawyer who is attorney for holders of those old bonds against North Carolina about which there has been so much stir, is sending long circulars to people in North Carolina trying to convince them that it is holding the state back in progress and reputation not to pay the bonds. How easy it is to think Marion Butler is behind that circular scheme. Wouldn't it cost North Carolina a fine sum if his crowd could get control of the state once more!

A book that should be in the hands of every voter in the state is the Democratic Hand-Book that is now being sent out by the state executive committee, and a copy of which can be had by addressing Chairman A. H. Eller at Raleigh. The book contains 223 pages of campaign matter bearing upon both state and national politics and a comparison of the records of the two parties. Those who want to be informed on these things should read the book.

North Carolina suffers a great loss in the recent death of Editor John M. Julian, of the Salisbury Post. Not only was he held in high esteem by the newspaper fraternity, but he was a useful man to his town and to his State. Several times he represented Rowan county in the legislature and he took high rank in that body, always being a hard working member. John Julian will be sadly missed.

From the coast towns come the reports that the fishermen are catching more mullets than have been landed in years. That particular branch of eating ought to be cheaper then. We are glad something gives prospect of checking the beef trust, for nobody who could get good corned mullets would eat beef.

The Wilmington Dispatch went dry, editorially speaking, yesterday. May we inquire whether Cowan was merely fishing, or did he journey forth to Greenville to settle the red-headed controversy with Whichard.—Greensboro News.

Must have been the former, as his bright head has not bobbed up down this way.

Things certainly do look good for Pitt county. It is already one of the best farming counties in the State, and the interest that is awakening for good roads and the movement for reclaiming swamp lands means progress for the near future.

The man who has just been elected governor of Maine is the first Democratic governor that State has had since 1872. And what is more remarkable, he is a son of the former Democratic governor. This looks like there is something in a name.

Mr. Roosevelt has not given an explanation of why it went like it did in Maine.

The report is going around that the North Carolina Republicans have a barrel of money to spend in this campaign. It may help somebody for the money to get in circulation, but none of them will be helped by getting offices they hope to buy with the money.

Those fellows who started the rumor that President Taft was going to stand aside for Roosevelt to have the nomination in 1912, were merely guessing. The rumor is denied, the president is sticking to his former declaration to take it again if it comes his way.

If Marion Eutler and his gang could get hold of North Carolina once more, they would bankrupt the State paying those fraudulent bonds. And Butler would get a rake off in commissions of several millions. That is what he is working for.

The mayor of Durham has ordered the police to put a stop to rubbernecking when a company of show girls come to town and go to cafes for their meals. Now, boys, go home to your mothers.

Did you ever! The Orange, Va., Observer has already blurted in with "now is the time to do your Christmas shopping." And this before the ice man lets go. Always somebody to be suggesting trouble.

We wonder what has become of the real good apples. Some that are fine enough looking are shipped to the merchants, but they do not seem to have that fine flavor that they used to have.

The decision of President Taft to make no further distinction between insurgents and regulars in the distribution of offices, has given some of the North Carolina pie hunters shake.

Dispatch Cowan intimates that News Patton and Reflector Whichard are color blind. Think we don't know a pumpkin when we see it, eh? That's the limit. Sic 'im, Patton.

The Greensboro News says "Maine may have gone Democratic, but one swallow does not make a summer." Just wait, there are some more swallows coming to you in November.

A Geneva doctor claims to have discovered the "science of reading people's character by looking over their old shoes. Guess he finds some of them badly run down.

The Republicans are trying to keep their courage up by bragging about what they are going to do in North Carolina. It is a regular going by the graveyard whistle.

South Carolina newspapers must be weak in influence. In the primary in that state Blease won out for governor with every paper but one against him. They must feel sore.

James C. McGrew, who claimed to be the oldest ex-congressman in the United States, died Sunday at his home in West Virginia. He was 98 years of age.

When the day comes that all business men of Greenville unite in an effort to draw trade to the town, you will see more trade coming this way.

And here comes Robeson county with a "ring and anti-ring" fight. They must have forgotten the slogan, "Hold Robeson and save the State."

The sixth congressional district muddle has come to an end. We hope no dissension was created that will give comfort to the Republicans.

While Mr. Bryan can get paid for making speeches there are many others who are glad of an opportunity to make them for nothing.

If there is a person who does not get his money's worth out of The Reflector at the subscription price that person is hard to please.

After three efforts the Republicans of Wake county brought out a ticket. It will take but one effort of the Democrats to beat them.

The fellows who are saying Cavaliere is the most beautiful woman in the world, need to come to Greenville and take a look.

We want to see Greenville the best town of its size in the State. It could easily be that with effort in the right direction.

In addition to the Democratic congressmen elected in Maine, the legislature will also elect a Democratic senator.

The Republicans may try to make any excuse for it they please, but the Democrats carried Maine all the same.

Greensboro is working to get a commission form of government. Hope it will win out so the rest of us can see how it works.

There are some other Republican states that might follow the example of Maine, if they want to get decent.

The size of the majority in the sixth district primary shows that they wanted Godwin.

This cool spell don't make a winter, and if you rush into 'em you will want to shed 'em later.

Dixon and the Devil.

Rev. A. C. Dixon, formerly of Shelby, but now pastor of the Moody church in Chicago, has recently preached a sermon that is being passed around. According to this recent deliverance, the horns, barbed tail, cloven hoofs and general terrifying make-up which used to form the delineations of "The Father of Lies," have gone out of fashion. Instead of these, according to Dr. Dixon, he has put on a frock coat, a silk hat, a white tie, a high collar and patent leather "pumps" and may be seen cavorting around pink teas and ladies' soirees, looking benevolent and trying to appear intellectual. According to the report in The Record Herald, Dr. Dixon said a lot of women are falling victims to his wiles. He is the same "Old Nick," in spite of his efforts to appear respectable. He is trying to adopt himself to modern conditions and, as evidence of the success of his operations, Dr. Dixon pointed to the large followings obtained by the "spiritualist, theosophist and Annie Besant cults" which, he declared, "were founded by women at the direct instigation of Satan himself." The doctors think that any knowledge forbidden by God was satanic and that the seeking after it was sinful. To back this up he quoted from that portion of the Scripture which adjures to converse not with those who have "familiar spirits" and who "mutter in the dark." Then the doctor went into a severe arraignment of women. "Not one," he is quoted, "admires a good woman more than I and no man is good who doesn't owe much of what is best in him to some good woman, but it is a fact that cannot be denied that women have been responsible for a great deal of what is wickedest in the world." Dr. Dixon is evidently a preacher with a grouch.—Charlotte Chronicle.

How State Fairs Help the People.

From several score of young farmers of the Northwest have been obtained statements as to what State fairs do for the people and as to what they should do. What these young farmers say the fairs do for the people may be summarized thus:

They give—

Vacations for many farmers with pleasure and profit combined.

Contact with men skilful in every department of agricultural work, and the stimulus which such contact can not fail to offer.

Elevation in standards of work and in quality of product; first, by the offering of premiums, and, second by observation.

Increase of interest in farm work as dignified and wholly worthy of respect.

Opportunity for study of newly devised farm machinery at work.

Encouragement toward the improvement of crops and stock through the rotation of crops, select seed and wisely-chosen cattle, sheep, hogs, etc.

Development of the State pride and broadened views as to markets.—The Delineator.

Back From Millinery Centers.

Mrs. I. F. Lee and Mrs. W. B. Greene announce their return from Northern millinery centres having selected goods for Mrs. I. F. Lee & Co. We visited the hat parlors of a milliner direct from Paris. At our opening (to be announced later) we will show the newest and most up to date styles in all the latest shapes and shades for fall. Come and see us. 11d 1w. MRS. I. F. LEE & CO.

Becoming Rich.

Too often the fact that a man is growing rich is first announced to his neighbor by a wider spread and a finer show in his style of living. His wife and daughters begin to resemble the lillies. They neither toil nor spin but Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of them. Next come a coach and span. Then, of course, a new house. The old one was ample. There is no increase of family but without a grander mansion, how is the world to know that the man has made a fortune? So architects and painters and decorators in due time install the household in a palace fit for a duke and they take their rank among "the upper ten." All the humble walks of life are abandoned, old friends are dropped, the hearts once often cheered, and the poor helped, looked no longer for their coming. The cloak of selfishness is tightly drawn and the heart closed to the appeals for charity. How true, when blessings come in the way of great prosperity, they are wholly appropriated for self, and the good they were intended to do never speed on missions of mercy, but are tightly held, dwarfed and thwarted altogether and they are not known to have become rich by the many blessings bestowed or good done, but only by an outward dazzling show that a few years will obliterate.—Louisburg Times.

Chairman Morehead's secretary, Mr. Crisson let the cat out of the bag as to the meaning of that "local self-government" plank in the Republican platform. He says the defeat of the party in Maine was because of a desire of the people to get a whack at the constitutional prohibition, which means that his party in this State desire to knock the law in this State. The election in Maine had very little to do with prohibition. The national committee sent its best speakers to the State and the entire campaign was made on national issues. The Democrats in Maine have long favored giving the people a chance to vote on this constitutional amendment and now that they will control the legislature it may be done. If the Republican party in North Carolina wants to make a clear-cut issue on State prohibition why does it not do so. A committee was appointed some days ago to interpret the meaning of this plank. Mr. Thomas Settle, who is the daddy of the plank, said it meant booze; but the other members had an attack of cold feet and said it did not. Then Tom wanted to know if it did not mean liquor what did it mean. And the others have not yet answered.—Greensboro Record.

Says the Wilmington Dispatch.

"By summer the Greenville Reflector shied bricks at us, on account of the bathing girl, and by fall the Charlotte Observer is hurling lemons at us about our alleged love of the hobble skirt, so indeed like a breath of fresh air breaking through the foul atmosphere and like a straw tossed before the eyes of the drowning man, at least our optics behold something we can show out better half without fear or trembling. We return most grateful thanks to the Greenville (S. C.) News for the following: "The Greenville Reflector and Wilmington Dispatch are again quarrelling about red hair—and the hair doesn't belong to woman, either.

Dying Hard.

An instance of the ruling passion strong in death has just come to light in Mecklenburg Republican circles. The key note of North Carolina Republicanism has been and is "office." It has no higher aim than that in the procurement and control of official jobs and it is this very characteristic that has retarded the growth of the party in this state. How hopeless is the obsession for office in the Republican breast is shown in the recent action of the machine committee in practically commanding McNinch in the event of his election to congress, to take instructions from them and to make no appointments to office that are not endorsed by the county machine. Of course this action is audacious, and it goes to show why a Republican is a Republican in this State. The reply of Candidate McNinch was to the effect that in the matter of making appointments he would not be dominated by the machine, but that he would follow the plan of Chairman Morehead. The old pie counter crowd seems to be unable to understand the new order of things. It is a hard death. We are a little bit surprised that the Charlotte machine hands should have made a public spectacle of it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Insuring B. & L. Members.

What seems to us to be a new departure with all the elements of merit in it is being made by some of the more enterprising life insurance companies, chief among them the Equitable. These companies are using a life policy for building and loan members. The building and loan associations always require fire insurance to protect their interests. This new move is to furnish life insurance to protect the widow and family in case of death. It will be but another addition to the beneficent features of the building and loan associations. The principal feature of this new policy is that the premiums may be paid in monthly installments, thus making the policy easy to carry.—Charlotte Observer.

The Republican party in North Carolina has long been a close corporation. It has been capitalized for a billion dollars, and but two dollars and thirty cents have been paid in. It has been playing a large bluff on a small capital, and it played its policies like one might play a slot machine—per centage. Duncan is just now overboard. He has not fallen from the ship, he has simply been lowered, and the deck hands are exulted over their new captain. Next year John Morehead will be the subject of the gaff and the harpoon. The captain of today becomes the deck hand of tomorrow—because pie is the one thing in sight in the Republican politics in North Carolina.—Everything.

A new rule has just been put into effect by the United States post office department, whereby a receipt for a registered package will not be returned, signed by the addressee unless specially requested by the sender. "FIX MY SHOE," SAID HORSE.

Meandered to Smithy and Made Him Understand His Need.

Joe has hauled a Hickerson express wagon to and fro between the International Mercantile Marine dock and the express transfer station in Eighteenth street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, for fifteen years. He is blind in one eye and weak in the other, but he possesses sense of the true horse variety. His only side trips have been occasional visits to Mr. Carroll, the horseshoer in Christopher street, between Washington and West.

Well, this morning Joe was left in the stable because his right forefoot shoe needed fixing, and Dan Barry, Joe's driver, had no time to take him around to Carroll's before business hours. But that didn't make any difference to Joe. Barry started for the dock with Joe's relief hitched to the wagon when he happened to look back. Old Joe was quietly walking out of the stable and trotting away southward. Before the driver could fairly take in the situation Joe was out of sight.

Half an hour later Joe stopped in front of the Carroll blacksmith shop. "Ain't that Barry's horse?" asked Carroll of his assistant. "It sure is. Must run away, nothin'," said Carroll. "That horse never runs away."

Joe raised his right fore hoof as if it hurt him. Carroll looked it over. "That hoof's all right. Only needs a new shoe," was the mental note of Carroll. The new shoe was fitted. Next thing Carroll knew Joe was trotting away, but not in the direction of the stable. He was covering the distance to the International Marine dock as fast as he could, without exciting suspicion.

He got there all right and just waited for Dan Barry to turn up. Barry found Joe pawing, as nervous equines are wont to do, with his new ly shod right forehoof. The driver did not miss the glitter of the new shoe.

"Well, what d' you think of that?" exclaimed Barry, as if some one were near at hand to hear him. "He went and got himself a shod, and I'll bet he told Carroll in good horse talk to have it charged."—New York Globe.

THE "KNOW HOW."

Dr. Benbow and the Wind Mill Fixer—A Little Story With a Moral.

Speaking about paying men—a commission, for instance—to manage the affairs of Greensboro, as is being done in a great number of cities, there is almost sure to be opposition. The idea of paying men to do something that the people have had done for nothing, is not very popular, but the trouble has been, by reason of the fact that the aldermen have their own business to attend to and are not in a position to do things for want of adequate knowledge, that they have not "done things." No one will dispute the assertion that the man who "knows how" is worth ten times more than the man who does not know. Both may be honest and square, but the difference is still there. The late Dr. Benbow, a very prudent man, used a windmill to pump water for his hotel. It would get out of order sometimes refuses to work, on which occasions he secured the services of the late "Paddy" O'Sullivan, an honest and most capable old soul, but the doctor got tired of paying him and one day when it was out of whack, concluded to fix it himself. He tried it for three days and finally had to send for "Paddy." He came fixed it in ten minutes and charged therefor $2.50. Dr. Benbow demurred, saying that not over a dollar's worth of work had been done on it. "Correct," said Paddy: "$1.00 for the work, a dollar and a half for the know-how; I am not going to furnish my brains to you for nothing." The doctor paid the bill and said it was all right. See the point? Get men who know how, but they will never know how unless they are kept on the job every day in the week. We have had most competent aldermen, but they have never had the time to thoroughly inform themselves and "know how."—Greensboro Record

IT WAS A FINE SALE.

And Farmers Were Well Pleased With Prices.

On Friday, the 16th, I had on my floor at the Peoples warehouse, 171 loads of tobacco, the most of which came from territory that has been selling elsewhere. I took extra precautions to ascertain if my customers were satisfied with their sale and I have only heard of three men who were not well pleased. This is the most satisfactory sale ever made for that much tobacco on one floor. I feel good over it. The buyers stood up all day from 10.30 till 16 minutes to 5 o'clock and the last piles sold just as well as the first. We have the best buyers in North Carolina and if there are any farmers who have not sold with me and will try me with their next load, I will prove it to them. I wish to thank my customers and friends for their liberal and generous treatment. I am working hard for trade and expect to keep at it.

Resolved, That the attendance at the North Carolina Association for the prevention of tuberculosis calls to the attention of all religious bodies and business organizations, manufacturers and employers, the great need of the popular enlightenment of the citizens of the State and for the institutions for the cure of unfortunate sufferers, and recommends that the representatives from the various counties of North Carolina be instructed to pay special attention to the enactment of such legislation as will aid to provide for an adequate appropriation to provide for the establishment and maintenance of such institutions, and that every legitimate organization of the State lends its cooperation to wage a campaign for the results commensurate with our needs.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the religious bodies, trade and business organizations, and leading papers of the State, and that every board of trade and chamber of commerce be requested to adopt resolutions expressing the desire of their various communities, and publicly request the representatives of their respective communities, when elected, to vote for an adequate appropriation to aid in preventing and curing tubercular patients throughout the State, when the next General Assembly convenes in Raleigh in 1911.

AYDEN MEETING IN INTEREST OF DRAINAGE.

CONGRESSMAN SMALL MAKES AN EXCELLENT SPEECH.

Large Crowd Present and Much Interest Shown in Movement to Drain Swift Creek and Clay Root Swamps.

A meeting that means much for the southern section of the county was held at Ayden Wednesday afternoon. It was in the interest of the movement to drain Swift creek and Clay Root swamps, along which are large bodies of land that would be of great value if reclaimed. This was first started at a meeting held in Shelmerdine a few weeks ago, a committee being appointed then and another meeting called for Ayden. Interest was shown in the large number of people who attended this meeting.

After an introduction by Mr. Paul Webb, Congressman John H. Small addressed the large audience for about an hour. In addition to pointing out the great benefit that would come from drainage of these lands, he explained fully the drainage laws and the steps that should be taken to establish a drainage district and get the lands drained.

At the conclusion of the speech a large number of land owners along Swift creek and Clay Root swamps signed a petition to be sent to the government asking that a drainage engineer be sent to make a preliminary survey of these lands, designate the proper boundaries of the district and estimate the cost of draining. When this is done further steps will be taken to have the draining done and these lands reclaimed. It will add thousands of dollars to the value of lands in that section.

About Snakes.

Mr. M. P. Page, of Carolina township, killed a very large rattlesnake near his home a few days ago. While the snake was a large one, it had only nine rattles.

And speaking about snakes, reminds us that it is said that with the possible exception of the poplar leaf, which seems to be increasing in numbers rapidly, all others are on the decrease. A number of large poplar leaves have been killed this season several being right in Greenville.

The Farmer.

We are inclined to agree with The Monroe Enquirer in its estimate of the brain power of the farmer. "The talk and this writing so much of it, about now the farmer is coming up the ladder socially and intellectually and about how the farmer is climbing into those realms" says The Enquirer, "gives one a pain. The time never was when farming was not as respectable, as honorable as any other business or profession on the earth and the time never was when there was not just as much brain-power driving farming operations as was engaged in pushing any other business along. The time was when some little egg-shaped headed fools thought that farming was away down the ladder and they looked on the farmer as a clod hopper—but the little thoughts bubbling up in their little think tanks did not make it so. It is not that the farmer is changing from a fool to a business man of energy and sense, but the little fools, some of 'em, are realizing that they have been fools in sizing up the farmer when they put him down below the very top in the business world and in every department of life where good sense and manhood counts." We can hardly remember the time when the farmers were not able, when willing, to lend money to town people, or when town people looking about for somebody to go on their bonds, would check off first of all, their list of farmer friends. The farmer always has been and always will be, a man to look up to.—Charlotte Chron icle.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Greenville People Know How to Save It.

Many Greenville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

Mrs. S. A. Simmons 504 Heritage St., Kinston, N. C., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be an effective remedy for kidney trouble and headache. My back pained me for a long time and my kidneys were much disordered. I happened to read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and procuring a box, I began using them. They benefited me in every way and I am now free from backache and am able to rest well; in fact, I feel better in every way. I am glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The long, dull summer has nearly passed. Nearly everybody has returned from their vacations with a more or less grim determination to get down to business as soon as they can adjust themselves to the traces again. The warehouse bells are again ringing for daily sales on all the markets, and the voice of the tobacco auctioneer is again heard abroad in the land. Just how much energy each man can instill into his business, depends on the business and the man, and it is plainly conjectural, but with everybody pulling towards the same end and all together business is bound to be better than it has for several months past. The point is for every man to do his own level best, and hope and believe that every other man is doing the same thing. During the last three or four months there have been too many business people worrying about other people's business. This business of other people is sometimes one thing and sometimes another. What really happens to man's own business is mainly and generally what he makes happen to it. The time is now at hand to make everything good happen to business that can possibly be made to happen.

The outlook is not without encouragement. The best thing about it is that even before the summer months have passed, and while still there was uncertainty about some of the crops, and while still the vacation season was on, there came a distinct improvement in business, nothing to become very much elated over, but enough to make things fairly good for the fall trade.

We are convinced so far at least as the tobacco business is concerned that the situation warrants healthy optimism, with every man doing his best in his own particular line without worrying over what may happen to the other man.—Winston-Salem Journal.

VOLLON'S PUMPKIN.

A Painting That Drove Paris Artists Into Hysterics.

It is a part of the duty of the official picture hanger of the Societe des Artistes Francais to distribute the canvases which are offered for the Paris Salon throughout the rooms of the Palais des Beaux Arts. The jurors are then summoned to examine these and comment or condemn as they see fit. The artists are at liberty to appeal to the jurors, and an influential artist can make trouble for the picture hanger. In this connection a story is told of Vollon, the painter of still life.

Some years ago Vollon had painted what he deemed his masterpiece, a luxurious pumpkin, orange in color and heroic in size, such as one sees at an agricultural show. The jurors did not approve the official picture hanger's choice of a place for it. A second choice also was found for it and condemned.

By this time the pumpkin had become the principal topic of conversation in all the studios of Paris, and the leading artists began to look in at the Salon to make sure that their exhibits were not being injured by an unfortunate contrast. One—Bouguereau—nearly fainted with horror on seeing the pumpkin not far from his pictures. "Take that thing away!" he shouted. "It kills my white and pink nymphs!"

So the pumpkin was removed. But here Cormon objected. He declared that it should not stay in the same room with his pictures. "Its juxtaposition to my lions and bears and tigers," said he, "makes them look like tame cats."

Tattegratt was the next artist to protest. "Don't place it near my work!" he exclaimed angrily. "What becomes of the martial spirit of my canvases, and what is the use of exhibiting starving garrisons with a big pumpkin alongside?"

So the pumpkin was shifted about till it had passed through fifteen rooms, and not a member of the society would tolerate its presence. Finally the picture hanger placed the pumpkin in the entrance hall, officially called "Salle d'Honneur" but popularly dubbed the "Chamber of Horrors." Naturally Vollon became the mortal enemy of the unhappy picture hanger.—Harper's Weekly.

OYSTERS ARE LAZY.

They Spend Practically the Whole of Their Lives in Beds.

Just like confirmed invalids, oysters spend their lives in beds. The principal parts of an oyster are salt water and a handsome stomach.

Every oyster has a mother-of-pearl lined overcoat with the moss on the outside. But a Waldorf-Astoria oyster gathers no moss.

Oysters, as a rule, keep their mouths shut, but when they have been in society too long they begin to gape. They are fond of playing games, one of their favorites being ring-around-a-rosy. In this game they join shells in a circle on a plate. They live in the ocean in summer and during the winter months frequent the principal hotels and restaurants, where they have reserved seats on cakes of ice specially prepared for them. They are rarely met with at huskings or church fairs.

An oyster is a conchologist by nature, a bivalve by profession and an appetizer because he cannot help himself. There are girl oysters as well as men oysters; but, so far as is known, one is not superior to the other. Oysters vary in size according to their circumstances and their bringing up. Some are harder to swallow than others. There is no particular rule about this. But if at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

In June the oysters ought to be as rare as the days.—Thomas L. Masson in Judge's Library.

SEES DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.

Democratic Optimistic of Party's Triumph in November Elections.

While there is nothing certain in this world except death and taxes, and while there is many a slip betwixt cup and lip, the signs of the times indicate a Democratic House. The Republicans have had such an amusing run of luck that some folks have a settled conviction that they are invincible—a conclusion which, in the light of history is preposterous.

The American people love public men who "keep the faith," who say what they mean, and mean what they say. A failure on the part of Stand-pat leaders to keep the faith is precisely what the row is about. They promised to revise the Dingley tariff down. That was when they wanted to get in. Being in, they proceeded to revise it up, with the result that millions of honest Republicans are in open revolt against the machine, and propose to punish the leaders who deceived and betrayed them.

Take two bits of evidence on this head, which are merely samples of volumes that could be produced. In my last debate with Mr. Chairman Payne on the tariff, last May, he insisted vehemently but erroneously that this bill is a revision down and that therefore he and his coadjutors had "kept the faith." As a keeper of the faith Brother Payne is in St. Paul's class. But query—if the Stand-patters did not promise to revise the tariff down, why does Mr. Chairman Payne keep on declaring that they have revised it down, and that therefore they deserve well of the country? The Economist jumped on him for saying that, and asserted that he makes a mistake, as does the president, in trying to defend the bill by claiming that it is a revision downward.

The "ultimate consumer" knows that he was promised a lowering of the tariff, and he knows that he didn't get it, consequently he is in bad humor. Last year the New England "scholar in politics," Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in fine scorn of both the fasts and the people, declared the "ultimate consumer" to be a myth. Nevertheless, six months later, the "ultimate consumer" in the Old Bay State pulled the Republican majority from sixty thousand down to five thousand. Less than twelve months later the "ultimate consumer" in Massachusetts Congressional district converted a Republican majority of fourteen thousand into a Democratic majority of six thousand, and sent Eugene N. Foss triumphantly to congress, thereby making him a vice-presidential probability. Since these events, mirabile dictu—I put in this Latin because I am writing about the "scholar in politics"—Senator Lodge has fallen into such fear of the "ultimate consumer" that he has appealed to Connel Roosevelt to take the stump for him. I submit that there is somewhat of poetic justice in that situation.—Champ Clark in Munsey.

Clarkton, Sept. 15.—Brown Marsh township, Clark's home, gave Clark 102, Godwin nothing. Three other townships, Clak 188, Godwin 40. Wilmington, Sept. 15.—Hannibal L. Godwin, of Harnett county, was nominated for congress in the sixth district today in the special primary, over Oscar L. Clark, of Bladen county by a majority of about four thousand. Every county in the district having gone for Godwin, except Bladen, which probably went for Clark by a majority of about two hundred and fifty, but complete returns could not be obtained tonight. The victory of Congressman Godwin is overwhelming, and is far greater than expected by his most earnest supporters.

GODWIN GETS NOMINATION.

Sixth District Congressional Nuddle Settled in Primary.

Dunn, September 15.—At 11 o'clock tonight Mr. J. C. Clifford, manager of Mr. Godwin's campaign, claimed that Mr. Godwin had carried the entire district by a majority of not less than 5,000. Brunswick county gives Mr. Godwin a majority of 500, while Bladen is claimed for Mr. Clark by 200 majority.

Lumberton, September 15.—Incomplete returns from seventeen of the twenty-three townships in Robeson give H. L. Godwin a majority of 1,240 over O. L. Clark in the primary election here today, Godwin receiving 1,787 votes and Clark 447.

Whiteville, Sept. 15.—Twelve voting precincts out of seventeen give Hon. H. L. Godwin a majority of six hundred and ninety-four over Oscar L. Clark, candidate for congress from the sixth congressional district.

Godwin's majority is conservatively estimated at from seven hundred to seven hundred and fifty in Columbus county. Godwin's majority in Whiteville township was only eleven votes.

Lillington, Sept. 15.—Godwin carries Harnett by a large majority, the incomplete returns give Godwin seven hundred and seven Clark one hundred and five. Several precincts are unheard from. It is predicted that Godwin will have one thousand and Clark one hundred and fifty. People turned out better than expected.

Fayetteville, Sept. 15.—In the sixth district congressional primary election today, the returns from fourteen precincts indicate without doubt that H. L. Godwin has carried Cumberland county by at least three hundred majority.

Clarkton, Sept. 15.—Brown Marsh township, Clark's home, gave Clark 102, Godwin nothing. Three other townships, Clak 188, Godwin 40.

THE WOMAN FARMER.

Why Some of Them Fall in Their Work.

Maudie Ranford Warren, discussing the methods and prospects of the "new" woman in the pursuit of agricultural science, has this to say: "Plenty of women fall in farming because they have taken it up either too hastily or with too little capital, or because they have already worn themselves out at some other vocation and have not the strength for the hard work of the farm."

The work of the farm is hard, and perhaps the hardest part of it falls to the lot of the uncomplaining woman who drudges in the kitchen, looks after the poultry, cleans the house, mends the clothing, coddles the children, and in some localities, does the milking.

If in addition to all this, the "woman farmer" should find time and inclination to plow two acres a day and weed the corn field after she has picked the beans and strawberries she can manage to retain a scintilla of gentleness, she is a marvel of womanhood.

The wife of a pioneer farmer is a female martyr. Yet she has given the world some of its noblest, sturdiest sons. She is not aware of the dull monotony of her life. All the universe is centered in the farm. And she is its brilliant sun. Her task, however, as a farmer's wife, is a sufficiently large one, and it is no wonder if she often falls when she endeavors and be a "woman farmer."—Philadelphia Press.

Hydrophobia Incurable.

Hydrophobia is a reality and not a dream, incurable, and not infallibly preventable and is a respecter of no particular season nor species of mammals, says a public health service report issued from Washington. A. M. Stimson, the author, repudiates certain mad dog fallacies and his report admits rabies may not be uniformly fatal, though it is almost so. Pasteurization generally prevents development.

Mad dogs are not always wild-eyed and frothing at the mouth and determined upon attacking every person they meet. "The rabid dog," says the report, "is sick; he is not necessarily running wild and furious; he is frequently obedient up to a late stage, and often seems to have a bone in his throat or to have sustained injury to the back."

Another fallacy is the general belief that rabies is much more easily transmitted in summer than in other months; the explanation is that more people are moving about and become subject to attack. Nor is the malady confined to any climate or region. It is liable to occur in the Arctic or the equatorial zones. Dogs, wolves, coyotes and skunks seem to be especially susceptible.

Gov. Patterson of Tennessee, would undoubtedly have been defeated at the polls in November. By withdrawing from the race after having been renominated by the regular faction of the Democracy he manages to escape judgment on his course as Governor. He still has the effrontery to say in his statement of withdrawal "I have never performed a public act of which I am ashamed, and every one was for the good of the state."

Whether Patterson is ashamed of his pardoning record or not, the main thing is that he is out of the campaign.—New York World.

Road Extravagance.

"Good roads, how and when are we to have them? In the last forty-five years nearly $140,000 have been spent on the roads in Buckingham. Are they any better now than then? Suppose we had borrowed that much money then and put two roads in order from east to west and north to south. With the levy made from time to time we could have paid the interest, created a sinking fund and had enough to keep the other cross roads in good repair. Some will be living forty-five years from now and will need roads; so start the ball at once. We make many and some serious mistakes in this life. Building good roads there can be no mistake as to the country."

This is the "horse sense" view of it. When a large sum is mentioned as the amount necessary for constructing a stretch of good road in a county, there are many who cry aloud that "it is too much; it's extravagant." Many people do not take a second thought and reflect upon consideration which the man from Buckingham has stated above—the annual waste of money on bad roads. The present system is simply a case of sinking money into something that can give no permanent return.

In the long run it is the good road that is the cheapest. It stays in good condition longer; repairs on it, when necessary, last a long time; it is an investment that pays.—Appomattox Times-Virginian.

As Regards Red Hair.

Usually red hair is considered a badge of glory, at least by the owner, thereof and often by the owner's admirers. For instance, through years past George Marcellus Bailey has been basking in the radiance emanating from the fiery puffs of Houston's wild ows. In this state, however, there is at least one red-headed individual—not a widow—who apologizes for the tinting of his tresses. Every one knows that the foxy editor of the Wilmington Dispatch has hair resembling an autumn sunset, and yet we understand that the selfsame editor sought to have the census takers class it under another color department.

Now the Greenville Reflector has a red-headed editor in more senses than one and in no sense is he ashamed of his embellishments. In the latest issue of the Reflector, Cowan, of the Dispatch, is cornered and reprimanded in strenuous fashion. Cowan had threatened to send a specimen of color photography by way of convincing The News that while his hair was curly it was not red. The Reflector answers:

"As we have done and seen Cowan, face to face, the picture he wants to send would not be any more convincing. Since he has denied it so emphatically we will admit that his hair is just near-red. But who would have thought he would be thick headed enough not to see the honor of being classed in such company. About to lose your opportunity, boy."—Charlotte News.

Under New Management.

Mr. Swarringer, of Rocky Mount, has purchased the Amuzu Theatre from Mr. Mitchell and will add a great many improvements, such as a new make of films and vaudeville. The Merbel sisters will be here this week in vaudeville. They are two pretty little girls and the patrons of this show will no doubt find them very entertaining. Mr. Smith, formerly of Rocky Mount, is manager.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Gathered From Our Exchanges Today of Events Just Happened.

Norman Lewis, the negro who fired upon Chief of Police Stallings on Sunday night at Spring Hope and gave him a wound in his chest that will prove fatal so physicians believe, was taken in Henderson this morning after having been hunted by posse of a hundred men for two nights and a day. Blood hounds were used on the negro's trail and the upper end of Nash county and a goodly part of Franklin was gone over in an effort to find the negro. The negro was taken shortly after eight o'clock this morning as he was attempting to board an outgoing freight from Henderson. The negro had about forty-five dollars in money on his person at the time of his capture. A telephone message received shortly after the noon hour states the negro has confessed that he is the person wanted, but now claims that it was his wife that fired upon the officer. His wife is in Spring Hope and will no doubt be detained.—Rocky Mount Record.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Considerable uneasiness has been occasioned both in this city and in the town of Plymouth, N. C., over the probable fate of the gas boat "Bettle C," which left here last Monday night, September 12 at twelve o'clock, bound for Plymouth and since that time no tidings have been received either here or in Plymouth concerning her whereabouts.

Statesville, N. C., Sept. 20.—Deputy Sheriff Wm. Clendelin of Elmwood, and Mr. John Webb, of Chambersburg township, had an exciting experience with a bad negro and his dog Sunday afternoon. Mr. Clendelin has for some time had a warrant for Will Crawford, a negro whose home is near Elmwood, the warrant charging him with disposing of mortgaged property, but the negro had always managed to evade the officer. Sunday afternoon it was learned that the negro was at his home and Mr. Clendelin, accompanied by Mr. Webb, went to the house to make the arrest. Mr. Webb remained in the buggy while Mr. Clendelin called the negro to the door. When Mr. Clendelin told the negro that he had a warrant for him the latter turned and rushed back into the house with the officer at his heels. The negro attempted to knock the officer down by slamming the door in his face but failed, and when the officer got inside the house the negro who is a powerful man, seized him and tried to choke him, at the same time reaching for a gun which he kept on a rack near the door. Hearing the commotion in the house Mr. Webb left the horse and rushed to Mr. Clendelin's assistance. Mr. Webb is also a powerful man and it took him but an instant to pull the negro from the officer, and no sooner than this had been done, Mr. Clendelin drew his pistol and covered the negro, threatening to kill him if he moved. The negro finally cooled down and after being kept under guard Sunday he was brought to Statesville and lodged in jail.

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

"Uncle Tommy" Tells The News of His Neighborhood.

Rochdale, Sept. 20.—Mr. Joe Smith left one day last week for Richmond to attend a medical college. Miss Tribby Smith returned home from Snow Hill last week. Several of our people went to Farmville to attend the show Thursday night. Mrs. Pattie F. Smith, who had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Flanagan, for a few weeks, returned home Tuesday evening. Mrs. C. L. Tyson and three children, of Renston, who have spent a week visiting relatives in our community, returned home Sunday evening. Miss Gertie Smith spent last week visiting Mrs. A. J. Flanagan and returned home Sunday.

Greenville was well represented at the yearly meeting at Tyson's Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ned Laughinghouse spent a portion of last week at Cobdale. Not knowing all their names we will just say that a good many of his friends and relatives of Greenville were visiting B. P. Cobb, at Cobdale Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Robert Jones returned to the E. C. T. T. School at Greenville last week. We told you something about some large pepper last week, and now we will tell you about a long gourd vine. The same lady, Mrs. C. E. McLawhon, has a gourd vine that had to run about eight feet to reach a pear tree and then it ran up to the top of the tree, which is about twenty feet high, and ran back down the tree about fifteen feet. It has several large gourds on it. So you see the tree is bearing gourds.

Mr. R. F. Pittman, of Johnston county, is holding a protracted meeting in the Free Will Baptist church at Arthur this week. There have been two additions up to date. Mr. J. P. Woodard, one of the E. C. T. T. S. students, came up Saturday evening and preached a very good sermon at Arthur Saturday night. He returned to Greenville Monday morning.

Mr. W. F. Walters, of Ayden, came Monday evening and attended the meeting at Arthur. He returned this morning.

GRIFTON AND AYDEN TIE.

They Played an Interesting Game Wednesday.

Grifton, N. C., Sept. 14.—The Grifton and Ayden teams played a tie game on the latter's diamond today. Ayden had the services of pitcher Lane, of the Wilson Eastern Carolina league team, who was hit hard, but not timely. Bland, the pride of Grifton, pitched a wonderful game, out 16 men, but was given very poor support. He clearly out pitched Lane in every inning. The game was played before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the season, but, with the exception of Bland's pitching, it was a poorly played game.

Score— R H E Ayden 4 4 3 Grifton 4 12 7 Batteries—Ayden, Lane and Stallings. Grifton, Bland and Dunkle

A TRUE FISH STORY.

Wadesboro People Competing for Mendacity Medal.

Mr. J. C. Carpenter, well known citizen of Lanesboro township, has a bull dog which he prizes very highly not only because he is a good watch dog but because he is developing extraordinary sagacity as a fish catching canine. Last Sunday a number of Mr. Carpenter's sons went bathing in Lane's creek, near his home. They were having a good time in the water splashing and swimming around when suddenly a large trout, apparently scared out of his wits, rose to the surface of the water and jumped into a small bateau that was in the lake in which they were bathing. No sooner had the fish landed in the boat than the family bull dog, which was sitting on the bank looking on, made for it. The fish, the instant the dog jumped in the boat made for the water. The dog did not hesitate a second, but dived from the boat into the water at the point where the trout disappeared and in a second or two reappeared on the surface with the fish in his mouth. The dog swam to the bank with the trout and the boys triumphantly carried it home and had it cooked for breakfast Monday morning. The fish was so big it made a good meal for the entire family.—Wadesboro Messenger-Intelligencer.

The True Home.

This is the true nature of home—it is the place of peace; the shelter, not only from all injury, but from all terror, doubt, and division. In so far as it is not this, it is not home; so far as the anxieties of the outer life penetrate into it, and the inconsistently minded, unknown, unloved, or hostile society of the outer world is allowed by either husband or wife to cross the threshold, it ceases to be home; it is then only a part of that outer world which you have roofed over, and lighted fire in. But so far as it is a sacred place, a vestal temple, a temple of the hearth watched over by household gods, before whose face none may come, but those whom they can receive with love—so far as it is this, and roof and fire are types only a nobler shade and light, shade, as of the rock in a weary land, and light as of the Pharos in the stormy sea;—so far it vindicates the name and fulfills the praise, of home. And wherever a true wife comes, this home is always round her. The stars only may be over her head; the glow-worm in the night-cold grass may be the only fire at her feet; but home is yet wherever she is; and for a noble woman it stretches far round her, better than celled with cedar, or painted with vermilion, shredding its quiet light far for those who else were homeless.—John Ruskin.

OUR LADIES COAT SUITS WERE made by the leading tailors of the northern markets. Opening Monday, September 26, 1910. C. T. Munford.

Good Breaks Everyday.

It is the daily occurrence now for the tobacco warehouses to have large breaks. Farmers are bringing in much of the weed and the market is very active. Prices continue good and it is seldom that any dissatisfaction is heard.

GRADED SCHOOL OPENS.

Largest Opening Attendance in Its History.

The Greenville graded schools opened this morning with an enrollment of four hundred and fifteen children. The total enrollment last year was four hundred and fifty; from this it would seem that the total for 1910-'11 will exceed by quite a good number, the enrollment of any previous year. Some of the grades are overflowing and steps will have to be taken to provide for their accommodation. The teachers are as follows: First grades, Misses Irvine and Herndon; second grade, Miss Hampton; third grade, Miss Knight; fourth grade, Miss Gray; fifth grade Miss Turner; sixth grade, Miss Sheridon; seventh grade, Miss Keeter. High school, Mr. F. C. Brewer and Miss Cox, drawing, Miss Lewis; music, Miss Gaston; The superintendent tells us that he has the school organized better than he has yet been able to organize for the opening, and everything points to a good year.

THE TOWN WON.

Property Owners Appeal to Supreme Court.

The contention over widening Fifth street west of Pitt, that was up before Judge Ward in the Superior court Tuesday, on the question of the town's right to remove shade trees where necessary to widen streets, was decided in favor of the town. The property owners who are contesting the matter took an appeal to the Supreme court. As that court will not reach the case before next February, the improvements on that portion of Fifth street will stop for the time being.

Principal of Graded School.

Prof. F. C. Brewer, of Arcadia, La., arrived Tuesday evening to take the position of male principal in Greenville graded school. Prof. Brewer graduated from the college at Lebanon Ohio, and later from Yale. He was a classmate at Yale with Prof. L. R. Meadows, one of the teachers in East Carolina Teachers' Training school. He comes to Greenville with the highest of testimonials, and we are sure that his work here will be of great help to the school.

Killed in Runaway.

Mr. S. W. Rouse was killed Tuesday night near Hug, Lenoir county, in a runaway. He had been to Kingston and was returning home. About a mile from his home his mule became frightened and ran away. Mr. Rouse was thrown out of his cart and sustained injuries that resulted in his death.

Mr. Rouse was a farmer, about 45 years of age, and leaves a widow and several children.

Boy Breaks Arm.

Willie Gray Lang, son of Mr. J. A. Lang, broke his left arm Monday afternoon. He was driving a mule to a wagon when the animal ran away and threw him out of the wagon. In the fall his arm and two or three fingers were broken.
