

A LEGAL DILEMMA

Tangle of Red Tape In an English Extradition Case.

GETTING AROUND THE LAW.

Only the Quick Wit of the Canadian Police Inspector Kept a Notorious Criminal in Custody When in Reality He Was as Free as the Air.

The manner in which a prisoner extradited to England from a foreign country is treated while on the voyage home depends very much on the detective who has him in charge and also on whether or no there is any suspicion that he may be contemplating violence either to himself or to others.

For instance, in the case of Jabez Balfour, who was taken to England all the way from Buenos Aires, there was a strong suspicion—probably ill founded—that he contemplated committing suicide. Consequently Inspector Frost, who had him in charge, decided to take no risks that he could possibly avoid.

The regulations do not permit of an unconvicted prisoner being handcuffed on board ship once the vessel has left port, and he must be allowed one hour's exercise on deck each day. These indulgences, if indulgences they may be called, were therefore not withheld from Balfour.

But he got few others. For twenty-three hours out of every twenty-four he was immured in a locked cabin. He was not permitted even to enter the public dining room, his meals being brought to him by Mr. Frost himself after the rest of the passengers had fed. He was, besides, constantly watched and was subjected to a most rigorous search immediately on coming aboard.

His only relaxation was an occasional game of chess with some of the passengers who kindly came to his cabin to play with him by permission and in the presence of his keeper. This sea imprisonment lasted exactly one month and a day, and Balfour afterward declared that it was the most trying experience of a captivity that was destined to continue for nearly twelve years.

One of the longest and in its later stages one of the pleasantest voyages ever undertaken by an unconvicted criminal was that which Charles Hyatt Davidson, the notorious forger, made some years back in the custody of Chief Inspector Murray of the Canadian department of justice.

Murray tracked the wanted man to Mexico and secured his extradition to Canada. But then his difficulties began. He could not bring his prisoner to Canada by the direct route through the United States, for immediately Davidson set foot in that country he could have demanded to be released. There was therefore nothing for it but to convey him by way of Jamaica and England and thence back across the Atlantic to Quebec.

On the voyage Murray kept Davidson under close observation, although allowing him considerably more freedom than Frost allowed Balfour. When, however, he had got safely as far as London he was both mortified and astonished at the likelihood of his having had all his trouble for nothing.

The law was, he was told, that a prisoner extradited from a foreign country to a British colony could not be kept in custody in England for longer than twenty-four hours, nor could he be taken as a prisoner on board a British ship sailing from a British port.

Here was a dilemma. Davidson was free as air—had he only known it. But Murray was equal to the occasion. "Look here, Davidson," he said, "I've got you safe. There is only the last stage of the journey to complete. If I allow you to travel saloon with me as an ordinary first class passenger will you give me your word to play me no tricks?"

To this proposition Davidson, knowing nothing of the real state of affairs, was naturally quite ready to agree. And so it came to pass that one of the most notorious criminals Canada has ever known came home in state; free, yet not free, a voluntary prisoner, and yet an involuntary one.—Pearson's Weekly.

Tactful Truth.

"I appeal to Mr. Verity, whose truthfulness nobody doubts," said the outraged hostess, with a glitter in her eye. "Mr. Verity, do you think I supply my boarders with bad butter?"

The others looked eager attention to see how Mr. Verity would get out of it.

"Madam," he answered, with a bow, "the truth on which you compliment me forces me to declare that your butter is one of your strong points."—Baltimore American.

Bites.

The safest way to measure your maximum bite longitudinally is to lay it out on an ear of corn. To get the depth of the bite, measure it in a slice of watermelon.—Boston Globe.

Serious.

Mother—Oh, Elsie! What has happened to your dolly? Elsie—The doctor says it's a nervous breakdown. He prescribed mullage.—Life.

The Number Nine.

There were nine earths, according to mediaeval cosmogony, nine heavens, nine rivers, of hell and nine orders of angels. The number being perfection since it represented divinity was often used to signify a great quantity, as in the phrases, "A nine days' wonder," "A cat has nine lives" and "Nine tailors make a man." In Scotland a distempered cow was cured by washing her in nine surfs. To see nine magpies was considered extremely lucky. Nine knots made in a black woollen thread served as a charm in the case of a sprain. It was also believed and is still by some that if a servant girl finds nine green peas in one pod and lays them on the window sill the first man that enters will be her beau. Nine grains of wheat laid on a four leaved clover enables one, it is said, to see the fairies.

The Curse of Genius.

The somber, long haired, seedy looking man was speaking in a voice of rolling thunder.

"A million times a million fateful curses sit balefully athwart his hateful head of tow! Through the gloomy eons may his black soul sit homeless forever!"

"Off his balance, I suppose?" observed the stranger.

"Oh, no," said Smith; "that's Rimer, the well known poet, swearing at the editor who rejected his verses."—Puck.

No Practical Difference.

"I made a mistake," said young Mrs. Torkins, "and picked up my locket instead of the little gold watch you gave me."

"Never mind," replied her husband. "The only difference is that the watch doesn't tell time and the locket doesn't even pretend to."—Washington Star.

Police After Blind Tigers in Wadesboro, Gallon Jug of White Lightening Found in Buggy—Disreputable Negro Shoots Woman of His Own Race in Greensboro—President of T. & J. Buggy Co. Dead.

A feed of corn for a horse off two stalks is good corn. That's what Mr. H. Browning, of Monroe, grew this season—eleven ears on each stalk—not large ears, to be sure, but pretty good size ones. Mr. Browning has been growing prolific corn for a number of years and he has got the growing of corn up to high standard.—Monroe Enquirer.

Wadesboro, Nov. 29.—The police are getting busy these days. Police-man Howell found a gallon of whiskey in bottles in a buggy in the lot in the rear of H. W. Little & Co's store. He did not know to whom the vehicle belonged and left Dave Liles, colored, to watch while he tried to find its owner. Dave however, as soon as the cop turned his back got in the buggy and drove off, and neither he nor the booze has since been seen.

Greensboro, Nov. 29.—This morning at nine o'clock, in the presence of three others, Fred Gilmer, disreputable negro about town, entered the home of Bertha Price, a negro residing on East Washington street, and deliberately shot her down, with a forty-four Colt's revolver, the ball going clear through her body, entering below the heart and passing through the left lung.

Carthage, Nov. 29.—Col. W. J. Jones, president of the Tyson & Jones Buggy Company, of Carthage, died this morning after a gradual decline for the past three years.

The Cotton Picker.

We had been wondering what had become of the cotton picking machine. We had practically lost sight of it since the demonstration at Charlotte, some years ago, but The Norfolk Landmark has resurrected it. That paper learns from an article by Arthur Page, in The World's Work for December, that Mr. Angus Campbell, of Chicago, has perfected a picker after twenty-four years of experimenting. Many of the machines are said to be now in use. It is claimed that he machine will pick from 8,000 to 10,000 pounds of cotton a day in a good field and at an operating cost of $6. Of course, to this must be added interest on the cost of the machine and its depreciation in value. But to pick a like amount of cotton by hand would cost anywhere between $50 and $70. It seems that the machine also may be used for other purposes. Relieved of its cotton picking devices, a plow, planter, harrow or any other farm implement might be hitched to the 29-horse power tractor. It is the same machine that Theodore H. Price has been "backing" since it was tried here. We would like to see more of it and read less about it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Professor E. C. Brooks left yesterday morning early for his old home in Grifton, Pitt county, where he was called by a telegram announcing the death of his mother Mrs. E. J. Brooks. Mrs. Brooks died Sunday, the 27th, exactly twenty-seven days after the death of her husband. She had suffered an apoplectic stroke and though she improved, there was seen to be no chance for her at any time. Professor Brooks went to her bedside two weeks ago but found her somewhat improved and returned to his work. She was about seventy years of age and leaves four children.—Durham Herald.

SIX HUNDRED DOLLARS PRIZES

TO BE GIVEN THE PEOPLE OF EASTERN CAROLINA

ENTER NOW AND BE A WINNER

The Reflector inaugurates a Great Voting Contest—One of the Largest Voting Enterprises Ever Launched in the South's Best Section.

The Reflector today announces a Popularity Voting Contest in which beyond a doubt the interest will be more intense during the next few weeks than has ever attended any contest conducted by an Eastern North Carolina newspaper. This will have as its prime cause the fact that the prize list is expensive and attractive, and the knowledge of the Pitt and adjoining county people that the contest will be carried out from start to finish in a perfectly straightforward and fair manner to all parties concerned.

We announced this contest some few days ago, but afterwards decided to alter the prize list and put the contest in charge of a manager.

The contest is inaugurated primarily with a view to better advertise The Reflector in its field. We are endeavoring to give our patrons the best at all times, and we feel sure that every new subscriber added to our list during this campaign will become a permanent one.

There is a heavy expense attached to a contest of the character which we are inaugurating. Besides the heavy expense of the prize list there is quite an item of expense attached to properly advertising the contest.

In order that each candidate who enters the contest with a determination to win may be rewarded, the value of the prize list has been so arranged that the possibility of failure to win a prize is reduced to a minimum. Besides the grand prizes there are the district prizes and special prizes. Every article of real value

A Clean, Fair Contest.

This fact, The Reflector desires thoroughly to emphasize. From beginning to end the contest will be conducted with the one paramount purpose of making it absolutely fair. The interests of every contestant who enters the race will be safeguarded at every point. Speculation of any kind positively will not be permitted. The Reflector wants only bona fide subscriptions, paid for by the subscriber, and it will not knowingly accept any other kind.

It is desired that every person who enters the race feel that it is to be a contest of merit, in which the prizes will go to those who do the best work. To this end, The Reflector has at a high price, arranged for the most perfect and thorough contest system of recording and tabulating to be had in this country.

Nine prizes in all are offered by The Reflector to those persons receiving the highest number of votes. And it offers to any white person of good character, man woman, boy or girl, residing anywhere in its territory the opportunity to compete for and win one of these prizes without a cent of cost to him or to her.

Every one of these valuable gifts costing in the aggregate $600.00, are to be given away in the strictest sense of the word. When it is considered that a prize worth more than $300.00 may be won in a few weeks' time without the expenditure of a single cent, the contest becomes worthy of consideration by almost any person with a few hours of spare time.

For the magnificent prizes it is offering, The Reflector wants only a little work among friends and neighbors within its territory what it believes to be the opportunity of a generation, but it hopes at the same time to benefit increased circulation and new friends made.

The Reflector subscribers and publisher generally are invited to send to the office the nomination of any friend whom they would like to see win in the contest.

Ballots will be allowed on each and every remittance made on subscription to The Reflector. The schedule of votes thus allowed can be found in the contest advertisement elsewhere in this issue. Fifty per cent more votes are allowed on new subscribers than on old ones.

The contest will close February 14, 1911, at which time the winners of the excellent prizes will be determined by disinterested judges picked from the ranks of business and professional men of Pitt county.

How to Enter the Reflector's Contest. Fill out the Nomination Ballot published in this issue and send to the Contest Manager of The Reflector. Each contestant is entitled to one Nomination Ballot, good for 1,000 votes. Contestants can nominate themselves. They do not have to be subscribers to The Reflector. There are no obligations upon entering the contest and it costs nothing to try it. Send in your name or that of a friend today.

DOES CIVIC ADVERTISING PAY

MR. D. M. CLARK EXPRESSES SOMETHING OF INTEREST

WHAT WESTERN CITIES ARE DOING

Greenville and Pitt County Have Opportunities of Laying Their Advantages Before The World—Much Can be Accomplished Through Advertising.

It is an undisputed fact that wherever you find a successful merchant or other business man, his success is largely the result of an extensive system of advertising. The logical deduction from this dogma is that when a possession of resources that will be beneficial to themselves if utilized by others, it is a wise policy to advertise these resources or advantages. Therefore if a municipality is located in the midst of a wealthy community, with tobacco, cotton, and other staple commodities as its products and having two competitive railroads and a boat line with which to handle at a low rate both farm and manufacturing products, should not be outside world be advised in some form, of these advantageous conditions?

In support of this reasoning, we will recall that our prosperous western cities that have grown so rapidly within the last few years, have adopted some plan for advertising the industrial advantages of their particular locality. It is interesting to observe what some of our more progressive cities are doing, either by private subscription or by taxation, the way of publicity. Here are a few of the amounts that are being expended for municipal advertising: Buffalo, $100,000; Memphis, $50,000; Pittsburgh, $50,000; Portland, Ore., $50,000; St. Paul, $15,000.

Of course many other smaller cities do not outlay any thing like this much money on advertising alone. It almost all towns of any consequence in the west or middle west, have some form or system by which every asset is presented in its most favorable light to prospective investors or manufacturers seeking a change of location, and at the same time engaging the services of an expert to follow up replies to the most important inquiries, with personal visits.

The methods of obtaining this advertisement fund are different in the various cities. We will take for instance, Des Moines, Iowa, a comparatively small city, yet after an enthusiastic campaign waged by the Greater Des Moines Committee, a permanent organization corresponding to our chamber of commerce, the sum of $30,000 had been privately subscribed for municipal advertising and just seven months later Des Moines was better off by several new industries. Although this method of private contribution was very successful in Des Moines, the Leventworth Times thinks the fairest way by a moderate tax levy, so that as share the profits they should properly share the expense.

The Pittsburgh Gazette-Times advises the citizens of Pittsburgh that they should profit by the experience of their sister cities that have proved that publicity pays, and goes on Snow Sunday Morning.

People here were surprised upon getting up Sunday morning to find the ground covered with about two inches of snow, as late as the night before saw nothing to indicate that snow was near. Most of it had melted by morning.

TOBACCO SALES FOR NOVEMBER.

31,049 Pounds at an Average Price of $12.28.

Secretary C. W. Harvey, of the tobacco board of trade, has furnished the following figures relative to sales on the Greenville tobacco market:

The sales for the month of November were 1,181,049 pounds at an average price of $13.07 per hundred for the same month of 1909 the sales were 1,225,594 pounds at an average price of $10.53, showing that the market averaged $2.54 per hundred pounds this November over 1909.

For the reason from August 13th to December 1st the market sold a total of 6,812,79 pounds at an average price of $11.07 per hundred. For the same date last year the sales were 3,853,964 at an average price of $9.00, the average season price for the year being $2.07 above last year.

The Greenville market sold more tobacco in November than either Winston or Winston-Salem, the sales at Winston being quite a million pounds and at Winston a little over six hundred thousand pounds.

Fatal to Bryan and Roosevelt.

European travel, associated with kings and a study of monarchical governments seem to have a disastrous effect on modern American statesmen. Two years ago Mr. William J. Bryan came home from Europe the most popular man in America. But in less than 24 hours he had lost his chance to be president. His speech advocating the European system of government ownership of railroads was a death blow to his ambition. Theodore Roosevelt came back from Europe this spring the most popular and most idolized man in the country. He kept his tongue for a while, the most surprising event of his life when he began to talk he committed fatal mistakes as Bryan's theme was "New Nationalism." He, too, had become enamored with the strong governments of Europe; the power and splendor of the governing classes and the weakness of the people. He ridiculed our constitution and attacked the Supreme Court for rendering decisions in compliance with the constitution. His "New Nationalism" goes many bow shots further towards monarchy and away from democracy than Bryan's government ownership of railroads.—Newton Enterprise.

Governor Craig.

There is such a thing as filling a community a little too full of politics. In fact, it is easily done. But there is one thing that can easily be settled and now is a good time to do it. Let's name Hon. Locke Craig for governor and be quiet. He is one of the State's foremost sons and will make a good and great governor and will be nominated and elected and there's no use fussing about it. The Post would like to see it done quickly, without noise, or combustion.—Rockingham Post.

Possibly a War Relic.

Capt. A. J. Griffin has brought The Reflector an old bayonet that he found in the vicinity of where the old breast works were during the civil war. This old bayonet, now badly eaten with rust, was probably dropped or lost by some soldier stationed here during the war.

Natural Fertilizers.

In this day when intensive cultivation is being preached line upon line and precept upon precept there is some little danger that the term may come to be interpreted as meaning merely heavier and heavier commercial fertilization. The use of artificial fertilizers is necessary and when the various ingredients are combined scientifically yields large returns, but after all nature itself has furnished an unsurpassable kind of fertilizer which should by no means be neglected. A government expert offers some interesting legumes. A farmer whose corn acreage was averaging 15 bushels per acre in a crop of cowpeas, and the next season his yield jumped to 40 bushels an acre. Another man found that a similar experiment increased his crop of Irish potatoes per acre from 174 bushels to 241. Still more striking is the experience of a cotton planter. In 1902 this man used 1,375 pounds of fertilizer to the acre and picked an average of 1.6 bales. In 1905 he used 875 pounds and 2.14 bales, and in 1908, with the same amount of fertilizer, he averaged 2.27 bales to the acre. With a little more of fertilizer he reaped twice the amount of cotton, simply by letting nature furnish the greater part of the fertilization.

It is not logical, of course, to draw too strong inferences from one or two examples, but the figures just quoted shows what leguminous crops can accomplish when used as fertilizers. Intensive farming, to reach its highest excellence, must be so carried on as to be feasible at reasonable costs, for fertilizer bills run up rapidly into big money. It is not the gross receipts from a crop that makes the farmer's circumstances easier, but his net profit. A thorough understanding of clover and its kindred crops as fertilizers will undoubtedly go a great way towards increasing the latter economic unit.—Charlotte Observer.

Wonderful Tax-Payers.

A tax-payer is a queer creature—at least some are. The effort to make the city or county do work practically for an individual is proverbial. The other day three men drove eighteen miles to town to see the county officials to try to get a foot log placed across a small stream. Asked how long it would take to do this work, they said probably half an hour. "Then why didn't you men do it yourselves, instead of the three of you wasting a whole day in coming to town to have the county do it?" asked one of the officials. "Because it is the duty of the county," came the answer. As a matter of fact it is nothing of the kind. The object of the foot log is to save walking to school by taking a near cut. Just the day before this incident occurred a man came in and for the tenth time endeavored to get the county to raise a bridge across a small stream a few feet higher so that his cows could pass under it from one field to another. The effort to get something for nothing is common.—Greensboro Record.

Mamma Had Mentioned It.

"There was one man whose life was perfect," said the Sunday school teacher. "What one of you can tell me who he was?" Little Mary Jane's hand went up and the teacher nodded to her. "He was mamma's first husband," she said.—Beverly's Messenger.

FARMING THAT PAYS.

Rate of Cotton to here on 60 Acres—10 Bales on 5 Acres.

Mr. J. T. Thorne, of Farmville, has just harvested and marketed, we venture to say, the largest cotton crop to the amount of land used that has ever been harvested in Pitt county. The news has been given us but from sixty acres of land he gathered sixty bales of cotton and from five acres ten bales. This is the kind of farming that pays and we believe every farmer in Eastern Carolina can do as well if they will be careful in selection of seed, preparation of soil and cultivation.

Mr. Thorne is one of the few farmers who are taking advantage of the farm demonstration work. In preparing for this remarkable crop, which was demonstration work, he first began by making a very careful selection of seed, deep breaking of the land, with two-horse plows, and consistent fertilization—using 800 pounds of guano to the acre. A disc harrow was also used, and in cultivation he plowed light.

The seed from Mr. Thorne's cotton was sold for $1 per bushel and they will be used for planting next year.

The farm demonstration work carried on by the government is, and will prove the greatest boon to the farmers of anything that has ever set forth for their uplift.

"I have taken it every Spring and Fall for four years, and I find that it keeps me robust, strong, with splendid appetite, and free from any illness. A few years ago it cured me of catarrh of the stomach, which the doctors had pronounced incurable."

"I am very much pleased with Peruna."

Miss Mary Jones, 7918 Reynolds Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I can recommend Peruna as a good medicine for chronic catarrh of the bowels and stomach. I have been troubled severely with it for over three years."

"One year ago I began to take Peruna, the wonderful tonic for women, and I noticed a wonderful improvement at once. I took six bottles in succession and I always have it on hand to take some now and then when my cough is bad."

"Words cannot express my praise for your tonic. I weighed only ninety pounds before taking Peruna, now one hundred nineteen pounds."

NOTES FROM THE UNIVERSITY.

Election of Team Captain and Awarding Insignias.

Chapel Hill N. C., Dec. 6.—R. W. Winston Jr., has been elected captain of the varsity football team for the 1911 season. Winston has played on the varsity two seasons. His work at end, although erratic, has been brilliant at times. He will graduate next year.

The wearers of the N. C. met Tuesday and awarded the varsity insignia upon Abernethy, Calmes, Young, Parker and Applewhite. Four of these men are freshmen. The veteran star was awarded to Thompson, Garrett, Spainhour, Tillett, Venable, Winston, Ruffin, Porter, McLain, Belk and Brown.

The faculty committee on athletics has decided to establish basketball as a varsity sport in Chapel Hill. Trainer Nat Carroll, one of the world's champion runners over 200 yards will coach the team and have charge of the business affairs of the team for the present. A limited schedule will be arranged with the different colleges of the state. The sport will serve as a pleasant bridge across the time between the close of the football season and the opening of the baseball and track season. The team will be backed by the General Athletic Association. It is probable that the varsity monogram will be awarded to basket ball players for the first year or two.

Professor M. C. S. Noble lectured before the Davie County Teachers' Association November 26th, on English grammar and North Carolina history. Professor Noble is in great demand as a public speaker all over the state.

The Thanksgiving dances were given in the college gymnasium on Thursday and Friday nights. The Gorgan's head dance on Thursday night was led by Mr. R. M. Hanes, Jr., of Winston-Salem, the German club dance Friday night by Mr. A. H. Graham. Among the visitors to the dance Thursday night were Hon. F. M. Winston and Mr. Walter Murphy, who were in Chapel Hill in attendance upon a meeting of a special committee of the board of trustees of the University. About thirty-five visiting young ladies were in attendance.

The fourth issue of the North Carolina High School Bulletin is off the press. This number contains various articles on the teaching of different high school subjects by members of the University faculty. It also includes a list of the accredited high schools of the state. The bulletin is issued quarterly by the University and is sent free to high school principals and teachers who desire it. Its purpose is the upbuilding and raising of the standard of the high schools of North Carolina.

Stock and Corn Growing.

Beginning January 4th, the A. & M. college in Raleigh will devote a week, to course in live stock and corn growing. Lectures and judging from to be given on these. The aim of the college is to create more interest in live stock. Regular classes will be held, and those attending, and it is hoped all interested will do so will be treated as all other students and be expected to do their part of the work.

Anyway, the unwritten law seems to have a lot written about it.

RABBITS.

Shipping Business That Makes Siler City Famous.

The total amount of game shipped from this place last week shows that Siler City still holds the undisputed title of the largest rabbit center in the country. As the auto industry has made Detroit famous; the beer industry Milwaukee famous; the tobacco spirit Charlotte famous; the cherry juice The News and the server famous, so the rabbit industry has made Chatham county and Siler City famous. Possibly it may seem a joke to some people and a matter of unbelief that 20,000 rabbits were shipped from this place alone last winter, but such is a fact and the books of the produce dealers here will bear witness to it. It would appear that such a wholesome invasion of the rabbit family would deplete them to such an extent that the crop this season would be small, not so they are here more numerous than ever. The shipments from the place last week amounted to 3450. The shipments of birds amounted to $876. These rabbits sell here at 10 cents apiece, and much easy money is thus turned loose in the country.—The Grift.

North Carolina in the Lead

We do not think that we North Carolinians really know what we have in the Old North State or what tremendous possibilities lie at our very door waiting for us to seize them.

For instance we know that we grow apples to some extent, that peanuts are in certain sections an important crop, and that the state produces other things of a horticultural nature. But at the same time we have heard so much of the great fertility of other states, especially the states of the new west, that most of us have come to regard North Carolina as a very good state in many respects, but degraded by natural handicaps from competing with other states in natural products dependent largely upon fertility of soil.

We doubt of that, that it will come not only to us but also to a distinct surprise to us that at the national horticultural congress just closed at Council Bluffs, Iowa, North Carolina though in competition with every state in the union captured not only more prizes than any other state, but more prizes than any other two states.

A thousand dollars in prizes is not to be sneezed at for its own value, but what it means is worth many times that amount simply by way of advertisement for the state if for no other reason.

Two championship ribbons, 48 first prizes, 11 second prizes and 21 gold medals was North Carolina's "haul" at this, the greatest horticultural show in the world. Truly a record of which the state may well be proud.—Greensboro News.

Standard Keeper.

The board of county commissioners have re-elected Mr. J. L. Hobbins as standard keeper of weights and measures used in the county. He is a good man in this position.

Deputy Sheriff.

Sheriff S. I. Dudley has chosen Mr. T. R. Moore as his office deputy. Mr. Moore has had much experience in work about the court house and will make an excellent deputy sheriff.

Saved from Awful Death.

How an appalling calamity in his family was prevented is told by A. D. McDonald, of Fayetteville, N. C. R. F. D. No. 8. "My sister had consumption" he writes, "she was very thin and pale, had no appetite and seemed to grow weaker every day, as all remedies failed, till Dr. King's New Discovery was tried, and so complete a cure her, that she has not been troubled with a cough since. Its the best medicine I ever saw or heard of." For coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhage all bronchial troubles, it has no equal, 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. A GOOD SUGGESTION.

Representative-Elect Mooring Says Call a Convention.

Stokes, N. C. Dec. 1, 1910

Editor Reflector:

I believe that it is generally understood that the next legislature will make some change in the road law, and as the time is drawing near for the legislature to meet, I would like to have the views of some of our representative citizens along that line.

I believe that one of the greatest objections to a voting primary is that it does away with the assembling of the people in county conventions, at which time they could give their views on public matters.

I also believe that it would be a good idea to call a convention now and give the people a chance to express themselves on such questions as may come before the next legislature.

I would suggest that the chairman of the executive committee, call a convention at once, allowing each township double number of delegates so as to make it a more representative body.

G. M. MOORING

Unification of Good Roads Sentiment

President Finley of the Southern Railway lately said in a speech:

"Everybody has long recognized the need of good roads; everybody has been convinced that we ought to have them. Legislatures have appropriated large sums for the improvement of roadways, but there has been considerable working at cross purposes. Now we have a chance for all to get together and accomplish things with team work."

Upon this necessity for team work rests the work of county State and national associations. As a township cannot work its own roads to great public advantage except in connection with the work of adjoining ones, a county system is necessary. And as a county to get the greatest advantages should work in sympathy with sister counties, State organization is necessary. And to carry the idea further, the States should cooperate with each other. Last week there was organized at Washington City the American Association for Highway Improvement, the purpose of which will be to unite and coordinate into a nation-wide movement the good roads work now being prosecuted by individual states and communities. While each state and section has its own peculiar problems and must employ its own methods in the development of better highways it is at the same time true that the good roads question in its most vital aspects, concerning the entire nation alike. Certainly no state, county or township, can reap the largest measure of benefits from improved roads until its neighboring organization has been aroused to their importance.—Monroe Journal.

Gets a Fall.

On Tuesday while Mr. Charles Cobb was working about one of his new buildings going up on Dickerson avenue, he made a misstep and fell between the sleepers, skinned one leg and arm quite painfully. It was laid up for a day or two but is out again.

Love has enabled many a man to avoid the disgrace of dying rich.

What Good Taste Will Do

A short time ago I chanced into a country home which so perfectly illustrates this point that I wish to describe the furnishings in detail. It was a three-room log house; a living room, bed room, with the kitchen and dining room in one. When the present occupants found the house the old ceiling walls were worm-eaten and full of cracks, the floors were likewise old and broken. The "handyman" brought flooring and himself laid a beautiful selected pine floor in the living room. The material for the floor cost the sum of one dollar and a quarter and the work done at odd times cost no appreciable sum. The walls were covered with a coarsely woven burlap, such as is used in wrapping cotton bales, which cost in the neighborhood of $3 to $4. The burlap was tightly drawn into place and held fast by small brass-head tacks. A number of charming pictures, reproductions of the world's best pictures, all in tasteful, well-made, home-made frames adorned the walls. Dainty muslin curtains of an inexpensive weave, draped the quaint old-fashioned windows. A well-made library table of well-selected oak, of plain, simple lines a quaint little tea table, a comfortable arm chair, an inviting window seat, all the handiwork of the man of the house, supplied the main furnishing of the room. The color harmony of this room was ideal—the soft brown of the floor, which had been treated to a coat of oil, with the addition of a few tasteful rugs, the artistic wall covering, the delicate cream tint of the curtains, with the furniture done in a good wholesome brown, the result of a coat of good wood stain, gave one a sense of restfulness and fitness that no amount of money could render more perfect. Just a word as to the bed room. The floor here had not been renewed, but a good dark satin, such as I have recommended, frequently in these columns, had quite transformed the old shabby boards. The cracks in the ceiling walls had been covered with strips of muslin and a dainty, inexpensive wall paper covered the walls. The amount of money spent in the decorating and furnishing of this little log house was ridiculously small. More money was frequently been expended by the owners of limited means for a set of chairs for a living room or for a cheap, factory-made table than was expended upon this entire living room furnishing of this little cabin.—Mrs. F. L. Stevens, in Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

THE THIRD FIRE.

Like The Other Two There Was no Damage of Consequence.

On Saturday evening Greenville, N. C. in reality have the third fire with in a week, but like the two preceding it was not of much consequence. It occurred in a house occupied by colored people nearly opposite the Star warehouse on Ninth street, and was caused by taking a lighted lamp without a chimney up stairs in the "jump" from which some straw was ignited. The fire was put out with no damage to the building.

Those who had been anticipating with dread the third fire, now breathe easier that it came without doing a y damage. Nevertheless everybody should not fail to exercise care against fire.

Try This for Catarrh.

Get a HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) outfit today. Pour a few drops from the bottle into the inhaler that comes with each outfit, and breathe it in four or five times a day.

Immediately you will know that HYOMEI soothes and heals the inflamed and irritated membrane. But HYOMEI does more than to soothe and heal; it kills the germs, those virus-bearing pests that are at the root of all catarrhal conditions.

"Last year I suffered terribly with catarrh. I used one bottle of HYOMEI and my catarrh was better."

Miss Helen McNair, Loyalton, Cal. A complete HYOMEI outfit, including a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use, costs only $1.00.

If you now own a Hyomei inhaler, you get an extra bottle of Hyomei or only 50 cents at Coward & Wootens and druggists everywhere. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup, sthema and sore throat, or money back.

A Sure Way to Be Happy.

Herbert Spencer says that every creature is happy when he is fully using his powers, says Mrs. Durton Chance in The Delinquent for November. To have something to do that in the doing broadens and develops our powers, is the only way to be happy. Parents so often try shield their children by doing everything for them. What a mistake it is! It is just such children who grow up indifferent, self-sufficient and morally lazy.

By individual effort alone the character grows and in the act of growth only is it possible to know contentment. To enjoy this growth it is necessary to have some keen interests in your life, whatever they may be. Try to see into the mysteries of nature, even if at first it is hard to overcome the sluggishness of your mind.

Resolve firmly that while you study some one thing seriously you will continually be enlarging your interest by obtaining a superficial knowledge of many things. By a superficial knowledge I mean enough knowledge to have your interest stimulated so that you can be an intelligent listener on many subjects outside those in which you are trying to perfect yourself.

It is usually mental laziness, with a determined wish to avoid giving personal energy, that combines to make the kind of ignorance people choose to call indifference.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Greenville women know the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Greenville woman's words:

Miss Susan Kainsaul, 503 N. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered from dull, nagging backaches and distressing pains through my loins. My kidneys were very weak and caused me great annoyance. My back pained me severely when first arising in the morning. I was so lame and sore I could scarcely get around. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wooten's drug store and through their use I was entirely relieved. The fact that my kidneys have given me leads me to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly."

Debating Society Doing Good Work—
Senior Class Elects Officers—Four-

Other Notes of Interest About the School.

The enrollment at the graded school this fall has been four hundred and fifty children. There has been but little sickness among the pupils, and when the fall term closes the records will show a daily attendance of ninety-six per cent., perhaps more. The children have studied well, barring a few exceptions, and they have made good progress.

The school will close for the holidays on Wednesday, the 21st. It will re-open Tuesday January 3, 1910.

Supt. H. B. Smith spent Wednesday in Raleigh attending a meeting of the executive committee of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly.

Misses Hampton, Irvin, Gray and Knight, primary teachers in the school, have gone to Raleigh to attend the meeting of the State Association of Primary Teachers. The meeting will be a most profitable one.

The Henry Grady Debating Society has a good membership, and good work in debates and declamation has been done this fall. The last debate was on the query, "Resolved, that the United States should abandon the policy protection." It was one of the best debates the boys have ever had. The next meeting of the society will be given over to declamations.

Some weeks ago the senior class met and organized the officers elected were as follows: President, Miss Mary Lucy Dupree; vice president, Miss Josephine Little; secretary, David Moore.

The officers have ordered elegant class pins and in a few days the members will be wearing them with all the pride seniors usually take in their class insignia.

The graduating class this year is the largest the school has yet had. It numbers fourteen, as follows: Misses Mary Lucy Dupree, Gladys Fleming, Inez Pittman, Marguerite Higgs, Bettie Pearl Fleming, Eloise Ellington, Nina Harris, Josephine Little, Mary Brown, Maggie Savage, David Moore, Ben Taylor, Adrian Brown Spruill Spain.

The management of the school feels a deep interest in the coming of Dr. Rankin next Friday night. His lecture will be timely, interesting and helpful, and it is hoped that a large number will be out to hear him. Parents of the children are especially desired.

Another Reminder.

We do not like to be forced to refer to matters of this kind so often, but those subscribers to whom statements have been sent showing what they owe The Reflector, ought to be sending or bringing in the money. Do not keep us waiting, nor make it necessary to send another statement.

"MUTUALS."

Warning From The State Insurance Commissioner.

The State is now being flooded with circulars from "mutuals" and "interinsurers." They claim to furnish insurance at cost and in their circulars appeal to the druggists, hardware laundry and other different classes of business for support, and some of our citizens are being taken in. They do not give the security desired and in case of an accident they have the assured at their mercy. The contract cannot be sued on or even enforced by law.

There is no doubt but that in a large number of cases the officers of corporations in taking insurance for their companies in unlicensed companies lay themselves liable personally not only for the taxes evaded, but for the performance of the contracts, and besides are indictable, as they are by law the agent of the unlicensed companies.

How can our citizens afford to trust their insurance to those who are evading the payment of taxes to their State? If they are defrauding your State, will they not rob you, if an opportunity presents itself? In case of misfortune you will be helpless. You cannot enforce your claim, however just, by law.

JAMES R. YOUNG
Insurance Commissioner.

What Changes.

If this corn growing business is carried on much longer there will be a cry go up to stop it—that it is ruining the price, like the cotton planter. When the price got down low and remained there the cotton planters used to meet and resolve to plant less; then every last one went home and planted more. But seriously, when it is shown that a mere youth can and has raised over 200 bushels on a single acre of ordinary ground, while the boys in this county ran up at the first trial to 60 and 80, it would appear that corn ought to be cheaper. What a change there has been in farming! Years ago a man who did not have at least 200 acres of land was not considered a farmer; in these days a man who knows the business, makes a living from eight or ten acres.—Greensboro Record

AS TO REGISTERED MAIL.

Senders Must Request Receipts If They Are Wanted Now.

Sufficient notice of the change having been made, the Acting Third Assistant Postmaster General gives notice that in the future when senders of registered mail desire receipts for letters or packages, they must make known their desire for such receipt at the time of posting. Heretofore, all packages were accepted for to the sender without notice and latterly the clerks have been asking the sender if receipt is wanted, but hereafter, the receipt will have to be requested by the sender voluntarily, if a receipt is desired. This will be especially news at this season of the year when so many hundred packages are being sent for the holidays.

Worked Him in a Trap.

One of the slickest swindling games worked in this section for some time has just been reported from near Balsam. As a result of this, a farmer of that section has lost a valuable cow and four hogs.

Tuesday afternoon this man, by the name of Mills, was sitting on his front porch when a well-dressed man driving a good-looking horse, drove up to the house. A conversation was started and the stranger proposed a horse trade. A deal was after some haggling, arranged by which Mills was to give his cow and four hogs, together with $30, for the horse of the stranger. Saying that he couldn't handle the live stock, the stranger took Mills along with him and to some of the neighbors sold these animals, receiving about $28 for them.

Upon the return to Mills' house the stranger stated that the buggy belonged to a man in Waynesville, and that he would like the use of the horse the next day to take his buggy back Mills to accompany him and ride the horse back home after wards. This arrangement seemed all right, and was agreed to readily by Mills and the stranger was given accommodations for the night.

Some time during the night the stranger crept from his bed, hitched up the team and calmly drove away while Mills slept. Since then he has not been seen by the loser in the trade.—Asheville Citizen.

Don't Be Indifferent

"O holy indifference to the thousand things about which men fret themselves and worry, thou art half or three-quarters wisdom."

I once found these words pinned over the desk of a young girl in whose development I was much interested, says Mrs. Burton Chance in The Delineator for November. I took down the paper and replaced it by another, on which I wrote the following words of Jean Paul:

"I have made of myself all that could be made of the stuff."

Do you see what different lines of action these two thoughts put out for the developing character?

Indifference is not wisdom. More often than not it is moral laziness with a different name. By shutting ourselves away from the things over which men fret and agonize we shut ourselves away from all possible avenues of development. Development comes by the courageous meeting of just such difficulties as cause in us mental and moral agitation—the very difficulties which indifference would whisper to us to ignore.

Better keep your temper in check. It is more to you than to anyone else.

HORSE RUNS AWAY.

Two Young Ladies Thrown Out of Buggy.

Misses Ward Moore and Mae Schultz were out driving Thursday afternoon, and when about a mile from town their horse became frightened at something and shied out of the road striking the buggy against the end of a log. Miss Schultz was thrown some distance out of the buggy and sustained painful bruises, both wheels and the shafts of the buggy were badly broken. The breaking of the harness at the same time freed the horse from the buggy, and Miss Moore, who was driving, was pulled over the front of the vehicle and dragged some distance by the reins, and was also considerably bruised. She turned the reins loose and the horse ran on about a hundred yards, but she followed and caught him. Mr. W. L. Hall, near whose home the accident occurred, brought the young ladies home. It is remarkable that they did not receive worse injury.

Death of Mr. George Jarvis.

Elizabeth City, Dec. 2.—Ex-Governor and Mrs. T. J. Jarvis was in the city yesterday, returning to their home in Greenville from Currituck county, where they had been to attend the last sad rites over the remains of Mr. George Jarvis, a brother of the governor. Mr. Jarvis had been ill for several weeks and his death was not unexpected. However, his death was a great shock to the citizens of Currituck county, who valued him most highly. He was 73 years old and was one of the most beloved and influential citizens of the county. He was a descendant of one of the most noted and highly honored families in the state, being a son of the late Rev. Benester Jarvis, a man of precious memory to many of the older citizens, and a leader in the Methodist church of pioneer days.

The funeral services were conducted from the home by the Rev. James Y. Old, of this city, and the interment followed in the family burying ground.

A Fine Idea.

Col. H. E. Fries, Mr. S. P. Collier, Jr., Mr. W. H. Johnson, Mr. E. A. Shubert and Mr. H. B. Varner, are working over a plan for beautifying the stations along the Southbound and all of the farms and farm buildings in sight of the road between Winston-Salem and Wadesboro. The details have not been perfected, but it is almost certain that some novel contests will be started, offering handsome prizes to the farmers who paint their houses and barns and improve the appearance of their farms so as to make the best showing. Prizes will also be offered the towns that beautify the grounds around the stations and in this work the road will lend a hand. Handsome farm houses and well kept farms will do the section through which the road runs a great deal of good and the movement ought to be successful.—Lexington Dispatch.

Get inoculated with some public spirit. Quit being a dead duck in a stale puddle. Lend some of your brain, interest and energy to the public welfare and the upbuilding of your town. When a meeting is called to consider matters of public interest or vital importance go to it and take a hand. If we get a hump on us we will be liver and better citizens and the town will begin to look good to us. It would have the appearance of having its possibilities and potentialities in the hands of men with public spirit and earnest purpose.—Wilmington Star.

AS TO REGISTERED MAIL.

Senders Must Request Receipts if They Are Wanted Now.

Sufficient notice of the change having been made, the Acting Third Assistant Postmaster General gives notice that in the future when senders of registered mail desire receipts for letters or packages, they must make known their desire for such receipt at the time of posting. Heretofore, all packages were receipted for to the sender without notice and latterly the clerks have been asking the sender, if receipt is wanted, but hereafter, the receipt will have to be requested by the sender voluntarily, if a receipt is desired. This will be especially true of the year when so many hundred packages are being sent for the holidays.

Worked Him in a Trap.

One of the slickest swindling games worked in this section for some time has just been reported from near Durham. As a result of this, a farmer of that section has lost a valuable cow and four hogs.

Tuesday afternoon this man, by the name of Mills, was sitting on his front porch when a well-dressed man arriving a good-looking horse, drove up to the house. A conversation was started and the stranger proposed a horse trade. A deal was after some haggling, arranged by which Mills was to give the cow and four hogs, together with $30, for the horse of the stranger. Saying that he couldn't handle the live stock, the stranger took Mills along with him and to some of the neighbors sold these animals, receiving about $28 for them.

Upon the return to Mills' house the stranger stated that the buggy belonged to a man in Waynesville, and that he would like the use of the horse the next day to take the buggy back Mills to accompany him and ride the horse back home afterwards. This arrangement seemed all right, and was agreed to readily by Mills and the stranger was given accommodations for the night.

Some time during the night the stranger crept from his bed, hitched up the team and calmly drove away while Mills slept. Since then he has not been seen by the loser in the trade.—Asheville Citizen.

Don't Be Indifferent

"O holy indifference to the thousand things about which men fret themselves and worry, thou art half of life's wisdom."

I once found these words pinned over the desk of a young girl in whose development I was much interested, says Mrs. Burton Chance in the Delinquent for November. I took down the paper and replaced it by another, on which I wrote the following words of Jean Paul:

"I have made of myself all that could be made of the stuff."

Do you see what different lines of action these two thoughts put out for the developing character?

Indifference is not wisdom. More often than not it is moral laziness with a different name. By shutting ourselves away from the things over which men fret and agonize we shut ourselves away from all possible avenues of development. Development comes by the courageous meeting of just such difficulties as come in us mental and moral agitation—the very difficulties which indifference would whisper to us to ignore.

HORSE RUNS AWAY.

Two Young Ladies Thrown Out of Buggy.

Misses Ward Moore and Mae Schultz were out driving Thursday afternoon, and when about a mile from town their horse became frightened at something and shied out of the road striking the buggy against the end of a log. Miss Schultz was thrown some distance out of the buggy and sustained painful bruises, both wheels and the shafts of the buggy were badly broken. The breaking of the harness at the same same time freed the horse from the buggy, and Miss Moore, who was driving, was pulled over the front of the vehicle and dragged some distance by the reins, and was also considerably bruised. She turned the reins loose and the horse ran on about a hundred yards, but she followed and caught him. Mr. W. L. Hall, near whose home the accident occurred, brought the young ladies home. It is remarkable that they did not receive worse injury.

Death of Mr. George Jarvis.

Elizabeth City, Dec. 2.—Ex-Governor and Mrs. T. J. Jarvis was in the city yesterday, returning to their home in Greenville from Currituck county, where they had been to attend the last sad rites over the remains of Mr. George Jarvis, a brother of the governor. Mr. Jarvis had been ill for several weeks and his death was not unexpected. However, his death was a great shock to the citizens of Currituck county, who valued him most highly. He was 73 years old and was one of the most beloved and influential citizens of the county. He was a descendant of one of the most noted and highly honored families in the state, being a son of the late Rev. Benester Jarvis, a man of precious memory to many of the older citizens, and a leader in the Methodist church of pioneer days.

The funeral services were conducted from the home by the Rev. James Y. Old, of this city, and the interment followed in the family burying ground.

A Fine Idea.

Col. H. E. Fries, Mr. S. P. Collier, Jr., Mr. W. H. Johnson, Mr. E. A. Shubert and Mr. H. B. Varner, are working over a plan for beautifying the stations along the Southbound and all of the farms and farm buildings in sight of the road between Winston-Salem and Wadesboro. The details have not been perfected, but it is almost certain that some novel contests will be started, offering handsome prizes to the farmers who paint their houses and barns and improve the appearance of their farms so as to make the best showing.

Prizes will also be offered the towns that beautify the grounds around the stations and in this work the road will lend a hand. Handsome farm houses and well kept farms will do the section through which the road runs a great deal of good and the movement ought to be successful.—Lexington Dispatch.

ORDER IN MEXICO.

Reports of Revolution Were Exaggerated.

A card from Mr. John B. Tripp, formerly of Pitt county and well remembered here, sent from Mexico City under date of November 25th, says reports in American newspapers during the preceding two weeks, of revolutionary disturbances in Mexico, have in the main been untrue or gross exaggerations. The card further says the disturbing elements were very promptly suppressed, perfect quiet and safety restored, and the country will go forward with brighter prospects than ever.

It is said that all his mean acts are quickly brought up before a drowning man—and the same might be said of a candidate for office.

Cox's Mill Items.

Cox's Mill, N. C., Dec. 6.—His many friends will be glad to know that Mr. J. M. Cox, Jr., is able to be out again after a long spell of fever. Rossa Laughinghouse has also had fever for sometime, but we are glad to say he is improving.

That much talked of snow has come and gone, followed by a little rain. We have had lots of fine weather; much to be thankful for, crops were fairly good, prices fine and all of the good weather we could ask for in a house then.

Our schools are getting along fine. There will be a basket party at the McGowan school house Friday night the 9th, for the benefit of the school. All are invited to be present and help out in the good cause.

Christmas is nearly here and there will be many glad and sad hearts.

Cotton is about all sold around here. Tobacco is all gone. Another crop is to be thought about next. Wise plans should be made for planting the next crop, and don't plant too much tobacco and cotton, make a plenty to eat at home, and then we will be a prosperous people.

THE PRINCE OF LIFE CRUCIFIED

Matthew 27:33-50—December 11

"He was bruised for our iniquities."—Isa. 53:3.

THE trial of Jesus really took place shortly after his arrest, but, on account of the Law requiring a death sentence to be passed in daylight, a morning meeting of the Sanhedrin was appointed, which, in a perfunctory manner, confirmed the high priest's decision of the night before, that Jesus had blasphemed the Creator when he claimed that he had come into the world in accord with the Creator's long-promised plan that he should redeem Israel and the world from the death sentence, that in God's due time he might establish the Messianic Kingdom for the blessing of Israel and all the families of the earth.

The matter was rushed through lest the gathered multitudes, who had shouted, "Hosanna to the Son of David," when Jesus rode upon the ass five days before, should undertake again to proclaim him king. No execution could take place during the Passover week. And if Jesus were held a prisoner they knew not what might happen to him or to them. They had, therefore, but a few hours in which to carry out the plan which they believed would rid their country of a man whom they considered a deceiver and one likely to get them into trouble with the Government at Rome.

The Sanhedrin had authority to judge the people along the lines of their religion, but was prohibited from executing the death penalty. Hence it was necessary, after the condemnation of the Sanhedrin, to take the case before Pilate, the Roman Governor. Realizing that Pilate would not recognize blasphemy as a cause for death, the charge against Jesus, before Pilate, was a totally different one, namely, that Jesus was a seditious and raiser of disturbance; that he claimed to be a king and that his freedom was inimical to the interests of the Roman Empire. The foolishness and the hypocrisy of such a charge were too transparent to need assertion. Pilate perceived that for envy they were delivering him—because he and his teachings were having more influence with the common people than could be exercised by the chief priests and scribes. Pilate relieved himself of responsibility by declaring that since the home of Jesus was in Galilee, King Herod, the Governor of Galilee, should have the jurisdiction of the case, which he was glad to get rid of.

Jesus Before King Herod

This was an unexpected difficulty, but Herod's palace was not far distant. He was glad of the opportunity to see Jesus, of whose miracles he had heard much. As he looked at the Master's noble features and beheld in him purity and gentle dignity, it must have seemed ridiculous that such a person should be arraigned as a seditious and a man dangerous to the interests of the peace of the country. After a few taunting words and jests, the palace guards took a hand with the one whom their master treated flippantly. They put upon him a purple robe and a crown of thorns and mocked at his unkingly appearance. Then Herod declined to act in the case and sent the prisoner back to Pilate, perhaps feeling that he had had a sufficiency of trouble in connection with the beheading of John the Baptist a year or so before. The matter was a joke between Herod and Pilate—dealing with the case of a man claimed to be so dangerous that he must die thus, when he manifestly was so pure and innocent that the weakest would be safe with him.

Pilate's Perplexity Increased

Pilate was disappointed when Jesus was brought back to his court. The case was an unpleasant one to settle. The prisoner manifestly was innocent of any crime, yet his accusers were the most prominent men in the nation and city over which he had charge. Their good will must be preserved, if possible, and they were evidently bent on the murder of their innocent captive under the form of legality. What a pity it is that religion has been so often misrepresented by her votaries in every age of the world! A lesson which we all should learn is to search the motives and intentions of our own hearts, that we be not led into the error of the wicked—into violating the rights of others and thus fighting against God.

Pilate heard the accusations, realized that there was no truth in them, and then gave his decision: I find no fault in Jesus, but, seeing that such a commotion has been created, I consider it necessary in the interests of peace to satisfy the unrighteous demands of the clamoring multitude. I will therefore have the prisoner whipped, although I acknowledge he is not deserving of punishment. The whipping will be in his own interest, as well as in the interests of the peace of the city, for by satisfying the clamor of the multitude the life of Jesus will be spared. As political decisions go, this was a very fair decree. Magistrates recognize that absolute justice is not always possible in dealing with imperfect conditions.

But the rulers would not be satisfied with anything short of Jesus' death. The rabble was exhorted to shout, Crucify him! Crucify him! It seemed impossible for Pilate to appreciate that such a frenzy could be aroused against so innocent a person. So he inquired, What evil hath he done? But the answer was, Crucify him! Alas, how human passion can ignore every principle of righteousness! To add to Pilate's perplexity, his wife now sent him word, Have nothing to do with this just person, for I have had a horrible dream which connects itself with him.

As a last resort Pilate caused Jesus to be brought to a prominent place where the multitude could all see him and then he cried out to them, "Behold the Man!" See the character of the man you are willing to crucify. Note that he has most kindly features, such as none of your race possess—nor others. Would you crucify the very best sample of your race? Consider; be reasonable. Behold the Man! It has for years been a custom with you that the Government at this season release a prisoner. So, then, consider that Jesus has been condemned and that your conception of justice has been satisfied and that now I release him to you. But the multitude cried out so much the more, Crucify him! Release unto us Barabbas (a robber and dangerous character).

Thou Art Not Caesar's Friend

The Jewish leaders were shrewd. They knew that treason to Rome was one of the most serious offenses and in the fact that Jesus had spoken of himself as a king they had the lever wherewith to compel his crucifixion. They used it, assuring Pilate that if he let the prisoner go they would report him to the Emperor. Pilate knew that he would have difficulty in explaining such a case and that the Roman Government would agree with the decision of Caiaphas that one man should die rather than have any commotion in their dominion. Thus compelled, Pilate finally acceded and wrote the papers of execution, but before doing so he took a pitcher of water and in the sight of the people washed his hands, saying, "I am guiltless of the blood of this just person."

The execution proceeded. The soldiers already had two thieves to crucify and merely added another cross and the procession started for Golgotha, a hillside near where the face of the rock much resembles a skull. It is just to the north of the city, outside the wall. New buildings and a wall recently erected hinder visitors at the present time from getting the skull effect as formerly. The crime of each culprit was, by Law, inscribed over his head. Above the Master's head was his crime—"Jesus, King of the Jews."

Satan and his deluded dupes evidently thought that they had finally disposed of Jesus. The priests and elders mocked his declaration that he was the Son of God and demanded that, if he were such, he should demonstrate it by leaving the cross. They realized not the truth, that it was necessary for him to die for man's sin, in order that, by and by, he might have rightful authority, in his glorious Kingdom,

On the way to Calvary, where the "Prince of Life" experienced the end of his sacrificial death.

to restore all mankind to full perfection and live under the terms of the New Covenant, of which he will be the Mediator. (Jer. 31:31) At the sixth hour, noon, darkness settled down for three hours and then Jesus died, crying, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" In order that he might fully experience the weight of Divine Justice which belonged to the sinner, it was necessary that the Father should hide himself from him, as though he had been the sinner. This temporary separation from the Father was evidently the severest blow in all of the Master's experience.

Mr. Shore Returns.

It was expected that the conference would return Rev. J. H. Shore to the pastoral charge of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church here, and our people generally are delighted that he is to be here for another year.

ADDRESSES ON CHILDREN'S HEALTH

DR. CARTER AND PROF. AUSTIN
BOTH SPEAK

DR. RANKIN MISSED THE TRAIN

Dr. Carter Speaks on Adenoids and Visual Irregularities—Prof. Austin Speaks of the Neglect of Throat, Teeth and Eyes—Parents Should Give More Attention to Health of Their Children.

The chapel of the graded school was filled Friday night with an attentive audience to hear Dr. Rankin and Dr. Carter on adenoids, and their effects on school children. Much to the regret of all Dr. Rankin was unable to be present. He telegraphed that he was misinformed by the ticket agent at Raleigh as to the time of the departure of the train, and that he reached the station five minutes late.

Dr. Carter, of Washington, was introduced, and he dealt in detail with the subjects of adenoids and visual irregularities. While his address was at times rather full of technical terms for the laymen, in the main he was clear, and much good must come from it to the many who heard him.

At the conclusion of Dr. Carter's address, Superintendent Smith introduced Prof. H. E. Austin, who always does well everything that he undertakes, and his address was no exception to his rule. He told the listeners in plain terms of the terrible consequences of neglecting children's throat, teeth and eyes. He declared that every child has a right to grow up healthy and strong, so that he may lead a happy and useful life, and that no parent has any sort of right to neglect those important matters. In addition to resulting in impaired health, Prof. Austin showed the close relationship between poor health and crime. He said that unhealthy children are troublesome in the school, and that when they grow up there is an estrangement between child and parent, and soon he goes away, too often into evil-doing and crime.

The management of the school feels that a good start was made for better care of the children. There are many cases of illness among the pupils which is easily preventable. If a better knowledge concerning health and hygiene can be spread among the people, and especially a knowledge of those subjects about which people know but little it is believed that much good will result.

Received His Reward.

"I see you have your arm in a sling," said the inquisitive passenger. "Broken is it?"

"Yes, sir," responded the other passenger.

"Meet with an accident?"

"No broke it while I was trying to pat myself on the back."

"Great Scott! What for?"

"For minding my own business."

"I see. Never could happen to me, could it?"

"No."

"And if it did happen, I wouldn't be damaged enough to tell it."

Then there was silence in the car.

KILLED BY FOLDING BED.

Thirteen Hours Before Man With Broken Neck Dies.

Though his neck was broken when the folding bed in which he and his wife were sleeping closed early yesterday morning, Benjamin Lott, an engineer of No. 245 West One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, lived thirteen hours in the Harlem Hospital. When life ended at 2:10 o'clock in the afternoon the surgeons said only a man of his remarkable physique could have lived so long.

After the falling of the upright part of the bed the smothered cries of Mrs. Lott who was imprisoned between pillows and mattress brought John Redmond. He broke in the Lott's door and then called Patrolman Mahoney of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street police station. The two released Mrs. Lott who was taken to the hospital with her husband. Within two hours she was able to go home.—New York World.

The Mule.

You have endured so much of slander no wonder that it stirs your dander, O sad-eyed mule of mine! No wonder that you're brooding brooding, your scanty ears of coarse denuding, with yellow teeth that shine! Your tail, it isn't long and flowing; its shingled, and has whiskers growing in tassel on the end; your neck is dished, and never arching like that of warhorse, proud y marching, where strains of bugles blend. Your ears are long and out of drawing, and when you laugh your loud haw-hawing breaks distant window panes; and people jeer at and deride you, through all the ages they've denied you a decent share of brains. A thousand years ago or over some mule, fed up too high on clover reached out and kicked a gent; and ever since the superstition hangs on double-dinged demanition, that mules have fell intent. And yet, O mule, you're true and trusty! I care not for the legends musty, or prejudices old; you did not stack up high for beauty, but when the matter's one of duty, you're worth your weight in gold. Alas! Full many a human suffer like you, O mule, must live and suffer the world's contempt and jeers because he is not built for dancing or pirouetting, and for practicing and ungainly ears.—Walt Magor.

Accepted The Invitation.

A society woman wrote to an army officer at Fort Sam Houston: "Mrs. Smythe requests the pleasure of Captain Bunker's company at a reception, July sixteenth."

Next day she received this note of acceptance:

"With the exception of three men who have the measles and one who is in the guardhouse, Captain Bunker's company accepts Mrs. Smythe's kind invitation for the sixteenth.—Everybody's Magazine.

Not One in Ten.

A teacher in a big elementary school had given a lesson in an infants class on the Ten Commandments. In order to test their memories she asked:

"Can any little child give me a Commandment with only four words in it?"

A hand was raised immediately.

"Well," said the teacher.

"Keep off the grass" was the reply.—Tennessean.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1910.

And it is congress once more.

And congress must sit still long enough to listen to it.

The State board of canvassers found the Democratic majority to be 46,514.

The esteemed Congressional Record will soon be coming along again to help kindle the fires.

Some folks make undesirable citizens, and every town has some of that class.

The man who tries to climb by pulling down somebody else, deserves to fall.

A 11-year-old citizen of Lancaster, Mass., occupies his leisure time with sawing wood.

Congress will meet Monday, and the president will be heard from on more in a message.

Possibly Dr. Stiles is trying to make it appear to Mr. Rockefeller that he is earning the money.

The man who offers to show the railroads how to save money in operating is not from Missouri, either.

A New York judge is trying to break up the rotten egg traffic. Five tons of the bad were seized in forty-eight hours.

Raleigh citizens want a new market house, but the officers don't. That is the difference.

Miss Helen Taft has had her coming out party. Her father will have his two years from next March. Wilmington Dispatch.

Of the ninety odd million people in the United States, how many of them will read the president's forty thousand word message?

Macon is trying to get the Georgia capitol away from Atlanta. The latter is always happy when it is being advertised.

If adulteration and humbug gets much worse in food staples, folks will have to confine themselves to home raised potatoes to be sure of getting something pure.

The Wilmington Dispatch puts us down as the "Greenville News." That's the limit, Jim. We won't play with you any more—till you apologize.

Mr. Roosevelt says that on the 13th he will tell how it happened. Can't see why he should select such an unlucky day on which to break his silence.

Charlotte and Wilmington are the only places in the State that the census bureau have thought enough of to mention so far. But it got the two best.

The thing is coming nearer home. Both the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line railroads have been indicted for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Because one minister out of the large membership of the North Carolina conference went wrong, don't everybody try to throw a brick at him.

Another fiddler is happy. He had been earning a livelihood by fiddling for country dances in Massachusetts, when news came from England that a deceased uncle had left him a fortune of $250,000.

The Charlotte auditorium is in the light again. This time the sheriff is after it for three years' taxes. That auditorium is one thing the "Queen City" folks ought to chip in for and free from debt.

Senator Tilman, of South Carolina is showing his sticking qualities. When asked by a reporter if he was going to retire, he said "I shall not retire until they bury me. I have no idea of quitting the game."

We have heard of people's eyes giving them away, but the tramp run over and cut to pieces by a train, Florida, and was identified by his dismembered eyeballs is going some in identification.

In adopting the report of the committee on temperance, the North Carolina conference at Elizabeth City urged that legislative action be taken against the near-beer saloon and against interstate shipment of intoxicants. These are questions that should be agitated until laws are passed correcting them.

Cook, so the dispatches say, has written a statement in which he expresses doubt as to whether he discovered the North Pole. It he does not know himself, surely the rest of us do not. It might now be in order for Perry to be equally as honest in regard to his claims. We do not believe anybody has yet found the Pole, but were only near by.

Senator-elect R. R. Cotten and Representative-elect J. T. Thorne were in town Monday, and both expressed themselves as favoring the suggestion of Representative-elect G. M. Moorhead that a mass meeting be held at an early day to give the people an opportunity to discuss such matters as they would like to have their representatives take up in the next legislature. It is now but one month to the meeting of the legislature, and if such a meeting is to be called it should be done quickly. It is a good idea for the people to let their representatives know what they want.

Hogs Still Run at Large.

The adoption of the stock law in this country has utterly failed in one important essential—it doesn't prevent the hogs from running at large.

Go to church and there you will find the end-seat hog. Get on a railway train and you will find the one-seat hog and often the two-seat hog. He will occupy a whole seat with his luggage and his coat totally indifferent to the rights and comfort of others who have paid the same fare. Or, he may be sprawled out on two seats—gone to bed—and feeling sleepy, while, perchance, a woman carrying a baby in her arms is compelled to stand until the conductor or porter comes and pokes the hog in the ribs. Then he grunts—still a hog—and reluctantly curls up on one seat, actually mad because he is not allowed to have two.

It is natural for a pig to become a hog; but it is passing strange why a man should persist in becoming one.

But so it is—two-legged beasts infest the land and would sooner spit on the floor than in a cuspidor and throw their cigar and cigarette stumps and old quids of tobacco where they are offensive to refinement and respectability. They always leave unmistakable signs of their presence in bath and toilet rooms, without so much as a thought to the fact that a gentleman may be coming to use the place after them.

And it is all so unnecessary and absolutely without excuse. There is no earthly reason why a man should be a hog. He is created for better things, better habits and better living. A gentleman is never so selfish that he is blind to the rights of others.

We have the utmost respect for the four-footed hog who drinks his slops, eats his corn and with a contented grunt continues his fixed route to the smokehouse and the sausage mill; but we hold contempt for the two-legged hog who should be a man and won't.—Greensboro News.

Farmer in The Saddle.

The word is being freely passed about during these days of piping peace and prosperity that the farmer is in the saddle and for once it seems to be most forcibly true; for not only is he in the saddle but he has hold of the reins, his steed is under control and he is verily the master of the situation. Nor does any person have to go far from Charlotte to receive ample demonstration of this fact. A visitor to the office of The Observer gave the information that he was recently in the eastern portion of Mocklenburg, not a great distance from the town of Matthews and there found farmers owning and tilling the land, with nice, well-painted houses to live in, with conveniences about them, with carpets on their floors and pianos in their parlors. He found land that had offered of $200 an acre, land that this year produced an average of two bales of cotton an acre as a result of carefully conserving the fertility of the soil and highly fertilizing and thoroughly tilling it. In fact he was informed that one progressive farmer plowed his land deeply, spent $26 an acre for fertilizers, gave the crop proper attention and achieved the results that enabled him to harvest $150 worth of cotton an acre with enough remaining to pay all expenses of tillage and harvesting and other costs connected with the production of the crop except the $26 for fertilizer in other words netting a clear gain of $124 an acre for the year. Surely these are great times for our agricultural friends and may will be calculated to turn the drift of immigration back countryward.—Charlotte Observer.

Hogs Still Run at Large.

The adoption of the stock law in this country has utterly failed in one important essential—it doesn't prevent the hogs from running at large.

Go to church and there you will find the end-seat hog. Get on a railway train and you will find the one-seat hog and often the two-seat hog. MANY ENTER GREAT CONTEST

MORE ARE WANTED AND NOW IS THE TIME TO COME IN

$600 IN PRIZES VERY ATTRACTIVE

The Contest Bids Fair to Be The Most Successful in The History of This Section—Remember Even The Smallest Prize Is of Great Value.

Nominations continue to come in to the office of the Contest Department of The Reflector from a large number of wide-awake people who have been attracted by this paper's announcement that it would give $600 in prizes in its big voting contest.

From many sections comes reports of general interest. Almost every mail brings nominations and letters from energetic people who are determined not to let slip a chance to be handsomely rewarded for the expenditure of a small amount of energy.

Mainly responsible for this large number of nominations is the size of the prize list and the value of the prizes offered. It is a conclusion that with the large number of prizes there must necessarily be a large number of prize winners.

Of those who have already nominated themselves, or been nominated, a large percentage will drop out of the race, or fail to show an active interest, leaving the field open for those who remain to the last. This suggests that the large number of nominations will, in no way, effect the chance of those who have entered to the end. It is a fact that in a contest of this kind it is not the meteoric contestant who does a few days brilliant work and then sits idly by, who wins. But it is the contestant who moves along steadily, but surely and sticks to the last.

Just a limited number of these will be expected to enter and any person who will run a sure, steady race is pretty certain to be awarded a handsome prize in return.

More Nominations Wanted.

Many more nominations are desired—several hundred more are needed to make a success of the contest and The Reflector invites from all who feel inclined to compete for the valuable prizes.

A few inquiries have been received in regard to the exact manner the prizes will be awarded. There are nine prizes (9)—two grand prizes, four (4) district prizes and three special prizes.

The candidates receiving the highest number of votes, no matter in what district he or she may reside, will be awarded the $300 STULTZ PIANO—the first grand prize.

The next highest will be awarded one year's full course in the East Carolina Teachers' Training School. After the two grand prizes have been awarded, the highest candidates in either of the four districts will be awarded their choice of the district prizes and the remaining three districts will be handled accordingly.

The special prizes will be awarded at certain periods during the contest to the candidate having the highest number of votes at a certain period of the contest.

Subscription books may be had upon application to the Contest Department, either in person, by letter, or by telephone.

A grand prize winner will not be permitted to win a district prize.

Scale of Votes.

Votes will be issued on paid in advance subscriptions to The Reflector Co., as follows:

One year, $3.00, 10,000 votes.
Six months, $1.50, 4,000 votes.
Four months, $1.00, 1,200 votes.
Two years, $6.00, 30,000 votes.
Three years, $9.00, 50,000 votes.

All paid in advance subscriptions to The Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector (only one paper), One year, 500 votes.

Six months, 250 votes.
Two years 5,000 votes.
Three years 10,000 votes.

Credit for one-half of the above number of votes will be given all old subscriptions, for either The Daily Reflector, or the Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector collected.

For further information, write the Contest Manager, The Reflector Co., Greenville, N. C.

Boy Killed by Falling Tree Near Newton—Mr. R. L. Brown Elected Superintendent of Oxford Orphanage—North Carolina Ahead of Missouri in Tobacco Manufacture

Durham, Dec. 13.—Grand Master R. N. Hackett, of the Masonic order, called a meeting of the orphanage directors here this afternoon, and elected Mr. R. L. Brown to the superintendency of the Oxford Orphan Asylum to succeed W. J. Hicks, filling out the unexpired term. Mr. Brown succeeds Col. Hicks who has permanently retired from the work. He has been assistant the past year and has done his work well.

Winston-Salem, December 13.—An announcement is made today that North Carolina has finally forged ahead of Missouri in the manufacture of tobacco, the year's official figures showing that the North State has paid to the government a greater amount than any State in the Union on the manufactured weed. For several years the Carolina manufacturers have been endangering Missouri's supremacy until at last, according to figures from the record of internal revenue the trick is turned in favor of North Carolina.

Washington, December 13.—Hunt r Sharp, of North Carolina, was today appointed to be consul at Belfast, Ireland. His first appointment was as marshal at Osaka and Hiogo, posts of vice consul and interpreter at Kobe, consul at Kobe, at Osaka and Hiogo, vice consul and consul general at Moscow and consul at Lyons.
