

COUNTRY WILL BE CRIPPLED BY THE STRIKE

500,000 Workers Will Walk Out Today Says Report

SITUATION IS NOW SERIOUS

Impossible to Predict to What Extent Vegetable's Political Strike Will Last, Everything At Standstill

FRUSSIA, April 12.—While it is impossible to predict to what extent the threatened general strike will be the industry after Monday, it is evident now that the situation is beginning to be regarded as extremely serious.

The Socialists declared tonight that 500,000 workers will go out, crippling the entire country.

Vegetables whose vessels docked at Antwerp today notified all agents that they would decline to assume responsibility for freight, beginning tonight. All merchandise now en route from the United States will be landed at Rotterdam or Hamburg.

Twenty loads of oves and grates destined for Antwerp already have been diverted to these ports. The Red Star line is accepting no freight.

Farmers who supply vegetables to Antwerp have given notice that they dare not attempt to bring in anything after Monday. Those supplying Brussels have requested a police guard. One hundred canal boat loads of potatoes, which arrived here today were luckily sold.

The inhabitants are laying in provisions for a long siege. Employees of the municipal water company, lighting and street cleaning departments have been notified that their participation in the strike will forfeit their positions and rights to pensions and it is hardly likely they will join the movement.

The Socialists declare that no violence will be permitted. If they can maintain the strike for a few days without violence they believe a moderate settlement will be reached. More than 1,000,000 workers will come to Brussels and ask the king to intervene.

Singular variations of sentiment have been developed both in the Belgian capital and in the provinces in connection with the strike. Only strange phenomenon is present, acts of tact, to the movement given by many employers. Some of them have even declared that they will continue their workmen's wages during the strike. The clerical newspapers insist that rich liberals are privately swelling the strike fund, while liberal and radical clubs in various cities are openly supporting the movement by subscriptions. The minister of war is transferring all troops from the post, where they have been stationed, to other places, and the soldiers have no acquaintances and so can be used more effectively in case of disturbance.

MY BIRTHDAY

Master of Elitank

Alexander William Charles Oliphant Murray, Master of Elitank, who is the Liberal "Whip" in the House of Commons, was born April 20, 1870, and is the eldest son of the tenth Baron Elitank. His family is one of great distinction. The first Lord Elitank was one of the six peers who opposed the delivery up of Charles I. to the Parliament of England. The present Master of Elitank began his public career at the age of 22 as private secretary to the Permanent Under Secretary of State for the Colonies. Since 1900 he has sat in the House of Commons for Midlothian.

After graduating from Columbia College in 1876 he was in Holland and for several years studied at the universities of Heidelberg, Halle and Geneva and at the Royal Statistical Bureau in Berlin. Upon his return to the United States in 1881 he became the head of the department of political economy at Johns Hopkins University. Good Road Column

Good Roads For Burgaw

BURGAW, April 12.—At the meeting of the board of county commissioners a petition of citizens of Burgaw township was presented asking the board to call an election on the question of good roads. The proposition to be submitted is whether there shall be a bond issue or a special tax levied. The board called the election for May 31.—News and Observer.

Burgaw township is taking steps in the right direction. The quicker the people shake off their lethargy and become interested in the improvement of roads; the more rapidly will be their strides of progress.

It is a pretty safe bet that Burgaw township will issue bonds, for its citizenship is an intelligent lot and they know the value of immediate road improvement.

There is but little to be gained by an increase in the road tax. If some means cannot be devised whereby sufficient funds can be raised with which to make permanent improvements, we now raise under present tax rate, $5,500.00 each year for the improvement of roads in Greenville township; yet it would take an expert to show where the roads have received consideration to justify the expenditure of one-half that amount.

A bond issue will avail us of the funds, which placed in the hands of a trained road builder will give permanent results. It does not mean that the township will give up the roads and the future generation the burden, for by placing aside a sum on compound interest each year, a sufficient sum to pay off the debt will have accumulated when the bonds become due. Thus the debt is paid off by year and no generation is burdened with the bonds. Let's have the roads and stop the strain on the team, stop the wear and tear on the vehicles that would last twice as long, and stretch one day into two by making more loads and hauling more at a load.

Recommendations Receiving No Attention From the President

WASHINGTON, April 12.—It developed that H. M. Green is probably the most likely man to succeed Thomas Wallace as postmaster at Wilmington. Green is a brother-in-law of Dr. Edwin Anderson Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, the latter a close friend of President Wilson. As stated in the Daily News Saturday morning a delegation of Wilmington citizens called upon President Wilson and recommended a man for the Wilmington postoffice. This man was not J. J. Furlong, who it was expected would be recommended for the office by Representative Godwin. Hundreds of letters and telegrams poured in on Senators Simpson and Overman and Representative Godwin within the last 48 hours protesting against Furlong's appointment, and it is now thought that Furlong's chances are not good.

The fact that a man heretofore not considered in the running for the Wilmington plan will be named bears out the statement made in these dispatches Saturday morning that the president will not rely entirely upon the advice of senators and congressmen in selecting men for office. It is thought, though not known positively, that Green is the man whom the Wilmington committee asked Mr. Wilson to appoint and if he is named it will be a victory for the common run of citizens, as against congressional influence.

A congressman who is working in thorough harmony with senators from his state predicted tonight that Mr. Wilson will have a hard road to travel if he insists upon turning down the recommendations of senators and congressmen in the matter of postoffice. He said that quite a large group of senators and congressmen had discussed the proposed policy of Mr. Wilson to ignore their recommendation and they have decided that it is "take our recommendations or allow recommendations to ignore the recommendations to remain in office."

This congressman said that the right to name postmasters had always been left to representatives in congress and that this right would not be given up without a hard fight. But apparently this does not worry Mr. Wilson. The only big postoffice already to be disposed of by the Democratic administration was that at Baltimore. Senator Smith and practically all the Democratic congressmen recommended a man by the name of Mayberry for this place, a position paying about $5,000 a year.

INSTALLATION OF NEW
Y. W. C. A. PRESIDENT

The new president of the Young Women's Christian Association, Miss Mary Chaney, was installed into office on Sunday evening.

Miss Louise Dell Pittman, the retiring president, reviewed the work of the association during the past year and outlined the general plan of work of the whole association, then gracefully turned over the office to Miss Chaney. In expressing her appreciation of the trust placed upon her, she asked for the support of the retiring officers as well as of the whole association and set forth the general policy to be pursued by the new cabinet.

On such occasions it is the custom to have a talk by the president of the school. Pres. Wright made a strong direct talk, commending the work done by the association in the past, charging the new president and her cabinet to remember that their part is to serve to spend themselves for others and urging the lay members to support and help carry out the plan for service.

Pres. Wright is ever ready to do anything that will further the work of the Y. W. C. A.

The music added greatly to the service. Miss Mary Corbell sang solo, the Glee Club a duet and the whole school "I Waited for The Lord."

The following cabinet members were announced:
Vice president, Anna Stanfield.
Secretary, Luella Lancaster.
Treasurer, Kate Watkins.
Chairman of committees: Religious Meetings, Rosa Mae Wooten; Association news, Emily Gayle; Membership, Anna Stanfield; Sunshine, Vera Mae Waters; Social, Mae Belle Cobb; Music, Mavis Evans; Bible study, Katie Sawyer; Mission study, Carol Griffin; Rowland Cuthrell.

THREE SHOTS WERE FIRED

King Owe His Escape To His Own Courage, Quickness And Skill—Ed Horsemanship, As-Sailant Taken

MADRID, Spain, April 13.—For the third time in his reign King Alfonso narrowly escaped today being the victim of an anarchist attempt against his life. Three shots were fired at the king this afternoon in the streets of the capital by a native of Barcelona, Rafael Sanchez Allegro, who was immediately overpowered.

King Alfonso owes his escape to his own courage, quickness and skilled horsemanship. Accompanied by his staff he was riding along the Calle de Alcalá, returning from the ceremony of swearing in recruits, when a man sprang from the sidewalk and seized the bridle of the king's horse with one hand, presenting a revolver pointed blank with the other.

The king, realizing the situation, with rapidly dug his spurs into the horse which reared violently. His quickness saved his life. The bullet, instead of burying itself in the king's breast, struck the horse in the neck, but so close was it that the king's left hand was blackened by the powder discharge.

Before the assailant was able to pull the trigger again a secret service man sprang upon him. The two men fell to the ground locked in each other's arms, struggling furiously. The assassin managed to draw his revolver and fired two more shots in rapid succession, but the officer knocked him arm aside and the bullets flew harmlessly through the air.

At the sound of the first shot the king's staff forced their horses on the sidewalk and made a ring around the assassin, who fought fiercely in the grip of four policemen before he was overpowered and handcuffed.

King Alfonso, as soon as he saw that the man had been secured, raised the crowd, gave a military salute and shouted in a ringing voice:

"Long live Spain."

He then dismounted and reassured his staff, saying:

"It is nothing, gentlemen."

Then upon a mighty roar from the thousands that he was mistaken for another assassin and arrested. He was released as soon as the mistake was discovered. A young Frenchman, who was standing beside Allegro, was arrested, but it does not appear that he was connected with him.

The crowd was so determined to attempt to lynch Allegro who was rushed into a house and kept there until an automobile ambulance, escorted by mounted police, transferred him to police headquarters.

The king had hardly been back in the palace 10 minutes when an Irish monarchist had the two squares on which the palace looks were black with people of all classes, desirous of showing their joy at the king's safety and their admiration for his bravery. The king went to the balcony and acknowledged the cheers and then sought the queen and stood bowing to the throngs for several minutes.

THINGS ONE CAN'T LOSE

By GENE DUEY.

"Hold still a minute, while I fasten your collar up," commanded the girl with the snappy black eyes. "You'll be losing that wonderful good as gold pin some day if you don't keep it fastened."

"That's just what I'd like to do," announced the girl with the pin and the imitation Irish lace waist. "Honest to goodness, I've had that pin three years, and I simply can't lose it! I lost a solid gold, 18 carat pin one day, and I stopped in at a ten cent store and bought this one to use temporarily, and I've used it ever since. My real gold pin I had three days when I lost it. But this little old cheap one feels to me like a mortgage on a farm."

"That's always the way with anything you want to get rid of. You simply can't lose it. A friend of my mother's gave her a vase for Christmas one year; got it as a premium with some laundry soap, I guess. It was the awfulest looking thing you ever saw, with a lid, and roses standing out on it like doorknobs. Ma said she would be so thankful if somebody would accidentally trip that thing over the stairs and smash it to bits."

"Well, I pulled it off the mantel once when I was cleaning, and it rolled across the carpet and turned its awful end up at me without even touching the floor. And Ma had another little ornament that she just set her heart on. It's cloisonné. I believe they call it. One day I was just mending the piano and jarred it a little, when down it went on the piano bench and clattered a big piece out of it, and put a dint in the piano bench as big as your hat."

"It surely is funny the way things stick to you when you don't want them—that's a fact," agreed the young woman with the snappy black eyes. "It was going down the street one wet day and I had on a pair of rubbers that were just about worn out. One of them kept slipping off at the heel, until it nearly drove me crazy. So I decided to kick it off and let it go. I gave my foot a flirt and off came the rubber, and I trotted along peacefully in the rain."

"About half a block down the street somebody touched me on the arm, and I turned around and there was a

It Will Save Time

"They took an ocean voyage for their honeymoon. The second day out 'dearie' was experiencing the unreliability of an ocean that was guaranteed to be without variances or shadow of turning and wondering if 'dearie' could by any human effort obtain a position abroad when 'dearie' entered the station."

"It is lunch time, dearie; shall I have your brought now or will you try to eat it on deck?"

"No, love; have it thrown overboard. It will save time and trouble."

"Beg Pardon," He Says.

good looking young man holding out his hand to shake hands. "Beg pardon," he says, "but I saw you lose this. May I give it back to you?"

"What could I do but stick out my foot and let that nice young man put on my old mangled rubber? But I was so mad at him that I wanted to tell him not to meddle with my affairs."

"If it had been a new rubber there wouldn't have been a soul in sight to see you lose it or to play the fairy prince to your Cinderella," remarked the girl with the imitation Irish lace waist.

"You know Mrs. Brown, who runs the boarding house where I live. She fixes up lunches for me to bring to the office. Of course, I pay extra for them, but I get kind of tired of them sometimes. One day last week she tied up a lunch in a newspaper for me, and I didn't put the string around it very tight, and before I got over to the station she had it unwrapped. I had visions of myself strewn pickles and doughnuts all over the train, and I thought I would just ditch the whole package in the station and buy a lunch downtown."

"Well, when I went to get on the train I had left the package on the seat in the station and made a dash for it. I saw it was there, and I comfortably seated an old lady dashed into the coach and squeezed past the crowd until she got to where I was sitting. What did she do but take my hands but my lunch, bursting out on all sides of the newspaper!"

"Of course, I had to thank her. I did dare to leave that package in the train for four somebody else would follow me over to the office and present it to me again, so I had to carry the feed over to the office as tenderly as if I loved it. So I had to eat it at noon, after all. If that newspaper had contained something really valuable I'll bet neither wishes, pleading that it was the best of the best,

HELP THE TRAINING SCHOOL

The people of Greenville especially are aware of the inadequacy of the dormitory capacity of East Carolina Teachers Training School to accommodate all the students who seek such admission. For two years past the summer terms of the school have far overrun its capacity and while many applicants had to be turned away, the number denied admission would have been much larger but for the people of Greenville opening their homes to students. The legislature was appealed to for the relief of this condition through an appropriation that would provide sufficient dormitories, but only handed the school a pittance in comparison to its needs. Until this need is supplied, the people of Greenville must continue to aid the school as far as possible, even if it does give them temporary inconvenience in their homes.

Right now is another time when the assistance of the people is needed. The next summer term is drawing near and already the applications for admission are for ahead of the dormitory capacity, so that every day applicants are being turned down. President Wright, grateful for the help of the people of the town in the past, is again asking them to come to the assistance of the school in providing quarters for students, and it is hoped he will get many prompt responses to this appeal. It is not like Greenville to do otherwise.

BRUTAL INHUMANITY

As much as is being done by Christianity and education for the uplift of humanity, there are instances coming to light now and then, right here in North Carolina, too, where people by their acts show themselves more beast than human. It has been but a few days since a woman in one of the western counties was arrested on the charge of murder, having taken her little grandchild out to a mountain cliff, piled rock around it so it could not escape, and left the little one there to starve to death. Another case of almost equal brutality, though a death did not occur, has been discovered in Surry county. There a man with an afflicted child, the mother being dead, married a second time. He sold all his belongings and with his new wife went to Tennessee, leaving the afflicted without home or relatives to become a public charge. A warrant has been issued for the man's arrest and Governor Craig has made requisition on the governor of Tennessee for the man to be brought back to North Carolina to be dealt with. It is hard to realize that people could be so heartless as in these two cases.

In the next two months there is likely to be much discussion of stock law in that section of the county in which a stock law election is to be held in June. The people in the section affected will make a serious and expensive blunder if they take a backward step in this matter, to say nothing of the bad feeling engendered. The way stock law sentiment is growing, it is only a question of a few years before it will become state wide and any section already having a stock law and changing from it, will soon have to change back. Any change in that particular now will be the people bringing a needless and expensive burden upon themselves. It is the experience generally that where farmers give stock law a fair trial they do not want to go back to old conditions.

"A fool at one end and fire at the other" was the definition once given of a cigarette. All cigarette smokers are not fools, of course, but when a small boy and a cigarette get together the combination is a dangerous one. Not only is it dangerous to the boy through the physical injury to himself, but there is no telling what damage he may cause otherwise. The recent fire in Goldsboro that destroyed property running up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars in value, was caused by two boys who hid in a warehouse to smoke cigarettes.

A meeting of much interest to North Carolinians, particularly those from the eastern section of our state, is the annual convention of the National Association of Shell Fish Commissioners, which is to be held in Norfolk, Virginia, on April 23-24. Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, state biologist of North Carolina, is president of this association. Discussions relating to the cultivation of the oyster and other shell fish will be of particular interest to our fishermen, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance from North Carolina at this convention.

The sermon of Rev. C. M. Rock in Memorial Baptist church, Sunday night, gave his hearers something for serious consideration. Mr. Rock occasionally preaches on local conditions, pointing out evils that should be corrected for the betterment of the community and the safety of youth, and his admonitions on these subjects are most timely. He says nothing harshly, but in the spirit of love and the heart as he feels it is his duty to do. Such sermons leave an impression for good.

The statements of the banks under a call of the comptroller of currency and corporation commission, showing their standing at the close of business on April 14th, are now appearing in print. Every person interested should read these statements with a view of ascertaining just what our banking institutions are doing. The people of Pitt county can look with pride at the standing of our banks in comparison with others throughout the state.

The statement of examination of the work of the Water and Light Commission of Greenville, as published in this paper, shows how well the plant is getting along under the superintendency of Mr. H. L. Allen. An analysis of the figures should interest every citizen of the town. The plant is making great strides both in efficiency and earnings.

When you talk about Greenville, it is something worth while. There is no town in Eastern North Carolina passing brighter prospects or better advantages in every way than are in evidence right here and there is no danger of our magnifying these opportunities. The index of progress is in evidence on every hand and this is going to be the best year in the history of the town.

There is a real how-do over the water plant in Raleigh, arising out of negotiations of the city to take over the plant from the company owning it. Appraisers on the part of the company declared the value of the plant to be $539,552, while appraisers for the city put it at $193,000. Quite a difference in figures to be bridged over the arbitrators.

The whiskey dealers of Virginia are putting up money to test the search and seizure law of North Carolina. They had just as well be holding on to their ill-gotten swag, for the search and seizure law of North Carolina is going to stand, and the officers are going to put a stop to blind licensing on Virginia whiskey shipments.

Two children of Greenville having to be sent to Raleigh for the Pasteur treatment, is all the more reason that dogs should not be allowed to run at large. Things like this may continue to occur as long as so many people think more of dogs than of the safety of children.

President Wilson has removed Bob Small, a negro politician, as collector of the port of Beaufort, S. C. This office is to be hereafter filled by F. P. Colcock, a progressive Democrat. Another negro collector at Jacksonville, Fla., is the next one scheduled to receive the axe.

THE JUNIOR-SENIOR RECEPTION AT E. C. T. S.

On last evening the Juniors gave a brilliant reception in honor of the Seniors. Each year this is the most important social event among the classes of the Training School. This was held on the third floor. The Y. W. C. A. hall was beautifully decorated in plants and flowers, a large "13" opposite the entrance and a bowl of sweet peas, the flower of the class of '14, attracted especial attention.

In this room was the receiving line composed of Pres. and Mrs. Wright, Miss Graham, the class adviser, Mrs. Beckwith, Lady Principal, Miss Mahele Cobb, Pres. of the class, Miss Cora Mae Griffin, Vice Pres., Miss Mavis Evans, Secretary, Miss Anna Standfield, Treasurer, Misses Blanche and Laella Lancaster, Council members, Miss Gayle, ex-president, Miss Daub, ex-vice president.

At the end of the corridor punch was served under a bower decorated in blue and white, colors of "13". The Reclining Hall was decorated in violets, the flower of the class of '13, and in purple and white, the colors of "14". On a row of tables on each side of the hall were steaming chafing dishes from which delicious creamed chicken was served. With the chicken were served celery, olives and cheese balls.

High over the heads of the guests suspended a mysterious looking banner, which excited curiosity. Miss Cobb, president of the class of '14, lowered this. Mr. Austin handed out to each one present a favor. Each senior a dainty ivory fan decorated in violets. To each member of the faculty was given some little joke or "sell", for instance, Pres. Wright at last has the famous "Trazier's Mule". Each of the Junior class also received some clever little favor, a surprise to them slipped in by Miss Graham. The giving of the favors ended much merriment.

During the evening members of the class played or sang. Miss Mavis Evans and Gertrude Critcher sang solos, the class glee club sang a chorus and Misses Perrett and Ross and Miss Albritton played.

The success of the evening is due to the combined work of the Juniors, numbering fifty, under the direction of Miss Graham.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT, ALSO ADDS THE NO HEALTHY ENTERPRISE WILL BE INTERFERED THEREBY. VIEWS WERE EXPRESSED OPENLY

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Wilson believes the tariff bill needs the general approval of the country, that no healthy business, either started by the tariff or only will be interrupted; and that while in most cases the cost of living will not be immediately reduced, the consumer will feel at once the benefit of a reduction in the sugar duty.

These views were expressed today by the president in an open talk with newspaper men at the White House. He explained that his main reason for desiring a reduction on sugar was that the consumer deserved it.

The president declared that arrangements by which prices were fixed would surely be made impossible when a truly competitive situation was created, and that the public would get the benefit very promptly in the case of sugar, because he knew competitive elements were ready to co-operate. Continuing, he said, he had received from some perfectly legitimate interests, contending that the cuts in their cases were more than they could at present stand.

Mr. Wilson said he did not see any ruinous cuts in the bill. He referred to the fact that members of the Ways and Means Committee had heard every person in interest and that their judgments were based on those hearings.

It was suggested to the president that many Ohio Democrats in congress felt that free wool would be ruinous to the wool industry. Mr. Wilson said he had been trying to inform himself as much as possible on that subject, but he did not feel their fears were justified by facts. He remarked that he had heard just the other day that the price of wool was the same on both sides of the water.

In connection with the sugar tariff the president was asked if he thought sugar factories, both beet and cane could operate under free sugar. He said that he certainly thought they could, remarking with a smile that factories might shut down for a few days for a time, but that they would open for business later.

The president said he hoped to open reciprocity negotiations with various countries as soon as the tariff bill was passed.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 14.—A conference of Republican senators has been called for tomorrow morning to consider plans for retaliating upon the Democrats for holding up more than 1,200 Republican nominations in the last few months of the Taft administration.

Senator Townsend is willing to move to fight President Wilson's nominations and Senators Root, Burton, Jones, Kenyon, Lippitt and Codd signed the call for the conference.

Indications tonight were that differences of opinion are likely to develop tomorrow. Senators who signed the call take the position that President Taft made these nominations in good faith without regard to political exigencies and maintain that they should have been confirmed.

Senator Townsend is willing to keep up the battle until the Democrats concede they were mistaken and are willing to confirm the Taft nominations where no good reason for withholding approval is shown.

Some of the Republican leaders, however, are likely to oppose the plan to fight the Wilson nominations. They see little to be gained by it and are of the opinion that they will have enough to do in other ways of combating Democratic policies.

ed the two runners. After Carolina had scored five the third through Thompson's lackness and timely drives by Neff and K. H. Bailey, Virginia hustled along until the fifth, when a left batsman and Finley's hit counted a run. In the seventh Finley doubled and scored on Phillips's single. In the eighth, a Virginia runner reached second with no outs. Aycock handled Beckwith's sacrifice, Strickley lifted an easy short fly and Green fanned. In the ninth Grant and Finney fanned and Phillips ended the game with a fly to center.

The work of Williams at short, Thompson at left and Bailey in center had much to do with Carolina's victory. Strickley at third, was easily the star infielder for Virginia and his fast work kept the Carolina score down. Finley easily led the team in hitting, having a double and two singles in five times up.

BRUSSELS, April 14.—The vast political strike, planned by the Belgian socialist trade unions began at dawn today. The first workmen to take part in the movement were the night shifts of the mines and mills throughout the country.

They left the various plants in charge of a few care-takers, told off by the socialist leaders to keep the property from deteriorating. At least 250,000 men laid down their tools during the morning. There were numerous exceptions to the general walk-out in many districts, however.

The strike is complete in such places as the mining districts, but is scarcely discernible in some localities. In Brussels, itself, the strike must be looked for in order to be found. Probably one-fourth of the workmen engaged in the suburban factories did not report for work today. The socialist committee here estimates that 20,000 men have struck in the capital.

Reports from the provinces tell of partial or complete stoppage of work at Liege, Charleroi, Mons, La Louviere and smallest cities. At Mons there are 40,000 strikers and at La Louviere twenty-six thousand, most of them belonging to the metal, carriage building and tobacco trades.

PUBLIC TROUPOGNAFES CHOKE WITH EAGER ONES TO GAIN ADMISSION TO THE CHURCH WHERE REMAINS OF J. P. MORGAN WERE

NEW YORK, April 14.—Funeral services over the body of J. Pierpont Morgan were held at 10 o'clock this morning in St. George's Protestant Episcopal church, where he had worshipped for half a century. Afterwards a special train conveyed the funeral party to Hartford, Conn., for final services at the Morgan mausoleum in Cedar Hill cemetery.

Blanketed by a covering of 5,000 red roses, Mr. Morgan's favorite flower, the coffin left the Morgan library, where the body had lain in state since Friday night, shortly before 10 o'clock for the church.

A vested choir of 250 voices preceded the funeral party into St. George's. Behind the choir came the clergy; then the pallbearers, the coffin and the family.

Fifteen hundred persons, one of the most notable gatherings New York has seen for many years were crowded into the church. Admission was by card only. So great had been the demand for tickets that many hundreds could not be accommodated. Not half of the congregation of St. George's, with whom Mr. Morgan had worshipped, obtained admission.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Karl Relland, rector of St. George's; the Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of the diocese of Connecticut; and the Rt. Rev. David H. Greer, bishop of the diocese of New York. These were the clergymen chosen by Mr. Morgan in his written instructions made some time before his death.

There were twelve honorary pallbearers, selected chiefly from the cluster of men closely identified with Mr. Morgan in his career. They were George S. Bowdoin, Lewis Cass Leary, Robert W. DeForest, Henry Fairfield Osborn, United States Senator Elmhurst, Joseph H. Choate, Robert Bacon, Governor F. B. Baker, Dr. J. W. Makroo, Elbert H. Gary, Seth Low and Martin W. Paton.

Among the flowers there were orchids and palm leaves from the Emperor of Germany; a gold maltese cross beneath a crown of palms from the French republic; garlands of red violets and lilies of the valley from the British Ambassador; a wreath of orchids from the Italian government. About fifty floral pieces were selected to be taken to Hartford.

There was no variation in the services from the Episcopal ritual. The choir sang from the 39th and 90th Psalms. "Lord let me know my end and the number of my days," was sung as the coffin entered the church, "Asleep in Jesus," and "Lead Kindly Light," favorite hymns of Mr. Morgan, were sung by the choir; "Calvary" was sung as a solo by Harry Burleigh, and "The Lord's Prayer," as the funeral party left the church the choir sang "For All Thy Saints who from Their labors Rest."

Goldsboro Woman Is Murdered In Hospital

Prince Attempted Suicide After Firing the Two Fatal Shots—Accompanied to Hospital by a Lady Companion.

GOLDSBORO, April 14.—This morning shortly after 9 o'clock E. Cleveland Prince, a prominent young business man of this city, accompanied by a young lady visited the Goldsboro hospital, where Mrs. May D. Carter Lomax was a patient undergoing treatment for a sprained ankle, the result of an automobile accident, and shot her dead in her room.

Soon after the two entered Mrs. Lomax's room the young lady was questioned by Prince to step into the hall at a moment that he wanted to have a word private with Mrs. Lomax and hardly had she complied with the request when two pistol shots rang out in the room and through the hall and when the startled nurse and other persons hurried to the scene, they found Mrs. Lomax dead with a pistol shot through the head and Prince writing in agony from a like shot, self-inflicted immediately after shooting Mrs. Lomax. Her death was instant.

There was a noticeable intimacy between him and Mrs. Lomax. In connection with the case, a person observed suspected that an infatuation existed mutually between them, but few, if any, gave it a serious turn in their minds. Rumors, however, began to go the rounds, as rumors will, and sprang about four months or so ago west for his health and people forgot it.

He returned two weeks ago, and Thursday night he and Mrs. Lomax, in the latter's automobile, left the city together after midnight on a "joy ride", and Friday morning the wrecked automobile was found on the road near this place. Yesterday Mrs. Lomax was entered as a patient in the hospital for nursing.

At this hour Prince is still living, but unconscious and there is no hope for his recovery. The murder and attempt at suicide was a shock to the whole city as both were from prominent families.

N. C. Senators Talk With President Wilson

Simmons Says He Never Heard Rumor That Watts Would Be Made Marshall and Dwood Collector.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Senators Simmons and Overman today talked with President Wilson relative to the president's attitude towards recommendations for federal appointments in North Carolina. Both Senators Simmons and Overman after leaving the White House said their conference was entirely satisfactory and most pleasant. Senator Simmons was asked if he discussed the appointment of Col. A. D. Watts as collector for the western district of North Carolina and he said that that's appointment was discussed in a general way. No inferences of the federal way were filed with the president today, however.
