Correspondent Returns From Long Trip and Resumes Work.

Ciudad de Valles, S. L. P., Mexico, October 17, 1910.

Editor Reflector:

Quite a time has elapsed since I wrote. I left Texas, respectfully the United States, and am once more back in the Sierra Madre mountains, and at home in my mountain retreat.

When I came back, I found a great change. The whole country from Tampico to this place and to San Dignis, i. e., the whole Huasteca Valley, 86 miles long and from 10 to 20 miles and more wide is in the hands of Americans, partly settlers and partly speculators. Here in this little city of about 3,000 inhabitants there are a dozen land offices of agents of different companies. Nearly every train brings people here from Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, even Minnesota, with the intention of buying land. A great many have bought when one walks through the streets of this antique little city he hears the English language spoken everywhere.

In one of my letters I mentioned that when people from the United States want to come here to buy lands, they ought to be on their lookout and beware of the land agents, and to buy from original owners (Mexicans or Spanish).

One can see here at present corn fields with ripe corn, corn in tassels (planted in July) and corn knee high, planted three or four weeks ago.

Bananas, oranges, lemons, coconuts and, in fact, all tropical fruits, are grown here in abundance and to perfection. Also pears, apples, plums. The woods are full of huckleberry shrubs, six to eight feet high. One will find bananas and oranges growing wild; every day I get my bananas about a quarter of a mile from my house, out in the woods.

The rainy season is over—rainy season means that it rains in showers every day, an hour or two, then the skies clear up, the sun shines clear and bright. Now we have the finest weather. We live under a deep blue Italian or Spanish sky. The heat is far less than in Texas; the nights are cool and pleasant; one needs a blanket to cover oneself.

I missed The Reflector ever so much. Since I left Delina I did not get it any more.

I must close, for I am very busy now setting everything in order, planting and sowing garden seeds, in short turning the wilderness again into a little paradise. One has no idea of the luxurious growth of weeds and bushes when one was several months away. I wish success to The Reflector.

Death of Mrs. W. H. Gould.

On Friday, October 21, 1910, the blessed Lord removed from our midst our dear beloved sister, Mrs. Hennie Gould, wife of Mr. W. H. Gould, who died with heart trouble. Our neighborhood has lost a dear friend. Reedy Branch church has lost a faithful member. But the Lord knoweth all things best. She leaves a husband and four children, mother, brother, sister and friends to mourn for her. Comfort the family and help them to the nearer to Thee, so as to meet their mother and wife in heaven.

A FRIEND.

Mr. W. E. Hooker has returned from a trip in Georgia.

Searches Baffled in Efforts to Locate Lost Men.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Searchers for the missing balloon, America 11, and its occupants, Alton Hawley and Angus Post, were still baffled today in their search. Absolutely nothing has been found to indicate the locality in which they may be found. An expedition will soon start from Quebec to search for the men. About the only hope is that when they came down they fell in with Canadian hunters, there being lots of these in the woods at this season.

CANDIDATE FOR JUDGE.

Is Found Guilty of Improper Conduct.

Zenobia Walsler is the Republican candidate for Superior court judge. This is the same Zenobia who took money from E. E. Teague of Davidson county, to procure a position as rural delivery carrier. At the time said Teague agreed to pay Walsler $150 to get him a job as rural mail carrier. Walsler's brother, Joseph, was postmaster at Lexington, and his brother Zeb was—and is—a big-bug in Republican politics. Teague says he was induced to sign a note to pay for this improper service "through misrepresentation of plaintiff" (Zenobia Walsler) and his brother Z. V. Walsler, and Joseph G. Walsler, postmaster at Lexington, in that they represented to him that the plaintiff's said law firm could secure him said office (rural delivery carrier) by their political pull with the government of the United States.

Teague paid Walsler $50 in cash and gave him a note for $100. Later he got this job, but he came to the conclusion that he got it through the civil service examination and not because of Walsler's "pull with the government of the United States." In fact, to pay an attorney money to get a civil service job is contrary to public policy. When this note became due Teague refused to pay the note. Walsler met Teague. The case went into the Justice's court and Teague won. When all the facts came out that Walsler, a big Republican, charged an applicant for rural delivery $150 to get him a job and that he was aided by Postmaster Walsler and Brother Zebulon—when the public got these facts, Zebulon dropped the case against Teague like a hot potato.—Raleigh News and Observer.

IN THE CORN CONTESTS.

Boys Winning in Their Own Class—Also Beat the Men

The boys of North Carolina are the real articles. They have not alone won bog prizes for themselves in corn contests, but have beaten out the "daddies" of the state.

The department of Agriculture offered some nice cash premiums to the boys for the best twenty ears of corn and six stalks with ears of corn, these to be shown at the state fair, and there were three prize winners.

J. P. Lewis, of Reedy Branch, Wilkes county, won the first prize of $100. The second prize, $50 was won by Vester Blalock, of Norwood, Stanley county, and the third prize of $25 by Raymond Hill, of Lexington.

For the best ten ears of corn a boy beat out the men, with whom he entered into competition. In this contest, with a prize of $2.00 the prize went to Shirley Schoolfield, of Guilford, and the winner of the prize for the best single ear of corn raised in the state was awarded to Exum Goodman, of Apex, R. F. D. 3. This shows that the older farmers will have to get a move on themselves.—Releigh News and Observer.

Dr Hyatt Coming.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha Monday and Tuesday, November 7th and 8th, for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses.

MURDERER BROUGHT TO PRISON.

One Colored Man Kills Another At Farmville.

Chief of Police T. H. Smith, of Farmville, today brought Claude Vines, colored, here and turned him over to the sheriff, under a commitment without bail from the mayor of Farmville, on the charge of murder. Vines will be sent on to the jail in Kinston to be held there until the next term of Pitt Superior court.

On Saturday night several negroes were in a building together in Farmville. Ossi Johnson asked Vines to give him a cigarette. Vines asked another negro to hand him a pistol, and pointing the weapon at Johnson said "take that," and pulled the trigger. The ball struck Johnson in the neck, and he died Monday morning.

HAD TO USE CLUB.

Policeman Clark Pulled a Bad Negro, Monday Night.

Monday night Policeman George Clark captured a negro named Silas Ross in the mill section beyond the Norfolk Southern railroad. Ross came here from Danville recently, and was not long in opening his trade of stealing taking a gun and some other things that belonged to another negro. The officer took a pistol off the negro when making the arrest, but on his way down to the lock up the negro showed resistance and had to be clubbed.

Back at Work.

Mr. C. F. Pilley, the Linotype operator on The Reflector, who has been off for a week with a bone felon on his index finger, was able to get back at the machine today. His finger is yet game and stiff, but he hopes it will not interfere with his work any longer.

CATARRH GERMS.

No stomach aching, HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-mee) is made from the highest grade of eucalyptus, taken from the eucalyptus forest of Australia, and combined with the excellent antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.

Breathe HYOMEI and get the very same pleasant, healing, germ-killing, air as you would get in the eucalyptus forests and kill the germs.

HYOMEI is sold by Coward & Wood, druggists everywhere, at $1.00 a complete outfit.

An outfit consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use. The inhaler will last a lifetime, but bear in mind if you need another bottle of HYOMEI you can get it at druggists for only 50c at any time. ## INTERESTING LETTER FROM MEXICO

MISS LAURA COX WRITES OF HER WORK THERE

MISSIONARY SCHOOL AT GUAYMAS

This Pitt County Women Sends Greetings to Her Friends at Home—Interesting Notes on Life and Habits Across the Borders in The Mexican Country.

Guaymas, Mexico, Oct. 26, 1910.

Dear Reflector:

Many times have my thoughts gone back to dear old Pitt since I left its borders. "There is no place like home," has been so truly said. I have been trying to get time to write to you for more than a week, but every minute has its place on a missionary field.

I have found the Mexican people in Guaymas a very progressive people. They live here very much like they do in the States. I'll say for the benefit of the ladies, that they, too, wear puffs, rats, etc., in their hair. That was one of the first things I noticed with the women. They do not wear hats very much. Some of the girls do, but most all the older women wear silk scarfs of bright colors and black. Their clothing is very much like our own.

Now for the benefit of the men, let me say that we have a goodly number of "dudes" while there are others who dress like most American men. Very few wear the Sombrero (the large spiral shaped crown) that they have so common in the interior.

The natives as a whole seem to be what we would call the second class, however we have some very intelligent families. One patron of our school is a doctor and seems to know his profession very well indeed. We have other wealthy families represented. The line between the rich and poor is very distinctly drawn, which of course is very unfortunate.

We opened school October 3rd, with forty-one pupils, we now have seventy

two. This to us is very encouraging. We have many bright hopes for the future.

Our home is on the gulf of Doan, California, so you see we get the gulf breezes all the time. For once in my career I am sleeping with the starry heavens as my blanket. A goodly number of the Mexicans sleep on the top of their houses, but I thought may be it would be a little risky for me to do that, so I am sleeping in the upper porch. The days are oppressive at times, but most of the nights are delightful. Just think of seeing flowers all the year.

Some of my friends have asked me about the fruit. No, we are not in the midst of the fruit belt, but we are close enough to get it when we want it. That is one of the blessings we have. I said onc, but not the only one, no, not by any means, for they are numberless.

Oh, I must tell you about our "outing" on the Pacific. There is a missionary and his wife by the name of "Marrs," living in the building with us (that is one of the greatest blessings I have, for they are lovely to me) and on October 2th, they chartered a boat and took us out for a sail. What a treat! My, it was perfectly glorious to sail on the bosom of such a mighty body of water. We crossed the bay, went out to a rock cave and while there gathered star fish. After spending about an hour there we sailed around the point and went over to a bank and gathered some of the most beautiful coral and shells I have ever seen.

The time came all too soon to return, so we very reluctantly sailed homeward. On our way home Mr. Marrs and I fished. He and I made a bargain which was, he was to catch the fish and I was to cook it and his wife to be the guest. The bargain was all there was to it (though we did not get a bite. I had the pleasure of seeing him try, just the same. On the whole we enjoyed the afternoon immensely.

The people here are very anxious to have their children learn English, so I am trying to teach that while I am learning their language. It's a difficult task tho', at times for the dear little boys and girls know only their native tongue, and I in turn know only mine. However,

HANDSOME, UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT

HALLOWE'EN AT THE TRAINING SCHOOL

Y. W. C. A'S BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Many Attractive Features in Evidence—Numerous Ghosts, Witches Amusement—Artistic Decorations and Elaborate Banquet Followed With Appropriate Speeches

Greenville has never had a more unique and interesting entertainment of any kind than the Halloween party given Monday night under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian association of East Carolina Teachers' Training school that portion of the administration building set apart for the entertainment was transformed into a veritable abode of witches, ghosts and spooks.

The color scheme of the decorations were yellow and black, and there were features of these everywhere, with a mingling of autumn leaves, all kinds of lanterns, pumpkin heads, black cats, bats and owls. A niche in the society hall was a bank of cotton plants with open bolls, stalks of corn and pumpkin heads through whose grinning faces lights shone.

When the ghosts appeared about 8.30 o'clock there was a ring of merriment throughout the building, and the fun of the evening began in earnest. There were ghosts, witches, red devils, black cats, leather winged bats, the big fat man and mother goose, all most appropriately costumed. These afforded immense amusement to the hundreds of students and faculty.

There were numerous booths, that were liberally patronized. In a corner of the society room was a handsomely decorated candy booth presided over by Misses Ellie Brown and Mary Rawls. Huyler the famous candy man, made a donation for this booth.

In the same room were the prize cakes, three in number, in charge of Miss Minnie Best Dail. Each cake contained a ring, a thimble, a dime, a penny and a collar button, each having a significance to whom should find it in their slice of cake.

There was also in this room the wonderful Jack Horner pie just teeming with all kinds of novelties. This was in charge of Miss Ethel Outlaw and Miss Lillie Bunting.

In one end of the hall was a flower booth, presided over by Miss Lillie Tucker. In a nook at the head of a stairway was a witches' den where Misses Mary Cotton Johnson, Rosa Guthrie, and Eula Savage told fortunes.

A very amusing feature was a potato race which took place in the hall, and there were many contestants for the prizes. The first prize was won by Miss Margaret Blow who made 30 yards and return in 3-8 of a minute.

At 10 o'clock the dining room was thrown open and here was the most entrancing scene of the entertainment. The decorations here carried out the Halloween idea both in color and design. Each table with places for six, was covered with black and yellow runners, ornamented with cats and witches and owls, while the napkins had pumpkins and bats. In the centre of each table from a tripod of miniature brooms hung a witches' pot in which were nut conundrums for each occupant of the table. A tiny yellow ribbon fastened to the nut extended to the edge of the table and on the other end was the place card designating who was to occupy each seat. The place cards were hand painted and the work of Miss Mamie Williams, who showed wonderful skill in decorating them with all manner of Halloween designs.

Your missionary,

two. This to us is very encouraging. We have many bright hopes for the future.

Our home is on the gulf of Doan, California, so you see we get the gulf breezes all the time. For once in my career I am sleeping with the starry heavens as my blanket. A goodly number of the Mexicans sleep on the top of their houses, but I thought may be it would be a little risky for me to do that, so I am sleeping in the upper porch. The days are oppressive at times, but most of the nights are delightful. Just think of seeing flowers all the year.

Some of my friends have asked me about the fruit. No, we are not in the midst of the fruit belt, but we are close enough to get it when we want it. That is one of the blessings we have. I said once, but not the only one, no, not by any means, for they are numberless.

Oh, I must tell you about our "outing" on the Pacific. There is a missionary and his wife by the name of "Marrs," living in the building with us (that is one of the greatest blessings I have, for they are lovely to me) and on October 18th, they chartered a boat and took us out for a sail. What a treat! My, it was perfectly glorious to sail on the bosom of such a mighty body of water. We crossed the bay, went out to a rock cave and while there gathered star fish. After spending about an hour there we sailed around the point and went over to a bank and gathered some of the most beautiful coral and shells I have ever seen.

The time came all too soon to return, so we very reluctantly sailed homeward. On our way home Mr. Marrs and I fished. He and I made a bargain which was, he was to catch the fish and I was to cook it and his wife to be the guest. The bargain was all there was to it though we did not get a bite. I had the pleasure of seeing him try, just the same. On the whole we enjoyed the afternoon immensely.

The people here are very anxious to have their children learn English, so I am trying to teach that while I am learning their language.

It's a difficult task tho', at times for the dear little boys and girls know only their native tongue, and I in turn know only mine. However, we talk by signs and pictures and in that way learn a few things. I have one boy who did not know one word of English and before the close of the third day was saying, "May I get water," "may I get knife," etc. Now what do you think of that?

Well, I hope I have not wearied you for the first time and I shall try to give you something more interesting next time.

Your missionary,
LAURA COX.

HANDSOME, UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT

HALLOWE'EN AT THE TRAINING

Y. W. C. A'S BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Many Attractive Features in Evidence—Numerous Ghosts, Witches Amusement—Artistic Decorations and Elaborate Banquet Followed With Appropriate Speeches

Greenville has never had a more unique and interesting entertainment of any kind than the Hallowe'en party given Monday night under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian association of East Carolina teachers' Training school. That portion of the administration building set apart for the entertainment was transformed into a veritable abode of witches, ghosts and spooks.

The color scheme of the decorations were yellow and black, and there were features of these everywhere, with a mingling of autumn leaves, all kinds of lanterns, pumpkin heads, black cats, bats and owls. A nich in the society hall was a bank of cotton plants with open bolls, stalks of corn and pumpkin heads through whose grinning faces lights shone.

When the ghosts appeared about 8.30 o'clock there was a ring of merriment throughout the building, and the fun of the evening began in earnest. There were ghosts, witches, red devils, black cats, leather winged bats, the big fat man and mother goose, all most appropriately costumed. These afforded immense amusement to the hundreds of students and faculty.

There were numerous booths, that were liberally patronized. In a corner of the society room was a handsomely decorated candy booth presided over by Misses Ellie Brown and Mary Rawls. Huyler the famous candy man, made a donation for this booth.

In the same room were the prize cakes, three in number, in charge of Miss Minnie Best Dail. Each cake contained a ring, a thimble, a dime, a penny and a collar button, each having a significance to whom should find it in their slice of cake.

There was also in this room the wonderful Jack Horner pie just teeming with all kinds of novelties. This was in charge of Miss Ethel Outlaw and Miss Lillie Bunting.

In one end of the hall was a flower booth, presided over by Miss Lillie Tucker.

In a nook at the head of a stairway was a witches' den where Misses Mary Cotton Johnson, Rosa Guthrie, and Eula Savage told fortunes.

A very amusing feature was a potato race which took place in the hall, and there were many contestants for the prizes. The first prize was won by Miss Margaret Blow who made 30 yards and return in 3-8 of a minute.

At 10 o'clock the dining room was thrown open and here was the most entrancing scene of the entertainment. The decorations here carried out the Hallowe'en idea both in color and design. Each table with places for six, was covered with black and yellow runners, ornamented with cats and witches and owls, while the napkins had pumpkins and bats. In the centre of each table from a tripod of miniature brooms hung a witches pot in which were nut conundrums for each occupant of the table. A tiny yellow ribbon fastened to the nut extended to the edge of the table and on the other end was the place card designating who was to occupy each seat. The place cards were hand painted and the work of Miss Mamie Williams, who showed wonderful skill in decorating them with all manner of Hallowe'en designs.

CITIZENS HOLD A MASS MEETING

Take a Decided Stand for Morality and Civic Righteousness

ACTION OF THE OFFICERS ENDORSED

Strong Speeches Made by Several Prominent Citizens - Resolutions Expressing Sentiment of People Adopted by Rising Vote - Prohibition Given Renewed Strength.

There was truly a representative gathering of citizens at the mass meeting in the town hall, Friday night, and it did credit to the town and the cause for which the meeting was held. All professions, trades and callings among our citizens were represented, and the assembly filled the hall. It showed that Greenville had become aroused on the question of civic righteousness, and that the law abiding people of the community had determined to put an end to the flagrant lawlessness that has prevailed here. The purpose of the meeting was to give moral support to and express approval of the steps taken by the officers of the town to stop the illegal sale of liquor, and this was done in no uncertain or unmistakable tones.

Mr. J. G. Moye called the meeting to order, briefly stating its object, and moved that ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis be made chairman. Upon talking the chair Governor Jarvis made one of his characteristic strong speeches. Always having stood for morality and righteousness and devoting his life to help others, he declared that he wanted in the remaining short time he had to live to do all he could to save our boys and girls. A town is just what its citizens want it to be and he was glad to see the determination of those present in this meeting that Greenville shall take a higher stand in civic righteousness. The people of Pitt county voted by a thousand majority for prohibition and for several months after prohibition went into effect, it was rare to see a drunken person on the streets of Greenville. As time went on, through the advent of near-beer saloons and blind tigers this changed, until drunken people were as numerous as in the days of bar-rooms. We are to blame for setting still and allowing this to go on, and he was glad the people had moved to change this condition.

Rev. J. H. Shore was the next speaker. He was glad to see that there are men in Greenville and not mere angle worms who go around calling themselves men. The danger in reformatory movements was in allowing sentiment to lag after it has been started, and he wanted to see this meeting develop a sentiment for righteousness that will be abiding. We must stand together solidly and see that evils are driven out. The offenders against prohibition laws are mainly negroes and a few white men who are using them for gain. We must get these white men and put them in stripes on the roads if they continue these violations. Close every near-beer saloon and you take a forward step in stopping the sale of liquor.

Mr. F. C. Harding spoke next and said he was glad to see every class of our citizens represented in this meeting, and glad that they were standing together. When a moral issue is at stake it is the duty of every man to stand by it. When it was known that the warrants had been issued for these blind tiger cases, he heard a man remark that "there was not a lawyer in Greenville but who, for a $5 fee, would take up their defense." He was proud to say that there are lawyers in Greenville who would not for any consideration defend such offenders. (Great applause) At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Harding introduced the resolutions which are published herewith.

Mr. E. A. Moye, sr., seconded the resolution. He said he had always been on the side of temperance and morality, and wanted to see every man put his shoulder to the wheel and help to carry on the good work of driving lawlessness out of Greenville.

Mr. Albion Dunn said he wanted to add further testimony that there were lawyers in Greenville who would not defend a blind tiger. He never had and never would. He told a joke about a man who with a stick began beating a huge boa constrictor snake in a menagerie, when the owner interfered with the information that the snake cost $500, to which the man replied "I don't care if it cost $1,000, I kills, a snake wherever I finds him." The application was kill a blind tiger wherever you find it.

Mr. R. H. Wright said one of the most difficult things to him was to get up and talk to people. His position was one of great responsibility, a work to uplift society and better mankind. He was comparatively a new resident of Greenville yet he wanted the people to know they could count on him when they wanted men to take a stand on the side of right. He could tell of some conditions resulting from blind tigers that his hearers did not know. Only yesterday he learned that the young ladies of the Training school were afraid to go into the park. He walked through the park to see if any cause for their fear could be discovered, and found six empty whiskey bottles that had recently been left there. The young ladies are not afraid of blind tigers, but are afraid of the men who patronize them. Blind tigers could not exist unless they were patronized. The people should assert themselves and not let this work stop with the adoption of the resolutions. A great deal depends on what we want done and how much backbone we have to see it done. Evil radiates from a centre. "White men are the centre of this blind tiger evil, and negroes are the radiators. Let us cut out the centre."

Mr. H. E. Austin said he also was a new comer to Greenville, but he wanted to show on which side he stood on questions of morality. One of the dearest recollections of his father was the positive stand the latter always took on civic righteousness, and his aim was to set the same high example before his own children. In putting the resolutions in rising vote Governor Jarvis said he hoped any man present who did not favor it, would show it by keeping his seat, as a vote for it should mean an endorsement of both the letter and the spirit of the resolutions. When the large audience came to its feet as one man on the question, Mr. F. G. James arose and said that while it is known that he is counsel for several of the blind tiger defendants, he

The Resolutions.

We, the citizens of Greenville and sections of Pitt county, contiguous thereto, in public meeting assembled October 23, 1910, do resolve:

1. That a faithful execution of the law is the surest protection to life, liberty and property and the pursuit of happiness and so believing, we demand of those in authority a strict, faithful and impartial execution of all laws without evasion or distinction.

2. That we hail with pleasure every evidence of an acknowledged public conscience and we solemnly pledge ourselves to each other to do all in our power to build up and foster a healthy public sentiment which will make it easy for public officials to execute the law and which shall make it impossible for the blind tiger or any other emissary of evil to pursue their nefarious business in our midst.

3. That we heartily endorse and commend the mayor and other town officials for the work they are doing in ferriating out and bringing to trial the violators of law, and pledge them our active support and urge them to continue this good work, till the last violator of the law has been arrested and punished.

4. That we do especially endorse the action of the mayor and aldermen in employing detectives to hunt down these blind tigers. This method has proven effective and we fully endorse it and assure the detectives employed that they shall have our co-operation and protection while doing this work to rid this community of the terrible curse of the blind tiger.

5. That while it is true that every man charged with crime is entitled to a fair trial and to be defended by counsel, yet we demand that the guilty shall not be allowed to escape through technicalities of the law and the unseemly zeal of counsel when it goes beyond reason and proper limits.

6. That we respectfully suggest to the board of aldermen that they request the mayor to follow up the cases sent on by him, to the Superior court and give to the solicitor such information and render such assistance as he may have, and that he be authorized to employ special counsel if he shall deem it necessary.

7. That we further respectfully suggest to the board of aldermen to close up all the near-beer places as soon as they can legally do so. The close up all the near-beer places as a cover for the sale of real intoxicating beer.

8. And finally we pledge ourselves to keep up this fight till we have made Greenville clean and a dangerous place for the blind tiger.

Notice.

This is to give notice that all persons are forbidden to hunt on the lands known as the Alpines lands, situate in Bethel and Belvoir townships, Pitt county, and such other lands as we have purchased and annexed thereto, except by the permission of the Eureka Lumber Company or its authorized agents.

UP TO DATE COLORS FOR EVENING GOWNS

Vivid Shades of Blue, Red, Yellow and Greens Are in Favor.

This season the evening gowns will be richer, deeper, more brilliant than they have been. The pale, washed-out pastel shades will be pushed aside by the stronger colors—glorious shades of red from vivid carmine to the deepest crimson of the Jacqueminot rose, the wonderful new violet called eveque, because it is like the purple of a bishop's vestments, the vivid parrot shades of blue and green and yellow. And against the depth and intensity of the new colors, like the raised figures on a bit of damask, the gold brocades, silver tissues and metal gauzes will stand out in splendid relief.

The fashion is still in its infancy, and it is too early to say which color or colors will hold the place of premiere importance, but it is evident already the combination of black and white will be immensely popular, and that the new shade of roses will have many flowers of its own. Blue promises well as an evening color, not in its lighter shades, but in the deeper ones that begin with the peculiar greenish blue of the turquoise matrix, run through the medium shades of Orleans, drake's neck and canard, and end in the dark in blues that are blended with black in the changeable velvets, satins and chiffons.

Pekinese stripes will be heard from before the winter is over, for they will be used quite extensively, and they can not appear without creating comment. Yellows are excellent especially in the bright shades of citron and canary, but only for the women who can wear them—a rather malicious proviso for the number is small.—Delineator.

Warehouse Closes.

The tobacco warehouse at Washington has closed for the season, the crop being so near sold that it did not justify keeping the house there open longer. For the same reason most of the smaller markets may have to close earlier this season than usual.

One Man Overlooked.

In the list of names of blind tiger defendants published yesterday, one name W. B. Higson, white, was overlooked. There were three cases against him. He was given a hearing before Mayor Wooten this morning and bound over to Superior court.

Women deserve to be loved nobly, but they take what they can get.

and give evidence in accordance with the provisions of Section 3721 of the Revisal of 1905, and amendments thereto, of what they, or either of them, may know touching the sale of intoxicating liquors, contrary to law, within said county, and touching the existence, establishment and whereabouts of gaming tables and places where intoxicating liquors are sold contrary to law, and the names and personal description of the keepers thereof, and of this subpoena make due return.

Given under my hand and seal. This the...day of...19... J. P. (Seal). For the information of the public and to put all persons on notice, I have requested the publication of the above law. Very respectfully, F. M. WOOTEN, Mayor.

HANDSOME, UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

A member of the Y. W. C. A. had charge of each table in serving the guests. The menu was most elegant and consisted of Waldorf salad, cheese sandwiches, waters, stuffed olives, pickles, ice cream and cakes.

At the conclusion of the repast there were calls for Governor Jarvis, Dr. Laughinghouse, Messrs. Wright, Wilson, Ragsdale, Austin, Meadows, Brewer, and Whichard, each of whom responded briefly and appropriately, and no doubt the young ladies felt repaid for their efforts in the handsome compliments paid them and the school by the speakers.

Then in a beautifully expressed toast offered by Mrs. Beckwith to the Y. W. C. A. the evening's pleasures came to a close.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the young ladies of the Y. W. C. A. of the school who planned and carried out this entertainment. Its perfect appropriateness to the occasion was shown in every detail, and its success entitles them to the highest credit. No institution in the State can surpass East Carolina Teachers' Training school in whatever it undertakes. The flower of East Carolina, the glory of the State, is in its student body.

Good Way to Use Hyomel for Catarrh. Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling HYOMEI (pronounce it High-me) from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Try it; it's very simple; gives quick relief and makes you breathe easier. Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a teaspoonful of HYOMEI, cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises. This method relieves that stiffness at once, and makes your head feel fine.

You can get a bottle of HYOMEI at druggists everywhere or at Coward & Wooten's for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle HYOMEI Inhaler. But bear in mind that a HYOMEI outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of HYOMEI costs $1.00.

But, as stated before, if you already own an inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI costs but 50 cents.

HYOMEI is guaranteed by Coward & Wooten and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup, or any body back. Try it on that generous basis.

THE REFLECTOR'S GREAT CONTEST

$500.00 IN PRIZES TO BE GIVEN TO THE WINNERS

VOTING WILL BEGIN NOVEMBER 10

The Leading Prizes are a Years Course in East Carolina Teachers' Training School and Two Trips to Tampa, Florida—Other Valuable District Prizes—Get Ready to Enter the contest to Win.

The Reflector takes pleasure in announcing the opening of a mammoth subscription contest in which prizes aggregating $500.00 in value are to be given to successful contestants. All of the prize details have not been fully arranged as to the bounds of districts, but we wanted the contest to open the first of November so that contestants can enter and get to work! Watch the paper from day to day and full particulars of the district prizes will be given.

The first grand prize is to be a year's course in East Carolina Teachers' Training School. It will include all actual expenses of an entire school year and railroad fare from the home of the winner to Greenville, and fare back home at the end of the season. This school being the best in North Carolina, the attractiveness of this prize is apparent and the winner will have absolutely all expenses of the session paid by The Reflector. This prize is open to everybody, boy or girl, who is eligible to enter the school.

The next two grand prizes will be 8-day trips to Tampa, Florida. These trips will be made on the Atlantic Coast Line's elegant Florida trains and will include all actual expense of the winners for the trip, railroad fare pullman and hotel bills. Nothing more delightful than a winter trip to Florida over this splendid railroad. Two if these trips are offered so that two persons can win them and take the trip together. More complete itinerary of the trip will be given later. These prizes are also open to everybody without regard to location.

Then there are to be several district prizes confined to the several townships or districts in Pitt county, fuller announcement of which will be made as soon as we can get the districts properly mapped out. Every one of these prizes will be worth working hard for and there will be an opportunity for many to win.

Enter the contest at once and get to work securing subscribers to The Daily Reflector and also to our weekly paper, The Carolina Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector. How the votes will count is stated in the schedule published below. The nominating coupon found elsewhere in this paper is good for 1,000 free votes to the person nominated, but only one nominating vote will be counted for each contestant. You can nominate yourself or any one you desire, but the most important thing to do is act at once and get busy to secure subscriptions and win a prize. We are going to make this contest interesting all through, and will help contestants in every possible legitimate way. No one in any way connected with the paper is eligible to enter the contest.

Only meagre details are given to-day, but watch the paper and you will get full information about the contest. All correspondence about it and all remittances should be addressed to Contest Manager, The Reflector, Greenville, N. C. Necessary blanks and receipts will be furnished contestants.

In addition to the above they may from time to time be votes or extra prizes for special hard work, but everybody will have the same opportunity in winning. Don't lose a day, but get to work at once and watch The Reflector for further announcements about this great contest.

There is but one way to secure votes after the 1,000 free votes given with the first nomination of each candidate, and that is by getting subscribers to The Daily Reflector or The Carolina Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector.

BUTLER'S PERFDY CLEARLY PROVEN

His Connection With "Carpet Bag Bond Syndicate" of New York

NEWS AND OBSERVER PROSECUTOR

Produces Advertisement From New York Paper With Butler's Signature Among Others Soliciting Bonds to Collect.

With its usual thoroughness when after the scalp of any one, The News and Observer published a clincher that so completely convicts Marion Butler of his connection with the syndicate to collect the repudiated carpet bag bonds from the State of North Carolina that no man who loves his state, though a Republican can but feel shame that such a man was honored by the office of United States senator from North Carolina. Over his own signature the head of the Republican party in this state furnishes the evidence to damn himself, in an advertisement published in The New York Evening Post, in April, 1905, which the News and Observer found reproduced to the confusion of the self-convicted traitor and to his party. And this, too, just in the face of the repeated branding by Butler as an infamous lie the charge that he has now or ever has had any connection with the effort to collect the carpet bag bonds which were issued by a Republican legislature and for which the state received no benefit.

The evidence is complete and it cannot be seen how it can be refuted. It follows:

Advertisement. "The collection of State bonds Repudiated in whole or in part.

The recent decision of the Supreme court of the United States, entitled 'South Dakota vs. North Carolina,' wherein the former State secured a judgment against the latter on ten bonds, par value, $10,000, amounting with interest to $27,400, (which has just been paid) has greatly enhanced the value of all other repudiated State bonds, because it has established the law and the procedure by which they can be enforced.

The undersigned committee in 1901 pooled all of one issue of North Carolina bonds and originated the plan by which the above successful result brought about, and obtained a settlement for the individual bond holders, at a little less than par, of their entire holdings of these bonds.

This committee is now ready to proceed with the collection of all other repudiated bonds of every class, of each state.

This committee has no connection with any other committee, and it knows that it alone is now in a position to avail itself of the benefits of the above mentioned decision.

Those who desire to enforce the collection of their bonds will deposit the same with the North American Trust Company, 195 Broadway, New York City, and receive receipts therefor and a contract agreement under which the undersigned committee will undertake to collect the same.

W. N. COZER & CO. Raleigh News and Observer.

Low and High Tariff. High prices limit the ability of people to buy what they need. Lack of means to pay the price makes few customers. Few customers make trade dull. Dull trade makes business drag. High protective tariffs enable trusts to increase prices and the result is fictitious values. Increased prices with no increase in wages make poor people poorer. When a man buys less with his earnings than he could a few years ago the purchasing power of his dollar has been decreased. A reduction of the purchasing power of men's wages or salaries is equivalent to reducing the real value of the amount paid him for his services. The man who votes for a high tariff and high prices votes to cut down the purchasing power of his earnings. He does that for the benefit of favored classes rolling in wealth, while himself and his own family must suffer from the consequence of not being able to get very much for the money they spend. The man who gets the real benefit of protection would be a fool or overly conscientious not to vote for the tariff that enriches him, but the mere consumer who votes for a tariff that impoverishes himself ought to be locked up by his wife and kept home on election day for the good of the family. -Wilmington Star.

Good News from Youth's Companion. We have to make the Youth's Companion larger to get in all the good things that Companion readers ought to have. The added amount would make four hundred pages of standard magazine size and print; but we have kept the price just the same—$1.75 for the fifty-two weeks of 1911, and all the issues for the rest of this year free from the time you send in your subscription.

We would like to tell you what is in store for Companion readers next year. We cannot do it here though; there is no room. But send us your address on a postal card, and we will send you the beautiful prospectus of The Companion for 1911, announcing many new features, together with sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion. The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, reproducing in twelve colors and a beautiful water-color garden scene.

He had more than an ordinary interest in the disaster. He had just sent in a batch of comic titles and hadn't received his pay for them. "Can't you get some of your men to save my jokes?" he appealed to the fire chief. "Nope," replied the chief. "You don't expect us to pull your chestnuts out of the fire, do you?"—Troy Standard.

Ex-Gov. Jarvis and Hon. Locke Craig With County Candidates at Bethel -Carolina Club Reception Friday Night—National Ban. In New Quarters—Day Current to be Cut Off One Hour at Noon.

The Democrats had a big day at Bethel Saturday with a large attendance from all the surrounding section. The county candidates were there and made brief speeches. Ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis spoke for about half an hour in his usual forceful and logical style and closed by introducing Hon. Locke Craig, of Asheville. Mr. Craig spoke for about two hours and captivated his hearers into frequent bursts of applause. His presentation of national and state issues were so strong and clear as to be simply unanswerable. After his fine speech Bethel is going to send up a larger Democratic majority at the election than ever before.

Arrangements are well under way for the reception to be given by Carolina Club in the club rooms next Friday night, November 4th, and it is going to be an occasion of much interest. In addition to the reception, there will be a program of excellent music, both vocal and instrumental. When it is stated that this music is to be rendered by Mrs. Cherry, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Parham, Mrs. Williams Mrs. Hooker, Mrs. Harvey and Misses Gaston, Muffy, Bishop, Forbes, Smith, there is every assurance of a musical feast for all whose good fortune it is to be present at the reception.

The National Bank of Greenville is moving into its new quarters in the corner building on Five Points. In this new place it has the handsomest quarters of any bank in Greenville. The equipment is new throughout with marble counter surmounted with metal top, elegant furniture and tiled floor. Customers and friends are invited to visit the bank in its new quarters.

In our local advertising column the Water and Light Commission gives notice that beginning November 1st, and continuing until further notice the day current of the plant will be cut off each day between 12 o'clock noon, and 1 o'clock, p. m. Users of day current should govern themselves accordingly.

Preaching. Rev. W. F. Pollard, Free Will Baptist, will preach in Delphia Moyer chapel, Universalist, Sunday November 6th, it being the first Sunday. The public is cordially invited to hear him.

Three Strong Men of Latin Race.

During recent years we have been reading a great deal about the decadence of the Latin peoples. France, Italy, Spain and Portugal have been help up to us as examples of dying nations which have had their day and are not able to survive in these times of economic and commercial stress. when there is no institution or tradition too ancient or dignified to be challenged by a self-conscious, triumphant democracy. Yet in three of these four countries during the past few weeks the world has seen statesmanship and vigorous political leadership which has hardly been matched for many a year in German, British or American politics. The French Premier, M. Briand, has shown, in his suppression of the "general strike," what can be done by a strong, far-sighted statesman in power when he acts as an agent of law and order against any outburst of lawlessness and disorder no matter what explanation or excuse may be offered by the would-be law breakers. Senhor Costa, Minister of Justice in the new Republican government at Lisbon, who has been perhaps more than any other one man the actual leader in the revolution in Portugal, has shown an understanding of the forces that influence the life of modern peoples, as well as a breadth of view and a degree of courage in action that mark him as one of the world's real statesmen. When the fugitives from the revolution in Lisbon, political and clerical alike, began to stream over the border into Spain in those exciting days early last month, Premier Canalejas found himself confronted by an occasion calling for all his wisdom, diplomacy and courage. The Cortes was in session and the fate of the Premier's policies for the modernization of Spain hung in the balance. Militant Republican sentiment is always a factor in Spanish politics. More than once during the reign of King Alfonso have these enemies of the dynasty shown that they are in actual possession of sufficient power to put all government in Spain in peril. The same enemy to what is known in Latin Europe as clericalism, exists in Spain as in Portugal. Finally, the revolution at Lisbon occurred within a few days of the anniversary of the execution of Professor Francisco Ferrer founder of the "Modern School," of Barcelona, who was convicted and shot on October 3 of last year on a charge of anarchy, treason and conspiracy against the Spanish government. The monster demonstration at San Sebastian which had been planned by the reactionaries last summer was suppressed. In like manner, the violence threatened by the Radicals for "Fe rrier Day" was averted. Spain, under Canalejas, has proved herself possessed of a vitality quite unexpected by the rest of the world. Notes of Recent and Coming Events About The School.

Greenville N. C., Oct. 28.—Five of the boys have organized themselves into a glee club, under the direction of Miss Muffy. They meet regularly and will soon be a helpful factor in the music of the school.

The Y. W. C. A. held its regular Sunday night services last Sunday evening in the auditorium. Miss Graham made a very interesting talk on "Personal Influence."

The girls have organized a basket ball team, with Miss Pugh as referee and Misses Jamie Kerr and Mattie Ruffin captains.

President R. H. Wright made a speech yesterday at a meeting of the North Eastern division of the county superintendents, which met at Washington. Mr. C. W. Wilson also attended this meeting.

The students are looking forward to the Halloween party to be given Monday night by the Y. W. C. A.

The Jarvis Memorial Literary Society has been re-organized with S. F. Linton, president, J. F. Rawls, vice president and L. A. Harper, secretary. Very interesting debates are held every Monday night. Mr. L. R. Meadows, of the English department, is of great assistance to them. The young men have entered into this work with zest and have made a good beginning. They have subscribed for magazines and papers $47.85.

On Saturday, October 22nd, Misses Jenkins, Graham, McKinney, Davis and Bishop, entertained the faculty and officers in honor of Misses Dabney, Pugh, and Muffy, the new members of the faculty. Their new quarters, the east wing of the boys' dormitory, was artistically decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. At 10.30 the lights in the buildings went off but the guests remained for over an hour in the dim light furnished by the lights on the ground in the telling of ghost stories and spook tales.

THE NEW TRAVELING APRON.

For Use on Sleeping Cars and has Pockets for Toilet Articles.

A votive offering that will appeal very strongly to the woman who goes South in the winter and abroad in the spring, is the new traveling apron as recently been invented to fill a long-felt want.

It is a perfectly plain apron almost covered with pockets for toilet articles of all kinds. It is really a very sane, sensible idea, for it rolls up neatly, and you can carry it with you to the dressing room, instead of taking a clumsy hand bag or dressing case. It has the additional advantage that when you put it on it protects the front of your skirt from water and soap-suds, and gives you a safe place for all your toilet articles, so that you don't have to lay them down promiscuously on the common dressing table.

The apron can be made out of flow-ered cretonne or linen or a rubberized material. In using the linen or cretonne the pockets for the soap, sponge, etc., ought to be lined with some sort of rubber sheeting so that the damp will not strike through and injure other things in one's traveling bag.—The Delimitator.

A man with any sense at all knows better than not to like his wife's new hat and so have to pay for another.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1910

The cold wave drove us into 'em.

Did you register? If not, the election is not for you.

All the big speakers in New York are taking a whack at T. R.

On with the pursuit after blind tigers until they are run out of Greenville.

When Roosevelt makes a speech, he talks more Rooseveltism than anything else.

They keep on "breaking the record" in aviation, and also killing aviators.

Sarah Barnhardt is about to give us another farewell. Goodbye, Sarah, if you call it gone.

Butler is still replying wherever he can get an audience, but he cannot hide that New York advertisement.

At the rate of progress made in the past week, it will not take long to rid Greenville of blind tigers.

A hobble is bad, but a hobble is worse.—Atlanta Journal.
And a hobble skirt the limit.

The would-be jokesmiths have already commenced asking "is it cold enough for you?"

"Mecklenburg has the most autos," says a headline. Nothing unusual about that since Charlotte has the most people.

Do not overlook that tomorrow is the last day on which registration books will be open for the coming election.

If the beef trusts runs prices much higher, a pound of steak will have to be sold on the installment plan.

A week from today, on the 8th, every Democrat is expected to do his duty at the polls.

Parks and play grounds are given consideration by some cities and towns, Greenville not included.

Registration is all over. Now it is up to every Democrat whose name is on the book to do his full duty next Tuesday.

If they keep showing up things on them, T. Roosevelt should be made president and M. Butler vice-president of a national annanias club.

Greenville has sounded the note to abolish blind tigers. Let this movement have the earnest support of every law abiding citizen of the town.

They always have to get up some excuse when they see a big defeat staring them in the face. The Greensboro News says "Democrats are preparing to steal the election"

The successful raid of blind tigers that has just been made should not stop on the first round. Keep the work going on until Greenville is entirely rid of this evil.

Do not overlook the fact that Saturday, 29th, is the last day upon which voters can register for the November election.

In a recent appropriation of funds by the General Educational Board, Trinity College at Durham, received $150,000, and Meredith College at Raleigh $50,000.

The News and Observer, not to be outdone, has got up an aviation meeting for Raleigh. The "Old Reliable" must be careful not to soar too high.

Old man Joe Cannon is heard of but little now, but he may wake up and give trouble to his folks after the election.

The Democratic speakers in Pitt county between now and the election will give you some sound doctrine to think about. Turn out and hear them.

You can always count on the people of Greenville doing the right thing when they become aroused but do not get aroused quite often enough.

In a week one M. Butler will pack his grip and shake the dust of North Carolina. It will be good for the State, and it expresses hope in advance that he will not "come back."

"Vice President Sherman urges election of Republican congress to aid Taft" is the heading the Charlotte Observer gives his speech in that city. Of course that is what the vice president wants to see, but the people do

Greenville has sounded the keynote for civic righteousness. Now let the people stand by the resolutions adopted in the mass meeting Friday night, and lawlessness will have no place here.

The New Bern Sun says Col. Harry Skinner, of Greenville, made the most decent Republican speech of any delivered in that city. He confined himself to a discussion of issues, left out abuse, and took no stock in Marion Butler.

This is the last week of the campaign and Democrats should put their best work between now and the election next Tuesday. The ticket in Pitt county is all going to be elected, but the effort should be to make the majority as large as possible.

The law-abiding citizens of Greenville will have the opportunity tonight to show their colors in a stand for civic righteousness. It is the duty of all such citizens to attend the mass meeting in the city hall.

Because she wanted her wedding to be different from others a New York woman had three dogs, clad in bridal dress, to act as bridesmaids. It was different all right, but we pity the man in the case.

There is not a county in North Carolina where Republican candidates have less to make a campaign on than in Pitt. Here the Democratic administration has been so clean, and the candidates are men of such high character, that not a word can be said against either, hence the Republicans have nothing to talk about.

The Wilmington Dispatch deposes and says:

"For being the prince of polliers, for being the gallant gent, who can bring blushes in profusion to the cheeks, that fellow Whichard, of the Greenville Reflector, is it. Behold ye this citation and comment from his 'cooing' pen, while we hide our physiognomy."

And then he copies something that our readers have already seen.

It is significant that the resolutions adopted by the mass meeting Friday night, expressed a condemnation of the legal fraternity in overstepping the bounds of propriety in the defense of their clients. Of course every person indicted on any charge has a right to defense and a fair trial, but the trickery and underhand methods, taking advantage of technicalities to thwart the ends of justice, the abuse of witnesses and attempt to break down their character is reprehensible. The resolutions as will be seen from a careful reading, condemn such acts on the part of the legal fraternity, and we believe all right thinking people everywhere are in accord with this sentiment. Much of the miscarriage of justice in courts is due to such practice on the part of lawyers and we are glad that Greenville people have found the manhood to express their sentiment against it.

122 Bushels of Corn to the Acre.

Mr. John Sandy Covington, United States Demonstrative farm superintendent for Richmond county, superintended the measuring of an acre of corn on the editor's farm on Monday and reports 122 bushels of shelled corn. The editor is very much disappointed. He expected 160 bushels at least. It's the finest corn he ever saw grow, and others claim to have made 226 2-3 bushels. We have never believed that much corn was ever raised now we almost know it. All the other contestants got out of the editor's way in this contest.

This corn was raised at a cost of 60 2-3 cents per bushel. Near by this acre is a good tenant who has ten acres of corn that will make about 150 bushels on the ten acres. He used $5 worth of fertilizer to the acre, or $50 on the ten. It cost him to work it $5 per acre, or $50, total cost $100, or 66 2-3 cents per bushel against the one acre cost 60 2-3 cents per bushel besides the rent for the extra acres, say $5 per acre or $145 for the ten acres, or 96 2-3 cents per bushel.

This shows that deep plowing and liberal manure pays, and the selection of seed corn is probably of more importance. Get right, farmers, we have the best and most honorable business in the world. The Lord made the farmers and they are making the world.—Rockingham Post.

No Clock Watcher.

How many clerks measure up to the standard of the young bookkeeper in this story from Human Life? He was employed in the passenger department of a great railroad. It was just a little before lunch. Some of the clerks were putting on their coats, some leaving for the washroom, some consulting the clock; some were still busy. Suddenly the "boss" entered. He glanced about him, and then approached the young bookkeeper.

"What time is it?" he asked.

The young man kept on figuring and the boss put a hand on his desk and repeated the question.

Instantly the other looked up, surprised to see the chief at his elbow.

"I beg your pardon, were you speaking to me?" he asked.

"Merely inquired the time—that was all," said the other.

The bookkeeper glanced about the room, located the office clock, and said: "It's ten minutes to twelve."

"Thank you," said the general manager and vice-president, and strolled out.

That conversation cost the young bookkeeper his place—in the passenger department—and put him under a higher officer, "on the firing line."

Nine years later he was assistant general manager, and while still in the thirties became a general manager full fledged.

A lucky man is always harping on his superior judgment.

OFFICERS SHOULD HAVE SUPPORT OF THE PEOPLE.

The issuing of warrants for a large number of people who are charged with having violated the prohibition laws of the State by selling liquor, shows that the officers of Greenville are active in trying to stop these violations. It has for sometime been apparent to observing citizens that liquor was being sold here, and there has been some criticism of the officers for supposed dereliction of duty, but the issuing of these warrants brings out the fact that the officers were not negligent nor winking at the violations, but were proceeding to locate the violators and get evidence to convict them. Of course they had to proceed cautiously in doing this, for there was not only great difficulty in such an undertaking, but also a great danger of frustrating their movements if the public should know what they were doing.

A "blind tiger" is a sneak and hard to catch, for the man who engages in such violations would resort to perjury or almost any other crime to keep from being caught. The citizens of a community are less active than they should be in helping to bring such offenders to justice. They fear that it would mean less popularity or injury to business for any one man, or even a small number of men, to prominently lead in trying to rid a community of such evils. The same is true as to officers when they have to pursue such matters without the moral support of the people of the community, and their efforts to convict thwarted by indifferent citizens and jurors.

There is no question that the law abiding element of Greenville, those who want to see the laws obeyed, are largely in the majority, and it is not creditable that the few who are lawless should be allowed a free hand in setting our laws at naught. Now that the officers are moving to stop this lawlessness, the duty of every law abiding citizen is plain. Without exception they should give the officers their moral support and aid in every way possible to enforce the law. There is plenty of law if the law is enforced, but this cannot be done unless those who execute the laws have the support of the best people of the community. It matters not whose friend may be in the list of persons for whom warrants have been issued by the mayor, the enforcement of the law should be so strongly backed by the sentiment of the community that every offender, be he whom he may, should be pushed in accordance with his offense.

BE CAREFUL WITH CRITICISM.

Some people are very ready to criticize lawlessness, and can be heard to say this man or that man sells liquor, yet if these same people are asked to make complaint against those they charge with violating the law or to go in court and testify against them, profess to know nothing about it. People who make such charges either do so without knowledge of what they are talking about, or they perjure themselves when asked to testify and decline to do so. For this reason they should be careful how they talk and make criticism. The synopsis of the State law which Mayor Wooten recently asked The Reflector to copy for information, reaches just this class of people, and gives the mayor or any justice of the peace or judge authority to summons them before court where they must either tell what they know or commit perjury. No man should be making statements against another unless he knows what he is talking about and is willing to back up his statements in court or elsewhere. If a man has positive knowledge that the law is being violated it is his duty as a law-abiding citizen to say so, but he should not be making charges at random without any foundation for what he is saying.

The Junk-Filled Papers.

The High Point Enterprise takes a fall out of the metropolitan Sunday newspaper, "The voluminous Sunday editions of some of the Northern dailies dumped out on the trains," it says "are the poorest newspapers issued by their publishers during the entire week and many readers express this view. They are filled with a lot of so-called special news, which is junk pure and simple and which not two people out of a hundred read. It would be a blow at the paper trust if the publisher would reduce these Sunday specials from about 56 to half a dozen pages and besides the suffering public would be revealed. The space-killing features of these editions are not only lacking in public interest but have no proper place in a newspaper." All of which is the truth. There are sheet after sheet of stuff that will not even interest the servants, as anyone will find who will try it on them.—Charlotte Observer.

It seems to be the idea of some publishers to stress the size rather than the quality of their paper. The temptation to make a paper as large as somebody else is making is great, and in all such cases quality is sacrificed. The stuff mentioned above, as well as most of the pictures of various sizes that are used to pad out are not worth the paper they are printed on. The small paper that gives the news is far better than the large one with all these useless features.

A man shows how low he can go in the scale of decency when he slanders a dead man. In a speech at Concord, Saturday, Marion Butler said things about the late Dr. B. F. Dixon that led Rev. Plato Durham, a step-son of Dr. Dixon, to go to Butler and tell him he would have to apologize or take a thrashing Butler was quick to apologize.

Roosevelt is not helping his party in New York much more than Butler is in North Carolina.

It is not an easy thing to make New Yorkers swallow the claim of Republican prosperity when they look at those thousands of striking teamsters and laborers.

Making Politics Plain.

Motion pictures are to be used by the Democratic campaign managers in New York to show how the protective tariff increases the cost of living and thus rests as a burden upon the household. In hundreds of picture play houses such films will be reeled off each afternoon and evening between now and election day. Instead of confusing statistics and learned arguments, there will be vivid moving scenes just how a family dinner costs more since the Payne-Aldrich bill has gone into effect, how a pair of shoes, a dress or a suit of clothes are harder to get and how the particular items of the tariff law enter the everyday life of all the people.

Such a plan is interesting not only for its uniqueness, but also because it marks a growing tendency to interpret politics and economics in simple terms of daily human life. Every public issue is of importance to the extent that it thus bears upon the common interest of men and women and children. And whenever the people come to consider politics in this light, they will vote intelligently and effectually.

The fact is, a certain class of politicians have always done their utmost to keep public issues out of the people's mind. They love to talk of generalities, but when it comes to specific, everyday effects, they are remarkably silent. And, on the other hand, the people themselves have long been content with oratory and have not taken the time or patience to trace the connection between public policies and their own business and social affairs.

The home, the shop the store and the farm are really the beginning of political and economic science. Laws are, or should be simply certain practical devices for the betterment of all these interests, for the protection of property and human rights.

It is one of the most gratifying tendencies of the time that the public is coming to think in this light and that political campaigns are being pitched upon such a plan.—Atlanta Journal.

State Against Butler.

In Senator Simmons' speech at Asheville, reported in The Observer yesterday, he discussed a New York Evening Post Advertisement of five years ago which contained ex-Senator Marion Butler's name as one of a committee offering to collect carpet-bag bonds. His comment was scorching. It behooved to be, for anything short of coarse abuse could hardly exceed the requirements. This is supposing ex-Senator Butler responsible for the appearance of his name in this connection—and, so far as we know, he has never seen his way clear to deny it at all.

This campaign incident, whose basis had been strangely overlooked until a few days ago will have an explosive effect. It will make the danger of again placing ex-Senator Butler in a position of power so obvious that even the blind may see. Its author—The Statesville Landmark first recalled and set forth the facts, we believe—has rendered a service of no small value to the State.

We have not been abusing Mr. Marion Butler, and we have no intention of doing so now. But at times it is needful to speak with plainness about public men, and we shall add over and above things already said certain judgments which we believe to be absolutely true. He is the very type of the adventure, schemer, wire-puller, intriguer. He has a mind and a character perfectly accordant with the type. He has a justly odious record. He has practically no stake in the State except as a field for the operations which this accomplished lobbyist and what not carries on from Washington. It would be thoroughly discreditable to place him in the saddle again even if it were not thoroughly dangerous.

Mr. Butler, while a United States senator from North Carolina, took money to use his political influence and position to the detriment of the State. This action affected bonds concerning which there had been a dispute with some few bondholders who made special demands; they were not carpet bag bonds, but the means of attempted collection were the same for each class and one step was regarded merely as preparatory to the other. Mr. Butler's course would have been disgraceful even if such a connection had not existed. But it did exist, and obviously. Upon no other man do the speculative syndicates holding carpet-bag bonds pin, today, one-half so much hope.

A Morehead-Butler victory would be a Butler victory and a Butler opportunity. Politically the Republican State chairman is the merest tyro in comparison. Does any one want Mr. Marion Butler given the chance to compromise fatally the State's position by formal admissions and concessions, so that the State will have no choice left between payment and disgrace? Does any one think it would be wise or safe from any standpoint, even if no carpet-bag bonds existed, to make Mr. Marion Butler the most powerful person in the State? If he does, let him vote the Morehead-Butler ticket from Supreme court candidates down.—Charlotte Observer.

Management of Poultry.

A bulletin on the feeding and management of poultry for egg production has just been prepared by Prof. J. S. Jeffrey, poultryman, and issued by the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station.

At present, probably three to four million dollars worth of eggs are produced annually by the poultry of the State. On account of this and the steadily increasing price of poultry and eggs, poultry keeping is attracting more attention now than possibly ever before. As this bulletin gives information that should be of practical value in poultry feeding and management, every progressive poultry raiser should secure a copy of it.

It discusses the kinds of stock best suited for profitable egg production as well as their proper housing and care. The breeding up of heavy laying strains is also dealt with in such a way as to develop material of value to all those interested in this branch of live-stock growing.

A comparison is made of different rations, both as regards the cost of egg production and the best development of the stock.

The importance of cleanliness and of keeping the house free from mites is also brought out and recommendations are given.

Any poultry raiser in North Carolina may receive a copy of this bulletin (No. 21) free by addressing Director C. B. Williams, West Raleigh, N. C.

WHOLESALE ARREST OF BLIND TIGERS.

MAYOR ISSUES WARRANTS IN 46 CASES.

Police Get Busy and Fill the Guard House—Mayor Holds Preliminary Trial.

There was something doing in Greenville last night and today, and "blind tigers" were given a jolt. Their lairs were raided, their dens searched and the array of bottles in the mayor's court made it look like a young dispensary. There were 60 bottles of different kinds on display.

For several days the officers of the town have been quietly pursuing a line to bring numerous alleged violators of the prohibition laws to account. As a result of their investigations and the evidence Mayor Wooten issued 46 warrants. These warrants were placed in the hands of the police officers Wednesday night and about 2 o'clock the visits to the tiger dens began, and there was not much more slumber for them the remainder of the night except what they got while huddled together in the guard house where some 25 of them were rounded up.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mayor Wooten began the hearing of the cases, and his court was quite a busy place. The roll of defendants was as follows: White—R. W. Beaman, J. A. Hardee, John Griffin and E. M. McGowan, Colored—Noah Hardee, Jim Tucker, Robert Hodges, Sam Okey, Babe Brown, Ed Wooten, Alex. Bailey, Leon Patrick, Peter Johnson, Andrew Meye, Sam Joyner, Reid Johnson, Will Humphrey, Hattie Blow, Green Parker, Fred Moore, Oscar Hardee, Lillie Lilliams, Jack Daniel Jim Cox, Stephen Whitley, Henry Lewis, Henry Sheppard, Mary Lewis.

Against some of the defendants there were as many as three warrants. Some of the defendants had counsel to appear for them. Of course the hearing before the mayor was only preliminary, he not having final jurisdiction on such offenses, and the defendants were bound over to Superior court in the sum of $100 in each case.

These cases were worked up mainly by the Raleigh Detective Agency, of which W. J. Roark is general manager. This agency has had three detectives here for several days, and through the assistance of the town officers they have done their work well.

The sentiment of the law-abiding people of the town is expressed in the call for a mass meeting to be held in the town hall Friday night. It is the duty of every citizen who wants to see the law upheld to attend this meeting.

GEORGE A. BELL—BIGAMIST.

His First Wife a Pitt County Lady of Bethel.

George A. Bell, who was locked in jail last evening about the time we went to press, thus preventing a full account in yesterday's paper, left his first wife, nee Miss Hester Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner, of Bethel, Pitt county, while they were living in Smithfield, Va. He went from there to Suffolk, Va., where he got into some trouble and left for South Mills, N. C., where after a residence of some nine months he married Miss Mamie Keeter, changing his name to Walter Brown. This was in 1907 and finding that he was about to be discovered, since he continued to receive letters from his first wife, who, after Bell left her removed to Wilson, he deserted his second wife and returned to his first. He has a child by his second wife and also one by his first, to whom he has been married some 21 years, and with whom he resided at the time of his arrest.

Sheriff Le of Camden county, is expected tomorrow to take Bell back home with him for trial.

For five years past Mr. W. M. Haynes, manager of the Haynes Detective Agency, of Tarboro has been on the track of Bell. He was accompanied here by Attorney W. I. Halstead of South Mills, Camden county, N. C., who had in his possession a picture of Bell himself and his second wife with their child in the group. When Mr. Halstead identified Bell the proper papers were prepared and he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff George Mumford, and locked up awaiting the coming of an officer from Camden county to take the prisoner back where the felony was committed.

Bell says he was never married but one time, and then to Miss Hester Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner, of Bethel in Pitt county.

Mr. Halstead swears that he knows Bell (who when he was married to Miss Mamie Keeter, near South Mills, in 1907, gave as his name Walter R. Brown). Mr. Halstead said, when some one said that possibly it was a case of mistaken identity—"Gentlemen, I will put one hundred dollars in the hands of any one you may name; will pay all expenses of defendant and an officer if he is taken to South Mills and is not identified as the man who married and deserted the young lady in my county.—Wilson Times.

Higher Ambition.

There is a loftier ambition than merely to stand high in the world. It is to stoop down and lift mankind a little higher. There is a nobler character than that which is merely incorruptible. It is the character which acts as antidote and preventive of corruption. Fearlessly to speak the words which bear witness to righteousness and truth and purity; patiently to do the deeds which strengthen virtue and kindle hope in your fellow men; generously to lend a hand to those who are trying to climb upward; faithfully to give your support and your personal help to the efforts which are making to elevate and purify the social life of the world—and that is what it means to have salt in your character.—Henry D. Van Dyke.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

Third Annual Convention of North Carolina Drainage Association.

The third annual convention of the North Carolina Drainage Association will be held at Wilmington, N. C., November 21, 22 and 23, 1910. Since the last convention which was held at New Bern in 1909, interest in the drainage of swamp and overflowed lands has steadily increased and applications for many new drainage districts have been made. This is true not only of eastern North Carolina, but of the Piedmont region, where a number of surveys have been made in regard to the reclamation of overflowed lands.

A very attractive program for the convention is being arranged and among the speakers are Governor W. W. Kitchin, Hon. John H. Small, congressman from the first congressional district, Hon. John M. Morehead, congressman from the fifth congressional district, Hon. C. G. Elliott, of the office of drainage investigations, U. S. Department of Agriculture, J. O. Wright, drainage engineer for the State of Florida, E. T. Lamb, president of Norfolk Southern Railway Company, W. J. Craig, of the Atlantic Coast Line, Hugh MacRae, member of the North Carolina geological board, Lawrence Brett, drainage engineer, Hon. Geo. R. McLeod, of Lumberton, Hon. O. L. Clark, of Bladen county, Senator F. M. Simmons, Joseph Hyde Pratt, State geologist, Joseph A. Brown, of Columbus county, and S. S. Mann, of Hyde county.

It is expected that the representatives of the various drainage districts that have been organized will be present to state what has been done in their respective districts and the results that they expect to accomplish.

The Cause of Malaria.

From 1650 until within recent years people believed malaria was due to the breathing of air laden with moisture and the odor of decaying vegetation. As this kind of air is invariably associated with swamps, malaria for some time, has been recognized as a disease of low, marshy countries. The word malaria, is a combination of the two Indian words, mal and aria which mean bad air.

In the nineties of the last century a party of Englishmen, people living where malaria is unknown, selected the most malarious spot in the world, the Roman Campagna, for an interesting experiment, the results of which are absolutely incompatible with the old idea regarding the cause of the disease. In that malarious region, where nearly everybody suffered from the disease, these Englishmen had erected, within a few feet of each other, two cheap cottages. One, provided with double swinging doors and closely screened, was mosquito proof; the other, without screens was perfectly open to the mosquitoes. The party of Englishmen divided into two groups one group inhabiting the mosquito-proof house, the other group the unscreened house. Both groups were fed from the same kitchen, drank from the same well, and breathed the same air. The group living in the screened house remained perfectly well; the group living in the unscreened house all had malaria.

Sir Patrick Mason an English expert on malaria, had mosquitoes to bite Italians suffering with malaria, and transferred these mosquitoes in cages to England, where the hungry insects were permitted to bite Sir

Patrick's son and another man. Within sixteen days, the time required for malaria to develop after infection, both of these gentlemen, who had never been exposed to malaria, became ill with the disease.

An Italian expert on malaria, named Grassi, discovered a form of the disease peculiar to certain species of birds. By confining mosquitoes in cages with birds with this disease and afterwards transferring the mosquitoes to new cages with healthy birds, he could reproduce the disease.

Ross, another English authority, with the aid of the microscope, traced the malaria germ, sucked into the insect's body in biting, into the walls of the mosquito's stomach, where it underwent a regular series of changes, thence to the salivary glands of the insect, whence it was ejected into the unfortunate next bitten.

All this evidence makes out a clear case against the mosquito as the carrier of malaria. If this is correct, the destruction of this insect should invariably be followed by the decrease or complete eradication of malaria. This final evidence, the conclusive evidence of actual results, will be furnished in next week's article.—State Board of Health Bulletin.

Shall Women Vote?

If they did, millions would vote Dr. King's New Life Pills the true remedy for women. For banishing dull, fagged feelings, backache or headache, constipation, dispelling colds, imparting appetite and toning up the system, they're unequalled. Easy, safe, sure, 25c, at all druggists.

Sticking plaster is the kind that doesn't fall from the ceiling. Anyway, a trapped rat knows enough to avoid the noose.

OUR AYDEN DEPARTMENT IN CHARGE OF R. W. SMITH

Authorized Agent of The Carolina Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector for Ayden and vicinity.
Advertising rates furnished

Ayden, N. C., Oct. 27.—Mr. J. W. Glenn and family left Tuesday for Winston-Salem.

Mr. Walter Gardner lost a valuable dark horse Monday night. It had calico and while being led across the railroad, seemed to have a spasm, falling suddenly, his head striking the iron and breaking the skull and jaw bone. It died immediately.

There were four initiated in the Odd Fellows lodge Monday night. Quite a number of visiting brethren from Shelmerdine were present to witness the ceremonies.

We gin your cotton, give you bagging and pay cash for seed. Satisfaction guaranteed.—J. R. Smith Company.

F. Lilly's cafe for ladies and gentlemen gets fresh select oysters every day.

The New Free Will Baptist church here will be dedicated to the worship of God next Sunday, and a series of meetings will follow for a week or so, conducted by Revs. Vauce Pittman and others.

The Literary Society of the Seminary last Tuesday night debated. "Resolved, that North Carolina should issue bonds to improve the public roads." The affirmative won. They will discuss next Tuesday night; "Resolved, that the election of the Republican State ticket will result in the State's best interest." The public are always invited to hear these discussions.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manning, mother of our townsman Mr. Butt Manning, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry D. Manning, near Elm Grove church, Tuesday, at the ripe old age of four score. While she was a corps, David Manning, brother to Henry, died of yellow chill and fever in the adjoining room, making two deaths in the same house, which was enough to melt the heart of an undertaker. Only a few weeks ago a young daughter of the home died with pelagra, and another was afflicted with the same disease, but with almost super human efforts, she escaped death and the grave. This is an humble home, but they are devout people.

The small child of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Carman, near Ridge Spring was buried near Rountrees, Wednesday.

Mrs. Early (nee Rawls has returned to Ayden to make this her home, after a long visit to her daughter, Mrs. Motta Morrison, at High Point, and Laura Flynn, of Fortress Monroe.

Rev. G. C. Vauce is building a neat cottage beyond the Seminary on Lee street.

Rev. E. T. Phillips has returned looking very much refreshed from a trip into the Palmetto state and brings glorious tidings from Rev. R. I. Corbitt, one of the Seminary boys. This speaks well of Ayden and the great state of Contentment, but we did not expect it otherwise.

Dr. Thos. E. Peden has returned from a great religious gathering in Alabama, and seems very much buoyant over the great stride his people are making in the golden West.

A small boy of Ciddie Cox, a colored woman, died suddenly Tuesday night.

A twelve-year-old girl of Mattie West, in Jacksontown, died Wednesday morning.

All seasons are for thine own, oh! death is voreified by the frequent visits made to the undertaking establishment of J. R. Smith Company. They have a nice pair of bay horses to pull the hearse with.

We hear there was a delightful "at home" given by Miss Rosa Bland in honor of the graded school teachers and a few other selected guests, Wednesday night.

The remains of W. F. Dickerson arrived here from the hospital last week where he had been for an operation, from which he never recovered. He was buried near the old Tucker place, beyond Renston. He leaves a wife and one child. He was an honest and industrious man.

Ayden, N. C., Nov. 1.—Protracted meeting at the Free Will Baptist church this week. The pastor is being assisted by Eld. Pittman.

Mrs. R. C. Davis died Monday. Her death was caused by typhoid fever. She leaves a husband and baby. She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Cox, and was a member of the Baptist church. The remains will be buried in the cemetery this afternoon with services by Rev. M. A. Adams, of Winterville.

Short circuit caused by some one carelessly laying a copper screw driver among the electric wires in Mr. Stancill Hodge's house, the building was fired Saturday night about 9 o'clock, causing considerable damage. The horse being new and covered with tin was the only reason of saving it from total destruction. Mr. Hodges was to have moved in it this week.

Dr. J. H. Mewborn, of Kinston, will be at J. R. Smith Co.'s store, Friday, November 4th, (one day only) to examine your eyes and fit you with glasses. Examinations made free.

Being unable to thank each one personally for their work in assisting me in the fire Saturday night, I take this method of expressing my appreciation to all those who labored faithfully towards saving my house and furniture.

J. R. TURNAGE.

Not Sorry for Blunder.

"If my friends hadn't blundered in thinking I was a doomed victim of consumption, I might not be alive now," writes D. T. Sanders, of Harrodsburg, Ky., "but for years they saw every attempt to cure a lung-racking cough fail. At last I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The effect was wonderful. It soon stopped the cough and I am now in better health than I have had for years. This wonderful life-saver is an unrivaled remedy for coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, whooping cough of weak lungs 50c, $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists."

FINE CORN YIELD.

Largest Yield Reported in the County
124 1-7 Bushels to the Acre.

Ayden, N. C., Oct. 29, 1910.
Editor Reflector:

I am a member of the boys' corn club in Pitt county, and have gathered and had my corn measured, and find that I have 124 1-7 bushels. I am 13 years old and weigh 70 pounds. I did all the cultivating myself with a two-horse riding cultivator.

I live in Swift creek township and am a son of Mr. N. R. Corey.

Yours truly,

E. HENRY COREY.

(We want to congratulate this boy for his splendid work and the large yield made on his acre. It is the largest that has been reported in this county, and unless some later report surpasses it entitles him to the first prize. It is certainly gratifying that boys in the contest in this county have done so well, and they are all to be commended. They are to be the farmers of the future, and we are glad that they are taking such interest and showing such skill in producing larger crops.—Ed.)

Many school children suffer from constipation, which is often the cause of seeming stupidity at lessons. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are an ideal medicine to give a child, for they are mild and gentle in their effect and will cure even chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists.

MAKES NEW RECORD.

Change in Schedule.

The Atlantic Coast Line has changed the schedule of its morning north-bound train and it now passes Greenville at 8:23 instead of 8:32 as heretofore. This change now puts passengers in Weldon in time to make close connection for Richmond, reaching the latter about one o'clock.

When a cold becomes settled in the system, it will take several days' treatment to cure it, and the best remedy to use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will cure quicker than any other, and also leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. Sold by all druggists.

"THIS DO IN REMEMBRANCE OF ME"

Matthew 26:17-30—November 6

THESE studies are selected for us in advance. Otherwise our preference would have been to consider the incident connected with our Lord's closing of earth life in the Spring of the year about the season at which that occurred. But Truth is always precious to us and has always profitable lessons.

Jesus was a Jew and was, therefore, obligated to every feature of the Mosaic Law. He came not to destroy the Law, but to fulfill it. Today's study points us to the fulfillment of one feature of the Law—the Passover; not that it is already entirely fulfilled, but that the antitype has for more than eighteen centuries been in process of fulfillment and the complete fulfillment, sure to come, is, we believe, near at hand. To appreciate this study we must have clearly in mind the type—

Approximately 3,500 years ago God delivered the people of Israel from the despotic power of Pharaoh, King of Egypt. Time after time Pharaoh had refused to let the people go, preferring to hold them as chattels, slaves. Time after time God had sent plagues upon Egypt as chastisements. Under the influence of each plague Pharaoh repented and through Moses entreated God for mercy upon himself, and for the people relief from the plague. Nevertheless, every manifestation of Divine mercy tended only to harden his heart until finally the tenth plague, the severest of all, was necessary. That plague consisted in the execution of the death sentence against all the first-born of Egypt. But the Israelites in Egypt were exempt from its provisions under certain conditions. Each family was required to have its own lamb, not a bone of which was to be broken. Its blood was sprinkled upon the doorposts of the house and the family, assembled within, partook of its flesh with unleavened bread and bitter herbs, pilgrim-like, with staff in hand, ready for departure out of Egypt in the morning.

Israel's First-borns Passed Over
When that night the Divine sentence slew all of Egypt's first-borns, the first-borns of Israel were passed over or spared; hence the name—Pass-over. And this ceremony, as a reminder of the great blessing of the Lord upon Israel, was commanded to be observed yearly as a memorial of God's goodness and because it typed, or illustrated, a still greater mercy, and blessing yet to come.

A little later on those spared first-borns were exchanged for one of the tribes—Levi. Thereafter the Levites were the passed-over first-borns and were specially devoted to God and his service.

The Antitypical Fulfillment
Those experiences of the Israelites and their first-born ones were very real and properly very interesting to them; but they are still more interesting to Christians, who themselves are antitypes now being passed over. By Christians we do not mean all who merely make profession, nor all who attend Church, however regularly. We mean merely the saintly few who are now being called and being tested as to faithfulness to the Lord and by faith being passed over—from death unto life.

These are Scripturally styled "The Church of the first-born, whose names are written in heaven" (Hebrews xii, 23). As the deliverance of the nation of Israel from Egypt took place after the sparing or passing over of the first-born, so, correspondingly, the Divine blessing will come upon the world of mankind directly after the completion of "the Church of the first-born"—directly after their passing from death unto life, by their passing through the First Resurrection. If there is a first-born class it implies that there will be an after-born class. Thus the Scriptures everywhere distinctly teach that the present call, trial, testing, proving and final rewarding of the Church will not be the end of Divine mercy toward humanity, but, on the contrary, will be only its beginning; for since the saintly are spoken of as the "Church of the first-born," or as the Apostle declares, "the first-fruits unto God of his creatures," we are assured thereby that after-fruits are equally part of the Divine Program.

Amongst the Levites were several divisions representing different ranks and grades of the Church of Christ. But the principle division or section of the Levites was the priestly family of Aaron, just as there is a special class amongst the antitypical Levites, the faithful few, known in the Scriptures as the Royal Priesthood.

The Antitypical Lamb and His Blood
In Jesus' day the time had come for the fulfillment of the antitype of the Passover. Jesus himself was to be the Passover Lamb. By faith the merit of his sacrifice, his blood, was to be sprinkled upon the door-posts of his people's hearts, and his flesh, the merit of his earthly perfection, was to be eaten or appropriated by them in their minds. With it they were to eat the unleavened bread of the Divine promises and the bitter herbs of trials and adversities, and withal they were to drink wine, the blood of the grape, symbolically implying their participation with the Lamb in his ignominy and sufferings.

The Lamb of God, Jesus, the antitypical Passover Lamb, was slain nearly nineteen centuries ago on the exact anniversary of the killing of the typical lambs. The sacrifice of Jesus needs not to be repeated, for by faith we all sprinkle this same blood today, and in our hearts feed upon the merit of the same earthly sacrifice, and have plenty of bitter herbs of persecution and drink of the blood—share the Master's spirit and its reward of suffering for righteousness' sake.

Not many have appreciated these privileges during all these nineteen centuries—in all but a "little flock." Nor are there many who envy them their present experiences; nor are there many who appreciate how great will be their reward and blessing in the life to come. Then, instead of suffering with Christ, they shall reign with him in glory, honor and immortality.

Jesus, about to begin the fulfillment of this type by dying as the antitypical Passover Lamb (Christ our Passover is slain, for us—I Corinthians v. 7), instituted for his followers an annual remembrance which, in their minds, would take the place of the type and continually remind them of the great Antitype. Instead of the literal flesh of the lamb, the Master used bread, and instead of the blood, the fruit of the vine, and instead of a further commemoration of the type, he directed that this be done in remembrance of the antitype—"the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world," and the pas-over coming to the Church of the first-born, as precedent to the great blessings to result for Israel and all the families of the earth.

Our Lord as a Jew was obligated to keep the typical passover, eating of the literal lamb, etc., first; but subsequently, after that passover supper, he instituted with the bread and the fruit of the vine his substitutionary memorial of himself, saying, "Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup; and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them; and they all drank of it. And he said, . . . Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new in the Kingdom of God" —until his second coming in power and great glory to receive the Church as his elect Bride and Joint-Heir in his Kingdom and to shower blessings richly upon Israel and through Israel upon all mankind.

Judas, the Selfish Betrayer
The hour for the betrayal was drawing near. The Master knew by some power unknown to us who would betray him, etc. Breaking the matter to the twelve, he said, "One of you will betray me." Each asked, "Is it I?" Even Judas brazenly challenged the Master's knowledge of his deceitful course and said, "Is it I?" The answer was, "It is as you have said— you are the betrayer. The Divine programme was carried out by the traitor, and the Scriptures were fulfilled which declare that he should be sold for thirty pieces of silver; but the coincidence marks the Divine foreknowledge without implying that God in any manner instigated the traitorous conduct, hence the statement, "Woe unto that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed." From this standpoint we are to understand that there is no hope for Judas in a future life. His sorrow and anguish before his death were such as found no compensation in any happiness he had enjoyed in previous days.

I Cannot Praise Peruna Highly Enough for the Good it Has Done Me.

MRS. JOHN HOPP.

MRS. JOHN HOPP, Webster Ave., Glendale, L. I., N. Y., writes: "I have been suffering for the past ten years with many symptoms incident to my age, also catarrh and indigestion. I was weak and discouraged, had no ambition, could not sleep at night, and lost greatly in weight. "I tried other remedies, but with no success, until I commenced to take Peruna. I now feel better in every respect, can sleep well, and have gained in weight. I cannot praise Peruna highly enough for the good it has done me.

"If any women are suffering as I did, I would advise them to try Peruna and convince themselves. Peruna has done me good. I know by my experience that it is worth its weight in gold to any one who needs it.

"I also took Manain, for constipation, in connection with Peruna, and I found it helped me where other laxatives failed."

Miss Malisa Jolley, Parmele, N. C., writes: "I have been taking your Peruna, and can say that I am well of the catarrh. "I thank you for your kindness and your advice."

THREE VISITING MINISTERS OCCUPY GREENVILLE PULPITS

All the Churches Had Interesting Services Sunday.

On Sunday the pulpits of all the churches in Greenville were occupied by visiting ministers or new pastors, and the interest of the people of the town was shown by the large attendance at all the churches. And it can be truly said that in all there were excellent sermons, and the worshippers at each church were more than repaid for attendance.

At the Baptist church Rev. J. R. Edwards, of Sanford, was the preacher. Mr. Edwards has relatives here and remains over a few days, being the guest of Mr. W. M. Moore.

At the Christian church the new pastor, Rev. Charles Ware, preached, this being the second Sunday he has served this congregation.

Rt. Rev. Robert Strange, bishop of the diocese of Eastern Carolina, conducted the services in St Paul's Episcopal church.

At the Methodist church Rev. J. S. Hunton, of Richmond, preached.

The Presbyterian church had Rev. J. Mann, of Wadesboro. He had been attending the Presbytery at Rocky Mount and came by here to preach for this congregation.

Not Afraid of the Locusts.

"The scientists are predicting," says The Charlotte Chronicle, "that two great armies of the 17-year locusts will visit this country next spring and the Audubon Society is taking advantage of this prediction to get in a word for the protection of the insect-eating birds. According to the scientists, the locusts are now preparing to burst forth in countless multitudes over the fields of both North and South. Apple, peach and pear orchards and vineyards, will feel their destructive power, the government authorities admit, unless an abundant force of the wild birds is preserved to lead the fight". The scientists are useful folks and know a lot, but it is just as well not to get excited about the coming of the 17-year locusts. They may appear in spots and may do some damage, but that they will cover the country as with a blanket and destroy everything in their path, as might be inferred from the statement, is not to be expected. The coming of swarms of 17-year locusts has been predicted more than once in the past 25 years and but one swarm of consequence has visited this part of the country. In 30 years and they did no harm. It is a good idea, however, to protect the birds for their usefulness in destroying insects generally.—Statesville Landmark.

TO FARMERS WIVES.

President Chas. Barrett, Sends Interesting Communication.

One of the most interesting communications that has come recently from the office of President Charles S. Barrett, of the National Farmers' Union, is that just issued to the officers and members of the union, in which Mr. Barrett pays a beautiful tribute to the heroism of the wives of the farmers of the land. This communication, which Mr. Barrett has just issued to the union is as follows:

"To the Officers and Members of the Farmers Union:

"Now about that wife of yours. I wonder if you ever think what an indispensable influence she has been for your own welfare in this world, and for the general advancement of the country?

I doubt it. A good wife we are apt to take like the sunshine and the fertility of the fields—as a matter of course. Only when all three are missing, do we discover the genuine blessing.

The wife of the farmer it is who keeps hope and ambition kindled on the hearthstone, who never tires the bodies to the work of supporting the nation, who rears up the men and the women into whose hands the destinies of the nation are to be handed.

I sometimes think that it is only within recent years we have come to appreciate the monumental and historic sacrifice of these farm women. If you will indulge a slight personality, I cheerfully bear witness to the fact that whatever I have accomplished for the good of the brethren in this world is due to the unselfishness, the industry and the courage of the woman who is my wife and the mother of my children.

I know that if ever my sons shall work well in the battle for the common good, and live as I would have them live—an example to all men—it is because of the untiring watchfulness and the almost incredible self-sacrifice of their mother.

I talk thus that you may look about you in your own homes and see what you can do to lighten the task of your own wife the mother of your children.

If all goes well with the farm, find out how much is due to her persistent toil and forgetfulness of her own comfort. If your children get ahead in life—consider her part in their success. If you have experienced the common lot of having passed through poverty and sickness and misfortune—consider how hopeless would have been the outlook had it not been for her sustaining courage and energy.

They call the farmer the hope and the support of America.

It is his wife that is the inspiration of the hope and the bedrock of the support.

Bear these facts in mind when you are inclined to be a little mean, a little stingy with the pocket money or a little vainglorious about your own accomplishments.

Not all the Carnegie medals coined between now and doomsday will reward the silent heroism of the farm woman who are humbly uplifting the agricultural life of the country today.

CHARLES S. BARRETT.

Dear Z:— Yours rec'd. "Our Greenville" looks good to me. I have been ready to quit this town for some time, but couldn't decide which way to jump. You've settled that for me. If things are like you say it's Greenville for mine. I can get the dough here all O. K. enough, but it's too risky. You may look for me in a week or so—if nothing happens—and tell the boys I'm all right—all right.

Crisis in The French Cabinet—Chicago Officials Sent to Grand Jury—Police Taken Off Wagons in New York—New York Tenement Fire—Rebaters Face Indictment in Toledo.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Paris, Nov. 2.—Premier Briand today tendered his resignation of cabinet to President Fallieres. The country now faces a ministerial crisis as the result of socialist attacks upon the government following the railroad strike. Briand was forced to abandon his office by assaults of socialists who declared he had betrayed them. The president cabinet was formed July 24th, 1909. Socialists who rejoiced when Briand was chosen premier were jubilant today. For his work in crushing disorders during the recent strike he had been branded as a traitor to party tenets. Briand will probably be asked to form a new ministry.

Officials Sent to Grand Jury.
By Wire to The Reflector.
Chicago, November 2.—Judge Brugger today held Frank B. Harriman, Charles B. Ewing and John M. Taylor for the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each on the charges of defrauding the Illinois Central railway out of $1,500,000 through a car repair swindle. The three men formerly were high officials of the railway. They owned stock in the car repair company which did work for railways and sent in padded bills.

POLICE TAKEN OFF WAGONS.
By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Nov. 2.—By order of officials the police were removed from express wagons. Hereafter mounted police will accompany the wagons to prevent disorder, but will have nothing to do with handling them. This order was made in response to the demand of the teamsters who threatened to call out all drivers in the city, if the police were not taken off the wagons. The strikers are encouraged by this action and say no more men will be called out.

NEW YORK TENEMENT FIRE.

Heroic Work of a Brave Boy in Making Rescue.

New York, Nov. 2.—Men were overpowered and women and children struck with their fists and kicked as they tried to get down the fire escapes of a five-story tenement house to escape from fire this morning. When the fire began there was a mad rush for the fire escapes. One boy, however, in bare feet climbed the steps to the floor above where there was a family of five and awoke them, carrying out two children.

AN HEIRESS ALWAYS MISSES GREAT JOY

Although She Has Everything Money Can Buy.

I suppose it is a matter of temperament—the amount of enjoyment one finds in the possession of money and the things it brings with it, says the author of "The Autobiography of an Heiress" in The Delineator. I do not think I ever cared very much—certainly not for very long.

My cousins used to tell me that I said so only because I had everything I wanted before I knew I wanted it, and, so far as outside things are concerned, that was true enough. I did live—and may still live—in a charming house; I have been able to afford myself the surroundings that please me. To wear "purple and fine linen and fare sumptuously every day, like the accursed rich man in the Bible, is no novelty;—only, though I confess to a preference for pretty clothes I should infinitely rather have a chop on a tray than any elaboration of cookery.

I could, and can, fill my ears with music and my eyes with beautiful sights; be luxuriously warm in winter and cool in summer; chase climate and scenery round and round the globe from year's end to year's end if I choose, but, upon my word, I have often felt that I should have been happier living in two rooms with a nice old servant to look after me. At all events, I'd have been freer. The only thing I should have missed would have been the power to help people—so far as they would let me—without thinking twice about it; and I dare say any one else in my place would have done it better!

CO-OPERATION IS ASKED.

Captain Brown Requests Masters of Vessels to Keep Informed.

A circular letter has just been issued by Capt. Earl I. Brown, in charge of the United States Engineer office here, asking that masters of vessels on the various streams in this district keep the engineer office informed as to navigation conditions on the streams on which their vessels are operated.

It is desired to know if for any reason boats are not making regular trips the location of any known important obstructions or shoals, etc., so that if practicable the engineer department plant will remedy the conditions complained of.

The engineer office desires to maintain a continuous and uninterrupted navigation on the streams under improvement in this district and any information relative to difficulties in navigating, etc., will be appreciated by that office.

The streams mentioned particularly in Captain Brown's circular are the Tar River, Fishing Creek, Contentment Creek, Neuse river, Northeast river, Black River and Cape Fear above Wilmington.

This is a matter in which all persons interested in vessels should keep in mind, and their co-operation with the engineer department will be a help.

Those in the vicinity of New Bern should communicate with Mr. Harry T. Paterson, assistant engineer at that place; and those in the vicinity of Wilmington should communicate with Mr. Robt. C. Merritt, assistant engineer at that place.—Wilmington Star.

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

Rochdale, N. C., Nov. 2.—Mr. R. E. Willoughby went to Mr. C. L. Tyson's Wednesday and on his return took Miss Janie Tyson home with him to spend a few days with his family. Rev. S. W. Sumrell left for his home at Grifton, Wednesday evening. Mr. Johnnie and Master Revel Tyson, of Renston, came Friday evening to be at the bazaar that night. They returned Saturday morning and took Miss Janie, their sister, home with them.

The bazaar at Smiths school house, Friday night was a grand success and it was one of the most enjoyable occasions of the kind that some of us ever witnessed. The entertainment was delightful and the oysters fine. The sales were extra good, one apron sold for four and half dollars. It's like it was with the queen of the South when she saw the wisdom of Solomon, the half has not been told. But last and best of all is, they realized nearly fifty dollars for the benefit of the Christian church at Arthur. Messrs. David Smith and Joseph

Joyner went to Grifton Saturday to attend the Hookerton union meeting and returned Monday.

Miss Gertrude and Mr. Melton and Bruce Eason, of Murray, Greene county, were visiting at Mr. Mills Smith's Sunday.

Mrs. C. D. Smith, Misses Nannie, Carrie Belle, Sallie and Rosa Smith, Mr. R. E. Willoughby and Mr. A. B. Tyson went to Gum Swamp Sunday to attend the F. W. E. union meeting.

Mr. Corey seems to be in the lead in raising corn. We see in The Reflector that he raised 124 1-7 bushels on his acre. G. F. Tyson, Jr., had 89 bushels and Mark Smith 85 1-2. These two are Beaver Dam boys. Young Mr. Moye, of Grimersburg, in Farmville township, raised 88 bushels on his acre. So it seems that the four boys made nearly 80 barrels of corn on the 4 acres. Mr. D. Smith measured about 73 bushels from one acre, though he was not in the contest.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn went to visit his father, Mr. J. R. McLawhorn, near Ayden, Saturday and returned Sunday evening. Arthur is booming. It has two new stores. Mr. Mills Smith and Mr. J. Matthews have opened up recently.

NORTH CAROLINA'S SOLID LINE-UP

LOOKS LIKE EVERY CONGRESSMAN IS DEMOCRATIC

BUTLER AND MOREHEAD KICKED OUT

What a RAP Poor Cooley Got—"Brother George" Can Continue to Stay Home and Pick Sumps. Huckleberries—Stedman, Daughtery and Gudgey Redeem Their Districts. Republicans Lose in Every County.

Raleigh—Democrats carry Cumberland county by increased majority. Republicans polled very light vote in Fayetteville.

Greene county gives the whole ticket a majority of about 800. Anson county elects all Democrats by estimated majority of 1,500, a gain of 300.

Warren county is Democratic by 500, Republicans casting less than a hundred votes.

Raleigh—Returns from eleven of the thirteen counties in the tenth district show a majority of 300 for Gudgey, Democrat, over Gaudin, Republican, who carried the district two years ago by 361.

Cowles, Republican carries his home county of Wilkes, by only 1200, a decrease of 400, and his district majority of 14000 two years ago will be decidedly eliminated by returns from other counties.

Raleigh—The weather was extremely fine all over the state. Returns show rather a heavy vote for an off year. The tenth district congressional vote shows Gudgey making gains over Grant. Cherokee county gave Grant a reduced majority. Gudgey carried Buncombe by the usual majority.

Raleigh—The only interesting districts in the congressional fight are the second, fifth, eighth and tenth. Returns from the third district are meagre and show that Butler, Republican, carries his own county, Sampson, by 1500, a Republican gain of 500. Returns from the fifth district, carried two years ago by Morehead, Republican, show large Democratic gains for Stedman over Blair. Stedman made a gain of 1,000 in his home county, Guilford.

Raleigh—Eighth congressional district returns show notable Democratic gains over two years ago when Cowles Republican, defeated Hackett Democrat. This year Doughtery Democrat, overturns Republican majority in Cabarrus and Stanley.

@ Tenth district returns very incomplete as yet, indicate the result close with slight Democratic gains.

Raleigh—Returns from five of the eleven counties in the fifth district show that Stedman, Democrat, has over 2,800 majority. Durham county two years ago gave only 20 Democratic majority, and now gives 735 Stedman's majority in the district may reach 3,500.

Raleigh—Returns from six of the nine counties in the third district show Faison, Democrat, to have about 200 majority over Butler Republican.

Raleigh—Wake county gives from 1,500 to 2,000 Democratic majority. Returns from the first district show Small defeats King by the usual majority.

In the second congressional district Kitchin is elected over Norfleet by the usual majority. At Kitchin's home precinct no Republican votes were cast.

Washington—Beaufort county gave 750 majority on state and congressional tickets.

Tarboro—Edgecombe county Democratic by about 1200.

Nashville—Nash county will give the largest majority in many years. Pou, Democratic candidate for congress in the fourth district, will defeat Cooley, the independent Republican candidate. Nash county, which is Cooley's home, will give 600 majority against him. Cooley's is a greater snow-under than Pou gave the Republican candidate two years ago.

The walls of the new court house are climbing upward.

Now you all can get ready for Thanksgiving.

DIX IS ELECTED GOVERNOR OF N. Y.

ROOSEVELT'S CANDIDATE COMPLETELY SNOWED UNDER

DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY IS 100,000

Brooklyn—The Eagle issues an extra announcing the election of Dix and indicating election of entire state ticket.

Buffalo—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today voted the straight Republican ticket. It was an error, but could not be rectified. Subsequently he told the joke on himself. Dix carried Utica by 1,817. The Democratic plurality in Rome was 278.
