Chief work for party. House Demo-Seking presidential leader determination.

We do not take the interest in the sectional standing of the two that some others take, but through Underwood Wilson claims to be a southern man though living in New Jersey, it is proper to give the facts for what they are worth.

Which Southern? Only Underwood.
Underwood's father took him north when he was three years old and kept him there for a short time. Underwood Wilson took himself north when twenty-nine years old and has since remained there. Underwood married first in Virginia, and his wife having died, married again in Alabama. Underwood Wilson married in Virginia. While

DO NOT WAIT UNTIL TOO LATE
A Little Sermon for the Girl With The Work-Worn Mother

"I want to speak to you of your mother," said a father, talking to his careless daughter. "It may be that you have noticed a careworn look on her face lately. Of course it has not been brought there by an act of yours; still it is your duty to take it away. I want you to get up tomorrow morning and get the breakfast and when your mother comes and begins to express surprises go right up to her and kiss her on the mouth. You can't imagine how it will brighten her face. If you kiss her when you are a little girl, she kissed you when no one else was tempted by your fever-tainted breath and swollen face you were not as attractive then as you are now. And through those years of childhood when in shine and shadows and with all the ready to cure, by the magic of a mother's kiss, the little, dirty, chubby hands whenever they were injured by those skinkies with the rough old world."

"And then the midnight kiss with which she sooted so many howl demons which she leamed about your pillow have all been on interest these long, long years."

"She will leave you one of these days. These burdens, if not lifted, being presented to each. Miss Roberson from her shoulders, will break her inson, the honoree, was also present-dorm. Those rough, bad hands that of a lovely Fisher picture.

The Pension Stool
Herbert Bruce Fuller has an interesting and illuminating article in the May Lippincott's on the great-est of all steals from the public treasury, the pension system. The pension figures are staggering and yet the democratic house has passed a bill that would add many more millions annually to the already too large amount. This is the one great blunder that the democrats have made. It is a blunder for two reasons, first because it is not right, and second, because they voted for it as an act of policy in the hope of catching northern votes. It is the best policy to stick to principle. That the democrats did not do it in this matter.

While one will not begrudge a liberal pension to any veteran or surviving dependent of a soldier wounded in the service of his country, it seems intolerable that forty-six years after the close of the civil war the enormous sum of $133,826,257.29 should be spent in a single year for pensions. In 1909 the pension list cost $14,826,257.

Since 1909, says Mr. Fuller, our pension appropriations have been in excess of $100,000,000 annually, and since 1908 in excess of $100,000,000. If the so-called Sherman bill becomes a law, more than $225,000,000 will be necessary to meet our pension budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913. These figures are the more impressive when we consider the military pension appropriations of various European countries.

In 1910 our pension expenditures amounted to $162,631,729.94. For the same year England expended $29,387,268; France expended $31,805,697; the German Empire, $40,805,514; Austria, $20,531,668; Hungary, $6,498,737. The pension systems for that year combined were $129,194,094, or $33,000,000 less than those of the United States alone. For 1911, the survivors of the civil war on the union side drew pensions aggregating $148,231,665, while in the southern states the survivors of the Confederate army drew but $7,500,828.

In Virginia the union veterans in that year drew $148,553, while the Confederate veterans drew but $150,000. In Louisiana the sum of $1,024,613 was disbursed among union veterans, and but $175,000 among the Confederate veterans. Not the least objectionable feature of our pension system is the fact that from twenty-five or thirty per cent of our pensioners enjoy an annual net income of more than $1,000. In the southern states the pension roll is based primarily upon need. Yet despite the fact that the pension system is the largest general pension system, the sixty-first congress, which adjourned March 4, 1911, enacted 649 bills granting original or increased pensions by special act.

In 1872 President Garfield, then a member of the house of representatives, said: "We may reasonably expect that the expenditures for pensions will hereafter steadily decrease, unless our legislation should be unaccountably extravagant."

The pension list for 1872 amounted to $20,702,399. In 1912, forty years later, we are devoting $152,682,900, to this item—five times that amount. Our pension appropriations from 1865 to 1913 have amounted to the staggering total of $4,254,816,147, or almost a billion dollars more than the total expenditures of the government during the years of war. And despite the enormous expenditures the house of representatives has within the past six months passed a general pension bill calling for an additional appropriation of $75,000,000, at a conservative estimate. This bill is now pending in the senate.

Our largest single expenditure is for pensions. Twenty-three cents of every dollar spent by the government goes for this purpose. This is a charge of $8.40 against every family in the United States. It is not time to take some action to protect the treasury of the nation?—Raleigh Times.

Mrs. James Entertain.
Miss Hennie Ragsdale is attending Tuesday afternoon at her home on Greene street, Mrs. J. Burt James entertained the Pleasure club and several friends in honor of her guest Miss Swannie Robinson of Greenville, Tenn.

The hall and rooms were darkened and lighted by burning tapers with green shades. The parlor was decorated in a profusion of Marshall Nell roses, the sitting room adjoining in shine and shadows and with all the ready to cure, by the magic of a mother's kiss, the little, dirty, chubby hands whenever they were injured by those skinkies with the rough old world."

In the hall Mrs. Albion Dunn and Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb, Jr., served punch from a table laden with a bower of American beauties and lighted with candles.

Bridge and Book were the games which the learned about your pillow have all been on interest these long, long years.

Mississippi High Waters are Falling

For the Last Seventy-Two Hours Gauges Fail to Register a Raise

MANY HARDSHIPS SUFFERED BY PEOPLE IN MANY DISTRICTS

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 15.—The crest of the great 1912 Mississippi flood is passing out through the jetties of the river, and the crest of New Orleans into the Gulf. The river gauge readings indicate as much. For the 72 hours ending at 7 a. m. today not a single government gauge between New Orleans and St. Louis has recorded a rise, whereas almost points receding stage was shown.

The river was stationary at New Orleans and St. Louis. At Cairo there was a fall of 1.1 feet, two-tenths of a foot at both Memphis and Arkansas City and a fall of one-tenth at Helena, Vicksburg, Natchez, Baton Rouge and Donaldsonville. But with the crest of the flood appears to be passing, little relief from the high water is promised the people of Louisiana in the special bulletin issued today by the weather bureau, forecasting a continuance of the danger stages throughout the month of May.

The bulletin reads: "The Mississippi river below Vicksburg and the Atchafalaya river will change very little, or fall slowly, but stages will continue high through May."

Sugar Plantations Inundated. PLAINQUEMINE, La., May 14.—A dozen or more of the larger sugar plantations in the vicinity of Plainque mine are wholly or practically inundated by the crevasse in the Mississippi levee at Torras. In addition to these several hundred farms are under water.

About one-tenth of Iberville parish is now overflowed. Every inch of the Bayou Plainque mine and all of the west bank excepting the ridge around Mar-ibou and Livonia is submerged. Many fine plantations are in that section.

San Francisco, Cal., May 14.—Early returns of today's primaries from scattered precincts distributed throughout the 11 congressional districts in California indicated for a victory for Roosevelt in the presidential preference vote. Apparently he carried even San Francisco county, in which Taft managers centered their strongest hopes. On the basis of the early returns, Taft appeared to be the second choice of Republican voters over La Follette.

Clark led Wilson by a wide margin in the Democratic preference vote as counted up to 8 o'clock.

Travellers Convention In Mt. Airy

Expect Clark Victory in Iowa. BURLINGTON, Ia., May 15.—Many delegates are arriving for the Democratic state convention which will meet here tomorrow to select the Iowa delegates to the Baltimore convention. Clark has a good lead in the number of instructed delegates and Congressman Jamieson, in charge of the Clark campaign, predicts a certain victory for the Speaker on the first ballot.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE.

Not to Help Women, But to Help Men. Women Will Improve All Governments, Nullify the Bad Men, Multiply the Good Men by Two.

By Arthur Brisbane and reprinted with his permission. Whether you believe in women suffrage or not, whether you want to see women vote or not, make up your mind to this:

Women are going to vote. They are going to have their say in the laws that rule them and their children. They are going to add morality, benevolence and kindness to man's governing selfishness and nothing will stop it.

There is a time for each important work. This is the time to work and get the vote for women.

You will hear the subject discussed often in this newspaper. You are invited to join in the discussion. We have talked of votes for women often—but that was only the beginning. We shall succeed in this "votes for women" campaign, as we succeeded in the others. By the help of women.

Our purpose is to interest, first of all, the poorer women.

It is easy for the rich and prosperous "lady" to discuss in a distant, indifferent way her future and her rights. She has comfort, luxury and ease now. Her rights do not really worry her very much, except as an added luxury.

Those especially interested, are the poor women—women whose husbands or fathers earn two dollars a day, or five or ten dollars a day perhaps. They are the women that really pay the cost of government today.

Is not our government a trust government? Are not the real taxes in this country imposed by the trusts?

The man with a little house pays a little tax on that house. And he pays to the government a little tax on his tobacco or his beer, if he uses either, another little tax on his woolen suit. But the government doesn't get the real tax. That goes to the trusts. The real tax laid upon the trusts, without representation in the taxing body, is made by the trusts.

There is Mr. Rockefeller's tax from the Oil Trust. There is the tax from the Sugar Trust and the Meat Trust and all the other trusts.

Who pays those taxes? The women pay them. They spend the household money, and the trusts raise their incomes by taxes in the household.

The women of the poorer families, the wives of men with four or five hundred dollars a year, or of the lucky man with his three or four thousand dollars a year, they pay the cost of our trust government.

The poorer women must pay the taxes; the poorer women should be allowed to vote.

There are hundreds of ways of looking at this question of votes for women and no matter how you look at it, if you respect women, if you had a good mother, a good wife, good daughters and sisters, good women around you, you must work in favor of the vote for women.

Suppose a woman holds stock in a railroad. Is she not allowed to vote like any man, as a stockholder in that railroad?

Is not every woman in America a stockholder in this nation. Do not the women of America create the nation? Will there be anything left of the United States a hundred years from now, except the children created by the women living in the United States?

Is not the nation made up of the people and do not the women create the people? Are they not entitled to an opinion, to fast a vote, in the lawmaking, in the country governing, in the tax imposing?

You will hear women say that they do not want to vote, they are happy as they are, quite contented. And this is said often by some of the best women, the most intelligent in certain directions, excellent morally.

We would ask them to remember that exactly the same thing was said by the black slaves when abolition was suggested. When there was talk of freeing the slaves many of the very best behaved, most worthy among the slaves, said: "We do not want freedom; we do not want abolition; we are satisfied as we are."

But those very good slaves that wanted to remain slaves realize now that any kind of freedom was better than any kind of slavery.

And to the women, well meaning, satisfied, intelligent, but narrow, we would say and we shall often repeat, that while they may think they are contented in their slavery, once they get freedom, once their moral character is expressed in the country's government, they will find the freedom and the rights of the voter infinitely preferable to peaceful, well dressed, silky slavery.

TAKE CARE OF THE WOODLANDS.

At a recent North Carolina forestry meeting Mr. Alston Grimes explained how he became interested in the better care of his timber. "A few years ago," he said, "I was talking with a neighbor who had bought a tract of land eight years before for $500. In this time by careful management he had sold $2,500 worth of timber and still had his land—and it well timbered too. His plan was to go over his woods each year, mark the trees he wished cut and have no other touched, nor any unnecessary waste in getting at the marked trees." Mr. Grimes now follows the same policy, allows no hunters on his place to carry an axe, permits no night hunting and has a written agreement with each tenant that five dollars will be charged for each acre of land the tenant allows to be burnt over.

Mr. Grimes also has it understood that a charge at the rate of five dollars per acre will be made for ditch banks, fence corners and old fields that the tenants burn over. He is determined not only to save timber but also to save the humus, the decaying vegetable matter, without which we can never make or keep our soils fertile.

CLEAN UP ABOUT THE HOUSE.

While we are thinking over the blessings and beauties of warm weather, there is another side to it, not so attractive, but far more important and just as serious as the possibility of a short crop owing to the backward growing season. This is the diseases the summer time brings. The first thing we ought to think of right now is "clean up." Not so much the regular spring house cleaning—some of that might be very well dispensed with—but cleaning up on the outside. The mud holes left by the winter rains, the old cans or barrels with a little water left in them; all of them are breeding places for mosquitoes. Get rid of the piles of refuse around the house and barn that furnish a hatching for flies. The slogan for farmers, "raise everything at home," is a good one, but don't think there is any use in carrying it to the extreme of raising our own flies and mosquitoes as many of us do.

We country folk have the advantage of our town neighbors, in that we do not have to suffer much from anybody's dirt but our own. Town people, especially in small towns, where there is no strict enforcement of sanitary ordinances, may be ever so clean on their own premises, and yet have to endure the flies and disease germs of their neighbors on either side.

The Greensboro News wants to know where is the old fashioned order who was all the time apologetic to his readers for the scarcity of news. Guess he is busy trying to tell them what is happening so as to find room to get it in.

Some of these days you will see every municipality of consequence coming into the municipal form of government.

Some people think it is easier to make an excuse than to avoid the necessity for one.

Now, why not give father a day?

THE GAME EXPOSED.

The campaign for the nomination has now progressed far enough to enable the Democratic voters to know the methods that are being employed by the Wall street crowd to capture the Baltimore convention. Mr. Harmon and Mr. Underwood are the reactionary candidates. The predatory interests are quite indifferent as to which of these gentlemen is nominated. Mr. Harmon was picked out first, but "big business" began to smile upon Mr. Underwood, as soon as it became evident that Mr. Harmon was not making headway as a candidate. They have now divided up the territory in which they think a reactionary has a chance, and Mr. Harmon is running in a few states in the north and Mr. Underwood in six states in the south.

In the north and in Ohio, the Democrats are appealed to to vote for Mr. Harmon as a matter of state pride; but Mr. Harmon's delegates, if they are reactionaries, will be at the disposal of Mr. Underwood when Mr. Harmon is out of the way; and Mr. Underwood's delegates will be equally at the disposal of Mr. Harmon—except the delegates from Alabama, who are so tied up that they can't be delivered to anyone else.

In Florida, the Harmon men have been leading the Underwood fight and appealing to southern pride on behalf of Mr. Underwood as a southern man.

There could be no clearer case of bad faith and the fact that such methods are resorted to, ought to convince any fair-minded man that the reactionaries are not expecting to win by an open, honest fight, but by deliberate deception. A reactionary would find it impossible to win at a time like this, when so large a majority of the people are progressive; but the chances of the reactionary candidate would be still further weakened if he were nominated as a result of a combination between a few men running in different sections on local sentiment.

Governor Harmon and Mr. Underwood are working both sides of the street, but their tactics are becoming so well known that they can't hope to continue much longer even the small success that has attended their efforts.

KING HENRY VIII.

Who has not seen it in print a thousand times and heard it with assertiveness proclaimed as a fact, that every school boy, and school girl repeat that Henry VIII was the founder of the Church of England. That brilliant historian and orator Lord Macaulay never said so. As a matter of common learning he of course knew the church had existed and was founded centuries before Henry VIII was born. That St. Alban, Alfred, Theodore and Dunstan, were familiar names to him, as was also Edwin and Thelbert, Kings of the Heptarchy. And to settle the fact beyond all question, Sir William Blackstone in his Commentary on the laws of England, Volume 4th, Chapter 24, Page 104, says, "The ancient British church by whomsoever planted was a stranger to the Bishop (or Pope) of Rome, and all his pretended authority."

The truth is the adherents of the church of Rome have always been willing to prepetrate a fraud on the misinformed, with regard to the true origin of the church. And in the year of our Lord 1559, in the time of Pope Pius V, His Holiness ordered and declared a separation from the church of England and issued a Bull commanding his followers to separate themselves from the services of that church. The effect of course, was the setting up of a new altar or church and thereby immediately becoming a Roman Catholic or Italian Mission of England. While as Ecclesia Anglicana or church of England so named in Magna Charta, she had existed for more than twelve hundred years and is still the church of a larger part of the Anglo Saxon race than her apostolic authority unimpaired by the learning and piety of the Christian world. At the period of the troubles between the Pope and the King, in the sixteenth century, it at once developed into an angry contention over the marriage relations of the latter. He had married a Spanish Princess, the widow of his brother Arthur and the monster tired of his virtuous and amiable Queen, took measures to rid himself of her, proposing at first a divorce, but later believing that the advantages was on his side in the Canon Law and the Book of Leviticus, he at once contended for a legal investigation before learned doctors in England and at the great universities on the continent, who decided, of course, that it was illegal to marry his brothers widow and was so pronounced by the courts of the Realm.

(And this miserable law has been in force ever since, and should have been repealed years ago).

Poor Catherine, hapless daughter of Great Isabella, friend and patron of Columbus, how memory clings to you while Bloody Mary looms up a hideous ghost to remind Free America that ceaseless vigilance is the price of Religions Liberty.

The late eloquent Rev. Dr. Albert Barnes, of the Presbyterian church writes thus: "We remember the name of Cranmer, first in many respects among the reformers, that it was by his steady and unerring hand under God, that the church was conducted through the agitating and distressing times of Henry VIII. We remember that God watched over that wonderful man; that He gave this distinguished Prelate access to the heart of every man; that he was the most capricious, cruel, inexorable, blood-thirsty and licentious monarchs that has disgraced the world. That God for the sake of Cranmer and the church conducted Henry as by a week in the nose, and made him faithful to the Archbishop of Canterbury when faithful to none else, so that perhaps the only trait in the character of Henry is his fidelity to this first British Prelate under the reformation. The world will not soon forget the names of Cranmer, Ridley, Latimer, Rogers and Bradford; names associated in the feelings of all Christians with the long list of Martyrs and Confessors of whom the world was not worthy; and who did honor to the entire ages of mankind by sealing in blood their attachment to the Son of God on the rack and amidst the flames. Nor can we forget that we owe to that old church that which fills our minds with gratitude and praise, when we look for examples of consecrated talent and elegant literature and humble devoted piety. While men honor elevated Christian feelings, while they reverse sound learning. While they render tribute to clear and profound reasoning, they will not forget the names of Barrow, Taylor, Tillotson, Hooker, and Butler; and when they think of humble piety their minds will recur instinctly to the name of Leighton.

T. C. DAVIS.

"THE SHORT AND UGLY WORD."

Following are Associated Press dispatches: Baltimore, May 4. In the closing speech of a fourteen-hour campaign trip through Maryland, President Taft added a new chapter to the history of the harvester trust here tonight. Speaking to an audience that filled the Lyric theatre Mr. Taft declared that Colonel Roosevelt did prevent the prosecution of that "trust" after George W. Perkins, one of the directors and now a Roosevelt supporter, had asked that the trust be not taken into the courts; intimated that Charles J. Bonaparte, attorney general under Mr. Roosevelt, was "mistaken" when he said that he (Mr. Taft) was present at a cabinet meeting which decided against prosecution and said the diary of Herbert Knox Smith, then and now head of the bureau of corporations proved that at the time referred to he was on a trip around the world.

Mr. Taft's explanation of the harvester trust muddle was only one of the many points on which he attacked Colonel Roosevelt. He said his predecessor's attitude towards the trusts showed clearly that he wished to perform a benevolent deposition that would discriminate between the good and bad trusts; pointed out how Mr. Roosevelt had changed from his attitude regarding his entrance into the presidential race as a calamity to that being an active campaigner for the nomination and insisted that Mr. Roosevelt was striving to make this campaign one in which the man who had little should be arrayed against him who had none. In concise form he listed the achievements of his administration and the charges which Mr. Roosevelt had made against it, declaring that in his term in the white house there had been more progressive legislation enacted than in any previous president's term since the civil war.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 5.—In a statement issued here tonight by Colonel Roosevelt, in reply to President Taft's speech in Baltimore last night, the colonel asserts that Mr. Taft knew he was making an untrue statement when he said that the anti-trust law ought to be repealed. He also again contradicts the president in regard to the "harvester trust" case, saying that at a cabinet meeting and in private conversation with him, Mr. Taft "repeatedly and emphatically approved the course actually taken."

Colonel Roosevelt had read President Taft's Baltimore speech carefully and he prepared his reply with equal care, writing it out with a pencil instead of dictating it to his secretary. He would make no further statement. The colonel returned to Oyster Bay for a week before starting on his Ohio campaign.

"Mr. Taft says I have said that the anti-trust law ought to be repealed," asserts Colonel Roosevelt. "Mr. Taft well knows that this is not true. I have always stated that it ought to be kept on the books and really enforced (not merely nominally enforced as has been done by Mr. Taft in the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases) against all trusts guilty of anti-social practices, but I have always said and say again that by itself, anti-trust law will never solve the problem of dealing with the great corporations and that to control the great industrial interstate corporations we should have a law akin to the present interstate commerce law but without the mischievous interstate court."

Colonel Roosevelt refers to the pending investigation of Judge Archibald of the commerce court and asserts that the judge was appointed with gratitude and praise, when he look for examples of consecrated tal-stress for the office had already been called to President Taft's attention. The statement continues: "In Kentucky and Indiana, in New York city and elsewhere, Mr. Taft knows well that the delegates elected for him represent barefaced frauds. He stands guilty of connivance and of condonation of the frauds; he stands guilty of approving and encouraging fraud which deprives the people of their rights to express their will as to who shall be nominated."

"In all these presidential conventions I have stood for absolute honesty and fair play. Mr. Taft stood for crooked misrepresentation of the will of the people."

"BOSSSES AND LEADERS."

In one of his Massachusetts speeches Mr. Roosevelt said: "Mr. Taft says that his supporters are not bosses, but patriotic leaders. Is Mr. Lorimer a patriotic leader? Is Mr. Patrick Calhoun of California, the man whom Francis Heney indicted, a patriotic leader? Are Messrs. Guggenheim and Evans of Colorado patriotic leaders? Is Mr. Penrose of Pennsylvania a patriotic leader? Does Mr. Taft mean that Messrs. Gallinger, Aldrich and Cannon are patriotic leaders and not bosses? Does Mr. Taft mean that Mr. Cox of Ohio is a patriotic leader?"

"I don't care a rap for the terminology of the matter. I care, for the fact. If it is any comfort for Mr. Taft to call Messrs. Lorimer, Cox, Penrose, Guggenheim, Calhoun, Gallinger and the rest patriotic leaders, instead of bosses, let him do so, but I earnestly hope that the plain people will vote against that peculiar type of patriotic leader; and mind you, if these particular patriotic leaders were not behind Mr. Taft, Mr. Taft would have no chance of carrying one state in twenty throughout the union."

Without desiring to seem too critical, one can not help remarking that in 1908 all of these gentlemen named by Mr. Roosevelt were supporting Mr. Taft. Mr. Roosevelt knew it. They were also behind Mr. Roosevelt himself in 1904 as they were behind the national ticket upon which he ran in 1900. There was no difference between Messrs. Taft and Roosevelt. These gentlemen were all "patriotic leaders."

CONFEDERATE VETERANS.

A hearty greeting to the old confederate soldiers who are in our midst today. The number of these gallant heroes grows less and less as the years speed by and while the remaining ones are with us we should do everything possible for their pleasure and comfort. Death has laid his hand upon the ranks of Bryan Grimes Camp since the last annual reunion and taken several of the comrades, among them being the commander, Major Henry Harding, and they are sadly missed. Many of the years that remain to those still left be filled with peace and happiness and "may there be no moaning at the bar when they put out to sea."

Forget.

For you, I could forget the gay Delirium of merriment And let my laughter die away In endless slumber of content. I could forget, for your dear sake, The utter emptiness and ache Of every loss I ever knew—

What could I not forget for you?

I could forget the just deserts Of mine own sins, and so ease The tears that burn, the smile that hurts, And all that mars and masks my face.

For your fair sake I could forget The bonds of life that chafes and frets,

Nor care if death were false or true— What could I not forget for you?

HOOKWORM DISPENSARIES.

Thirty-Eight Counties Have Them—Four Additional Counties.

Thirty-eight counties have now made provision to have the dispensary campaign for free examination and free treatment of hookworm disease. Four counties having just begun the appropriation are Wilson, Catawba, Burke and Caldwell. The counties of Duplin, Greene, Nash, Wayne and Wake now have the dispensaries in progress and large numbers of people are taking advantage of the opportunity for free treatment.

Mr. C. D. Bradham, chairman of the board of commissioners of Craven county where the work was carried on in January, states: "We are just beginning to realize how much good this has done Craven county. I will be glad to make a trip to county at my own expense to appear before their board for the benefit which this entire section would derive from the service."

Every county in a line with, and east of Wake except ten have provided for the dispensaries. Since their inauguration last July 38,500 people have been treated through them in the state. This does not include 25,000 people who have been treated and reported by more than a thousand physicians throughout the state.

At an early date the work is to begin in the mountain counties.

The noted speakers from abroad will include Abdul Baha Abbas, leader of the Bahai movement in Persia; Dr. Christian L. Lane, secretary of the interparliamentary union; Albert G. Bacco, director of the International Peace Bureau at Berne and J. P. Santama, of Buenos Ayres.

Brookline, who is playing third base for the Cleveland Naps, is a fast worker and nice fielder, but so far has not started anything with the sticks.

Immigrants Who Go Through Ceremony Before Being Allowed to Marry.

Marriage by proxy still permitted in some countries and is recognized as binding. Holland is one of the few countries where it is permitted still with royal sanction. Thus it is that when in due course Maria Johanna Lifeman of Amsterdam comes to this country to meet Morry Fimentel of Boston, she will find that he is coming to her husband, although there is every likelihood that the immigration authorities will refuse to allow her to land until they have been permitted according to the laws of this country.

Forces Elated At Underwood's Success

Claims Complete Victory For Their Candidate Wherever He Has Competed

IT IS THOUGHT HE WILL CARRY NORTH CAROLINA

(Special to Reflector)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—After having carried 100 per cent of the states in which he has made a fight for delegates to the national Democratic convention at Baltimore, the Underwood managers are confident today that the Democratic house leader will carry North Carolina next week when delegates to the state convention will be elected. That the Underwood managers have good ground for predicting that they will carry the state was the opinion expressed by James R. Collier of Louisville, one of the best known Democratic politicians in the state. Mr. Collier returned to Washington today from a visit in North Carolina, while in North Carolina that he visited Raleigh, Wilson, and a number of other towns and is confident that the Underwood strength overshadows all other candidates. "I am confident that the state's 24 delegates will be cast for Mr. Underwood at Baltimore," said Mr. Collier today. "Enthusiasm for Underwood overshadows everything. I traveled in a number of counties while in North Carolina and I found the strongest kind of sentiment for Underwood. I feel no hesitancy in saying that he will get the state's solid delegation at Baltimore. All talk of Underwood being a walking horse for any one has been knocked into a cocked hat. Likewise the talk that he is a Wall street candidate. Mr. Underwood beat Governor Wilson in Georgia by nearly 20,000 majority and it was the farmers who did the trick. That he will carry North Carolina and be nominated at Baltimore and elected in November no one now doubts.

State Commissioner Endorses Merger

RALEIGH, May 12.—Saturday a committee of six gentlemen representing the Jefferson Standard, of Raleigh and the Greensboro Life Insurance company, appeared before Commissioner Young relative to the threatened injunction against the consolidation of the company and relative to the meeting he made a statement in which he said it was his opinion that the consolidated company would not work to the detriment of any policyholder in either of the two companies. The gentlemen consulting with him was composed of a subcommittee of the committee of 24 of the companies meeting in Washington and deciding there upon the consolidation.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was introduced by R. W. King and was unanimously adopted by the Bryan Grimes Camp and all citizens present: Whereas Pitt county furnished more men in the Confederate Army than it had votes in 1869, men in all ranks, from the private to the commanding general, did their duty and did it well, men whose memory should be honored, men whose deeds were a noble part of that history making period of '61-'65 and men who most richly deserve a lasting testimonial, written in stone of their valor, sacrifices and patriotism, that posterity and the world may know of them; and

Whereas popular subscriptions have failed to provide an adequate amount to erect such a testimonial such a monument as to them and their memory is due and without other financial aid this great and deserved tribute is too doubtful for encouragement to further efforts; Therefore, be it Resolved, by the Bryan Grimes Camp of Confederate Veterans of Pitt county in annual reunion and those here assembled with them this day, that it is the duty of the county, a sacred and self apparent duty to assist in this great and deserving work, therefore, we hereby ask that the board of county commissioners of Pitt county shall appropriate a reasonable amount from the county treasury to insure the completion of a monument to be erected on the court house square, to be dedicated to the honor and memory of Pitt county's heroes, men and women, whose valor stood the test of a hundred fields of battle and women who rendered no less greater service and patriotic duty by privations and sacrifices at home;

University Alumni Organized

Several of the Alumni of the University of North Carolina in this Raleigh and the Greensboro Life Insurance company, appeared before Commissioner Young relative to the threatened injunction against the consolidation of the company and relative to the meeting he made a statement in which he said it was his opinion that the consolidated company would not work to the detriment of any policyholder in either of the two companies. The gentlemen consulting with him was composed of a subcommittee of the committee of 24 of the companies meeting in Washington and deciding there upon the consolidation.

Commissioner Young stated he has not gone over the details. He said: "The policyholders of neither company need be disturbed as to the safety of their policies. Each company must carry to the consolidated company the reserves to mature the policies according to their terms besides whatever capital and surplus that may be agreed upon."

Greenville Mecca for Confederate Veterans

Aged Survivors Gather in the Court House to Hear Maj. Graham Address Them—Movement on Foot For Soldiers' Monument Here.

Confederate veterans of the Bryan Grimes Camp found their way today to our town and basked in the sunshine of a perfect day recorded days when youth and the energy that goes with it was theirs. It was a moving scene to witness these stalwart pillars of the South as they willingly answered the call to form line and march to pay their respects to those of their comrades that have passed on. Aged men, handicapped by the infirmities of late years and the strenuous work in the battlefield; yet eager to remember the perjuries experienced and bravely gone through in the grueling fight for a cause.

Since the early morning from cross roads and villages veterans and their families began to pour into Greenville and gather around the court house. The beauty of the day, the balmy atmosphere and the hearty invitation of the people of Greenville, caused a great number to turn out.

The meeting of the Bryan Grimes Camp took place in the court house, Commander E. A. Moye, Sr. presiding. Business of the organization was discussed and transacted and many resolutions passed. Chief among them being the one to push the movement for a Confederate Veterans' monument to be erected in the court house square. In connection with this resolution many good talks endorsing the project were made by several of the attendants and it was agreed to place the matter before the county commissioners, in order to obtain the necessary funds to build the monument. The business meeting over, the bugle was sounded outside the court house and the veterans fell into line, preparatory to visiting the cemetery. A great number of citizens followed them and graves of those that had been forgotten were decorated with floral tributes by those who will soon answer the call.

Back from the cemetery and again in the court house Major Graham, commissioner of agriculture, talked to the men on the subjects closest to their heart. Of their brave stand when the south was in danger. Of the abnegation for the cause. Major Graham paid a magnificent tribute not only to the men he was addressing but to all those that contributed with their lives, their property and their magnificent and indomitable energy to the upkrop of the fight the South made.

From the court house those of the veterans who could march headed for the gun warehouse, where a dinner was tendered them. Those whose infirmities made it impossible for them to form in line were conveyed to the warehouse in motor cars, kindly supplied by their owners. The hearty spirit of companionship and good humor reigned during the dinner.

Surprise Marriage. A surprise marriage, at least to the parents of the couple, took place Sunday at the home of Justice L. A. Mayo, three miles from town. The bride, Miss Gatha Briley, daughter of Mrs. E. T. Briley, left home Saturday afternoon to visit friends across the river. Mr. J. C. House, the groom, followed Sunday morning to go to the home where Miss Briley was visiting and take her to church at Parker's chapel. After getting the young lady, instead of going to church they drove to the home of Justice Mayo who married them. A few friends went along to witness the ceremony.

No Levers. No Springs Always in Balance.

Farmers actually want the "New Century" on account of its many distinctive features, which are briefly: Operator's weight balances gangs, perfectly balanced pole without even so much as a balance lever. Simplicity unequalled—not a lever, spring, ratchet or other nuisance on it. Light on draft, because it weighs less and has draft closer to shovels. Evenness of cultivation, that is, movement does not effect position of gangs. Six shovels, spring break works perfectly in widest or narrowest rows cotton, corn, beans, peanuts, tobacco, potatoes, etc.

Steel Trust Will Not Show Documents

Evidence Has Been Furnished
That Other Important Papers
Have Been Destroyed

PLEAD THAT PAPERS WOULD DISCLOSE PRIVATE BUSINESS

NEW YORK, May 14.—The refusal of the attorneys of the United States Steel corporation to produce certain papers wanted by the government and the discovery that other documents which the corporation was subpoenaed to produce had either been destroyed, or could not be found, furnished the sensation of today's hearing of the government's suit to dissolve the corporation under the Sherman anti-trust act.

The papers which the corporation attorneys refused to produce are two contracts between the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, a subsidiary of the corporation and the American Can company, whereby the can company is alleged to have secured its supply of tin plate at preferential prices. D. C. Ried and Judge William H. Moore, directors of the steel corporation, are also directors of the can company.

"We decline to produce these contracts," announced R. V. Lindabury, chief counsel for the corporation, "on the ground that they disclose the company's private business affairs with one of its customers."

The refusal would stand, Mr. Lindabury stated, until the right of the government to possession of the documents had been ruled upon by the United States circuit court judges, to whom the testimony in the suit would be certified.

The documents destroyed or missing consisted of contracts between the American Tin Plate company and manufacturers of the plate machinery, whereby it is alleged the use of the machinery by competitors of the steel "trusts" subsidiary was prevented; of an alleged five-year contract between the tin plate company and the Sharon Steel company for taking the latter's output and of similar contracts alleged to have been made by the American Steel company, Carlo V. Wheeler, secretary and treasurer of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, who had been subpoenaed to produce the contracts, testified that he himself destroyed the machinery contracts without authority of the board of directors.

When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box from the John L. Wooten Drug Co., and their use as directed relieved me. Senators Simmons Ou Tariff Bills

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8.—Tariff discussion was started in the Senate Tuesday when Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking member on the Finance Committee, fired the opening gun on the metal schedule, which is one of a series of bills which the Senate will be called upon to enact at this session. The bill, which is the same as reported by the Democratic House, reduces the rates on metals and the manufacturing therefrom an average of about 35 per cent to an average of about 25 per cent, and if passed will place these articles upon a revenue basis, but at the same time allows reasonable competition within the zone where foreign competition is not made impossible by transportation cost.

The bill transferred a few articles upon the dutiable list to the free list.

Mr. Simmons was interrupted by Senators on both sides of the chamber frequently, so often in fact that his speech which ordinarily would have been delivered in two hours, was continued the better part of two days. When he had concluded he was warmly congratulated by all of the leading Senators in the Senate, among them being Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Martine, of New Jersey; Stone, of Missouri; and Bacon, of Georgia.

"It is one of the strongest and ablest presentations of the tariff I have ever heard," said Senator Stone.

"The best Democratic tariff speech I have ever heard. It should be printed as a public document and circulated throughout the country," said Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia.

"Senator Simmons speech was the most exhaustive and most enlightening education of the tariff yet made. It is unanswerable for the fellows who want high protection. The statistics given were most complete, yet not burdensome," said Senator Martine, who lives at 229 Starr street, Brooklyn.

"I have been in the Senate a long time and have heard a great many tariff speeches," said Senator Bacon, of Georgia, "but Senator Simmons has made a speech that the Republicans cannot answer."

Senator Cummins, of Iowa, one of the leading Republican progressive Senators and an authority on the tariff said: "It was a very great speech."

From now on the eyes of the country will be upon the Senate. Senator Simmons is leading the fight for the Democrats for the downward revision of the tariff and that he will succeed in his efforts to pass tariff bills through the Senate lowering the duties on high protected articles, no one who knows the distinguished North Carolina statesman doubts. Whether these bills will be signed by the president remains to be seen. But the Democrats, with the assistance of Senator Simmons as leader, will continue to pass such bills through the Senate and then await the result.—News and Observer.
