ROWLETT-JOHNSTON.

The Reflector Family has a Wedding.

(From Wednesday's Reflector)

That brilliant luminary who sits at the head of The Reflector table thought he was wise enough for no one to steal a march on him, but Tuesday night he got left to such extent as to give his bump of conceit a jolt right. He knew some courting was going on under the roof, but did not dream that Cupid was working so fast that a wedding could be done and over before he got on to it. But that is just what happened. Tuesday night about 8:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride on Pitt street, Mr. Clinton B. Rowlett and Miss Nannie E. Johnston were happily married by Rev. C. M. Rock. Mrs. J. L. Carper played the wedding material. Sold in Ayden by us. E. Turnage and Sons Company.

Tobacco Test Farm.

A very special effort is being made to secure the location of the big special test farm in Durham. This is the farm that is to be established by the state of North Carolina and the national government where special tests will be made in the raising of tobacco.

The following special committee has been appointed to select the location: R. W. Scott, chairman; A. T. McCallen and J. L. Burgess. The Garrett farm, only a few miles west of Durham has been offered the committee free by parties in Durham, and the committee has the farm under very serious consideration. The director of the Sun was talking with the chairman and another member of the committee yesterday in Raleigh about the matter and we were assured that Durham was being considered and that the committee appreciated the liberal offer that had been made by the parties in Durham.

We believe that nothing would be of more benefit to our country at this time than this test farm. We are making a special effort to get the farmers to raise more and better tobacco and are trying to increase the sales of tobacco on the Durham market and this farm would add very much in this work.

Out people should unite in this work, and should leave no effort unmade that would go toward securing this test farm.—Durham Sun.

New Century

No Levers. No Springs

Always in Balance.

Farmers actually want the "New" of its many distinctive features, which are briefly: Operator's weight balances gang, perfectly balanced pole without even so much as a balance lever. Simplicity unequalled—not a lever, spring, ratchet or other nuisance on it. Light on draft, because it weighs less and has draft closer to shovels. Evenness of cultivation, that is, movement does not effect position of gangs. Six suels, spring break works perfectly in widest or narrowest rows cotton, corn, beans, peanuts, tobacco, potatoes, etc.

We also sell the celebrated New John Deere Walking Cultivator, the best and most satisfactory walking cultivator on the market. When in need of anything in the hardware line be sure to see us.

Chicago, June 13.—The Roosevelt forces met their second defeat in the Republican national convention today in a session which had for its outstanding feature a remarkable demonstration of nearly an hour's duration in honor of Governor Herbert S. Hadley, of Missouri.

All of the Roosevelt delegates joined in this demonstration, while some of the Taft states left a voice. The ovation to the Missouri executive was quickly interrupted by many of the delegates as the possible forerunner of a boom for Hadley for president. One enthusiastic Pennsylvanian jumped to the stage and called, "Three cheers for Hadley, the next President of the United States."

Governor Hadley led the fight on the convention floor today to out 92 contested Taft delegates and to seat 32 Roosevelt men in their places. The convention finally refused to entertain the motion by a vote of 564 to 519.

This transferred the fight to the committee on credentials, appointed just before the convention adjourned until tomorrow noon.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 13.—At 10 o'clock an hour before the convention time, less than 200 spectators were in the hall and but eight of the delegates seats were occupied. James D. Preston, in charge of the press section of the convention hall, came in with a big bundle of mail.

"The Coliseum postmaster wanted me to help him set the newspaper press mail," he said. "It's all for one reporter, William Jennings Bryan."

Soon after Chairman Root had arrived on the platform he was flanked on one side by Governor Hadley, the Roosevelt leader and on the other side by James Watson, of the Taft forces.

Chairman Root finally pounded the table with his gavel at 11:15 a. m. and ordered the sergeant at arms to clear the aisles.

Then pounding on the table, Root announced:

FERRELL - MITCHELL WEDDING

St. Paul's in Kinston Scene of Brilliant Ceremony

One of the most prominent marriage ceremonies and one which aroused the liveliest interest in social circles in different cities in the state, took place last night in Kinston, when Miss Hazel Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. R. A. Mitchell of that town, became the bride of Mr. E. Vernon Ferrell of Winston-Salem.

The ceremony which was perhaps the most brilliant wedding function ever witnessed in this part of the state took place in the Episcopal church of St. Paul, E. King street, Rev. J. H. Griffith officiating.

The interior of the church was beautifully and lavishly decorated with palms and a profusion of natural flowers, the erection of three floral arches directly before the altar completing a scheme of floral decoration as has seldom been seen. Although the time set aside for the ceremony was 8:30 guests began to arrive at the church long before that hour and when a few minutes after the appointed time, the bridal party entered, the church was filled to its capacity.

At the organ, which was almost hidden behind a miniature garden of palms and ferns, Miss Jessie Wilson presided. As a prelude Mrs. L. K. Wooten sang "Because," the sweetness of her voice and the happy selection of the song being most fitting to the surroundings.

A few minutes after 8:30 the ushers, Messrs. Courtney Mitchell and Lloyd LaRoque extended the bridal carpet and to the strains of Tanboeurs' "Here comes the Bride" the party of bridesmaids composed of Misses Lottie Camdy, Sussie Perry, Annie Turner and Lova Ferrell, beautifully attired in white Valenciennes dresses with pink silk and gauze trains and holding gorgeous bouquets of sweet peas, solemnly marched up the aisle and took their positions on the steps fronting the altar. The maids of honor, Miss Iris Mitchell and Mrs. Courtney Mitchell as well as the matron of honor, Mrs. S. C. Citterson, becomingly attired in white, long train gowns and carrying magnificent bouquets of white roses, followed. Little Miss Louise Best acted as flower girl whilst Master D. Mitchell seriously undertook the task of ring bearer.

The bride beautifully attired in Miss Iris Mitchell assisted by Mr. L. LaRoque in the main hall. Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Mitchell with their best man, Mr. D. A. Mitchell, were met at the steps by the groom who entered from the vestry accompanied by his brother, Mr. J. W. Ferrell, the best man.

The groomsmen were Messrs. H. Turner, Marshall Ferrell, C. A. Walker, and C. Bailey.

The wedding ceremony itself, as performed by Rev. J. H. Griffith, imposing as it was with its solemn tones and promises exchanged, was one of the prettiest ever witnessed, and in the hush that followed the bridal procession to the altar the answers given by the contracting couple were audible all over the church.

From the church the bridal party and guests were driven in automobiles, a 4 car cavalcade to the magnificent home of the bride's mother on Mitchell avenue, where a reception was held until about 11 o'clock. Receiving the guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Citterson, who introduced them to Col. and Mrs. W. D. Pollock. On the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ferrell, the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ferrell, parents of the groom, Mr. Mitchell, the bride's mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ferrell, Miss Annie Turner, Mr. Marshall Ferrell, Miss Lova Ferrell, Mr. C. A. Walker, Mr. S. Bailey, Mr. J. W. Ferrell and Master William Ferrell of Richmond; Mr. C. A. Walker of Winston-Salem; Miss Lova Ferrell of Winston-Salem.

DEM. CONVENTION LONG DRAWN AFFAIR

Politicians Expect A Full Week Will Be Consumed

AS DID ST. LOUIS CONVENTION

Injection of Fifth Candidate to a Certain Extent is Responsible for Change in Conditions in Baltimore Gathering.

BALTIMORE, June 19.—If one is to judge from the gossip heard in the hotel lobbies among the prominent politicians and leading newspaper men of this country the Democratic convention is to be a long drawn out affair, lasting probably until Sunday as was the case in St. Louis in 1908 when the final details were not arranged until long after midnight Sunday morning.

It can be stated upon good authority that the Underwood forces are confident that New York's 90 votes will go to the Alabamian by the time the third ballot rolls around. The Speaker, Clark and Governor Wilson will have more votes on the first ballot than any other presidential aspirant, and that both will lose strength after these first two or three ballots few people in a position to know now doubt. Both Clark and Wilson supporters have been dickering with Murphy for the Empire State's delegation. That they have received little encouragement from the Tammany leader, is not disputed even by so great a leader as Senator Bill Stone, Clark's chief mainstay in the campaign.

There is a well grounded rumor afloat here that New York will alternate in its vote for arnson and Underwood after it shall have cast a complimentary vote for Mayor Gaynor, until something like a definite idea of the respective strength of the candidates is obtained by the New York convention. In other words Murphy's game is to feed out the convention by switching alternately from Gaynor, arnson and Underwood.

Delightful punch was served by Miss Iris Mitchell assisted by Mr. L. LaRoque in the main hall. Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Mitchell with their best man, Mr. D. A. Mitchell, were met at the steps by the groom who entered from the vestry accompanied by his brother, Mr. J. W. Ferrell, the best man.

Wants Contract With City For 24 Years

LEXINGTON, June 19.—Col. H. B. Varner, president of the North Carolina Good Roads Association announced today that the annual convention of the association will be held August 1 and 2 instead of July 25 and 26, as announced from Chapel Hill. This change is ordered by Colonel Varner because of the delay in the city and he has begun his investigations. The present contract of the water company with the city expires in 1918 and it is the wish of the Durham Water Company, in asking for a new contract that in consideration of expending an amount of approximately $150,000 in improving the present system, the city extending their contract for a period of 24 years, beyond the limit of the present agreement. The new contract provides for the same rate as now exists. The new contract gives the city the power to purchase the Durham Water Company plant with in every ten years.

Carried Booze in Trousers Leg.

Durham Herald.

When the police searched Tom Dorton, a one-legged man, who along with five other white men were arrested for gambling early Sunday morning, they found that the man who had lost his limb was using the empty trouser leg as an itinerant bar room. The man had his leg cut off just below the hip and had tied the empty half of his trousers at the knee and above this he had crammed quart bottle of whiskey and a number of small bottles. The police relieved him of this burden, and he, along with his companions were placed in the guard house to await a hearing on the charge of gambling.

Prince and Princess of Teck
Open a London Exposition

THE Princes of Teck derive their chief importance from their alliances with royalty. The title of Duke of Teck, held by the head of the family, was conferred by the King of Württemberg upon his first cousin in 1870. That duke married a daughter of the Duke of Cambridge, a first cousin of Queen Victoria, and his daughter, Princess Mary of Teck, is now queen of England. His third son, Prince Alexander, married Princess Alice of Albany, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. Like other royalties and near royalties, the prince and princess are in demand for such show occasions as the laying of cornerstones and the opening of exhibitions. The accompanying photograph was made when the couple officiated at the recent opening of the Latin-British exposition in London.

FARMERS UNION PLAN SYSTEMATIC CAMPAIGN

The Farmers' Union has laid plans for a definite and systematic campaign and will prosecute the plan vigorously all over the state. Mr. W. C. Crosby has been appointed state educational agent, this office having recently been created in keeping with the policy of the National Farmers' Union.

A conference was held a few days ago between Dr. H. Q. Alexander, president of the state union; Dr. J. Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction, State Educational Agent W. C. Crosby, W. A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. Hudson and Prof. I. O. Schaub of the state department of agriculture. Business Agent Rives, of Sanford, and Mr. Bivens, in charge of the teachers training classes.

These gentlemen conferred as to plans for furthering the education interests to the rural population particularly, the conference having been called at the instance of the Farmers' Union. The statewide importance of the conference is realized when it is reflected how many of these are state officers. A mutual understanding plans for furthering the educational in what is needed in the way of advancing rural education.

The State educational department of the Farmers' Union will devote its attention to the few definite propositions rather than scatter its energies in an indefinite way upon the vast multitude of things that need to be done to improve the country schools. These propositions are stated in a platform prepared by State Educational Agent W. C. Crosby. They are as follows:

1. We will promote the teaching of agriculture and domestic science in the country schools. This will be done not only the theoretical class work, but by fostering the corn club and tomato club, the sewing club and the cooking club.

2. We will strive to secure more adequate supervision of the smaller country schools. This is not intended as a criticism of the big-hearted men who have accomplished so much under the present inadequate system of supervision.

3. We will plead for better pay for our country teachers in order that they may better equip themselves for the work.

4. We will advocate the holding of an annual Farm-Life Institute for county teachers in every county of the state. These may be held in connection with the regular teachers' institutes, or independent of them, or, perhaps, in many counties in lieu of them.

5. We will not rest until we shall have secured for our country schools, our country farm-life institutes, and our A. and M. College institution in practical co-operative marketing and direct distribution of farm products.

6. We hope to secure such changes in our present country farm-life school law, as will better adapt it to existing conditions.

In attempting to put this program in operation, we have no idea of antagonizing any of the agencies that are doing such splendid work for our country people. We ask only to be admitted to the work as a trusted ally.

In conclusion, it shall be our constant aim to help bring country children better opportunities for both general and vocational training to give them not only the things to embellish the mind and above all, the things that will make country life more livable and more remunerative. We appeal to every countryman, be he farmer, teacher or preacher, to help in this the greatest work undertaken by the Farmers' Union.

Patronally,
W. C. CROSBY,
State Educational Agent,
Charlotte, N. C.

THE SOURCE OF THE SOUTH'S PROSPERITY

Agriculture, climate, minerals, timber, manufacturers and position, constitute the South's sources of prosperity. Agriculture is a volume to itself and has a literature of its own. Modern methods are gradually making the yields larger. Historically, this has been brought about by the course of events. From colonial days, after the question of labor was settled by the introduction of "blackamoors" by the thrifty shipowners of the New England ports, the Southern planter held a position of his own. Land was easily acquired and with careless impudence of soil, crops were produced. The negroes knew nothing of soil analysis or soil exhaustion. Their foremen or overseers knew nothing more and as land was worn out, more land was cleaned up by denuding it of the native forests.

It was living on principal and accumulating neither interest nor sinking fund. Political events extinguished the system. Then came the next question as to the most practical method of improving existing conditions. The new owners who dealt with this many-sized problems had as a rule, little capital. Land had largely changed hands. Some by deaths consequent to war, some by foreclosure of debts that war had prevented being cared for. Consequently the new owner had relatively few acres. He had to make them yield and with limited capital and labor conditions absolutely revolutionized. He had no easy task. He had to learn a new business. Scientific fertilization on the hands of the South had its start then. It has received considerable impetus from the discovery of natural supplies of natural phosphate in South Carolina, Florida and Tennessee. A somewhat myopic decision of the German authorities seemed to have made the necessary potash for the soil impossible by prohibitive cost, but it was a blessing, though very much disguised for the home sources are being investigated and with most unexpectedly flattering results. With proper fertilization, drainage, and, in a word scientific farming the conditions are improving and will continue to improve.

Next as to climate. All this is covered by carefully recorded government statistics that nothing new could be suitably added to their figures, unless possibly the suggestions, that the horse never gets its full symmetrical development unless under special conditions of herbage. The states of Tennessee and Kentucky have the soil and the exact humidity to bring the native grasses to such perfection as to develop the horse. And it is more the climate than the feed, for with entirely different feed but at its highest luxuriance, the Arabian horse has been quoted as perfection of the animal. So, further east, though less known, is the island of Timor in the eastern seas, where the same or similar conditions have produced similar results. And California is in the same belt.

The reasons for introducing these facts here is that owing to climate conditions, food is easily produced, labor is not exorbitant and these are valuable assets in the growth of the South.

Minerals again, with coal, iron, copper, zinc, lead, bauxite, phosphate rock, potash marls, clays, dolomites and a dozen more, development is certain and it has largely arrived. At Ducktown, Tenn., the cheapest copper in the world is produced and at Birmingham, Ala., the producing price of steel is lower than elsewhere, even in competition with the cheap labor of Germany. Timber is here in the South in wonderful abundance and with the scientific conservation now being installed, the timber acreage can produce the needs of the United States. Of course it would not so be diverted. To choose an illustrative but extreme example, it would not pay to send pine from Alabama into Oregon, but it can be safely left for each district to supply its own needs, as far as it can and buy what it requires from the cheapest and nearest shipping point.

THE SOUTH SHOULD RAISE MORE LIVE STOCK

That the working man must be fed is a subject that few would dispute, and he, the least of all. The land affords corn and the corn produces the animal. The ease of conversion and the fact that the hog is self-supporting for a large part of the year has rather led the South into too much hog and hominy. However, rich and succulent these products are, physicians tell us that a mixed diet is more healthful to the human animal than any exclusive selection, so it is valuable information to know that the quantity of food animals in the country is on the increase. With the natural wild grasses of the South there should be every where the sight of cattle in a thousand hills. Where cattle are pastured in that way, occasionally staked and kept from wandering too far, they come in, in the fall more than half fat and in a splendid condition to add the two months rest and corn ration demanded for market. Surely the South should reap some of the affluence awaiting this industry. The following government figures as to live stock, are interesting:

The live stock receipts at the seven principal western markets, namely, Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Sioux City, as the department of commerce and labor in April, 1912, were greater than those of any April since 1907. Furthermore, the aggregate receipts of live stock at these seven markets during the four months of the present year were greater by far, than during the same four months of any year during the past decade; the receipts of April as well as those of March and February, having however, been somewhat less than those of January which in April, 1912, which include cattle, were unusually large. The receipts calves, hogs, sheep horses and mules, were 2,238,600 head, a gain of over 3 1/2 per cent when compared with 3,123,928 head received in April, 1911 and of nearly 45 per cent when compared with 2,234,907 head received in April, 1910. The total receipts of these markets during the four months of the present year were 15,123,769 head, an increase of 13 1/2 per cent over the receipts during the same period in 1911 and 40 per cent over those in 1910.

The value of the aggregate exports of domestic meat products in April 1912, was $12,732,643. In April, 1911, it was $12,955,514. The value of these exports for the ten months of the present fiscal year, shows a marked increase, namely, $128,859,112 as compared with $117,220,568 during the same period of the preceding fiscal year.

There is big money in live stock. There is food for thought in the above figures for Southern farmers. It may be added that cottonseed and corn form a better fattening ration than either above.

About every change of the moon there comes another account of Texas trying to get released from the asylum. Of course the Chicago convention was not complete without the presence of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth (Miss Alice) to try to smile votes for father.

Editorial of Human Interest

Part II. THE unknown frightens us. And often the greater and more unveiled the greater the fright and the truth the more.

The steam locomotive was not small poor stage-coach drivers out to work and send them to the poorhouse. As a matter of fact, it gave work to tens of thousands more than had work before and at higher wages. The spinning Jenny and every other device for clothing human beings better and more cheaply met with hatred and suspicion. It was necessary to operate the new machines in factories built like forts. For again stupidity was frightened by the unknown thought that the machine would diminish the amount of work. Instead of that, the number of workers has multiplied by thousands—and again for better pay.

Even at this day a new machine that saves labor is greeted with hatred and the suspicion of the unknown. Workmen that should know better, forgetting that every labor-saving device increases the general wealth and benefits the world against, oppose the new idea and fight against the unknown. The sewing machine freed millions of women from the slavery of the needle in its most stiring form. The sewing machine gave clothing to millions that hadn't it before, lengthened the lives and multiplied the power of all the mothers in the world. But it was hated and opposed because women thought that it would deprive poor women of a living—the first inventor of the sewing machine was persuaded to break his model and abandon his idea.

Now that machine, run by electric power, does the most painful work women do. And where formerly they stitched, slowly, with breaking backs and tired heads, one stitch at a time they now guide the cloth before the flying needle, and can make one thousand stitches where formerly they made but one.

Not only in the material world but more especially in the abstract world of ideas and speculation the unknown is feared. Looked upon with suspicion by those that are called educated, looked upon with hatred by ignorance. Those that call themselves educated look upon the mystery of the unknown, and upon all effort to solve the mysterious, with suspicion and contempt. And the ignorant see in new ideas only that which is hateful and dangerous. It is difficult to believe, but it is true.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

PIZARRO. THREE hundred seventy-one years ago this day Francisco Pizarro, conqueror of Peru, breathed his last with considerable abruptness as the result of being assassinated in the jugular vein by some people with whom he was not on good terms. Pizarro was a discoverer of Bilboa, who established quite a reputation by annexing the Pacific ocean before anybody knew where it was, but as Columbus and Cortes had discovered all of the known world which had not been laid out in town lots he decided to conquer Peru. Pizarro was one of the hardest men to do business with that ever came to this country. He had a very cruel temper, when from pleasure to anger he would never thaw out or permitted a fleeting smile to locate on his title page until after he had strangled somebody with whom he was not on rapport. Pizarro did not conquer Peru with a shoe string, but found it necessary to kill a large number of men and women and to burn the word about any member of his family. The ruling sovereign of Peru at this time had the keys to the royal mint in his hip pocket. This gentleman took a violent dislike to Pizarro because he could not read or write and kept talking about the demonization of silver. Pizarro gave a stag dinner at his house one day and invited the Inca and his staff to sit in. Then after dinner, while his guests were idly turning the pages of the photograph album, Pizarro had everybody shot down but the Inca, whom he took prisoner. Pizarro treated the Inca with great leniency. He gave him his choice between being strangled to death in front of the county jail or being set on fire and consumed, together with all of his contents. After reading upon the matter a little and conferring with relatives who had witnessed one or two of Pizarro's incendiary confagurations, the Inca chose the former route as being the more direct, and soon after said good-bye to this world in a voice choked with emotion and a hemp rope. Pizarro then had himself elected governor on a reform ticket and tapped the Peruvian treasury with so much animation that the inhabitants revolted from pleasure to anger and decided to retire him from circulation. Pizarro, however, made some witty remark about the Peruvian bark being worse than his bite and cremated a few more natives. But his doom was at hand. At noon of June 26, 1541, he was wrapped in slumber and a party of Peruvian peasants, who had been set upon by thirteen vindictive inhabitants, who took turns in opening crevices in his physique. Pizarro's death did not cause anybody to go into mourning, and Peru has been trying to forget him ever since.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON

"The Most Available Democrat."

Can Win With Wilson. Senator Gore, who is a delegate at large from Oklahoma to the Baltimore convention, said: "The announcement of the World in favor of Governor Wilson is a great accession to the Governor's strength, not only on account of the World's influence, but because it is an index to the thoughts and feelings and probable action of a most influential section of the press of the United States. If Wilson is nominated, the independent press of the country will support him more generously than any other Democratic aspirant. The independent vote generally turns the scales in favor of the successful candidate. This will be preeminently true in the pending campaign. Any Democratic nominee will, of course, secure that large and invaluable vote that is always loyal to the ticket. The several candidates have an equal title to this vote, but this is not sufficient to insure success. Underwood is stronger in the east than Clark, but Wilson is as strong or stronger in the east than Underwood. Clark is stronger in the west than Underwood, but Wilson is as strong or stronger in the west than Clark. He is stronger with the independent vote everywhere than either of them. He will be stronger with the disaffected Republican vote, whose tribe the Lord seems to be increasing than either Underwood or Clark. In the last four campaigns, the best principles, the best causes and the best candidates and everything else excepting votes and I might add, campaign funds.

"Wilson is neither radical nor erratic. He is neither as revolutionary as Roosevelt nor as reactionary as Taft. He is at once animated and restrained by the spirit of rational progress. He will appeal to the common sense of the American people and suit a larger number of individual voters than any other candidate on any other ticket. "We ought to nominate a man who can secure the requisite vote and guarantee a united and triumphant Democracy."

Special Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Fear that the ravage of tuberculosis and trachoma diseases that now are rapidly dealing the ranks of the Indian tribes will eventually contaminate the whole nation, is expressed by Martin J. Bentley, a recognized authority on the Indian subject. Mr. Bentley is in Washington for the purpose of interesting the authorities in a drastic campaign to eradicate these diseases among the red men and to help the Indian generally.

Mr. Bentley makes the startling statement that of the two hundred and fifty thousand Indians in this country at least thirty thousand are afflicted with tuberculosis and that in some of the tribes the entire population is suffering from the disease. He says, old ladies and old men, Trachoma. This situation demands prompt action on the part of the authorities, he says, for unless these diseases are mastered the whole nation is liable to become afflicted with the maladies.

Bentley bases his statements on figures obtained from the government records, recognized private authorities on the subject and from his personal observations made on the Indian reservations.

According to the records obtained by the Indian bureau, during the fiscal year 1911, fifteen thousand and ninety-two cases of tuberculosis were treated by physicians paid and detailed to the Indian reservations by the government. In addition the records of the bureau show that in 1911 there were nine hundred and sixty-one deaths from the white plague among the Indians.

These records do not include the five civilized tribes which constitute one-fourth of the Indian population of the United States, nor the infected members of other tribes not coming within the jurisdiction and treatment of the Indian office physicians.

It is declared by Bentley that those who have made a study of the subject have estimated that thirty thousand is a very conservative figure as to the number of tubercularly affected Indians. He says that the harmful consequences of their association with the white population are almost incalculable.

This alarming condition among the red men, according to Bentley, is due to natural causes. He points out that it was disclosed in testimony recently adduced before the House Committee on Expenditures in the Interior Department, that the principal cause of these diseases was the poverty of the Indians. It was shown, he said, that the Indians were neither well housed, closed or fed and the full-blood, or timber. Indians in some localities had become sordid that their food consisted chiefly of rabbits, roots and bark.

It is the opinion of Bentley that the Indian people in many instances are suffering for want of the necessities of life and are not receiving sufficient substitute to keep their bodies in a healthy condition. For this reason, he states, they are in no physical condition to withstand these dreaded scourges.

Bentley asserts that the Indian is in fact the victim of a relentless paternalism which deprives him of his own freedom and utterly crushes out of him any possible incentive or inspiration necessary to the success of any kind of man.

Bentley is among the many persons who are conducting a campaign for a more liberal treatment of the Indian of the United States.

New Century

No Levers. No Springs Always in Balance

Farmers actually want the "New" of many distinctive features, which are briefly: Operator's weight balances gangs, perfectly balanced pole without even so much as a balance lever. Simplicity un-equaled—not a lever, spring, ratchet or other nuisance on it. Light on draft, because it weighs less and has draft closer to shovels. Evenness of cultivation, that is, movement does not effect position of gangs. Six shovels, spring break works perfectly in widest or narrowest rows cotton, corn, beans, peanuts, tobacco, potatoes, etc.

Learn more about this cultivator. Fifty of the best farmers in Pitt county using this cultivator. Call and let us demonstrate to you its many distinctive features. We also sell the celebrated New John Deere Walking Cultivator, the best and most satisfactory walking cultivator on the market. When in need of anything in the hardware line be sure to see us. ### Special Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The junior senator from Nevada, the Hon. George Wingfield!

To the old pals and partners of George Wingfield who banded with him, froze with him, starved with him and gambled with him when there was anything to gamble for, in the early days of the Klondike this will seem a strange distinction and designation as well as the friends and associates who shared his bad luck and his good luck on his little more than a decade ago when he broke in Nevada.

All of the members of "I-Knew-him-when-Club" from Bull Frog to Nome can tell a score of incidents in the life of George Wingfield when a ticket for a plate of "ham and" in any "Dirty Spoon" restaurant meant more to him than the credentials to membership in the United States Senate do now. But it may also be said that probably not one of the thousands who have known Wingfield since he began his career envied him, his fortune, nor will regret his appointment to the United States senate.

George Wingfield, of Tonopah, is the successor of his friend and business partner, the late Senator George S. Nixon in the United States senate, by reason of his appointment by Gov. Tasker L. Oddie of that state. Of all the statesmen, near statesmen, would-be statesmen and others of the nondescript who have held seats in the upper branch of the national legislature there is none to whom George Wingfield can be compared. He is in a class by himself. If ever there was a real soldier of fortune, George Wingfield is that man.

Only 28 years of age, and with only one member of the Senate, Senator Lea of Tennessee—youthier than himself, Sen. Wingfield is one of the wealthiest men in that body, yet a dozen years ago he was obliged to borrow money to get into Tonopah and when he landed there if he had been obliged to pay a week's board in advance at the Merchants Hotel, the Waldorf-Astoria of Tonopah, he could not have done so had his life depended upon it. Today he is worth ten millions, twenty millions or perhaps thirty millions. In fact, it would be difficult to estimate his fortune with any degree of accuracy for he is impossible to determine the value of his immense mining properties.

From Death Valley to Alaska, George Wingfield is known, but outside of those interested in mining properties his reputation has not extended far East. Now that he has become a national figure, there will be any number of stories told of him. Some of these will be true, others will be exaggerations, but almost any that may be related will contain some grain of truth. If all of his experiences were recounted they would fill an interesting volume.

When Sen. Nixon, a former telegraph operator and afterwards a banker and man of moderate prosperity but not immense wealthy came to the senate many stories were told of how he made his fortune of millions in mining speculations, but little was said of the fact that it was George Wingfield who enabled him to make that fortune. When Nixon first met Wingfield he was not a man of large means. It was through Wingfield that he made his great wealth.

George Wingfield was a Klondyker in the early days of Alaskan gold mining, but that part of his adventuresome life may be passed by, although it was filled with thrilling experiences, for his career does not begin until he struck Tonopah.

The story they tell out in Tonopah is that one day about twelve years ago George Wingfield, having failed to win a fortune in Alaska, found himself flat broke in Winnemucca, a little Nevada town, on the Union Pacific, about midway between the Utah line and Reno. Only a short time before the little burro of a shiftless prospector had kicked over a ledge of rock near where his owner had mined flat broke in Winnemucca. The wife of the prospector had taken the rock to be assayed and it showed a wonderful prospect. The news of the discovery had spread through the sage bush state in that mysterious way which news of strikes travels in that section and there was a rush for the new camp.

George Wingfield always ready to take a chance, wanted to join the procession, but he had no money. The only thing of value which he possessed was a ring with a huge diamond bought in the days of his ephemeral prosperity. He took it to the only bank in Winnemucca and throwing it down upon the counter before President George S. Nixon, he asked for a loan of $60. Nixon replied that he was not in the pawn broker business but young Wingfield was so earnest and his appearance so honest that he finally agreed to lend him money enough to get to Tonopah. That act made him George Wingfield's friend, it made him a fortune and it made him a United States senator.

When Wingfield reached Tonopah, a wild camp of about 4000 men and a wild camp of a hundred tents he had something like $20. The journey had been made partly by narrow gauge road and partly by mule team. It is said that Wingfield's first experience in Tonopah was to sit in a miner's poker game, where fortune favored him. Next, in company with an old pal from the Klondike, he set up a roulette table. On the first night of operation the bank was enriched by some $1500.

That was George Wingfield's start on the road to fortune and to the United States Senate. Next, he opened up the Tonopah Club which came to be the most famous resort in Nevada. Money rolled into Wingfield's till, and it rolled out again. For every prospector who came along without means was grubstaked by George Wingfield. Scores of them went from the Tonopah Club staking claims in all of which Wingfield had an interest. Not all of them developed mines but many of them did and it was not long before Wingfield was on the high road to fortune.

Wingfield made Nixon his partner and shared with him his good fortune. Within two years Wingfield was a millionaire; now he is many times a millionaire. It was Wingfield who always took the chance; it was Nixon whose business judgment prevailed when the chance had been taken. Always ready to take a hand in a game, to speculate, Wingfield in the same spirit decided to take a chance on the United States Senate when Governor Oddie offered him the appointment.

Modest and unassuming, young Wingfield makes no vulgar display of his wealth. He knows as well as any man what hard lines are. He is everybody's friend, and hundreds have shared his property. Unquestionably he is the most popular man in Nevada and if he likes the game of politics, it is possible that he can remain in the Senate as long as he wishes. Heretofore, politics have never troubled him, and his political convictions have not been strong, but having been appointed by a Republican Governor to succeed a Republican, he will doubtless, "take a chance" and act with that party.

It is comforting for South Carolinians to reflect that the job has a life-sized man on it.

Parker's Speech Keynote Interrupted By Scenes of Disorder—Session Adjourned

TOTAL ABSENCE OF POLICE FORCE FROM HALL MARKED

BALTIMORE, June 25.—W. J. Bryan lost his fight for progressive control of the Democratic National Convention today when he was defeated for temporary chairman of the Convention by Alton B. Parker.
Mr. Bryan first nominated Senator Kern to oppose Parker. The latter declined the honor and named Mr. Bryan to make the fight. The Nebraska made an eloquent plea for the cause he had been representing for sixteen years, but it was unavailing.
The debate preceding the roll call threw the convention into wild disorder. The vote on a roll call was: Parker 579; Bryan 506.

On motion of Luke Lea, of Tennessee: "Our candidates, however, are wish-people the world over has been materially checked by the disgraceful bribery which terminated in the bedlam of Chicago. Every good citizen has been put to shame by the brutality and abuse which characterized the wrangle between a President and an ex-president. Gratitude, friendship, party loyalty, patriotic manhood common decency forgotten in the tussle."
The crowds wearying by long delay began leaving the galleries and there was great disorder as Judge Parker sought to proceed.
Owing to the great disorder and the manifest weariness of the delegates and spectators Representative Fitzgerald's motion to adjourn was carried at 3:47 with a whoop.

BALTIMORE, June 25.—After the LEADER OF TAMMANY.
BALTIMORE, June 26, 1:05 P. M.—Second convention day fair and called to order at 12:20 o'clock. A motion to adjourn till night was defeated. Governor Bryan's presence with the Virginia delegates and August Belmont and others are regarded as very significant.
The Wilson people attempted to look on the bright side tonight but the New Jersey man's chances are somewhat eclipsed by Parker's choice although Wilson people claim the vote was not indicative.
Clark seems to be leading tonight. L. L. Smith, E. F. Aydtlett, W. A. Finch, A. S. Roscoe, R. B. White, A. Murphy support.
Bryan is probably L. Cox, J. B. Ramsey, A. W. Graham, out of the running although always V. S. Bryant, C. Hayes, O. L. Clark, D. E. Melver, R. S. Young, W. A. Some predicted that if an untainted

BRYAN DENOUNCES MONEY INFLUENCES IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, June 25.—William J. Bryan accepted the challenge of battle and went down to defeat at the hands of the conservatives—Ryan, Sullivan Mack Tugart alliance—today, when Alton B. Parker was chosen as temporary chairman.
The battle was plainly a Bryan-Wilson affair against the combine. Many of the same influences are working here that defeated Roosevelt at Chicago, except Bryan charged they were more brazen.

Wilson Implicitly Believes in Commoner's Sincerity

SEA GIRT, N. J., June 25.—Over the telephone today Governor Wilson directed from his cottage here the fight which his supporters have declared they would make against the election of Alton B. Parker as temporary chairman of the democratic national convention.
The governor was in constant communication with his leaders.
Do you think Mr. Bryan is a candidate for the nomination, he was asked. I believe that Mr. Bryan is acting from conviction in true devotion to the cause of progress and without any selfish ulterior motives whatever, he replied.

KLONGIKE RUSH ON TICKETS

Many Disappointments Over Inability of Thousands of People to Gain Admittance into Hall Where 20,000 Persons Feverish Watch.

(By D. J. Wheeler.)
Baltimore woke up in a rain Tuesday morning, and it gave delegates and visitors even further excuse, if any was needed for turning out late. When they were in shape for moving everything turned toward the convention hall, which was in the large armory building with seating capacity of 20,000. The appeal for tickets had been something phenomenal, and thousands who had been unable to get the coveted long strip of pastebored coupons, or even part of one, followed in the direction of the armory anyway in the hope that something might turn up which would give them an opportunity of getting on the inside. But it was no go, for the convention zone was laid off with ropes for a block in each direction from the hall and no one was permitted to pass through the ropes without first showing his ticket to a policeman. Thus the crowd was kept back from blocking the entrances against those who had the "password." And it seems that there were never so many policemen. They were everywhere, in bunches of two and three along every avenue of approach, and around every entrance to the immense coliseum.

THREATEN TO CLOSE NAVY YARDS

Unless Funds For Their Upkeep Are Forthcoming

THOUSANDS MUST LEAVE WORK

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Employees of all the United States Navy Yards in the country to the number of 20,000 or more, will be laid off July 1, unless Congress makes a provision for payment of their wages.
This announcement was made by Acting Secretary of the Navy Wintrop at the White House today.
Every navy yard in the United States will remain closed next Monday morning and all civil employes therein will be laid off without pay unless Congress tomorrow passes a resolution extending the appropriation for the current year.
Acting Secretary Wintrop is making ready to telegraph and cable this order to the remote Cavite naval station in the Philippines.
The great navy yard with its 4,000 employed will be hit hard, for the law offices of the navy department have decided that the law prohibiting the acceptance of volunteer service by the government, except to save human life or prevent the destruction of government property will apply to that and all other yards.
The same situation will obtain as to the vast river and harbor projects of the War Department. The only exception of this closing order will probably be the civil employes in the executive departments in Washington and those in the custom houses, and postoffices elsewhere. To preserve government property a few caretakers will be retained.
William Jennings Bryan took platform and presented name of John W. Kern, of Indiana, for temporary chairman. He reserved the right of assumption by the national committee to name the temporary chairman. His speech was filled with enthusiasm, especially from the spectators. In the midst of his speech the hall took up the cry of Parker that drowned him for a while. After him John W. Kern himself took the stand, urged harmony and declining to be presented for temporary chairman. Bryan again spoke expressing a willingness to support any good progressive or that he would accept the temporary chairmanship himself. Theodore Bell, of California spoke in behalf of Judge Parker, and said he did not see wherein Parker's democracy had undergone such change in four years that Mr. Bryan and cheering. Every time cheering died in any part of the hall the crowd sprang up to see the cause.
It was 12:15 when Chairman Norcross was interrupted with clamor and noise, rapped for order but it took several minutes of intermittent rapping to bring quiet enough for his voice to be heard, and not until fifteen minutes later could the official call for the convention be read. This was followed with the opening prayer by Cardinal Gibbons.
Chairman Mack was then about to make some announcement but the tumult would not quiet for some minutes.
