GENERAL BOOTH DIED IN LONDON Salvation Army Head Peacefully Asleep HAD BEEN AILING FOR YEARS Probable Successor of Earnest Social Worker is His Eldest Son. Whole World Mourns Booth's Death LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Rev. William Booth, general and commander in chief of the Salvation Army, passed away at 10.15 tonight. He was born in Nottingham in 1829. The veteran Salvation Army leader was unconscious for forty eight hours previous to his death. The medical bulletins had not revealed the serious nature of the general's condition, which for a week past, was hopeless. Twelve years ago General Booth underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract in his left eye. For two days after the operation indications justified the hope of the general's recovery. Then, however, septic poisoning set in and from that time, with the exception of occasional rallies, the patient's health steadily declined. The general recognized that the end was near and often spoke of his work as being finished. Throughout the commander in chief's illness his son, Bramwell Booth, chief of staff of the army and Mrs. Bramwell Booth, gave their undivided attention to him both night and day. The aged evangelist died at his residence, the Brookstone, Hadlowood, some eight miles from London, where he had been confined to his bed ever since the operation. Public interest now centers in the question of a successor to the late commander. Under the constitution of the Salvation Army the general nominates his successor. That General Booth did several years ago, placing the names in a sealed envelope which was deposited with the Salvation Army's lawyers with instructions that it should not be opened until after his death. While nobody knows what name the envelope encloses, the general belief among the Salvation Army is that it will prove to be of Bramwell Booth, who for 30 years has been its chief of staff. Where General Booth will be buried has not yet been decided. While every English member of the Salvation Army is convinced that no man was more worthy of interment in Westminster Abbey, it is not expected this honor will be awarded to General Booth by the Abbey authorities. It is the general belief that the commander in chief's last resting place will be along side that of his wife, who 21 years ago was buried in Abney park, Stoke Newington.

Mr. C. S. Carr is already in receipt of the plans of the new building. When this building is completed Greenville will have further occasion to be proud of the Greenville Banking and Trust Company and the directors of this institution will have something to show for their faithful labor.

"The Search for Fairyland" In Central Park, New York LIEUT. G. BECKER CHARGED WITH MURDER FORMER STRONG ARM SQUAD HEAD FORMALLY INQUAD BY THE GRAND JURY DATE OF TRIAL NOT SET AS YET NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A blanket indictment charging murder in the first degree was returned by the grand jury late this afternoon against Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and four gangsters in connection with the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Letty Louis, Whitey Lewis, Dago Frank and Gyp the Blood. Schepps was again the central figure in the Rosenthal murder case to day when he appeared before the grand jury to repeat the story he told District Attorney Whitman in which he corroborated in many essential details the confession of Jack Rose, implicating Police Lieutenant Becker in the killing of the East Side gambler, Herman Rosenthal. It was this story of Schepps that Mr. Whitman desired the grand jury to hear before returning further indictments in the Rosenthal case. Schepps's counsel, Bernard Sanders, declared that while his client was in the grand jury room that the grand jury would make a clean breast of everything. Other witnesses examined today were the clerk of a hotel at Far Rock away, where the gunman celebrated after the shooting and a photographer who made a group picture of them there. Detective Casazza testified in regard to the police hunt for the murder suspects. Charles S. Pitt, described as Becker's press agent, also testified. These witnesses it was said completed the testimony desired by the district attorney before he asked the grand jury to present a blanket indictment. Sam Schepps' first act this morning was to give the keeper of the West Side prison a list of articles he desired to alleviate his confinement. These included an undersown quilt, a pair of slippers and a pair of trousers. He also asked for an exclusive Fifth avenue haberdashery which Schepps designated a pair of slippers and many toilet articles.

First Bale of New Cotton Reaches Norfolk NORFOLK Va., August 20.—The first bale of new cotton for the season of 1912-13 arrived in Norfolk this morning. It was consigned to Savage Son and Company and was shipped by R. J. Blackwell, of Marion, S. C., where it was raised. It came in over the Atlantic Coast Line Railway. The grade of the new cotton was strictly middling and was sold to George Hogman and Company at 14 cents a pound. Cotton dealers look upon it as an indication that the crop this year will be of exceptional quality. Let year the first bale of new cotton was received in Norfolk on August 26th about two weeks earlier than this year. In 1910 the first new bale was received in Norfolk on August 24, a few days later than this year's first bale. FRIDAY, AUGUST 23, 1912. DOG LAW OR PASTER TREATMENT

The number of people applying to the state laboratory of hygiene for treatment for bites from mad dogs has increased to nearly two hundred a year.

The laboratory has been treating such patients for about four years. Prior to that time they had to go to northern cities for the treatment.

The amount saved to the state by the laboratory from the work done can not be accurately determined.

An estimate of the saving places the figure at $100 per patient or something like $20,000 annually.

In this connection it should be borne in mind that the total amount appropriated by the state for the laboratory is only $1,000 annually.

This work has thus far been carried on by the laboratory without any extra or special appropriation and without cost to the state.

It is about time, is it not, that some action is being taken to enable the laboratory to continue such a benevolent work?

As it is, the unattractive virus for giving the treatment is procured from Washington, D. C. Why should not the legislature make arrangements for the production of this virus at home?

Where it can be procured fresh and at a moment's notice? Delay in providing this treatment sometimes proves fatal.

What is really needed is a strict state wide dog law requiring the licensing and muzzling of all dogs.

This would in a few years stamp out one of the most terrible diseases known to man.

The money loss suffered in this state from rabid dogs alone can not be estimated.

Scarcely a week goes by that does not bring its report of horses, cows, mules and other domestic stock that have been bitten by mad dogs.

These animals usually succumb to the rabies or hydrophobia, as it is more virulent in the lower animals than in man.

The only law now on the statute books regarding mad dogs is one requiring all mad dogs to be killed under penalty of $50.

But even this is in many places a dead letter law.

In many parts of the state sheep raising would be a profitable industry were it not for the stray cur.

In nearly the entire state hunting would be a pastime worth while were it not for this same unmuzzled, unlicensed, stray cur that makes his daily and nightly raids on our game.

Eliminate such dogs and there will be more game to hunt. How much longer will we continue to think more of worthless curs found around negro cabins than we do of the welfare, safety and prosperity of our most substantial citizens?

Of the future fertility of our soils? Strict muzzling, making the owners responsible for all damage the dogs do by leaving a reasonable license tax receipts to the laboratory for the treatment of people bitten would in a very short time stamp out hydrophobia, as is now the case of England, Germany and Australia.

It would be the state and during the hunting season permit the raising of sheep all over on there would be game to hunt.

HOW DEMOCRATS HELPED LABOR.

Chairman W. B. Wilson of the Committee on Labor of the Democratic House of Representatives, pointed out in a recent speech in the House that the labor interests of the country had received more consideration from the present Democratic House than had come to them for many years.

He laid special stress on the fact that the Democrats had restored to government employees the right of petition—a constitutional privilege that had been taken away from them by executive orders under both Roosevelt and Taft—and on the further fact that the Democratic party had lived up to its platform promise in the treatment of labor. Mr. Wilson cited fifteen specific measures beneficial to labor that had been passed by the House at the present session at the request of the workers of the nation.

Prominent among the list is the eight hour bill, extending the operation of this law to work done by the government as well as work done by the private industry.

The anti-injunction bill, to protect workmen during wage disputes; the contempt bill, to provide for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt; the bill creating a Department of Labor and other systems of scientific shop management, which impose undue hardships on working men.

An estimate of the saving places the figure at $100 per patient or something like $20,000 annually.

In this connection it should be borne in mind that the total amount appropriated by the state for the laboratory is only $1,000 annually.

This work has thus far been carried on by the laboratory without any extra or special appropriation and without cost to the state.

As it is, the unattractive virus for giving the treatment is procured from Washington, D. C. Why should not the legislature make arrangements for the production of this virus at home?

Where it can be procured fresh and at a moment's notice? Delay in providing this treatment sometimes proves fatal.

What is really needed is a strict state wide dog law requiring the licensing and muzzling of all dogs.

This would in a few years stamp out one of the most terrible diseases known to man.

The money loss suffered in this state from rabid dogs alone can not be estimated.

Scarcely a week goes by that does not bring its report of horses, cows, mules and other domestic stock that have been bitten by mad dogs.

These animals usually succumb to the rabies or hydrophobia, as it is more virulent in the lower animals than in man.

The only law now on the statute books regarding mad dogs is one requiring all mad dogs to be killed under penalty of $50.

But even this is in many places a dead letter law.

In many parts of the state sheep raising would be a profitable industry were it not for the stray cur.

In nearly the entire state hunting would be a pastime worth while were it not for this same unmuzzled, unlicensed, stray cur that makes his daily and nightly raids on our game.

Eliminate such dogs and there will be more game to hunt. How much longer will we continue to think more of worthless curs found around negro cabins than we do of the welfare, safety and prosperity of our most substantial citizens?

Of the future fertility of our soils? Strict muzzling, making the owners responsible for all damage the dogs do by leaving a reasonable license tax receipts to the laboratory for the treatment of people bitten would in a very short time stamp out hydrophobia, as is now the case of England, Germany and Australia.

It would be the state and during the hunting season permit the raising of sheep all over on there would be game to hunt.

For the Farmers

The progress made in the development of dairy cows is indeed remarkable, and apparently there is no upward limit to what may be accomplished in this direction.

It is right along this line that politics causes some people to lose their heads and both say and do very foolish. Such need to awaken to the realization that this is a free country and every man has a right to think and act for himself and favor whomsoever he pleases for office.

We cannot see that Saturday's primary in this county made any new advocates of that method of selecting candidates for office.

On the contrary we have heard numerous expressions favoring a return to the old method of nominating conventions. A voting primary that is not legalized is little less than a farce.

A cartoon in the New York World indicates that the statute of Justice on top of the city hall is to be regulated. Recent disclosures of graft and official corruption there give rise to the suggestion that something ought to be bridled to give the city at least one bright spot.

The Esopus date line with the judge taking a plunge every morning does not appear in the papers now like it did just about eight years ago.

There are times in some men's lives when the least incident connected with them is flashed out with news.

There were not many surprises in the primary even though some candidates might not have received as many votes as they were expecting.

If politics could be forgotten for a long time there might slip in an opportunity to think about something else.

Those who are now out of the running can get to looking for another job and after the next primary some others can do likewise.

The lower houses of congress passed the wool bill over President's veto, but when it came to the senate that body sustained the president.

Men can take a sudden drop in popularity by getting on the opposite side of a question to some other man.

The record of fines at their term of court indicates that Judge Cline has no admiration of the pistol toter.

Out in California a woman has taken the stump for Wilson. The committee should help her down.

There will be another three weeks hasty from now until the next primary on September seventh.

Governor Marshall has found out that he was nominated for the vice presidency.

The man who got left in the primary can attribute it to not getting enough votes.

Do not try to put on somebody else the blame you should bear yourself.

Yes, they all had a right to run, but of course all could not be elected.

The thousand dollar a day Astor doctor ought to move to Charlotte.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Housers L. Rann.

HOUSEKEEPING

HOUSEKEEPING is something that is handed to the June bride in exchange for the privilege of getting married under a large red wedding veil.

It consists of physical culture exercises which if followed up properly, will develop the long distance runner.

Some women come so muscular as the result of close contact with single handed housekeeping that their hands never contradict them except over the long distance phone.

A woman is said to be a good housekeeper when her husband can bring home two famished friends without warning and find his wife at the table.

Just think of a cow which has given as much as 115.7 pounds of milk a day and produced over 26,000 pounds of this highly nourishing and delightful beverage in one year.

One would suppose that the limit of possible production had been reached in such an animal, but it appears now that the very cow that made this record is being surpassed by one of her daughters which has already given nearly 17,000 pounds of milk and made over 605 pounds of butter in a period of six months.

This cow is giving 85 pounds of milk a day and now starting her seventh month of continuous production and bids fair, therefore, to beat the world's record of 27,432 pounds of milk in a year.

This record has already been broken, brought about by two factors in the hands of skillful and capable men—a fundamental insight into an interpretation of the elementary principles of breeding and a thorough grasp of the best methods of combining and utilizing the natural food stuffs available for the manufacture through the highly organized dairy cow of milk and butter.

What should such a cow be fed? First of all, the production of milk depends on a highly organized nervous system. The fat in milk is produced by the growth and atrophy, as it were, of millions of fat globules in the ultimate cells of the udder.

The other constituents of milk are formed directly and indirectly from the blood which has of necessity received its surplus of nutriment from the food consumed, digested and assimilated by the cow.

It is impossible for the cow to make rich milk and to elaborate it in large quantities unless she is properly fed. The reasons for this are perfectly obvious and therefore, being as down to a consideration finally, of what the cow needs and how best to combine the foods to stimulate the production of milk and butter fat.

An analysis of milk shows that it consists largely of water and it has been proven that succulent food either grass or substitutes therefore, should constitute the basis of any ration for a dairy cow.

She will give a larger quantity of milk for a longer time when this is done than if she is fed exclusively on dry feed.

It appears also that milk contains large quantities of protein and since the cow is capable of manufacturing milk because of her highly organized and sensitive nervous system, she must be fed abundantly on this element.

To withhold will result in a great reduction in the flow of milk and will cause her to ultimately dry up. This is one fact which has been established beyond the point of controversy.

From what sources shall the protein be derived? There are many foodstuffs which may be used, but the farmer is seeking for the one which is cheapest and will furnish him the largest quantity of this constituent at the lowest relative cost.

He may use, for instance, wheat bran, oats, beet pulp, gluten meal or cotton seed meal. The question now arises as to which is the cheapest and most desirable. This is not difficult to solve, for everyone who has had experience in feeding cotton seed meal realizes that this concentrate furnishes the protein in the cheapest form and in larger amount than any of the other.

It is true that it should be fed to secure the best results in association with grass or silage, but in the absence of these, hulls and mixed hay and other dry forms of roughage may be used for considerable periods of time with advantage.

When it comes to the feeding of cotton seed meal, it should be fed with cotton seed meal that good results may be anticipated for a long period of time, but where the meal alone is fed under the conditions mentioned in proper amounts it furnishes an almost ideal ration.

It has been known to be fed on cotton seed meal, silage, hulls and good pasture grass for several years and remain in perfect health, while producing large quantities of milk rich in butter fat.

There are thousands of persons over corn and bran. If only one throughout the south who manage their farms on their lots or on their farms.

They are falling to secure the best returns from them though they are often feeding very costly rations. The trouble they experience is due to the fact that they are often not feeding enough protein or securing it from the most economical source possible.

The writer knows plenty of farmers who are still feeding corn or corn and bran when cotton seed meal furnishes the needed protein at a much lower cost and will prove more satisfactory in a ration for cows that concentrate is to be fed, it is infinitely better to feed cotton seed meal at the rate of from 5 to 6 pounds per 1000 pound cow when giving two gallons of milk per day.

Those who have not fed cotton seed meal or who are not combining it with the other concentrates ordinarily used in the maintenance of cows are making a mistake, for they are failing to supply the adequate amount of protein to stimulate the flow of milk to the highest degree while reducing the cost to a minimum.

Press Comment

The controversy between State Chairman Webb and County Chairman Huffman of Burke emphasizes the fact that the friends of the senatorial candidates are using every means to promote the interest of their friends and are using the organization to further the interest of their candidate.

Commenting on this custom, the State Land mark says it is "absolutely wrong, hurtful and unfair under all circumstances."

But that fact does not keep the custom from prevailing and charging that such is being done in the interest of the candidacy of Mr. Simmons.

The two other candidates have had Chairman Webb explaining. And his explanation always explain fully and never to the Gitchin and Clark followers.

Funny that Chairman Webb should have so soon stirred up the friends of Governor Kitchin and Judge Clark, and that his ations always meet with the hearty approval of the Simmons men.

A few years ago he came within a close margin of being elected Governor of the Pine Tree State.

A little less than a year ago, when Senator Frye, who had represented Maine in the Senate for thirty years, died, Governor Plafied honored Mr. Gardner, and recognized the agricultural interests of the country by appointing him to the United States Senate, where he has made a most creditable record, devoting particular attention to the welfare of the great rural population of the country.

He is now a member of the Senate and will undoubtedly be successful.

In his address Senator Gardner said:

WINTERVILLE, Aug. 21.—Mr. J. D. Cox left this morning for Fairmont after spending his summer vacation at home.

Mrs. W. J. Munford of Arden, was visiting at the home of Mr. J. D. Cox on last evening.

See Harrington, Barber and Company for a pair of good pants. They are selling them real cheap, now.

Misses Esther Johnson and Helen Adams made a flying trip to Greenville yesterday.

This is her nearest point to Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico, where she was teaching last year when compelled to return to the states on account of the rebellion.

From this point the situation can be thoroughly understood before an attempt is made to cross. Our best wishes go with Miss Cox and we bid her God speed in the good work which she is trying to do among those people.

The Pony cor sheller, the best on the market, will sell on basket per minute, for sale by Harrington, Barber and Company.

women of their parties, does not know how to order a meal for them and in many ways hampers them in the free and untrammelled pursuit of pleasure that they dearly love.

This is an indictment that comes not from the feeble and effete East, but from the strong and virile West. And "pity 'tis, 'tis true".

The indifference of the average American man to the social ambitions and pleasures of their women has been the throne o has been the theme of one novel and of many, many years. The American male animal is interested in "getting there" in business, in building and creating and battling in a crude and savage mercantile warfare.

What little time he has from his strenuous days he spends in sleep and rest. He seems to think that by handing over to the woman of the house so much money every week or month or year and telling her to go out and enjoy herself he has fulfilled his obligations to society.

Hence the discontent of women, and hence the savage charge that American husbands are in the way.

When American civilization has reached a point where it is more or less settled, the most will study the little virtues and accomplishments of society. And then we will hear less about men being in the way and the delights of travel without them.

WHAT TO DO AND HOW.

The Trial of Breakfast—A Grouchy Period—Pays to Look Attractive.

Even if You Don't Talk.

There is really nothing more trying than breakfast in the average household. It certainly is one period of perturbation when guests are to be catered to at the first meal of the day.

To begin with, no matter how perfect our disposition may be, the early morning hours are harrowing. We know we don't look our best, we haven't really got the gait of the day.

From a feminine standpoint I can really appreciate why the attractive French woman always prefers to have her cafe au lait in bed.

She can really enjoy it with a negligee slumber attire and hair still in bairpins. If she had to get up and make a coffee and costume presentable there is really some excuse for her being crossgrained in the early morning hours.

Of course we American women rarely breakfast in bed, unless we are really ill. And I know it isn't easy to look or feel as jealously fit as eight o'clock as at two.

THE DRUMS OF MEMORY.

(From the Chicago Evening Post) Beat the drums of memory. In a low and lulling key. Till my feet are marching on. Through the twilight and the dawn. Backward through the paths of time. Into that enchanted clime. Where the blossoms never fade. Where the sunshine and the shade. Dance in dapples on the grass. Of the orchard that I pass.

Beat the drums of memory. Till they thrill the soul of me. Into long forgotten whiles. And I foot the hazy miles. Find the meadow and the brook. And the vines hid forest nook. Till the world that was of old—Lures me with its hopes, forsooth. As it did when I had youth.

Beat the drums of memory—Let the roll a rally be! Call the hosts I used to know. In the wondrous long ago—Call them all from field and foam. Till again we are at home. Let us boast, and do, and dare. Having neither fret nor care. Let us laugh at the far page. Where is told the tale of age.

Beat the drums of memory—Till the old song comes to me. Till I murmur faded tunes. Hum contented olden croons. And the boys all are mine. Till my vines pulse with the wine. On the days that were made new. As I find my pathway through. All the year calling ways. Of the living yesterdays. —Wilbur D. Nesbit.

THE HOSTESS.

Fig Cake. Three eggs, three fourths cup butter, one cup sweet milk, two large cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup figs. Cut small and roll in flour; if the latter is not stiff enough use a little more flour. Bake in a loaf.

Ginger Sponge Cake. Two cups of brown sugar, four eggs, one pint flour, two thirds cup water, one and one half teaspoonful baking powder, one tablespoon extract ginger, one teaspoonful extract lemon. Beat the eggs and sugar together for ten minutes, add the water, the flour sifted with the powder and the extracts; mix into a smooth sponge and bake in a quick oven thirty minutes.

Crullers. These dainties are quickly and easily made. A piece of butter about the size of an egg, a nutmeg, a cupful of sugar and three eggs are to be made stiff with flour, cut in fancy shapes and fried in boiling lard. After taking out, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

I have faith in the plain people. I can't stir up any sentiment in favor of reciprocity here, howled a little man in one of the rear seats. —Chicago Record-Herald.

By one of those misfortunes which are as well a matter of overlooking, the proof came to the desk with the notice signed Mrs. J. D. Cox, instead of Mrs. J. D. Cox. Again the proofreader in initials went by unnoticed. We are sorry for it and promise in the future to look out for "equals in the proof reading sea".

MRS. TOM'S PART IN THE ELECTION

Governor Marshall's Wife Has the Memory for Names.

ROMANCE OF THEIR LIVES

The Notification of the Indiana Executive For Democratic Vice Presidency Honors a Record Break.

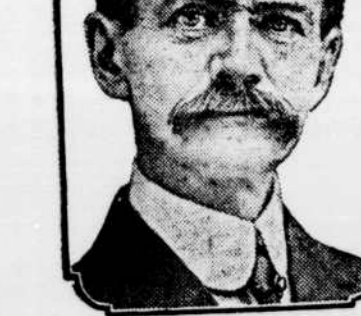

By J. C. HAMMOND, Of Democratic National Publicity Bureau.

Indianapolis—Just about the time that thousands of friends of Governor Thomas Riley Marshall were anxious to congratulate him on his acceptance as candidate for vice president on the Democratic ticket, a smiling man stepped before him, and if one could have heard what she whispered in his ear...

Now, hurry in, Tom, and change your clothes.

And Tom Marshall forgot to shake hands with the enthusiastic friends who will be carried out the orders of Mrs. Tom.

Indiana has honored four of her sons as vice presidential candidates on the Democratic ticket, but the crowds that treated Governor Marshall in the big coliseum on Tuesday, the greatest in the history of the party. The west wanted to show the east what could be done in notification happy, of course, over the honors her husband, she was also worried, for her husband comes mighty close to being father, husband, son and part-

Governor Marshall will never gain any honors as hammer thrower. He is not built that way. While all the country was reading the vigorous words of Governor Marshall...

The good people of Columbia City, Ind., never thought Thomas Riley Marshall was a "marrying man." For forty years he had lived with his parents...

Meeting Mrs. Marshall. After the death of his parents Governor Marshall was called to an adjoining law practice, and one day an urgent case took him to Angola, Ind. His daughter called him to the county clerk's office...

From that day Governor Marshall had more business around the country clerk's office in Angola than any lawyer in half a dozen nearby counties.

The Marshalls had been married only a few weeks when the future vice president was called to an adjoining county on a case that would consume some five or six weeks of his time.

"Now, I did not want to be starting off like that," Governor Marshall explained to a friend one day, "so I just told Mrs. Marshall that I thought she should go along. And she did."

Since then Governor Marshall never made a trip without Mrs. Marshall going along. They have traveled all over the country together; they go to banquets and political meetings...

"Tom Marshall is not oversteering," explained one of his friends. "He is not a delicate man, his constitution is not of the most vigorous type."

some of the handshaking and take care of his health first. So when you find him making a speech, when he has finished he does not stand around to hear the applause of the audience. Rather, he hurries to his room and changes his clothing.

Some people have said that Tom Marshall is not a handshaking politician. He is not. His wife thinks it is more important to guard his health than to carry out the old time policy and she is correct, as she is in most of all other things.

"Home Air" Prevails. "The Marshall home is typical of the mistress. It is a home of books, and still one does not feel 'bookish'."

When Governor Marshall and his wife were about to be married she decided that her last official act of the office would be to make out the marriage license. Governor Marshall accompanied his wife to the county clerk's office and watched her with care as she noted the records in the big book and filled out the license and her father's name, with her own as deputy.

Mrs. Marshall, having blotted the ink, said: "Now we can go." "Not yet," laughed Governor Marshall. "Why, we are all fixed," explained Mrs. Marshall, pointing to the license. "Yes, but I have to pay for it," replied the governor. "It's all right for you to make it out, but it's up to me to pay the fee." And he did.

District Attorney Charles Whitman Pays Close Attention to Jury Selection. Wants Prosecution to be Successful. Picnic on the Cottendale Plantations. Editor Reflector: It was the writer's good fortune to be present at a plantation picnic given by the tenants on Cottendale and Southwood plantations last Friday. It was interesting and fully enjoyable to be with these working people, who made every effort to give all a good time. I can say I never saw a better dinner served at any picnic. There were about 175 people present. It was part of the program for Senator Cotten, the landlord, to make a short speech after dinner. This he did in his usual pleasant and graceful way to the perfect satisfaction and enjoyment of all. He complimented the crowd on their good management and good behavior and said much to encourage them that will long be remembered by all present. Mr. Cotten takes much interest in the health and welfare of his tenants. Music and dancing was next on the program and was fully enjoyed by all. Much credit is due Mr. J. C. Humphrey and Mr. S. H. Martin, managers of this picnic for their untiring energy in seeing all well fed and given a good time generally. This community is well pleased with the work being done on the road by Mr. Alfred Forbes, the efficient manager of the convict force. With the assistance of a lot of heavy machinery and big steel rollers furnished by Senator Cotten, good progress is being made; the county commissioners made no mistake in sending Mr. Forbes and his convicts up here. The people all over the county could be induced to take the interest and lend a helping hand as Mr. Cotten is doing in the matter of good roads, we would soon see a great improvement all over the county without increasing the taxes or bond issue. A WELL WISHER OF BOTH GOOD ROADS AND PICNICS. testimony is that of accomplices would not invalidate it. Bridget Weeber's poker rooms, on the second floor of the northwest corner of First-second street and Sixth avenue, where the slayers of Herman Rosenthal gathered a few minutes before they drove to the Hotel Metropolitan on the morning of the murder, July 16, were raided and closed last night by Inspector Dwyer and a squad of detectives. Since Weeber's arrest a confinement in the West Side prison on a charge of complicity in the murder of Rosenthal, the poker rooms which have netted him a large part of a fortune estimated by his friends at $250,000, have not been closed. The names have been conducted by a manager who gives his name as Kirk Brown and who has made daily reports of the profits to the proprietors in his cell. Wilson's Campaign is to be Economical. CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, secretary of the national Democratic committee, today issued a statement in which he declared the Democrats purposed establishing a new record in campaign management this year and that Governor Wilson's campaign would be made with less expense than had attended the election of many a city mayor. "We are running our headquarters in New York and Chicago in strict business principles," said Mr. Davies, both offices and a continuous effort is being kept of all receipts and disbursements, even petty office expenditures accounted for. Our books are open to investigation now and will be until November and also after election."
