

GREEN MANURING NO. 2. Necessity of Organic Matter in the Soil.

We have now attempted to explain the phenomenon called "souring of the soil" and to point out a practicable remedy, namely: roll the green manuring crop; disc it a number of times in the opposite direction to the rolling while yet green and sufficient in order to cut it into small bits; plow it under; disc it once or twice after plowing, depending on the amount of material on the land; with the disc set at a slight angle in order to pulverize and mix the cut-up vegetable matter with the whole soil stratum; and allow the land to settle a few weeks and receive one or more good rains.

We shall now take up in succession and discuss the value of a number of humus-forming materials, other than animal manures, and then point out methods of handling them in connection with different crops. In a previous chapter we gave the average chemical analysis of a large number of samples of green rye in which we found this material to contain 16 pounds of nitrogen, 5 pounds of phosphate, and 14 pounds of potash per ton. All of these constituents are taken from the soil by the roots, and built into the tissues of the plant and given out again to a succeeding crop when the rye decays.

A crop of green rye weighing eight tons to the acre is easily grown on the average farm in North Carolina. This amount of green rye incorporated with the first ten inches of a ten acre field would furnish to the soil of this field, in a readily available form, 800 pounds of nitrogen, 400 pounds of phosphate and 1120 pounds of potash.

This is as much nitrogen as would be furnished by 20 tons of an 8-2-2 fertilizer or 100 loads of fresh cow manure. The phosphate in this amount of green stuff is equal to that contained in 1 1/2 tons of an 8-2-2 fertilizer or in 200 tons, or loads, of fresh horse manure. The potash contained in this material is equal to that found in 28 tons of an 8-2-2 fertilizer or in 150 tons of fresh horse manure. Sufficient rye to seed the ten acres will cost around $10, whereas, it would cost $75 to haul and spread the 150 tons of stable manure.

In the above we have mentioned merely the plant food constituents rendered available by the rye and have not taken into account the vast amount of humus for holding moisture and improving the texture of the soil. Be sure to sow quantities of rye this fall for plowing under next spring before planting. Next week we expect to discuss the use of wheat straw and green corn as manure.

Association Train. On next Sunday, October 1, trains on the Washington branch of the Atlantic Coast Line will make stops at Manning siding for the accommodation of people attending the Kehukee Association at Flat Swamp. Manning siding is about half way between Parmele and Oakley and is within one mile of Flat Swamp church.

ABOUT THE WEEDS.

Is The Town Doing Its Duty to Tax Payers?

Editor Reflector: We notice that the mayor calls attention to the sidewalks of our town and asks that the owners of the property clean the same of weeds. This is right and should be done. At the same time while many have complied with this request all the summer and have kept their sidewalks clean, the town has never been near with their men, the whole summer to touch the streets, to clean or to cut down weeds and in some places, in middle of streets weeds stand nearly as high as your head, left there to breed sickness and give fever. This is where people live and pay taxes or rather folks do, whose streets are kept clean of weeds. If the town does not know of such, they can go west of the A. C. L. track, on Fourth street. This or all other ought to be kept clear of weeds. In fact, it seems that the town care little about doing for that end of the town what is just and right to those who live there. No water for fire protection; end of Fourth street is left in darkness, no lights; no sewerage; yet we are expected to pay taxes to the town. It is right and just.

A WEST ENDER.

Nearly 50,000 Pounds at the Gum. Today we had another large sale at the Gum, and prices were never better. All of my patrons were highly pleased and were convinced that the Gum is the place to sell, if the highest price is wanted.

I want again to express my appreciation to those of my friends and acquaintances for their patronage, and to those who have known me only a short time, I want to extend to you the warmest welcome possible. We are making friends every day, and would like to number you among them. We have no hesitancy in saying that we know our business from start to finish, and will see that you are satisfied if you will bring me your next load.

Now, to those who have never patronized me at the Gum, I want to urge you to come to see me and bring me a load. You can never tell what I can do for you, unless you try me.

J. J. GENTRY, Manager, Gum Warehouse.

Large Crowd of People. Without doubt Guilford never has seen such a crowd of people as were here to see the Mighty Haag Railroad shows. Both in the afternoon and evening the tents were crowded with people, and in the afternoon hundreds could not secure tickets as the ticket wagon was closed long before two o'clock. Every train during the day brought people to see the show, and long before time for the parade to make its appearance on the streets they were crowded with people anxiously awaiting it, and not one was disappointed, as Mr. Haag has spent plenty of time and money on his parade, making it second to none. Never in the history of Guilford have there been as many pretty girls, funny clowns and good music in one parade. The Guilford Times is sure it voices the sentiment of the people when it says, give us more shows like Haag.—Guilford Times.

The Mighty Haag shows will be in Greenville Friday, Sept. 29.

How To Get More Out Of Your Hay Crop

WHETHER you feed or sell your hay, it should be baled. Baled hay takes up much less room and nets a better price than loose hay. It is always ready for any market at top price, while loose hay must be sold near home, at whatever you can get.

ADJUST BAPTIST DIFFERENCES

Between The Two Great Divisions of the Baptist Church in America. OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., Sept. 27.—To adjust certain differences that have arisen between the two great divisions of the Baptist church in America, a joint conference was begun here today by representatives of the Northern Baptist Convention and representatives of the Southern Baptist Convention. Difficulties growing out of recent New Mexican organizations form the principal matter in dispute. Some New Mexican congregations withdrew from the Northern Baptist Convention, and joined the Southern, with, it is claimed, the co-operation of some Southern leaders. The action has produced considerable friction, which it is hoped will be removed by the present conference.

A hypocrite is like a tack;—he can do the most mischief while pointing to high heaven. When a man is his own enemy he can't help from winning the fight.

Unique Window Display.

There is a display in one of the front windows of Hart & Hadley hardware store that attracts all passers. It is a mechanical figure of girl standing at table which she is polishing with liquid veneer. The girl holds a can of the veneer in her hand, gives it a shake, pours on some of the liquid on a cloth, wipes the top of the table, and then her head in satisfaction over the result.

Gentry and Cannon.

It will interest you to come by the Gum warehouse and see the Mr. Gentry and Biggs Cannon sell tobacco. They cling to the top always and the are best pleased when they are plentifully patronized.

MORNING TALKS AT TRAINING SCHOOL

By President Robt. H. Wright to the Students

THE STATES EDUCATIONAL PROBLEM

How to Provide Efficient Teachers For Her Public Schools—Money And Houses Do Not Make Schools—The Teacher Must Be Prepared.

The purpose of this school and the purpose of your stay here are one and the same. It may be of some service to some of you, to know why the state has established this school, why the tax-payers of North Carolina are called upon to contribute each year to its maintenance. It may help you to clarify your promise for me to give you an outline of the educational development in North Carolina.

WHY IS THIS SCHOOL? To answer this question it is necessary to give you a brief history of public education. I am not going to give you enough to hurt you, but just enough to state our problem.

For many years we have had set aside a part of the taxes levied each year for "Free School" purposes. These schools in the more progressive communities were sandwiched in between two terms of subscription school. But the free school was taught by the teacher employed for the subscription school. During the public school term almost all of the children of the community went to school, and during the subscription term only the children of those parents who helped pay the teacher's salary, attended the school. As a result some of the children in the neighborhood advanced more rapidly than others. It was not right to the child that he should be handicapped in life, simply because his father could not, or would not, provide for his education. It was not long before people saw that educated youths were worth more to the community than unlettered. It, therefore, soon became apparent to all that the state owes an elementary education to each boy and girl in its borders; also that it will pay to give them this education. Put this down as the first point this morning—North Carolina has realized that an elementary education should be offered to each boy and girl in the state, and that this education should be provided for by taxation.

I shall not always select a passage of Scripture because of what I wish to say, but I have done so this morning. If your hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter thus maimed, rather than having both hands or two feet to be cast into fire. If thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter thus single-eyed, than having two eyes to be cast into fire.

Why is this school? Do you see the answer to this question? Our state realized that all the money that was spent to train teachers for other schools were doing all they could but they were not doing enough; so the state planted this school here to do this one thing: train young white men and women to teach in the public schools.

that you give yourselves over entirely with all of your faith, all of your hope, all of your mind; yes, all of your faculties, in the purpose for which you are attending school. In bringing this about, three men stand out clearly above the others, viz.: Charles Duncan Melver, first president of the State Normal and Industrial school at Greensboro; Edward Anderson Alderman, first president of the University of Virginia, and James Yarkin Joyner, our State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The next movement in our state was for better school houses. This began several years ago. Those of you who were with us last year remember there stood a building where they are now making an excavation for a new building on Fifth street, between here and town, a little wooden structure used as a plunder house. This house ten years ago was the best public school building in Pitt county. It has been destroyed to give place to a larger, more commodious building for commercial purposes.

Where this building last stood for school purposes, is now erected a large, commodious brick structure that cost about $20,000.00. Ten years ago the public school property of Pitt county was worth not to exceed $15,000.00. Today it is worth over $300,000.00. What is true of Pitt county is proportionately true of each other county in North Carolina. The citizenship certainly cannot do less than co-operate by making exhibits of the best they have. When this is done it will be found that where Pitt county sits is the head of the table in the state's family of counties.

AN APPEAL

To Pitt Counties To Work For The County Fair.

My attention has been called by the president of the Pitt County Fair Association, Mr. John L. Wooten, to the fact that premiums are offered by that association for almost everything grown on the farm, especially tobacco. I have seen the premium list of the county fair, and although it was incomplete at that time, it was a most creditable one and every citizen of the county ought to feel a pride and take an interest in this laudable undertaking. Every farmer in the county who is so fortunate as to have a good crop of tobacco ought, by all means, prepare an exhibit for the county fair, which will be held here early in November. Those who contemplate making an exhibit at the state fair can at the same time prepare an exhibit for their county fair. The officers, board of governors and committees of the Pitt County Fair Association are entitled to the cooperation and support of every citizen in the county. These men and women are devoting their time and attention to this movement purely from patriotic motives. There is no financial reward attached to these officers, and these citizens are going about the work to make it a success for the honor and credit of Pitt county.

AUTOMOBILE BREAKS DOWN. Occupants Walked Several Miles to Call Help.

On Sunday Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse with Messrs. Tom Dupree and Norman Warren, with his colored chauffeur, started out to Flat Swamp in his automobile to attend the association. About eight miles from town one of the rear axles to the automobile wrung in two and dropped the car to the ground. The chauffeur stopped so quickly that no one was hurt. The party had to walk several miles to reach a telephone and send in a call to town for help. A team had to be sent out to bring in the disabled car.

He schools. This is the only state school in North Carolina with this purpose. Do not misunderstand me. I would not discredit the noble work done by our state colleges, and our denominational colleges. But let me reiterate what I have said, this is the only school established by our state for the sole purpose—training teachers for our public schools. Many people helped in this work, but there are two men who tower above others in this movement; Hon. Thos. J. Joyner and Supt. W. H. Ragsdale.

Do you see your problem more clearly fellow teachers? This school is here to help you prepare to meet the last great movement in our state's educational problem. Your individual problem is to make an efficient teacher. If thy hand or thy feet offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee. Remove all obstacles and press on to the completion of your purpose and children yet unborn will come forth to bless you.

THIS TIME ITS SNAKES THAT ARE SNAKES

ONE THAT FEEDS ON SQUIRRELS

An Old Man Who Takes On New Ways.

HANRAHAN, N. C., Oct. 2.—We quote the following as related to us by Mr. S. Dall, of Blount Hall: Said he, "while rambling in the low lands of Contentnea creek, Thursday afternoon, in search of hogs and trying to find a good hunting ground for squirrels, thinking to try my marksmanship as soon as the law is off, I came near a tall gum with a thick top, and nearly hidden by the foliage of the tree I saw a squirrel's nest. While thus standing and gazing at the nest, I heard a very strange noise inside the nest. I stood a while with hair on end and hat pushed nearly off my head, trying to find an open place to run, when to my consternation a few yards from my feet there fell the ground a snake. So tremendous in size was his snake-ship that I looked towards his head and beheld to my great surprise he had a long, grey beard. Thought I what on earth shall I do? Must I attempt to kill a monster of this kind? Then I kinder waited to get my courage to at least a standing point. So after a little further consideration and great effort on my part, I struck the monster a severe blow with a ten-foot pole that I carried with me, which blow killed his snake-ship so dead he scarcely wiggled. It was one of those blows that a 'scared' man gives when hemmed in with no chance to run. When I saw for sure that the monster was dead from head to tail, I cautiously approached his head to see if I could by any means discern what kind of a beard that was. By careful examination I found that it was the half of a squirrel's tail projecting from the snake's mouth. Then I ventured to measure the snake in length, species what is known as the chicken snake. But it seems that this one preferred squirrels for his diet.

A more wonderful story is told of a snake that was captured some time since by one of the Hanrahan boys. After killing the snake he found a glistening hard egg-shaped substance inside the snake, which, when he had carefully cleansed he handed to his aged mother and on receiving it she found that youth and vigor was returning. So this was put up to the highest bidder. There is a widower who has a beautiful country home near Ayden. Some years had passed over his head and the frost of several winters had somewhat streaked his hair, but being a man of much wealth he bid higher than any of his neighbors could bid and secured the desirable man. So completely did he change his entire being that now he is as erect as a military cadet, his steps are as steady and quick as one of 20 years. Before he was content to ride behind a medium swift horse. Now he spins over the country in an automobile at a 40-mile gait. Once the mulla were swift enough to carry his messages, but now he often visits the central telephone office that his messages may be received more hastily, for they are all urgent, at this time, and if they are answered satisfactorily she will have the chance of a lovely country home or a mansion in the select portion of her choice of cities. And furthermore she can have a span of horses at her command or an automobile if she desires to more speed. Any age from 20 to 40, for with his will he can adjust his years to suit any within this life. The quality is the one feature yet unborn will come forth to bless you.

"THE COOK'S BASKET"

Why Not Enforce The Vagrancy Law?

Editor Reflector: We notice in your paper of October 2nd a most timely article entitled "The Cook's Basket," taken from the Charleston News and Courier.

We agree with the writer that it is a disgusting thing to think of idle negroes loafing around the streets and dives, and stations, when every one knows they are being fed from some white person's kitchen by the cooks. We are told there is a law against vagrancy; is it utterly impossible to enforce that law? If so, then why don't the law-makers repeal it? If it can be enforced (and we all know it should be), then why not enforce it? That would go far toward solving the labor problem and high prices when we would have more producers and fewer parasites.

We have heard that there is a Civic League in Greenville, composed of its good women, and suffer us to say we believe there are none better on God's earth. Would it be amiss to suggest to the ladies while they are planning and talking civics and home economics to include in their plans a discussion of "The Cook's Basket" or pan as the case may be?

In our opinion if one woman sets her head on doing a thing she usually does it. If several are united, it is bound to be done.

Ladies, does the problem of the "Cook's Basket" appeal to you?

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—An important gathering of insurance men—the annual meeting of the Fire Underwriters' Association of the northwest—convened at the Hotel LaSalle today with a large attendance of members. In addition to a considerable number of prominent fire insurance officials from eastern cities, J. D. Browne, president of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, delivered the annual address. The programme extends over tomorrow and provides for numerous papers and addresses from representatives of the various branches of the fire insurance business and commercial interests as well.

INVESTIGATE PIECE SYSTEM.

The System Has Met With Bitter Opposition.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 4.—The house labor committee, of which representative W. B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, is chairman, came to Boston today to begin an investigation of the workings of the Taylor piece system which the government has proposed to install in all of the United States navy yards and arsenals. The system has met with the bitter opposition of the labor unions and its installation at the Watertown arsenal recently resulted in a general strike of the machinists employed there.

He said, "It is not good for man to live alone."

I suppose I had better close and not tell on that preacher who rode the whole afternoon in the low lands of Contentnea looking his near con-alas! he could not find them. So he had to appoint another day and find water enough in the public road, but the preacher believes in sprinkling, but like Paul, he tries to be all things to all persons that perchance he may be instrumental in saving some. Hence he did not know the creek very well.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

SUBJECT, "UNPARDONABLE SIN"

The Audience Very Large Tuesday Night.

Mr. H. C. Boblitt preached to an audience at the Christian church last night that almost filled the house. They listened very attentively while he discussed, in a most instructive and interesting way, "The Unpardonable Sin." He is quite proficient as a song leader, and there was evidently much improvement in the singing and tested by the audience by leaving it singing in sections.

Mrs. C. C. Ware sang most acceptably "Eternity," a beautiful solo, well adapted to the occasion. The sermon was well prepared and well delivered. He said that some people thought that the unpardonable sin was the single rejection of Jesus Christ when under the conviction of sin, but showed that one might reject Christ many times and yet be saved if they did not continue in their stubbornness and disobedience. Again he said that others thought that the unpardonable sin was suicide, but stated that the Bible did not so declare. Others think it is drunkenness, etc. But the Bible expressly says that the unpardonable sin is the sins against the Holy Spirit. Then the evangelist explained that there had been three dispensations in the world's history, the Patriarchal, the Jewish, and the Christian, and that in the Patriarchal and Jewish dispensations until the birth of Christ the world had messages of pardon from God only; that after the birth of Christ to Pentecost they had these messages from God and Christ; and that after Pentecost we have had these messages from God, Christ and the Holy Spirit, and that the Bible, which rules and guides us today, is distinctly the expression of the Holy Spirit. Hence to reject the Holy Spirit which is the last messenger bearing pardon, the last that shall ever be, is to sin against the Holy Spirit, and reject God's entire plan for the redemption of man. And to continually reject the offers of the Holy Spirit is the unpardonable sin, for in the nature of the case it is unpardonable. The speaker then vividly illustrated this truth by a word picture of the cold-blooded murderer, apprehended, convicted, sentenced to hang, led to the scaffold, and being handed a parson, as he is about to be executed, tears into pieces sullenly and scornfully, and goes on to his death.

In conclusion a stirring exhortation was given to bear the good tidings of the Holy Spirit, which has been the "power of God unto salvation" to so many. The meeting last night, was a very marked interest in the work being done in this evangelistic campaign, and on every hand were heard expressions of the evangelist's ability and consecration. The meeting is to continue throughout this week, and most probably all of next week. There will be special music each evening. Every one are free for a real revival, and we welcome from the members of this comparatively small, but prosperous church.

INTER-STATE SHIPMENTS UNFAIR

States That Have Prohibition Should Be Allowed to Seize Shipments That Cross Their Borders—Statistics Show Great Falling Off of Amount Coming Into State.

Rev. R. L. Davis, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of the state, preached in the Methodist church here Sunday morning, and that night addressed a large audience at a union service in the Baptist church on prohibition and the enforcement of the prohibition law of the state.

Mr. Davis said that as a preacher he was so much in the habit of taking a text that he would use one now, and his text for this address was "For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil." There are two kinds of work connected with the establishment of Christ's kingdom—destructive and constructive—but now he wanted to talk on only one of these, the destruction of the works of the devil. No one was going to take issue with him in declaring that the sale of liquor and the drinking of liquor is the work of the devil. It is not the work of the Holy Spirit that induces a boy to turn the first bottle of beer or the first glass of wine to his lips—it is the work of the devil starting out to make a drunkard of that boy.

The Anti-Saloon League is the servant of the church, and is doing its work through and by the direction of the church. It is not the work of politicians or any political party, but the work of the church, and the church is the movement to remove the curse of liquor traffic and liquor drinking.

National legislation, law enforcement and total abstinence are three things needed to make prohibition effective. The inter-state commerce of the government is very unfair to prohibition states. Here in North Carolina we adopted prohibition by a majority of over 44,000, yet the government says that liquor may be shipped to the state. Sentiment against such unfairness is growing rapidly, and such pressure should be brought to bear upon senators and representatives in congress to correct this. It is coming very soon.

You hear it said that prohibition in North Carolina is not effective. Such statements come from people who want to drink liquor, or who are directly or indirectly interested in the sale of liquor.

Statistics have been prepared by some one showing that 3,000,000 gallons of liquor were shipped into North Carolina last year. That sounds like a big lot of whiskey to come into the state, and so it is, but when you remember that previous to prohibition there were 20,000,000 gallons, it shows we have cut off 17,000,000 gallons, and that is certainly gaining ground. And as soon as we can get the interstate shipments stopped by national legislation, which is coming, you will find the other 3,000,000 gallons cut off. Before it took great freight trains to handle the liquor, but now it is handled mainly through the express offices where the people see it more readily, and because they see it they think as much is coming in as ever. The figures show differently.

I am told that at a railroad station in your county several barrels of whiskey were recently put off bearing the name of (he called the name), and upon examining the records I find that the government issued license to a man of the same name in your county. You can draw your own conclusions whether that man paid $25 for a government license and gets that much whiskey for his private use. Some who ship liquor into this state advertise that "Uncle Sam is in business with us."

We have laws on the books against stealing and against murder, but these laws on the books are useless unless they are enforced. The same is true as to the law against selling liquor. We have officers to execute the laws, but they can't execute the laws without the help of the people. The citizen has the solution of the problem, and it is the duty of every citizen to give the officers his moral support.

Mr. Davis spoke for about an hour and a half, and of course said much that cannot be given in this report. It was an address that put his hearers to thinking, and it ought to bear good fruit toward the enforcement in this county of the law against selling liquor.

In a few short weeks the leap year maid will be on the jump.

A BAD RUNAWAY SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Five Men, Three Horses, and Two Vehicles Involved

One Horse Permanently Injured and Buggy Splintered—Almost Miraculous That No One Was Killed.

On Sunday Messrs. O. F. Clark, D. C. Beach, W. M. Martin and Howard Barnhill, went out to the association at Flat Swamp. They drove a pair of horses to a double-seated open surrey. Late in the afternoon as they were on the return home they stopped to get water. Messrs. Beach and Martin got out of the vehicle and went to the well near by. Mr. Clark, who was driving, also got out and was standing between the wheels holding the reins. Mr. Barnhill remaining on the rear seat of the surrey.

Without any warning whatever, and with apparently nothing to frighten them, the horses jumped. Mr. Clark, standing between the wheels, was knocked down by the rear axle and was dragged some distance by the reins before he could turn them loose. When the horses had run about half a mile Mr. Barnhill jumped out. The others left behind started running after the horses. They came up with Mr. Barnhill where he had jumped out of the surrey, and while he was badly bruised he was able to join them in following the horses.

A little over a mile from where the horses started they came up with three horses, two vehicles and a man mixed up in a heap together in a ditch by the road side. The runaway team had run down Mr. Cornelius Barnhill who was riding along by himself, smashed his buggy almost into kindling wood, caught his horse on the pole of the surrey between them, and the three horses rolled over in the ditch together. Mr. Barnhill was caught under one of the vehicles, but fortunately escaped with no worse injury than some severe bruises. Two of the horses were injured, so he had to be permanently disabled him.

They all set to work to clear the tangle and managed to get the surrey patched up so that with the aid of Mr. Barnhill's horse the young men could come on to town in a walk.

It is almost miraculous that somebody was not killed in the runaway. Some other vehicles along the road at the time came near being run over, but escaped by turning out of the way of the running team.

BASEBALL SCORES. Odd Way the Plays Were Recorded

The baseball public of today, accustomed to the minute reporting of games, wherein each run is compounded and merely a play analyzed, is offered the account of a game played in 1883.

The game was delayed a half hour by the difficulty in finding an umpire. Then the report goes on to state: "The game opened loosely upon both sides, and at the end of the first inning the score stood Athletics 5, Central City 4, each side making its tallies promptly from the loose playing of the out club. After the first inning the Athletics played more carefully, while the Central City grew more careless until the fifth inning, when they became more demoralized than was the Union army at the battle of Bull Run."

THE REAL KEY TO THE SITUATION.

Up around West End, Jackson Springs, Beagle Springs and other centers of population in the western end of Moore county a movement in real estate similar to that which has attracted so much attention in the lower end of the county, is taking place.

SENSE OF HUMOR. A sense of humor preserves all who have it from extremes. It warns away from the coxibots of the petty and ridiculous and produces very often the same elegant ideas unobtrusively, revealing through laughter that reasonable one of thought which was obscured by logic.

Perseverance. Perseverance is more prevailing than violence, and many things which seem to overcome when they are together yield themselves up when taken little by little.

MERCHANTS REACHING OUT.

The Merchants' Association is having published this week a leaflet of six pages advertising Kinston and the business of each of its members. The leaflet calls attention to the large stocks of merchandise carried by its members, and that anything brought to Kinston finds a ready market. The idea conveyed by this leaflet is that Kinston, beside being a residential city, is a live business city. Kinston merchants are reaching out for business in all the surrounding counties, and the Merchants' Association is paying the way by having all its members cooperate for this purpose.

This association has done much to eliminate bad trade conditions, and besides effecting co-operation, among its members, it has engendered a spirit of progress along all lines of business in Kinston. The purpose of this organization, while directly for the improvement of business conditions, particularly as to credits; yet it has done much, indirectly, to the benefit of Kinston and the surrounding territory.—Kinston Free Press.

This shows the way the merchants of Kinston are reaching out to get more trade and improve conditions. It is a step worthy of emulation in other towns, and is along the line that The Reflector has repeatedly tried to arouse the merchants of Greenville. Some years ago Greenville had a Merchants' Association which met a few times with small attendance and was allowed to die for want of interest. Much good could have been accomplished through the organization if it had been kept up and properly used. Surely the business men of this town ought to be doing something to bring more trade here, and there is no better way to do it than through active organization and co-operation.

FIRST GET THE FACTORIES.

"I see you have some vacant houses in Greenville. Why is this?" asked an observer. Because there are not the people to occupy them. "Why the scarcity of people to occupy the houses?" Because of the lack of employment for them. "And why the lack of employment?" Because of the absence of factories. Reverse this and see what would be the result: Manufacturing enterprises will give employment to people. Employment will bring more people to the town. More people in the town will fill the vacant houses. The people who come for employment and fill the houses and pay rent, must also eat and wear clothes, and that means more business for the merchants. The thing to do is start out and get the factories.

Today we print another of the talks made by President Wright at the morning chapel exercises of the Training school. We have made arrangements to give to our readers two of these talks each week. We have done this because we believe it is worth while that our people shall know and see for themselves that not only are all recreation periods used to give their boys and girls in the school the very best teaching, but that the opening exercises are utilized by the president to give the student body those things which are as absolutely necessary for a successful life as any thing they may get from their textbooks. To see that this is done our readers have only to read each and every one of these sensible lectures that are given from day to day. Former students of this institution who have had the opportunity of hearing President Wright will evidently appreciate this opportunity we are giving them.

Here's hoping Wilmington will set a good example by seeing her army of blind tigers get the full limit on the roads. It is going to take punishment to break up whiskey selling, as a little fine and costs or suspension of judgment on payment of costs will not do it.

Of course it was hardly expected that President Taft could complete his journey without somebody starting a story of an attempt to assassinate him, so the reported finding of a bomb in Kansas that was intended for the president can be passed along for what it is worth.

Not a few men have grown rich out of the sale of liquor, but it is wealth gained in a barter of character, manhood, virtue and human souls. And such men will have much to answer for in the next world where their wealth here will do them no good.

The horrible disaster that occurred at Coudersport, Pa., Saturday afternoon, in which eight hundred lives were lost by the breaking of a dam, recalls a similar calamity at Johnstown in the same state in 1889, when several thousand perished.

The price of everything is higher, except newspapers. They have to plod along at the old price, but pay more for everything they get. And even at the low price there are people who do not want to pay for the papers they read.

Every person in this community who wants to see the prohibition law enforced and "blind tigers" broken up, should hear the address of Rev. R. L. Davis, president of the State Anti-Saloon League, in Memorial Baptist church here Sunday night.

Let us remind the farmers and housewives of Pitt county to be getting something in readiness for exhibition at the county fair on November 2nd and 3rd. It is going to be a good fair and the premiums will reach several hundred dollars.

Mr. Edison will please hurry his invention of a lady's hat to cost only $2. And then somebody invent something that will induce the ladies to wear them. Get the style leaders to say they are the thing.

Father will carefully put away his straw hat to bring it out for service again next summer. Mother's will have to go to the garret or lumber room, as fashion says she must have a new style.

Of course North Carolina is first in everything. A report just sent out from Washington says that this state produced more gold in 1910 than any other eastern state.

Some of his lawyers are actually trying to get a rehearing of the Beattie case because the jury upon going to their room engaged in prayer for Divine guidance in reaching a right verdict.

The Raleigh News and Observer of Sunday was an edition containing forty-four pages. It was a Richmond booster and carried twenty-one pages of advertising for business men of that city.

The Reflector comes about as near giving double value for every dollar it gets as anything going in Greenville. Yet there are some people who think newspapers and advertising space ought to be free.

Air routes seem to have as many side track obstacles to continuous travel as do the surface roads, and when it comes to jumping the track there is no comparison.

If October does its duty it will bring some of us more money than September did.

The lumber trust is about to be placed.

Use a man in doing all the best he wants to do, he should endeavor to get more. We do not believe there are any in Greenville who have all the business they want. There is no better way to get more business than by advertising, and there is no more effective advertising medium in this section than The Reflector.

An example of the difficulty in getting the business men of Greenville interested in matters pertaining to the welfare of the town, was shown Tuesday night. A meeting of the chamber of commerce was called to consider an important matter, and there were exactly five men in attendance.

Interest in Carolina club should be increased, and more of the business men of the town ought to be members and give the club their influence. But we do not believe the way to accomplish this will be through the establishment of lockers.

Wilmington has decided to wake up and go after the numerous blind tigers operating in that city. A few days ago the grand jury returned bills of indictments against forty-nine persons who had been selling liquor.

In Greenville there are not a few men who can drop back to the kitchen and kiss the cook before leaving home, without the least fear of raising a row in the family or getting their heads combed with a rolling pin.

Did you ever notice that some people think you are against them unless you run after and bootlick them. Even Greeneville is not entirely free of that kind.

The Pitt county fair is now only about a month off, the dates being November 2nd and 3rd. Be sure that you get something ready to exhibit. The premium list is liberal.

The death of Admiral Sampson, the hero of Santiago, recalls his victory over the Spanish fleet off Cuba and the attempt of Admiral Sampson to rob him of the honor.

The bearish movement continues to pull down the price of cotton. The farmers can hold the key to the situation by refusing to sell at the low price.

Some people have to leave a community sometimes because they do not fit the environments, but you do not hear of many voluntarily leaving North Carolina these days.

There is plenty of had in Greenville, but there is so much more good that it is really the best town on the map.

October ought to bring The Reflector a harvest of subscribers after receipts. Won't you who read this be among the number to pay early?

Butter has joined the other articles of food in taking a high flight. If things get much worse the populace may be forced to a soda cracker diet.

A man, who has to be much on the defensive in regard to his actions must be acting wrong. The president might make a note of this.

Greenville ought to put herself in line for a visit from some of the prospectors from other states that come to Eastern North Carolina.

Some of them stick to the straw hat just like they want to see how long it can go.

Don't be uneasy that Jack Frost will not "come back." He will be along after a while, and his bite will be as sharp as ever.

The nations that build battleships kill more of their own people with them than they do of an enemy.

If Italy and Turkey come to a scrap there may be some feathers flying for the least money.

Use a man in doing all the best he wants to do, he should endeavor to get more. We do not believe there are any in Greenville who have all the business they want. There is no better way to get more business than by advertising, and there is no more effective advertising medium in this section than The Reflector.

An example of the difficulty in getting the business men of Greenville interested in matters pertaining to the welfare of the town, was shown Tuesday night. A meeting of the chamber of commerce was called to consider an important matter, and there were exactly five men in attendance.

Interest in Carolina club should be increased, and more of the business men of the town ought to be members and give the club their influence. But we do not believe the way to accomplish this will be through the establishment of lockers.

Wilmington has decided to wake up and go after the numerous blind tigers operating in that city. A few days ago the grand jury returned bills of indictments against forty-nine persons who had been selling liquor.

In Greenville there are not a few men who can drop back to the kitchen and kiss the cook before leaving home, without the least fear of raising a row in the family or getting their heads combed with a rolling pin.

Did you ever notice that some people think you are against them unless you run after and bootlick them. Even Greenville is not entirely free of that kind.

My Doctor Said

"Try Cardui," writes Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I was in a very low state of health, and was not able to be up and tend to my duties. I did try Cardui, and soon began to feel better. I got able to be up and help do my housework. I continued to take the medicine, and now I am able to do my housework and to care for my children, and I feel as though I could never praise Cardui enough for the benefits I have received."

Cardui is successful, because it is made especially for women, and acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That explains the great success which it has had, during the past 50 years, in helping thousands of weak and ailing women back to health and happiness.

If you are a woman, feel tired, dull, and are nervous, cross and irritable, it's because you need a tonic. Why not try Cardui? Cardui builds, strengthens, restores, and acts in every way as a special, tonic remedy for women. Test it for yourself. Your druggist sells Cardui. Ask him.

EIGHT HUNDRED PERISH IN FLOOD

Dam Breaks and Water Rushes Down Valley

CARRIES DESTRUCTION WITH IT

Two towns almost swept away—people deluged while trying to flee to the hills for safety—houses crushed like shells and many killed in collapse.

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Sept. 30.—With a roar that could be heard for miles the great dam of the Bayless Pulp and Paper company, at Austin, Pa., 4 miles from their lives went out at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Forty bodies had been recovered from the ruins when darkness came this evening, and it is estimated that fully 400 are unaccounted for and are believed to be dead.

The dam, which is 530 feet long and 45 feet wide, was 22 feet thick at the base, and held back more than 500,000,000 gallons of water. For the first time since its construction, two years ago, the water was running over the top today and many persons went out from Austin a mile and a half away, to see the unusual sight.

They were horrified when a section of about 200 feet in width gave way on the west side. A great volume of water poured through the hole and the alarm was quickly sounded. People ran for their lives to the hills nearby, but some were caught in the flood and whirled down the valley. A moment later another break occurred, this time on the east side. It was much greater than the first and permitted the bulk of the water behind it to rush in a mighty volume toward the lowlands.

Harry Davis, a locomotive engineer of this place, reached a telephone and notified the operator at the exchange. She called as many persons as possible. But the time was short. The raging flood tore down the little valley carrying death on its debris-covered cars. Hundreds of women and children, the men being away at work, were caught in their homes and drowned, or crushed before they knew what had happened. Houses went down before the mighty rush of water and gas pipes, bent and broken, released their dangerous fluid. Before the water had passed on its terrible course through the town a dozen fires were burning in as many places and the cries of injured and imprisoned persons joined in the terrible thunder of the flood.

Much of the debris lodged against the shops of the Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad and there the fire raged furthest. Many men were caught here and it is believed that few, if any, escaped with their lives.

The course of the flood was through the business center of the little village. A majority of the buildings were of wood and those which were not immediately wrecked by the torrent were soon in flames.

So sudden was the onslaught of water that many persons had no time to flee to the hills, but others received the warning, and, believing it was fire, hastened to the center of the town, only to be caught in the flood and swept away.

The flood passed quickly, leaving devastation in its wake. Houses had been crushed and tossed about like toys, while hundreds of bodies had been carried down on the crest of the surging torrent.

ANOTHER CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS

THREE CASES AGAINST MAN.

Had Thirty-Eight Half Pint Bottles and Two Gallon Kegs of Whiskey.

Thursday afternoon Sheriff S. I. Dudley and Policeman G. A. Clark rounded up another "blind tiger." In other words it was the third time the same man has been caught selling liquor and the three cases stand against him for trial at the next criminal term of court.

It came about in this wise: One of the regular jurors at the civil term of court showed upon his return to the court room that he had been drinking. The juror was not drunk, but because he had been drinking he was stood aside and did not sit in the jury box during the afternoon. Thereupon Sheriff Dudley and Policeman Clark got busy. They marked a quarter and gave to the juror, asking him to go out and buy them a half pint of liquor at the same place he had bought it before. The officers showed the juror and saw him go to the old Rainbow stables just across the street nearly opposite the city hall where court was being held. The juror bought a bottle of liquor from Sam Joyner, colored, and gave him the marked quarter. The officers then rushed in and captured Sam, who had the marked quarter in his pocket. They also searched his place and found 38 half pint bottles and two gallon kegs of liquor, showing that he was carrying on a large "blind tiger" business right under the shadow of the city hall and the temporary court house.

Joyner was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Wooten, and in default of bond was committed to jail. The same man was already under bond for appearance at court in one case, with still another case against him on which there has been no preliminary trial.

Amount of Cotton Ginned.

The government report on the cotton ginned out of this year's crop up to September 25th, places the number of bales at 3,662,900.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by all dealers.

A Great Collection.

More than maintaining its high standard for exclusive articles of deep interest, the Magazine Section of next Sunday's New York World will contain "Advice of Mary Garden to New York Girls Abroad," "My Adventure With Stolypin's Assassin," by Col. James Persitz, of the Russian Secret Police, "Discarded American Battleships," "New York Mansions, etc.," "Carved to Fit Stripes," "The American Girl Who Married a Duke and is Happy," also the words and music of "Little Pill," a new song hit, etc. Don't fail to order the Sunday World in advance.

"Saved at Last."

Your witty correspondent, "I-Know," should be very serious when writing on some subjects.

To be "saved" by accepting Christ as a Savior, is a blessed experience. I am glad if "I-Know" has had that experience.

Satan will follow him and me till we die. He and I will need Divine help. "Every hour I need Thee."

I can think of no better prayer for "I-Know" and me than: "O I Receive my Soul at Last" or "Save me at Last in Heaven."

A. D. BETTS.

They Were Traveling Southward in a Hurry.

About 8:30 o'clock Thursday night, Mr. O. E. Warren telephoned us that he had just heard a flock of wild geese fly over his home in West Greenville. He could not see the geese owing to the darkness, but the sound of their honk told us they were flying low. Mr. Warren says the geese were going southward and traveling in a hurry.

It is usually said that the migration of wild geese to the South is a forerunner of cold weather, so a change in temperature may be near at hand. We have no dates as to how the 28th of September compares with the usual passing time of wild geese, but possibly some of our older readers might have some.

Gives Aid to Strikers.

Some times the kidneys and bowels seem to go on a strike and refuse to work right. Then you need those pleasant little strike-breakers—Dr. King's New Life Pills—to give them natural aid and gently compel proper action. Excellent health soon follows. Try them. 25 cents all druggists.

GREATEST LESSON.

Having gone out into the world to obtain knowledge, I gather many important lessons. My text-books contain lessons which will be of great importance in life, which will assist in every undertaking, although I cannot appreciate these lessons and their value as I should. I know the greatest lesson which has come to me is not contained in my studies.

In this world where man must equip himself for the different duties and tasks, he cannot always be with his loved ones and enjoy every pleasure.

This world, as it is, is not a prep school, a preparation for the happy life to come.

Then, the greatest lesson that befalls us is the performance of Divine duty, whereby we can live together forever with the dear ones.

Hobble Skit Dangers.

No one would have thought of a protest against hobble skirts from a cold and soulless corporation, but the fact remains that after having been compelled to pay damages for accidents at least one railroad is vigorous in its views on high heels and hobble skirts. An exchange says:

"The Pennsylvania railroad, groaning under the burden of compensations and compromises for accidents to women getting on or off their trains deplores the fate that fashion has imposed upon them thus to pay accident tolls to the confined skirt wearers and they of the French heel."

"This great railroad avers that even in their prize station in New York where the stairways are designed to minimize the possibility of such accidents, women fall victims to the high heels and hobbles. So that it is not merely a levitous matter for the scoffers standing by when the wearer of the hobble seeks to mount the station stairs or to mount the steps of a train. Every such performance brings trepidation to the hearts of the railroad managements, for in every one is a possible accident, with damages which cannot be avoided by placing the blame upon the style of skirts and shoes worn by the ladies, because the law of female fashion is the highest law of the land."—Norfolk Ledger Dispatch.

OUR ANSWER TO ALL CRITICS.

And Our Appeal to The Tobacco Farmers for Their Support.

The Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company wishes to inform the tobacco farmers of Pitt and adjoining counties, that the average made on its warehouse floors at Greenville, N. C., during the month of September, was $11.84 per hundred, and that the average made on the floors of its competitors was $10.99 per hundred, which shows that for every thousand pounds sold on the consolidated floors, the farmers received $8.45 more than the farmers who sold on the floors of its competitors based on these averages. This, of course, is not a revelation to the farmers who are aware that from year to year, the Consolidated Tobacco company has led the Greenville market in high averages, and who know from knowledge and test, that the Consolidated leads them all. These facts and figures cannot be disputed, because they are from the secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade, who is in no way interested in any warehouse on the market.

A further analysis shows the startling fact that the farmers who sold on the floors of our competitors received $10,897.79 less than they would have received at the averages made by the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco company. This gives us a just reason to feel a pride in our business, and to be conscious of the fact that we are giving the farmers the highest market price for their tobacco, and is our answer to all critics, and our appeal to the tobacco farmers for their patronage and support.

A FAKE STORY.

Some young men Sunday afternoon, as a joke on another young man, told him that an automobile had run off the river bridge. They started in a run for the bridge, and the young man who was the victim of the joke spread the story as he went. The result was "hat some half hundred people, several ladies among them, went hurrying to the bridge, and finding it was all a joke they were mad enough to throw somebody if they had just known who they had just known.

Good intentions never die—which may be one reason why they are seldom carried out.

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

BOTH PARTIES HOLD CONVENTION

Investigation of Senator Stephenson in Milwaukee Next Monday.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.—President Taft's travels during the week will carry him from the Missouri river to the Pacific coast. He will leave Omaha Monday morning and reach Spokane Saturday night. In the intervening five days he will traverse the states of Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Washington. Included among his principal stops will be Lincoln, Hastings, Denver, Cheyenne, Laramie, Salt Lake City, Pocono, Boise, Walla Walla, Lewiston and Spokane.

The investigation into the election of Senator Stephenson, of Wisconsin, is scheduled to open in Milwaukee Monday, though it will probably be a week or more before the taking of testimony begins. The investigation will be conducted by a congressional committee of which Senator Heyburn of Idaho is chairman.

Registration for the remaining lands of the Pine Ridge and Rosebud settlements will begin Monday at the towns of Gregory, Dell and Rapid City. Nearly half a million acres of the finest agricultural lands in South Dakota are included in the tracts to be opened to settlers.

Republicans and Democrats of Massachusetts will hold their state conventions to ratify the primary nomination for governor and other officers to be voted for in November. State conventions also will be held in Rhode Island where the two tickets probably will be headed by the same candidates as last year. Notable ceremonies participated in by state officials and other persons of prominence will be held in Harrisburg Wednesday on the occasion of the unveiling of the Barnard statues on the Pennsylvania state capitol.

Nine balloons representing the United States, Germany and France, are entered in the international race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy, which is scheduled to start Thursday from Kansas City.

Many noted educators of the United States and Canada will assemble Thursday at Burlington, Vt. to attend the installation of Dr. Guy Potter, former head of Miami University, as president of the University of Vermont.

Important conventions of the week will include the Methodist Ecumenical Conference at Toronto, the German-American Alliance convention at Washington, the annual convention of the League of American Municipalities at Atlanta, the American Human Association at San Francisco, and the Southern Appalachian Good Roads convention at Roanoke, Virginia.

ONE WHO MAKES HAY ENOUGH.

Others Can Make Something If They Will Is Right.

AYDEN, N. C., Sept. 27.—Passing along the road yesterday I saw a "cultured" gemman with a load of last season's peavine hay and he being accosted by the "cultured gemman" riding with me as to whether it was old or new hay was told it was last year's hay, and said he, "I have enough to nearly last me next year." I immediately rode along and arrived at this decision, that other "cultured gemmans" could have something too if the will was right and so could "white gemmen" if their will was right.

The hay crop is fine, but the weather is too hot to cut it now. I think it best to wait a while till the weather gets cooler, even if the hay gets a little too ripe. I notice, too, that cotton is taking second growth, for no good, as it is sure to get nipped by the frost, and will thereby leave the land worsted for next year's crop.

We clo-d-hoppers all over the cotton belt have played the mischief by buying so much cotton and thereby making a large crop of cotton to sell for 10 cents and less to pay for all this guano.

PICK POCKET CAPTURED.

He Was A Follower Of Haag's Circus.

One of the side shows in connection with Haag's circus here Friday seemed to be a den of pick pockets. Several complaints of people losing money coming to the police, the officers got busy watching for the slick fingered gang. Policeman G. A. Clark spotted a negro who was moving suspiciously among the crowd and kept an eye on him. It was not long before the officer saw the negro run his hand in a man's pocket and take the latter's purse, which contained about $10. The negro was captured and landed in jail.

Policeman Clark had a second pick pocket negro spotted and succeeded in capturing him also at a late hour Friday night.

OLD PITT COUNTY BAND.

Will Get Together and Make Music For County Fair.

Some years ago Greenville had one of the best concert bands in North Carolina. Because of the members getting different vocations that separated them the band went down. Many of them still have their instruments, and Mr. J. F. Evans, who was a member of the band and is one of the members of the governing board of the Pitt County Fair Association, proposes to get enough of the old band members together to make music for the county fair on Nov. 2nd and 3rd. This will certainly be a treat, and we are sure Mr. Evans will make a success of his proposition.

Is The World Growing Better?

Many things go to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gold, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully. They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see cents at all druggists."

TRAIN RUNS OVER MAN.

Employee of Haag's Circus Badly Hurt.

Friday afternoon an Atlantic Coast Line train passing through Munford park near where the Haag show tents were pitched, struck a colored employe of the circus and badly injured him. One of the man's arms was broken in two places and badly injured.

Mrs. Fountain and Hassell went out and dressed the man's wounds and he was sent to the A. C. L. hospital at Rocky Mount.

VITAL NEWS FROM NATIONAL CAPITOL

HOW STEEL FLURRY WORKED.

Price Took A Tumble and Went to A Low Level.

(By Clyde H. Tavenner.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—One of the New York financial papers which has the interest of Wall street very much at heart printed a statement following the recent disturbance in the steel market to the effect that the flurry caused a decline in steel shares of approximately one hundred million dollars.

In the three days of the flurry nearly one-third of the trust's $500,000,000 of common stock was sold on the stock exchange in such volume that the price was carried to new low levels, thus showing that the one hundred millions in decline represent the amount of money it is worth to the trust to be considered immune from the operation of the Sherman law.

Nothing has happened to indicate that anything is wrong with the intrinsic value of the steel properties. The mills are working as usual, and are in exactly the same state of efficiency they were in two years ago when the stock was selling at its high water mark. The shrinkage came because of rumors that the trust was to be prosecuted, and as the business—the real business—of the trust was not injured in any way, the one hundred millions simply represents the excess profits the trust stood to lose in the event of dissolution under the application of the Sherman law. In other words, the shrinkage serves as a measure of the value to the trust of a license to violate the law. When that license was threatened the trust's shares fell immediately, and this fall in price simply as the result of a scare, is pretty sure to be used by the Democrats as an argument for making securities keep down to their real value through an enforcement of the anti-trust law.

Commenting on the fall of steel prices, Chairman Stanley of the house committee, which just now is investigating the steel trust, said that nothing could better demonstrate the necessity of enforcing the anti-trust law.

"It is obvious," Mr. Stanley said, "that the reason steel stocks fell a hundred million dollars is because the trust was operating under an assumption of immunity from prosecution under the anti-trust act. If instead that immunity was threatened, the stocks fell. The very insecurity of the basis on which the trust rests, as thus shown, is sufficient reason for an application of the law that will compel the steel millionaires to put their business on a more legitimate foundation. Otherwise their stockholders will always be apprehensive, and their methods open to suspicion."

That it was this fear of losing its license to violate the law which caused the steel trust to suffer is indicated by the "break" in stocks applied to no other securities. Nor was there any indication of a lessening of the demand for the products of the trust. Market conditions remained normal; the stocks of some of the railroads increasing.

The "steel flurry" was proof positive that the shrinkage in stocks, under the conditions named, reveals that the steel trust's license to ignore dollars to the trust.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From The Experience of Greenville People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Greenville residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. Jane L. Godwin, 418 Dickinson avenue, Greenville, N. C., says: "I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I received from them. For a long time my back ached and I had dizzy spells and headaches. The kidney secretions also annoyed me, and I had pains through my loins. When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box from the John L. Wooten Drug Company, and their use as directed relieved me. I can now rest much better at night and my condition has improved in every way."

What It Means to be a Boy Scout.

The Scout activities appeal to the boys because they include innumerable things which their heroes of fiction and history have done. In place of trying to force the boys to conform to the artificial ideas and standards of adults, evolved by adults who lead artificial lives, we go to the boys themselves, find out the real things which interest them, the fundamental causes for their activities, the kind of men that make heroes for them, and then we endeavor to show them how they can derive entertainment in natural boyish ways; how they can emulate the remarkable virtues of such real boy's heroes as the picturesque groups of remarkable persons developed by our frontier, whom we call the Buckskin Knights—such men as Johnathan Chapman (Appointed Johnny), a follower of Emanuel Swedenborg's teachings; the darddevil Simon Kenton, a devout Methodist; the greatest scout that ever lived, Daniel Boone whose whole life was influenced by the precepts of the Friends; the great pathfinder, Marquette, a priest of the Catholic church; Abraham Lincoln, a product of the frontier; George Washington, the founder of whose remarkable character was built in the wilderness among the Buckskin men. These are real genuine heroes, whose virtues our boys may safely copy.

The boys by becoming Scouts have an opportunity to learn woodcraft, gain knowledge of birds and trees, to learn the secrets of the woods, to swim, paddle a canoe and do many other things boys love to do. At all times they have over them a Scoutmaster, whose credentials have been approved and who is really their physical, mental, and character trainer. He watches over them and guides them in their play and their various activities, trains them in alertness, moralities, and other Scout virtues. His aim is to turn out useful, self-reliant, honest citizens.—Review of Reviews.

May Rest Dead.

Several years ago May Best left the orphanage and returned to her mother in Greenville. On Friday, the 15th of September, she was taken violently ill with appendicitis. She was taken to the hospital where an operation was performed. She did not rally, and the end to her brief life came on the following Tuesday morning.

May was a good girl. She lived the life of a Christian and died in the triumph of faith. A little brother and sister are here, and the heart broken mother writes the general manager to break the sad news to them, for she cannot do it.

The death of this fine young woman on the threshold of what promises to be a joyous, useful and vigorous life, is a sad and painful loss to her old home where she was dearly loved. May the Father of the fatherless pity and uphold those who will weep when all other tears have dried.—Thomasville, Charity and Children.

IN CHARGE OF C. T. COX

Authorized Agent of The Carolina Home and Farm and The Eastern Reflector for Winterville and vicinity Advertising Rates on Application

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Oct. 2.—Mr. J. D. Cox returned to Fairmont last week after spending a few days with his better-half at home.

Harrington, Barber and Company's pant department is complete now and they will take pleasure in showing you through and save you some money in making your purchases.

Rev. W. E. Cox of Wilmington, spent Wednesday night with his mother, Mrs. E. E. Cox.

The Union Mercantile Co. carries a line of Capital and Legar stock. When in need of something that is good for your stock see them.

As Vivian Robertson left Friday evening for Robersonville to spend Sunday.

Harrington, Barber and Company have the latest styles in men's and women's hats for fall and winter and you will do well to see them before you buy.

Mr. Harvey A. Cox returned home Wednesday from Winston-Salem. He will spend a while at home.

Don't forget that we are your friends, brother farmer, and that we have bought a lot of extra good shoes for both Sunday and everyday wear. We can fit up your whole family. Come to see us, brother.

UNION MERCANTILE CO. Quite a lot of W. S. girls left Friday evening to spend Saturday and Sunday at home.

The cheapest and best line of rugs ever brought to this town are on display at Harrington, Barber and Co. Come and make your selection while they last.

Mr. J. S. Ross, Ayden's clever insurance man, was in our town Friday.

When in need of underwear, neck wear, hosiery, toilet powder, etc., etc., The Union Mercantile Co. will be glad to fix you up.

One of our young men complains every Monday of his eyes being sore. You all can guess the reason.

You can get your cheap neck and Harrington, Barber and Co's store. They have unloaded a car and in order to move same quick, will sell cheap.

Our Winterville correspondent failed to send in a letter Saturday as usual. He was out of place. Guess he was out squirrel hunting.

Mr. Roy T. Cox and nineteen others were here attended the Flat Swamp Association Sunday.

Mr. J. A. Jarrell, of Grifton, was in town Sunday.

Mr. Grover Manning has accepted the bookkeeper's place with the Pitt County Oil Co.

We realize the most valuable asset of a bank is that of public confidence, and we have furnished our depositors every safeguard and protection for their friends and we shall continue to do so in the future as in the past. If you are not a depositor, call and let us talk the matter over with you, Bank of Winterville.

Bishop Strange held services at the Episcopal church yesterday evening and administered the right of confirmation to three young ladies.

A car load of salt just arrived at A. W. Ange and Co's.

Mr. Elms Worthington and Miss Beulah Mansford, of Ayden, were pleasant visitors in our town yesterday.

See the ladies' and children's cloaks at A. W. Ange and Co's. They are cheap.

Mrs. Levy Holiday, of Grimesland, is spending a few days with Mrs. B. W. Tucker.

A nice line of hats at A. W. Ange and Co's.

The correspondent to the Pitt County News and Miss Esther Johnson were visitors in the country yesterday evening.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Oct. 4.—Mrs. Levy Holiday and sister, Miss Mary Proctor, and Miss Lizzie Lalloway, of Grimesland, are visiting friends in town this week.

Wagons have surely been going out from the plant of the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company for the past three weeks. There are none like the "Tar Heel" and the farmers are realizing this more and more. Better place your order for a buggy right now.

Mr. Adrian Brown, of Greenville, has taken a fancy to our town or someone here. He is here right often, much to his pleasure.

THIRD YEAR OF TRAINING SCHOOL

Opens With Fifteen Per Cent Increased Attendance

THE FACULTY AND OFFICERS

President Wright Delivers Inspiring Address to Students at the First Chapel Exercises of the Session—Extends Cordial Welcome and Urges Them to Help the School Grow.

There was a splendid picture presented at East Carolina Teachers' Training school this morning, when the students assembled for the first chapel exercises at the beginning of the third regular term of the school.

While the school was advertised to open on the 26th, the first two days were occupied in the registration of students and assigning them to classes, so that the regular work did not begin until this morning.

It was gratifying to see the faces of many of the former students, as well as so many new ones. There were so many for registration that this work had not been completed when the class work began this morning, so the exact number in attendance can not yet be given, but it is considerably larger, fully fifteen per cent, than at either of the previous sessions.

It was a pleasure also to note the presence of familiar faces in the faculty of the school, only a few new faces being seen among them. The faculty is as follows:

President, Prof. R. H. Wright. Pedagogical Prof. C. W. Wilson. School Management, Prof. W. H. Fagdale.

English, Prof. L. R. Meadows. English, Miss Mamie E. Jenkins. Science, Prof. H. E. Austin. Mathematics, Miss Maria D. Graham.

History, Miss Sallie Joyner Davis. Latin, Miss Daisy B. Walpe. Primary Methods, Miss Orpha Dabney.

Drawing, Miss Kate W. Lewis. Household Economics, Miss Elizabeth Pugh.

Public School Music and Voice, Miss May R. M. Dudley. Piano, Miss Fannie M. Bishop. Writing, Prof. Chas. S. Coon.

Officers: President, Prof. R. H. Wright. Bursar, Mr. J. B. Spillman. Lady Principal, Mrs. Kate R. Beckwith.

Physician, Dr. C. O'H. Laughlinhouse. Superintendent of Infirmary, Miss Mittie R. Beaman.

Stenographer, Miss Emma R. Jones. Custodian of Records, Miss Oia S. Ross.

When all had assembled in the auditorium, after devotional exercises, President Wright addressed the students, as follows:

To the Students of the East Carolina Teachers Training School: It is with peculiar pleasure that I stand before this large body of prospective teachers this morning to welcome you to the school established by our state to train young men and women to teach in the public schools of North Carolina. It is the beginning is back in the early days after the war, for there are three steps in the development of public education in North Carolina: first, the realization of the state of its obligation to the children; second, the provision of school houses; third, the provision of efficient teachers. This school is here for the last purpose and the students are here to fulfil that purpose.

What is the spirit of the true teacher? Is it to make money? Not that. The teacher's reward is not her bank account. Is it honor and renown at the hands of his fellowman? Not that. Too often the world speaks of us in disparaging terms as "school teachers." What then is the spirit of the true teacher? Is it not a burning desire that goes out of the soul toward young struggling humanity to help them to a higher and a nobler plane of living? It is not alone a desire to fight the demon of ignorance with bookish knowledge, but a burning desire on the part of one soul to help another soul to higher, truer, nobler living. It is the spirit of the second commandment God gave to man to subdue the earth "and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moves upon the earth." The soul of the true teacher must be filled with the milk of human kindness. There must be a love for one's fellowman. The reward of the teacher is in the lives of those taught. One life turned by you into that path that leads to reach its most perfect stage of development is worth more than all the salary you will ever draw.

As I look over the vast sea of humanity spread about over this great state of ours, and as I realize the future prosperity and happiness of our people depends upon the schools of our state—our teachers if you will—then as I turn to the teaching force and see how inadequate is the preparation offered or required, my heart aches within me. But when I glance back and see where we stood five years ago and where we stand today, my heart is made glad within me. We are a great people and in the near future we are going to do many great things.

Other people, you, young women, too, to occupy a most important place. You are here to prepare yourselves for the tasks that will soon confront you. We are here to help you as best we may. Enter into the spirit of the school and let the spirit of the year enter into you. This year will enlarge that self.

He followed this with some announcements as to the hours of recitations, etc., and dismissed them to their work.

The Reflector joins in extending a cordial welcome to all the faculty, officers and students, and again expresses the wish that the session just entered upon may be a most successful one.

Helping Those Who Help Them. However the people of Concord may have stood as to reciprocity with Canada they certainly seem to have a strong leaning towards reciprocity with home folks, and as they appear quite willing to make the first tender why it does not look as if they might be right in their conclusions. A specific case: Concord wanted a new railroad depot, and the people of that town, as we understand it, had long contended for such. The Southern railroad had declined to furnish such, but at same time desired to rush its trains through Concord. Here is where the folks of Concord banded and reached their perfectly willing to allow the the privilege, but thought that they should be allowed something in return; not in money, but in a needed railroad improvement, which they deemed just as necessary to their town as it was necessary for the trains to rush through Concord. In order that passengers may save time and reach their destinations sooner, So Concord made a rule that all trains must stop first upon entering the town, the same as at a depot. This put a crink in arrangements for through trains, and so now Concord, it is reported, is to have a new depot and the fast trains can run through without interruption, unless flagged. Concord evidently knows its business.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Advice to Lawyers. One of the most interesting publications is West Publishing Co's Digest, which contains a record of law cases passed by the court. The current issue prints the following advice to lawyers when addressing the jury, with the statement that it is temporary.

"In promulgating your esoteric cogitations and in articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversational communication possess a certified conciseness, a compact comprehensibility, a concatenated cogency. Exclude all conglomerations of flaccid garrulity, jejune babblement and assinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity without rhodomontade or thronical bombast. And, furthermore, sedulously avoid all polysyllabic concatenated cognates. Exclude all comports, ventriloquial verbosity and vainglorious vapidity. Shun double entendre, purrulent jocularity and pestiferous profanity, obscenity or apparent. In other words, talk plainly. Don't use big words."

JURORS FOR FEDERAL COURT. Those Who Are Drawn From Pitt County. The following citizens of Pitt county have been drawn to serve as jurors at the October term of Federal court to be held in New Bern:

For week beginning October 24th—H. A. White, Greenville; John D. Pierce, Ayden; James S. Hines, Ayden; W. B. Nobles, Winterville; Josephus Mory, Greenville.

For the week beginning October 30th—Jesse P. Quinley, Quinley; M. G. Moyer, Greenville; John Z. Brooks, Grifton.

PITT COUNTY FAIR. Premium List and Rules Governing Exhibits. Elsewhere in this paper is published the revised premium list of the Pitt county fair to be held in Greenville on Thursday and Friday, November 2nd and 3rd, together with some information concerning exhibits. From this list it will be seen that the North Carolina Department of Agriculture will pay half of the general premiums, and also $50 in premiums to the women's department. In addition to these the Pitt County Fair Association offers some special premiums. These premiums ought to insure a large and creditable exhibit of the products of the county. Read the list through and also see the large advertisement on another page. Everybody come to the fair.

THE McNAMARAS PUT ON TRIAL

Some Facts Concerning the Los Angeles Case.

STRONG ARRAY OF COUNSEL

Defendants Charged With Complicity in Alleged Dynamiting of Los Angeles Times Building That Wrecked the House and Plant and Killed Several Employees.

The Defendants—John J. and James B. McNamara, members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

The Charge—Complicity in the alleged dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building, Oct. 1, 1910, resulting in the death of twenty-one men.

Chief Counsel for the Prosecution—District Attorney John D. Fredericks.

Number of Witnesses to Testify—Seventy.

Estimated Cost of the Trial—$500,000.

Large Tobacco Sales Continue. Things are moving along at high speed and at high prices out on the tobacco market. The warehouses are having large sales again this week, and the farmer who brings his tobacco to the Greenville market goes home more than satisfied with prices.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, "can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by all dealers.

The case against J. J. McNamara will be centered upon correspondence furnished by McNamara, and books found at McNamara's office and the clocks and wire found in Indianapolis. In this matter Detective William J. Burns will be called as a witness.

The defence will attack the allegation that the building was destroyed by dynamite, will assert that the explosion was caused by gas and will call experts. In attacking the McNamara confession the defence will call witnesses to establish an alibi for the McNamara brothers. In every instance where the McNamaras are identified by McNamara at a certain time and place the defence is expected to call witnesses to show that the men were at other localities. Experts on handwriting will be called to prove that letters alleged by McNamara to have been written by J. J. McNamara were not written by him, but were written by some person who attempted to simulate the writing of the union leader.

Unless all signs go astray the trial will occupy weeks. The defence alone will subpoena 350 witnesses. These will come from all parts of the United States, about 150 of them from San Francisco and vicinity. District Attorney Fredericks estimates that the prosecution will summon a similar number, bringing the total up to 700. The cost of service on these witnesses at the expense of bringing them to Los Angeles, probably will make the trial the most expensive that the country has ever known. Mr. Darrow estimates the probable expense of the defense at $400,000, while it is believed it will cost the prosecution not less than $500,000.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 10.—Not since the trial of the officials of the Western Federation of Miners for the alleged assassination of ex-Governor Steunenberg, of Idaho, has a trial in this country excited the interest in labor circles and among the public generally as is manifested in the case of the McNamara brothers, who are about to be brought to the bar to answer for alleged complicity in the dynamiting outrage that resulted in the destruction of the Los Angeles Times building and the death of twenty-one men working there, on October 1, 1910. The long and bitter fight waged by the Times against the labor unions and their methods of unionism, and the confession of Orde E. McNamara, alleged that an organized band of labor leaders made a business of destroying the lives and property of antagonistic to the labor unions, and the active and generous support given by the American Federation of Labor and other labor organizations in aid of the accused men, have led the public to believe that the trial will result in startling disclosures.

The specific charge upon which the trial will proceed is covered by indictment number 6,946, relating to the death of J. Wesley Reeves, an employee of the Times at the time the building was destroyed. The eighteen other indictments will be set over pending the trial for the murder of Reeves, who was private secretary to the general manager of the Times.

The lines of battle planned by Clarence J. Darrow, chief counsel of the defence, and District Attorney John D. Fredericks, who will conduct the prosecution, already have been pretty clearly revealed. The prosecution will first seek to establish that the Times building was destroyed by an explosion of dynamite. Then will come the testimony of relatives to establish the number of victims, corroborating evidence and the confession of McNamara. This will be followed by the identification of witnesses who will swear that they saw the McNamara brothers at the Los Angeles and in San Francisco during September and October of last year. An endeavor will be made to trace the accused almost to the Times building, where the explosion occurred.

THE McNAMARAS PUT ON TRIAL

Some Facts Concerning the Los Angeles Case.

STRONG ARRAY OF COUNSEL

Defendants Charged With Complicity in Alleged Dynamiting of Los Angeles Times Building That Wrecked the House and Plant and Killed Several Employees.

The Defendants—John J. and James B. McNamara, members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

The Charge—Complicity in the alleged dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building, Oct. 1, 1910, resulting in the death of twenty-one men.

Chief Counsel for the Prosecution—District Attorney John D. Fredericks.

Number of Witnesses to Testify—Seventy.

Estimated Cost of the Trial—$500,000.

Large Tobacco Sales Continue. Things are moving along at high speed and at high prices out on the tobacco market. The warehouses are having large sales again this week, and the farmer who brings his tobacco to the Greenville market goes home more than satisfied with prices.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, "can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by all dealers.

The case against J. J. McNamara will be centered upon correspondence furnished by McNamara, and books found at McNamara's office and the clocks and wire found in Indianapolis. In this matter Detective William J. Burns will be called as a witness.

The defence will attack the allegation that the building was destroyed by dynamite, will assert that the explosion was caused by gas and will call experts. In attacking the McNamara confession the defence will call witnesses to establish an alibi for the McNamara brothers. In every instance where the McNamaras are identified by McNamara at a certain time and place the defence is expected to call witnesses to show that the men were at other localities. Experts on handwriting will be called to prove that letters alleged by McNamara to have been written by J. J. McNamara were not written by him, but were written by some person who attempted to simulate the writing of the union leader.

Unless all signs go astray the trial will occupy weeks. The defence alone will subpoena 350 witnesses. These will come from all parts of the United States, about 150 of them from San Francisco and vicinity. District Attorney Fredericks estimates that the prosecution will summon a similar number, bringing the total up to 700. The cost of service on these witnesses at the expense of bringing them to Los Angeles, probably will make the trial the most expensive that the country has ever known.
