Gathered From Our Exchanges To-day of Events Just Happened.

Norman Lewis, the negro who fired upon Chief of Police Stallings on Sunday night at Spring Hope and gave him a wound in his chest that will prove fatal so physicians believe, was taken in Henderson this morning after having been hunted by posse of a hundred men for two nights and a day. Blood hounds were used on the negro's trail and the upper end of Nash county and a goodly part of Franklin was gone over in an effort to find the negro. The negro was taken shortly after eight o'clock this morning as he was attempting to board an outgoing freight from Henderson. The negro had about forty-five dollars in money on his person at the time of his capture. A telephone message received shortly after the noon hour states the negro has confessed that he is the person wanted, but now claims that it was his wife that fired upon the officer. His wife is in Spring Hope and will no doubt be detained.—Rocky Mount Record.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Considerable uneasiness has been occasioned both in this city and in the town of Plymouth, N. C., over the probable fate of the gas boat "Bettie C," which left here last Monday night, September 12 at twelve o'clock, bound for Plymouth and since that time no tidings have been received either here or in Plymouth concerning her whereabouts.

Statesville, N. C., Sept. 20.—Deputy Sheriff Wm. Clendelin, of Elmwood, and Mr. John Webb, of Chambersburg township, had an exciting experience with a bad negro and his dog Sunday afternoon. Mr. Clendelin has for some time had a warrant for Will Crawford, a negro whose home is near Elmwood, the warrant charging him with disposing of mortgaged property, but the negro had always managed to evade the officer. Sunday afternoon it was learned that the negro was at his home and Mr. Clendelin, accompanied by Mr. Webb, went to the house to make the arrest. Mr. Webb remained in the buggy while Mr. Clendelin called the negro to the door. When Mr. Clendelin told the negro that he had a warrant for him, the latter turned and rushed back into the house with the officer at his heels. The negro attempted to knock the officer down by slamming the door in his face but failed, and when the officer got inside the house the negro who is a powerful man, seized him and tried to choke him, at the same time reaching for a gun which he kept on a rack near the door. Hearing the commotion in the house Mr. Webb left the horse and rushed to Mr. Clendelin's assistance. Mr. Webb is also a powerful man and it took him but an instant to pull the negro from the officer, and no sooner than this had been done, Mr. Clendelin drew his pistol and covered the negro, threatening to kill him if he moved. The negro finally cooled down and after being kept under guard Sunday he was brought to Statesville and lodged in jail.

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

"Uncle Tommy" Tells The News of His Neighborhood.

Rochdale, Sept. 20.—Mr. Joe Smith left one day last week for Richmond to attend a medical college.

Miss Tribby Smith returned home from Snow Hill last week.

Several of our people went to Farmville to attend the show Thursday night.

Mrs. Pattie F. Smith, who had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Flanagan, for a few weeks, returned home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. C. L. Tyson and three children, of Renston, who have spent a week visiting relatives in our community, returned home Sunday evening.

Miss Gertie Smith spent last week visiting Mrs. A. J. Flanagan and returned home Sunday.

Greenville was well represented at the yearly meeting at Tyson's Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ned Laughinghouse spent a portion of last week at Cobb-dale.

Not knowing all their names we will just say that a good many of his friends and relatives of Greenville were visiting B. P. Cobb, at Cobb-dale Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Robert Jones returned to the E. C. T. T. School at Greenville last week.

We told you something about some large pepper last week, and now we will tell you about a long gourd vine. The same lady, Mrs. C. E. McLaw-hon, has a gourd vine that had to run about eight feet to reach a pear tree and then it ran up to the top of the tree, which is about twenty feet high, and run back down the tree about fifteen feet. It has several large gourds on it. So you see the tree is bearing gourds.

Mr. R. F. Pittman, of Johnston county, is holding a protracted meeting in the Free Will Baptist church at Arthur this week. There have been two additions up to date.

Mr. J. P. Woodard, one of the E. C. T. T. S. students, came up Saturday evening and preached a very good sermon at Arthur Saturday night. He returned to Greenville Monday morning.

Mr. W. F. Walters, of Ayden, came Monday evening and attended the meeting at Arthur. He returned this morning.

GRIFTON AND AYDEN TIE.

They Played an Interesting Game Wednesday.

Grifton, N. C., Sept. 14.—The Grifton and Ayden teams played a tie game on the latter's diamond today. 4-4. Ayden had the services of pitcher Lane, of the Wilson Eastern Carolina league team, who was hit hard, but not timely. Bland, the pride of Grifton, pitched a wonderful game, out 16 men, but was given very poor support. He clearly out pitched Lane in every inning. The game was played before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the season, but, with the exception of Bland's pitching, it was a poorly played game.

Score— R H E
Ayden ..... 4 4 3
Grifton ..... 4 12 7
Batteries—Ayden, Lane and Stallings.

A TRUE FISH STORY.

Wadesboro People Competing for Mendacity Medal.

Mr. J. C. Carpenter, well known citizen of Lanesboro township, has a bull dog which he prizes very highly not only because he is a good watch dog but because he is developing extraordinary sagacity as a fish catching canine. Last Sunday a number of Mr. Carpenter's sons went bathing in Lane's creek, near his home. They were having a good time in the water splashing and swimming around when suddenly a large trout, apparently scared out of his wits, rose to the surface of the water and jumped into a small bateau that was in the lake in which they were bathing. No sooner had the fish landed in the boat than the family bull dog, which was sitting on the bank looking on, made for it. The fish, the instant the dog jumped in the boat made for the water. The dog did not hesitate a second, but dived from the boat into the water at the point where the trout disappeared and in a second or two reappeared on the surface with the fish in his mouth. The dog swam to the bank with the trout and the boys triumphantly carried it home and had it cooked for breakfast Monday morning. The fish was so big it made a good meal for the entire family.—Wadesboro Messenger-Intelligencer.

The True Home.

This is the true nature of home—it is the place of peace; the shelter, not only from all injury, but from all terror, doubt, and division. In so far as it is not this, it is not home; so far as the anxieties of the outer life penetrate into it, and the inconsistently minded, unknown, unloved, or hostile society of the outer world is allowed by either husband or wife to cross the threshold, it ceases to be home; it is then only a part of that outer world which you have roofed over, and lighted fire in. But so far as it is a sacred place, a vestal temple, a temple of the hearth watched over by household gods, before whose face none may come, but those whom they can receive with love—so far as it is this, and roof and fire are types only of a nobler shade and light, shade as of the rock in a weary land, and light as of the Pharos in the stormy sea;—so far it vindicates the name and fulfills the promise, of home.

And wherever a true wife comes, this home is always round her. The stars only may be over her head; the glow-worm in the night-cold grass may be the only fire at her feet; but home is yet wherever she is; and for a noble woman it stretches far round her, better than celled with cedar, or painted with vermilion, shedding its quiet light far for those who else were homeless.—John Ruskin.

OUR LADIES COAT SUITS WERE made by the leading tailors of the northern markets. Opening Monday, September 26, 1910. C. T. Munford.

Good Breaks Everyday.

It is the daily occurrence now for the tobacco warehouses to have large breaks. Farmers are bringing in much of the weed and the market is very active. Prices continue good and it is seldom that any dissatisfaction is heard.

Withby Price, an old colored man, died here a few nights ago of pellagra.

GRADED SCHOOL OPENS.

Largest Opening Attendance in Its History.

The Greenville graded schools opened this morning with an enrollment of four hundred and fifteen children. The total enrollment last year was four hundred and fifty; from this it would seem that the total for 1910-'11 will exceed by quite a good number, the enrollment of any previous year. Some of the grades are overflowing and steps will have to be taken to provide for their accommodation.

The teachers are as follows: First grades, Misses Irvine and Herndon; second grade, Miss Hampton; third grade, Miss Knight; fourth grade, Miss Gray; fifth grade Miss Turner; sixth grade, Miss Sherindon; seventh grade, Miss Keeter. High school, Mr. F. C. Brewer and Miss Cox, drawing, Miss Lewis; music, Miss Gaston;

The superintendent tells us that he has the school organized better than he has yet been able to organize for the opening, and everything points to a good year.

THE TOWN WON.

Property Owners Appeal to Supreme Court.

The contention over widening Fifth street west of Pitt, that was up before Judge Ward in the Superior court Tuesday, on the question of the town's right to remove shade trees where necessary to widen streets, was decided in favor of the town. The property owners who are contesting the matter took an appeal to the Supreme court. As that court will not reach the case before next February, the improvements on that portion of Fifth street will stop for the time being.

Principal of Graded School.

Prof. F. C. Brewer, of Arcadia, La., arrived Tuesday evening to take the position of male principal in Greenville graded school. Prof. Brewer graduated from the college at Lebanon Ohio, and later from Yale. He was a classmate at Yale with Prof. L. R. Meadows, one of the teachers in East Carolina Teachers' Training school. He comes to Greenville with the highest of testimonials, and we are sure that his work here will be of great help to the school.

Killed in Runaway.

Mr. S. W. Rouse was killed Tuesday night near Hug, Lenoir county, in a runaway. He had been to Kingston and was returning home. About a mile from his home his mule became frightened and ran away. Mr. Rouse was thrown out of his cart and sustained injuries that resulted in his death.

Mr. Rouse was a farmer, about 45 years of age, and leaves a widow and several children.

Boy Breaks Arm.

Willie Gray Lang, son of Mr. J. A. Lang, broke his left arm Monday afternoon. He was driving a mule to a wagon when the animal ran away and threw him out of the wagon. In the fall his arm and two or three fingers were broken.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS.

Greenville Chapter Growing in Membership.

In no secret order is the work more beautiful and the teachings more sublime than Masonry. It is the most ancient of fraternities and it has blessed mankind through all the ages and centuries since the time of King Solomon. The further its votaries are inducted into its mysteries and its beauties unfolded to them, the more impressed they are with its teachings. No man can be true to the teachings of the order unless he is a good and upright man.

Greenville has some bright Masons, and they are enthusiastic in the work of the order. The Royal Arch Chapter is especially active, and since furnishing its handsome quarters in the Winslow building the membership has increased rapidly. Interest in the chapter had started before the destruction of the temple in February and since new and more elegantly equipped quarters have been provided renewed impetus has been given its growth. This week several classes are being carried through its mysteries and meetings are being held every night to confer the degrees. Dr. F. M. Moye, of Wilson, who is State Lecturer and among the best informed men in North Carolina in the teachings and laws of Masonry, is here assisting in conferring the degrees and delivering the lectures to impress them.

Helm, of Germany, who was arrested charged with being a spy and with making sketches of the English coast defenses at Portsmouth was held today for trial. The specific charge against the officer is unlawfully sketching fortifications Portsmouth harbor. Helm refused to discuss the case.

Attention is called to the advertisement in this issue of H. B. Mayo & Co., of Washington, who buy all kinds of country produce and sell grain and peanut sacks.

KEHUKKE ASSOCIATION.

Atlantic Coast Line Will Run Extra Trains.

The Kehukee Association, Primitive Baptist will meet with the church at Briery Swamp in Carolina township, on Saturday, Sunday and Monday next. Briery Swamp church is near Whitchard station, on the Atlantic Coast Line, and the people from a distance attending the association will have to get off at that station to accommodate these the railroad will run extra trains from Parmele to Whitchard on both Saturday and Monday mornings, reaching Whitchard at 9.30 o'clock, the same hour that the regular train reaches there on Sunday. This will be a great convenience and avoid the necessity of laying over several hours at Parmele enroute to the association.

Will Not Yield to Strikers.

By Cable to The Reflector. Manchester, England, Sept. 28.—The cotton mill employers committee today resolved to make no further concession to the workers. This means that threatened walkout will proceed.

WHAT ADVERTISING DOES.

crowds at Munford's Store Gives Ample Evidence.

There is not a more liberal advertising merchant in Greenville than C. T. Munford, and the good effects of it is shown in the crowds that visit his store. Take Monday, for instance, the occasion of his fall opening display of millinery, coat suits, wraps, etc. The Reflector had told in advance of this event, and all through the day his store was thronged with visitors. Of course it cannot be told accurately just how many people visited the store, but an idea can be had from the fact that he gave away souvenirs—one cake of toilet soap to each visitor—and when night came 609 of these souvenirs had been given away. His sixteen day special sale starting the 28th has been heralded all through the surrounding country, and if you will watch his store during this sale you will see more of the effects of liberal advertising.

TAMMANY GOES TO ROCHESTER.

Four Special Trains of Them to State Convention.

By Cable to The Reflector. New York, Sept. 28.—Tammany began moving to Rochester today 15,000 strong. It took four special trains with thirty seven parlor cars to get the bunch started. The first train got arranged at 8.48 carrying Murphy Sullivan and other leaders.

HOLDING FOR 15 CENTS.

Cotton Planters of Three States Form Pool.

By Wire to The Reflector. New Orleans, Sept. 28.—Cotton planters of Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma, are planning to hold up cotton delivery for 15 cents price. It is stated today that 70 per cent. of the crop owners have entered the pool.

TAFT WITH THE RAILROADS

Says He Is Going to see That they Get a Square Deal.

By Wire to The Reflector. Washington, Sept. 23.—Today's cabinet session, the last to be held during President Taft's house party, was delayed owing to a rush of visitors. The first of the White House callers was T. J. Dolan, representing the brotherhood of steamshovel and dregmen. He called in the interest of the railroads urging that the increase in freight rates be allowed to stand. He said President Taft assured him he "could be depended on" to give the railroads a square deal, regardless of clamor and political influence; and furthermore, he was going to see that they got it.

UNCLE SAM AND CANADA.

About to Get Together on a Reciprocity Treaty.

By Wire to The Reflector. Washington, Sept. 28.—Under the direction of President Taft the State Department is prepared to act as soon as word is received from Ottawa that the Canadian government is ready to consider the question of a reciprocity treaty with the United States. Communication is expected from Ottawa in a few days which will indicate the intention of the dominion government. Possibly a reciprocity treaty will be negotiated also between the United States and New Foundland.

WAR ON GRAFT.

Declarations of New York Republican Convention.

By Wire to The Reflector. Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 28.—War on graft is made the keynote of the Republican State platforms as adopted by committee on resolutions declaring relentless warfare on official and legislative wrong doing. Primary election reform is advocated and the administration enthusiastically endorsed. These about cover the platform declarations as it comes from the committee by a vote of 22 to 15.

CIVIC RIGHTEOUSNESS.

Rev. J. H. Shore Preaches Strong Sermon From Amos 6:1.

Rev. J. H. Shore, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church preached an excellent sermon Sunday night on "Civic Righteousness," taking as his text, Amos 6:1—"Woe to Them That are at Ease in Zion." There was a large congregation present and no doubt his remarks will accomplish great and lasting good for Greenville. Mr. Shore is easily one of the best preachers Greenville ever had and the good people should ponder and heed his words. He truly said that the members of the churches are responsible for this condition of Greenville. They have convictions, but not the courage of their convictions, for if they had, they could easily stop the degradation of the Sabbath, the selling of whiskey and beer, and close the so-called near-beer saloons. Mr. Shore did not say who was selling whiskey, but the fact that it is being sold is evident from the number of drunks seen upon our streets. And that it was the duty of the officials who have sworn to execute the law to put a stop to these things, and that these officials were traitors to the people who had elected them to office, and that they were cowards, afraid of a few whiskey bums; and that the citizens were responsible who would not demand that the officials enforce the law.

Mr. Shore scored the church members generally for failure to come up to their duty, and at the conclusion of his sermon asked every man present who was willing to join him in a stand to correct evils in Greenville, to come forward and give him their hand. A large number went forward under this invitation.

GREENVILLE IS AS GOOD

As The Majority of It's Citizens Wanted it to Be.

Editor Reflector:

Since the time of the primary many of our citizens have been talking about the quantity of intoxicating liquors sold in Greenville. From the number of drunks which are seen upon our streets, it seems that the time to act has come. The police should arrest these drunks and the mayor or magistrate who tries the cases should make these persons tell where they get intoxicants. If our officials wish to break up these dens they can do so. It has been done in other places. Why not in Greenville?

A CITIZEN.

WILL GO TO NEW BERN.

Rev. B. F. Huske Closes His Work in Greenville.

On Sunday night Rev. B. F. Huske closed his work in Greenville as rector of St. Paul's church. He will go to New Bern the first of October to be rector of Christ church in that city. Mr. Huske has been in Greenville two years and greatly endeared himself not only to his church, but to the people of the town and community generally. He is an able minister and a most excellent young man. Greenville gives him up with great regret.

Nothing will help you more than helping a man when you do not want to.

HAAG SHOWS COMING.

Will Be in Greenville October 7th for Two Performances.

Lovers of the out of ordinary amusement will be interested in the announcement that the Mighty Haag shows are coming October 7th, afternoon and evening in Greenville, presenting decidedly the largest and greatest program of original, unique and thrilling featured act known today to the show world. This vast cented amusement enterprise is alone in a class by itself, without a rival.

Nothing like the imperial performance provided by Ernest Haag was ever before dreamed or dared by the boldest managers. Whatever your performance, you will find plenty to interest, astonish and edify you; there are thrilling aerial acts during every moment of which one expects to see the intrepid performers hauled into eternity, artistic and sensational equestrianism, incredible and bewildering athletic and acrobatic numbers, blood chilling jockey, hurdle and chariot races, amazingly venturesome bicyclists, and phenomenal exhibitions by fierce wild beasts. In fact, so numerous and varied are the novelties offered in the rings and upon the elevated stages, and upon the mammoth hippodrome track by these shows, lack of space will not permit each of these to be mentioned. The quantity and quality of the features are such as to really stagger comprehension.

It matters not what shows you have seen or how big the Mighty Haag shows have been in years gone by, this season they completely overwhelm all past efforts.

CLOSES SUMMER PASTORATE

Rev. E. N. Johnston Leaves for Theological Seminary.

Rev. E. N. Johnston, who during the four summer months has been serving the Memorial Baptist church as supply pastor, closed his work here Sunday and left this morning for Raleigh. Mr. Johnston is a recent graduate of Wake Forest college, and in a few days will go to the Southern Theological Seminary at Louisville to complete his theological course. He is already an able preacher, and his work with the church here was most acceptable. He made many friends in Greenville, and the prayers of all go with him. He has a bright future in the Master's work.

WORM DAMAGING COTTON.

Some Found in the Field of Mr. Ivey Smith.

Messrs. R. C. Flanagan and C. S. Forbes spent Sunday with Mr. Ivey Smith, out in Beaver Dam township. In walking with him through his cotton field some plants were found on which the bolls were being considerably damaged by worms. Wherever the worm burrows into the boll it turns black and decays. Mr. Forbes was this morning showing some of the cotton bolls with the worms on them. Some thought this worm might be the boll weevil, but it is not. Possibly the worms could be destroyed by an application of Paris green.

Cotton Seed.

The present price of 50 cents looks like a big price for cotton seed, but they are worth every cent of it. It's almost astonishing to know the different articles of food that are made from cotton seed. Not so many years ago the farmers sold their seed for 10 cents per bushel and there was not much demand for this product at that price. Just think how we Americans are moving!

Yearly Meeting.

Sunday was yearly meeting at Great Swamp church, four miles from town, and there was a large crowd in attendance. Several people from Greenville went out.

The successful man doesn't boast of what he is going to do tomorrow.

One Camp-Fire for Blue and Gray.

The suggestion of the Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic that henceforth there should be one annual national encampment for all the veterans of the civil war, Union or Confederate, is so well in keeping with the spirit of the times that there should be no question of its adoption.

Next year will occur the semi-centennial of the outbreak of the war. The men who fought its great battles in blue or gray are now bent 70 years. How better can they celebrate the anniversary and to what better use can they put their remaining brief span of life than by fraternizing with their old foes around the same camp-fire?

The old issues that drenched the land in blood are part of a great past in which all have their share. The country long ago decided to let bygones be bygones. It is now the opportunity of the veterans to put a final seal of completeness on the new Union which knows no sectional lines.—New York World.

RULES FOR MEASURING CORN.

Information for Boys Who Are in the Corn Contest.

West Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 22, 1910. To all Members of the Boy's Corn Club:

Some of you will begin to harvest soon and several have written me asking how to measure your corn.

In order to make it perfectly fair for each one in the contest, we want everyone to use the same method in measuring his corn. Therefore, the following rules must be used as far as possible:

1 Ask your County Superintendent or the one in charge of the work, in your county, to appoint two persons to help you measure your acre and your corn. These two persons must not be related to you. These two should certify to the correctness of your report.

2 The acre should measure 900 square yards. The measurement should begin at least 18 inches from a row and not just outside the line of stalks. Use a tape line or a measured stick and do not guess at the acre by stepping it off.

3 Measure the shucked ears of corn in a box or barrel, holding not less than three bushels. Use care in getting in as nearly as possible the same amount of corn in each measure. Record the total number of boxes or barrels on the entire acre.

4 Shell the ears from one box or barrel and weigh the shelled corn. Multiply the weight of this shelled corn by the total number of boxes and divide this total weight by 56, which should give the bushels per acre.

If you have no scales at home carry the shelled corn to some store and weigh.

In the case the County Superintendent does not appoint a committee to help you, get two of your neighbors to help you and have them certify to your report.

If you do not understand the rules, please let me know, and I shall try to explain them to you.

Yours very truly,

I. O. SCHAUB,
Special agent in Extension.

Don't Fear a Rush.

It makes us feel good when subscribers come in to settle for The Reflector as they are doing fairly promptly these days. We hope every one to whom statements have been sent will do likewise. Don't be afraid of crowding us, or that you will exhaust our supply of receipts.

Farmers Need Water.

Greenville may be dry and it may sometimes be somewhat damp, but farmers on the warehouse floors looking after their tobacco sales, would be thankful if water, just pure water, could be had a little more freely.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for 25 cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by all druggists.

Nice Quarters for Bank.

The Patrick corner on Five Points, under Hotel Bertha, that is being fitted up for the National Bank of Greenville, will soon be ready for the bank to move in. The remodeling of the building has made it an attractive corner.

CAROLINA SEED AND FEED CO.

B. E. MOYE, Mgr., C. A. D. EAKES, Asst. Mgr. & B. K.

Sound Reasoning.

Cotton growers should bear in mind that cotton will keep. The merchant or manufacturer who buys it now, intending to hold it until June, 1911, knows that it will lose in weight and that he will lose the interest on the money locked in it until it is sold. Therefore, the merchant or banker expects the cotton to enhance in price sufficiently at least to cover the loss in holding it. The farmer who is able to hold cotton may safely act upon the same reasoning and if the requisite number of farmers do so, so that the marketing of the crop will be distributed throughout the period of twelve months, the producers will be factors in fixing prices. If the bulk of the cotton passes from the farmers to middlemen and manufacturers during the harvest season, the farmers will be eliminated as price makers.—Columbia State.

Small Fire.

At Ayden Sunday night Mr. J. J. Stokes lost his feed house and stables by fire. The fire occurred about 8 o'clock and is supposed to have started from a lighted cigarette dropped in some feed stuff by some boys. His loss was about $50 worth of feed stuff and including the building and some other materials, a total of near $200.

The March of the Telephone.

There are 5,500,000 telephones in use in the United States and this represents a giant outlay of over five hundred million dollars. A big investment truly, and this large capital, together with the tremendous number of 'phones in use shows well the importance of the service. And yet all this will, unless signs fail, be greatly increased within the next several years. There will likely be more than the usual proportionate increase because the telephone is bounding forward in popular vote in the rural districts. Folks in the country have commenced to realize not only the pleasure and convenience of a 'phone, but that it stands them well in hand financially; it aids them in their work, and substantially in a business way. We are glad to note such realization, because it means further progress in all lines, and brings the city and country closer together. With the telephone and the rural mail service country life becomes more attractive and farming can be conducted on a more prosperous plane.—Wilmington Dispatch

The toll on a 500-lb. bale being $1.50. On the 25th dollar basis with cotton at 13c per pound the toll charges would amount to $2.60. On a 20th basis it would amount to $3.25 per bale. Why not save this difference?

The Philo-Allean Literary society last night gave a most delightful reception to its new members. The membership now numbers forty and much enthusiasm is being manifested in the work.

DEATHS BY VIOLENCE

Statistics for the Registration Area for 1909.

Washington, September 27.—External causes, other than suicide, were responsible for 47,135 of the deaths reported for the census registration area for 1909, it is stated in the Census Bureau's annual bulletin on mortality statistics for 1909 now in press. The death rate declined from 97.9 to 96.9 per 100,000 estimated population.

The total number of deaths from homicide, as reported for 1909, was 2,354, a decrease of 149 from the number compiled for 1908. Not all deaths from homicide are specified so that the total number that actually occurred would be in excess of that computed. The increase in the death rate, 6.9, from this cause for 1909 over the annual average rate, 2.9, for the five-year period 1901-1905 is probably due largely to greater precision in the returns in this respect.

Among the causes of accidental deaths, in the order of numerical importance for the year 1909, were the following: Railroad accidents and injuries, 6,659; drowning, 4,558; burns and scalds, 3,992; injuries at birth hereafter to be classified under diseases of early infancy, 3,508; injuries by horses and vehicles, 2,152, not including injuries by street cars, 1,723, and automobile accidents and injuries, 632; injuries in mines and quarries, including conflagration, 1,837; other accidental poisoning, 1,779; accidental gunshot wounds, 914; heat and sun-stroke, 816; cold and freezing, 251; lightning 150.

There were 1,174 fatal injuries by machinery, chiefly in factories, but the large number, 10,108, of accidental traumatism of unspecified nature make it necessary to consider many of the figures given above as only minimal, and it is important that the means of injury be specified in all returns of death from accidental violence.

The slight numerical increase in the deaths, 8,402 from suicide registered for 1909 over the number, 8,332, for 1908 is less than the relative increase of the estimated population of the registration area, so that the death rate decreased from 18.5 to 17.2 per 100,000 population. The most common means of suicide for the year was poison, 2,464, followed by firearms 2,395; hanging, 1,215; asphyxia, chiefly by illuminating gas, 989; cutting instruments, 536; drowning, 507; jumping from high places, 156; crushing, 84; and other or unspecified means, 58. Undoubtedly many deaths from suicide fall to be reported so that they can be compiled under this head, but the increasing precision of statement of the nature of the death in cases of deaths from violent causes renders the statistics more accurate from year to year and thus accounts for some of the apparent increase in the death rate from suicide.

DR. BENJ. F. DIXON DIED MONDAY NIGHT

ONE OF NORTH CAROLINA'S FINEST SONS IS TAKEN.

Gallant in War, and in Peace His Career Was a Brilliant One Through to The End.

There passed away suddenly last night one of the State's best loved sons, for when the death call took from earth the spirit of Dr. Benjamin Franklin Dixon, the State Auditor, there is to be mourned the going away of a true son of North Carolina, one who served her well in war and in peace, a gallant man who has filled many high positions nobly, one in whom the State justly took pride, one whose home life and home love were truly gentle and sweet.

The end was sudden, in Rex Hospital, for though Dr. Dixon had been ill since the nineteenth of September when he was suddenly stricken with an attack of angina pectoris, he had so far recovered as to plan for his removal today to his home from Rex Hospital, the evidences being that he was on his way to recovery. Death came at 11.30 last night after Dr. Dixon had passed a comfortable and restful day, following a day of improvement on Sunday. When it was seen last night that he had suddenly taken a turn for the worse a quick telephone call summoned Dr. J. R. Rogers, but before he reached the hospital the distinguished sufferer had breathed his last, death resulting from angina pectoris.

The end came so suddenly as to be startling. Dr. Dixon had been sleeping for an hour when he awoke in excellent humor. Being told it was time to take his medicine, he laughing, said he needed none. The attendants were preparing to give him nourishment when he took a sudden cramp and in five minutes after he had awakened he died. With him was the house physician, Dr. Campbell, and two nurses. Two minutes after he died Dr. Rogers reached the hospital.

Dr. Dixon's last illness began with an attack of angina pectoris in his office at the capitol, about 10.30 on the morning of September 19, the pain being so intense that his cries of anguish were heard throughout the capitol and on the grounds. He was given opiates and as soon as possible was taken to Rex Hospital from which place, at night his condition was reported improving, the reports from day to day becoming more and more encouraging, it being expected that he would soon be restored to health. His sudden death will be a great shock to the State as it was to the city.

Dr. Dixon is survived by his widow, who was Mrs. Nora Catherine Durham, widow of Hon. Plato Durham, the daughter of Dr. James W. Tracy, of King's Mountain; by two sons, Benjamin F. Dixon, Jr., and Wright T. Dixon, both of Raleigh, and one daughter, Mrs. W. L. Balthis, formerly Miss Pearl Dixon of Gastonia. His step-sons are Messrs S. J. Durham, of Beamer City, N. C.; R. L. Durham, of Cleveland, Tenn., and Rev. Plato Durham, of Concord.

No arrangements for the funeral or the interment have yet been made. These arrangements will be completed after the arrival here of the Mrs. Balthis, Rev. Plato Durham and Mrs. S. J. Durham, who are expected at 12.30 today.—News and Observer.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Football team Getting in Shape for the Season.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 27.—The University of North Carolina is confident that she will put out a creditable football team this fall. There are thirteen of last year's Varsity players back and some of these may have to relinquish their places to some of the new men who are out for the team. The old men are: McLain, Garrett, Captain Thompson, Belk, Spainhour, Venable, Winston, Williams, Brown, Ruffin, Hedgepeth, Tillett and Porter. Some of the new men are Ross and Spencer, who were at the A. & M. two years ago, Abernathy, Hasty, Young and Chambers.

The schedule includes games with the University of Kentucky, V. M. L., Davidson, Wake Forest, Georgetown, V. P. L., Washington and Lee, and the University of Virginia. The success or failure of the season will depend upon the outcome of the Virginia game. Carolina has not beaten Virginia since 1905. It is hoped that this year's team will succeed in putting the University at her old place at the head of athletics of these states.

The class teams are organizing. They will be coached by Mr. Roach Stewart, a former Varsity captain, who is back in the law school. The Varsity scrub and class teams furnish healthy exercise for over 100 students. The game has been changed markedly during the past year, and the most dangerous features eliminated without the interest being killed.

The coach is Dr. Brides, of Yale, an excellent gentleman and he has all the men working with good spirit.

The Philanthropic and Dialectic literary societies initiated 50 new members each Saturday night. The societies which are nearly as old as the University itself have always been strong factors in the life of the institution. They have been training camps for many of the most famous men North Carolina has ever sent out. It is an interesting fact that the address delivered by James K. Polk, who was an alumnus of the University, on his inauguration to the Presidency of the United States, coincided almost exactly in thought and in manner of expression to his inaugural speech when in his student days he had been elected president of the Dialectic society.

The Reflector's linotype machine got on a week end "jag" Saturday afternoon and much of the local and telegraph news had to be left out. The thing is given to tricks now and then, being so near human that it acts just like it pleases. Maybe it will not try to cut another caper before circus day.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

VIII.—The Country Girl's Career.

By C. V. GREGORY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

OUR most appreciated blessings are seldom the ones that are closest at hand. Just as the country bred boy sometimes gets an idea that he has a genius too broad to be confined between the boundaries of his father's farm, so the girl who has grown up in the country sometimes gets a longing for a glimpse of the unknown world within the city's walls. The imaginative girl often feels that her talents will be more appreciated in the city than in the little home town. She imagines herself burning with a genius for acting, perhaps, and longs for the glare of the footlights and the plaudits of the crowd, or perhaps it is art in one of its many disguises that is calling her to the artificial life of paved streets and brick walls.

Occasionally it is the lights, the music and the pleasures of a swiftly flowing city life that attract the girl from the country, but not often. The girl who is a true daughter of the country is seldom deceived by the glare of a light whose shadow covers tears and sorrow or the pleasure that is but a mask for pain. We are told that the "glamour" of the city life is the force that draws the country girls to town. Nothing of the sort. There is little glamour about the city for the healthy girl. The first thought of the country girl when she finds herself in the city is "how dirty" or "how awfully crowded." But notwithstanding the dirt and the crowds she often remains. She stays because she is ambitious to have a "career." There is a true hearted farmer boy back home probably who would be glad to take her into partnership. But in the past the girl has seldom been taught to look forward with pride to becoming a farmer's wife or to regard a life on the farm as believing her of her ambition.

This is the natural outcome of the conditions for the quarter of a century when farmers were selling their produce below cost. The lot of the farmer's wife was one of almost unrelenting toil, as was that of the farmer himself. There was little to lighten the monotony of the ceaseless grind of housework. Her horizon was limited by the kitchen walls, and her highest ambition was to keep the boys out of the "best room." It is little wonder that she hoped for something better for her daughters. She saw unfolding in them her own girlhood, and she dreaded to see them spend their lives in the hopeless task of keeping body and soul together as she had done.

Her idea of city life was vague. Most of the city women she saw were well dressed, unwrinkled and seemingly happy. They were living the kind of life she would choose for her daughter. The toll of the wives of the poorer laborers she did not see. One of the main reasons that all through this period the country looked up to the city and the city looked down on the country was that country people saw only the best side of the city and the city people saw only the worst side of the country.

The change that has come about in country life in the past decade and a half is so great as to be almost unbelievable. Many of the country people themselves refuse to believe it. They read the reports of high prices skeptically, and not until the produce is sold and the money in their hands will they really believe their good fortune. Even then they will shake their heads and say that prices will surely go down before they have another crop ready for market. They have so long been content with a small return for their labor and no allowance at all for interest on their money or for the fertility which they are selling away from their land that they can hardly believe that the time has come when the farmer is getting enough for his produce to enable him to put farming on a business basis.

Probably this change has affected no one on the farm more than the women. The country girl has a different idea of a career now. She lives in a modern farm home, or if she doesn't she knows that such homes exist and are well within the range of possibility for her. She has had her longing to see the world satisfied by visits to city friends and relatives. She has seen that all the conveniences of city homes are duplicated in the country. She has admired the spacious lawns and beautiful grounds of some of the best of the city houses, but she has been observant enough to note that such houses belong only to the few. She has gone to the theater with her friends and enjoyed it, but no more than she enjoys the homemade theatricals in her home town or the plays and lectures she has attended in the larger country towns by trolley. She has been surprised to find that her friends in the city do not know their next door neighbor. The excuse that "they are not in our set" has puzzled her democratic little soul. It is different in the country, where every one sympathizes with every one else's sorrows and laughs with all in their joys.

The girl comes back from a trip to the city better satisfied than ever with her country home. Her father may not be worth more than $5,000 or $10,000 or $15,000 measured in money, but his house and grounds are equal in all essential respects to many of the millionaires' residences she saw in the city. Her girl friends in the city were coaxing their father to buy them an automobile so that they could "go somewhere." The country girl and her mother have a horse and buggy that are sacred to their use. The horse is so gentle that he will not even but his yield at an automobile and the buggy so shiny that they are proud to be seen anywhere in it. They can hitch up and go where and when they please.

The country girl's career has taken on away the terrors of wash day. The conveniences in the kitchen have greatly lessened the work of feeding the hungry men folks.

The farm reading table is strewn with the latest magazines, and the girl has a piano or at least an organ. A piano dealer in one of the middle western states recently told me that he sold fifteen pianos to the farmers in one township last year. If the farmer's daughter wants a piano he is going to get it for her. He may have to raise a few more hogs next year to pay for it, but that is easily done.

Taking everything together, any comparisons that the country girl may be able to draw are favorable to the farm. She has been raised in the open air. The pigs and the calves and the chickens are her playmates. The colts will come when she whistles, for who ever heard of a country girl who couldn't whistle? She can name all the trees in the wood lot, and she knows the note of every bird that sings in their branches. Every day is full of sunshine, and she sings for the very joy of living where air is free and room is not bought and sold.

She still longs for a career, but it is a career of a different sort. She wants to live the rest of her life on the farm, and she looks forward to the day when she will go into partnership with some ambitious, resourceful young farmer. To be a successful wife, to help make the most out of the old farm and to do her part to make her community the most progressive in the country--this is the career that appeals to the modern country girl. Schools have been provided to teach her the things she needs to know about her coming business. If she is in one of the most up to date communities, she begins to learn sewing and cooking in the rural school. If not given there, it comes in the high school or the preparatory school or the small college. All of these institutions are providing courses in domestic science. They do not dispute the fact that love is the basis of a successful marriage, but they realize that a good digestion is the basis of a loving disposition.

In awakening the community to the realization of its own duties and its possibilities the influence of the farmer's wife is even greater than that of the farmer himself. It is the women on whom the social life of the country communities most largely depend. The problem of rural life is largely a social one now that conditions have solved the financial problem.

GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.

A news item in this paper Friday, calling attention to the fact that it was the anniversary of the Greenville tobacco market, the first sale taking place here on the 23rd of September, 1891, makes The Reflector feel somewhat reminiscent. It was a long time ago, yet seemingly not so long when looked back upon, and the changes occurring in the intervening years have been many and varied. The history of the tobacco market itself has been told before in these columns, and the readers of the paper have been kept informed of the progress of this, Greenville's greatest industry, and the development it brought to Greenville and the surrounding country.

The first few years of the market a tobacco department was conducted regularly in The Reflector by Mr. O. L. Joyner, and to his efforts the success of the market was largely due. The paper recognized the tobacco market as the leading business of the town, and our mite was contributed to its growth and development. Through all these years we have given freely and liberally our time and space to aid this important industry, and while we are not complaining in the least, the warehouse business, with just one exception, has not placed The Reflector under any obligation to it.

From the day of the first sale Mr. O. L. Joyner has been connected with the market, and during the first few years, when there was doubt as to the future of the tobacco industry in this section, he was its strongest backer and the mainstay of the market. Although the business at that time was small, he was a liberal advertiser and always paid for what he got. Many others reap reward from his work, but he did not quit because of that. On the contrary he increased his efforts year after year, spending his means liberally and working arduously for the upbuilding of the market. We are going to repeat what it has given us pleasure to say before, that Mr. O. L. Joyner is the real founder of the tobacco market here, and Greenville and Pitt county owe a large measure of gratitude to him. He is doing more today for the tobacco farmers of Eastern North Carolina than any man engaged in the business. Our friendship for him, and his liberal advertising, does not prompt this expression, but we say it because it is the truth, as will be recognized by everyone who has followed his work since the beginning of the market.

In this connection perhaps it is not out of place to mention a matter that a gentleman called to our attention a few days ago. Discussing the matter of tobacco warehouses and warehouse advertising with another gentleman, the latter remarked that the columns of The Reflector were closed to all warehouses except those operated by the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, and that none of the others could advertise in it. The gentleman informing us of this said he did not believe a word of such statement, but felt that he would speak to us about it. Of course there is no truth in such a statement, as any one who has the least knowledge of postal laws knows that a newspaper, in order to be admitted to the privileges of second class mail, has to open its columns to all legitimate advertisers on the same basis. And any other warehouseman knows that he can get space in this paper at the very same rate that the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company pays for the advertising it gets.

It is a fact that the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company's warehouses are the only ones that for some time have advertised in The Reflector, but the reason could be not get space if warehouses could not get space if they wanted it. As has been stated before, we had faith in Mr. O. L. Joyner, and always appreciated his earnest efforts to build up the market, and when he organized the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company we believed there was merit in his enterprise, thought that it was the best step ever taken for the tobacco farmers, and did not hesitate to say as much. Its growth and achievements have proven beyond argument that this opinion of him and the organization were well founded.

If the real cause of the other warehouses not advertising in The Reflector is wanted it can be given in a few words. It is well known that when the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company was organized, the other warehouses combined in a bitter fight in the effort to break it down and ruin its business. Repeated attempts were made to use the columns of The Reflector to run down and misrepresent the organization, which was denied, and for that reason the other warehouses simply boycotted The Relector. But the paper has managed to get along, and has gone right on year after year working for the home tobacco market in season and out of season.

It can be truthfully said again, that if it was not for the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company the farmers of Eastern Carolina would get little or no information about crop and market conditions of tobacco. There is not a week that passes but this company sends out circulars and advertising matter, not only to its own stockholders, but also to other tobacco planters, keeping them advised as to conditions and prices. Of course it costs much money to do it, but it is done in the interest of the tobacco grower and for his benefit. Were it not for this the growers would be uninformed, and they would be an easy prey to the pinhookers and country buyers who would gobble up their tobacco at much less than it would bring on the warehouse floors.

Only a few days ago we spoke to another warehouseman about this, and asked why he did not do some advertising or send out something to help inform the farmers. His reply was that he had not mailed a circular nor spent the price of a postage stamp this season in sending out information. The information goes just the same, and it is the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company that is sending it, while the other warehousemen do nothing in the way of publicity to help promote the market, but reap their part of the reward off the labor and expenditure of others.

TIME TO CALL A HALT.

There is a condition in Greenville that needs some plain talking about, and the plainer the talk the better. The reputation the town is getting these days is by no means creditable. Reports may be overdrawn, but "where there is so much smoke there is apt to be some fire." It is an undisputed fact that liquor is being sold in Greenville, and if any effort is being made to stop it, the results in that direction are not worth mentioning. This may hit somebody, if so we can't help it, as the thing needs to be talked about plainly. The condition exists because it is allowed to exist. The Reflector spoke its opinion in regard to the use of liquor in the recent primary, and it is going to speak its opinion in regard to this open and flagrant violation of the law.

Some years ago the people of Greenville prayed, worked and voted—and some actually fought—to close the barrooms here and substitute a dispensary therefor, the latter being regarded as the lesser of the two evils. This action at the time was considered a step toward prohibition, that being the ultimate aim of those who took a stand against the barrooms. A few years later under a State wide movement, the question of prohibition was submitted to a vote of the people, and it carried overwhelmingly. This was very clear that a large majority of the people of the State wanted prohibition, and as a result of that election every barroom and dispensary in the State had to close.

Through some misjudgment on the part of the legislature a gap was allowed to slip in the prohibition law that permitted the sale of what is called near-beer, and where a municipality has a governing board without sufficient backbone to stand up for the prohibition law, licenses are granted for the sale of this stuff. And under this license there are in Greenville today perhaps more saloons than there were formerly barrooms. There is not a bigger farce than near-beer, and the places open for the sale of it are selling the real article. And there is plenty of rumor that other liquors are sold at these places.

The people who wanted prohibition and voted for prohibition are getting tired of the lax administration of the law that permits a business of this kind to be carried on. Among the first acts of the next legislature should be one to close every place of this kind in the State.

If it becomes generally known that the Sultan of Sulu supports fourteen wives on $125 a month he will be given a great reception when he reaches the country.—Cleveland Leader.

Yes, there will be plenty of them who are anxious to learn how it is done, for they find it hard to support one wife on that amount. It reminds us of a story about a tramp printer who went to a country print shop to work on the sympathy of the force for a square meal. He was met at the door by the office devil, and informed that personage that he was hungry, having gone six days without a bite of food. The astonished devil hurried in to the presence of the editor exclaiming, "Boss, there's a hungry fellow at the door who says he has not had a bite to eat in six days." "Bring him right in, commanded the editor. "If he can learn us the trick we can keep the paper going another week."

If Greenville people do not be up doing to stamp out evils, they themselves will be to blame for conditions that exist here. Public sentiment should become so strong that every near-beer joint, and other evils that reflect upon the town will be rooted out. Agitation has started, and it should be kept up until Greenville is a moral town. The Reflector would suggest that a meeting of the men of the town be called at an early date to perfect a civic righteousness organization and start to work systematically with good leaders to bring about the reforms desired. In this way something can be accomplished quickly.

Just the name of Marion Butler should be enough to turn any man away from the Republican party.

ARE HUMAN LIVES OF NO VALUE?

Are hogs, cattle and crops of more value than human beings? One might readily think this is true from the attitude of the government along certain lines. Let there be an infection of cattle ticks or an outbreak of hog cholera that threatens the destruction of these animals, and the government sends experts to investigate, spends large sums of money and enacts regulations to exterminate the ticks and eradicate the cholera. If the cotton boll weevil or other crop destroying insects appear in large numbers, the government likewise takes steps to check their ravages. Are the lives of human beings given the same care? We hear much about the fight against tuberculosis, hookworm and other diseases, but is this warfare carried on by the government? And in the matter of whiskey, does not the government itself license the traffic in this poison that annually destroys more lives than all victims to epidemics of contagious diseases, and wrecks more homes, causes more sorrow and makes more criminals than any other evil? Would it not be a safeguard to humanity if the government would stop licensing this destruction of life and happiness?

Again, the government spends large sums of money to improve rivers so that the transportation of merchandise may be carried on, but is the same interest taken in the health and welfare of the people? There are many sections throughout the country where whole communities are subject to the ravages of typhoid fever that claims thousands of victims because the people have drunk impure water, are surrounded with the germs of malaria and have improper sanitation. Does the government take steps to correct such things as this and save the lives of those people? It spends large sums for irrigating arid lands that they might become productive. Is it any more unreasonable that it should spend something to give people in unfavored sections pure water to drink?

It is all right to look after the hogs, the cattle, the crops, the navigable streams and the farm lands, but it is far more important to look after human lives. The former should be done, but the latter should not be left undone.

Editors are not usually the subject of monuments, however much some may deserve them. The majority of them go along through life building their own monuments as they go in deeds of service to all around them, expecting no greater reward than a consciousness of duty well performed. But we are so that there is a movement on foot to build a monument to an editor, the late Col. R. B. Creecy, of Elizabeth City, who gave more than half a century of service with his fluent pen to his section, his State and the Southland. He wrought nobly and his memory should be perpetuated.

A hundred good deeds are forgotten in the presence of one bad one.

The Charlotte folks are up a-guessing over a new specimen of fruit which no one seems able to name. The Chronicle calls it a ni-apple-pear.

The advance census news that large gains in population were made in the South, is giving comfort to some of the largest North Carolina boosters.

The worst scared crowd on the list are the Republicans. The prospect of being prized away from the pie counter gives them a shiver.

The number of cigarettes in a pack will be reduced from ten to eight to meet the increased tax. That is twenty per cent. less danger in a pack.

The fight is on in the New York Republican State convention this week, and it will be seen what kind of a hand Theodore Roosevelt plays.

We have not heard a Pitt county farmer say he was getting anything ready for exhibit at the State fair, as much as the county has that could be exhibited creditably.

Greenville is not going to reform herself just so. If you want to see anything done you must take hold and help do it.

The Sunday issues of the Charlotte News are just covering that paper with glory. The last one was a fashion number of 28 pages, and it certainly set the pace.

Marion Butler is the keynote of Republican campaign speakers. Instead of discussing issues, their speeches are mainly eulogies of Butler. North Carolina has not had a more dangerous man to the interest of the State than Butler. The people should beware of him and his followers.

We note that the dramatic success "The Other Woman," is playing North Carolina. How 'bout it, Which?—Wilmington Dispatch.

She hasn't come around this way yet. When she comes we'll let you know.

A Georgia man shooting his physician dead because the latter failed to cure him, and then trying to kill himself, is a new kind of treatment. It would not do for that kind of practice to become general on doctors who failed to make cures.

North Carolina is sad today beyond expression over the death of Dr. B. F. Dixon, State auditor, which occurred suddenly Monday night in Raleigh. He was one of the State's most useful men and best beloved citizens. Not only was he a gallant soldier in time of war, but in the following days of peace he gave his best service to the upbuilding of his State and promoting her educational interests.

Whenever you strike a Republican and a discussion comes up as to those fraudulent bonds that the State legislature repudiated, you can tell from his expressions that he is in favor of paying the bonds. Thus can be seen the influence that Marion Butler is exerting over the Republicans, and just as sure as they could get control they would bankrupt the State. It is time every thinking man should be pondering these things.

Motor Cycles for Carriers.

In a very unobtrusive way the rural letter carriers of North Carolina constitute one of the most important agencies now at work in the upbuilding of the Commonwealth. In the days of the old star routes the diffusion of mail matter was associated in the public mind with dilapidated-looking buggies and rather scawny horseflesh, but these conditions have passed forever. The Newton News calls attention to a Catawba county carriers who covers his route on a motorcycle, weather and roads permitting, which inspires The Greenville Reflector to record that one of Pitt carriers has employed such a vehicle for a number of years, while another actually makes his rounds by aid of an automobile.

All of which goes to show that the North Carolina rural letter carrier has measurably come into his own in the case of these individuals at least. The rural fee delivery system rivals the rural telephone in the benefit it has proved as far as the country people are concerned, and the carriers cannot possibly become more efficient without a corresponding benefit falling to the share of their patrons. The influence which the mail men exert, indirectly, as it were, in the direction of universal good roads is by itself more than a sufficient justification of their activities, and we believe that if more of them experiment with motorcycles this wholesome influence would necessarily be considerably enhanced.—Charlotte Observer.

It isn't the depth of love that counts so much as the length.

Judges for Special Terms.

A recent tragedy in Nash county serves to call attention at this time to a needed reform, which, while not necessarily immediate, should on account of the importance of the subject be given much thought. The chief of police of Spring Hope was mortally wounded by a negro whom he was attempting to arrest, and the criminal has been caught and is at present in Raleigh for safe keeping. The citizens of Nash county are reported to be anxious, for obvious reasons, the prisoner be given speedy trial and have petitioned Governor Kitchin to order a special term of court for that purpose. The Governor finds, however, that there is at present not a single occupant of the superior bench available for this duty and consequently the case must wait the regular November term of Nash superior court.

In South Carolina and as we understand in Tennessee, the judicial machinery provides for just such a contingency. Governor Kitchin is limited by law in his selection of a judge to hold a special term of court to one of the sixteen superior court judges, and at the present juncture it is impossible to send one of these to Nash county. Under similar circumstances, Governor Ansel or Governor Patterson would promptly designate some member of the bar whom he knew to be "learned in the law" to act as special judge for that term of court.

The record of the Tennessee Executive with regard to the judiciary of that State tends to emphasize objections which have been made to this particular method of extending court work. Not a few lawyers and laymen fear that this discretionary appointive power would lend itself too readily to abuse in the hands of a governor subject to strong prejudice. An easier and certainly quite as expedient a solution lies in increasing the number of superior court judges in this state. It is widely believed that the sixteen members of this court are the most over-worked of our public officials, and time would not hang heavily upon their hands should room be made for half dozen additional judges. The Nash county episode illustrates a need for some such action.—Charlotte Observer.

Hold for Twenty Cents.

Senator E. D. Smith, of South Carolina, in an interview, advises cotton growers of the South to combine and hold their cotton for 20 cents a pound. He also severely criticised the framers of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, and censured Attorney General Wickensham for his prosecution of the so-called cotton pool.

He said in regard to holding cotton: "I shall not attempt to dictate to the farmers of the South what they shall do, but under the circumstances, I would be delighted to see them combine and hold their cotton from the market wherever it is possible for them to do so until it shall bring such price placed upon manufacturing articles by virtue of the tariff. My honest conviction is that 20 cents a pound for the present crop is none too high, in view of the supply, the cost of production, the comparative value of cotton with other textile and with the artificial prices that now obtain on the manufactured goods"—Charlotte News.

IN MEMORIAM.

Tribute to the Late Mrs. T. C. Bryan
by Her Pastor.

Mrs. Alice Anna Bryan, nee Moore, was born March 16th, 1862, and died in Goldsboro, N. C., September 13, 1910. She was converted and became a member of the M. E. church, South, when about eleven years of age, and died in the same communion, after having lived an earnest, faithful and helpful Christian life as a daughter, sister, wife and mother. Under many difficulties incident to life in this world, she "did what she could" for all her family circle. She prayed and wrought with head and hand while she had strength, and then in a sweet and quiet resignation committed all to her God and fell on sleep.

She was married twice, first to Sylvester Proctor, on May 16, 1877. Of this union four children were born, viz: Mrs. Clara P. Tucker, of Greenville, N. C.; Mrs. Agnes C. Mason, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Ella Galloway, of Greenville, N. C.; and John K. Proctor, of Newport News, Va.

Her second marriage was with Thaddeus C. Bryan, January 27, 1886, who survives her. Of this union seven children were born, viz: Mrs. Carrie Plston, deceased; Mrs. Margaret Groves, of Norfolk; William T. Bryan, Port Terry, N. Y.; Lester Bryan, deceased; Misses Lella, Thelma and Della, of Goldsboro. She leaves also three brothers, a sister and an aged mother.

The prayer of my heart is that all these may so live as to enjoy heaven's eternal family re-union.

MR. AMOS E. BROWN DEAD.

Quickly Follows His Aged Sister to the Better World.

Mr. Amos E. Brown died Thursday afternoon at the home of his nephew, Mr. J. B. Latham, in Washington. The remains were brought to Greenville on the Norfolk Southern R. R. train, and taken out to Mount Pleasant church, four miles from town, for interment there, Rev. C. W. Howard, of Kingston, conducting the funeral service.

Mr. Brown was 83 years of age, and an excellent man. While a deaf mute, he possessed remarkable intelligence and information, and was an interesting conversationalist in the sign language. He was a native of Pitt county and spent the greater part of his life on the old homestead near Mount Pleasant church. He was a member of the Christian church and always a regular attendant upon the church services.

Mr. Brown and his aged sister, Mrs. Martha Latham, she being two years younger than he, were almost inseparable companions through life, she being both sister and mother to him. Her death ten days ago was his greatest grief and, no doubt, hastened his passing to join her in the better world. He expressed himself as resigned to death, and was glad to leave this world for the happier one beyond.

After the breaking up of the Latham home by marriages and death, Mr. Brown and Mrs. Latham went to make their home with the latter's daughter, Mrs. Jesse Quinerly, near Grifton. A few months ago they went to the home of her son, Mr. J. B. Latham, in Washington, intending to remain with him for a year, and it was there that death claimed them both so near together. Inseparable in life, even death did not keep them long apart.

Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, lagrippe, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hayfever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. ## AT THE OHIO

VALLEY EXPOSITION.

THE INDUSTRIAL WORK OF THE
NORFOLK SOUTHERN.Exhibit of Soils and Products of Eastern
North Carolina Attracting Much Attention.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 24.—The feature most talked about by everybody at the Cincinnati exposition is the wonderful exhibit made there by the railroads representing the South. Every product of field, forest and mine is shown in this exhibit, and with the assemblage together of all these wonders of the earth, as representative of the country of the Southland, the result is indeed marvelous. Never before in the history of the country has such an achievement been accomplished or attempted even. Thirty nine of the railroads representing the entire South, east of the Mississippi, have exhibits demonstrating the resources existing along their several lines, and any one who ever doubted the great wealth of the South in resources has but to come to the Cincinnati exposition to be convinced.

Convinced of what? That there is not a country or district known to civilized man that can show so many, such varied and so profitable and productive possibilities as can be found in the South. And yet these years has the great rush of immigration and the great travel direction of homeseekers been to the West and Northwest. A greater mistake has never been made, and yet these same travelers did not know or had not seen the convincing proofs of these same Southern possibilities. For this very purpose has this vast exhibit been assembled at Cincinnati.

What is it though, among those exhibits at Cincinnati, that is appealing the most to the people who are looking about for a change in locations? The South as a whole offers far greater inducements in the way of low priced lands than any of the states of the west or northwest, and that of course is of vital importance to the investor. It enables him to get more acres for his money, and it is this matter of more acres that gets close to a man when he is wanting to buy a farm. But, the matter of more acres is not all. Quality of these acres is the prime question and in fact the all important one. Next to quantity and quality the matter of climate and healthfulness becomes of interest, and after that the matter of markets and cost of transportation for farm products are inquired after.

We then have low priced acres, quality of soil, climate, good health, markets and transportation. Bringing all these conditions down to home affairs and applying them to the lands and country existing along the Norfolk Southern railroad, and what do we find? There is one in the list that cannot be fulfilled, and then some. These are the very facts that make the exhibit of the Norfolk Southern at the Cincinnati exposition the most talked about features there. The exhibit of the rich black soils, as is shown in large glass jars, together with the mammoth corn, oats and alfalfa that are shown as products of that same soil, cause more comment and interest than any other exhibit shown.

Without question a good farmer is always interested in good soil. He likes to look it over, feel of it, stir it over and see if it stands up to his ideals. This is just the chance that is given with the large jars of the soil exhibit of the Norfolk Southern at the exposition. There is not a moment during the day when there is not a large gathering of farmers around this exhibit, sampling and commenting on the quality of a soil of such color, quality and texture. The representative of the railroad who is in attendance is asked a thousand times a day if this sample is not just a small special exhibit and could not be found in any quantity worth of mention or investigation? When the inquirer is told that thousands and thousands of acres of the same kind are waiting for him in Eastern North Carolina and Southeastern Virginia, then his interest become a permanent one and he is ready to investigate further. One common statement advanced by the railroad representatives is "With those thousands of acres of virgin soil for the trained farmer from the west and northwest, why need he even consider the matter of going to any region where he is required to restore and rebuild fertility of worn-out lands, or even consider a locality where it is necessary to irrigate in order to insure a crop yield every season? With the attractiveness, healthfulness and productiveness of a sea coast country, such as exists along the lines of the Norfolk Southern, why even consider a region subject to the extremes of wet or dry, or in a climate of continued cold and short growing seasons such as is offered in the northwest country? Better a ten months cropping season than a six months. Better a twelve months live stock range than one lasting often less than six. Better a land of sunshine than to be a steady member of a 'shut-in' society."

All such arguments appeal to the man from the west who has always lived under conditions different from what are offered in the coast country and who would be the first to appreciate a change for the better. Thousands of these western farmers who are at the Cincinnati show are interested in the matter of a change in location, which would give them more acres and a longer cropping season, a better climate and better markets. The representative of the Norfolk Southern is keeping a list of these interested people, with their names and addresses, and it is the intent of the industrial department of the road to keep in close touch with them after the close of the exposition and with the intention of having them come to make an inspection of the coast country lands.

Several photographs have been taken by outside papers, showing the mammoth corn, oats and other field products from the line of the Norfolk Southern, and these photographs are appearing in the newspapers of Columbus, Ohio, St. Louis, Mo., Indianapolis, Ind., Chicago, Ill., and many other parts of the country. The best evidence of the quality of the coast country products is the fact that no other exhibits of farm and field have been so illustrated and featured.

To show a well trained farmer from the west a sample of real soil and a stalk of corn produced thereon, he will at once determine what he could do were he located in that section. The Carolina coast country has Kansas, Iowa, Illinois and the rest of the corn belt beat a mile in the way of productive possibilities and nearness to markets. Then why are we not justified in blowing our own horn?

Circus King to Invade North.

E. Haag, proprietor of the Mighty Haag shows, which exhibits in Greenville on October 7th, is considered the Circus King below the Mason and Dixon line, has decided in his sixteenth transcontinental tour to go north of the Mason and Dixon line, being the first time the southern circus has ever been out of its own territory.

The invasion will be watched by jealous eyes by the big northern kings of circsdom, and a big novelty is in store for the northern people as they will have a chance to see the southerner as he really and truly is in all phases of his life, as the show is managed, owned, directed and all departments are peopled by southerners only.

There will be real southern beauties riding blue ribboned Kentucky bro horses; the southern colonels he i evidence, with his wide brimmed hat together with the "yes sah" that ha made the southerner famous.

Mr. Haag also claims to have the finest sixteen head of Kentucky mule which are world wide renowned, and will be of great interest to horsemen of this section. Taking it all in all a great treat is in store for the public wherever the Mighty Haag shows exhibit.

Dr. Hyatt Coming.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha, October 3rd, and 4th, Monday and Tuesday, for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses.

School Overrun.

There are now so many pupils in the graded school that they have to be handled in installments—that is in the lower grades some of them have to be taken at certain hours and then dismissed for others to take their places. This means that there must be more room for the school, as the town and attendance have outgrown the present building.

Some men are born great— then they begin to shrink.

Some people seem to think that he who laughs loudest laughs best.

Our Friend and the Horse Shoe.

A gentleman came into our office this morning and hung a horse shoe over our desk. He had found it in the middle of the road—and his firm belief in the hydoous oxide was so ridiculous that it has tempted us to say a word or two here on the question of good luck and its attending superstitions. We like the friend, who thought he was bringing us good luck but we don't covet mere scrap iron on our desk covered with a lot of superstition, because its nominal value to us is largely due to the facility with which it can be worked, and we are not in the scrap iron business. But we are interested in finding out why it is that there is something in the mind of intelligent man that makes him believe where his reason doubts. There are men of education and great ability who believe things absolutely absurd on their face—becoming ridiculous victims of superstition—and the same old signs and legends are handed down from generation to generation. We hear sensible people for example say that such a horse shoe found in the middle of the road on any day in the week except Friday is good luck—while on Friday it is an evil omen to be dreaded. Another instance is that if a person picks his teeth with a splinter taken from a tree that had been struck by lightning he will never have the toothache. Again our favorite superstition among the women is that if you drop the dishrag on Friday, you will have company on Sunday—and still another that when a dog howls death in the family is impending. And gain, carrying a potatoe in the coat pocket will prevent rheumatism. A barber elates that he has hundreds of customers who believe that a hair cut on the occasion of the new moon brings good luck. And so the story of signs and omens read. Other signs as grotesque and absurd might be related. Indeed not one half of the people are free today from some pagan belief in signs and omens. Men believe where they should not believe. Their fathers believed before them, and their fathers before them, as far as history is recorded, as far as tradition runs. Some of these same legends were believed when Aryan ancestors watched the heavens in the steppes of Central Asia, others were believed when the German tribes came into Europe the Catholic saints believed them and the Greek heroes observed them; the Anglo Saxons followed them; and the Africans in the center of the Dark Continent watched them day by day. Civilization may move on and men may be wiser than their sires, but there is something in the mind of man that makes him believe when his reason doubts and his sane mind scoffs—why?—High Point Enterprise.

THE ITEM WAS MISLEADING.

Impossible to Overtax Buyers on the Greenville Tobacco Market.

The editor of The Reflector, as everybody who comes about the office knows, is a very busy man, and while he keeps more or less in close touch with all departments of the plant and the paper, it is impossible for him to closely scrutinize every day each item that finds its way in the paper. For tobacco market news he has been depending mainly on a local reporter, as the editor himself has but little opportunity to go out on the market and for only brief trips when he does go. In this way a squib about the market was printed Thursday that ought not to have appeared owing to the fact that it can be misconstrued. The item said in substance that so much tobacco is coming in that it is overtaxing the capacity of the buyers to properly care for it. The item was misleading, as it is a fact if there ever was a market whose buyers were fully prepared to properly take care of all the tobacco that can come, that market is Greenville. Every buyer here has such ample steam plant and storage facilities at their command as to make it impossible to overrun them. The warehouses might be filled to overflowing everyday in the week without giving the buyers more tobacco than they could care for. It is possible to overtax the warehouses, though not probable, but the buyers are in shape to properly take care of all that comes, even if it should be a half million pounds a day.

Lightning Fires Fodder.

Mr. G. L. Moore, near Stokes, had the misfortune to lose a stack of fodder Friday. Lightning struck the stack pole and set the fodder on fire.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by all druggists.

MONUMENT DAY.

Our Confederate Women to be Honored.

A day in the fall to be selected later, will be set apart to enable every male resident of this State—men and boys—to contribute—much or little—as their ability may allow or their hearts dictate—to the erection of a State monument to the women of the Confederacy. This high duty has been too long delayed. Let the people by their generosity, and from the means these women made it possible for them to accumulate, make amends for such unfortunate delay, by the more liberal contribution. Let the year 1910 close with the surety that honor will be paid to these heroes. Let the world know that the men of this State appreciate these women's devotion to "a cause they loved so well."

A most appropriate and handsome souvenir tag will be given, as an evidence that the donor has contributed to preserve the memories of a womanhood of whom he is proud and to whom he owes an eternal debt of gratitude. The good women, the charming girls and pretty misses, daughters and granddaughters of these women, who deem it a privilege to aid in honoring their mothers and grandmothers, will undertake the distribution of these souvenir flags. God save these women to their charm and to their presentation of his duty.

Even those who do not sympathize with the late Confederacy, living in this State under the present prosperity these women have made possible, will honor themselves in honoring a grand womanhood, whose noble devotion to what they loved entitles them to all respect. Their memories should be preserved for the emulation of all who strive to do their duty as their conscience dictates.

What the people of the States of the late Confederacy owe these women, not only for their inspiration to the soldiers, not only for their maintenance of the homes, not only for their loving care of the sick and of the wounded, not only for their care of the graves of the dead, not only for their preservation of the memories of their heroes, but for their devotion, their fortitude their aid since the death of the Confederacy, which animated and encouraged the men in their stupendous efforts to rescue their State from the very slough of despondency and to rebuild its shattered fortunes; is all too well known and felt to make it necessary to urge their claims. Men! boys! You know your duty. Do it! And show by your liberality that you fully appreciate all that these women have done for you. State and for you.

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break down. You can't over-tax stomach, liver kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters, the matchless tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. ## A Real Need of The State.

At this time when candidates for the legislature are before the people it might be well if the Torrens System of land titles were brought to their attention. The Torrens System, first adopted by South Australia in the year 1857, has since found adoption by the other Australian provinces of Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria and Tasmania. Following them came the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. In the United States Illinois, taught by difficulties growing out of the great Chicago fire, was the pioneer. Then came Colorado in 1893, California in 1897, Massachusetts in 1898, Minnesota and Oregon in 1901, and New York in 1907. Everywhere this system has given the most entire satisfaction. It is so immense an improvement over the old lack of any system that where it once takes root it holds unquestioned sway.

As outlined by President Witkowski before the North Carolina Building and Loan League at Raleigh last year the Torrens System possesses these features: The state appoints for each county an officer known as a registrar, and any landowner wishing to avail himself of the Torrens title applies to the registrar, who looks up all records from the original grant downward, charging a fee therefor. When the landowner receives from the registrar under his seal of office a certificate that his title is clear he holds indefeasibly comes from the fees which all land claimants appear at any time thereafter, the state defends the title, and if the claim is establishing the State ascertains the money value of the claim and pays it in money while leaving the owner's title absolutely unaffected. Money for this purpose

Among the more obvious advantages availing themselves of the privilege have paid. come clouded—and, as happened ages attending the Torrens System are avoidance of the expensive necessity of having the same titles repeatedly looked up with no conclusive assurance then that the report as made will stand. Once a piece of land goes through the Torrens System its status is definitely fixed. The many means whereby a title may become clouded—and, as happened some years ago in Montgomery county belated assertion of a widow's dower rights may upset a whole town—are rendered negligible. Moreover, Torrens title makes land as negotiable as a bond. Alike to buyer and seller, to borrower and lender, the various benefits are indisputably great.

In North Carolina the building and loan associations, that they may carry on their immeasurably beneficial work to better advantage, have been advocating the Torrens System for some time. With them stand the organs of the farmers, the press generally, and all public spirited people who have given the matter intelligent attention. The last legislature passed a resolution authorizing the governor to appoint a committee of five who should report at the session of 1911. We understand that this committee, with Mr. R. R. Cotten of Pitt county as its chairman, will make a unanimously favorable report. Aside from a certain amount of interested but silent and merely passive opposition and the inertia which every new proposal must encounter, there is nothing to hinder action next year. The Torrens System is purely permissive; no one who does not so desire need have to do with it at all. We have never heard a single argu-

MRS. NANCY P. COX DEAD.

Survives Her Husband Only Five Weeks.

Mrs. Nancy P. Cox, widow of the late Mr. G. W. Cox, passed peacefully into eternal rest a little before 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Her husband died just five weeks ago at an advanced age, and her death has quickly reunited them after a happy union of more than 46 years on earth together.

Mrs. Cox was 74 years of age, and these years were filled with great usefulness. She was a noble woman, a devout communicant of the Episcopal church, and served her day and generation well. She was a native of Greene county and was married to Mr. Cox in March, 1864. Three children survive her—one son, Mr. E. C. Cox, of Ayden; and two daughters, Miss Eula Cox, of Greenville and Miss Clyde Cox, of New Bern. These were all with her during the last few days of her illness. Being in feeble health for some time her death was not unexpected, yet it was a shock to her sorrowing children, and this double bereavement coming so near together draws the sympathy of all hearts to them.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. B. F. Huske, were held in St. Paul's Episcopal church at noon today, and the remains were taken to Ayden on the 1.12 p. m. Atlantic Coast Line train for interment there this afternoon. At the funeral service those favorite hymns, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say" and "Abide With Me," which she requested in her last rational moments were sung.

The pall bearers were Messrs. R. C. Flanagan, James Brown, R. Williams, F. G. Smith, W. M. Moore, H. B. Smith and C. S. Carr.

Facts About Winter Cover Crops.

1. A winter cover crop largely prevents loss of soil fertility by washing (erosion); some lands suffer greater loss than others by washing, but all lands are more or less injured by it.
2. Soils without cover lose considerable fertility by evaporation during the fall and winter. A winter cover crop reduces this loss to a negligible quantity.

3. Such crops, to some extent, prevent the sealing of the land to foul weeds.

4. They increase the prosperity of the soil, and add the humus so essential to fertility.

5. They make a valuable crop while the lands would otherwise be idle, which is a net gain to the land. We must increase the vegetable matter in the soil to an amount sufficient to enable the soil to retain a much larger proportion of the rainfall than at present and to greatly increase the mechanical conditions of the soil.

6. A very important consideration in the winter cover crop is the large amount of grazing that can be secured from it at a time when it is especially valuable for young stock, and its value is not limited altogether to the mere supply of food. It adds to the health and vigor of the stock. On an average from 2 to 2-1/2 months grazing can be secured at a nominal cost of a little labor in preparing and seeding the land.

ment against it, and certainly none comes from any state where the actual trial has been made. Thus the legislature can, if it will, confer an indubitable benefit upon the state. And, as we said at first, a good time to begin stirring the matter is now.—Charlotte Observer.

Get the Most for Your Money.

Like the best!

This is especially good advice when one comes to buy a big Sunday newspaper. Aside from its many departments of news, romance, fiction, art, comedy, politics, etc., the words and music of a late song success will go free as a feature of next Sunday's New York World. The song in question is "The Gay Gossoon," made famous by Fisk O'Hara in the new Irish musical romance, "The Wearing of the Green." Add this popular song to your musical collection. But it will be best to order next Sunday's New York World from your news-dealer to-day.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF TRAINING SCHOOL.

APPROPRIATE ADDRESSES ON THE OCCASION.

Growth of Institution Requires Additions to Faculty—All Instructors of First Rank.

Today was the first anniversary of East Carolina Teachers' Training School, the institution being first opened to students October 5th, 1909. While there was no special pre-arrangement for celebrating the anniversary, the chapel exercises this morning bore reminders of the event and were in keeping with the occasion.

After the usual devotional exercises had been conducted by President Wright, an interesting talk was made by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale on "Educational Progress in Eastern North Carolina for Ten Years." He showed the wonderful progress that had been made not only in the schools of Pitt county, but also throughout all the eastern section of the state.

Ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis was also present, and gave a history of the establishment of the Training school that was both interesting and amusing. He referred to the hard and faithful work done in getting the school located in Greenville and pointed numerous obstacles that were overcome.

This school grows better all the time, and its excellent work is inspiring. Mention was made at the opening of this, the second session, of the faculty at that time, but the student body has so grown in numbers that additions had to be made to the faculty, and the new ones, like those coming before them, are instructors of the very highest rank in their respective lines.

Miss May R. B. Huffy, of Baltimore, a graduate of Peabody Institute, has arrived to take charge of the department of public school music and voice culture. She was here during the summer school, and her work then charmed all who saw it.

Miss Elizabeth Pugh, of Gallion, La., has come to take charge of the domestic science department. She is a graduate of Stout Institute, at Menominee, Wisconsin.

TWO LARGE DOCUMENTS.

To Be Recorded in Pitt County—Several Days Work.

Register of Deeds W. M. Moore, has just received two large documents to be registered, that will require several days to get them properly entered upon the records of the county.

One of these is a mortgage covering 80 printed pages, and is from the Norfolk Southern Railroad to the Central Trust Company of New York as trustee, and is to secure $12,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds payable in January, 1960.

The other is a deed of 13 printed pages from the United States Trust Company of New York to the Farmers Loan & Trust Company. The Atlantic Coast Line being a party to this deed and the conveyance covering property of the latter, it had to be recorded in this county.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

First Meeting to be Held Saturday, October 8th.

The first meeting of the Teachers' association will be held Saturday of this week. There will be no regular program. The purpose of the meeting will be to organize and plan for the year's work. This makes it an important meeting and I earnestly request every teacher in the county to be present. If you will meet promptly at 11 o'clock the work of the day can be completed by 12 o'clock.

W. H. RAGSDALE,
 County Superintendent of Schools

Miss Orpah Dabney, a graduate of the teachers' college of Columbia University, New York, will have charge of the department of primary methods and give special training in this work.

There is not an institution anywhere that has a better equipped faculty than East Carolina Teachers' Training School, and it is sure to rank as North Carolina's leading school.

LIEUT. COTTEN AND BRIDE.

Arrive in New York on Lapland—Will Go to Their Home in Baltimore.

New York, Oct. 4.—Among the passengers on the Lapland, arriving in New York harbor today, were Lieutenant Bruce Cotten and his bride, who was Mrs. Edith Johns Tyson.

Lieutenant Cotten is wealthy but likes the army. He was stationed in the coast artillery at Fort McHenry, near Baltimore, when he met the beautiful and rich Mrs. Tyson. Last July Mrs. Tyson sailed for England. There was no engagement between them. Lieutenant Cotten got leave of absence and followed her in a week. He courted her so ardently in England that she finally consented to marry him. They were married at Tunbridge Wells. Lieutenant and Mrs. Cotten will go immediately to their home in Baltimore.

SEPTEMBER TOBACCO SALES.

Small Decrease in Pounds but Large Increase in Price Over Last Year

Secretary C. W. Harvey of the Greenville tobacco board of trade, gives us the following figures of the sales of leaf tobacco on the Greenville market:

For the month of September 3,415,031 pounds, at an average price of $10.06 per hundred pounds.

For August and September combined 3,742,144 pounds at an average price of $9.77 per hundred pounds.

For the months of August and September last year the sales were 4,423,011 pounds, at an average price of $7.65 per hundred pounds.

These figures show a decrease in pounds from last year of 680,867, but an increase in average price of $2.12 per hundred pounds. The smaller quantity of pounds sold this year than last is due to the fact that last year the market opened on the 3rd of August, while this year it did not open until the 18th, two weeks later.

PORTUGAL MONARCHY FALLS BEFORE INSURRECTIONISTS.

FLAG OF REPUBLIC FLOATS IN PUBLIC PLACES.

Army and Navy Deserts and Joins Insurrectionists—Many Dead and Wounded.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The Portugal monarchy has fallen, and the green and blue flag of the republic floats over the palace of Baganzas. Information that a short and bitter revolution in Portugal has resulted in victory for the insurrectionists, and that the Portuguese army and navy had deserted the royal standard and joined the uprising, was brought here today by automobile from the frontier. All telegraphic communication with Lisbon was cut off. Many are reported dead, not only in Lisbon, but in other cities where outbreaks of violence occurred.

A wireless report from Santander said the warships had hauled down their own colors and raised the flag of the republic, and then bombarded the city. The same wireless message also says the flag of the republic floats above the arsenal barracks and other public buildings in Lisbon. The fate of King Manuel and the Queen, other is unknown. Apparently the insurrection was a direct result of the murder of Prof. Bombarde. He died yesterday after being shot by a lieutenant in the army. The revolutionists became frenzied and swept the city, soldiers joining them when they saw the strength of the movement.

Paris, Oct. 5.—Lisbon, the capital of Portugal, fell into the hands of the revolutionists at 3 p. m. yesterday. King Manuel, according to the latest reports, fled from his palace and took refuge on the Brazilian gunboat San Paula. The revolution today is sweeping the nation like wild fire and the conflagration threatens any minute to sweep over the border and engulf the neighboring kingdom of Spain.

Love starts a family; it takes cash to keep it going.
