Minister Challenges Minister in Spencer—Killed by Train Near Sanford—Man Found Dead Near Wilmington—Murder or Suicide in Charlotte Hotel.

Wilmington, Feb. 27.—Lying at the very edge of the water on Middle sound, near Wilmington, the dead body of Eli Herring, a white man, about 55 years of age, was found this afternoon by a relative, who was searching for him. Herring had been working at the farm of his brother-in-law near the sound, but last Sunday came to Wilmington, where his family resides. There was no communication between the two families until yesterday and hence Herring was not missed as those on the sound thought him in Wilmington and his family was under the impression that he had returned where he had been working. It is believed that Herring was intoxicated and laid down on the edge of the sound and froze to death. He was last seen yesterday a week ago. Grass had been twisted into a kind of rope and wrapped around Herring's body.

Spencer, Feb. 28.—In the course of a revival held in Spencer Presbyterian church during the past week Rev. G. W. Belk, Synodical evangelist for North Carolina, preached a sermon on the peculiar doctrine of the church, with particular reference to baptism. He challenged any one of his hearers to show even one passage of Scripture wherein the church is wrong. Rev. J. L. Vipperman, pastor of Spencer Baptist church, has issued a public invitation to Rev. Mr. Belk to set a time and place when the two ministers may meet and have a public discussion of the distinctive doctrines differentiating the Baptist from the Presbyterian church. It is not yet known whether the Presbyterian minister can meet the Baptist minister as the former was called home Sunday night on account of the death of a member of his family.

Sanford, Feb. 28.—John Howard, a white man, was killed and Capt. J. L. Jordan, section foreman on the A. C. L. had had his left leg cut off at the knee by being caught under some cars on the A. C. L. yards here at 9 o'clock this morning. During the night a freight train had derailed some cars on the yard near the depot and the section force with Capt. Jordan in charge, were sent here early this morning to replace the derailed cars, and they had just started to work at them when an engine on the west end of the yard hit a long string of cars and backed them upon the men at work. Howard was mangled beyond recognition, his head and the whole left side smashed into shreds. Captain Jordan only had his left leg caught as he jumped from the track and he was almost completely severed at the knee.

The pistol was fired at 10:17 o'clock this morning in room No. 18 of the Leland Hotel, where the young man was stopping. He arrived in the city Saturday. A woman, known as Louise Stephens, said to be the wife of the 28-year-old man, was thought by Col. H. C. Williams, proprietor of the Leland Hotel, to have been in the room at the time of the tragedy. She, however, stated shortly afterwards, that she was in another room and didn't even remember hearing the shot.—Charlotte Chronicle.

WILMINGTON READY

FOR THE BIG EVENT

A BIG TIME IS PROMISED.

Aviation Meet and Industrial Exhibit There March 9th to 11th. Special to The Reflector.

Wilmington, Feb. 28.—Throughout this section of North Carolina and the upper part of South Carolina, interest is growing in the great aviation meet to be held on the grounds of the Wilmington Driving Association (latter to be known as the Eastern Carolina Fair association) March 9th, 10th and 11th, when the Curtiss Exhibition company will have two of its celebrated Curtiss biplanes and two or three of its most experienced and well known aviators here to make daily flights between the hours of 3 and 6 p. m. Mr. Frank Herbert, the local manager, continues to receive reports which indicate that every town and village in this section will be represented as well as hundreds from other points throughout this State and South Carolina to witness the daring flights of the aviators and inspect the numerous exhibits of poultry farm products and implements, etc., which are promised. There will also be some midway attractions of the best kind. The railroads have granted a reduced rate on account of the gala occasion and they will bring crowds here, while the Wilmington people are making preparations to make the stay of the visitors pleasant in every respect.

One aeroplane has been built in Wilmington by individuals at a cost of several thousand dollars and bids fair to be a success, a few short flights having been made several months ago at Wrightsville Beach. A company has also been formed here to manufacture flying machines, the Comparative Speeds.

Two thousand years ago the legions of Rome swept across the country at a gait just about ten times faster than a wagon can traverse Stokes county in the year of our Lord 1911. The Romans had slaves with which to build their roads, and we are slaves to not build ours. Caesar was not half such a tyrant as our King Mud, while we are bigger fools than his serfs.—Danbury Reporter.

MUCH EXCITEMENT IN MEXICO

AMERICAN TROOPS ON FRONTIER CREATE SENSATION

STRONG ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING

The Turmoil is Greater Than at Any Time Since the Revolution Started—Americans Warned to Remain Indoors—United States Troops Moving.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Mexico City, March 8.—If American soldiers had actually invaded Mexico and were now marching on the capital, no greater excitement could be apparent than that shown today over the massing of the United States army upon the Mexican frontier. Coupled with highly censured reports of insurrection success in the north, and unofficial reports that President Diaz is ill, all elements prevail to make a situation of turmoil greater than at any other time since the revolution started last year. Anti American feeling ran strong. Knots of excited men gathered in the streets and denounced Americans. Americans were warned by police to remain indoors.

Washington, March 8.—The troop movement to the Mexican border continues with unabated vigor. From different sections of the country trains of troops are now headed towards Mexico.

Great activity is also displayed at the navy yards. At the Brooklyn yard the cruiser Tennessee, Montana and North Carolina are coaling rapidly preparatory for sailing for Galveston. The war department still says movement is only for maneuvers.

Changeable.

As Tuesday afternoon grew old it looked like a regular snow storm had set in, but about night there was a rise in temperature that turned off in more rain.

MRS. POE DEAD.

Mother of Mr. Clarence H. Poe Died Yesterday.

Mrs. William Baxter Poe, of Chatham county, died yesterday at the home of relatives in Georgie. Mrs. Poe was the mother of Clarence H. Poe, of this city and since Mr. Poe has been abroad had together with her daughter, Miss Daisy Poe, been staying with relatives in Georgia.

Her only son, Mr. Clarence H. Poe, went abroad last summer. He arrived in New York City yesterday enroute home and there found a telegram telling him of his mother's death. His boat was two days overdue, having been delayed by rough weather. He left New York last night and will pass through Raleigh tonight. He will be joined here by friends and they will meet his mother's remains at Sanford. From Sanford the remains will be taken to the old home in Chatham county for burial.

Mrs. Poe was a most estimable lady and had hosts of friends in this section who will learn of her death with regret. Her husband died September 4th, 1907.

Much sympathy is felt for the only son, whose home-coming has been deprived of all its joy. There were only the two children.—Raleigh Times, 7th inst.

Fire in Lake View—Convict Shot by Guard at Wilson—Woman Burned to Death at Fayetteville—Contract Let for Link in Interurban From Charlotte to Kings Mountain.

Lake View, N. C., March 6.—Two persons lost their lives and two others received serious injuries and burns in a fire which occurred early today, destroyed the Lech Crystal Hotel, a tourist resort, just open this season.

This morning while the county convicts were working on the Santonsburg road, a few miles from Wilson Tom Simms, colored, attempted to escape and was shot through the body by Mr. Speight McKeel, one of the guards. The ball entered behind the left shoulder.—Wilson Times.

Fayetteville, March 7.—Mrs. Celia Utley Mackethan, wife of Major A. A. Mackethan, clerk of the court of Cumberland county, died shortly before noon today as the result of burns received yesterday morning through the accidental catching afire of her clothing from an open fireplace in her home while preparing to attend church. As she was alone in the house at the time of the accident Mrs. Mackethan was enveloped in flames before help could reach her. Her clothing was entirely consumed and severe injuries received, which combined with the shock of the terrible happening proved fatal.

HON. JOHN H. SMALL HURT.

Struck and Dragged by Trolley Car.

Trenton, N. J., March 7.—Congressman John H. Small, of North Carolina, who spoke at tonight's dinner of the chamber of commerce in Trenton was struck by a trolley car here this afternoon while alighting from an automobile. He was dragged about fifteen feet on the fender of the car but when examined by a physician was thought not to be seriously injured. The congressman in alighting from the automobile which brought him from the railroad station to the chamber of commerce building got out on the wrong side and did not notice the approaching trolley car.

Miss Blandye Berry and Mrs. Mel. Pope narrowly escaped death Monday evening about 6:30 when a Southern railway shifting engine and a draft of cars run them down at the Chapel Hill street crossing, completely demolishing their vehicle and badly injuring Miss Berry. The buggy was carried some distance, and that Mrs. Pope escaped without injury is considered miraculous. Miss Berry was thrown from the buggy and received bruises about her body and face.—Durham Sun.

The contract for the first-link in the big interurban line to be constructed by the Southern Power Company has been let to Stewart & Jones of Baltimore. The link will run from Charlotte to Kings Mountain a distance of 35 miles, and the contract calls for its completion in 120 working days. The bid was $400,000. There will be a 1 per cent. compensated grade, and 80-pound rails will be used. The link will run via Mount Holly and Gastonia. The contract for the next link, from Greenwood to Greenville, S. C., a distance of 90 miles, will be let in Greenville the latter part of the week. There are some local matters to adjust before the contract for the link between Greenville and Kings Mountain is let.

Young Lady Teachers Hold a Basket Party.

Grifton, N. C., March 4, 1911.
Editor Reflector:

As this is the great educational era of the life of our progressive civilization, I write you this hoping you will print the same to show the great enterprise on the part of two of our lady teachers in proving that where there is a will there is a way. They developed the idea to make a way to get the means to continue the school period five or six weeks longer than the appropriation would justify. Having the school interest at heart they put their heads together and by diligent work got up an entertainment at the school house, by calling on the patrons and others who are friendly to educational interests and had what is known as a basket party which was well patronized by the community.

Now the people of the little town of Clay Root, a neighbor of Vanceboro, under the direction of these teachers—Miss Jessie V. Coward principal and Miss Virginia Ives assistant—got together 31 baskets which sold for $29 and a cake which brought $11 more, making $40 in all. We take off our hats to the young ladies for their splendid work. Mr. Thomas Davis, of New Bern, gave them material assistance in the entertainment.

I write this, Mr. Editor, because I know you will be glad to show other districts how they may increase the length of their school term when the public funds give out, and in a way that will give all the patrons enjoyment.

The other will be run over the lines of the Southern Railway and the Queen and Crescent route in Kentucky in co-operation with the department of agriculture and the college of agriculture of that state. Twenty-four stops will be made by this train.

Each of these trains will be in charge of parties made up of men of scientific knowledge and practical experience who will be able to give information of the greatest value. Subjects will be arranged to meet the most pressing needs of the different sections visited. Bad weather will not be allowed to interfere with the meetings as all will be held in the passenger coaches which the trains will carry.

The Southern Railway in connection with other lines is furnishing absolutely free of charge a train with which the State College of Agriculture of Georgia is making a forty seven day tour of the state. The great expense entailed by the running these trains is borne by the Southern in the belief that its interests are identical with those of the farmers of the south and that it will eventually be repaid by the improvements in conditions that will result from an increasing adoption of better methods of agriculture.

NATIONAL PROGRESSIVE
REPUBLICAN LEAGUE

TO BE ADDRESSED BY PINCHOT.

Prime Object of League to Defeat Renomination of Taft.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Arkon, Ohio, March 9.—The key note of the National Progressive Republican League will be sounded here tonight by Guilford Pinchot at a banquet of progressive Republicans of Ohio. Pinchot, who is one of the founders of the league, has chosen for his topic "Principles of the Progressive Movement, Its Motive and Effect Upon Politics." The ex-for-ester is expected to attack trust policy, conditions which allow the "interests" to exploit possession of the system which now prevails in nominations of presidents, etc. His attitude on the presidential question is of deep interest, as it is reported that the primary purpose of the league is to defeat the nomination of Mr. Taft next year.

OF INTEREST TO THE SOUTH.

Mr. S. Wilbur Corman of the advertising firm of N. W. Ayer & Son, has, without saying so in so many words, expressed the greatest difficulty in the way of the South's rapid growth—she is not advertising enough nor in the proper way. Advertising is Mr. Corman's business, but every word he uttered in a recent Atlanta address was true.

The writer only the other day had this very subject in mind and out of curiosity went into two or three stores in an endeavor to find a cracker different from those of the Uneeda brand, but practically everything of this kind was found to be in a package bearing the name of the National Biscuit Company, the concern that makes the Uneeda crackers. There are numerous cracker factories throughout the South, but they are not known extensively outside of the counties in which they are operated, and it is because they do not put their goods up in attractive packages and advertise them.

There is no table syrup in the world better than could be and is being made right here in the South, and yet simply because of aggressive and attractive advertising by certain firms in the West and Northwest we do not seem to know how to call for anything but their particular brand of corn syrup; and if we did call for other syrups the grocer would not know anything about them.

There are being made in the South as good brands of cotton hosiery, knit underwear, and shoes as anywhere in the North, and yet we are prompted to call for those that are made in New York and Massachusetts, simply because we see the names in almost every magazine and newspaper we pick up.

It is said that Concord, N. C., can make enough towels to supply every hotel in America, but Concord herself is not known outside the State, to say nothing of her towels.

If one great industry in North Carolina, for instance, would start an advertising campaign like that of say Karo corn syrup or Shawknit hosiery, in five years the State would show a population of 3,000,000. This question of advertising is as vital to a great success as buying rolling stock and machinery and building plants. —Greensboro Telegram.

Uncle Ephraim had put on a clean collar and his best coat and was talking majestically up and down the street.

"Aren't you working today, Uncle?" asked somebody.

"Yes, suh."

"Well, why isn't your wife helping you to celebrate it?"

"Mah present wife, suh," replied Uncle Ephraim with dignity, "aint got nothin' to do with it."

HALIFAX COUNTY DOES SOME RECORD BREAKING

THINGS "UNCLE TOMMY" FINDS.

County Pensions to Old Soldiers—A Remarkable Blind Couple.

Scotland Neck, N. C., March 7.—Mr. Editor: I have been here just a month and a week, and I have made many friends and have found the people generally very congenial and nice to me. It is beginning to seem like home and I am enjoying myself here fine. I have been well ever since coming here. They have a nice little town of about 1,700 inhabitants.

The Buck Kitchen Camp of Confederate veterans meet once a month and they are served with a nice dinner every time they meet by the good ladies of Scotland Neck.

Scotland Neck has two record-breakers and Halifax county one. (They are record-breakers so far as my knowledge goes). The county pays all the old soldiers a pension every month of three, some four and some five dollars. I had thought that Pitt was about as liberal and friendly toward the old soldiers as any county in the State, but I find that Halifax beats her in pensioning of her veterans.

Scotland Neck beats all records that I have ever heard of in three old soldiers, father and two sons. Mr. Duke Allsbrook, the father, 91 years old. Mr. Bennett and Mr. Wilson Allsbrook, sons, 71 and 69, respectively, were all in the war together.

Another record-breaker is a blind couple living together here. It is a Mr. Lassiter and his wife, both blind, and the most strange part of it is the wife does her own housework, such as cooking, sewing, cleaning, etc., and they have an adopted daughter of about eight years. Mr. Lassiter walks up town to his place of business where he makes mattresses and does upholstering and repairs chairs and puts up very good jobs. By using a stick to feel his way he can go to any place in town that he wants to go to.

It is now 3:20 p. m. and it is snowing thick and fast, and its been raining some since 1 o'clock, but the rain has ceased.

EVENING WITH GREAT SINGERS.

Enjoyed by a Few Guests at The Training School.

Not all of us get the opportunity in life to visit Paris, London, Berlin, or even New York and Boston, to hear the noted singers of the world, but through the means of that wonderful nineteenth century invention, the graphophone, that preserves and carries the human voice in all its richness and expression, Caruso, Melba, Cavallieri, Constantino, Schumann-Heink and other musical celebrities are brought to us and we can hear their songs almost as perfectly as if sitting in an audience before them. Through the kindness of Prof. Austin and Miss Muffy, a few friends gathered Monday evening in the Y. W. C. A. hall at the Training school to hear a number of selections by the noted singers produced on a large Victor machine. It was indeed a musical feast that all present were grateful for the opportunity of enjoying. For the time being one could readily imagine he sat in the presence of the world's great artists.

WITH MRS. E. G. FLANAGAN.

Entertains in Honor of Mrs. T. M. Hooker.

On Tuesday evening at her home on Evans street Mrs. E. G. Flanagan gave a reception in honor of Mrs. T. M. Hooker, the recent bride.

The hostess and guest of honor met the guests at the door, and after wraps were removed, they were served with punch by Mrs. T. M. Washington, of Wilson, and Mrs. J. L. Wooten.

Mrs. R. C. Flanagan and Mrs. W. L. Hall received at the sitting room door, and Mrs. H. L. Coward and Mrs. T. E. Hooker at the library door.

The color scheme of the home was a suggestion of spring, having a profusion of johnquills and violets, with ferns and potted plants. The punch bowl was decorated with lace ferns and johnquills and rested in a bank of violets.

A game of heart dice was enjoyed by all present, the prize, a handsome picture, being won by Miss Vernessa Smith. The guest of honor's prize was a bunch of carnations, and the booby, also a picture, was awarded to Mrs. C. C. Skinner, of New York. Score cards ornamented with Christy pictures were used, these being tributed from a yellow basket by Miss Viola Keeter.

The refreshments, served by Misses Lila May Willis, of New Bern, Mary Smith and Nannie Bowling, were in keeping with the color scheme, the ices in yellow, and each guest received a souvenir bunch of violets and ferns.

ELISHA SUCCESSOR TO ELIJAH

Restitution Work and Judgment Work
Foreshadowed—Forty-two Youths
Torn by the Bears—A Child Restored to Life.

II Kings 4:25-37—March 12
"The gift of God to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."—Romans 6:23.

Our lesson follows in order the one of a week ago. Elisha was with Elijah until the whirlwind separated them and took Elijah out of sight. His mantle dropped to Elisha and Elisha's prayer was answered that a double portion of Elijah's spirit might rest upon him.

The same miracle occurred to him as to Elijah the prophet. On the other side of Jordan he began his career as a prophet. At Jericho the supply of water came from a brackish stream, unpalatable and unhealthful. Elisha went to the fountain and there performed a miracle similar to the one performed by Moses at the Wells of Moses at Marah. To this day the spring is known as Elisha's Fountain.

Again we read that one of these "sons of the prophets," or students, died and that his widowed mother was in want and that the Prophet Elisha helped her to exercise faith.

She had a cruse of oil, which increased in supply as she poured it from vessel until she had sufficient for all her debts.

Several other miracles of a restorative character are noted, the most prominent of which is related in our lesson, namely, the restoration of a boy to life and health.

The thing connected with Elisha's experiences which has attracted to him world-wide attention and general reprobation was his cursing of forty-two youths.

A Just Rebuke and Profitable Lesson

The thought is that he condemned them, just as Jesus said to some with most kindly art, "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees," etc. So Elisha pronounced woe or blight upon those youths of various ages who taunted him. He declared that something would befall them. Divine Justice would square accounts and vindicate him. Forthwith two she bears came upon the rubble, put them to flight, and forty-two of the mob were torn and wounded—more or less. Opponents of the Bible read into this the forty-two children were killed, but nothing of the kind is stated.

We are to remember that the Israelites under the leadership of their King Ahab and Queen Jezebel had been turned to idolatry, and that although the Prophet Elijah had re-established the true religion, the King and Queen and the majority of the people merely tolerated it. These youths who had traded against the Prophet were probably the young men and boys of Jericho.

Elijah Considered Typical.

Our interest in this story of Elisha's experiences after Elijah was taken away increases as we consider the fact that he, like Elijah, was quite a positive and typical character. We have already intimated a correspondence between Elijah and the antitypical priests and between Elisha and the antitypical Levites of the Gospel Age. Elisha may also typify the Ancient Worthies, into whose hands the instruction and blessing of the world will be placed at the Inauguration of Messiah's Kingdom: "Princes in all the earth." From this standpoint we might think of Elisha representing the secondary class of the spirit-begotten ones first, and that his crossing of Jordan represents the death of this class of antitypical Levites. With this view the after progress of Elisha and his work of judgment and restitution already referred to, correspond well with what we should expect at the inauguration of Messiah's Kingdom under the "princes." The healing of the water-spring would well represent the healing of the stream of Truth. For long centuries error and superstition, combined with Satan's great falsehood, Ye shall not surely die, have made the waters of Truth brackish, unpalatable, unhealthful. The putting of the salt into the Fountain of Spring symbolically represents the cleansing from untruth and error, through the co-operation of the Church in glory, which, while here, is appropriately styled, "the salt of the earth."

The restoration of life to the dead is to be one of the great features of the New Dispensation—Messiah's Kingdom. And this power will be exercised doubtless through the "princes" of that time, typified, we believe, by Elisha. Those most to be favored will be those who will most thoroughly appreciate and best receive the "princes," represented by Elisha, even as the parents of this child whom Elisha raised from the dead had made gracious provision for the prophet's comfort.

Raising the dead.

The Journal further points out that all this is edifying and, perhaps, beneficial to those chiefly concerned, but the real good that is being done now in the way of advancing the science of farming is accomplished by educating the farmers themselves. There have been vast changes and improvements in farming methods within the last few years. The old-fashioned farmer who plowed, sowed, hoed and harvested in the way his father and grandfather did before him is now learning better ways. He is finding out that vast saving of time, money and energy may be made by using his wits in the adoption of modern methods.

A Safe Harbor.

The home that possesses a cheerful wife and mother is not only a veritable haven of rest, but the safe harbor whose beacon light will guide her breadwinners safely past all rocks and shoals with unfailing certainty.

The woman whose cheerful spirit can take that "brave attitude toward life" that enables her to bear courageously the inevitable burdens of her life's environment, that strengthens her determination not to fret or worry those who for her sake are fighting the hard battles in the world, has reached that attitude that precludes her price above rubies, and her influence and examples are not felt only within the limits of the four walls she has made the unassailable bulwark of state and society, a happy home, but reach to those she knows not of.—Durham Sun.

TEACHING THE FARMERS.

The Country Must Depend On Them.

Looking from the dusty streets, and smoke and din and slavery of city life, the Kansas City Journal turns its eyes to the pleasing verdure of rural life, and says:

Never before in this country has there been such instruction in all phases of husbandry as now. City people seem to have become possessed all at once with the desire to get back to the farm. In newspapers, magazines, books and popular lectures the experts are all busy telling the people how they may escape from the thrall of urban employment. The patient clerk who never dreamed before of the possibilities of agriculture is now spending his evenings poring over literature that gladdens his imagination. The man who works for another is casting longing eyes upon the fields, hoping for the day when he can be "free."

The Journal further points out that all this is edifying and, perhaps, beneficial to those chiefly concerned, but the real good that is being done now in the way of advancing the science of farming is accomplished by educating the farmers themselves. There have been vast changes and improvements in farming methods within the last few years. The old-fashioned farmer who plowed, sowed, hoed and harvested in the way his father and grandfather did before him is now learning better ways. He is finding out that vast saving of time, money and energy may be made by using his wits in the adoption of modern methods.

The farmers are fast learning the lesson of soil conservation, diversification and scientific rotation of crops and better ways of marketing. And this knowledge is going where it will do the most good—into practical farming. It does not stop when the ink dries on the pages of the agricultural journals. Experiments have resulted in plans put into practice; and the results of experiments that sounded a few years ago like fairy tales are no longer regarded in a skeptical light and sarcastically and sneeringly called "professional farming" that will not do when put to practical tests.

The country must continue to depend on its farmers—not the hopeful and ambitious amateurs who have had no experience, but the men who have spent and are spending their lives in agriculture and who have the land, the money and the intelligence to put newer and better methods into practice. When the farmers themselves are more fully awakened to the possibilities of adopting better ways of tilling the soil and growing livestock, then we may expect highly important and valuable results.

We sometimes hear the "good old farming days before the war" referred to with a sigh, as if something worth while has gone that will never return; but the farming industry—farming as a business—in the south as yet in its infancy. A wonderful revolution is now in progress.—Greensboro News.

INTERESTING CLOSING OF MCGOWAN SCHOOL

HAPPENINGS AROUND COX'S MILL

Good Meeting of Farmers Union—Measles Takes Community.

Cox's Mill, N. C., March 7.—The closing exercises of Miss Rosa Whitehurst's school was held at the McGowan school house Friday night.

A very large crowd was present and the exercises of the students was all that could be asked, not a single mistake being made in the whole program. Each one reflected credit upon themselves and their most skillful teacher. It was clearly seen that each one had the best of training in the many speeches, dialogues and drills. We had music, both vocal and instrumental, that was fine.

Miss Rosa is a fine teacher and has made many friends while among us. We hope to have her teach our next school, if she does not take up some other vocation of life.

Mr. J. W. Cox, Jr., has a quick step and is all smiles. It is a girl.

Mrs. Whitehurst, mother of our teacher, and Miss Mary Whitehurst, her cousin, of Bethel, came down to be at the school entertainment and stopped with Mrs. W. F. Carroll.

Our local Farmers Union held their regular monthly meeting at the McGowan school house Saturday night. Mr. J. Marshall Cox and Mr. S. A. Stocks, both made very able and instructive talks on farming and the good of the union. After the speaking and other business was disposed of, we had a real fine barbecue supper and all ate to their hearts content. When all could eat no more there was plenty left.

Measles has been the order of the day around here. They took both old and young that had not been vaccinated before. One colored family on Mr. Frank Carroll's farm, the old man and nine children, were sick at one time last week.

Farmers are getting along fine with their work.

Realist Gun Practice.

Heretofore great gun target practice in the navy has been educational very useful in training the gun crews and gun pointers, but it has always been recognized that firing at canvas targets, whether stationary or movable, at few thousand yards, however useful in teaching men to shoot straight, was somewhat different from the actual gun practice that would be necessary in real warfare. The canvas targets do not afford any indication of the action of shot and shell on the armed side of a ship anywhere from 8,000 to 12,000 yards distant.

Recently the navy department has determined to follow the example long since set by the British navy and more recently by the French navy, in utilizing old and obsolete ironclads as targets to be fired on at true battle ranges. Such targets being heavily armed will show the marksmanship of the gun crews at real fighting distances and at the same time afford valuable information as to the power of projectiles, as well as the resisting strength of armor plate. By using manikins and pressure gauges in various parts of these real targets the effect of gun fire upon the ship's fittings and upon her crew can be in a measure determined.—New Orleans Picayune.

HOW A WORKING MAN IS HELPFUL TO OTHERS

MR. W. A. DARDEN WRITES AGAIN

His Former Letter Used to Inspire
College Students.

Ayden, N. C., March 2, 1911.

Now, Mr. Editor, since you brought me into the "line light" by publishing that letter that I only meant for you and the waste basket, I will keep in the light, for this letter at least. I sent a copy of your paper with that letter in it to President J. B. Dudley, A. and M. College, for the colored race, Greensboro, N. C., with no suggestion, but he seemed to be the point and wrote me the enclosed letter in reference to it. If there is any one thing the trustees of the above institution are trying to have impressed upon the boys who attend this school, it is that the negro is peculiarly fitted for farm work and should take farming up as an occupation. Wherefore, if one of the trustees of this school is willing to work and does not hesitate to go out in the sunshine and rain, then when they are told that work is honorable and idleness is dishonorable, they have an example as to the honorableness in your humble servant.

This reminds me of the work I was doing when I received notice of my appointment as one of the trustees. I was chopping a very grassy row of cotton and was about as green as to what to do as the grass I was chopping. I had just about 4 hours to make inquiry of my lamented friend, Dr. E. H. Hornady, whether to go or not, and to get to Kinston in time for the train that evening. I decided to attend the meeting which was called for the next day, so I set out for the depot as soon as I could get ready and got as far as Goldsboro that night. There I fell in with Judge Connor who gave me a letter of introduction to Mr. A. M. Scaler, of Greensboro, who was chairman of the board of trustees at that time. I found two negroes on the board at that time and somehow, the two negroes and myself were made the finance committee. They were Russell appointees and when their time expired they were replaced by Democrats, and are now, as they were then, holding a position in the census department at Washington.

Another gentlemen I must name before closing was on that board of trustees; my friend, and one time classmate, State Superintendent J. Y. Joyner. You notice I say of Superintendent Joyner that he was at one time a class mate of mine. That was at LaGrange in the fall of 1876 or spring of 1877. I came home and for 5 or 6 years stood behind the counter of my wife's father's country store. Mr. Joyner went on to the University and graduated with honors. I could not go with him, but there was a hankering within me to go to the Bryant & Stalton Business College, of Baltimore, having gotten hold of some of their literature. So I threw up my store job and attended that school and have my diploma. Don't you tell Jim Joyner, but I don't ask him any odds, if I do hop clods.

Last year when the city and factory people were crying out about the "high cost of living" I was eating my own products and feeding my stock upon home products, and therefore was benefitting by the high prices. See?

A NEW USE FOR CONVICTS.

Robeson County Commissioners Let Them Out to Grab Stumps.

In the year of grace 1910, in the eleventh month of the year, the citizens of the county of Robeson elected five men, known as commissioners, to administer the affairs of the county justly and righteously.

In this county certain transgressors are sentenced for period of varying length to the chain gang, to work upon the roads; and it is the duty of the commissioners to employ this gang, under a keeper of their choosing, to work the roads of the county and keep them in repair, so that the people may travel up and down upon these roads, and go to and fro in the land.

Now it came to pass in the year of grace 1911, in the second month of the year, the same being February, while it was yet early in the month, though roads in various portions of the county were in exceeding bad condition, needing the work of the chain gang—it came to pass that there were no requests from any particular portion of the county for the gang, so the commissioners said to the keeper, Mr. W. D. Prevatt: Go to, now, we know that thou art a careful man and a prudent; take therefore the gang called chain to thy farm hard by the town called Lumberton, on the road called Carthage, and do with them as thou wilt for the space of 30 days; and for this thou shalt feed the men at thine own expense and shalt also work the road that runs through thy farm; and return again to us at the end of 30 days.

Now the keeper had upon his land many stumps, in an abundance called galore, so much so that to the passer by they seemed to freckle the landscape.

So the keeper did even according to the word of the commissioners, and after working the specified stretch of road, which is but little more than a stone's throw in length, the keeper caused the men whose labor had been so generously given him by the commissioners to toil diligently with the stumps, and lo, before the 30 days were numbered, to the passer-by the aforesaid stump-freckled fields appeared as clean as the palm of a man's hand shrd cmfwdas dtkd.omb man's hand, and much store of stumps was piled at the keeper's house.

And the people murmured and said: Was it ever on this wise before? Did we not appoint these men as they would their own? What man is there among them who having a force of hands and many fields needing work would lend those hands to his neighbor for a month for their keep, because no one of his overseers asked to be allowed to work the hands?

And some said it was a shame and an outrage, and other some smiled, and said it was a good joke on the commissioners, and other some said the joke was on the people.

Meanwhile, nothing was done toward improving the roads of the county.

But the convicts did good job on the keeper's stumps, to the keeper's great advantage.—Lumberton Robesonian.

Having placed an order for a new fast newspaper and book press, to be installed the middle of April, we have a newspaper press that will be sold at a bargain for delivery May 1st.

It is a Monona Leverless Press, large enough to print four 6-column pages, or two 9-column pages and has steam fixtures so that it can be run either by hand or power. Been in use six years.

It is a splendid press for a weekly paper and is in good condition to do many years good service. We used a press from the same factory for 17 years before installing this one, printing a daily paper with small circulation about 10 years of that time. Its speed, 800 an hour, is too slow for a daily paper with the present circulation of The Reflector, and for that reason we are having to displace it with a faster press.

Any one interested and wanting a good press for a weekly newspaper, can see this press at work every day in the Reflector building, before our new press is installed. Any one who cannot come to see it at work and examine it, can get particulars by addressing

PASSING AWAY OF ONE OF GREENVILLE'S OLDEST CITIZENS

COLONEL WILLIAM MAY KING.

Closing of A Long and Honorable Useful Life.

In the death of Mr. William M. King, which occurred at 9:30 o'clock this morning at his home on Fifth street, there passed away one of Greenville's oldest, best and most esteemed citizens. He was 77 years of age, had been in feeble health since November and confined to his bed about three weeks.

William May King was born November 18th, 1833, in Falkland township, Pitt county, and spent his early life on the farm. He was a member of the Home Guards in 1861-65, and became a colonel of the militia. His first official position was as justice of the peace under appointment of Governor Holden. In 1870 he became a county commissioner, serving them for two years, and was one of Pitt county's members of the State constitutional convention in 1875. He was elected sheriff in 1882 and served six years, being chosen to that office three times in succession. In 1894 he was elected register of deeds and served two years, and was again elected county commissioner in 1896, serving for two years.

Mr. King moved from his farm to Greenville early in the year 1885 and spent the remainder of his life here, but never losing interest in his farm. He was an exemplary citizen, strong in his character and personal convictions yet always respecting the opinions of others, and was noted for his abundant charity and deeds of kindness. For 54 years he was a Mason, being for many years Worshipful Master of the lodge at Falkland and also at Greenville after moving his membership here. He was also a Royal Arch Mason, being a charter member of the first chapter ever established in Greenville.

In November, 1856, he married Miss Dicey Almata Peebles, the aged wife surviving him. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1906. There are four surviving children, Mrs. Pattie Winstead, of Rocky Mount; Mrs. S. C. Wells, of Wilson; Mrs. G. B. King, of Washington City, and Mrs. L. I. Moore, of New Bern. These were all with him in his last hours. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. A. V. Newton, of Fountain and Mrs. Ben Moore, of Farmville.

At 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning the body will be taken from his late residence, under Masonic escort, to the Universalist church (Delphia Moyer Chapel) on Dickinson avenue, where services will be conducted by Rev. W. O. Bodell. From the church the body will be taken to the old home place near Falkland, where the burial will take place at 3 o'clock, p. m., with Masonic honors.

The Best Discovery.

We talk about the great discovery of the telephone, wireless telegraphy, airplanes and the rest, but another important discovery is that from 50 to 200 bushels of corn can be grown on an acre of land. A thing like this 20 or 30 years ago would have been hooted at, but it is as much of a fact as these other discoveries.—Greensboro Record.

Concert Tour Oxford Orphanage
Singing Class.

The singing class of 1911 from the Oxford Orphanage will start on the first or Eastern concert tour on Thursday, March 2. The first tour will close in 8 or 10 weeks, and after a brief rest a second tour will begin.

These annual concerts have reached a really high standard of excellence. The children and those who accompany them represent a cause very near to the hearts of our people. Even if the tour and entertainments were not in the interest of a great work, the character of the concerts would merit large and liberal patronage. An admission fee, as a rule, charged and for this the children certainly give full value and more.

The funds brought to this institution through these tours help much in its maintenance. Today it is providing for 330 children and, since it was established in 1872, by the grand lodge of Masons of North Carolina, more than 2600 girls and boys have come directly under its blessed ministry. Never have the benefits of this noble institution been restricted to the children of Masons. The primary conditions of admissions have always been the destitution, the need of the children.

While the management of the Oxford Orphanage strive to exercise the strictest economy consistent with effectiveness in the work, we have information that an increase of its annual income is now essential for its maintenance even up to its present standard of efficiency. Surely our whole people will see to it that this work is not restricted because of lack of financial support.

The class begins its first tour better equipped than usual and with bright prospects for a most successful tour.

Our people will delight to patronize the concerts soon to be given. It is our privilege to continue to assist in this and in any other way a cause so worthy.

"Strive."

Do the little things well
And who can tell
But what they'll swell
To such a size
That you will rise
To greater power.
Every hour
Brings it chance.
If you'd advance
Just strive,
And in the end you will arrive.
It all depends on how you start;
You may be smart
And smooth and slick
And pick up to every scheme and trick;
But steady work will do far more
To bring you quickly to the fore.

PROCEEDINGS OF BOARD ALDERMEN

BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS AT THE REGULAR MARCH MEETING TOWN TO BUY A PAIR OF MULES

Street Committee Makes Report of Work Done—Establishing Property Corners—Miscellaneous Matters Re- quiring Attention of the Alder- men.

The board of aldermen met in regular monthly session, Thursday night, all eight of the members present. In the absence of Mayor Wooten, Alderman Flanagan, mayor pro tem, presided.

The street committee reported much work had been done the past month cleaning drains, putting in til-ling, and trimming shade trees. In respect to the drain on Sutton Lane the committee recommended extending the drain down the lane to the bridge. The committee also reported that a corner had been established at the Cobb property on Cotanch and Fifth streets, and a corner at the Norfolk Southern railroad property on Tenth street.

In respect to the Lassiter ditch the committee recommended that tiling be put in and the ditch filled.

The street committee was instructed to have filled an old well on Road street.

The finance committee reported that finances were in better condition and recommended that interest be paid for 30 days on notes due the banks, with extension for that period.

No other standing committee had any report.

The Fourth street paving matter was referred to the sidewalk committee with power to act, and if necessary lay the incomplete portion of the cement sidewalk.

An error in the taxes of the Greenville Banking & Trust Company was ordered corrected.

T. A. Duke asked permission to sell on the streets fish caught in his seine. The matter was referred to the market committee with instruction to provide him a fish stall in the market house.

B. T. Evans and R. W. King were relieved from poll tax for 1910, charged in error.

Aldermen Nobles and Van Dyke were authorized to have the hand fire engine repaired.

Aldermen Edwards and Nobles were authorized to purchase a pair of mules for the town.

Bills as approved by the finance committee were ordered paid.

The clerk was instructed to get up statement of amounts due the town for paving and curbing and turn same over to the finance committee.

The clerk was instructed to write the International Harvester Company in regard to machinery they had stored in the town in June, 1910, which was not listed for taxation.

THE PRESSURE OF "BUSINESS."

The Man Who Stands for Principle Will Command the Confidence.

Long since the Louisiana senators surrendered to the doctrine of protection because of the sugar interest of the State. Later on, our North Carolina representatives, with one single conception, listened to the same song of the siren on the lumber schedule, and last week two or three of our trusted leaders refused to vote for the Canadian reciprocity agreement, for fear the farmers (oh, how many crimes have been committed in the name of the farmers) and the mica miners would suffer. The business question, with some men, has come to be the biggest of all questions. Senator Tillman brutally blurted out the truth several years ago when he remarked as an excuse for his vote on a certain question that since the "swag" was going to be handed out he was determined that his section should have its share. "Swag" moves the world. Before its power principle falls prostrate, and men forget the things that, before they shouted themselves hoarse, and men forget the things like sign of the times that we so weakly yield to the demands of the dollar, ignoring the great truth that in this world there are some things that are better than money. What if the farmers do fail to get $1.00 a bushel for their corn, must the whole nation suffer because any one class of men, however, numerous, or intelligent or honorable may profit thereby. And suppose the price of mica is reduced, must the nation be deprived of a law that will lower the price of the necessities of life, on that account? It is refreshing, however, that a majority of our national law makers stood with President Taft in this vital matter and saved the day. This falling in the dust before the demands of "business," is growing tiresome, and the time is coming back when the man who stands upon principle rather than upon financial considerations will command the confidence and admiration of the public.—Charity and Children.

HOW ONE MULE CAUSED

A GENERAL MIX-UP

STARTED WITH A BALE OF HAY.

But Came To An End With Only Small Damage.

Friday afternoon a mule drawing a cart in which were three men, was coming up Third street. One of the men sat in front driving, while the other two sat on a bale of hay behind. Just before reaching Evans street that bale of hay took a notion to tumble out of the cart, and it also rolled out the two men who thought they were holding it down, the hay and men piling in the street together. This frightened the mule and he jumped off for a run, giving the driver all he wanted to attend to. The split log drag drawn by a pair of mules was at work on Third street at the time, going westward, and the runaway mule to dodge this outfit hung a wheel of the cart into the wheel of a buggy hitched to a horse tied in front of Dr. S. Hassell's office.

The collision of the two vehicles upset the cart and threw the driver out into the split log drag, but the driver of the drag held his mules and they did not seem to mind the extra weight on their load. The shafts of the buggy were broken and the horse between them turned around with his head to the buggy to get a view of what was going on, but did not break the tie rein and get away.

The running mule went only a little further when the cart wheel tangled with a telephone pole in front of Mr. J. G. Moye's, and things came to a stand still, except the crowd of folks attracted by it rushing up to see what had happened. The sudden taking-up of the mule at the telephone pole caused him also to reverse ends, so that his head instead of his tail was next to the cart.

It was an amusing spectacle from start to finish, and about the only damage out of it all was the broken buggy shafts.

BIGOTRY LOST CANADA.

Province Would Have Joined Revolution But for Jay's Attack.

But for an exhibition of religious bigotry at the beginning of the American revolution, Canada, with which the United States is now seeking a reciprocity treaty, would most probably have joined the colonies in the war against England and would most probably be a part of the Union today. Had the two sections joined hands, great would have been the results. The revolutionary war would have been shorter; the war of 1812 would probably never have taken place. The North would have had such predominating influence over the South that the slavery question would have never divided the Union, and the war between the States would have never been fought. There would have been other results. There would be no reciprocity treaty pending today, and the country would not be facing the prospect of having an extra session of congress "on its hands."

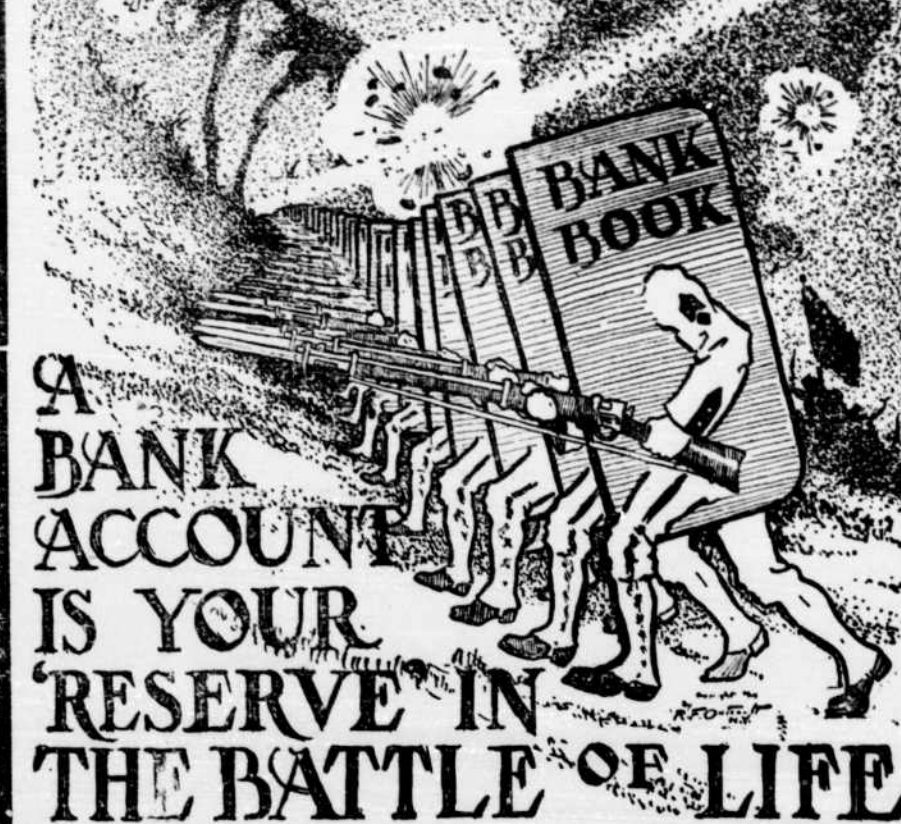

In the beginning of the revolutionary struggle Canada was favorably disposed toward the colonies, and would most probably have joined in the war against England but for an untimely display of bigotry. Three noted Marylanders had exerted themselves to establish friendly relations between the colonies and Canada. They were Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, the Rev. John Carroll, a relative later Catholic archbishop of Baltimore, and Samuel Chase, with Benjamin Franklin, of Pennsylvania. They were sent by the Continental Congress to Canada on the embassy, which had the effect of securing for the American patriots the neutrality of the French-Canadian population.

While the American ambassadors were endeavoring in Montreal to enlist Canadian sympathy there came to that city an address to the Canadian people from the Continental Congress, in which John Jay, the writer of the address, alluded to the Catholic religion, dear to every French-Canadian heart, as "religion which had deluged their land in blood and diffused impiety, persecution, murder, and rebellion through every part of the world!" That the ambassadors, in the face of that open insult to the Canadian Catholics, were able to secure their neutrality was certainly a great diplomatic victory, and yet that is what they did accomplish. Had Jay's bigotry not shown itself as it did, there is scarcely a doubt that Canada would have joined hands with the American colonies against Great Britain and now form a part of the United States.—From the Baltimore American.

Ayden, N. C., March 4.—Mr. W. C. Buiman, who for a long time has been general manager of the Ayden Lumber Co.'s plant has resigned his position, and taken charge of a mill or lumber plant near Fayetteville.

Mr. W. Newton Smith, a cotton seed meal broker, of Baltimore, spent Wednesday in town, and made a very favorable impression on some of our business men.

Mrs. R. W. Smith and little Eugene are spending the week at Kinston.

Mr. W. F. Hart and Messrs. Hart and Harrington, of Kinston, have purchased a large boat and will possibly run a schedule from New Bern to Seven Springs, carrying both freight and passengers.

Mr. Ben Allen Jones is sick at his home near here.

Hog cholera seems to be raging this winter, much to the regret of our farmers.

Mr. B. S. Sheppard, Jr., of Farmville, was in town Friday working insurance.

Mr. Jesse Wingate, who has been attending a business college out west, returned home Thursday, looking well.

Wanted to see our old friend, Henry Dail, out again. He has been feeble for some time. Mr. Dail was a faithful soldier in the late war. Now he and his aged wife are being cared for by the good old county of Pitt.

Mr. J. J. May, who has been confined to his bed several days with pneumonia, is able to be out again.

The fertilizer salesmen seem to be alarmed because the farmers are not buying as much fertilizers up to date as usual from the merchants.

Ayden, N. C., March 7.—Mr. John O. Cox has purchased of Mr. Clarence Cox 27 acres of land near Helen's Cross roads for $2,000. This is a part of the estate of the late Mrs. Follie Smith. It goes to prove that things have gone to hustling in that locality since Mr. Richard Wingate has purchased the Smith estate from Mr. Sebram Cox, and shows the wonderful effect a good, progressive man has in a community and that improvements are catching. Mr. Wingate has opened new ditches, built new fences and erected additional tenant houses on his farm.

Miss Sarah Harris, daughter of Mr. Hyatt Harris, who has been sick for about five weeks died Sunday and was buried Monday at the Spencer Harris place, one mile from town.

Rev. J. H. Griffith, of Kinston, held service in the Episcopal church last Thursday night.

Mr. E. G. Cox contemplates moving his family from here to Greensboro, as that is the center of his work.

Mr. R. B. Grubbs, who has been hogging for a long time, died Monday evening. She leaves several children. She and her husband lived with her daughter, Mrs. L. L. McGlohorn.

The colored Disciples are raising money to build them a church. Elder Fardum, of Fayetteville, is leading the work in the good cause.

Why should the politician rage and the voters imagine a vain thing? The Pitt county salary bill was so good as to be abolished before it was tested, to see how much pressure it would bear. The salaries have been cut, but Pitt's officers are not like Senator Bailey, of Texas. Yet he recanted before the hole was filled.

Miss Clara Forest left for the northern markets Monday to buy spring millinery.

Messrs. R. C. Cannon and son, Allen, returned from Baltimore Saturday.

Yes, we will open the clock again first and third Thursdays in each month at 5 o'clock. Everybody come trade, get tickets and bring them. We give tickets for produce. J. R. Smith Company.

Rev. George Wheeler, of Stantonburg, a Seminary student, having finished Sacred History left Friday for his home.

If we should have a fire, where is the town pump and hose, and wonder if it would work? Or would it need repairs? City fathers, get it ready. This month is windy March.

Mr. Henry Stokes tells us the Stokes tribe of Pitt county have fallen heir to an estate worth three millions. We will investigate this and write more about it in The Daily Reflector, and this is a choice time to subscribe.

Are You Educated?

A professor in the University of Chicago says that when you can answer each of the following questions in the affirmative that you are educated. Read 'em and then tell us whether you've got it or not:

Has your education given sympathy with all good causes and made you espouse them?

Has it made you public spirited?

Has it made you a brother to the weak?

Have you learned how to make friends and keep them?

Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself?

Can you look an honest man or a pure woman straight in the eye?

Do you see anything to love in a little child?

Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

Can you be high-minded and happy in the meaner drudgeries of life?

Do you think washing dishes and hoeing corn just as compatible with high thinking as piano playing or golf?

Are you good for anything to yourself? Can you be happy alone?

Can you look out on the world and see anything except dollars and cents?

NEW PLAN FOR MILEAGE REFORM

Travelling Men Submit Entirely New Idea to Railroad Officials.

The representatives of the leading traveling men's organizations in Georgia believe they have found a plan for mileage rule reform which will satisfy them and the general public and at the same time meet the approval of the railway traffic officials.

At a meeting of the central committee held at the office of H. M. Ashe Thursday afternoon, at which Messrs. W. P. Anderson, J. H. Andrews, W. S. Lonsberry and H. M. Ashe were present, it was decided to submit this proposition to the interested railroad officials, and a meeting with them has been asked for.

The new mileage idea is radically different, it is stated, both from the system now in vogue in Georgia, and from the improvement as originally demanded by the traveling men. In fact, it is a scheme newly invented which, if it proves to be as practical as its advocates hope, will revolutionize the mileage system.—Atlanta Journal.

Baying for Pulley & Bowen.

The Reflector said inadvertently Saturday that Mrs. Georgia James had gone to Richmond and Baltimore to purchase millinery goods for C. T. Munford. This was an error, as Mrs. James is with Pulley & Bowen and her trip to the fashion centers is to make spring selections for that firm.

LECTURE AT TRAINING SCHOOL

By Doctor A. A. Kent, of Caldwell County.

Dr. A. A. Kent, a member of the legislature from Caldwell county made an excellent talk in the assembly hall of the East Carolina Teachers' Training school this morning on "Relation of the Teacher to Public Health." Public questions pass over the country in waves. The question of health and the prevention of sickness and disease is now of supreme importance. The doctors realize that they alone cannot work his problem out. They look to the teacher, who comes in direct contact with the people and who can impress the children for co-operation. This legislature placed the superintendent of each county on the board of health because they deemed this the best way to get the teachers interested in the subject.

He closed with an appeal to the student-teacher to co-operate with the doctor in the work against disease.

TIMES AND ADVERTISING

They Point To Better Conditions Ahead.

No business is so quickly and severely affected by adverse financial conditions, as that of the newspaper. Merchants may complain, wage earners feel it, all kinds of trades and banks tell their troubles, but the newspaper must accept bad conditions, pay for them in their cost of maintenance that goes practically the same with good or bad times, and not show the distress signal. Any bad local condition, any serious state or national situation, financial, commercial, social, and the press must declare for the optimistic side.

Just at present, while here and there are signs of what financiers declare to be the "1907 depression" remaining, there are other signs that indicate much more on the side of better general conditions, that may not be declared poverty times, yet point to an increasing betterment of trade conditions. One sign particularly, that of greatly increased advertising inquiry, that usually ushers in a period of trade activity and industrial development. It is not alone that development companies are willing spenders for advertising to promote new projects. But substantial and established commercial houses are advancing their advertising lines. In addition, there is a municipal advertising movement everywhere, that is as active as that of trade houses, a class of advertising unknown a few years ago. Going further, the railroads are in for advertising as never before. Some years ago there were a few railroad that spent in the hundreds of thousands, annually, today every railroad has its advertising department that is not limited to circulars and pamphlets, but employs big newspaper space, and this in publications way beyond their own lines. With all this advertising there must be stimulation in every trade and industry. Every individual cannot help being stirred into increased action, what ever his business. Activity means life and more of it as the action gains. Conditions point to greatly increased development of hitherto latent resources, and this with resources now developed must result in prosperous times in all sections of this country.—New Bern Journal.

NEW FARM MACHINE.

Cleveland Invention Interests National Harvester Company.

A seed planter and fertilizer distributor which equals, if not outstrips similar farm implements, has been invented by Mr. W. D. Lemons, a Cleveland county farmer. The name of the implement is "combination planter and distributor" and from the opinion of those who saw the demonstration yesterday afternoon, it will do everything perfectly that it is built for and is claimed to do. Mr. Lemons is a practical farmer living several miles southeast of Shelby. He worked on his invention two years or more then brought it to the Babington foundry to be built.

Messrs. W. D. and Thomas J. Babington, took half interest in the patent and are manufacturing it. They are experienced in all kinds of machinery and worked on it some time before getting it perfected. With a few to getting it placed on the market, Mr. J. C. Robinson, general agent for the International Harvester Company, the largest implement manufacturing concern in the world, was here Tuesday to witness a practical demonstration of the new invention.—Shelby Star.

Many a man acts like a genius when all that ails him is indigestion.

Are Drugs Necessary?

Do Drugs Cure Disease?

Can Nature be Assisted?

If people were born right and afterwards lived right, there would be no use for medicine. Every doctor knows this. He does other well-informed people. One thing more. When a person lives wrongly, or acquires bodily weakness by heredity, medicine can do only very little. Medicine cannot cure him. Only charlatans claim that medicines will cure disease. Medicines may palliate symptoms. Medicines may urge the powers of Nature to resist disease. Medicines sometimes arouse the efforts of the human body to right itself against derangements. This is the most that medicine can do.

A man accidentally puts his finger in the fire. Instinctively he wets his finger in his mouth, then blows on it for the cooling effect. This is no cure. He knows it very well. But it makes it feel better for the time being.

People eat unwisely. This produces dyspepsia or indigestion. The only rational cure is to eat correctly. Yet if a palliative is at hand the pains of indigestion can be mitigated, the throes of dyspepsia assuaged. The medicine cannot be said to have cured. It simply palliates disagreeable symptoms. The cure must come through right living.

Take Peruna, for instance. No one claims Peruna is a cure for dyspepsia. But Peruna will stimulate the stomach to perform its function properly. Peruna will increase the flow of digestive fluids, without which digestion cannot be carried on at all. It will increase the relish of food, the appetite.

It is admitted that all this can be accomplished by right living, but there are so many people who either will not or do not know how to eat correctly that a tremendous amount of good can be done by the wise use of Peruna.

A stomach that has been frequently abused performs the function of digestion very lazily. Such a stomach allows the food to remain undigested for some time after it is swallowed. This leads to fermentation of the food. Sour stomach is the result. This goes on week after week, until the blood is poisoned with the products of fermentation. This condition is very apt to produce rheumatism.

It is claimed that Peruna will cure rheumatism. Nothing will cure rheumatism but correct living. But it is claimed that Peruna will assist a badly abused stomach to perform its work.

For Larger Yields.

The oat crop can be increased in yield by early sowing, thorough preparation of the soil before sowing and very little work afterward. Good seed is of the greatest importance. Plow the ground in the fall, then put the oats in with a drill as early as the season and condition of the soil will permit. The oats should be well

If a person would correct his habits, persist in right eating and temperate ways, undoubtedly the stomach would right itself, the blood would rid itself of the poison, and everything would be right. But as said before there are a multitude of people who will not or cannot adopt right methods of living. To such people Peruna is a boon. A dose before meals will assist the stomach to do its work. This prevents fermentation of the food, brings about normal digestion, and all the train of ill that follow indigestion disappear.

In other words, Peruna is helpful to those who live badly, or those who have acquired some chronic weakness. Peruna does not cure, but it assists the powers of Nature to bring about a cure.

The whip does not increase the power of the horse to pull a load, but judiciously used it stimulates the horse to use his powers at the right time, while out which he could not have pulled the load.

This illustrates the effect of Peruna, or any other good remedy upon the system. Taken at the right time, it calls forth the powers of the human system to meet the on-coming of disease, and thus cuts short, if not entirely ends, the diseased action.

No one should ever attempt to substitute medicine in the place of right living. In the end such an attempt will prove a disaster. But an occasional use of the right medicine at the right time is a godsend, and no reasonable person will undertake to deny it.

Those who know how to use Peruna find it of untold value. By and by the world will get wise enough so that through correct living no medicine at all will be needed. But that time has not arrived. In the meantime, while the world is approaching that perfection in which all medicine will be eliminated, Peruna is a handy remedy to have in the house.

Slight derangements of the stomach, slight catarrhal attacks of the liver, the throat, bronchial tubes, lungs or bowels; these attacks are sure to lead to grave diseases, and can be averted by the judicious use of Peruna.

Wouldn't you like to read a few unsolicited testimonials from people who have used Peruna, and who stand ready to confirm the above statements concerning it. If so, address the Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio, and we will send some prepaid.

DO IT NOW.

Greenville People Should not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them.

Here is one of the many cases in this vicinity:

R. S. Butler, 219 Harvey St., Washington, N. C., says: "I am well pleased with the results that followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills in my case and can highly recommend them to other kidney sufferers. I was subject to dull pains in my back, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills removed my trouble and benefited me in every way."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

MARCH.

Sounds the Heralding Blasts of a Better Month Coming.

If there is any truth in the venerable adage, this uproarious and generally ill-mannered month, having come in as Mary's little lamb, agitated and scared to the point of running into a schoolhouse, ought to go out like a lion, that is, if lions go roaring and tearing, howling and cavorting, blowing, raining, slobbering, blubbering, blustering and bullying around like they had no sense and had never been to Sunday school or a Durham county Republican county convention. That is March's alwaysable style, first or last, at one end or other. Shaking signs loose, rattling shingles and shutters, driving the peach tree limbs against old country house windows, upsetting rickety ashchoppers, taking liberties with young girls' skirts and dazzling an appreciative universe with lightning-like glimpses of animated barber poles. Poking his noisy nose everywhere, wrestling around the street corners, groaning through the pine woods, bothering bustling housewives and twisting good Christian's religion out of joint to find adequate language in which to address their fugacious hats. Impudent, boisterous windy and profligate, fit emblem of many American statesmanship, he only prepares the way, sounds the heralding blasts of a better month coming.—Durham Sun.

There seems to be no place like home for most of the charity that begins there.

How about the eternal fitness of things when a young man sows wild oats and reaps a grass widow.

A NEW THING IN COURT.

A Novel Mental Anguish Suit in The Court.

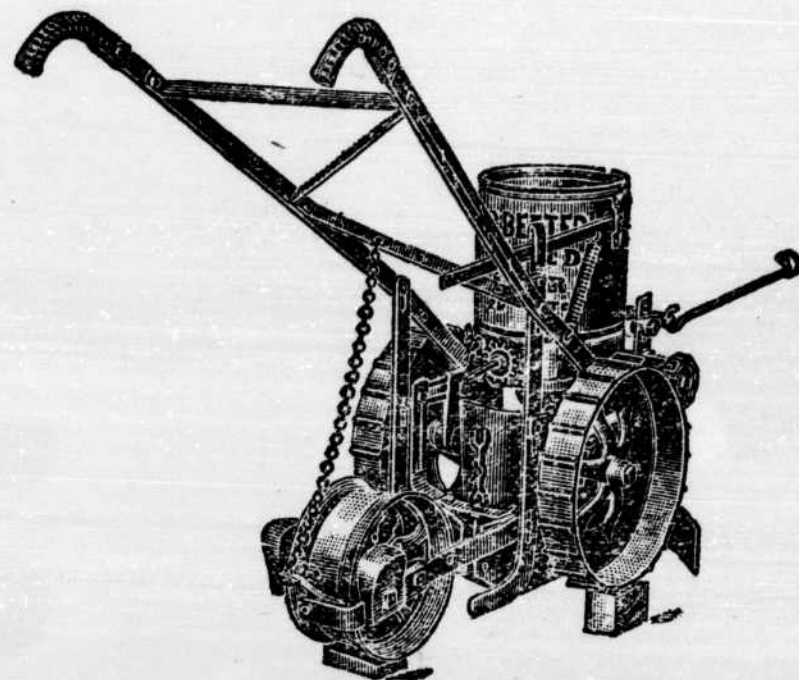

All sorts of things go to law these days. For instance, here is the mental anguish drunk suit, wherein it is affirmed that a drunk man can be humiliated. It is reported in West Publishing Company's Cases of Interest. An action is brought against a railroad company to recover damages for being ejected from a train. Appellant prior to purchasing his ticket, had been drinking with some friends whom he had met. After boarding the train, the car being warm, he fell into a stupor. The conductor, passing through, collected his ticket without the passenger's knowledge. Soon after, the conductor again demanded a ticket of the appellee, who this time awoke and began a fruitless search for "that ticket." After hunting in every pocket except the correct one, that of the conductor, that official and the brakeman helped him off. He was now left in a helpless and deplorable condition, and moreover, his overcoat and baggage were left on the train. After wandering aimlessly about for a time, he was found by some boys who took him to a hotel. He spent a bad night and became so sick that a physician was necessary. The next morning when he "came to" he knew nothing about being put off the train or where he was, or how he got there. Upon learning the facts, he brought this action for being so humiliated and recovered $250. Appellant contends that plaintiff was not entitled to recover, because when he was put off he was too drunk to understand or comprehend what was being done, and therefore, could not have been humiliated. Appellee insists that when he regained his senses he was deeply humiliated, for he had occasion frequently to explain to his friends how he came to be ejected from the train, thus causing him much chagrin. The court of Civil Appeals of Texas holds that it was immaterial whether he experienced the humiliation at the very time of his ejection, if he was prevented from so doing by his inebriated condition, because to hold otherwise would be equivalent to saying that one committing an indignity upon another might escape liability, if it were shown that at the time of the commission the person was unconscious or of insensible to such indignity, notwithstanding the fact that upon regaining consciousness he might intensely suffer by reason thereof. The judgment was affirmed.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Place to Advertise.

Let us again call the attention of business men to the large circulation of The Reflector, and also the fine line of cuts we have for free use in displaying their advertisements. If the cut they desire is not on hand it will be ordered from specimen sheets that can be seen at the office. People read The Reflector and you make no mistake in placing an attractive advertisement before them.

The New Pastor.

There was joy in the hearts of the Baptist congregation Sunday that the church now has a pastor. Rev. C. M. Rock, who arrived a few days ago from North Wilkesboro to accept the pastorate here, preached both morning and night. He is a forceful speaker and his sermons were much enjoyed. He made a splendid impression on all who heard him.

Letter to Mr. Darden.

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 22, 1911.
Mr. W. A. Darden,
Ayden, N. C.

Dear Sir:

I have received a copy of The Carolina Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector. I saw your letter in the paper, and I thank you so very much for sending it to me. It will help us very much in our work, for I shall read it to our boys and tell them about it. I am glad to be able to show them just what you are doing, because some of our boys, of course, have foolish ideas about them. I want them to know that a gentleman of your prominence is not ashamed of doing work and that you are working early and late and take pride in it. I am satisfied it will have a good and wholesome effect upon our students.

Thanking you very much for the favor of the letter, and with kindest regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

JAS. B. DUDLEY.

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c at all druggists.

Costs But a Trifle to Cure Catarrh.

How many readers of the Reflector know that in Inland Australia where the mightiest of eucalyptus trees grow in abundance, that there is no consumption, catarrh or disease of the respiratory tract.

The refreshing balsam thrown out by these trees fills the air and is breathed into the lungs by the inhabitants and all germ life is destroyed.

If you have catarrh you cannot go to Inland Australia except at great expense, but you can breathe right in your own home the same pleasant, soothing, healing, germ killing air you would breathe if you were living in the eucalyptus district of Australia.

Just breathe MYOMEI; it is made from Australian eucalyptus and scientifically combined with thymol and other antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.

Pour a few drops of HYOMEI in the inhaler and breathe it. As it passes over the catarrh infected membrane it kills the germs and heals the raw, inflamed surface.

HYOMEI is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup and sore throat or money back. Complete outfit including inhaler $1.00. Extra bottles of HYOMEI cost but 50 cents. Sold by Coward & Wooten and druggists everywhere. —2,17,27-3,10

WILL GO BACK TO FARMVILLE

To Conduct a Tobacco Warehouse There Next Season.

Greenville is going to lose a good tobacco man in Mr. C. R. Townsend, who has leased a warehouse in Farmville for next season. Mr. Townsend came to Greenville two years ago to take charge of one of the warehouses of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, and made a host of friends among the tobacco trade and people generally. The burning before Christmas of the warehouse he conducted, which will not be rebuilt, is accountable for his change in location.

The Blight of Intemperance.

Fiercer year by year must grow the struggle for the mastery among the people of the earth, and other things being equal, the prize of victory must go sooner or later to those who have kept their bodies strong, free from every enervating influence, and their brains clearest, least befogged by any dulling agency. Awakening Chipa, over here, realizing this, has set herself first of all, to free her people from the ancient curse of opium—the form of intemperance to which they have been addicted—and already she has achieved results that have amazed the world. Shall it be said that the yellow man in China is able to overcome influences that the white man in the South is unable to cope with?—Clarence Poe, in Progressive Farmer.

The "Best Breed."

Any of the improved breeds are satisfactory to the man who feeds well, and none will give "luck" to the man who requires them to "strut" for themselves. Because the pig or the calf fails to make proper growth is no reflection on the breed. The difficulty may possibly be with the individual member of the breed in question, but it is much more likely that the fault is yours. It is much more likely that your management is wrong than that the breed or that even the individual is at fault. We have known farmers to condemn a breed from their experience with one or two individuals and those kept under conditions which would ruin the chances of any animal of any breed.—Progressive Farmer.

Do Not Depend on The Hoe.

The hoe is too costly an implement to be depended upon, for it takes a man, and you will never need a hoe in the field if you start early with smoothing harrow and weeder, and if the cotton is planted in hills, there will be little need for chopping. For the cultivation of the hoed crops you will need power, and we must have the horse-power to start with the smoothing harrow and the weeder. With these you can get over the land so rapidly that you will never need to put a plow to cover the grass in the rows, for early use of the smoothing harrow and weeder will prevent its starting there.—W. F. Massey, in Progressive Farmer.

THIS DOG IS SMART.

Chews Up Paper and Finds Advertised Article.

Mr. E. B. Ficklen tells us of a smart dog he has, and says that hereafter we ought not to be opposed to dogs any more. Mr. Ficklen lost a driving glove and put an ad. about it in The Reflector. When the paper was delivered at his home that evening the dog got it and chewed it up. Afterwards the dog went off, found the lost glove and carried it home in his mouth. Now somebody please figure it out how chewing up the paper containing the advertisement led the dog to go and find the glove and take it home. All the same it shows that advertising in The Reflector pays.

Where Farmers Fail in Fertilization for Tobacco

By O. L. JOYNER, President Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company

There is no one thing that is more generally ignored by farmers, or treated indifferently by them, than the matter of fertilizing for the tobacco crop, while in reality, there is probably no one feature in the growing of tobacco that is more important. For a long time, our farmers used almost exclusively for tobacco a brand of fertilizer analyzing 3-8-3; that is to say, a fertilizer containing 3 per cent. ammonia, 8 per cent phosphoric acid and 3 per cent potash, which to be more explicit means that in a ton of fertilizer containing this analysis there are 60 pounds of ammonia, 60 pounds of potash and 160 pounds phosphoric acid. By actual test, it is known that 1,000 pounds of tobacco takes out of the soil about 75 pounds of potash and from 75 to 85 pounds of ammonia. Of course, our tobacco soils all have a certain amount of ammonia and potash, but the important question for the farmers is whether this ammonia and potash that is present in the soil, is available in sufficient quantities to make complete plant food for a growing crop of tobacco. Most of our farmers use about 1,000 pounds of fertilizer to the acre. This means they put in 30 pounds of potash and 30 pounds of ammonia in commercial form. If there is sufficient quantity of potash and ammonia available in the soil to complete the plant food, all well and good, but if not, the result is a poor crop of tobacco, something with which a great many of us have been afflicted during the last few years, and in this connection, right here, it is not out of place to say that no amount of fertilizer is going to make a good crop of tobacco when such abnormal seasons as we have had in Eastern North Carolina for the last few years prevail, although proper preparation of the soil, to a large extent, overcome the deficiency in seasons, and will enable the plant to employ the plant food put in the land to a much better advantage. The important question, however, with farmers is, do we use enough ammonia and potash in our tobacco fertilizer? As a general rule the answer is unquestionably, no. We should therefore use fertilizer running higher, especially in potash.

One of the most painstaking and intelligent farmers in my knowledge Mr. Leon F. Evans, has clearly demonstrated by a series of experiments that the use of guano running high in sulphate of potash will pay. In his tests, he used fertilizer running from 3 per cent to 9 per cent potash, and from 3 to 6 per cent ammonia. From tobacco on which he used 1,000 pounds of fertilizer analyzing 7 per cent potash, he sold something over $40 worth of tobacco per acre more than from the tobacco fertilized with 3-8-3, and all the tobacco was treated, cultivated, cured and sold alike, except in the matter of fertilizer. It has been found, very much to the disadvantage of our Eastern North Carolina tobacco, especially that its burning qualities are not as good as the burning qualities of the old belt tobacco and in a series of meetings last fall, held under the direction of the Tobacco Dealers' Association of the United States, and participated in by Mr. E. H. Matheson an expert from the United States Department of Agriculture, this important matter was urgently called to the attention of the farmers. Mr. Matheson contended that the general use by farmers of a fertilizer running 7 or 8 per cent in sulphate of potash would very materially improve the burning qualities of our tobacco, and thus materially add to its value. This matter should be seriously considered by all our farmers, for while in individual instances, farmers may materially add to the money value of their crops of tobacco by using more potash, yet, to improve the general quality of our tobacco, farmers, as a whole, must adopt this system of fertilizing.

The use of 1,000 pounds of fertilizer running 7 per cent sulphate potash gives to the tobacco the immediate use of 70 lbs. of sulphate of potash use of 70 pounds of sulphate of potash. That soil would therefore have to be very deficient in potash content that did not yield a good crop of tobacco with 1,000 pounds of such fertilizer in normal seasons. The serious condition and discussion of this important question will redound to the good of the tobacco farmers.

A Pointer to Farmers.

The Sun is always glad to aid the farmers and do what it can for their advancement and the promotion of their industries and give them a greater success.

Mr. W. C. Bradsher, the buyer for the A. T. Company, gives us a hint, and we use it in the hope that it will be beneficial to the farmers and at the same time enable them to realize better results from the sale of their tobacco. The suggestion is this:

The Man Who Helps.

A town's best asset is a bunch of men who have money, enterprise and public spirit. A man who establishes an enterprise which enables many other people to make a living while he makes something on their labor, is a desirable citizen and public benefactor. The man who has a payroll to meet is not a theoretical but a practical booster.—Wilmington Star

Before planting tobacco seed blow the seed carefully to get out the chaff or faulty seed, and in this way you can rid the planting of seed that will make a faulty stalk of tobacco. Or else, another way is to put the seed roll to meet is not a theoretical but a practical booster.—Wilmington Star to the top and can easily be discovered.

The farmers are requested to do this before they sow their plant bed, and thus improve the next crop. Such a precaution has been known to increase the value of crops in other states to a very handsome per cent. It is worth trying.—Durham Sun.

Rotation for Farm Conditions.

Now is the time to plan crop rotations for the farm and while changes may be made, if necessary, it will be found most satisfactory to lay out the fields and plan the crop rotations so that there will be system and method in the farming operations. A lawyer or doctor may spend weeks studying one case, why should we not put our best thought and considerable time in planning a rotation of crops for the farm? Surely the importance of the matter merits our best efforts.—Progressive Farmer.

Sometimes the harder a man is to land the less he pleases the woman who lands him.

The more talking a man does the more denying he has to do.

Nitrate of Soda for Grain Crops.

If wheat or oats do not seem to thrive as they should, it is a good practice to apply some nitrate of soda. I have used as much as 100 pounds an acre on wheat, always applying when the leaves are dry, to avoid scalding. In one experiment I increased the wheat crop nine bushels an acre on part of the field with an application of 100 pounds of nitrate, this part making 19 bushels where the rest of the field made 10 bushels, the land being in rather a low state of fertility. But I followed that wheat with peas and gathered only the peas, and the next season that land made a fine corn crop. Could have made a heavier one had I followed the peas with crimson clover, but at that time we had not found out the value of this clover.—W. F. Massey, in Progressive Farmer.
