Elections in Bay State Show Close Calling of Third Term Although Conceding An Advantage

SEN. LA FOLLETTE "ALSO RAN" IN EVERY DISTRICT

BOSTON, April 30.—The contest in the primaries presidential today for the 36 Massachusetts delegates to the Republican national convention far exceeded in interest that for control of the delegation to the Baltimore Democratic delegation. Early returns showed that four Republicans voters went to the polls to one Democrat.

The race between President Taft and Col. Roosevelt, which on the showing of the preference of voters, was a neck and neck affair, for several hours absorbed so much attention that the long lead of Speaker Clark over Gov. Woodrow Wilson was almost forgotten.

In the first district in 23 out of 70 small towns, Crane had 386 to Baxter's 324. This is Senator Crane's home district, and the election of the two Taft delegates was conceded by Roosevelt leaders in the early evening.

In the second district 12 out of 47 towns gave Crane 432 and Baxter 299, with a similar lead for the Taft men over Roosevelt district candidates.

President Taft carried Boston, exclusive of Hydepark, by more than 600 but ran behind in all the small towns that had reported up to 10 p. m. In these smaller towns, together with a number of wards in the cities of North Adams, Haverhill, Newbury Port, Lynn and Woburn the vote stood Roosevelt 6,468; Taft 6,355.

These same cities and towns gave Baxter, who headed the Roosevelt group of delegates 6,544 to 4,537 for Senator W. Murray Crane, who led the Taft group.

Heavy Losses By Fire in Winston-Salem

R. J. Reynolds Company's Losses by Fire Amounts to $250,000, Fully Insured—Still have plenty of Leaf Tobacco in Storage—Fire will not interfere with their Manufacturing.

WINSTON-SALEM, April 30.—The fire loss, according to statements made by the property owners in the fire here Monday night will aggregate $412,000 with insurance amounting to $410,000.

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company has had their tobacco insured for $350,000 and their loss is estimated at about that figure. They have plenty of leaf tobacco in storage here and the loss will not in any way affect their business.

Fire Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock also damaged the stock of Vaughan & company, wholesale grocers, to the amount of $20,000 fully covered by insurance. This business house is located only a block from the scene of the big fire.

Dr. Hyatt Coming. Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be at Hotel Berlin Monday, May 6th, to treat diseases of the eye.

PARAGRAPHIC NEWS OF STATE

Hallfax County Produces Nearly Double the Cotton of Last Year.

SCOTLAND, N.C.—Already in Halifax county there has been gained this season 40,000 bales of cotton as against 23,000 last year. On account of the inability of the farmers to get pickers to do the work much cotton was left in the fields and it is believed had all of it been saved that the county would easily have produced 50,000 bales this season.

Great Council of North Carolina in Session There.

SHELBY.—Prominent men from all walks of life from the mountains to the seashore will be in Shelby this week the occasion being the meeting of the Great Council of North Carolina. Improved Order of Red Men. They are expected to arrive tomorrow several hundred strong and remain here through Thursday.

Winston-Salem to Have Marble Structures Costing $200,000.

WINSTON-SALEM.—James Knox Taylor, the government architect who has supervision of the plans for Winston-Salem's new postoffice building, was in the city today looking over the lands recently purchased by the government and securing data to be used in drawing up the plans.

Will Make Memorial Address.

GREENSBORO.—Hon. Locke Craig of Asheville has accepted the invitation of the Guilford chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, extended through Mr. T. A. Lyon, to deliver the address at the Memorial Day exercises here May 10.

TARIFF FIGHT BEGUN.

Sen. Simmons Criticizes President for Not Signing Tariff Bills.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—The tariff fight in the senate opened today when Senator Simmons, in charge of the Democratic house measures, made the opening speech in support of the house tariff bill.

Senator Simmons criticized President Taft for his refusal to sign the tariff bills of the last session and declared that the president's determination not to sign any tariff bills, previous to action by the tariff board was an impeachment of the competency of congress and "reactionary to the last degree".

The last bill probably will be before the senate at least two weeks.

BOTH CLAIM VICTORY.

Heavy Downpour Prevents Heavier Voting in Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 30.—Rains today resulted in light voting in the presidential preference primary in this state. The polls throughout the state closed at 6:30 tonight and owing to the complicated ballot returns will be slow coming in. Headquarters of officials for Wilson and Underwood, the only presidential candidates whose names appeared on the ballot are claiming the state for their respective candidates.

Theological Library Dedicated.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 1.—Today's celebration of Founder's Day at the Episcopal Theological School was made notable by the dedication of the new library presented to the school by the late John Gordon Wright of Boston. The principal speakers at the dedication exercises were President Lowell of Harvard University, Bishop Lawrence, a former dean of the school and Professor Bliss Perry,

"Biggest of Them All" To Stand Thorough Trial

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 30.—Suit against the International Harvester company, charging it with being a monopoly in restraint of trade and asking that it be dissolved, was filed by the government in the United States court here today.

In a petition in equity, this $140,000,000 corporation, popularly called the Harvester trust, is declared to exist in violation of the Sherman law. To accomplish the disintegration of the so called trust, the government asks the court to issue injunctions to bar from interstate commerce the products of the International Harvester Company of America, its selling agency. The appointment of receivers to take charge of the property and wind up the business "if the court should be of the opinion that the public interests will be better served hereby," is suggested.

The filing of the suit came as the climax of five years of investigation by the government. Lately the case has figured prominently in political discussion between President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt regarding certain instructions which Mr. Roosevelt while president in 1907 gave to his attorney general, Charles J. Bonaparte, concerning prosecution of the concern.

Floyd Allen Faces Court at Wylville

Mountaineers Attend Opening Day

WYTHEVILLE, Va., April 30.—Floyd Allen was before the bar in circuit court this morning to be tried for his life for the part he played in the Hillsville court tragedy March 14. His case was selected for trial first. The outcome will shape the state's methods in prosecuting the other five accused claimants under guard in jail here. A large number of citizens was summoned. It was expected considerable trouble would be experienced in getting a jury.

Many Mountaineers in Court. A caravan of mountaineers traveling over rain-soaked roads from Hillsville and the surrounding country, arrived last night to participate in the trials beginning today of the six members of the Allen gang indicted for five murders in the Carroll county court house, March 14, when the judge, prosecuting attorney, the sheriff, a juror and bystander were assassinated.

More than one hundred witnesses have reached here. Some came part way by rail, others by horseback, while many drove all day in country wagons and camped outside the town.

Mrs. Floyd Allen Present.

Mrs. Floyd Allen, wife of the man who was being tried in the Hillsville court when the shooting began, rode twenty miles from the mountains to Hillsville in a canvas covered wagon to the nearest railroad station. She is a thin, frail woman, wrinkled with age, upon whom rests heavily the burden of seeing her husband and two sons—Claude and Victor, tried for murder. Mrs. Victor Allen, three small children and Jasper Allen, a brother of Floyd, accompanied her.

FLASHES FROM OTHER CLIMES

Knights of Templar at Macon.

MACON, Ga., May 1.—Knights of Templar from all parts of Georgia are in possession of Macon and the downtown section of the city is a sea of bunting and Masonic emblems. The six knights are here for the annual convocation of the grand commandery, which began today and will continue over tomorrow.

New Head of Wilson College.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., May 1.—In the presence of a notable gathering of American educators Dr. Anna J. McKee, formerly of the Wellesley College faculty, was installed today as president of Wilson College. The principal address at the inauguration exercises was delivered by President E. L. Fitz Pendleton of Wellesley.

Opening in the Tri-State League.

READING, Pa., May 1.—The championship season of the Tri-State Baseball league opened today with games in Harrisburg, Trenton, Altoona, and Reading. The league circuit is the same as last year, comprising Johnstown, York, Lancaster and Wilmington, in addition to the other four cities named. The season will continue until September 4.

Wisconsin-Illinois League.

ROCKFORD, Ill., May 1.—This was the opening season for the Wisconsin-Illinois Baseball league, Oakshoek playing its first game at Madison, Wausau at Aurora, Green Bay at Racine and Appleton at Rockford. The league circuit this year is the same as last, excepting that Wausau has the franchise held last season by Fond du Lac.

Officer Meets Death On R. R. Crossing

A. L. Attaway, Special Officer of the Southern Railroad was caught in His Buggy on Railroad Crossing, Instantly Killed, Farmer With Him Badly Injured.

SPENCER, April 30.—Caught on a railroad crossing between Spencer and Salisbury at noon today A. L. Attaway, a special officer of the Southern railway, of East Spencer was instantly killed and D. M. Blackwelder, a well known farmer fatally injured. The view of the rapidly approaching locomotive was obstructed by a line of freight cars and the impact was terrific. The buggy was scattered in various directions and Officer Attaway was cut to pieces, death being instantaneous. The remains were taken in charge by an undertaker and Mr. Blackwelder was carried to a hospital for treatment. The horse driven by the men escaped without injury. Mr. Attaway had recently moved to East Spencer to live and was a valued officer of the Southern. Mrs. Attaway has for several weeks been under treatment in the Whitehead Stokes sanitarium in Salisbury and is unable to be up. Her father, who resides in Eiberton, Ga., is also at the point of death and has not been advised of the critical condition of his daughter.

JURY ASKS JUDGE TO BE LENIENT WITH NICHOLS

words must have gone some way to show the defendant in a light that could hardly be used in the bright surroundings of the court room. Yet he showed him up in that light; and "showed him up" to his heart's content and certainly for the safety of the people of the state. Mr. Solicitor talked for over an hour.

His honor charged the jury in his business like manner. This or that, and you have heard enough to know whether it should be this thing or the other thing. So, gentlemen, the case it with you.

The case was with the gentleman until half past six this morning when the judge was sent for. The jury filled into the court room, totally deserted except for the presence of the Solicitor and Lawyer Ward, "Guilty of manslaughter." The jurors begged the mercy of the court for the prisoner.

Nichols and Burnett were brought to court and his honor imposed the sentence of five years for the latter and one year for the former, in the state penitentiary.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

During the court days when so much is being heard about "circumstantial evidence," "direct evidence," and objection by either side to the introduction of certain evidence, it would not be entirely out of the way for us to hold court over a disaster, the results of which still claim for their own much space in the papers. The newspaper man naturally is first and last subject to news. The bigger the news, the more startling its nature, the more does the newspaper man "play them up". This is no secret, therefore we do not break a professional pledge in making this near confession.

The first news of the sinking of the biggest passenger steamer in the world came to us, as to the thousands of papers in the states, entirely nude of all the mass of harrowing detail which the rescue ship Carpathia brought to New York three days after the biggest disaster in maritime history. Up to the time Capt. Rostrum made New York, all we knew was that the Titanic had sunk and with her about 1500 souls had perished.

With the arrival of the Carpathia we were led into a veritable sea of detail. The Washington investigation further came to the rescue of the newspapers and to date enough has been said by officers, passengers and stockers, who were fortunate enough to escape with their lives, to fill many pages of closely written matter. Some of the evidence presented at the Washington trial we are bound to believe: for surely over 1500 people are missing from the world of the living and the Titanic never reached her destination. This evidence carries its own passport and does not really need support. However, it is not so with other events directly following the terrible encounter with the iceberg. Some of the evidence heard in connection with these events for some reason or another was allowed to escape quarantine and has strongly been played up to the reading public. Yet some of the stories told by witnesses before the board on inquiry are so thin as to need a great deal of support. Who ever can truthfully say that the orchestra of the Titanic gathered up on deck and struck up "Nearer My God to Thee"? Is it likely that in the awful confusion attending the plunge of the great Titanic, the musicians would get together for the sole benefit of cheering a crowd long past the cheering stage? And what about that alleged game of cards on the "smoker"? It seems hardly possible that as women and children were being lowered in the lifeboats men would be unwary of the fact. The excitement prevailing everywhere on the Titanic must have been tremendous. It seems that not a soul on board her, could have escaped being infected with it, yet we would be made to believe that there were on the Titanic some men whose self-possession and fearless nature would permit the playing of cards, when officers were making a strenuous fight for the lives of the women and children.

Those two are the outstanding features of the mountain of detail given to the world by some survivors. Picturesque enough, but not likely enough. About the acts of heroism, abnegation and love, anything could be believed; it is in such moments as attended the fatal plunge of the Titanic that some men and women do things which they themselves would not have believed to be possible of accomplishment by themselves. Valor, heroism, abnegation, self-denial and love; all of these, yes. Never the nonchalance and self-possession of the card players and the musicians. These have no room in a sinking ship with thousands on board.

THE HONEY BEE IS AN HONEST WORKER.

By Arthur Brisbane and reprinted with his permission. An individual who has studied bees trying to find out facts about them rather than to build fanciful yarns, gives us the interesting information that a honey bee makes in one day about twenty trips to and from the hive and that he visits in all probably twelve thousand different flowers. It is a pleasure to watch an earnest bee-traveling back and forth buzzing, feeling his importance, enjoying himself, accumulating the honey that will carry him and others in the hive through the winter. Everybody admits that the bee is a good worker and that he works hard enough. But the bee does all his work in about four hours.

During the rest of the time he sits about, polishes up his legs and his body and reflects with satisfaction upon what a fine thing it is to be a hard working bee.

He enjoys the sunlight, he enjoys all the activities and all the to-do-back to the hive.

Kindly notice, dear reader, that he is well able to get all the honey that he and the other bees and the young bees and even the drones need by working four hours a day.

Why is he able to do this gentle reader?

He is able to do it because he and his fellow bees all working together get all the honey that labor brings back to the hive.

They have got among the bees any collection of polite gentlemen in silk hats and large fur automobiles standing at the edge of the hive or running a business office in one corner of the hive and taking for themselves so much out of every load of honey that the bees bring home.

The bees have learned to co-operate, they have learned to work together, they have solved the problem of helping one another.

And they get for themselves all that they produce.

And therefore, dearly beloved, they are able to produce all they need by working four hours a day. They are able to devote twenty hours out of twenty-four to whatever they choose, sleeping, thinking, gossiping, examining the young bees, etc., etc.

When men, in proportion to their intelligence, shall be as far advanced as are the honey bees now you will have a condition in the human hive that you ought to have.

You will have the mass of workers all educated and intelligent, which they are not now.

You will have selfishness, meanness and self-seeking eliminated. You will have all working for all.

Civilized man in the future will be as far above his present state in contentment, happiness and true brotherhood as the organized honey bee in his hive is far above the isolated individual bee that can be found in Iceland.

Here and there in Iceland you will find scattered samples of the bee that gathers honey. But it is cold in Iceland, the flowers are few. The bees are selfish and disorganized. They do not gather in hives or work together. They work hard all day long for very little, and the only thing about them that suggests the intelligent honey bee is the sting.

Human beings working in our civilization today are like the isolated honey bee in Iceland. The human bees were separated, isolated, each one fighting the others. And about each of us the sting, the hatred and the bitterness of competition is the most conspicuous thing.

The day is coming when men will be organized as well as the bees are.

organized, but in a very different way. They will not live in hives or lose their individuality. But they will work together, a few hours of labor for those that want to work, aided by machinery, will supply plenty for all.

The vile mechanical drudgery that makes life dull will be replaced by intellectual activity.

For every man now working twelve or fourteen hours a day or ten hours painfully we shall have men working the same number of hours intellectually and joyfully.

We shall have those less addicted to material labor engaged in the arts and the higher sciences.

The idle class that takes part of the honey that the workers produce will have disappeared.

The average of intelligence in that day to come will be far above the highest intelligence of today.

And that will be civilization's beginning.

Meanwhile, please notice that bees with their slight intelligence, without any machinery but their honey gathering apparatus and their marvelous mathematical capacity for fixing their cells and their instinct of brotherhood, are able to do for themselves, with four hours per day, a great deal more than stupid humanity is able to do by working not only the grown men and women, but children themselves throughout all hours of daylight.

PITT COUNTY'S PROGRESS.

It is with pleasure that we printed the report of the Grand Jury for the April term of Pitt County Superior Court. Not only did this jury give attention to the charges brought before it in the form of bills of indictment against various people charged with this that criminal offense, but it has set a splendid precedent out of which will grow an economical advance and a greater efficiency in county affairs.

The world advances constantly and our county has advanced with it to a population of forty thousand people. Pitt county's tax books to-day show a valuation of over ten millions of dollars and as her property is listed for not more than one fourth its value, we can with trust state that she is actually worth today forty millions of dollars.

Too many people and too many dollars to longer delay the establishment of the precedent that will guard more carefully the county's material public wealth.

This grand jury has wisely set the precedent, may it mean much.

It is right and it is law that such a people and with such material wealth should have a county home properly equipped and efficiently managed. This grand jury had the manhood in it to say so.

It is right that we should keep our splendid court house and jail immaculately clean. This grand jury had a sufficient broadness of vision to ask for it.

It is right and it is law that the grand jury should look into every phase of the county's affairs. The limited time prohibits more than a superficial examination of the condition of the various offices. Why not set the precedent now of an annual audit by a competent expert auditor, so that the public may know what such an audit is no reflection on the integrity or capacity of any office holder. A public official who has handled the trust imposed upon him with conscientious efficiency will welcome a competent audit of his office, for he wants the stamp of approval placed upon his work by one who is competent to pass judgment.

The world is advancing constantly. At the end of every cycle a full cycle of progress has been made.

The question is whether that progress shall be made in a systematic, orderly, intelligent manner or whether it shall be made in a spasmodic, disorderly and perhaps, destructive manner.

The measure of progress is the improved condition of the whole mass of people and their affairs. And this is the only measure of progress. Whether political, moral, physical, educational material or religious, it must apply to all the people en masse.

Sunday boat racing on the river is not a commendable diversion and those who engage in it should be ashamed of such desecration of the Sabbath.

today is better off than was a king a thousand years ago, better off in education, in moral character, in comfort, in material advantage and especially in the opportunities given for achievement by the use of time saving machinery and inventions that have long since demonstrated their power to produce.

Thanks to enlightenment in Pitt county, today man can accumulate legitimate wealth in peace and can possess property in security. Man in Pitt county can put his valuable records in fire proof vaults; can take his differences before the high tribunal of justice in a court house that is a credit to any county. The criminal that is convicted of murder, arson, burglary, blind larceny, or even a simple affray, not only gets the benefit of this elegant court house and every safe-guard that an indigent jury can throw around him, but in the event he is convicted, he is placed in a jail fully equipped with every comfort and convenience that modern invention and sanitary knowledge can supply. This it is with the valuable papers, with the records of material wealth, with the criminal; but how about the life and comfort of the law abiding citizens, how about his wife and child when stricken with disease? Disease sometime so deadly that the knowledge of its deadliness grips one's heart like a vise. So deadly that a guaranteed cure would bring out of the court house vaults all the material wealth that in them is, and yet we go along, day in and day out, without a county hospital. Let's stop and think. Mr. A. Kills Mr. B, and the county spends thousands of dollars to avenge the death to protect society. The cost of one term of court will maintain a hospital for a year.

On an average there are about fifteen inmates cared for in the home. To feed and clothe these, with the superintendent's and hired man's wages included, costs the county about $2,500 in cash a year in addition to what is supplied from the farm. It takes from 150 to 200 cords of wood a year for the necessary fires in the buildings and this is cut from the county's land.

In addition to the cost of maintaining the home, the county pays about another $2,500 a year to outside papers who take a small monthly stipend in preference to going to the county home. Thus it is seen that the cost of taking care of the county's unfortunate poor is considerable and it is generally believed that by equipping a better and more modern home the same expenditures would provide much better care.

The county could readily sell the tract of land now used for the home at $5,000 and this sum would buy a site sufficiently large for the home at some place near to Greenville. If the home was in easy access of Greenville there is much the people of the town would do for the comfort of the inmates that they cannot now do because of the distance. And the home should consist of modern buildings.

The question of a county hospital is also being discussed now, and this is surely needed. Hence this suggestion that if the county home is moved, as should be done, the home and hospital could readily occupy the same tract of land and be conducted under one management. Pitt county is amply able to do more for the unfortunate among the citizens than is being done and for the sake of her reputation as a progressive county this should not continue to be neglected.

It is not likely that the White Star Line or any other steamship company will try to reproduce the Titanic. The lesson learned will cause boat building hereafter to be more along the line of safety than luxury.

If the bad treatment of Americans in Mexico does not stop Uncle Sam will have to step over and lick somebody. The Mexicans had better remember the Maine and what happened thereafter.

The county that gets good roads must do something to get them. The good roads will not come without an effort in that direction.

Not so fast, but safe and sure, will be a good motto for steamboat travel in future.

Pull a few automobiles for over-speeding and there may be fewer autopsies at joy riding on the streets.

COUNTY HOME AND HOSPITAL.

Going back to the report of the grand jury at the present term of court, it is well to consider their recommendations for the removal of the county home from its present location to some place near the county seat. The grand jury visited the home and made this recommendation after carefully considering conditions just as they are. The recommendation is most timely.

At the request of a committee of The King's Daughters, several citizens of Greenville went out to the county home last Sunday with a view of getting better informed as to conditions there. While they found every thing as good, as cleanly and as comfortable for the inmates as could be had amid the present surroundings, it is by no means such a county home as brings credit to a county as large and as wealthy as Pitt.

These facts were obtained on that visit, and are given here for the information of the public: The county owns there 208 acres of land of which about 35 acres are cleared. The home itself consists of some ten small one-story buildings, strung around a yard covering possibly two acres. One of these buildings is occupied by the superintendent and his family and the others by the inmates. The superintendent, who gets a salary of $30 a month and provision for himself and family, has the care of the home and inmates and the management of the farm, one hired farm hand being allowed him. When a cook cannot be secured and it is hard to keep one there, the superintendent's wife does the cooking, or in case of emergency he cooks himself. With all these duties he finds no idle time.

According to figures given out by the Charlotte Observer, more than two-thirds of the people of that city occupy houses erected through the agency of building and loan associations. The Home Building and Loan Association of Greenville, being only six years old, has not done that much for Greenville, yet, but is striking out in that direction. In these years it has made loans for home building approximating $80,000 and its sphere of beneficence will increase as it grows older. There are people here who own homes and others who have money saved, who never would have possessed either but for the assistance of the association.

On next Saturday, May 14th, a new series of shares will open in The Home Building and Loan Association and the number of shares taken should be large. That date will be the sixth anniversary of the association and in a few months its first series of shares will mature. Then something like $48,000 in cash and cancelled mortgages will be distributed among the holders of these first series shares. This will be followed by the maturing every six months of another successive series. So the time is now near when the benefit of the association will be shown in other ways than by helping people to own their homes and leading them money. There is not a wage earner, man or boy, in the community but who should take some shares in the association, even if only one or two, for besides being a good investment there is nothing that better fosters the saving habit.

Opponents may say what they please as to the effectiveness or non-effectiveness of the prohibition law, but evidences continue to multiply all over the state that conditions are far better than when we had no prohibition law. And this condition will continue to improve as the law is more rigidly enforced. Of course there are instances here and there of flagrant violations, but they will continue to grow less. Public sentiment grows stronger and stronger for the enforcement of the law.

This is My Birthday Douglas Tilden, the well known sculptor, was born in Cloo, Cal., May 1, 1869. At an early age he lost his hearing as a result of scarlet fever. He was educated at the California State Institution for the Deaf and after his graduation in 1879 was an instructor in the institution for some years. He studied sculpture in New York and Paris and since 1888 has devoted himself to the art. From 1894 until 1900 he was professor of sculpture in the Mark Hopkins Art Institute of the University of California.

STOP AND THINK.

If those people who seem so persistent in destroying the stock law fence would stop and think a moment, they would see among that sort of people they are voluntarily classing themselves. However much they might spurn such an imputation, they are putting themselves by their acts in the same class with night riders and anarchists. It is a Bible truth "that as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." The same Book teaches that if a man carries murder in his heart he is guilty of murder even though he does not outwardly commit the act. Now do you not suppose that the men who go out under cover of night to wantonly destroy property, take weapons on their person with the view of using these weapons on whoever might interfere or attempt to arrest them in the midst of their lawless act. Then they put themselves in the class with murderers, for they go out to do an unlawful act with the feeling that they would kill a fellow-man to avoid apprehension. One crime leads to another and those who go out to destroy public property or the property of a neighbor would resort to any crime on occasion. Simply because they are not readily detected does not remove the thought that they are criminals from their own consciences and it is enough to make them hang their heads in shame. The acts of these people are a reflection upon themselves, their families, their neighborhood and their county. For the sake of their own consciences and that they might hold up their heads as law abiding citizens, they should desist from such lawlessness.

According to figures given out by the Charlotte Observer, more than two-thirds of the people of that city occupy houses erected through the agency of building and loan associations. The Home Building and Loan Association of Greenville, being only six years old, has not done that much for Greenville, yet, but is striking out in that direction. In these years it has made loans for home building approximating $80,000 and its sphere of beneficence will increase as it grows older. There are people here who own homes and others who have money saved, who never would have possessed either but for the assistance of the association.

On next Saturday, May 14th, a new series of shares will open in The Home Building and Loan Association and the number of shares taken should be large. That date will be the sixth anniversary of the association and in a few months its first series of shares will mature. Then something like $48,000 in cash and cancelled mortgages will be distributed among the holders of these first series shares. This will be followed by the maturing every six months of another successive series. So the time is now near when the benefit of the association will be shown in other ways than by helping people to own their homes and leading them money. There is not a wage earner, man or boy, in the community but who should take some shares in the association, even if only one or two, for besides being a good investment there is nothing that better fosters the saving habit.

Opponents may say what they please as to the effectiveness or non-effectiveness of the prohibition law, but evidences continue to multiply all over the state that conditions are far better than when we had no prohibition law. And this condition will continue to improve as the law is more rigidly enforced. Of course there are instances here and there of flagrant violations, but they will continue to grow less. Public sentiment grows stronger and stronger for the enforcement of the law.

This is My Birthday Douglas Tilden, the well known sculptor, was born in Cloo, Cal., May 1, 1869. At an early age he lost his hearing as a result of scarlet fever. He was educated at the California State Institution for the Deaf and after his graduation in 1879 was an instructor in the institution for some years. He studied sculpture in New York and Paris and since 1888 has devoted himself to the art. From 1894 until 1900 he was professor of sculpture in the Mark Hopkins Art Institute of the University of California.

after the jury trying the Smith case entered the court room and announced its verdict of second degree murder. His Honor Judge Justice read it in The Reflector. When something really does happen The Reflector tells you about it and tells it to you in quick order. The Reflector gives the news. It cannot invent them.

This Proves That The Reflector is a Live Newspaper, giving you the news, and not all about a fellow who walked around the world and employed thirty years on his undertaking. That is not news; that's history.

The Excellency of its plant enables The Reflector to tell you what happens when it happens, therefore it does not need to resort to ready print plate to fill its columns. What it says is respectfully "fresh".

A Guaranteed Circulation insures Reflector advertisers of results. It is not enough to claim a circulation. The newspaper must have it and be willing to prove it has it. as The Reflector is willing to do. Circulation means many readers; it means much attention to what the paper with circulation says; it means customers for the advertiser who appreciates these facts.

A Boy of 20 Who Will Have the Management of Millions. William Vincent Astor who will become head of the American branch of the Astor family if his father, John Jacob Astor, is among the lost on the Titanic, is not yet 21 years old. He was born on November 15, 1891. He was a delicate child, but he entered Harvard last autumn he spent about six months of each year at his father's country house at Fernald, on the Hudson, three months at Newport, and three months at the town house. He was always somewhat tall with dark, straight hair and dark blue eyes, resembling his father, especially and to the lower part of his face.

He has always been fond of yachting and automobilizing.

Vincent Astor has been thrown particularly into his father's company since his mother, Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, obtained her divorce in November, 1909. Under the divorce decree John Jacob Astor was to have custody of Vincent and Mrs. Astor of the only other child of the marriage, Muriel now 10 years old. At the time of the divorce the amount of John Jacob Astor's settlement on his wife was not made public, but it was said to be $10,000,000 in cash, on the provision that this sum would later revert to Muriel.

The John Jacob Astor fortune, which Vincent Astor would share with his step mother and perhaps with his sister, Muriel, has been estimated at $100,000,000. John Jacob Astor's real property holding in this city alone was stated authoritatively last autumn to be worth more than $41,000,000. The Thirty-fourth street flat of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, part of his estate, is assessed at more than $5,300,000. A marriage settlement of cash and securities on the women they marry in lieu of the wife's dower right in the estate has been traditional with the heads of this settlement is to keep the Astor estate intact. Before marrying the present Mrs. Astor Colonel Astor made such a settlement last August a few days before her marriage. The amount which Mrs. Astor received, to secure from her a release of her dower right in the estate, was never made public, but has been reported several times at $2,000,000. A similar settlement was made on Mrs. Ava Willing Astor. Colonel John Jacob Astor's first wife. Thus neither Mrs. John Jacob nor Mrs. Ava Willing Astor would receive a widow's third of the estate.—The New York Times.

Kinston Couple Routed From Their Home

Mr. N. L. McLawhorn and Wife Wake up to Find Room Occupied by Masked Strangers. Flee to Neighbor's House and Have Home Hansacked From Cellar to Attic.

KINSTON, April 20.—N. L. McLawhorn and wife, prominent Greene county people, were terrified when awakened in the night to find two masked men in their room. The entrance of the intruders is a mystery and no reason can be assigned for their strange actions. One of the men came to the bed on which the McLawhorns lay, but offered no violence and did not speak. They left as silently as they came in, without leaving a clue as to their identity. In the darkness the disturbed sleepers could not distinguish the color of their unwelcome visitors. As soon as the men had gone McLawhorn and his wife arose and fled to the home of a neighbor. After dawn they returned home, and found the house ransacked from top to bottom, but were surprised to discover that not an article had been taken, although two gold watches and quite a sum of money were easily accessible. The McLawhorn home is near Ridge Springs, a prosperous and thickly settled section and the strange occurrence is causing a deal of excitement.

New York News S. A. L. SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, April 27.—The sinking of the Titanic and the loss of many hundreds of precious lives resulting from it have cast a deep gloom over the city and it will probably be some time before the people will recover completely from the shock. It is true, business goes on without interruption and even the places of amusement are frequented as ever, but the sympathies of the people are deeply stirred, nevertheless. The wave of hysteria which always follows in the wake of a great calamity has not yet subsided and the mental equilibrium of the masses is not yet completely restored. Time will gradually subdue the nervous strain from which everyone seems to be suffering and things will return to their normal condition, but at present the nervous excitement is still great and manifests itself in hysterical efforts, well meant, but utterly impracticable and abortive.

The wreck of the giant liner, the scene as described so graphically by some of the survivors, the heroism displayed by many of the men in the moments of supreme danger still form an inexhaustible topic of discussion at the fireside, in the offices, shops, in fact, in all public places. The soul-stirring tragedy of the sea has plunged the whole nation in grief and aroused even among the most callous and indifferent the best thoughts and deepest sympathies they are capable of. The generous manner in which rich and poor alike are contributing to the fund for the relief of those survivors of the catastrophe who lost in the wreck all but their lives, shows how deeply the masses have been stirred. What can be done to prevent a repetition of such a disaster in the future is not quite clear, but it is expected that the future will eventually bring some solution to the problem.

The new lighthouse which the government had built on Richmond Heights, Staten Island, to guide ships entering New York harbor through Ambrose channel, has been placed in commission and, every night its fixed white ray of 200,000 candle power will blaze out to the sea, visible, in fair weather, for thirty-five miles. As the lighthouse occupies one of the most commanding positions on the crests of the hills, it will be clearly seen in daytime for a great distance. The tower, which is of red brick and rests on a base of white masonry, rises to a height of 100 feet from the ground thus placing the light 231 feet above mean low water. The light is furnished by oil vapor and is condensed by a powerful lens.

The new lighthouse stands about 18 miles north of the Ambrose Lightship and the light from the shore can be seen farther out than that of the light ship. Owing to the fact that the new light is fixed, it will be easily distinguished at sea from the famous light of the Highlands of Navesink, which flashes out its great white ray at intervals of several seconds.

The recent death under intensely dramatic circumstances, of a prosperous Italian merchant in this city clearly shows that the Black Hand is still active and as dangerous as ever. About one month ago, Filippo Lemano, a wealthy grocer, received a Black Hand letter couched in the usual terms and demanding from him a sum of $1,000. Lemano paid no attention to the letter and did not even notify the police authorities. Two weeks later he received a second letter from the Black Hand, in which he was threatened with death should he fail to leave $1,000 in a red receptacle on the steps of his store at a certain time. Lemano considered the matter as a hoax and in a spirit of fun arranged a frowel dinner for a few of his friends for the evening fixed by the Black Hand for the delivery of the money.

It was after eight o'clock and Lemano and his friends were at the supper table, when Lemano was called down to the store. When he entered the store, anticipating no danger, he was attacked by several men who had been waiting for him. Several shots were fired at him and when his wife hastened downstairs she stumbled over the body of her husband. Two men were at the moment running out of the store. Lemano died a few moments later and his murderers escaped, leaving no clue of their identity.

The automatic alarm in the central office of the Holmes' Electric Protective Company rang the other evening and the indicator showed that the alarm came from a jewelry store on Grand Street. The only man available at the time to be sent to investigate was a young man of slight build and undersized. Armed only with an electric torch he went to the building whence the alarm came, let himself in with a pass key and ascended the stairs so quietly that the two burglars who were still busy trying to break into the jeweler's shop were completely surprised when he turned his electric torch on them and commanded "hands up."

The burglars, who were completely surprised when he turned his electric torch on them and commanded "hands up." The burglars, who were completely surprised when he turned his electric torch on them and commanded "hands up." The burglars, who were completely surprised when he turned his electric torch on them and commanded "hands up."

Brilliant Wedding In Baptist Church

Blair-Moore Nuptial Services Conducted by Rev. C. M. Rock, Church Overflowing

PUBLIC RECEPTION AT HOME OF THE BRIDE'S PARENTS

Nature never smiled more beautifully on a marriage scene than she did for the one witnessed in the Memorial Baptist church Wednesday night. The day preceding had been ideal and the night was all that heart could wish for. Skilled hands lent their aid in making the interior of the church in keeping with nature's touch without and the artistic decorations in green and white of the organ and choir gallery made a fitting background to the beautiful wedding scene that was witnessed.

An hour before the time for the marriage people thronged the church and it was soon filled to overflowing. It was near a quarter past nine o'clock when the first note from the organ under the touch of Miss Lillian Carr busied the subdued conversations in the audience and all looked expectantly for the scene that had brought them thither.

As the bride party waited in the vestibule, Mrs. W. L. Hall sweetly sang "I Love You Truly," by Beaud. This was followed by the "Bridal Chorus" (from the Rose Maiden) by Cowen, delightfully rendered by a double quartette consisting of Mrs. W. L. Hall and Miss Ariene Joyner, sopranos; Misses Viola Keeder and Verneesa Smith, altos; Messrs. D. J. Whitchard and Charles James, tenors; Messrs. Clinton D. Rowlett and Roy Hearn, basses.

Then as the familiar strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March filled the edifice all eyes turned from the choir to the aisles for the entrance of the bride party. First came the ushers to their appointed places about the altar. These were Messrs. C. E. McCuller, of Burgaw, and B. S. Warren, of Greenville; Sugg Fleming, of Patactus, and Floyd Banks, of Goldsboro; H. M. Allen, of Goldsboro, and M. L. Turnage, of Greenville.

Next were the bride's maids, Misses Katherine Starn, of Virginia; Rebecca Knight, of Greenville; Corinna Ward, of Patactus; Florida Averette, of Rocky Mount; Lorena Bland, sister of the groom, of Burgaw, and B. S. Warren, sister of the bride, of Greenville. Each of these wore white marquisette over white satin and carried bouquets of Killarney roses.

Then came the dame of honor, Mrs. Sam T. White, of Greenville, and up the opposite aisle Mr. R. W. Ward, of Raleigh. The dame of honor wore white satin with duchess lace and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. The two maids of honor followed, Misses Hennie Ragsdale and Susie Moore, of Greenville, the latter a sister of the bride. These were in pink marquisette over pink satin and carried bouquets of Killarney roses.

When these had reached their place the music quickly changed to Lotensgrin's "Hail, Come the Bride" and the beautiful bride, Miss Lillian Carr, entered with her father, Mr. W. M. Moore. She wore an exquisite dress of white satin with crystal and pearl trimmings and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. As they approached the altar, the bride is one of Greenville's most attractive and admired young ladies and Mr. Blair is a young attorney of Goldsboro, who is rapidly rising in his chosen profession.

Mr. and Mrs. Bland left on the midnight Norfolk Southern train via Norfolk for New York and other cities, followed with the congratulations and good wishes of a great host.

From the church the bridal party of friends.

Democrats Will Meet in Wake County

Percy J. Olive Accepts Chairmanship Declaring He Represents No Faction But the People as a Whole

CONDEMNNS "SPLITS" BUT STRONG FOR PARTY HARMONY

RALEIGH, N. C., April 30.—By a unanimous vote of the Democratic Executive Committee of Wake county at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the court house Mr. Percy J. Olive, of Apex, was elected as the County chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chairman George E. Hunter. The other important action was naming Tuesday, June 4, as the date for the meeting of the Democratic County Convention, to meet at noon on that day in the court house. The meeting was well attended, there being present in person and by proxy twenty-two members of the committee.

Mr. Olive in accepting the position declared that he did so as the candidate of no faction and that he would not have consented to be chairman except that he understood it was with the idea that he could aid in having harmony in the party in Wake county and that he was the choice of all the committee. He declared that he would not accept, nor would he continue to hold office if there was a factional fight. As for himself, he said, if there was a lively fight he was so constituted that he could not help taking sides. He does not favor factional fights and declared he did not wish to see the characters of Democrats assailed by Democrats and fights inside the Democratic party which tended to disrupt it and to embitter party associates, friends, neighbors, members of churches and lodges. He declared that he would do all in his power to keep harmony in the party and that with a factional fight he would resign from the position.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—Insuring an early closing of the senate Titanic inquiry, Senator Smith, who is chairman of the senate committee that is conducting the inquiry, announced today that but a few more who were passengers on the ill-fated ship, would be called as witnesses. Senator Smith also stated that he believed that a remedial legislation would be passed at this session of congress. William Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, was recalled to the stand today and repudiated the messages, which told the Titanic and Carpathia operators to hold the messages for inquiry.

WISCONSIN SOLONS MEET.

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—The Wisconsin legislature assembled in extra session today in pursuance of the call issued by Governor McGovern last month. The principal matter to come before the legislators is the question of state aid in the strengthening of levees and other measures to prevent flood damage. New water-power legislation and proposed amendments to the weights and measures law are also to be brought up at the extra session.
