N. C. UNIVERSITY LOST GAME

BUT THEY WERE FIGHTERS FROM START TO FINISH

BROWN IN THE RACE FOR CAPTAIN

Some Notes on the Thanksgiving Game—Greenville Boy One of Candidates for Captain Next Season—Club Dances at The University.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 30.—The football team of the University of North Carolina has once again been defeated by the team in orange and blue on Thanksgiving day by the score of 7 to 0. The score alone gives a most inadequate account of the game as it appeared on the field in Richmond. The white and blue started things off with a rush. In the first quarter the men from Carolina played with a dash and vim as one seldom sees on any field. When Virginia scored two points and soon increased their lead to seven, there became decidedly apparent an increased fury and determination in the work of the Carolina players. It was a hard fight from start to finish without any let-up. While every man on the team fairly earned his meed of praise, Garrett and Capt. Thompson, two men who were playing their last game, shone as line-men seldom get a chance to shine. Early in the game Porter got his nose smashed and pretty well smeared all over his face, but he played the whole game through as one of its stars. They all played—played the best game of this season. They lost. But as fighting men, Carolina's team proved themselves "all wool and three feet broad."

The Thanksgiving dances for the year will be given on next Thursday and Friday the 1st and 2nd of December, by the order of The Gorgan's Head and the German club.

The members of the football team will enjoy a last supper together on Saturday night and a captain for next season will be elected. Four men seem at present to have a chance at being elected. They are Venable, Winston, Porter and Brown. Winston played a star end last year and has figured prominently in several positions this year. While Venable has never been a star, he is recognized as one of the hardest of players, and is always to be depended upon. Porter has had two years experience as a star fullback and is probably the strongest man in Carolina's defense. Brown made the team last year after three years on the scrubs. He has played good football more consistently this year than any other man on the team. Any one of the four candidates will make a good captain.

ON THE RATE HEARING.

Railroad Men Giving Testimony Before Committee.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Nov. 30.—Scoring methods of hauling freight on railroads and declaring that hundreds of thousands of dollars were annually wasted by railroads because of antiquated terminal facilities. D. O. Ives, chairman of Transportation Department, of the Boston chamber of commerce, resumed his testimony today before the inter state commerce commission in the rate hearing. Ives said service generally throughout the country had deteriorated and that roads constantly discriminated in favor of large centres of traffic to the detriment of smaller centers. G. A. Post, president of the Railway Business Association, was the next witness. He said his association has refrained from expressing any opinion on the question of advances, despite reports to the contrary.

Looks Like Acquittal.

By Wire to The Reflector.
East Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 30.—Hattie Liblane, a 17-year-old girl, charged with murdering Clarence Glover, won the first big point in her fight today when the judge ruled that Glover's dying statement, "Hattie shot me," should be excluded from the evidence. It is said this means her acquittal.

ADDRESSES ON TOBACCO CULTURE

PITT COUNTY FARMERS GET VALUABLE INFORMATION

CARRINGTON, MATTHEWSON SPEAK

Eastern North Carolina Tobacco, Which is Mainly for Smoking, Has Poor Burning Quality. This Can be Improved With Proper Attention to Soil and The Fertilizers That is Used.

Those farmers who were present in the city hall today, and quite a number were there, received some valuable information about raising a crop of tobacco, and overcoming the deficiency in burning quality of the product of this section.

The meeting which was under the auspices of the tobacco board of trade, was called to order by Mr. O. L. Joyner, who after some remarks about the Eastern North Carolina crop and how the farmers had tried to find the trouble that gave their tobacco such a poor reputation for burning quality, introduced Mr. T. M. Carrington, of Richmond, president of the Tobacco Growers' Association of the United States.

Mr. Carrington only spoke briefly. He said better results can be obtained on the tobacco crop by improved fertilization, and the government is making investigations to determine how best to do this. Both Virginia and Eastern North Carolina stand low in the list of burning quality, and as ours is a smoking tobacco the purpose is to improve this quality. Chewing tobacco has increased only 7 per cent. in ten years, while smoking tobacco has increased 87 per cent., hence the importance of increasing the quality of our crop.

Mr. E. H. Matthewson, of the United States department of agriculture was the next and principal speaker. He went at detail into the methods of improving the burning quality of our tobacco, giving figures showing where other sections surpass this in this respect. Investigations have been going on for years, and it is found that much of the burning quality depends on the per centage of potash in the tobacco. Chlorine reduces the burning quality, while potash increases it, therefore it is necessary to study the soil and use fertilizers in the proper proportion to bring the desired result. Every farmer should aim to make 1,000 pounds of tobacco to the acre, and this tobacco should have 75 pounds of potash. He pointed out several formulas of fertilizers by which the proper amount of potash can be obtained, and by charts showed the relative product of different combination of fertilizers. It was a timely address and of value to all who heard it.

RAILROADS ARE WARNED.

Must Stop Juggling Dates on Bills of Lading.

Washington, Nov. 30.—To break alleged criminal practices of railroads juggling dates on bills of lading, the inter state commerce commission today issued warning to all railroads in the United States. An investigation conducted by the commission developed the fact that certain railroad carriers at Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, and other points were issuing bills of lading contrary to rules of the commission. This violation can be punished by criminal prosecution. An order is made that property to be transported shall be in the possession of carriers at the time bills of lading are issued and dated when shipping instructions are given.

Christmas Sale.

The Christmas sale to be conducted by the ladies of the Baptist church will be open Monday and Tuesday, in the Proctor building, next door to the county offices. They will serve dinner and supper on both days. Besides having many articles appropriate for Christmas on sale, there will be a wishing tree, a fishing tree, a doll tree, a flower bed and other attractions. Go see what these are, and take the children with you.

TESTIMONIAL OF APPRECIATION.

To Rev. J. H. Shore by Baraca Class of Methodist Sunday School.

In recognition of their appreciation of the work and worth of their pastor and teacher, the Baraca class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church at the close of the lesson Sunday morning read the following testimonial:

To our dear brother, Rev. J. H. Shore:

On this Sunday which marks the close of another conference year, the members of the Baraca class of the Jarvis Memorial church, Greenville, N. C., wish to express to you their sincere appreciation of your earnest and faithful ministry to us as friend as pastor, as teacher.

As the weeks have passed which measure the period of your association with us, we have learned to esteem and love you more and more.

With earnest words coming from a heart full of prayer for your people, you have endeavored to show us the way to eternal life and leguila in us those principles of Christian character that make for more efficient living and service in our community.

But your earnest, sincere Christian life, as you have lived it here among us, has been a far greater inspiration to us and has been to us an example in Christian citizenship. Actions do speak louder than words, and they always reflect the life within. Your ministry with us has been for good and for the upbuilding of Christ's kingdom in Greenville, for your life has shown us that your words were always spoken in sincerity and truth.

It is our earnest prayer that God may direct you back to us for another year of service.

We want to keep you as a friend, and as our pastor, and as our teacher, and Greenville needs you as a champion of civic righteousness.

"How sweetly fall those simple words

Upon the human heart;
When friends in holiest terms thus seek

Their best wish to impart.
From far and near, they ever seem

To bear a power to cheer you,
And soul responsive beats to soul.

In breathing out, 'God bless you!'
May God bless you and keep you and make His face to shine upon you and give you peace.

CLOSE OF CONFERENCE YEAR.

Greenville Desires Return of Rev. J. H. Shore.

On Sunday Rev. J. H. Shore closed the conference year as pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church here, and he will go to the annual conference at Elizabeth City with an excellent report of the work on his charge. At the service Sunday morning he received twenty seven persons into the membership of the church.

Mr. Shore has served the church here two years in which time he has greatly endeared himself not only to his own congregation but to all people of the community. It is the hope of all that when the conference appointments are read he will be returned to Greenville.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Greenville women know the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzyspells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Greenville woman's words:

Miss Susan Kainsaul, 503 N. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered from dull, nagging backaches and distressing pains through my loins. My kidneys were very weak and caused me great annoyance. My back pained me severely when first arising in the morning. I was so lame and sore I could scarcely get around. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wooten's drug store and through their use I was entirely relieved. The fact that my kidneys have given me trouble since then, leads me to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly."

How Old Should Hens Be Kept?

The age to which a hen may be kept and still be profitable as an egg producer is determined largely by the bird. I have owned hens that were not more than two or three years old that were by no means profitable egg producers, while others were good layers at three and four years of age. I especially reminded a Brown Leghorn hen which laid eggs from early spring till late fall the summer she was four years old. She did not stop laying more than a week at a time and much of the time she laid every day. When considering the age to which a hen is to be kept, the cost of raising a hen up to the time she begins to lay should be considered. This cost is distributed over as many years as the hen is kept and it is evident that with a hen kept three years the first cost will be only one-third of the hen kept only one year. Hens cannot be expected to produce egg a whole year without stopping, as they eat the year round, but a gro-wen hen does not require the careful attention when not laying that a young chick does.—Uncle Jo, in Rallough Progressive Farmer and Gazette

Why The Republicans Were Defeated

The following summary of reasons for defeat, from the pen of the Hon.
Richard Pearson, one of the State's most prominent Republicans, will be read with interest:

"Hon. Richmond Pearson, when asked how he explained the clean sweep in the State he said:

"Four causes were operating concurrently to produce the result:

"First—Keen disappointment at Mr.
Taft's constant preference of Democrats over Southern Republicans.

"Second—The illegal inconsequent and grotesque action of the Greensboro convention in trying to endorse Mr. Taft without qualification and in the same breath nominating to our highest tribunal the incidental men whom Mr. Taft had severely successfully inspected, insulted and turned down for an inferior office.

"Third—The ambiguous, impudent and obviously deceptive plank on local-self government.

"Fourth—But greater than this,
than these, than all—saddling upon the Republican party responsibility for alleged acts of Mr. Marion Butler committed or performed at a time when Mr. Butler was fighting the most cherished principles of the Republican party and assailing its most beloved and most honor'd leaders. This form of various punishment stands out unique in the history of political tactics and ma-like Mr. Simmons and Mr. Aycock must have laughed in their sleeves while the remorseless work proceeded.

"I believe that the fierce and passionate denunciation of Mr. Butler hurt the Republican cause less than Mr. Butler's admission that while holding the State's highest commission he prosecuted and later collected a claim against the sovereign power which had thus honored him.
There is no statute law against such an act because until now it has been considered unnatural if not impossible. United States senators are like ambassadors, and not even a Talleyrand or a Machiavelli, though each was a genius or ardent and daring nature, ever prosecuted a claim against the government whose highest credentials he bore.

"It may be said without harshness or intemperance that this act alone disqualifies Mr. Butler now a forever from becoming the leader of North Carolina. He has never claimed that distinction and Democrats are powerless to confer or covey a sound title thereto."

Best Managed City in the World

Frederic C. Howe, one of the more most writers on governmental problems, points the way for American cities by telling them of the city of Dusseldorf in Germany, in the December number of Hampton's Magazine. He calls Dusseldorf a socialized city managed by business men who do not believe in socialism.

The cities in America's problem of problems, declares Mr. Howe, its solution will not be found in a business administration. Its solution does not lie in merely putting good men in office, or in finding better political tools, such as the Des Moines plan.

The solution consists in making the city a humanized entity, with purposes and plans, with foresight and dreams; it consists in abolishing poverty and the costs of poverty, in training the people properly, in raising their standards of living, of happiness and of morals.

"I have often dreamed of a city whose ideals rose above mere business, a city that was built like a home, that had a communal business vision that was planned by city builders, and that served its people as a father might serve his children," says Mr. Howe. "And I have seen such cities in Germany, the nation which alone recognizes the portentous significance of the change which has taken place in the distribution of population."

"Of all German cities, I think Dusseldorf is easily the first. It is not an old residence city like Dresden or Munich. It is a comparatively new city like Cleveland, Milwaukee, Indianapolis or Kansas City. Its population was but 69,000 people in 1871. It now is 300,000."

"Dusseldorf, too, is an industrial city of mills, factories and workshops. It is located on the lower Rhine in the heart of the industrial region that has sprung into existence since the Franco-Prussian War. It might be as unalluring as Pittsburgh. It might be ruled by business men in their own interest as most of our American cities; it might be built without beauty and suffer from the corruption that has brought shame to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Denver, Cincinnati, and a score more. But none of these things is true of Dusseldorf."

"This industrial city is one of the best governed cities in the world. It has dreamed dreams and dared to carry them into execution. It is almost as beautiful as Washington, as full of the joy of living as Paris, and is managed with more scrupulous honesty, more scientific efficiency, and more devoted pride than almost any American business corporation. This city is built for the comfort and convenience of its people. It is designed as master architects might design a world's fair to which all mankind was invited for education, recreation and art."

"But the thing that most distinguishes Dusseldorf is this—her people and her officials seem to appreciate that congestion of population has made it necessary for the city to own many things. And these German citizens understand, too, that the things the city does not own must be regulated and controlled to prevent them harming city or citizens."

"Dusseldorf does more things for its people than any city I know. It owns its street railroads and the controlling interest in a system of interurban railroads; it owns its harbors and its docks and its slaughterhouses; its gas, electric light and water plants; it operates three separate banks and loan enterprises, a large wine business, several restaurants and milk depots; it owns and rents suburban villas and large apartment houses; it is a great land speculator and city land owner; it possesses art galleries, an opera house, museums and exposition hall, and indirectly owns the leading hotel in the city. It has public baths and cemeteries and pawnshops.

Dusseldorf has made a beginning at homing its people. It is the owner of suburban villas and model tenement houses and is a stockholder in a scheme of co-operative apartment houses in which the workmen are joint owners.

The country villas rent for from six to seven dollars a month. A three or four-room apartment in the city rents for about the same sum. The rooms in the latter are twice the size of those of the tenement house in America, and all of them have outside air. These apartments are as clean and sanitary as can be. The co-operative apartment are built about courtyards which serve as playgrounds and are surrounded by flower gardens. There is free water and a scullery with every flat of three rooms or more.

In order to secure an apartment in one of these desirable buildings, the tenant must become a shareholder in the company, buying five dollars' worth of stock. The tenants are not the recipients of charity. On the contrary, they are part owners and co-operate in the management. They elect a house manager, who collects the rent and represents them before the company. The tenant stockholders receive four per cent a year on their investment, and the company agrees to redeem their stock at any time on six months notice. There are five hundred such apartments in the city and ten large apartment houses in process of building.

"If the Dusseldorf workmen want a house of his own it is made easy for him to acquire one." Mr. Howe points out. "He can borrow money from the City Mortgage Bank, that annual business of which amounts to above $5,000,000. He can also place his money in the City Savings Bank which has deposits of over ten million dollars; and if he is in distress he can go to the City Pawn Shop and make a loan on his chattel at a moderate rate of interest. The loans of the pawnshop amount to $300,000."

Gov. Jarvis' Brother Dead.

A telephone message this morning from Jarvisburg in Currituck county, announced the death of Mr. George N. Jarvis in the 72nd year of his age. He was a brother of ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis, of Greenville, who with Mrs. Jarvis left Friday morning to be at the bedside of his brother. His many friends here at home sympathize with him in his sorrow.

A hunter from New York has sued the Southern Railway for $30,000 and all on account of a dog or dogs. The account says he took two or three dogs with him into the ladies' reception room at Salisbury. An official asked him to take them outside; he declined; there was a talk and in a few minutes the dog gentlemen grew wrathful and proceeded to cuss; then he was arrested and fined for disorderly conduct. The suit is based on this and is to be heard in New York this week. It is a pity the suit was not brought in this State. Under certain circumstances we would like to attend. —Greensboro Record.

BETWEEN COLLEGE TEAMS OF CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA

CAROLINA WINS ONE AND LOSES ONE

A. and M. of North Carolina Wins Over V. P. I. at Norfolk, and U. of N. C. Loses to U. of Va. at Richmond—Thousands of People Witness Both Games.

North Carolina came more nearly moving over into Virginia at Thanksgiving day than at any time in the history of the two States, possibly never so many Tar Heels being at one time on Virginia soil as on that day. What took them there was interest in college athletics and the spirit of pride the home folks have for their boys. Norfolk and Richmond were the objective points and the North Carolinians who went over to root for their boys found the Virginia spirit equally as strong for the home teams. Both cities were thronged with Carolinians and Virginians, and there was a happy mingling together of the two States with friendly rivalry as to which could show the greatest enthusiasm and display the most pennants. Colors of the respective colleges were in evidence everywhere, and in every imaginable shape.

The A. & M. college team of North Carolina met the V. P. I. team of Virginia in Norfolk, and the Tar Heels came off winners in a score 5 to 3 after a beautiful game. The farmer boys always save the State, and this victory makes them the champions of Southern college teams.

The teams of the University of North Carolina and University of Virginia played in Richmond. The Tar Heel boys put up a fine fight, yet they lost in a score 7 to 0. While North Carolina has a good University team, those familiar with the game could detect points at the most important parts of the contest. Greenville felt much interest in this University game, as one of her boys, Mr. L. Ames Brown, was on the team.

REMEMBER ANNIVERSARIES.

Wives Should Drop Reminders to Assure a "Surprise."

Men are "not so much" when it comes to remembering anniversaries, says Erman J. Ridgway in the Delineator for November. Occasionally you will happen upon a man who has been married more than 40 years who remembers to provide some little surprise for his wife on the wedding anniversary without any assistance from her, but usually it is safer for her to drop a little hint a week or ten days before the event.

Just long enough before so it won't slip out of his mind again. For men are so busy, you know. So busy providing food, clothing, and shelter for the body that poor little Cupid is often forgotten—shivering out there in the cold.

I wish I could think of some valid excuse for the men. But I can't. They are no better providing food, clothing and shelter than the woman. They forget, I fear, as "does delight to bark and bite"—because it is their nature to forget. They will tell you that they remember the occasion, and its significance. That is only the date they forget.

MRS. WHITE ENTERTAINS.

Gives Party in Honor of Mrs. Hazel White.

On Friday evening from 9 to 12, at her home on Greene street, Mrs. Herbert White charmingly entertained a number of friends in honor of her guest Mrs. Hazel White, of Greensboro.

The home was tastily decorated with pot plants and cut flowers with many lighted candlebras adding to the brilliancy of the scene.

The guests were received by the hostess and guest of honor, assisted by Mrs. Charles Williams.

Fruit frappe was served by Mrs. Richard White and Mrs. Will Lipscomb.

As the guests passed into the parlors they were handed score cards ornamented with Thanksgiving tukeys by Miss Nell White.

Heart dice was the game of the evening, there being ten tables of players. Mrs. John Ricks made the highest score and was presented a silver hatpin, a similar prize being awarded to the guest of honor.

Then there was a contest, a picture of a face being hung in the hall to which the guests, blind folded, tried their skill pinning eyes, ears, nose and mouth in their proper places. Mrs. Robert Cobb won the prize for this, a picture.

Refreshments in two courses consisting of block cream and cake, cheese, saltine crackers, coffee were served by Misses Hennie Whichard and Lillian Carr.

The occasion was in keeping with the Thanksgiving season, the paper doilies also being ornamented with turkeys.

There were about fifty guests in attendance and the evening was most delightfully spent.

Near Beer Must Go.

In a certain little town not 250 miles from Fayetteville the near beer people applied for license to establish one of their saloons and were refused. They secured license from the county, or at any rate they established a near beer saloon just beyond the incorporate limits. It has been in operation perhaps a year. The pastor of one of the churches in that town told this writer the other day that three women had been to him with tears in their eyes and begged him to do something if possible to have the thing removed; that their husbands used to drink but had been sober men for years prior to the establishment of the near beer saloon and since that time they had been drunk much of the while.

If the beer is harmless, then the places where it is sold are simply covering places for blind tigers. Near beer must go! Weeping women say so and gallant men join them.—Fayetteville Index.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1910

Time can travel on an airship now.

Greenville ought to be reaching out for more trade.

Much of this kind of weather will make business for the plumber.

The government is making a sweet run after the sugar trust.

Wonder how long Greenville will continue to go without a fire alarm?

The press dispatches have Mexico all quiet one day and all turmoil the next.

The months flit by so fast that you can hardly draw a long breath between times for bills to come again.

You would see people pouring in on Greenville faster than houses could be built for them, if they could find profitable employment here.

Just because that fire Tuesday night was only a little one, is no reason that Greenville does not need a fire alarm.

Goldboro is following Greenville in throwing out the drag net for blind tigers. They every one ought to be caught.

A fashion writer says the American woman lacks taste. Guess he had never tried her on ice cream or candy.

The A. & M. boys show that farmers are not only the best corn raisers, but also are champions when it comes to playing football.

President Taft is said to be worried over a dam. He might call in "Uncle Joe" who could give him a few without worrying a bit.

There are many things Greenville might get, but is not going to get them until the people make up their minds to go after them.

There are all kinds of folks and numerous methods of locomotion in these days. Two fellows recently left New York to walk around the world on stilts.

The government discovering a $50,000,000 mining swindle, conducted by a firm in New York, shows that there are plenty of people who are easy to be taken in.

The eastern part of the State ought to follow the lead of the central section in developing its water power. The falls of Roanoke river above Weldon and the falls of Tar river near Rocky Mount could furnish electricity for all this eastern section.

If the farmers in any county in the state would stand up and demand good roads they would get them, but seems a hard matter to get them sufficiently interested.—Durham Herald.

Yet they are the ones who would receive the greatest benefit from good roads.

Greenville stands in her own light in no other way so much as in not moving to get factories. Just see what little opportunity there is here for men of much capacity to get employment. And again just see how much the business houses stand in need of the trade of factory pay rolls. But these things are not coming but simply waiting for them. The town must get busy and go after them.

The Four C's property, consisting of the Street railway system and the gas and lighting plants of Charlotte, have been purchased by the Southern Development company, and the "Queen City" is to be made the centre of a great electrical transportation and power system. This means that Charlotte is to become the most important city in the South. Just "Watch Charlotte Grow" between now and next census taking time.

The session of congress that convenes next week will consider the selection of the place at which shall be held the exposition celebrating the completion of the Panama canal. There are but two places mentioned—New Orleans and San Francisco. There is every reason why the former should be selected. It is not only the nearest seaport city of consequence to the canal, but is also nearest to the centre of population of the United States and far more accessible than San Francisco.

Every road overseer in the county should read the article elsewhere in this paper citing the law in regard to sign posts and marks on the public roads. We doubt if there is a road in the entire county that gives evidence of a strict compliance of this law, yet every road overseer is himself liable to the law for failure to have his road marked as the law directs. Now that attention is called to the law, there ought to be some getting busy to put up sign posts and marks.

The Wilmington Dispatch and The Greenville Reflector are engaged in an interesting discussion of the medus operandi of the art of kissing. Neither seems to be aware that the subject is heavily loaded.—Charlotte Observer.

In our opinion both of our contemporaries are past the stage in life of discussing a subject of this kind.—Louisburg Times.

Did you ever hear the like of that? When a man gets too old to discuss a good thing it is time he was planned in the cemetery.

The Brazilian authorities perhaps understand that in granting the demands of the mutineers they are encouraging that sort of thing for the future.—Durham Herald.

But how could they help themselves? It was their own navy that mutinied, and the mutineers being in control of the warships with guns aimed on the city, the government had nothing left to fight with, and there was nothing left but to yield or take the threatened bombardment. And the same thing might happen in any country if the men in charge of the warships were to mutiny.

The South Atlantic corn exposition, to be held in Columbia December 5-8 1910, which is the first undertaking of its kind ever attempted in the South, gives every promise of being a great success. The state corn contest and the boys' corn club have developed and are still developing the public interest in the matter. Yields of corn. Now, that so much has been accomplished in that direction, this corn exposition is to be held with a view of setting the machinery in motion to improve the quality of the corn raised in this and our sister states, to stimulate breeding work and make corn bring more per bushel.

Some people argue that they are afraid of banks, therefore will not put their money in them. Well, maybe they do hear of a bank failing once in a while, but they read of a hundred times more cases of people losing money by their home being robbed or burned. Not only is a bank the safest place to keep money, but a man who keeps money about his home endangers the life of himself and every member of his family. Just let it be found out that you keep money about the house and somebody will be watching for a chance to rob you. And things of this kind happen more frequently at this time of year than perhaps at any other. Go put your money in the bank where it will be taken care of until you need it.

We had hoped the thing would be allowed to drop; but Col Jimmy Cowan stirs it up worse than ever in this one: "Dr. Hawley Crippen may have been a fine dentist, but he certainly didn't have a pull with these English courts." Next thing Whichard, or somebody else, will be wondering if Crippen carried his pulli- mens and tweezers and things with him on his last trip.—Greensboro News.

Not this time, as this is too serious a matter to make a subject of levity. When a man passes from his world to another, he should not be pursued even by the newspaper punster.

"Why don't the men let the women alone?" asks Col. Reece, of the Greensboro Record. Of course, we don't suppose he is hitting at any particular person, but we know one that his remarks fit precisely. However, we will not mention the name of this head-headed Greenville newspaper man.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Oh, you dodger! Always wanting to say somebody else is guilty, when you know you are the one aimed at, as to the remark fitting us, that's all right, for we don't want to lose sight of the fact that woman is the best of all creation, and this work, great as it is, would be a worthless place without her.

Recently The Reflector had something to say along the line of Pitt county holding an agricultural and stock exhibit. Talking a few days ago with Mr. John F. Evans, manager for Pitt county of the farm demonstration work, he said it was rather late now to have a creditable exhibit this year, as farmers are practically through housing their crops and could not make proper selections. But he said next year ought to develop something along this line, and farmers should begin preparing for it right at the first of the planting season, and then keep in mind as the work on their crops progress so as to select the best products for exhibit. If the farmers will take hold of this in earnest we believe Pitt county can make as good an exhibit as any other county in the State can show.

Corn smut gets into the corn from the smutty stalks going into the manure and out on the land, and it goes into the plant only in the germinating stage. You can put smut into the up of a corn stalk knee-high and fill it with smut, and it will not affect the plant. It is never carried by the seeds and the way to get rid of it is to cut and burn every smutty plant and not let it go to the barnyard at all.—Progressive Farmer and Gardener.

C. T. Munford

Rev. Len G. Broughton, of Atlanta, has paid his respects to the hobble skirt, and he did so thusly:

"The biggest piece of tomfoolery that the devil ever put off on woman is the hobble skirt. It makes a woman appear in her walk like a Georgia convict in the chain gang. Our women are too much in for fads—just any old fad."

New England Sentiment.

There is a widespread feeling, in which thousands of Republicans share, that the Democratic victories of last month are an excellent thing for the country. The striking victory of Mr. Foss, as Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts was not a merely personal affair. Governor Draper had made an excellent executive, and the voters were not expressing disapproval of him. New England desires tariff reciprocity with Canada and policies more progressive than those that the Republican party at Washington has made its own in recent years. The earlier Democratic victory in Maine was merely a foreshadowing of what Massachusetts did last month. Republican success in New Hampshire where Mr. Bass was elected governor by a good majority, can be attributed to the fact that this progressive young Republican was nominated as the result of a preliminary party house-cleaning. Although Rhode Island was carried by the Republicans, it should not be overlooked that the moral victory was with the Democrats. This is readily seen when one remembers that last year Governor Putnam carried the State by a majority of about 12,000, while this year his majority is less than 1,000. When one further keeps in mind the total population of the State, it will be seen that the shrinkage of the Republican vote in Rhode Island is incomparably greater than that in New York. Thus the people who have been so eager to say that Roosevelt was re-elected by the Democratic victory in New York should be candid enough to admit that Senator Hale was far more decisively rebuffed by the Democratic victory in Maine, that Senator Aldrich was likewise rebuffed by the falling off in Rhode Island's plurality, that Senator Lodge by intercourse, was repudiated in Massachusetts, and that Senator Bulkeley was unparagonably condemned in Connecticut. Owing to the peculiar system of representation in New England and the Republicans of the Massachusetts legislature will be in sufficient majority to give Senator Lodge another term. But a number of them are opposed to Mr. Lodge, and if they should combine with the Democrats it is possible, though unlikely, that Mr. Lodge may lose his seat.—American Review of Reviews.

North Carolina counties which hardly know whether to show a spirit of progress or not, are invited to contemplate for a minute the vote in Wise county, Va., on a good roads bond issue of $700,000. Out of 4,000 votes cast 1,700 were for good roads. Thus, only 15 per cent. of the citizens of Wise county were content to act like the inhabitants of "Sleepy Hollow." What is your impression of Wise county? Why, the decision for good roads is proof enough that Wise is one of Virginia's most progressive counties.—Wilmington Star.

Did you ever get so mad that you couldn't see straight?

A Proverb.

A book publishing firm has been sending out a post-card with just this on it: "There's nothing in life that's half as nice as knowing you have the purchase price."

Whoever originated that couplet, originated a proverb. What could bring more elation, more joy, more happiness, than to have the price? The bill collector would be eliminated from one's thoughts by day and dreams by night—dreams that cause many a waking moment and a wracking of the brain that sometimes wrecks it. Many a good man has been caught without a price by a combination of circumstances which he could not control, but while that may relieve his conscience, it does not pay his debts, and he is in the same fix as those who have no sense of responsibility and do not care. It is a blessed thing to have the price—no greater truth than that has been penned.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Editor Caldwell.

Throughout North Carolina there has been a recurrence of pain over the distressing announcement that Editor Joseph F. Caldwell, of the Charlotte Observer, had another stroke of paralysis on Tuesday, at Morganton. The Observer yesterday says that Mr. Caldwell rallied on Wednesday afternoon, but his condition was "considered satisfactory" by his physicians, and there is nothing upon which to base a hope that Carolina's distinguished editor will ever again be able to write for us the articles which alternated between honest and fearless opinion, calm and cheerful philosophy, and the pleasant and amusing that made Mr. Caldwell the pre-eminent of persons. It is a sad reflection that an editor so given to his work and so full of life, should have been laid low by an attack of this kind. Nevertheless we hope that Editor Caldwell will be spared yet a while.—Wilmington Star.

Quality in Eggs.

Quality in eggs depends on other things besides freshness. The rearing of the hens and the conditions of the nests have a great deal to do with the market value of eggs. Many people do not realize that the flavor of eggs depends very largely on what the hens eat. They do not know that if the hens eat white onions the eggs will soon have a taste of the onions. Duck eggs are often strong-flavored, and on that account are not as well liked as hen eggs. Most people think that this flavor belongs to the duck eggs. The fact is that it comes from the feed eaten. Ducks are naturally gross feeders, doing a good deal of poking about the barnyard or marsh places for their food. Duck eggs on good sound grain will produce eggs of good flavor.—Kaleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Every school superintendent in North Carolina should follow the law as Professor Graam is following it. The flag of old North Carolina should not only float from every court house in the state, but from every school building and every state institution. There should be dozens of the state flags floating every day from the state institutions in Raleigh, yet it is seldom you can see one unless it is from the dome of the Capitol building.—Raleigh Times.

The Signs the Farmer Should Heed

The only signs any farmer needs to notice are the signs that show his soil to be gaining in humus and his crops increasing through good farming and clean seed. I have driven around the country this summer, and have seen field after field of corn when the man who planned it knew very well that the land could not make a crop of corn, if he knew any of the signs of poor land. And yet we see such men planting year after year, and failing when they know that even the moon or the seven stars could not give them a crop of corn or cotton on that land till it was improved by better farming; and men who have been working on a piece of land for many years write that their land is poor, and all because they have made no proper effort to make it rich.—Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

At last one court has taken the sensible view of the matter of near-jeer. The Associated Press reports that in Ohio near-jeer is now on a par with ordinary beer, according to a decision of the Supreme court in a case from Fulton county. "It was held in the original cases that malt liquor came within the provision of the county option law, regardless of the amount of alcohol in it, or whether it was intoxicating or not. The circuit court reversed the Common Pleas court and the Supreme court reversed the circuit court." It took a good deal of reversal to get it right, but right prevailed at last. This near-beer dodge will react on the anti-prohibitionists.—Charlotte Chronicle.

It is thirteen months before the newly elected Democratic congressmen can even introduce one to remedy existing evils. The first thing they would do is to fix it so that no congressional bill can be introduced until it is defeated and that the new member shall begin to serve the next month after the election.—Foreign News and Observer.

The fact that 120 representatives in the next house never sat in Congress before may prove a real public gain, as they know less about the mechanics of passing special claims and pension bills and working the patronage game in all its details. They may have more time to devote to what is really public business.—New York World.

Farmer William Jennings Bryan has settled down to hard work on his Texas farm, where he will spend four months planting Bermuda onions and planning for all his next year's crops. While the political field may be overcrowded, there will always be plenty of room, contentment, happiness and glory for all "down on the farm."—Sassbury Post.

The government has sent out a list of all cities that the census returns give over 25,000 population. Only two in North Carolina—Charlotte and Wilmington—are on the list. And some of the 42,000 braggers are as quiet as Teddy Roosevelt was after the election.

Nye and the Children.

As recently announced in the press dispatches, the Bill Nye memorial committee has approved of a pin, whereby the children of the public schools throughout the state will contribute to the memorial fund. It is proposed, with the sanction of the State superintendent, to have "penny collections" in every public school in the State on a day set apart for that purpose. It is fitting and proper that the school children should have a part in the erection of a memorial hall at the Stonewall Jackson Training School for boys and their contribution to the fund will be conspicuously recorded in the memorial building.

It is gratifying to note that the memorial fund is steadily increasing and plans will be considered at a meeting of the committee this week will doubtless result in bringing the total up to a respectable proportion if they are put into practice.

The Citizen believes that in less than a year North Carolina will be proud of the Nye memorial hall at Concord, and that the people of the State will have no cause to regret the aid given to a movement to perpetuate the memory of the illustrious humorist who lived and died within our borders.—Asheville Citizen.

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts the tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. Sold by all druggists.

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberlain's Liniment is applied a cure may be effected in three or four days. This liniment is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. Sold by all druggists.

Many persons find themselves affected with a persistent cough after an attack of influenza. As this cough can be promptly cured by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it should not be allowed to run on until it becomes troublesome. Sold by all druggists.

If you are suffering from biliousness, constipation, indigestion, chronic headache, invest one cent in a postal card, send to Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, with your name and address plainly on the back, and they will forward you a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Sold by all druggists.

The peculiar properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have been thoroughly tested during epidemics of influenza, and when it was taken in time we have not heard of a single case of pneumonia. Sold by all druggists.

There is said to be a congregation in Charlotte not a member of which plays cards, bridge, goes to the theater or dances. How would it do for the Charlotte papers to print a picture of this church and let us see what it looks like—a place that holds people of this most excellent make and character.—Greensboro Record.

Thimonsville, N. C., Thursday morning, November 31st.
Darlington, S. C., Thursday afternoon, November 31st.
Mullins, S. C., Friday, December 1st, during the day.

The purpose of these meetings will be to hear a report formulated by Mr. E. H. Matthewson, of the National Department of Agriculture, giving the practical results of experiments made in these sections bearing on the character of the land and fertilization thereof to obtain the best results as to quantity and quality, and especially having in view the improvement of the burning qualities.

There will be offered an opportunity to hear a practical discussion of subjects so important to everyone connected with the tobacco business and especially the farmers, on who, nearly every interest must depend primarily for their activities, should be very much interested. For the tobacco grown in these sections to more nearly possess the burning qualities demanded by consumers will not only hold in the greatest way everyone connected with the tobacco business, but it would so popularize this tobacco that there would be a considerably increased demand. To accomplish this and at the same time increase the yields so disappointing in the recent years, is the good that the Tobacco Association of the United States are making an effort to accomplish through the instrumentality of the department of agriculture at Washington, which will be ably and efficiently represented. This representative has been working for some time in getting up the proper data for this trip, and everything points that it should be resultant of great benefits to everyone connected with the tobacco interests in these sections.

THEATRE MANNERS IMPROVED.

We do Not Hiss the Villain, We Endow the Actor.

Of late our manners in the theatre have improved, says Louis V. De Foe in the Delineator. In the East, except perhaps in some of the cheap melodrama houses we no longer hiss the villain when he appears in front of the curtain to garner the rewards of his malevolence. In the one-night stands of the Far West it is now the custom for the audience to warn the unsuspecting heroine that her evil Nemesis is lying in wait behind the rocks along her path. We have learned, to outward appearances at least, to draw a line between the make-believe and the real.

But deep in our hearts do we always preserve the distinction between character as it is unfolded before us in the play, and the actor who is behind the mask? Do we often make the egregious blunder of confusing his own identity with the counterfeit he assumes? "The villain still pursues her!"

Reduce drama to its last analysis by all the arts and wilds of criticism and it will be found to be ever thus. And does not some of the actor's pretended villainy still linger with him in the popular mind after the curtain has fallen and the lights are out, and he has stepped back into his own individuality? In other words, is not a prejudice, conscious or unconscious, our unjust return for an unsavory character born of his imagination?

On Founder's Night at the Players many years ago, that great and gentle genius and noble man, Edwin Booth, sat at the head of the table in the famous club in Germany Park which his generosity had provided for his profession. Among the guests on that occasion, was an elderly banker from Denver, who had been one of the great actor's boyhood playmates. The banker was entertaining his neighbors at the table with reminiscences of those childhood exploits.

"The last time I saw Booth act," he reflected, "was as Iago. The villainy with which he saturated himself that night frightened me. You may charge it to my lack of imagination or to the weakness of my old age just as you wish, but I confess I have never quite trusted the man since then."

Here is an instance of a common tendency to confuse the actor's self with the character with which, for a few hours, he clothes himself.

Visiting Minister.

The congregation of the Memorial Baptist church was delighted to have with them Sunday Rev. J. Sullivan, pastor of the Baptist church at Washington. He preached excellent sermons both morning and night. The subject of the morning was "Twilight Rays from the Last Day of Life," and at night "Surprises and Disappointments of the Judgment." At the morning service the doors of the church were opened and three persons were received as candidates for baptism. While here Mr. Sullivan was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hart.

Nobody without any pepper in him is worth his salt.

AN EVENING OF MUSIC.

Miss Helen Forbes Delightfully Entertains.

"This is a musical era," says musical America. It is interesting to note that in Greenville there is a decided taste for that sort of entertainment which is nowadays claiming the attention of the "Four Hundred" set in our leading cities.

Miss Helen Forbes' delightfully informal musical on Thursday evening was a rare treat to her music loving friends. The affair was planned in honor of the recent bride, Mrs. W. L. Best, who had just returned from her honeymoon trip. Miss Forbes wore a pink satin gown elaborately embroidered in gold. Mrs. Best was daintily gowned in blue satin and embroidery. Those assisting in the courtesies of the evening were the married sisters of Miss Forbes, Mesdames Quinberry, Hadley, Moye, and Best.

After the large guest composing of talented women had arrived, they were served refreshing hot chocolate and pimento sandwiches. A most entertaining program of both vocal and instrumental numbers then followed, participated in by women whose ability would do credit to a town of broader opportunities than those of Greenville. Mrs. Ada Cherry, who is always pleasing, interspersed the musical program by giving several of her negro dialect readings. Mrs. Cherry, we understand, contemplates recital outside of Greenville during the social season. When repeated encores had been given those who took part in the program, the hostess served delicious fruit, nougasse and cake.

The out of town guests were Mrs. Robt. White, of Hertford; Mrs. Chas. Skinner, of New York; Mrs. White, of Greensboro; Mrs. Hadley, of LaGrange; Miss Sadler, of Baltimore; and Miss Whitfield, of LaGrange.

Death of Mr. J. W. Whitehurst.

Rocky Mount, Nov. 26.—After an illness extending over several days, Mr. J. W. Whitehurst died at a late hour yesterday afternoon at his home No. 403 South Main street. Mr. Whitehurst, who was a traveling salesman, came home from Virginia on Tuesday night, and while he was not feeling well enough to continue at his tasks, it was only recently that his condition was considered serious. The deceased was forty-four years old and was a wife and three small children, an aged father, seven brothers, and three sisters. He was a member of the First Methodist church and a prominent factor in the Baruka Bible Class of the Sunday school, having been one of the possibly half-dozen who were instrumental in its founding.

The three sisters who survive him are Mrs. John Cherry, of Parmele and Misses Minnie and Fannie Whitehurst, also of Parmele. The seven brothers are Messrs. T. W. Whitehurst, of Greenville; Mr. J. E. Whitehurst, of Mayeville; Mr. L. F. Whitehurst, of Hobgood; and Messrs. D. C. Whitehurst, Z. V. Whitehurst, T. A. Whitehurst and G. R. Whitehurst, all of Parmele. The aged father, Mr. J. B. Whitehurst, resides with one of his sons at Parmele.

Ayden, N. C., Nov. 26.—Thursday night at eventide Rev. Mr. Pittman said the words that made Prof. E. Sawyer and Miss Bessie Harriman and wife. Only enough were invited to witness the marriage as they were women and pledged to secrecy.

Thursday morning at 3 o'clock the spirit of the infant of Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Sauls took its flight to God who gave it. It was only a few weeks old, but was endeared to the hearts of the parents and friends. The little body was laid away to await the resurrection morn in the Ayden cemetery Friday. Rev. Mr. Adams conducted the services. The floral tribute was the most elaborate the writer ever saw.

Where does it come from? The gin here runs as steady now as in September. We gin your cotton give bagging and ties and a go turn out, and top of market for you seed, for the twentieth.—J. R. Smith Company.

Thanksgiving was duly observed in our town. Our people attended services at the Baptist church in the afternoon and the old maids' convention at night, and some smiled not accustomed to doing so, when our clever friend "Theodore" was found laughing aloud, but truly it was a funny time. THE KILLING OF A BEAR.

Incidents of a Hunt in the Eastern Section.

Mr. J. F. Garrett, and his guests, Messrs. A. C. Houser, of Buffalo, N. Y. S. W. Greenlaw, of Millbridge, Me., Lawrence and Frank Pinner and Daniel G. Fowl, of Beaufort have just returned from wilds of South river and report having had most sport gunning. Friday and Saturday were spent in and around Core creek swamp, where under the guidance of the veteran hunter, Len Merrick, they bagged a number of squirrels, several opossums and an extra large coon. Sunday was spent at Oriental, and before day Monday morning the party landed at Mr. Parker's place at the head of South river for a bear hunt.

Just at sunrise Len unleashed his pack of bear hounds and in a few moments the crisp morning air was filled with the shouts of the drivers and the music of the hounds. When Merrick recognized the baying of his bear dog "Pup" he informed the hunters that it was certainly a bear because "Pup" did not speak except that way to anything else but Bruin. After an exciting dash through the swamp, piloted by Mr. Merrick, the party succeeded in blocking the only line of retreat for old Bruin. And right here let it be said, that this particular bear was a veteran fighter. Time and again he turned to face his tormentors, but no bear could hope to cope with Merrick's dogs, so finally he was forced snapping and snarling, from his lair, valiantly contesting every inch of ground, straight towards Mr. Houser. When the big fellow finally broke cover with bristles standing and the dogs close at his heels those nearest to Mr. Houser say that his chest paled slightly as he realized that he was face to face with a thoroughly aroused and dangerous animal. But he proved equal to the occasion and at the flash of his gun old Bruin's huge bulk staggered to the ground and rose again to turn upon the dogs who had now surrounded him, swayed unsteadily on his feet for an instant and then, with a last defiant rush, the nearest dog, sank slowly to the ground.

Merrick and Whitley soon beat the dogs off, and then the whole party stood upon what must have been the largest bear killed for some time in Carteret county. After removing the bear's skin, the party weighed the anchor for Beaufort via Oriental and the inland waterway. The bear's skin will be tanned and a rug made of it for Mrs. Houser.—Beaufort Lookout.

MUMFORD'S CHRISTMAS SALE.

Great Bargains in Purchases and Prize Distributions.

C. T. Mumford, the merchant prince who makes things hum at the special sales at his store, has just started a great Christmas sale in which prizes have been marked down to money-saving bargains. Better still, for every 25 cents spent at this sale the purchaser gets a coupon ticket giving a chance at the handsome prizes to be given away on December 25th. These prizes are a china closet, a desk and a combination writing desk and book case. You not only get the goods purchased at discount of 20 to 30 per cent., but just as many chances as you hold tickets to get one of these prizes free. A large advertisement in this paper tells about the bargains and the prizes.

Banqueted by a Negro Woman.

A clever trick was played on one of Wadeboro's merchants a few days ago by a colored woman. She wanted to buy a dress on credit but of having the proper financial rating she was denied the favor. Later she returned and stated that she "just must" have that dress to wear to a party and offered to leave a new pair of shoes she had bought with the merchant until the next week when she would return and pay for the dress. This seemed fair and the merchant took the carefully wrapped pair of shoes and placed them under the counter. Two weeks and the woman failed to "come back" and then one of the clerks decided to see how much the firm had made on the transaction, getting a pair of shoes for a dress that cost only about two dollars. The package was unwrapped and contained a pair of old worn-out summer slippers, not worth a dime.—Wadeboro Ansonian.

ANOTHER WARNING TO COTTON GROWERS

STATE ETOMOLOGIST GIVES TIMELY ADVICE ABOUT PEST

THE COTTON BOLL-WEEVIL COMING

The Cotton Boll-Weevil is Still Making Steady Progress Through The Cotton-Growing Area, and It Gives Every Indication That It Will Eventually be Present in Every Section Where Cotton is Grown.

The boll-weevil has not "disappeared" in Texas or any other section where once established. It is not "becoming harmless." It is true that many localities which once abandoned cotton on account of weevil have again begun to grow it, and in some sections they grow nearly as much as they ever did. Whether this is because the weevil is less destructive than formerly, or whether it is because the growers learn how to escape its ravages, it is hard to say; but perhaps both these things are true.

But whenever the weevil comes in every State yet invaded, it has resulted in an almost complete demoralization of cotton growing for from 3 to 5 years; and when the community does settle back to cotton again, it is with more intensive methods on a smaller acreage, more reliance on other crops and live stock and not such a complete dependence on cotton alone. It takes from 3 to 5 years to bring about this change, and in going through such a change the farmers must make considerable sacrifice.

The weevil fairly knocks the props from under the credit system, at least for a few years. The tenants and borrowing farmers who are never ready to face the new conditions are not able to meet their obligations in the fall, and the merchants fail or refuse to advance on cotton next year.

It is not our purpose to discuss the appearance, habits and injuries of the boll-weevil, nor to discuss the ways in which it is combatted. These things have been placed before the public repeatedly, and any cotton farmer in North Carolina can get literature on the subject by writing to this office. But we do want our farmers to be looking ahead and planning the course they are to pursue when the weevil gets here. Go ahead with cotton if you wish, but all the time keep yourself asking, "Can I do this when the weevil comes? Is so, how? and if not, what can I grow to replace the cotton?"

Of course, we all hope that the weevil may not reach us. We hope that if it does reach us it will not be as destructive as in the other sections; but we warn you that we have no basis for believing that we will be favored in this way. So the only wise course is to be studying the methods of meeting the problem when it comes. In Mississippi and Louisiana some farmers have done this nicely. Beginning years in advance, they gradually turned their attention to other crops or to hogs or cattle, but kept on raising cotton up to the very year when the weevil was upon them, and then they were prepared to drop the cotton altogether and make a good living from a the other things. When the community settles down to cotton again these farmers can return to cotton or not, as they wish.

The boll-weevil now occupies all of Texas except the western portion, neighboring parts of Oklahoma and Arkansas, all of Louisiana, about two-thirds of Mississippi, and the southwestern corner of Alabama. Allowing for normal increase in the rate of increase for the future it seems reasonable to believe it will reach North Carolina in from 6 to 10 years—that is, from 1916 to 1920.

A few years ago we all thought that it would come more quickly, but while it is coming steadily it has spread only gradually, without a big jump; so it seems that we will have several years yet in which to prepare for it.

Remember, I do not say that you must "quit cotton." I do not say that the weevil will of a certainty reach us at all. But I do say that it will in all probability reach us, and that it is our business to be studying the methods by which we can best meet it when it does come. Meanwhile keep on growing cotton if that is your preference, but keep posted on the progress of the weevil and see to it that you are not caught unprepared when the time comes.

A Famous Hotel.

The Reflector has received a beautiful menu card of Thanksgiving dinner at Ricks Hotel in Rocky Mount. It in every way shows the excellence of that famous hotel, and that it is not surpassed by those even of large cities. Mr. T. L. Bland the proprietor, who is a Pitt county boy, is to be congratulated on the reputation he has made for the Ricks Hotel. Before getting this menu card we had already heard of persons who took dinner there on Thanksgiving day speak of its excellence.

Mr. J. A. Simmons Dead.

Mr. James A. Simmons died at Roanoke Rapids on November 18th. He was a son of Mr. M. W. Simmons. He was reared in Greenville township, this county where he lived until 13 years of age when his father moved away. Young Simmons attended school one year at McLeansville, and then took up branches in the National Correspondence School, and would soon have graduated in art when he was taken ill and died. The remains were brought to Stokes Saturday night and carried to the home of his sister Mrs. J. H. Harris, the burial taking place Sunday.

Daily Paper the Best.

Of all the advertising schemes devised, we have yet to see one which can compare favorably with the daily newspaper. Such men, and advertisers as the late P. T. In placing your advertisement always have an eye to the reliability of the medium.—New Bern Sun.
