NO BEER SALOON WILL BE ALLOWED IN WILMINGTON BY THE LEGISLATURE COMMITTEE ON LIQUOR TRAFFIC REPORTS THE KELLUM BEER BILL

Raleigh, March 1.—The Beaufort dorsement of the full committee on Terminal Railroad Company, $5,000, appropriations with its provisions for developing Cape Lookout as a great port through railroad connection with Beaufort and the construction of adequate wharves, piers and other facilities, is proposed to be incorporated through a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Ward, E. C. Duncan, W. R. Rodman and Mr. S. S. Hawkins are the incorporators. The bill was placed on the calendar and passed final reading, being sent to the house.

The house convened this morning at 10 o'clock, prayer by Rev. Mr. Taylor of Raleigh. Petitions were received for increased appropriations to the school for feeble-minded and in the interest of the poor. An unfavorable report came from the committee on the liquor traffic for the Kellum bill to permit Wilmingten and New Hanover county to license beer saloons under rigid restrictions prescribed. Unfavorable report came from the committee on counties, cities and towns for the bill to remove the county seat to Rocky Mount from Nashville. Also favorable report for the Roberts bill from this committee to safeguard from fire those in which moving picture are a feature.

Allen Longs To See Moon Rise Over Fancy Gap Again

RICHMOND, March 2.—Floyd Allen wants to see the moon rise at least once more over Fancy Gap. This is what he told some of his friends a day or two ago when they were talking with him in his death cell in the Virginia penitentiary. Once more he would like to roam over Fancy Gap. That is what free as the mountain air.

And if the gratification of this desire is denied him he wants to be buried among those very same hills which he loves so well. The old man is yet hopeful that Governor Mann will commute his sentence to a prison term.

His son Claude, who helped to shoot up the court at Hillsville because "they were trying to kill pay", is likewise cheerful, even though the shadow of death in the electric chair is but a few days removed. The two men are scheduled to be executed March 7, less than one week from today.

Meanwhile they are daily awaiting a message from the governor, in whose hands their fate now lies. A decision from his excellency will likely be forthcoming soon.

Among the staunch supporters of the condemned men is Captain Tom Haynes, of Giles, who police duty whose lands their fate now lies. A decision from his excellency will likely be forthcoming soon.

Pastor's Anniversary

Sunday was the second anniversary of Rev. C. M. Rock's pastorate of the Memorial Baptist church, and the morning service was appropriate to the occasion. Beside a most interesting sermon by the pastor, in which he merely mentioned the material progress of the church but emphasized its spiritual growth, there were short talks by Messrs. C. W. Wilson, J. W. Bryan and W. H. Ragsdale. The observance of the Lord's Sapper followed, and altogether it was a delightful and uplifting service.

At the Christian Church Sunday
Rev. J. J. Walker, pastor of the Christian church, preached two excellent sermons Sunday. At the morning hour his subject was "Foreign Missions" at night "What Must I Do To Be Saved?" Large congregations heard him at each service. Baptism was administered to two persons at the evening services.

Entered as second class matter August 20, 1910, at the post office at Greenville, North Carolina, under act of March 3, 1879.

FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1913

Senator Evans defeated the bill in the senate, after it had passed the house, authorizing a road bond election in Farmville township. The Raleigh Times gives his statement as to why he opposed the bill, that "it had been introduced without his knowledge by a faction that had predicted that he could never represent the county in the senate". In other words he obstructs progress in his county through spite.

As the law now stands it is not the fault of the legislature that the greatest part of a session is devoted to purely local bills. But it is their fault in not passing a law referring local matters to the boards of commissioners of the respective counties, so the legislature can devote itself to measures of state interest.

Washington hotel proprietors are going to have Bibles in the rooms of all their guests. At the price the guests will have to pay, the Bible could well be afforded. It need occasion no surprise if some of the guests mark the Eighth Commandment and leave the Bible open at that place for the proprietor to read.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature authorizing the commissioners of Pitt county to appropriate $1,500 for the erection of a Confederate monument on the court house square. The people of the county should get busy and subscribe as much more and erect the monument as early as possible. It has already been too long neglected.

All we've got to suggest is that somebody give Josephus a new hat—one that will not fit quite so close down to his neck.—Charlotte Observer.

Also deprive him of that linen suit in which he is in the habit of coming out on state occasions.

President Taft, just before going out of office, was shown that he was not the whole thing. He vetoed the Webb bill and sent it back with a message of disapproval, and congress passed it right over his head.

Conditions are bad in Mexico, to be sure, but American newspapers cannot with good grace twist them about the way they get rid of their presidents when it is recalled with shame that three have been assassinated in this country.

The statement that Editor Josephus Daniels, of the Raleigh News and Observer, is to be secretary of the navy in President Wilson's cabinet, brings gratification to his host of friends throughout the state.

Besides what is already going on, enough buildings are planned for Greenville this year to give employment to a large number of workmen.
All who come this way find plenty to do.

Wonder what those suffragettes are doing in New York to Washington will thing they have accomplished when they get there. They make an unwomanly spectacle of themselves just for a little cheap notoriety.

President Taft holding back the Webb bill and vetoing it when he thought it too late for congress to take action on it, was about the smallest act of his administration. But congress showed him what it could do under such circumstances.

If the street was properly sprinkled before the sweeper gets to work, there would not be such a stifling dust raised. This dust blows right in the stores and causes damage to goods.

There is only about a week more of the legislature. Then the members will be getting home to tell the people what they did and didn't do, just like the people didn't know already.

Greenville being two years past due for mail delivery and no free mail delivery established, puts the fault up to somebody. And it seems to be entirely on the town.

There will be plenty of them to give advice, but after they are through we expect President Wilson will be finding the government as he thinks it ought to be run.

If man really did come from the monkey, some of them are sure going back to the beginning.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Some are already back there.

The ground hog must have been glad that a Democrat was being inaugurated, so did not stir up the weather much.

Both Turkey and Mexico have been practically forgotten this week while Washington festivities were furnishing the big head lines.

The one-sixth of the year gone by has shown up good for Greenville, and we should endeavor to make the five-sixth ahead count for even more.

The two months that the parcel post has been in existence examplifies both its enormous proportions and usefulness.

The railroads offering to adjust their freight rates so as to give North Carolina a square deal, is one of the good things recently brought about.

Reports of quiet and disorder in Mexico are more frequent than the changes in the weather.

President Wilson is not the heavy weight of his predecessor, but he can hold down the lid with the heaviest of them.

Just plain, common sense folks, without any freaks or fads, are the kind that occupy the White House now.

It is now Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina.
Top o' the afternoon to you, Joe.

If the suffragettes brought the good weather, let him like again ahead of the next inauguration.

Wall street did not find anything in President Wilson's inaugural address to throw a spasm over.

While predicting what President Wilson will do, don't forget that Vice-President Marshall can also do things.

With all the trouble in Mexico, they stop hostilities long enough to pull off their Sunday bull fights.

Mr. Taft is now a private citizen, but may yet be much in the public eye.

Greenville ought to have a cotton factory large enough to consume all the crop grown in Pitt county.

February being shorter makes the bill collector come sooner.

And Pitt county has a guardian.
Poor Pitt county.

Time to clean up the gun and put it away until next hunting season.

Let the new nickles come along.

As the new nickles will not fit slot machines you can just watch to see how soon there is a change in machines to fit the nickles.

The express companies will catch it again when the "C. O. D." feature is added to the parcel post, which will be done soon.

Tomorrow will be the great day in Washington City at the inauguration of President Woodrow Wilson.

They are trying to find the North pole and the South pole just like there was not room enough between the two for everybody.

A useful place for work on the public roads might be found for those vagrants who cannot be caught doing any honest work.

All the prodding the papers are giving him has not induced Mr.
Roosevelt to open his face as to what he thinks about Mexico.

You would think Raleigh is dry from the way the papers there are calling for water.

As the garment strike has been declared off, maybe it will be easier to get a shirt.

It looks like the promise of pretty weather for the inauguration is going to be knocked in the head.

The cabinet is no longer shrouded in mystery, but the guessers were kept guessing to the last.

The government is now after the "thread" trust, and maybe they will snap a cord.

The suffragettes in Washington made much complaint against the capitol police.

We will bet it was a worn out crowd getting away from Washington today.

They hardly think about Roosevelt these days, much less talk about him.

North Carolina came in for her share of honors at the inauguration.

He is no longer Governor Wilson, but will soon be President Wilson.

Zero weather out West and balmy spring weather here in the East.

Over in Mexico they seem to have a grudge against all named Madern.

This time it is the revenue bill that is drawing fire.

It is now President Woodrow Wilson.

It takes a good road to stand bad weather.

Good Friday and Easter Sunday are the two next dates.

Washington hotels and booze joints both had a rake off.

Wonder where the suffragettes will be hiking to next.

Licensed pool rooms are now a thing of the past in Greenville.

Easter finery is getting on the way.

Mr. Leon R. Meadows led the service on Sunday evening. He made a most interesting and helpful talk on Missions—the phase of it dealing with mission study. He said that all of the students should engage in mission study, its much good to all would result from it; and this is a great actor not only in the individual's life, but to the lives of those living around us and even farther away.

The Forty Year Test

An article must have exceptional merit to survive for a period of forty years. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was first offered to the public in 1872. From a small beginning it has grown in favor and popularity until it has attained a world wide reputaa period of more than forty years.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We have had consigned to us the magnificent farm lands belonging to C. T. Munford, which lie on the north side of Tar river, just outside of Greenville, for sale.

MONDAY, MARCH 24th, 1913, 10:30
a. m., we shall offer two hundred fifty (250) acres of this splendid land, sub-divided into small tracts ranging in size from five to twenty-five acres. The terms of this sale will be one-fourth cash and the balance in five equal installments payable in one, two, three, four and five years from date, with 6 per cent interest on the deferred payments; or, if the purchaser desires to pay all cash, we will give a liberal discount. The sale will be conducted so that one tract of land will be sold with the privilege of as many tracts adjoining as desired by the purchaser at the same price. This will enable the man who wishes to purchase a larger amount of land to get just what he wants; and also gives the man who desires to buy only a few acres a chance.

One of the greatest features is the fact that this farm is only one mile from the court house by air-line. It will be a most valuable purchase, as the land is very productive indeed; and we see no reason why, with the liberal terms that we are offering, that the purchasers cannot make the land pay for itself after making the first payment. Everybody should realize the fact that such good farm land so close to Greenville is a splendid investment. This sale should also be very attractive to the man who is now a tenant on someone else's farm. With the money that he is using to pay rent, he can make the payments on this property, and at the expiration of five years own the land in fee simple; whereas, should he continue as a tenant, he will not own any more land in five years than he owns today. Another fact is that he gets the increased valuation of real estate, which will be a great deal by that time. Inasmuch as this land has been rented for the year 1913, the purchaser of the property at our sale will be giving six per cent on his investment (not six per cent per year, but six per cent for the remainder of the year, which will amount to about 8 per cent for the entire year). Plans of this property will be on exhibition at a different place in Greenville and other places in the next few days.
We shall direct the attention of prospective purchasers to these plat-

Commissioners Enjoined.

For some time the building of a bridge across Tar River at either Boy's Ferry or Yankee Hall, has been before the board of county commissioners, advocates of both locations appearing with argument. The former board of commissioners a short time before the expiration of their term, passed an order that the bridge be built at Boy's Ferry. Those opposed to the bridge being located there have obtained an injunction against the commissioners which was served on the board Monday. The injunction is to be heard at the coming civil term of court.

North Carolina, Pitt County.

Whereas, on Tuesday night February 26th, some one in the darkness of the night went to Reinston School and wantonly and maliciously cut the wire fence which Mr. Richard Wingate has recently put around the acre of land, which the board of education had bought from Mr. L. A.
Weatherington to enlarge the school site, and whereas, the people of this school district are unwilling that any reflection shall be made upon them by the person or persons, who did this cutting.

And Whereas, the district wishes all law abiding citizens to know that the people of this district are at all times law abiding themselves.

Therefore, We, the undersigned citizens of this school district hereby assert that we do not believe any citizens of said district are doing this cutting, and we hereby emphatically, regardless of who did it, condemn such action as willingly and maliciously wrong and intended to injure this community.

We desire to say furthermore, that if we can get any information that will identify and convict whoever did the cutting, we will lend our influence and give our support in the conviction of said person.

This is written that the people of Pitt county may not be misled by the cutting of this fence.

for pauper allowances and accounts and receiving reports of officers, was gone through with.

Richard Dixon and wife, C. J. Haddock, Ernest Randolph and Anthony Harris (for boys) were added to the pauper list.

W. H. Moore asked permission to construct a gate across road leading from Bruce to Centre Bluff, this having the approval of the road supervisors of Falkland township. After some consideration the clerk was in-April meeting of the board a petition would be presented asking for the discontinuance of the above road.

Dr. C. O. H. Laughinghouse, having resigned as coroner, Dr. J. E. Nobles was elected to fill the unexpired term.

The matter of electing a county attorney coming up, Julius Brown and P. G. James were placed in nomination. A ballot was taken and each received two votes, making a tie. The chairman of the board cast the deciding vote for Julius Brown and he was declared elected. The salary was stated at $25 per month.

The collection of fees reported by the officers for February were as fol-

Marquis of Huntly

Charles Gordon, eleventh Marquis of Huntly, was born at Orton-Langue-ville, Peterborough, March 5, 1847, and succeeded to the title upon the death of his father in 1863. He is the premier marquis of Scotland. The title is a very old one, dating back to the beginning of the fifteenth century.

The grandfather of the first Earl Huntly fell at Homildon in 1402. The fourth Earl became the most important subject of Scotland and the fifth was sentenced to death, but became chancellor of Scotland. The sixth Earl was head of the Catholicism of Scotland. He submitted to the King and subsequently became Marquis of Huntly. The present holder of the title has long been active in church and educational affairs and has three times been chosen Lord Rector of Aberdeen University.

WILSON INDUCTED INTO HIGH OFFICE

Inauguration of Twenty-Seventh President Is Witnessed by Great Crowds.

MARSHALL SWORN IN FIRST

Simple Ceremony in Senate Chamber Followed by More Impressive Affair on East Portico of the Capitol.

By GEORGE CLINTON.
Washington, March 4.—In the presence of a vast throng of his fellow citizens, Woodrow Wilson today stood in front of the east portico of the capitol and took the oath of president of the United States. Thomas R. Marshall already had been sworn in as vice-president, and with the completion of the ceremony the ship of state was manned by the Democratic party, which had been ashore for sixteen years.

As the new chief executive of the nation stood with bared head, Edward Douglas White, chief justice of the Supreme court, held before him the Bible always used in the ceremony. Mr. Wilson placed his hands upon the book and in a voice strong though somewhat affected by emotion, swore to support the Constitution and the laws of the country and to perform the duties of his high office to the best of his ability.

Thomas Riley Marshall swore fealty to the Constitution and to the people in the senate chamber, where for four years it will be his duty to preside over the deliberations of the members of the upper house of congress.

Severely Simple Ceremonies.
Both of the ceremonies proper were conducted in a severely simple but most impressive manner. The surroundings of the scene of the president's induction into office, however, were not so simple, for it was an outdoor event and the great gathering of military, naval and uniformed civil organizations gave much more than a touch of splendor to the scene.

In the senate chamber, where the oath was taken by the man now vice-president of the United States, there were gathered about 2,000 people, all that the upper house will contain without the risk of danger because of the rush and press of the multitude. It is probable that nowhere else in the United States at any time there has gathered an equal number of men and women whose names are so widely known.

The gathering in the senate chamber and later on the east portico of the capitol was composed largely of those prominent for their services in America, and in part of foreigners who have secured places for their names in the current history of the world's doings.

The arrangements of the ceremonies for the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson and Thomas Riley Marshall were made by the joint committee on arrangements of congress.

President Woodrow Wilson.

section of this committee was ruled by a majority of Republicans, but there is Democratic testimony to the fact that the Republican senators were willing to outdo their Democratic brethren in the work of making orderly and impressive the inaugural ceremonies in honor of two chiefs of the opposition.

Ride to the Capitol.

President Taft and President-elect Wilson rode together from the White House to the capitol, accompanied by two members of the congressional committee of arrangements. The vice-president-elect also rode from the White House to the capitol and in the carriage with him were the senate's pressmen, one Democrat, senator Bacon of Georgia, and three members of the congressional committee of arrangements.

The vice-president-elect took the oath just before noon in accordance with custom and prior to its taking by the president-elect. Every arrangement for the senate chamber proceedings had been made so that they moved forward easily and with a certain ponderous grace.

Marshall Sworn In.
The admission to the senate chamber to witness the oath-taking of the vice-president was by ticket, and it is needless to say every seat was occupied. On the floor of the chamber were many former members of the senate who, because of the fact that they once held membership in that body, were given the privileges to all floor. Afternoon hall was filled and all the minor officials of government and those privileged to witness the ceremonies were seated. William H. Taft and Woodrow Wilson, preceded by the sergeant-at-arms and the committee of arrangements, entered the senate chamber. They were followed immediately by Vice-President-elect Thomas R. Marshall, leaning upon the arm of the president pro tempore of the senate who, after the seating of the incoming vice-president, took his place as presiding officer of the senate and of the day's proceedings.

The president and the president-elect sat in the first row of seats directly in front and almost under the desk of the presiding officer. In the same row, but to their left, were the vice-president-elect and two former vice-presidents of the United States, Levi P. Morton of New York and Adlai A. Stevenson of Illinois. When the distinguished company entered the chamber the senate was still under its old organization. The oath of office was immediately administered to Vice-President-elect Marshall, who thereupon became Vice-President Marshall. The prayer of the day was given by the chaplain of the senate, Rev. Uly. S. G. Pierce, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Vice-President Marshall.

tor of All Souls' Unitarian church, of which President Taft has been a member. After the prayer the vice-president administered the oath of office to all the newly elected senators, and thereafter the senate of the United States passed for the first time into the control of the Democrats.

Procession to the Platform.
Immediately after the senate ceremonies a procession was formed to take the platform of the east portico of the capitol, where Woodrow Wilson was to take the oath. The procession included the president and the president-elect, members of the Supreme court, both houses of congress, all of the foreign ambassadors, all of the heads of the executive department, many governors of states and territories, Admiral Dewey of the navy and several high officers of the service, the chief of staff of the army and many distinguished persons from civil life. They were followed by the members of the press and by those persons who had succeeded in securing seats in the senate galleries to witness the day's proceedings.

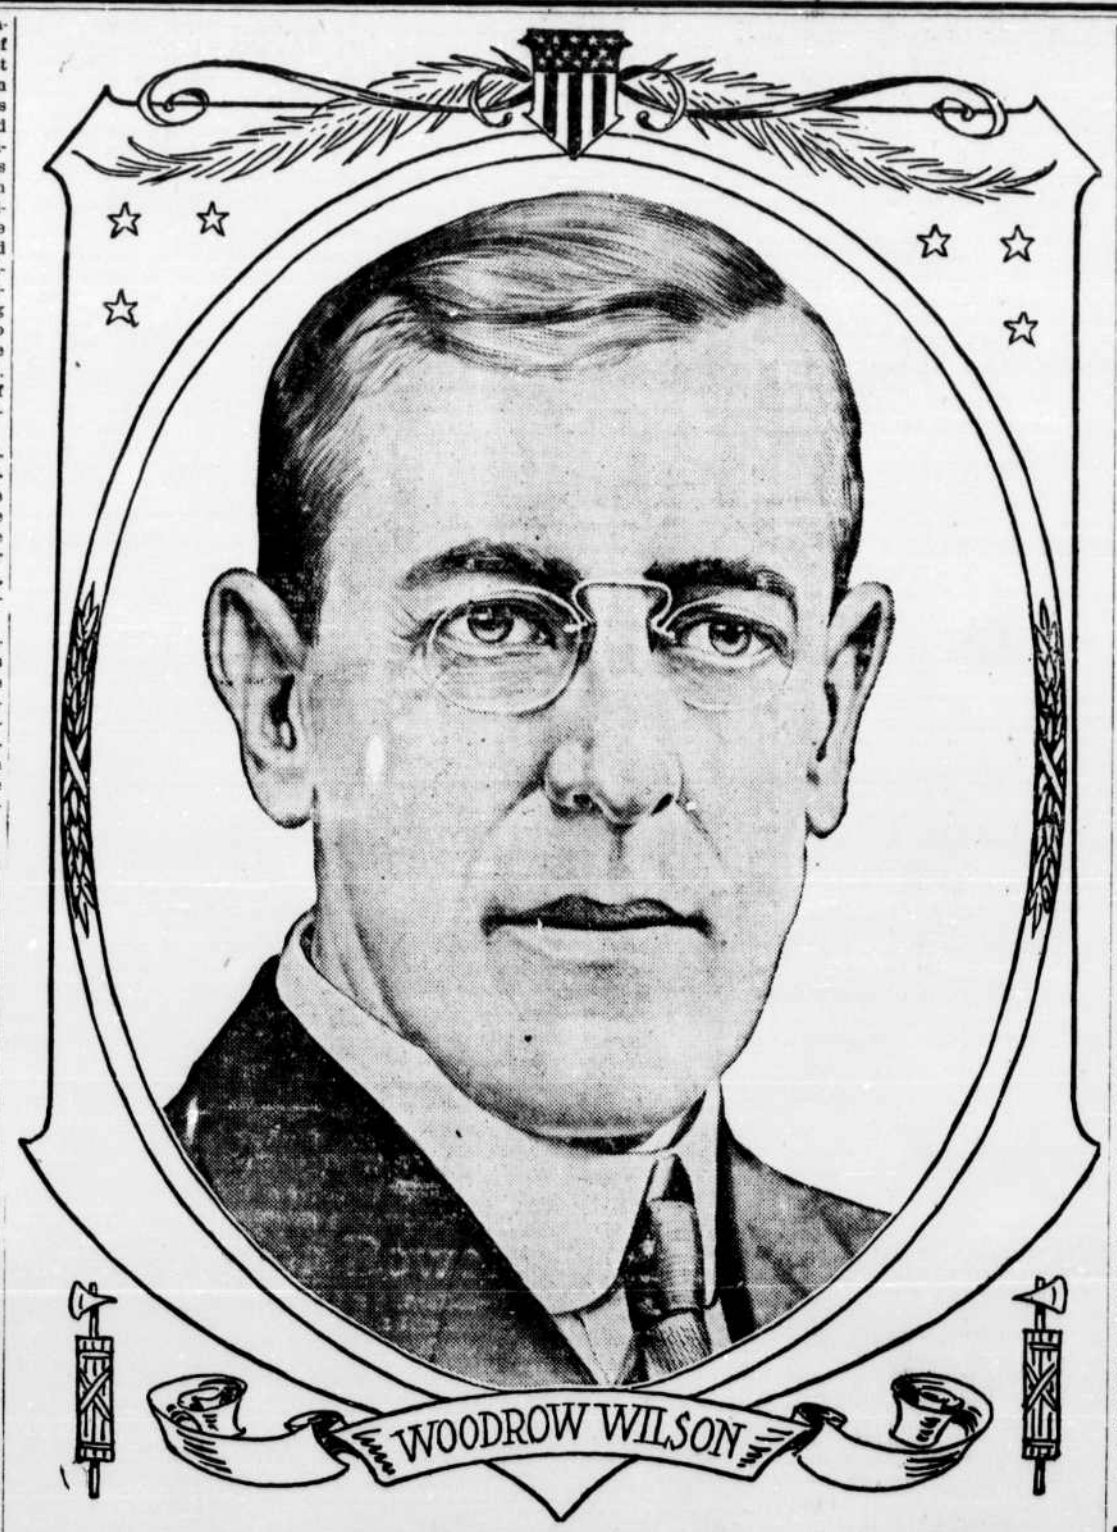

When President Taft and the president-elect emerged from the capitol to the portico they saw in front of them, facing far back into the park to the east, an immense concourse of citizens. In the narrow line between the colonnade and the platform on which Mr. Wilson was to take the oath, were drawn up the cadets of the two greatest government schools, West Point and Annapolis, and flanking them were bodies of regulars and of national guardsmen. The whole scene was charged with color and with life.

On reaching the platform the president and president-elect took the seats reserved for them, seats which were flanked by many rows of benches rising tier for tier for the accommodation of the friends and families of the officers of the government and of the press.

Oath Administered to Wilson.
The instant that Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson came within sight of the crowd there was a great outburst of applause, and the military bands struck quickly into "The Star-Spangled Banner." Only a few bars of the music were played and then soldiers and civilians became silent to witness respectfully the oath taking and to listen to the address which followed.

The chief justice of the Supreme court delivered the oath to the president-elect, who, uttering the words, "I will," became president of the United States. As soon as this ceremony was completed Woodrow Wilson delivered his inaugural address, his first speech to his fellow countrymen in the capacity of their chief executive.

At the conclusion of the speech the bands played once more, and William Howard Taft, now ex-president of the United States, took the oath of office as the new president and, reversing the order of an hour before, sat on the left hand side of the carriage, while Mr. Wilson took "the seat of honor" on the right. The crowds cheered as they drove away to the White House, which Woodrow Wilson entered as the occupant and which William H. Taft immediately left as one whose lease had expired.

GREAT PARADE IN HONOR OF WILSON

Federal and State Troops, Men From Navy, Veterans and Civilians March.

GEN. WOOD IS GRAND MARSHAL

Indians, Hunt Clubs and College Students Are in Line—Enthusiastic Spectators Continuously Cheer the Inaugural Procession.

By GEORGE CLINTON.
Washington, March 4.—The "Jeffersonian simplicity" which Woodrow Wilson requested should be observed in every detail of his inauguration as president did not apply to the inaugural parade, for it was as elaborate as such an affair usually is. The people wanted it so, and they showed their appreciation of the spectacle by turning out by the hundred thousand and cheering wildly as the marchers passed.

The newly inaugurated president reviewed the procession and smiled his approval as he returned the salutes of the commanding officers, for all the glittering show had been arranged in his honor. Pennsylvania avenue, from the capitol to the White House, was full of color, music and movement.

People Enjoy the Sight.
The inhibition of the inaugural ball and of the planned public reception at the capitol had no effect as a bar to the attendance at this ceremony of engaging presidents. Masses were here to see, and other masses were here to march. There was a greater demonstration than the procession was justly than there was four years ago. Victory had come to a party which had known nothing like victory for a good many years. The joy of possession found expression in steady and abundantly noisy acclaim.

President Taft and President-elect Wilson were escorted down the avenue by the National Guard troop of cavalry of Essex county, New Jersey. The carriage in which rode Vice-President-elect Marshall and President pro tempore Bacon of the United States senate was surrounded by the members of the Black Horse troop of the Oliver Military academy of Indiana. This is the first time in the history of inaugural ceremonies that a guard of honor has escorted a vice-president to the scene of his oath taking.

Norfolk Boy Electrocuted By His Wire Kite-String

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 2.—Sidney Bright, 15 years of age, was electrocuted shortly after midday yesterday while flying a kite to which he had attached picture wire instead of a cord. The kite dipped and the wire string came in contact with a high voltage electric wire skirting the right of way. The boy was tragically burned.

The dead boy was a son of W. G. Bright, who died in Thomasville, Ga., February 22, and made his home with his sister, Mrs. Italy Avant, in Western Branch road, Cottage Place. He was flying his kite in an open field near his home at the time of the accident. He had substituted picture wire for his cotton wind string because of the high wind.

James Tuttle, a foreman employed at the John Flanagan Puggy Company, was the first to reach the boy, and took in the situation at a glance. The lad's clothing was on fire and he gasped only once after Tuttle reached him. After hanging suspended over the service wire for a few minutes the picture wire burned in two and released the body of the little victim.

Dr. Abbott, the county coroner, viewed the body and gave permission for its removal to the undertaking establishment of J. E. Snellings, in Green street.

The service wire which the kite string came in contact with ran from a transformer station on the Belt Line Railway. A sign displayed on the station read "Danger, 11,000 volts."

Says Developments To Be Met As They May Arise in Extra Session

Plan Determined For Congress by President Wilson WILL CONVENE ABOUT APRIL 8

Philippine Independence, Alaskan Questions And Other Subjects To Be Taken Up During Extra Session

WASHINGTON, March 12.—President Wilson has decided upon a policy of meeting legislative developments as they arise rather than planning a program for the extraordinary session of congress. This, it was learned from White House sources today, will be the president's answer to those who are arguing that currency legislation, Philippine independence, Alaskan questions and other subjects be taken up during the session of the new congress.

The president was advised by Representative Oscar Underwood, Democratic majority leader, as to the status of the tariff bills being prepared by the ways and means committee. He learned that the committee was making rapid progress but that it might not be ready on April 1, the date originally fixed for the opening of the new congress.

Mr. Underwood thought at least a week more should be given to preparation and as it was on Mr. Underwood's advice that Mr. Wilson fixed upon April 1, there is no doubt that he will name a later date when issuing his proclamation.

Representative Underwood has been of the belief that tariff reform alone should be attempted at the coming session. As he left the White House, Representative Jones, of Virginia, who is championing the cause of Philippine independence, met him and sought to impress upon him the necessity of some action on that question during the extra session.

Mr. Jones secured an appointment with the president for Friday when he will further urge Philippine legislation.

The net result of pressure for action on subjects other than tariff has been the adoption of a policy of meeting the legislative situation as it unfolds in new congress. The president will send first a message pointing out the necessity of tariff revision and will follow this with a series of messages upon specific things which he believes congress may be able to act upon without unnecessary delay.

Stating the position. This policy is said to have been approved at today's cabinet meeting.

The suggestion that only tariff revision be attempted at the coming session arose from the fear that other day night, and heard the talk by Mr. Mundy, of Newark, N. J., saw the tariff question as a big man in the business world and a large hearted Christian. He takes religion with him in his business, and also puts with it his religious belief, making it his business to let his hand be free for the Master wherever he goes. His talk was helpful to all who heard it, and in close sympathy with the administration is said to be one of the best.

VERMILION, S. D., March 13.—Arrangements have been concluded for the debate here tomorrow night between teams representing Creighton University of Omaha and the University of South Dakota. South Dakota is well supported by the affirmative, and the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the Sherman anti-trust law should be repealed," has been postponed from time to time while his friends made an effort to make good the alleged shortage and to adjust his financial affairs generally.

WIFE DESERTS HUSBAND FOR SOCIETY THIEF

Chicago Missionary Left With Five Small Children

MET BURGLAR IN JAIL

Husband Knew Nothing Of The Relations Between Mrs. Clarkson and Conn Until He Found A Letter

CHICAGO, Ill., March 12.—Rev. Nestor K. Clarkson, a missionary of this city, who was deserted by his wife for Owen P. Conn, the confessed "society" burglar under arrest at San Francisco, today threw considerable light on the woman.

She is said to have deserted her children to go with the man who now declares that he robbed to provide her with luxuries.

Clarkson said that his first knowledge of the relations between Conn and Mrs. Clarkson came when he intercepted a letter written to her by Conn, who was then in prison at Waupun, Wis., for a robbery at Milwaukee.

It was a love letter, though moderate in tone, for the necessity of which moderation the writer expressed regret. Reference was made to the "deceitfulness" of some other woman, and "Mabel" (Mrs. Clarkson) was thanked for a pair of slippers which she had sent to him at the prison.

An excerpt from the letter, which was evidently a reply to one from Mrs. Clarkson, reads: "I recall a message that I received while in the Milwaukee jail from one who said that he would stick to me through thick and thin, but with several hard fire extinguishers and the plant's own equipment of fire hose, and throwing the burning bales out of the window, the flames were extinguished before any damage at all was done."

How the fire got in the excelsior room, Clark explained, may have been caused by someone smoking near it or by sparks blowing in an open window, or in some other unaccountable way.

It is fortunate that the discovery was so timely and that the plant is so well equipped for checking fire in its early stage.

Religion and Business Mix.
Some people will argue that religion and business do not mix, but there are plenty of examples to the contrary. Those who attended the service in the Baptist church Wednesday night, and heard the talk by Mr. Mundy, of Newark, N. J., saw the tariff question as a big man in the business world and a large hearted Christian. He takes religion with him in his business, and also puts with it his religious belief, making it his business to let his hand be free for the Master wherever he goes. His talk was helpful to all who heard it, and in close sympathy with the administration is said to be one of the best.

Since then his trial has been postponed from time to time while his friends made an effort to make good the alleged shortage and to adjust his financial affairs generally.

Regular Session of The General Assembly of 1913 Is Now History

Both Branches of Legislature Adjourn On 64th Day

TO AWAIT EXTRA SESSION

Gavels of President Daughtridge And Speaker Connor, Fell Simultaneously, House First To Finish

RALEIGH, March 12.—The regular session of the general assembly of 1913 passed into history yesterday afternoon at a quarter after four o'clock when the gavels of President E. L. Daughtridge of the Senate and Speaker George W. Connor, of the House, respectively, fell simultaneously and the two branches of the legislature were formally adjourned as adjourned sine die.

So ended the sixty-fourth day of the session, the members present having remained on duty four days without pay.

The legislature adjourned with the understanding that it will be called by the governor in extra-ordinary session within twelve months. The prevailing opinion among the members of the legislature points to next January as preferable for the extra session.

In addition to the early morning sessions of both houses, held just after midnight for final reading on the revenue bill, the Senate and House held two sessions each yesterday. The Senate was busy much of the day discussing of numerous bills. So did Mr. Mintz and Mr. Justice and Mr. Page. Mr. Wooten opposed it but the House had little to do but to mark time and wait for the Senate to finish its work and get ready to adjourn. No bills of any public interest were taken up by the House. Hundreds of bills were ratified. Dozens were passed, defeated or tabled by the Senate.

Representative Keilm, of New Hanover, moved to recall from the table the bill to give the commission of labor and printing more supervision of the state's printing, and to limit the amount to be spent by each of the departments for this object. He made the motion on condition that the members present deemed it not in violation of the agreement made at the early morning session. Several members favored the measure, but some objected and Mr. Keilm withdrew his motion. The bill was left dead, although Representative Ray, of Macon, stated that Commissioner Shipman had declared that if the bill passed and did not save the state $100,000 a year in the matter of printing he would resign his office.

Most of the members of the general assembly left the city yesterday and last night. Only fifty members of the House answered the final roll call at 10 o'clock yesterday.

SENATE, Last Day's Session
President Daughtridge recovered the Senate at 10 o'clock, prayer being said by Rev. H. M. North, pastor of Anderson street Methodist church.

To Have Organization Meeting
Senator Ivey presented a joint resolution giving the governor the power to call the joint committees on Constitutional Amendments together at such time as he may deem proper for the purpose of organization. It was adopted.
