

UNIVERSITY DAY

Celebration of Hundred Seventeenth Anniversary at Chapel Hill.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 17.—The 117th anniversary of the founding of the University of North Carolina was celebrated in chapel and throughout the state last Wednesday with the exercises of university day. In Chapel Hill the day was a holiday for the students. The alumni associations all over North Carolina and in many of the largest cities of the country celebrated the day fittingly. Telegrams were received from the associations in New York, Birmingham and various other places.

The principal address of the day in Chapel Hill was delivered by President Venable. He declared that the university faces a crisis, just as real and just as pressing as that brought on by the civil war, which resulted in the closing of the institution. The college is overcrowded in every way. Retrogression is bound to set in unless from some source, expectedly and naturally from the State, a more ample provision is made for the support of the college. He quoted figures to show that North Carolina, although possessing an amount of taxable property considerably greater than Virginia, was appropriating for the support of its state university a sum that hardly exceeds half of the yearly Virginia appropriation.

In his remarks at the chapel exercises Thursday following the fine celebration of university day, Dean Graham, of the academic department, after expressing the appreciation of the university at the wonderfully inspiring support that the alumni celebrations all over the country brought, called the attention of the students to what he considered the most significant fact of the celebration just passed. This was the civic strength of the young alumni who chiefly made up the local program. The greatest glory of the university is the educational renaissance in North Carolina so wide reaching in splendid results, was led by a group of educational statesmen trained in the university.

Meiver, Alderman, Aycock, Joyner and their helpers were men who belonged to practically the same college generation. The first fruits that the re-opened university offered to the State. The group that sat on the stage university day is from the point of view of educational leadership a part of the second great crop. Dean W. C. Smith, representing the State Normal college (President Foust was also an alumnus); President R. H. Wright, of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School; President Howard Rondthaler, of the Stiles Female college, and President Walter Thompson, of the Jackson Manual Training School, were the speakers.

All of these men are practically of one college generation; all of them are leaders in the application of ideas that promise great things for the State; all of them are men of every sort of strength, including the fine strength of youth; all of them are men of healthy constructive thought; and better still all of them are consecrated to the service of North Carolina.

Daughters of the Confederacy

The Singletary Chapter Daughters of the Confederacy will meet at 3 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Jarvis. Every member is urged to be present at this meeting.

Slightly Paralyzed.

Mr. J. J. Perkins, one of our oldest citizens, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis Monday evening. He is reported as getting along fairly well today.

Woodland Items.

Woodland, Oct. 19.—We are glad to see Mr. Madison Smith out again after being confined to his bed with fever.

Mr. Benj. Craft, near Falkland, spent Saturday night and Sunday in our section. His daughter, Miss Jane, accompanied him.

One day last week Mr. Joshua Tripp got one finger cut off and another nearly off in a cotton gin.

Mr. Ernest Baker spent Sunday at Mr. A. W. Barber's.

Mr. Heber Barber and two little sons spent Sunday at Mr. A. W. Barber's.

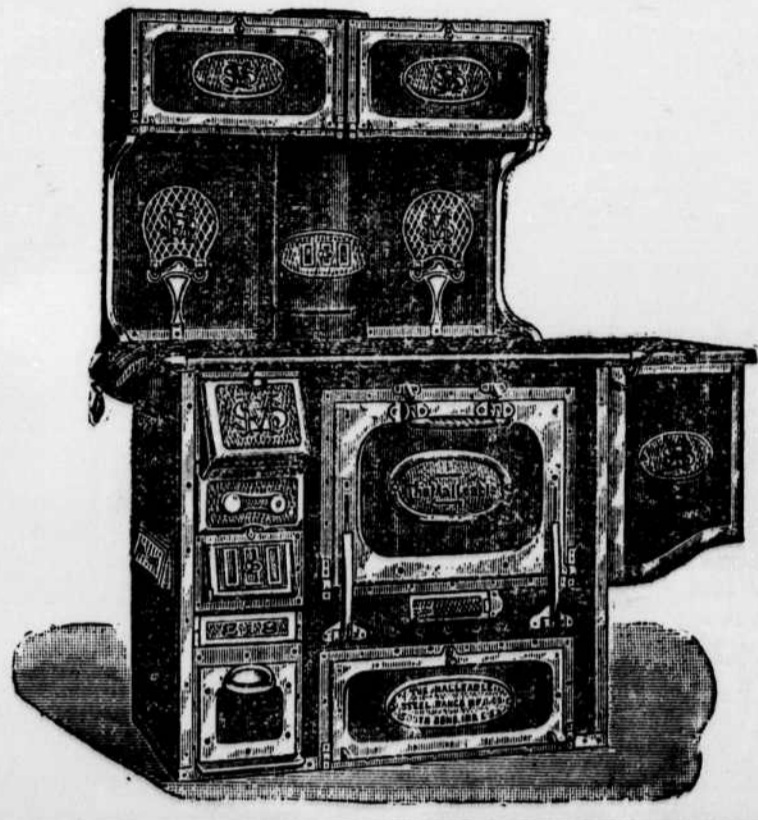

We are sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. H. B. Smith. Hope she will soon recover.

Miss Pearly Barber is spending sometime at Mr. A. W. Barber's.

The Woodland baseball team practiced for the first time last Saturday.

Mr. W. L. Nobles, of Ayden, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. W. Nobles.

Don't you think you have put up with that old cast iron cook stove, or poor steel range long enough? When you see The South Bend Malleable Range we are sure you will decide that you have. You want the best and you deserve to have it.

Happiest Woman in Smart Set.

Do you want to know the happiest woman in the smart set of New York? Well, it is Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

And do you want to know why she is so happy?

Well, it's work; hard work.

She was saved by something very wonderful and very beautiful—work. And her work is along the lines of beauty. The gods gave her genius. She is a sculptor busy day after day in her studio, in a narrow alley miles away from her beautiful home, among the studios of other artists who haven't the smallest fraction of even one million to their name. She wears a clay-stained apron and a straight frock, and is as busy as a bee over her modeling. It is not dilettantism either, I will have you to know, but genuine sculpture that stands the test of the most relentless critic and has won praise from no less a person than great Rodin himself. It's big, strong work, not delicate and finicky like that of Sarah Bernhardt, but executed in bold masses. Her "Paganism Immortal" has Rodin's bigness about it, and is not a mere "pretty" thing, like those groups of the divine Sarah's. Designer.

Do all the work you can—your lazy associates will do the rest.

Four Train Loads in One Month.

In a large advertisement on this page today J. Benjamin Higgs calls attention to the demonstration of Dump flour that he will make in connection with the Malleable range exhibition at the store of Carr & Atkins Hardware Co. all of next week. He is sole agent for this famous flour in this territory and sold four train loads in four months to his customers a record for selling flour that no other broker has approached.

Mrs. Hooker Entertains

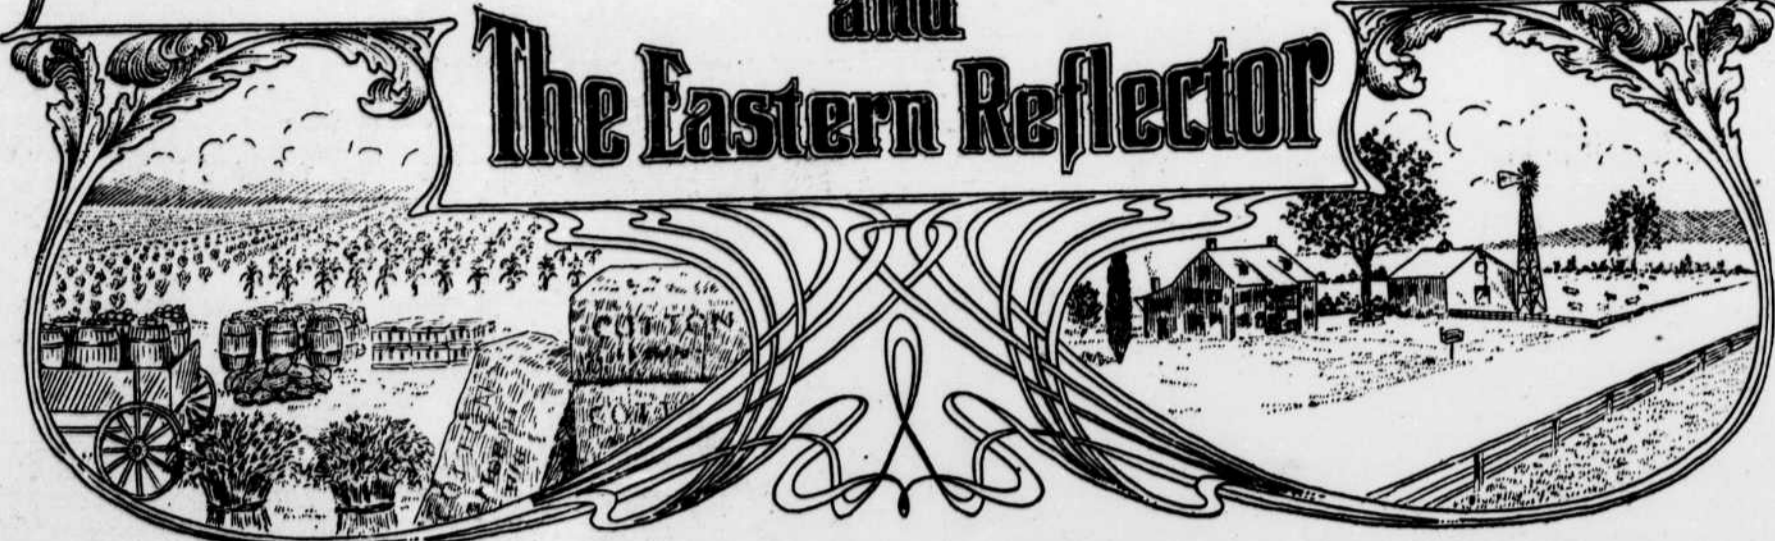

Mrs. Lawrence Hooker, of 1311 Main street, entertained a few of her friends Thursday evening at cards til a late hour, when delicious refreshments were served. The parlors were very prettily decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. Among the guests were Miss Moore, of Petersburg; Mrs. Smith, Misses Ida and E. Smith, Miss Rosa Hooker; Messrs. W. M. White, J. A. Kruse, Lee Todd, R. H. Davis, Drs. Grove and Stontamire.—Richmond Evening Journal.

HAYTIAN GUNBOAT LOST.

Seventy Persons Lost or Drowned, Including Ten Generals.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Port Au Prince, Hayti, Oct. 26.—Seventy persons were killed or drowned when the Haytian gunboat Liberte, was lost at sea off Port de Paiz, following an explosion on board. Twenty were rescued. A storm was raging off the coast at the time of the accident and those who put off from the boat reached shore with the greatest difficulty. The gunboat was badly torn by the explosion and was left at the mercy of the battering seas. She was settling when the men deserted her. The accident occurred yesterday news reaching the capitol today. Among those drowned were ten Haytian generals, who were on their way to take command of several army divisions in the North.

LABOR UNIONS ORDERED OUT.

Will Act With Independents in Pennsylvania Election.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Wilkesbarre, Oct. 26.—The Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor has issued an official circular ordering all workmen affiliated with it to strike on election day and unite in independent action at polls. This means a complete suspension of labor on that day with labor forces arrayed with the independents in the state contest.

STATE BOARD FAVORS TOWNS.

Hearing Before Health Officers—Ordering Sewerage.

Raleigh, Oct. 25.—The State Board of Health, after hearing lengthy and heated discussions by State Engineer Ludlow and delegations from Rocky Mount and Tarboro as to the sewerage disposal plants for those towns for the protection of the Greenville water supply, adopts a resolution authorizing the authorities of Rocky Mount and Tarboro to proceed with the installation of plants to cost about $6,000 each instead of filtration plants that the State engineer insisted on that would cost over $22,000 each. The resolution specified that the State Board of Health should have close supervision over the plants as installed and operated. Taroro is 54 miles below Rocky Mount on Tar river and Greenville is 24 miles below Tarboro. Greenville is especially concerned. All three have to get their water supply from the river and also turn their sewerage into it. Here for Tarboro making the fight for the lower priced plant were Mayor Paul Jones, T. T. Thorne, W. S. Clark and J. W. Weddell. For Rocky Mount there were T. H. Battle, Senator Bassett and Mr. Gay. Officers of both Tarboro and Rocky Mount declared they just would not undertake to install the higher priced plants demanded by the engineer.—Charlotte Observer.

Another Flight Across Channel.

By Cable to The Reflector.

London, Oct. 26.—The English Channel was again successfully crossed today by an aeronaut on the Morning Post airship, which started from Maisons, France, at ten o'clock this morning and passed Brighton at 2.15 this afternoon for Aldershot.

Former Georgia Governor Dead.

FUNERAL OF MR. ZENO BROWN.

Body Rests in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

On the afternoon of Monday, October 24th, at half past three o'clock, the funeral services of the late Mr. Zeno Brown, were conducted in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Greenville, N. C.

The remains of Mr. Brown reached home Sunday evening, being accompanied from Florida, the place of his death, by his friend, Mr. Lester Savage.

The burial services were conducted by the Rev. B. F. Huske, former rector of St. Paul's church.

During the service the choir sang "Lead Kindly Light," and "Rock of Ages." "Abide With Me," was sung at the grave after the body was laid to rest.

The flowers with which the grave was covered were beautiful and in great abundance, and were expressive of the deep sympathy of a great number of friends. A large concourse of people attended the funeral, and it was evident that the heart of the entire community was deeply touched by the sad death of this estimable young man.

Zeno Brown was industrious and faithful, highly esteemed by the firm for which he worked, and beloved by a large circle of friends.

The following were the pall bearers: Messrs. John Shelburn, Bascom Wilson, Walter Barnhill, Norman Warren, A. L. Blow, Jr., James Anderson, and L. L. Savage.

The relatives who had come from a distance on account of the death of Mr. Brown were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jenkins, of Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. John Pender and Mr. Cotton, of Tarboro.

A Bale to The Acre.

Mr. J. J. Turnage brought a couple of bales of cotton here today to sell. He has eleven acres planted in the staple and has sold nine bales and will sell two more. Mr. Jim Davenport says if all the farmers would do this well and cotton continued to sell at the present price they could tell J. D. Rockefeller to go to H— with all his money.

DIFFERENCE IN TOBACCO.

Good Quality, Well Handled, Brings Best Price.

An ignorant man, so far as tobacco is concerned, asks the question, why, if one farmer received an average of 11 cents per pound for his tobacco, the general market average does not show 11 cents? And the funny part of the thing is that, such men pretend to advise farmers as to what is best for their etc. Now, we know of a man who received an average of nearly 30 cents per pound for his tobacco on the Winston-Salem market last week. We know of another man who received an average less than 6 cents. Now, what's the difference in prices? One man had good tobacco, marketed in good condition. The other fellow had poor tobacco, some of it being wet and damaged. That's all.—Winston-Salem Tobacco Journal.

DR. BOOKER T. WASHINGTON.

Will Speak at Parmele, Wednesday, November 2nd.

"The Wizard of Tuskegee" will speak at Parmele, N. C., on Wednesday, November 2nd, at 5.30 p. m.

All the evening trains will arrive in time for the occasion and the speech will be delivered at the railroad station, those who come to hear him will have time to return on outgoing trains.

This will be Dr. Washington's first visit to this section of North Carolina and the arrangement to have him speak at Parmele is merely to give many their first opportunity to see and hear him. It is hoped that the citizens will turn out en masse to hear the distinguished negro.

Bumper Tobacco Sale.

The tobacco warehouses had one of the biggest days of the season on Tuesday. There was about 200,000 pounds on the floors, and even with such a large break, prices were so good that the farmers were all pleased. Greenville leads all the time on selling tobacco.

LECTURES TO PUPILS OF TRAINING SCHOOL.

PRESIDENT WRIGHT GIVES THEM TIMELY COUNSEL

Series of Lectures in Which Highest Ideals are Emphasized and Makes for Better Life.

No one can visit the Training school here without being sensibly impressed with the splendid opportunities the students of this institution are having in every department of the work and in every phase of development that goes for strength and culture of character and preparation for a successful life's work. The spirit of the faculty and of the student body are such as to create an atmosphere in which it is safe for the young to live. This is in part brought about by the morning exercises when all the students are brought together and in addition to the usual program observed at such times, President Wright in short talks holds up to the student body such high ideals of both life and work that impressions are made which, in a large measure, will enter into the formation of the character of each pupil. There is always in these talks that which will produce thought and inspire lofty ideals so permanent in their nature that they must bring forth fruit both in the private and public life of every student. Thursday morning President Wright spoke in reference to the choice of companions and among other things said:

"Yesterday I spoke to you of the obligations and responsibilities that rest upon you as prospective teachers. Of your future relations with state and the state's obligation toward you and concluded with the thought of your position in the re-organization and adjustment of our social life.

"If in the selection of your intimate associates, family or wealth is not to be your guide, then what is to assist you in your choice of companions? Let me give you a few points that will serve you not only while here, but when you get out into the world.

"1. Avoid the kicker. Have you seen him? The person for whom enough cannot be done. The person who finds fault with everything done. His lessons are too long, his tasks are greater than he can do, every suggestion for the common good meets with his hearty disapproval. He is like someone said the Irishman is, 'agin everything.'

"2. Avoid the person whose mind runs to evil. The person with vile stories who delights in smut and filth. Watch what he talks about, for from the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. 'By their fruits ye shall know them'

"3. Avoid the person who is not honest. If he will take a mean advantage in a game of tennis, he will take a mean advantage in the game of life. If he will cheat on an examination in school, he will cheat in business. If he will try to deceive his teacher on class, he will try to deceive his fellowman in affairs of life. If he is not honest here—in school—he will be dishonest there—in life.

"4. Avoid the talebearer. Remember 'the dog that will bring a bone will carry one.' The person who comes to you with gossip, will gossip about you; that is the person who tells you evil about your neighbor will tell your neighbor evil about you. "It is not clothes, family, money or show that makes a man. The honest man, though ever so poor is king of men. In this school real worth, and that alone, should count; for in the great battle of life it is real worth only that really counts. Select your companions from those who have nobility and stability of character. Those who have a clear vision of right and wrong and ring true every time.

"You cannot put your standard too high. The danger lies not in having high standards, not in selecting as your companions people with right deals, people with noble purposes, but in the feeling of loneliness that sometimes comes to one from holding these standards. He lowers his standards to put himself in touch with the masses of mankind. This is a weakness. This is the tempter to whom you should say, 'Get thee behind me Satan'. Or he puts himself completely out of touch with his people with a vivid self-consciousness of his own superiority. This, too, is a weakness that smacks of the intellectual plutocrat (if I may divert the meaning of this word).

"In our political life today too many of our sane, sensible, right thinking men steer clear of politics or fear they will become polluted.

"You as teacher or citizen cannot help your community by holding your standards away from them. You must put yourself in touch with them, but hold to your high ideals until they see the good therein, and then, and not until then, will they come to you. Remember that you will not teach the children alone, but that through the children and in person you will teach the people of the community. Your usefulness as a teacher will depend in part upon your service as a citizen. School teaching because of its small pay, has drawn into the profession many a weakling. We need more men and women in the profession with red corpuscles in their blood, more men and women with backbones, men and women who are trained for the work, who know what to do and dare do it. Indeed a time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands;

Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor—men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And scorn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men, semi-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty, and in private thinking—
For while the many with their thumb-worn creeds,
Their large profession and their little deeds
Mingle in selfish strife, lo! Freedom weeps, Wrong rules the land, and waiting justice sleeps."

"Place your ear to the ground, your standard high in the air, your heart in your work and your life with your people, and waiting justice will cease to sleep. In conclusion let me quote this from Lowell:

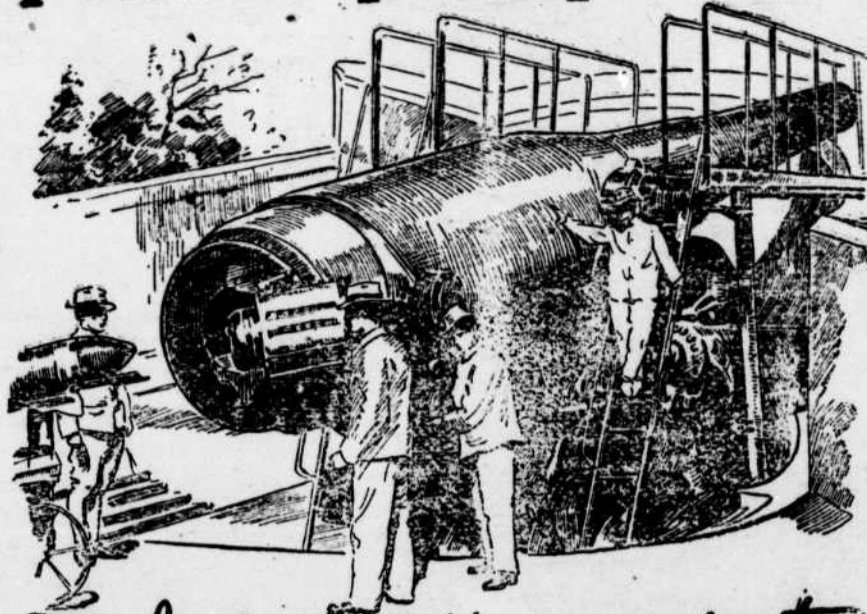

"Life is a leaf of paper white,
Whereon each one of us may write
His word or two, and then comes night.
Greatly begin! Though thou have

greatly begin! Though thou have

"BACK TO THE FARM"

XII.—Rural Education—Secondary Schools.

By C. V. GREGORY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

In the past the 97 per cent of the rural boys and girls who never attended college have scarcely received their share of attention. The college has been developing leaders, but the rank and file have been neglected. Only recently has the need of industrial education for the great mass of the people been recognized.

Now that the necessity is seen steps are being taken to meet it. This idea is first that the country boy could obtain all the education he needed in a city high school. That idea is fast being outgrown. The city high school was not created to meet the needs of the country boy, and it contains little that appeals to him. High school principals have too long arranged their courses of study for the 3 per cent of their pupils who will go to college, ignoring the needs of the other 97 per cent.

Hard as this system was on the boy in town, it was harder still on the country boy. There was nothing in the high school course that was connected even remotely with his life on the farm. Most of his time was given to mathematics, Latin, German, etc., with perhaps a little music and art thrown in. The mathematics were a help in developing his mind and teaching him to think. The Latin and German were of little value except to the 3 per cent who expected to enter college. The music probably was given by a teacher who couldn't sing half so well as the meadow larks at home and the art by one who couldn't draw a cow or a pig to save his life.

The worst part of the high school from the farm boy's standpoint was the attitude toward work in general and farm work in particular. The boys and girls were encouraged to prepare for college in order that they might get through life more easily, though perhaps they were not told so in so many words. The teachers talked of the farm as a good place to come from perhaps, but carried the idea that farming was not a worthy calling for a boy with ambition. Everything he heard or learned pointed away from the farm and toward the city. Not only was the farm boy denied any knowledge of the farm, but he was taught to see the bright side of every other calling and the dark side of his own. It was little wonder that he left the farm at the end of his high school course.

The high schools are coming to pay vastly more respect to the 97 per cent of their pupils. They are realizing the truth of the statement that the education which increased a boy's wants without increasing his earning capacity is a failure. Courses in carpentry, shop work and mechanics have been put in. The whole attitude of the high school is changing, and more attention is being paid to preparing students for life than to preparing them for college. The students are being taught that it is an honor to work with their hands. The girls are being taught domestic science and home economics. In short, the high school has seen its opportunity and is grasping it.

his needs and his inclinations. It is an education in the ways of nature rather than in the ways of man. It is an education that is fitting him to live best the life that he knows most about.

He may not care much about college. His mind may falter at geometrical propositions and quadratic equations. But he can understand the proposition of soil fertility and crop rotation. He can work out the equation of profit and loss in raising calves. The greatest mission of any form of education is to teach people how to live. Not only must it teach them how to live well, but it will be successful directly in proportion to the number it reaches. The professional colleges have had to encompass themselves with severe restrictions in order that their professions might not become overcrowded. With agricultural education there is no such fear.

The danger is not in getting too much. The problem is to get enough. Secondary agricultural education has been phenomenally successful because it teaches people the things they want to know. They do not take such education on the general theory that it is good for them. They can see for themselves that it is good. They can see it in the increased corn yields grown by the boys who have been graduated from such a school to the farm. They can see it from the improved stock that takes the place of the bony specimens with which he once would have been satisfied. They can see it in the pride with which he keeps up his fences and his barns.

The girl is given all the large a place in the secondary school as the boy. She is taught the art and the science of homemaking. She gets a state. Minnesota and Nebraska have schools of agriculture in connection with their agricultural colleges. These are doing good work, but they are reaching only a small proportion of the farm boys and girls. One such school to a state is not enough.

The ideal secondary school is located away from the heart of the city. It has a liberal piece of land in connection with it. To be successful it must be surrounded by enough of a farm to give it a rural flavor. As a rule these secondary schools are doing their work well. They have ruthlessly cut out the classics and the dead languages. They have substituted studies that help to fit the boys and girls for life on the farm. A large share of the study of books is done away with and the study of living things substituted. The schools are well equipped with laboratories. The student works with corn, scoring, planting and testing. Judging corn is as fascinating a game as ever a boy engaged in. Even more interesting is the stock judging.

Few of the schools can afford to keep a complete line of live stock, but neighboring farmers are always ready to supply the deficiency. Then there are the machinery laboratories, where the boys learn some of the simpler principles of mechanics as applied to farm machinery. It puts a boy on his mettle to be turned loose on a pile of castings and told to put them together to form a blinder. The intricacies of a gasoline engine keep him working after hours. The study of the growth of plants is as the place of the study of classified botany. The boy learns the names of the different weeds and how to tell their seeds apart. He learns their habits and the best ways of combating them. He makes a collection of insects and learns which ones are harmful and which innocent.

He is dealing with life, the kind of life that he has known ever since he was old enough to know anything. At last he is learning the answers to that big "why" that has bothered him ever since he could walk. He has found the education that is suited to his needs and his inclinations. It is an education in the ways of nature rather than in the ways of man. It is an education that is fitting him to live best the life that he knows most about.

He may not care much about college. His mind may falter at geometrical propositions and quadratic equations. But he can understand the proposition of soil fertility and crop rotation. He can work out the equation of profit and loss in raising calves. The greatest mission of any form of education is to teach people how to live. Not only must it teach them how to live well, but it will be successful directly in proportion to the number it reaches. The professional colleges have had to encompass themselves with severe restrictions in order that their professions might not become overcrowded. With agricultural education there is no such fear.

The danger is not in getting too much. The problem is to get enough. Secondary agricultural education has been phenomenally successful because it teaches people the things they want to know. They do not take such education on the general theory that it is good for them. They can see for themselves that it is good. They can see it in the increased corn yields grown by the boys who have been graduated from such a school to the farm. They can see it from the improved stock that takes the place of the bony specimens with which he once would have been satisfied. They can see it in the pride with which he keeps up his fences and his barns.

The girl is given all the large a place in the secondary school as the boy. She is taught the art and the science of homemaking. She gets a ruer and saner view of life than would be possible in a city school. She has a greater sense of its responsibilities and a fuller appreciation of its pleasures.

While the first aim of the secondary agricultural school is to teach the boy to wring increased profits from the soil and the girl to use these profits in building up a better home, its function does not end there. The cultural side of the student's education is not neglected. He is given something of English, for an understanding of his native tongue and an ability to use it well are essential to a farmer who would be considered educated. He is given something of history, for no study can so broaden and deepen the springs of human thought as history. He is given public speaking and learns to talk well. Dame Fortune holds many good things in reserve for the man who can talk.

WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT IN CHARGE OF C. T. COX.

Authorized Agent of The Carolina Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector for Winterville and vicinity
Advertising Rates on Application

Winterville, Oct. 24.—Misses Lena Cobb and Magdalene Cox, who have been visiting friends at Seven Springs returned home Wednesday evening.

The man who has a checking account can pay any amount at any time or place. No trouble making change. The check is written for the exact amount. The account records every one paid and gives you an indisputable receipt. An account with the Bank of Winterville will be an advantage to your business.

Messrs. J. B. Carroll, W. W. Forrest, Nick Dixon, Fountain Carter and Heber McLawhorn all left Wednesday evening for Raleigh to attend the fair.

Harrington, Barber & Co. are offering their entire stock of dress goods very cheap now. Time for you to get a bargain if you want a nice dress.

Miss Mimie Cox, who has been visiting friends in Ayden for several days, returned home Wednesday evening.

The men and boys' clothing at Harrington, Barber & Co's are real bargains at the prices they offer them.

Mr. J. D. Cox, who has been home for a few days, returned to his work at Fairmount Wednesday.

A special baptismal service was held in the Baptist church Thursday evening. Four candidates were baptized into the fellowship with the Ayden Baptist church as a result of a meeting there. Rev. M. A. Adams made the service very impressive and we learn his meeting at Ayden was a most excellent one.

Go to A. O. Boddard for meat, mutton and corn.

Prof. H. F. Brinson left Thursday evening to attend the Raleigh fair.

Pants, pants, pants, get your fit at A. W. Ange & Co's.

Miss Lena Cobb, of Conetoe, who has been visiting Miss Magdalene Cox, left Friday morning for Greenville to spend several days with her sister, Mrs. J. L. Jackson.

When in need of new made mutton and hulls, call on the Pitt County Oil Co. They have them.

Mrs. J. D. Cox and Heber Cox made a trip to Greenville yesterday.

If you need dress goods, examine A. W. Ange & Co's stock before you buy. They will please you.

Miss Vivian Roberson, music teacher of the Winterville High School went to Robersonville Friday evening.

Winterville, N. C., Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Edmondson, of Stantonburg, came in Saturday night. Mrs. Edmondson will spend a week here and Mr. Edmondson returned Monday morning.

While the price of cotton seed has declined from the high level, The Pitt County Oil Company will yet make attractive prices.

Little Miss Isabell Dawson, of Ayden, spent Saturday and Sunday with her little cousin here.

Harrington, Barber & Company are making new box bodies, rail bodies and dirt bodies every day, prices are all right and quality good.

Miss Blanche Ferebee, of Bell Cross who has been spending a few days with Miss Elizabeth Boushall, at Winterville High School, returned Monday morning.

The Pitt County Oil Company can furnish meal and hulls in any quantity, wholesale and retail.

Misses Magdalene Cox and Miriam Johnson went to Greenville Monday.

Carry your lumber to Harrington, Barber & Company's mill to be dressed, turned and grooved, also moulding, all sorts and sizes.

Mr. A. D. McLawhorn left Monday morning for Greenville, to accept a position with the Greenville Supply Company.

Cattle must be faring good, judging from the amount of meal and hulls being sold by the Pitt County Oil Company.

Miss Kate Chapman spent several days with Miss Lela Roach, of Coxville, last week.

Mrs. Shaw, of Aboskie, is visiting Mrs. M. A. Adams this week.

You keep your horse in a good stable, why not keep your money in the Bank of Winterville, where fire or burglars cannot harm it and you can have it when needed.

Misses Elizabeth Adams and Olivia Cox spent Sunday evening in the country with friends.

Winterville has a young man who is very anxious to know the number of crosses between Ayden and Winterville; he counts them nearly every Sunday night.

A. O. Boddard keeps a supply of meal and corn on hand at all times.

Mr. J. F. King, of Sanford, spent several days with his daughter at Winterville High School last week and returned Monday.

Bishop Robt. Strange, will hold services at the Episcopal church Friday night and Saturday morning. Everybody is invited.

Mr. J. F. Stokes, of Greenville, was a town Monday.

A. W. Ange & Company have stoves and heaters at the right prices.

Shoes to fit everybody's feet at A. W. Ange & Company's.

Dr. C. F. Strosinder, of Goldsboro, will lecture in the auditorium of Winterville High School Tuesday evening, November 1st, at 7.30 p. m., on the hookworm disease. The public is cordially invited.

Heavy underwear of all kinds at A. W. Ange & Company's.

Rev. C. W. Blanchard, of Wilson, was here Monday to enter his two sons in Winterville High School. He was accompanied by his two daughters, Misses Blanche and Paul.

Eld. P. D. Gold, of Wilson, will preach in the auditorium of Winterville High School next Sunday at 11 o'clock. Everybody is invited to go hear him.

Mr. T. E. Cannon, the clever bookkeeper for A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company spent Saturday night and Sunday at his home at Rountree.

The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company are having quite a rush about the factory to supply their orders for school desks, and could give employment to more hands of suitable kind.

The school at Antioch will begin Monday, October 31st. Parents and children are asked to meet there on Thursday, October 27th, at 2.30 o'clock.

The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company says that orders for cotton planters point to a large cotton crop next year.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Loyal to Football Team—Illustrated Lecture.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 25.—A big, strong, whole-hearted mass meeting with 500 students in attendance was held in Gerrard hall Monday night for the purpose of letting the football team know that, in the face of the defeat by Davidson in Charlotte last Saturday, it still retained the confidence and loyalty of the student body. The speakers, among whom were Dr. Royter, and Rev. Mr. Hogan, who had seen the game, seriously expressed confidence in the ability of the team to develop a strong scoring strength yet. The opinion was given that the squad handicapped by superior weight and a superabundance of material had not yet found itself. The game in Washington with Georgetown next Saturday will give the players a chance to demonstrate the reality of their ability to "come back."

Rev. John Little, of Louisville, Ky., gave an illustrated lecture, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night on the condition of the negro in the south. He described the poverty and disease-stricken negro slums of Atlanta and Louisville and attributed to these conditions the low status of morality that exists in the race. He made a strong plea for the physical, industrial and moral uplift of the negro race in the south.

The Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society met Wednesday night for the election of officers. Professor Stacy was chosen president and Professors Daggett and Hall vice-president and secretary and treasurer. The object of this society is to encourage scientific research and to record matters pertaining to the natural history of the state. The journal issued by the society is in a measure the bulletin of the laboratories of the university. It is now in its twenty-sixth year. It exchanges with over 300 scientific periodicals and by this exchanging more than ten thousand books and pamphlets have been collected for the university library. Dr. W. C. Coke is editor-in-chief of the Journal this year.

Miss Lucy Joyner Dead.

Miss Lucy Joyner, of Chocowinity, died Tuesday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bessie Malone, in her town. She had been quite sick or some time and the end was not much unexpected.

Miss Joyner was a sister of Dr. Holt Joyner, of Gates county; Mr. Richard Joyner, Rev. Francis Joyner, of Littleton; Rev. Edmond Joyner, of Biltmore; Mr. Andrew Joyner, of Greensboro; and a Mr. James Joyner; Mrs. Bessie Malone and Mrs. Hattie Phelps, all of whom survive her. She was well known throughout eastern North Carolina, and had many friends and admirers in Greenville and Pitt county, where she taught school a number of years ago before she went to Chocowinity to teach in a boy's school. She was a lovable character, a Christian of a lifetime, being a member of the Protestant Episcopal church, and her old friends and associates will be grieved to learn of her death.

Mr. Pink Lynn, a citizen of the Lawtonville section, had an experience with an owl the other night which he will not soon forget. He heard his chickens making quite a noise. Going out to investigate, he found that a big owl had killed two or three of them. Obtaining a good view of the owl he shot at it but missed his mark. He picked up one of the chickens and sat down to investigate its wounds, when the owl came back and pounced down upon Mr. Lynn's head, clutching its claws in Mr. Lynn's hair and using its beak to pound him several blows. Mr. Lynn was frustrated by the assault, but finally regained his equilibrium and reached up and caught the owl by the neck and choked it to death.—Riedsville Review.

More Third Crop Apples.

Today Mr. J. R. Tucker, who lives on Greenville R. F. D. No. 3, brought The Reflector a twig containing two apples of third crop growth this year on the same tree.

Young Men's Day, October 29th.

State Democratic Chairman Eiler has appointed October 29th as young men's day. On that day all of the Democratic speakers over the State will give special attention to young men. In response to ex-Gov. Jarvis's recent letter asking that the young men of the State to take their proper place in public service, many young men throughout the State have written letters of appreciation. These expressions have been so full of zeal and patriotism that Chairman Eiler has decided to make "Young Men's Day" a State-wide event. In every county in the State some young man of high character and useful purpose is being appointed to lead the young voters in their work for the State and for the Democratic party, whose mission it is to serve the State. Hundreds of young men will cast their first vote this year. The object of the movement is to so fix the minds of these upon the duties of citizenship that they will become citizens always ready to study public questions and to vote intelligently for their country's welfare. Young men have been standard bearers in the Democratic party from the day of Jefferson down to Bryan.

The fathers of this country poured out their blood and treasure to free the new land from the tyranny of monarchy and aristocracy. They succeeded, but to-day a new and deadlier form of tyranny is fastening its fangs upon our country, and threatens to turn a government dedicated to liberty and human rights into a land of oppression with all power concentrated into the hands of a few men. Taking their cue from Alexander Hamilton, who believed that the people were not fit to rule themselves, Republican leaders are to-day virtually denying the fundamental truths of equality upon which this government was founded. Under their rule a few men are acquiring all power and the masses are being reduced to a condition that abolishes the equality of opportunity. Unless the present movement is checked, the upward road that has always been open to our young men will be blocked, both in business and politics. The natural place for young men is in the Democratic party, whose purpose is to keep the road to opportunity open. The Republican party, standing for trusts, monopolies and narrowing opportunities is not the natural home of the vigorous, manly young men who ask only a free hand and a fair chance to turn the country over to the unchecked wishes of the Republican party, and the average young man can only hope to be a clerk in the ranks of the monopolies, and if he be an exceptionally able man, he may hope to rise to be head clerk. But that is all. Corporate organization and wealth are clutching into their deadly grip the opportunities of a once free land. If the men of to-day would bequeath a heritage of freedom and of opportunity to their sons, they must fight now. The Democratic party stands for the open road. It believes that the people can and should govern themselves. It believes that America needs only a fair field and an even chance, and for that it will die in the last ditch. It is the standard for the young men to enlist under, and it depends upon them to take their places and do their duty.

Your complexion as well as your temper is rendered miserable by a disordered stomach. By taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets you can improve both. Sold by all druggists.

AGAINST ISSUING BONDS.

Favors Building Roads by Direct Taxation.

Fountain, N. C., Oct. 24, 1910. Editor Reflector:

I often see sketches in your paper on good roads. Some have one idea and some another. I would like to give my views on the subject.

If we could have our roads improved without bonds, which I think could be done, it would save us from a bonded debt. Just suppose that we were to issue $300,000 of bonds. The interest at 5 per cent. would be $15,000 per year. Why not tax the people for that amount and spend it on the roads? Then in the course of five or ten years, with the help of the convicts and the road overseers, the roads could be made good. Then we would have the good roads without the great debt to tax the people on as long as the world stands, which we could not hope to get rid of before.

We already have too much bonds, and I am against bonding our county and taxing the people for no use. It seems to me that some people never think what it will cost nor how much will be thrown away if we should issue these bonds that so much has been said about. I am afraid they and their children both will be sorry some day that they ever heard of bonds if we should get them.

G. M. SMITH.

The Peculiarities of Mr. Hill.

The newspapers are having a good deal to say about the late David B. Hill. The public is familiar to a great extent with his political career. His private life was even more peculiar. The biographical sketch contributed by The Baltimore Sun brings out some traits of Mr. Hill's character which were not generally known. It says he has been described as "the man without a human weakness," and as "the cold chisel politician, through whose veins runs ice water instead of blood." Probably both descriptions were exaggerated, but in the main, they were accurate. He had no recreations; work was his life theme, and there were no variations. He had no irregular habits, cared nothing for accumulating wealth, cultivated no friendships, was never known after he reached man's estate, to love. He never married—two reasons for which have been advanced: When he was a young man his favorite sister died, and it was long before his health recovered from the shock. It is also said that he had a romance as a youth, but that the girl's death soured him against woman and life. He was always courteous and at home in the society of women, but he never sought them. With men he was austere and distant, save where interest made closer relations necessary—and as soon as the business was over he retired to his shell again. This latter peculiarity was in evidence on Mr. Hill's visit to Charlotte. He was utterly unresponsive to acts of courtesy and to efforts at hospitality. One might just as well have endeavored to draw responsiveness from the stone man. He was not restrained, but rather indifferent, and he made perhaps the best 20th of May speech that has ever been delivered in Charlotte.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Queer Doings.

A suit for annulment of a divorce which is now being heard in a New York court presents a feature or two rather out of the ordinary. The divorced couple were married in 1891 and lived peacefully together some six years. Friction arose, however,
and a separation was agreed upon.
Both wanted a divorce but neither was willing to furnish grounds of complaint. In this predicament they agreed that the husband should commit assault and battery upon his wife in the presence of carefully selected witnesses and thereafter she should sue on the ground of extreme cruelty.
In order that there should be no
bungling of the rather delicate situation the ingenious pair proceeded to rehearse the quarrel, blows included, until they were able to produce just the effect they desired. This point of skill gained, the witnesses were procured, the quarrel staged, the suit brought and the divorce secured.

This is unusual enough, to say the least, but stranger still is the de-nouement. The husband has wearied of single loneliness and desires his quondam wife back. He requests annulment of the divorce on the ground that it was obtained through fraud.
"Do you mean to tell me," inquired the perplexed judge, after hearing the evidence, "that, after all that has passed between you, you believe that you two could live together again?"
"You do not know my wife," responded the bringer of the suit. We confess that the reply contains an undoubted truth even if its vagueness makes one wish the husband had been more garrulous and explained to the court a little more clearly the grounds upon which he is expecting future cannubial bliss.—Charlotte

He Went Fox Hunting.

The editor of The Journal went fox hunting yesterday morning. Having been largely a dweller in offices, it was his first experience. He got his legs wet to the knee, cut his finger, snagged his trousers, gouged a piece out of his leg with a barbed wire fence, broke his glasses and has a terrible stiffness. But—the legs are already dry, the finger will heal, the trousers were no good, the hole in his leg has been plugged up with putty, the glasses have been repaired, and he hopes the stiffness will wear away.
He's glad he went—even if the dogs didn't get a smell.—Winston Journal

Mounted Police.

Don't you see how Greenville is coming? Already the town has reached the dignity of mounted police, Policeman Clark making his rounds on a bicycle. And he goes when he comes down on the pedals, and gets there before you can think about it.

A Word About Hog Raising

We have Scriptural authority for the expediency of the "line upon line, precept upon precept" method of emphasizing the truth, which is sufficient warrant for calling attention to a recent bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture, prepared by Prof. D. T. Gray of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute dealing with the advisability of increased raising of hogs in the South. "Hogs can be raised as cheaply in the South as any where else," says Professor Gray and proceeds to parallel this opinion with the fact that in a single year the city of Birmingham, Ala., sent into distant states for pork more than a million dollars. The inference is so plain that he who runs may read.

The bulletin goes into the effect which increased pork raising would have upon the volume and price of cotton, concluding that the best way to remedy the evils incident upon the farmer's being compelled to rush his crop to the market would be found in supplementing cotton by other products. Of these supplementary products Professor Gray considers hogs one of the best. "The hog,"
he thinks, is especially adapted to the farmer with small capital, as only a small amount of money is required with which to begin the business and returns begin to come in a few months after it is started. The sow is a rapid producer. Money is turned over rapidly. With $125 invested in one boar and five to eight sows. It is easily possible to have for sale from 5,000 to 8,000 pounds of pork, live weight, in a year. In other words the yearly sale should be from two to four times the amount of the investment."

A striking commentary on the value set upon this advice by a corporation whose interests are intimately connected with those of this section is to be found in the arrangements made by the Southern Railway to supplement the government distribution of this bulletin by a special distribution conducted from the railroad's Washington headquarters.—

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Greenville People Know How to Save It.

Many Greenville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

Mrs. S. A. Simmons, 504 Heritage
St., Kinston, N. C., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be an effective remedy for kidney trouble and headache. My back pained me for a long time and my kidneys were much dis-ordered. I happened to read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and procuring a box, I began using them. They benefitted me in every way and I am now free from backache and am able to rest well; in fact, I feel better in every way. I am glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

GOSPEL CHORUS

Meeting Called for Sunday Afternoon.

In the proposed series of evangelistic meetings that the churches of Greenville are to hold under the leadership of Dr. Black, good inspiring music is a necessity. Dr. Black has especially requested that a good, loyal, efficient chorus be organized and prepared to assist him in this campaign.

Here is an opportunity and a call for personal service. If you are interested in the success of these meetings and are accustomed to have a share in the song service of your church, or Sunday school, or in the musical life of your home and community, you are cordially invited to join this chorus.

This chorus will meet promptly Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel of the Jarvis Memorial church for organization and practice.

Miss Muffley, director of public school music and chorus work at the training school, and Miss Gaston will be present and assist. Will you?

H. E. Austin, Chm. Mus. Com.

HORSE UPSETS BUGGY.

One of Occupants Has a Narrow Escape.

Friday afternoon two men, whose names we could not learn, were driving along in a buggy, leading another horse behind them. An automobile coming up in the rear frightened the horse that was being led, and this horse jumped into one of the rear wheels of the buggy, breaking the vehicle down and throwing out the man who was holding the lead line. The horse came near stepping on the man's head, knocking his hat off and cutting two holes through it with the heel of the horse shoe.
The horse that was hitched to the buggy also became frightened and for a few minutes a general mix-up was threatened.

Thief Returns Diamond Ring.

About eight weeks ago Mrs. W. W.
Phifer missed a handsome old-fashioned diamond cluster ring which had been her mother's. Mrs. Laura Davidson, engagement ring and which she had been wearing for some time. As no other negro had been in the house for months she had the cook arrested and kept in jail for several days, but nothing definite could be proved one way or the other, and the girl was released and the ring continued missing. Yesterday morning just as the family was about to go to breakfast, Mrs. Davidson happened to go into the butler's pantry, and there suspended from a string tied to the window shutters was the ring. Mrs. Phifer and Mrs. Davidson are of course delighted to recover the ring and the supposition is that the thief had become alarmed and decided to return the property before she was apprehended.—Charlotte Chronicle.

HURRAH FOR GREENVILLE

Tribute to What the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co. is Doing

Editor Reflector:

I feel like taking off my hat to you for that article telling the good of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco
Co. in trying to let the people know what is doing in the tobacco world, etc. Also am glad you said some good thing of Mr. O. L. Joyner, who I believe is trying to inform the tobacco farmer of the fact that it is to their advantage not to over produce if they expect fair prices. I have been at times right lonesome, as there is no one out near me that belongs to the Consolidated Co. As I would look out early in the morning in the first part of the tobacco selling season and see dozens of loads going by headed for Farmville, it was enough to make a fellow lonesome, but it is not so now. The tide has turned toward Greenville and all is lovely and bright. The Greenville ware-housemen and buyers, too, must have realized that Greenville would drop to about sixth place if something was not done, and they have gone to work and are selling tobacco "up in the pictures", and are setting a pace for Kinston and Wilson, and leaving Farmville far behind. She is not even in the race. Hurrah, for the Greenville market. It is a humming.
A strong pull, a long pull and a pull all together will keep Greenville in the lead.

The Farmville union is raging now out our way, but so far as I see things
the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco
Co. is a farmers union and is as good as any farmer's organization, if men were loyal, as they will have to be if the union ever accomplishes anything.

MR. ZENO BROWN KILLED

Meets Tragic Death While Making Electrical Connections.

In a delayed telegram due to southern communication being broken by the severe storms, Mr. W. L. Brown received information this morning that his son, Mr. Zeno Brown, was killed Tuesday afternoon in Mulberry, Fla. The only particulars given in the message was in effect that a severe storm was prevailing there, and while Mr. Brown was making electrical connections he was killed.
Mr. Brown was an electrician and worked for a large phosphate company in Mulberry. His father wired instructions for the body to sent home, but up to this writing no further information has been received.

The news of the tragic death of this young man has filled many hearts here at his home with sadness. He had a host of friends and was held in high esteem. He was 22 years of age and is survived by his father, Mr. W.
Brown, one sister, Mrs. W. L. Jenkins, of Charlotte, and one brother, Mr.
Whit Brown. All hearts go out in sympathy to these in their sorrow.

Honesty is a better capital than a sharpers' cunning.

Entered as second class matter August 20, 1910, at the post office at Greenville, North Carolina, under act of March 3, 1879.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1910.

The pumpkin is getting ready for Hallow'een.

The Reflector believes that Pitt county could have a good county fair all right.

They have got to quit killing so many before we invest in either an automobile or an air machine.

If Greensboro does not put a stop to so much pocket picking there her population may be cut down.

Greenville is not worrying much over what the census will give her. We are all here, whether counted or not.

Next Saturday, 29th, will be the last day on which you can register, unless you become of age between that day and the election.

If you have a neighbor who has not registered for the coming election, impress him with the fact that next Saturday is the last day upon which he can get his name on the register book.

There is hardly a doubt that Dr. Crippen murdered his wife, and the sentence the English court gave him is just what he deserves.

Butler might be termed the equilibrator to the Republican ticket in North Carolina. He will pull it down into the sea of defeat all right.

Possibly President Taft's proposed trip to Panama immediately after the election is to find a hole big enough to bury himself until the Democrats get through shouting over the result.

Republicans themselves give about some of the hardest knocks at their party and show its unfitness to again come in power in North Carolina.

The country lost a great man in the death of David B. Hill, of New York, which occurred Thursday.

"Charlotte going ahead," is the way the Wilmington Star puts it. We thought Charlotte was already ahead.

Statistics say that there are 80,000 people in the jails of the United States. If all who ought to be were in jail they would be overrun.

When they make a successful trip across the Atlantic ocean in an airship, then somebody will be sailing away for the North Pole.

Now we will hear that the state fair went in a financial hole this time, but the cause will be the weather and not the circus.

Dull business can usually be attributed to the fact that the business men themselves permit it to be dull. Trade comes to town when a strong and united effort is made to get it.

If Butler is so anxious to debate with somebody, why not take it up with the editor of the Greensboro News and discuss what the latter said about him before the convention?

If Raleigh could take a census this week the population of the state capital would head the list of North Carolina towns.

The recent state fair, according to the Raleigh papers, is marked up as the greatest in the fifty years that the annual fairs have been held.

Newspaper headline says a man was lit by a telephone pole while going to a fire. The pole should be arrested on two charges, both for assault and battery, and for interfering with a fireman in the discharge of his duty.

Again we emphasize the fact that Saturday 29th, is the last day of registration for the coming election. See that your own name and the names of your neighbors are on the books.

Vice-President Sherman is going to come to North Carolina to make a few speeches. Wonder if he will have as poor opinion of his party in this state as President Taft had.

People might lay more stress on what Mr. Roosevelt says if it had not already been proven that he is a man who has very little regard for truth. Surely he is the right man to head an Annapolis club.

If every Democrat registers and then goes to the polls and votes, there is going to be a big majority on election day.

Our coast country is great, but when a sure enough storm strikes it something appalling happens.

Wellman was troubled with the same thing that afflicts many other people, had too much gas aboard.

Hoxey sounds like the name of a patent medicine, but it isn't.—Wilmington Star.

It also sounds like the name of a fellow who once led an army of tramps in a march on Washington City.

From the list of announcements made by the Democratic executive committee it will be seen that the people of Pitt county are going to hear some good speaking between now and the election.

Philadelphia took the world's championship in baseball, beating Chicago all three of the games played this week. Ball enthusiasts all over the country felt much interest in the championship games.

The Republicans of Wilmington had a speaker of national fame there for a speech, but could get only an audience of sixty out to hear him. Guess the speaker felt like he had run into a frost.

The business folks getting together and pulling together is one of the greatest needs for bringing more business to Greenville. The Reflector may talk day after day to that end, but unless the business men themselves show that they want business they are not going to get much of it.

The Wilmington Star is asking what has become of perpetual motion in this age of excitement over new discoveries. Politics is about the nearest thing to perpetual motion. That don't keep still long enough to let a large number of people attend to any other business.

A Raleigh colored man was asked the question, when would the colored state fair be held? and replied that it usually came the rainy week right after the white folks held their fair. The colored state fair is being held this week, and it looks like they are going to have even better weather than the white folks had last week.

That Virginia mob the other day, was somewhat different from the ordinary kind. Ordinarily they go after some fellow who has committed a crime and lynch him, but in the Virginia instance mentioned the mob broke open the prison and spirited away a man who had been convicted of murder and sentenced to death.

The mob was after liberating, not lynching this man. And really this kind of mob was no more lawless than the other kind. But it shows what mob violence can lead to.

NO RETURN TO SALOONS

The near-beer joints are bringing reproach upon the prohibition law in this state and unless something is done to stop them a disgusted public will demand a return to the old system. There is very little difference between the near-beer stand and the saloon and besides every honest man knows within himself whether he say so or not, it is only a ruse to get around the prohibition law. If we believe in prohibition and want it, we must be honest with ourselves on this near-beer business.—High Point Enterprise.

It is little short of ridiculous that the prohibition law of the state should be brought into reproach in this way; and the talk of the people becoming so disgusted as to prefer a return to barrooms is even more ridiculous. Prohibition was carried in this state by a majority of over 46,000 votes. Can it be said that the great number of people in North Carolina who voted for prohibition have become so weak, or have so little influence, that they will be ruled by the few who conduct near-beer saloons and the whiskey advocates who are backing them? We do not believe it.

The legislature made the mistake of opening the gap to the near-beer sellers, and the liquor crowd were quick to grasp the opportunity for making the near-beer joint a blind behind which to violate the law by selling whiskey. They want to make the prohibition law a reproach and disgust the people with it, but the people themselves will be to blame if this is done. Instead of submitting to such violation of the law, the people should make such a demand on the coming legislature that will bring the enactment of a law wiping out every near-beer saloon in the state. It is a shame on the manhood of the state that the few liquor advocates are allowed to set at naught a law voted for by so large a majority.

The big corn yields being reported in various parts of the State are enough to almost make you shout. It means good times ahead for North Carolina, and that our people are going to "come back" to the dignity of having their barns at home instead of in the West. Every time we think of what Mr. John F. Evans, leader of the local farm demonstration work, is doing for the farmers of Pitt county in getting them to strike out for larger and better crops, it makes us feel good. And those boys in the corn growing contest who are showing a yield of 60 to 90 bushels to the acre, we feel like taking off our hat and hurrahing for every one of them.

When the New York Herald makes a prediction everybody takes notice, for that paper is a wise forecaster of elections. It says the Democrats are going to elect a governor of New York and make large gains all over the country. The Republicans are preparing to take their medicine.

The Charlotte News has got up an aviation for Charlotte at an early day. Here's hoping Patton will not venture up in one of the things but will make all his observations either from the ground floor or the top of the sky scraper.

Will the Greenville Reflector kindly tell us what is a "spool gown?"—Charlotte News.

Yep. It's one of those kind that the wearer just winds around with 75 or 30 yards of ribbon, when there is not a masculine right arm handy to go around it.

From the places where fairs are held come reports of people getting their pockets picked of good sums. The man who goes to a fair or a circus, or in any jostling crowd, with a wad of money in his pocket and loses it, pays the penalty of his own carelessness.

The Democratic candidates of Pitt county are making a good record in their canvass, and the prospects for an increased majority for the entire ticket grows brighter every day. They have large gatherings at their speakings.

The Greenville Reflector deploras the loss of the supply of rations Wellman had provided for his across the ocean flight "in these times of high priced living." No need to worry about that, old man; the farmers are raising plenty more stuff all the time.—Greensboro News.

Yes, the farmers are raising it all right, but how about it when a fellow has not got the price?

The Greenville Reflector publicity invites The Wilmington Dispatch to visit Pitt county for the purpose of inspecting the bewitching array which gives that section of North Carolina such just cause for pride. Query: What makes The Reflector think that The Dispatch is qualified as a judge of feminine loveliness? Had it been The Hendersonville Herald, 'twould have been another story.—Charlotte Observer.

No, sir; Cowan is the man for that job. Cause why? He's ni-red headed, and has already shown his good judgment in making a selection.

A Chicago young lady is soon to make her debut in society. That remarkable thing about her is that she is twenty years old, has never been permitted to go to a party, has never had a young man caller and has never ventured from home unless under the eyes of a careful chaperon. What a lot of fun that girl has missed, but we bet she makes up for it when she does start.

"It is the first duty of the legislator who expects to be anything," remarks the Spartanburg Journal in an interesting address to the South Carolina lawmakers, "to get all the information he can on the Torrens system of land titles and on the subject of city government by commission." This is respectfully but earnestly referred to the gentlemen who expect to gather in Raleigh next January.—Charlotte Observer.

Hogs' Tails.

Ye, who delight to angle in the secrets of creation and garner high philosophy from humble fields, who perceive that nature's trifles are wisdom in disguise and that every tadpole may fulfill some cosmic aim—attend to this tale of a hog:

Through immemorial years the hog's tail has been considered a mere bagatelle. Indeed, all tails, save the beaver's, the kangaroo's the monkey's and that of the fox in Aesop's fable have been accounted of little use to the owners they adorn and of less value to civilization. Some savants, to be sure, have held that the rat utilizes his tail in extracting from narrow-necked phials those unguents so toothsome to the crafty rodent. Howbeit, no scientist from Sir Francis Bacon to Sir Oliver Lodge had ever intimated any particular purpose, either to that animal itself or to mankind at large.

Yet, inquisitive human mind could not rest upon a conclusion so unsatisfying. Some hidden efficacy there must be even to the tail of a pig. So reasoned one Dr. Blossom, an earnest student of nature down in Louisiana. As Watt, night after night, observed his mother's tea kettle lid bobbing up from the steam, as Sir Isaac Newton, day after day, eyed the apples falling in his orchard, so did Dr. Blossom gaze upon the tail of the hog, profoundly meditating upon the secrets he suspected it to harbor. And, now, like all honest seekers after the truth, he has been rewarded.

Yes, the value of hog tails has been discovered. The news dispatches are disappointingly meagre in their treatment of this important event, but they show beyond a doubt what a beneficent as well as interesting result attends the doctor's triumph. By long and careful experiment he has found that in the tail of the hog exists that peculiar brand of blood from which hog-cholera serum may be made. How simple it all seems, now that we know about it. All these centuries the hog has been carrying his drug store neatly hoisted above his hams.

Of course, the longer the tail, the more serum to be had and the more cholera can be cured. Wherefore wise farmers in Louisiana are mustering all the zeal and cunning at their command to raise long-tailed hogs.—Atlanta Journal.

Power of the Press

In an able sermon a Chicago minister recently called attention to the present and its power. "The power of a newspaper," he says "is greater than that of the clergy, and even greater than that wielded by legislative bodies."

The gentleman is perfectly right in this. Newspapers are not egotistical. They realize they possess faults as well as virtues. Some newspapers do a great deal more harm than good when their columns are abused.

The newspaper, however, is the great national educator. It brings the happenings of the world before its readers. It is liberal. It educates the people. It stands for religious liberty. It appeals to the masses.

A minister, in addressing his congregation, reaches only those in hearing of his voice. The newspaper reaches into remote homes, into seemingly inaccessible districts, into places that are far removed from the church.

Morality and Neckties

The whole accoutrements may be broken in the making of a necktie. Certainly when a necktie or any other article is manufactured amid conditions unsanitary and unfair to the workers, a moral as well as an economic wrong has been done, and in the end we all pay for it.

Atlanta and the south have reasons to be proud of the rapid growth of their neckwear industries, but they have a higher reason to be proud of the consideration which these industries show toward human rights. It is a gratifying fact that within a few years ten prosperous neckwear factories have sprung up in the south, and that three of the most important of them are in Atlanta. But it is a fact even more gratifying that these factories are not sweatshops, and that the people who work in them are accorded the treatment to which honest and capable labor is entitled.

What a contrast is this to conditions in certain quarters of the east! The cloakmakers recently battled for their rights and won them. Now the neckwear makers are having to go through a similar trial. It will cost them much; it will cost their employers and the public. A sense of human justice would have averted it all.

An article that is produced under hygienic conditions and conditions that are fair to labor must be a better article than that which comes from a sweatshop and is stained, though invisibly, with suffering and hardship. The south is just entering upon a great manufacturing era. It is to be hoped, and from the example of our neckwear industries it may be expected, that the folly and shame of certain quarters of New England will not find countenance.—Atlanta Journal.

An automobile manufacturer gives as one of many reasons why a man should provide himself with a machine that it will give him and his family "prestige." That is the strongest pull we have seen. That advertiser knows his business. Some men will give all they have and more for "prestige." That "accounts for the mortgages on so many homes to raise money to buy automobiles. But Joshua Levering is big enough and strong enough and rich enough to get along without "prestige."—Charity and Children.

The next legislature will not weaken the prohibition law, but make it stronger. One of the things absolutely necessary to be done is to paralyze the near-beer business. We have been be-deviled enough with this painted harlot. The strong arm of the law must wipe it away.—Charity and Children.

The estimate that 717,000 acres in the South are this year devoted to rice-growing furnishes reasonable ground for optimism on the part of those who approve of the good old marriage custom handed down by our ancestors. The supply of the cereal is likely to be amply sufficient to meet all hymeneal demands.—Charlotte Observer.

"Women may gamble," says the Columbia State, "but they are never such gamblers as to bet each other hats." Which really, after all makes something the men who have to buy the hats should be thankful for.—Wilmington Dispatch.

An Error of Judgment

Every now and then a school teacher is confronted with the delicate situation evolved from the fact that a pupil has knowledge of the misdeeds of a fellow-pupil of which the teacher himself is in ignorance. The information is desired in the interests of sound discipline but to compel the pupil to divulge it savors suspiciously of fostering the bearing of tales, a habit which no pupil can detest with more heartiness than the experienced teacher. Under such circumstances, it is usually expedient except in the gravest cases, to allow the matter to pass. Precisely an analogous situation confronted the board of police commissioners of Augusta, Ga., and their method of handling it differed widely from the one just suggested, possibly because this board is not so fortunate as to number any school men in its membership.

"Thomas J. Hamilton, a reporter for The Daily Herald," says The Columbia State, summarizing the episode, "was assigned to a murder story. He applied for information to headquarters, of the police department, getting nothing that was 'news' and finding the atmosphere thereabouts anything but encouraging, Hamilton went elsewhere for his story and got it. He did not call on his imagination but got details known only to the police. Some policeman had 'leaked' His punishment was sought and Hamilton was summoned before a meeting of the police commission and asked to name the man who gave him the tip. Naturally he declined. Then the board adjudged him guilty of contempt, imposing a fine of $30 or a jail term. Likewise, of course, Hamilton refused to pay the fine."

The Augusta authorities have taken hold of a rather live wire in invoking contempt proceedings. The knowing school boy referred to above is directly subordinate to the inquiring teacher and thus in some sort under pressure to obey his commands, but it is difficult to see the equity in a newspaper man's being punished simply for the purpose of maintaining discipline in the police department. The action will prove a boomerang, in that it gives very undesirable advertisement to difficulties existing in the administration of a department which is not the most manageable in any community. In the meantime, we do not suppose that The Daily Herald is losing any sleep over the free advertising it is receiving, or that it will allow the sufferings its reporter may have to undergo at the hands of the law to pass without suitable compensation.—Charlotte Observer.

Agricultural Curiosities

Mr. J. C. Pierce, who lives near Thomasville, informs The Dispatch, that he has on his place the following agricultural "curiosities:" A stalk of corn that measures 15 1-2 feet high and has two fine ears of corn on it eight feet from the ground; a pumpkin that weighs 70 pounds and measures five feet and 1-4 inch in circumference; an apple that is four inches in diameter and weighs one and one-half pounds and is one foot in circumference; a grape vine that is three years old and this year bore one bushel of fine grapes; a tomato vine that has grown to be eighteen and one-half feet long and has a good crop of tomatoes on it yet and is still blooming; a lot of fine old-fashioned "dipper gourds" that have handles twenty-four inches long.—Lexington Dispatch.

DEATH OF MRS. RALPH J. HOUSE

She Was the Wife of a Pitt Countyman—Home Near Oak City

The Raleigh News and Observer has the following:
"Her many friends will learn with regret of the death of Mrs. Ralph J. House, which occurred at the home of her husband's mother, Mrs. M. W. House, near Oak City, N. C., at 3.44 p. m., October 8th, 1910. She was buried at the family burying ground at four o'clock Sunday afternoon. Services were conducted at the grave by the Rev. Mr. Ballou, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Tarboro, N. C. She was the daughter of the late Dr. H. A. McSwain, of Wade, N. C., and was, for many years prior to her death, a consistent member of the Presbyterian church. She is survived by her husband; one brother, Dr. T. G. McSwain, of Bingham, S. C.; three sisters, Mrs. Walter S. Johnson, of Fresno, Cal., Mrs. J. M. Griffin, of Rocky Mount, N. C., and Miss Annie P. McSwain, of Washington, D. C. "She was an ideal wife, a tender loving daughter and sister, and a devoted friend. Her life was such as to enable her sorely afflicted husband and relatives to feel that all is well with her, her soul is with her Heavenly Father in Paradise."

Why He Located at Asheville

There are little uncertified stories which I have met with several times, and one of them runs about as follows:
When George Vanderbilt determined upon creating an estate in America similar to some of the French estates in Europe, his first move was to engage a scientific commission to determine the location of such an estate. He desired to have a home where it would be possible to live all the year, or in any part of the year. He desired to have soil and climate favorable to the best development of a dairy business. He desired a nursery for trees and plants, and an opportunity to demonstrate what could be done in these lines. He desired to provide the facilities to develop a fish and game preserve of large proportions, and, generally speaking, to make an estate whose various features would stand as a model for the surrounding country. He wished it to be east of the Mississippi river, and naturally expected it might be in the Catskills, Adirondacks the White mountains, or the Green mountains.

His commission, after a careful investigation, reported in favor of Asheville North Carolina.
The unverified story goes on to say, that Mr. Vanderbilt was rather startled at the idea of going South, but, his commission exhibited facts and figures that could be compared, he promptly accepted the result of their investigation.—D. A. Tompkins in Charlotte Observer.

Third Crop Apples.

Saturday Mr. J. A. Tyson, who lives on Greenville R. F. D. No. 6, brought us some apples that are the third crop grown on the same tree this year. Of course they are small, but they are apples all right and shows what this climate can do.

How One May Die Poor

This discussion going the round of the daily papers as to whether the report that Andrew Carnegie or John D. Rockefeller propose to establish an endowed newspaper is true or not suggests that they might study the old story about the contract made between the devil and a man who was anxious to have an ample supply of money for all his needs.

In order to secure the money desired he made a contract to sell his soul to the Devil, with the stipulation that he was to be supplied with unlimited money for any wild extravagance or any purpose of any kind for which he desired to use it. He and the Devil were to meet occasionally, and at such meetings he was to report the amount expended and get a new supply for future extravagance. Having made the contract, the Devil supplied him with money in abundance, which he endeavored to the best of his ability to spend. He indulged in yachts and fast horses and high living and owning of many homes in different lands, but still he could not get rid of all the money that the Devil willingly furnished in return for the bargain of his soul. At last, however, it entered into his head to publish a newspaper. He undertook the establishment of such an enterprise, and into this he poured the money which the Devil had furnished him so freely, satisfied that there was no limit to the amount of money that could be furnished. But in less than a year the devil sought a conference and told him that while he had been able in fulfilling the contract for the purchase of his soul to furnish the almost unlimited amount of money that he had been spending, he would be compelled to cancel the contract and let him take back his soul, as he could not provide money enough to run a newspaper, and he would rather cancel the contract and give back the man's soul than undertake the job.—Manufacturer's Record.

Penny Postage in Sight.

So assiduously has Postmaster General Hitchcock applied himself to the task of cutting down the expenses of his department, without impairing its efficiency, that he is now able to declare that penny postage is certain of accomplishment in the comparatively near future.
The man who brings about penny postage will go down in the history of the United States as one of its greatest postmasters. In wiping out the deficit of the post office department, Mr. Hitchcock will have accomplished a real reform. Moreover, he will accomplish it without the aid of a brass band. And should he be able, before the end of his term, to put penny postage on the way to becoming an actual fact, his administration will stand out from amongst all the others by virtue of a great achievement, affecting the entire country.—Washington Post.

The Torrens System.

That observant North Carolinian, Editor Clarence Poe, of the Progressive Farmer, is an enthusiastic advocate of the Torrens system of land registration and is trying to get it adopted in his own State. Writing of a recent visit to the Hawaiian Islands he says:

"I found the Torrens system of registering land titles in force in the islands, although our highly civilized states on the mainland still get along with an antiquated wasteful system which is an enormous loss and handicap in America real estate dealers, preventing the farmer from realizing on and using his capital and holding back progress, while benefitting no one save such scrubber lawyers as could not survive competition with lawyers of the better sort in regular and legitimate work."

Some years ago there was a powerful movement in Virginia for the Torrens system, which provides easy transfer and insures of land titles, and the indorsement of the state bar association was obtained for the principal. Mr. Eugene C. Massie, of Richmond, was elected to the general assembly chiefly by virtue of his identification with this movement, but when he got in the legislature he found the opposition too strong to be overcome. He may find that the Torrens system has life in it yet in the Old Dominion, in spite of his discouraging experience.—Norfolk Landmark

MR. BROWN'S FUNERAL TODAY.

Particulars of How His Death Occurred

Owing to some misconnection of trains the body of Mr. Zeno Brown, was sent from Mulberry, Fla., Friday morning, did not reach Greenville until Sunday evening, and the funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Lester Savage, who worked for the same company as Mr. Brown and who accompanied the remains home, says that the accident occurred last Tuesday afternoon. The storm had played havoc with electrical wires and Mr. Brown was out at work on these to get connections restored as fast as possible. He was up a pole making connections when a live wire struck him across the breast, and it was so heavily charged that the shock killed him instantly.

It was due to the storm that the particulars of the tragedy and the body were so long reaching here.

CATARH GERMS.

Move Out When Hyomei Moves In.

No stomach dosing. HYOMEI (pronounced "High-o-me") is made from the highest grade of eucalyptus, taken from the eucalyptus forest of Australia, and combined with the excellent antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.

In inland Australia the atmosphere is so impregnated with balsam thrown out by the eucalyptus trees that germs cannot live, and in consequence catarrh and consumption are unknown. Breathe HYOMEI and get the very same pleasant, healing, germ-killing, air as you would get in the eucalyptus forests and kill the germs.

HYOMEI is sold by Coward & Wooten and druggists everywhere, at $1.00 a complete outfit.
An outfit consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use. The inhaler will last a lifetime, but bear in mind if you need another bottle of HYOMEI you can get it at druggists for only 50c at any time. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup and throat troubles, or money back. Trial sample of Hyomei free to readers of The Reflector. Address Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

PREPARATION MEETINGS.

Song Services and Men's Prayer Meetings Both Well Attended

The first rehearsal of the chorus in preparation for the meeting to be conducted by Dr. Black here in November, was held in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. Miss Muffly directed the singing and expressed pleasure at the readiness with which those taking part began their work. The next rehearsal will be held in the Christian church Wednesday night immediately following the union prayer meeting.

Ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis conducted the men's prayer meeting that was also held Sunday afternoon in the Methodist church, and made a splendid talk.

Our people of all denominations, and even those of no church, are manifesting much interest in the preparation for the meeting which is to be held by Dr. Black.

- For Horses.
"We have never used a liniment we consider the equal to Noah's Liniment for bruises, sprains, strained tendons and to use on throat, sides and chest for distemper, colds, etc. Richmond Transfer Co., Richmond, Va."
- Better Than $5.00 Remedies.
"We cheerfully recommend all stable men to give Noah's Liniment a trial and be convinced of its wonderful curative properties. We have obtained as good if not better results from its use than we did from remedies costing $5.00 per bottle. Norfolk and Portsmouth Transfer Co., Norfolk, Va."

AS TO VOTING QUALIFICATIONS.

Facts for Information of Voters Who Desire to Participate in Election

The following information is for the benefit of voters who desire to participate in the general election in November:

1. No new registration is required. All persons who were registered in the last election can vote now without registering again. However, minors becoming of age must register, and persons who have moved their residence must register, if they moved from the precinct in which they were registered more than four months prior to the election, otherwise they vote in the precinct in which they are registered.

2. No person liable to poll tax can vote in this election unless he paid his poll tax by May 1 of this year, and he must exhibit his receipt or take the oath required of him before voting. In order to vote he must be 21 years old, must have been a resident of the state two years, of the county six months, of the precinct four months. If any person moves into a new precinct within four months of the election, he must go back to the precinct he moved from in order to vote.

3. The residence of a married man is where his family resides; a single man where he sleeps. No person convicted of crime and sentenced to state's prison can vote, unless his disability be removed.

4. A voter must be able to read and write any section of the constitution in the English language to the satisfaction of the registrar.

5. The registration books opened Saturday, October 8, and will close at sunset on October 29. No registration will be allowed on the day of election unless a voter becomes 21 years old after the closing of the books.

6. The registrars will keep the registration books open at the voting place at the several precincts on each Saturday during this period until the evening of the 29th of October.

7. On any other day except Saturday all persons desiring to register must go to the registrar at his home or place of business. On Saturday he will be at the voting precincts from 9 o'clock in the morning until sunset.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is today the best-known medicine in use for the relief and cure of bowel complaints. It cures griping, diarrhoea, dysentery, and should be taken at the first unnatural looseness of the bowels. It is equally valuable for children and adults. It always cures. Sold by all druggists.

BUILDING AND LOAN.

Tenth Series Opens on Saturday, November 5th

That building and loan associations do the most good for the most people is evidenced in every community where such an association exists. Greenville has a good one, and it is doing much good. The Home Building and Loan Association will open its tenth series on Saturday, November 5th, and you should see the secretary and treasurer and take some shares. It works for you while you are doing something else and helps you to "lay up for a rainy day." See the advertisement in this issue of The Reflector.

UNION PRAYER MEETING

Large Attendance at the First Service, Wednesday night

Coming in such inclement weather, the large attendance at the first union prayer meeting, held in the Presbyterian church Wednesday night, in preparation for the meeting to be held here by Dr. William Black, beginning the 13th of November, was a strong indication of the interest our people of all denominations feel in the approaching revival. This first service was conducted by Rev. J. H. Shore, and he made an interesting talk on "Preparation of the church for a Revival." He emphasized the need of church members first getting right and in the proper attitude toward God before any great work could be accomplished through their efforts.

The men's prayer meeting in the Methodist church at 4 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, will be conducted by ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis, and the union prayer meeting next Wednesday night will be held in the Christian church and be conducted by the pastor of that church.

The first song rehearsal for the meeting will be held in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A Fortune Awaits Him

Women who wear all the surplus hair to be found are not the whole thing by upwards of a good deal. Over in Bradford, England, a company is making a lining for clothes—men's clothes—from human hair. It is said that it is the finest thing for the purpose ever known, being unbreakable, unshrinkable, and uncreasable. However, you would never sell a dude a pair of trouser-locks lined with it; he could never crease his "pans;" if he could have it done the crease would be gone before he could get into them. If some man will invent a cloth that will stand the strain and not wear out in a certain place when worn as trousers, he will make a fortune. Of course the man who is always on the go is not bothered with this wearing out, but the other man who had rather sit around and "chew the rag" than to keep on his feet, gets hit—even when he is down.—Greensboro Record.

BIG SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST

The Reflector Will Start One About November 1st.

The Reflector is planning to begin a subscription contest about the first of November that is going to be something worth getting in. Details are not all completed yet, but have progressed far enough for us to make advance mention of it, so as to let those likely to enter the contest be getting ready for it. This contest will be different from the one The Reflector had a year ago, in that instead of being only one prize there will be several, ranging in value from $10 to $150, the aggregate being $500. Doesn't that sound good? Five hundred dollars in prizes to be given away in a short while, and they are going to be easy to win.

When the announcement is made of what the leading prizes are to be, there are going to be some very anxious people to win them, and they will be worth doing some earnest hustling to win.

This is enough to say this time, but just keep your eye open for the beginning of the contest and be ready to start with it and be a winner.

VISIT OF FORMER PASTOR.

Rev. J. E. Ayscue Delights Large Congregation Sunday.

Rev. J. E. Ayscue, who has been in the west for the last two years and is now back in North Carolina for a time, spent Sunday here and occupied the pulpit of the Memorial Baptist church both morning and evening. Mr. Ayscue was formerly pastor of this church, and the esteem in which he is held here was shown in the large congregations that attended the services Sunday. At the night services many members of the local lodge of Red Men attended in a body. Mr. Ayscue having been a member of the lodge here. He expressed himself as being more than glad to make this visit to Greenville.

HUNT FOR MISSING BALLOON

Hundred Thousand People Engaged in Search.

Ottawa, Canada, Oct. 24.—The most gigantic organized search in the history of North America is in full swing throughout northeastern Canada for Allen Hawley and Augustus Post, occupants of the missing balloon, America II. A hundred thousand persons are in the vast hunt for the balloon, which left St. Louis last Monday and has not definitely been heard from since. America II. is the only balloon now missing, the Swiss balloon Czarea having been landed near Bischofing, Ontario.

Interesting for Comparison.

It is interesting to compare the workings of English justice with that of American, or the progress made in the courts of England as compared with the courts of United States. With this idea in view it then becomes interesting to note the speed in bringing to trial Dr. Crippen and the conduct of the case. For a speedy trial England passes and surpasses this country, where trials are delayed not only often, but long. All kinds of twists are resorted to and technicalities taken advantage of in order to delay the trial of an alleged felon, especially if there is plenty of money behind him. The case of Charlton is taking a long course. There is no complicated question to be solved, though it is a serious one, being just as much importance to society as to Charlton and his family, however. Yet weeks have already elapsed and there is no final decision. This case has not been settled in this country, and the trial of Dr. Crippen, whose case is little older than the Charlton crime. Is well under way in London. The quickness and the sureness with which England moved in capturing Crippen and his companion and the rapidity with which he has been brought to trial is indeed wholesome. The conduct of the case has not been sufficiently developed as yet to draw a comparison, but in the quickness with which a jury was obtained, one being selected in a few hours, the trial is far ahead of any big murder trial ever held in this country. It generally takes days to get a jury in the United States. So, as far as it has progressed, the conduct of the Crippen case teaches a wholesome lesson to this country. It shows up much better for justice. The only apparent similarity in this trial and some in the United States wild curiosity, especially on the part of those who rush to the court room.—Wilmington Dispatch

FROM MEXICO AGAIN.

Correspondent Returns From Long Trip and Resumes Work.

Ciudad de Valles, S. L. P., Mexico, October 17, 1910.

Editor Reflector:

Quite a time has elapsed since I wrote. I left Texas, respectfully the United States, and am once more back in the Sierra Madre mountains, and at home in my mountain retreat.

When I came back, I found a great change. The whole country from Tampico to this place and to San Diguilts, i. e., the whole Huasteca Valley, 86 miles long and from 10 to 20 miles and more wide is in the hands of Americans, partly settlers and partly speculators. Here in this little city of about 3,000 inhabitants there are a dozen land offices of agents of different companies. Nearly every train brings people here from Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, even Minnesota, with the intention of buying land. A great many have bought when one walks through the streets of this antique little city he hears the English language spoken everywhere.

In one of my letters I mentioned that when people from the United States want to come here to buy lands, they ought to be on their lookout and beware of the land agents, and to buy from original owners (Mexicans or Spanish).

One can see here at present corn fields with ripe corn, corn in tassels (planted in July) and corn knee high, planted three or four weeks ago.

Bananas, oranges, lemons, coconuts and, in fact, all tropical fruits, are grown here in abundance and to perfection. Also pears, apples, plums. The woods are full of huckleberry shrubs, six to eight feet high. One will find bananas and oranges growing wild; every day I get my bananas about a quarter of a mile from my house, out in the woods.

The rainy season is over—rainy season means that it rains in showers every day, an hour or two, then the skies clear up, the sun shines clear and bright. Now we have the finest weather. We live under a deep blue Italian or Spanish sky. The heat is far less than in Texas; the nights are cool and pleasant; one needs a blanket to cover oneself.

I missed The Reflector ever so much. Since I left Delina I did not get it any more.

I must close, for I am very busy now setting everything in order, planting and sowing garden seeds, in short turning the wilderness again into a little paradise. One has no idea of the luxurious growth of weeds and bushes when one was several months away. I wish success to The Reflector.

Death of Mrs. W. H. Gould.

On Friday, October 21, 1910, the blessed Lord removed from our midst our dear beloved sister, Mrs. Hennie Gould, wife of Mr. W. H. Gould, who died with heart trouble. Our neighborhood has lost a dear friend. Reedy Branch church has lost a faithful member. But the Lord knoweth all things best. She leaves a husband and four children, mother, brother, sister and friends to mourn for her. Comfort the family and help them to the nearer to Thee, so as to meet their mother and wife in heaven.

A FRIEND.

Mr. W. E. Hooker has returned from a trip in Georgia.

BALLOON STILL MISSING.

Searches Baffled in Efforts to Locate Lost Men.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Searchers for the missing balloon, America 11, and its occupants, Alton Hawley and Angus Post, were still baffled today in their search. Absolutely nothing has been found to indicate the locality in which they may be found. An expedition will soon start from Quebec to search for the men. About the only hope is that when they came down they fell in with Canadian hunters, there being lots of these in the woods at this season.

Rochdale Items.

Rochdale, N. C., Oct. 26.—Messrs. Leon and Johnnie Tyson, of Renston, were in our section Thursday night, visiting relatives.

The Democratic candidates had their public speaking at Arthur last Tuesday evening and had a barbecue dinner.

Messrs. Lloyd Smith and Haywood Smith went to the fair at Raleigh Thursday and returned Friday night.

Misses Agnes Tribby, Nannie and Carrie Belle Smith, and Messrs. Mark Smith and J. R. Smith went to the State fair at Raleigh Thursday morning, and Miss Rebecca Evans went Saturday morning. All returned Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Smith attended the yearly meeting at Marlboro Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Tyson, of Renston, were visiting his brother, Mr. Joel Tyson, Saturday.

Rev. S. W. Sumrell attended his regular appointment at Smith's school house Sunday and preached good sermons morning and at night. He is helping to work on the Christian church at Arthur this week.

Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn and son, Melton, went to visit her sister, Mrs. C. L. Tyson, Monday.

Our section was represented at three Sunday schools Sunday evening. Some went to the Allen school house, some to the Nichols school house, and some to Arthur.

Mr. A. J. Flanagan, of Farmville, came over Monday morning and took Misses Martha Belle and Jessie Smith over here to visit relatives for a few days.

Miss Myrtle Flanagan, of Farmville, is visiting at Mr. Mills Smith's this week.

We want everybody to remember the bazaar at Smith's school house, Friday night, and come and help a good cause. It is to help build the Christian church at Arthur.

Renston Items.

Renston, N. C., Oct. 24.—Miss Bessie Barnhill spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Chas. McGlohorn.

Mr. C. H. Langston returned from Durham and Raleigh last night. Miss Rosalie Dail spent Saturday with friends in Ayden.

Miss Pearl Dixon, of Ormondsville, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Fannie Holton.

Messrs. Herman and Dennis McGlohorn, Misses Eva Langston, Annie and Norma McGlohorn attended the fair in Raleigh last week.

There will be a Halloween party at Pierce's school house Monday night October 31st. The public is invited.

Dennis McGlohorn's acre of corn measured 92 1-2 bushels. Who can beat that?

CANDIDATE FOR JUDGE.

Is Found Guilty of Improper Conduct.

Zenobia Walsler is the Republican candidate for Superior court judge. This is the same Zenobia who took money from E. E. Teague of Davidson county, to procure a position as rural delivery carrier. At the time said Teague agreed to pay Walsler $150 to get him a job as rural mail carrier. Walsler's brother, Joseph, was postmaster at Lexington, and his brother Zeb was—and is—a big-bug in Republican politics. Teague says he was induced to sign a note to pay for this improper service "through misrepresentation of plaintiff" (Zenobia Walsler) and his brother Z. V. Walsler, and Joseph G. Walsler, postmaster at Lexington, in that they represented to him that the plaintiff's said law firm could secure him said office (rural delivery carrier) by their political pull with the government of the United States.

Teague paid Walsler $50 in cash and gave him a note for $100. Later he got this job, but he came to the conclusion that he got it through the civil service examination and not because of Walsler's "pull with the government of the United States." In fact, to pay an attorney money to get a civil service job is contrary to public policy. When this note became due Teague refused to pay the note. Walsler met Teague. The case went into the Justice's court and Teague won. When all the facts came out that Walsler, a big Republican, charged an applicant for rural delivery $150 to get him a job and that he was aided by Postmaster Walsler and Brother Zebulon—when the public got these facts, Zebulon dropped the case against Teague like a hot potato.—Raleigh News and Observer.

IN THE CORN CONTESTS.

Boys Winning in Their Own Class—Also Beat the Men

The boys of North Carolina are the real articles. They have not alone won big prizes for themselves in corn contests, but have beaten out the "daddies" of the state.

The department of Agriculture offered some nice cash premiums to the boys for the best twenty ears of corn and six stalks with ears of corn, these to be shown at the state fair, and there were three prize winners.

J. P. Lewis, of Reedy Branch, Wilkes county, won the first prize of $100. The second prize, $50 was won by Vester Blalock, of Norwood, Stanley county, and the third prize of $25 by Raymond Hill, of Lexington.

For the best ten ears of corn a boy beat out the men, with whom he entered into competition. In this contest, with a prize of $2.00 the prize went to Shirley Schoolfield, of Guilford, and the winner of the prize for the best single ear of corn raised in the state was awarded to Exum Goodman, of Apex, R. F. D. 3. This shows that the older farmers will have to get a move on themselves.—Releigh News and Observer.

Dr Hyatt Coming.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha Monday and Tuesday, November 7th and 8th, for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses.

MURDERER BROUGHT TO PRISON.

One Colored Man Kills Another At Farmville.

Chief of Police T. H. Smith, of Farmville, today brought Claude Vines, colored, here and turned him over to the sheriff, under a commitment without bail from the mayor of Farmville, on the charge of murder. Vines will be sent on to the jail in Kinston to be held there until the next term of Pitt Superior court.

On Saturday night several negroes were in a building together in Farmville. Ossi Johnson asked Vines to give him a cigarette. Vines asked another negro to hand him a pistol, and pointing the weapon at Johnson said "take that," and pulled the trigger. The ball struck Johnson in the neck, and he died Monday morning.

HAD TO USE CLUB.

Policeman Clark Pulled a Bad Negro, Monday Night.

Monday night Policeman George Clark captured a negro named Silas Ross in the mill section beyond the Norfolk Southern railroad. Ross came here from Danville recently, and was not long in opening his trade of stealing taking a gun and some other things that belonged to another negro. The officer took a pistol off the negro when making the arrest, but on his way down to the lock up the negro showed resistance and had to be clubbed.

Back at Work.

Mr. C. F. Pilley, the Linotype operator on The Reflector, who has been off for a week with a bone felon on his index finger, was able to get back at the machine today. His finger is yet game and stiff, but he hopes it will not interfere with his work any longer.

CATARRH GERMS.

Move Out When Hyomei Moves In.

No stomach cooling. HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) is made from the highest grade of eucalyptus, taken from the eucalyptus forest of Australia, and combined with the excellent antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.

In inland Australia the atmosphere is so impregnated with balsam thrown out by the eucalyptus trees that germs cannot live, and in consequence catarrh and consumption are unknown. Breathe HYOMEI and get the very same pleasant, healing, germ-killing, air as you would get in the eucalyptus forests and kill the germs.

HYOMEI is sold by Coward & Wood, druggists everywhere, at $1.00 a complete outfit.

An outfit consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use. The inhaler will last a lifetime, but bear in mind if you need another bottle of HYOMEI you can get it at druggists for only 50c at any time. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup and throat troubles, or money back. Trial sample of Hyomei free to readers of The Reflector. Address Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM MEXICO

MISS LAURA COX WRITES OF HER WORK THERE

MISSIONARY SCHOOL AT GUAYMAS

This Pitt County Women Sends Greetings to Her Friends at Home—Interesting Notes on Life and Habits Across the Borders in The Mexican Country.

Guaymas, Mexico, Oct. 26, 1910.

Dear Reflector:

Many times have my thoughts gone back to dear old Pitt since I left its borders. "There is no place like home," has been so truly said. I have been trying to get time to write to you for more than a week, but every minute has its place on a missionary field.

I have found the Mexican people in Guaymas a very progressive people. They live here very much like they do in the States. I'll say for the benefit of the ladies, that they, too, wear puffs, rats, etc., in their hair. That was one of the first things I noticed with the women. They do not wear hats very much. Some of the girls do, but most all the older women wear silk scarfs of bright colors and black. Their clothing is very much like our own.

Now for the benefit of the men, let me say that we have a goodly number of "dudes" while there are others who dress like most American men. Very few wear the Sombrero (the large spiral shaped crown) that they have so common in the interior.

The natives as a whole seem to be what we would call the second class, however we have some very intelligent families. One patron of our school is a doctor and seems to know his profession very well indeed. We have other wealthy families represented. The line between the rich and poor is very distinctly drawn, which of course is very unfortunate.

We opened school October 3rd, with forty-one pupils, we now have seventy

two. This to us is very encouraging. We have many bright hopes for the future.

Our home is on the gulf of Doan, California, so you see we get the gulf breezes all the time. For once in my career I am sleeping with the starry heavens as my blanket. A goodly number of the Mexicans sleep on the top of their houses, but I thought may be it would be a little risky for me to do that, so I am sleeping in the upper porch. The days are oppressive at times, but most of the nights are delightful. Just think of seeing flowers all the year.

Some of my friends have asked me about the fruit. No, we are not in the midst of the fruit belt, but we are close enough to get it when we want it. That is one of the blessings we have. I said onc, but not the only one, no, not by any means, for they are numberless.

Oh, I must tell you about our "outing" on the Pacific. There is a missionary and his wife by the name of "Marrs," living in the building with us (that is one of the greatest blessings I have, for they are lovely to me) and on October 2th, they chartered a boat and took us out for a sail. What a treat! My, it was perfectly glorious to sail on the bosom of such a mighty body of water. We crossed the bay, went out to a rock cave and while there gathered star fish. After spending about an hour there we sailed around the point and went over to a bank and gathered some of the most beautiful coral and shells I have ever seen.

The time came all too soon to return, so we very reluctantly sailed homeward. On our way home Mr. Marrs and I fished. He and I made a bargain which was, he was to catch the fish and I was to cook it and his wife to be the guest. The bargain was all there was to it (though we did not get a bite. I had the pleasure of seeing him try, just the same. On the whole we enjoyed the afternoon immensely.

The people here are very anxious to have their children learn English, so I am trying to teach that while I am learning their language. It's a difficult task tho', at times for the dear little boys and girls know only their native tongue, and I in turn know only mine. However,

HANDSOME, UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT

HALLOWE'EN AT THE TRAINING SCHOOL

Y. W. C. A.'S BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Many Attractive Features in Evidence—Numerous Ghosts, Witches Amusement—Artistic Decorations and Elaborate Banquet Followed With Appropriate Speeches

Greenville has never had a more unique and interesting entertainment of any kind than the Halloween party given Monday night under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian association of East Carolina Teachers' Training school that portion of the administration building set apart for the entertainment was transformed into a veritable abode of witches, ghosts and spooks.

The color scheme of the decorations were yellow and black, and there were features of these everywhere, with a mingling of autumn leaves, all kinds of lanterns, pumpkin heads, black cats, bats and owls. A niche in the society hall was a bank of cotton plants with open bolls, stalks of corn and pumpkin heads through whose grinning faces lights shone.

When the ghosts appeared about 8.30 o'clock there was a ring of merriment throughout the building, and the fun of the evening began in earnest. There were ghosts, witches, red devils, black cats, leathwe talk by signs and pictures and in that way learn a few things. I have one boy who did not know one word of English and before the close of the third day was saying, "May I get water," "may I get knife," etc. Now what do you think of that?

Well, I hope I have not wearied you for the first time and I shall try to give you something more interesting next time.

Your missionary,

LAURA COX.

er winged bats, the big fat man and mother goose, all most appropriately costumed. These afforded immense amusement to the hundreds of students and faculty.

There were numerous booths, that were liberally patronized. In a corner of the society room was a handsomely decorated candy booth presided over by Misses Ellie Brown and Mary Rawls. Huyler the famous candy man, made a donation for this booth.

In the same room were the prize cakes, three in number, in charge of Miss Minnie Best Dail. Each cake contained a ring, a thimble, a dime, a penny and a collar button, each having a significance to whom should find it in their slice of cake.

There was also in this room the wonderful Jack Horner pie just teeming with all kinds of novelties. This was in charge of Miss Ethel Outlaw and Miss Lillie Bunting.

In one end of the hall was a flower booth, presided over by Miss Lillie Tucker.

In a nook at the head of a stairway was a witches' den where Misses Mary Cotton Johnson, Rosa Guthrie, and Eula Savage told fortunes.

A very amusing feature was a potato race which took place in the hall, and there were many contestants for the prizes. The first prize was won by Miss Margaret Blow who made 30 yards and return in 3-8 of a minute.

At 10 o'clock the dining room was thrown open and here was the most entrancing scene of the entertainment. The decorations here carried out the Halloween idea both in color and design. Each table with places for six, was covered with black and yellow runners, ornamented with cats and witches and owls, while the napkins had pumpkins and bats in the centre of each table from a tripod of miniature brooms hung a witches pot in which were nut conundrums for each occupant of the table. A tiny yellow ribbon fastened to the nut extended to the edge of the table and on the other end was the place card designating who was to occupy each seat. The place cards were hand painted and the work of Miss Mamie Williams, who showed wonderful skill in decorating them with all manner of Halloween designs.
