The Tax

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—The radical changes in the income tax plan of the Underwood tariff bill and the alteration of the administrative features of the measure to overcome most of the objections raised by foreign governments were agreed upon in tentative way today by the Democratic members of the senate finance committee.

The income tax, under the new plan, would apply to individual incomes over $3,000; but would make

These provisions brought protest from many nations.

Democrats of the committee made it clear today that some further changes might be made in the income tax and administrative sections before they were reported to the senate caucus, but the revised sections as made public today are expected to stand with but little alteration until the caucus reaches them.

CARNEGIE'S GIFT TO VANDERBILT

Andrew Carnegie's proposed gift of $1,000,000 to Vanderbilt University has been characterized by Bishop Warren A. Candler, one of the leading bishops of the Southern Methodist church, as "not a donation, but a shrewd attempt to get control of part of the university property". The noted bishops adds, also, that the retired iron master is "dangling money before the public for the purpose of influencing litigation pending over the university."

No holder attempt than this was ever made, we suppose, to get control of a university in the south. And, if the great iron master is to cause trouble, or to wrest from the Southern Methodist Church the control of property that is and has always been its own, he could scarcely have chosen a better time than this to muddy the waters and so cause confusion. Just at this time the whole church is waiting almost breathlessly for the decision of the supreme court of Tennessee in an appeal that was taken from the decision of the chancery court in which every point was decided in favor of the church. Mr. Carnegie perhaps thinks that by offering this big gift just at this time, it might tend to throw public opinion against the claims of the church, and cause the courts to make a decision that the university does not belong to the church, and that the church has no right to control it.

Mr. Carnegie, apparently not satisfied with his share of the control of the steel business of the country, is now trying to get control of the institutions of learning of the south. The righteous indignation of the south, and of the Methodist Church, in particular, should be aroused at such boldness as this. It seems that Mr. Carnegie's gift is offered on conditions, which in substance, amount to nothing more nor less than the relinquishment by the church of all of its control of the university. If this be the case, then the entire donation should be flatly refused. The donor has some very peculiar ideas of his own which he is trying to bring about in this matter and apparently he cares little whether his gift is of benefit to the recipient, so long as his purposes may be served by it.

Four bishops of the church have given notice that they expect to file their reasons why the gift could not be accepted. What these reasons are, we do not pretend to know, but we have sufficient confidence in the integrity and the judgment of these men to believe that they would do nothing that would not work for the best interests of the university which is the pride of the south, and of the Southern Methodist Church, in particular. Interesting developments will no doubt be forthcoming in the matter sometime soon and these will be awaited with the greatest interest.

DANIELS FOR GOVERNOR

The Richmond Times-Dispatch several days ago carried a story to the effect that prominent men in this state were about to concede the next gubernatorial nomination to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels. There might have been some private, inside talk about that, but we venture the assertion that there was seriously in five hundred who had ever heard of that until the Richmond paper came out with its story. Furthermore, we do not believe that Joe Daniels wants to be governor of North Carolina. What would it profit him to get it? If he is looking for honor and publicity, he already has a place that keeps him in the limelight far more than the governorship of North Carolina could ever do. If he is seeking a place that carries with it a big name, he now has a position that entitles him to a seat around the biggest and most important table in the world. And there is one thing certain, he is now drawing a salary more than twice the sum he would get as governor of his state.

But, these are only our views. Mr. Daniels may want to be governor for reasons known only to himself. However, if he should decide to come out for the nomination, we do not believe that it would simply be passed up to him for the asking. While he has done so much for the state, he still has political and a few personal enemies. There would have to be overcome or brought over. But, should Mr. Daniels want to be governor, we believe he can get the nomination, which of course means election. If he were governor he would do his very best to carry out the principles of a fair show for every man, which he has for so many years urged through his paper.

It is too soon, however, to talk about a nomination that is three years in the future. These few remarks were brought about by an additional in a western paper that is mentioning candidates, and not by a desire to talk politics.

MORE MANUFACTURING PLANTS FOR GREENVILLE

Visitors coming to Greenville often wonder where the business comes from that makes the town go. They are all agreed on the fact that there have a town that is growing, but where does the business come from? When told that it is all drawn from the fertile farming section about here they are astounded at the enormous volume of business that is transacted as well as the vast amount of farming that is done in Pitt county. Many of them often wonder why it is that, with such splendid opportunities, and such a fine field here, the manufacturing interests of the town are carried on on such a small scale. And, this is what many of the rest of us are wondering.

Why it is that Greenville has no more manufacturing plants that she has? We believe it is only because we have never gone after them. The outside world is ignorant of the vast resources of this section, and consequently none of the big business enterprises have ever located in this section. Hundreds of industries from the north are desirous of getting locations in the south and we believe that some of them should locate here. Greenville is not sufficiently advertised to let the people know what we have, and to acquaint them with the opportunities for development that lie within Pitt county. There should be in this town some organization whose business it would be to look after the commercial interests of the town. Other cities are organizing for this purpose and we cannot afford to be lagging in the matter.

We have enough confidence in Greenville to believe that a cotton mill would be a paying proposition here. Hundreds of bales of cotton that are shipped away from this section annually to help feed the machinery of mills in other parts of the country might just as well be made into goods right here at home. There is no cotton mill anywhere in this section and this town would be an ideal location for one it would seem.

Greenville's greatest need, as a part of her future growth, is additional manufacturing plants. The business men realize this and want something of the kind here. If some organization would make it its business to look into this matter, and push it through, it could be made well worth the time and expense that it would require.

FOR NEW COUNTY HOME

Our attention has been called to the fact that the object of the appeal made by the ladies of the city, and published in Wednesday's paper, relative to the county home, was for the erection of a new home for the county's poor instead of making repairs at the present home. We gladly correct the statements made in the former issue in regard to this matter, and wish to add our approval of the efforts that are to be made in the plant.

Pitt county may not have as much money as some other counties in the state, but there can be no doubt of the fact that her resources are about as plentiful as any of them. She is well able to build a modern up-to-date home for the poor people of the county, and there are many reasons why this should be done. The present home needs to be improved, and since some money must be spent, why not spend it in erecting a new home? And, if the home is erected, as it must be at some future time, it ought to be brought nearer the city. We do not know of any mistreatment of the wards of the institution, but if there should at any time be such, it would be a long, long time, if ever, in reaching the ears of the proper authorities in the city. If the home were located near the town, the members of the Ladies Home Society could very conveniently make frequent visits there, and in that way be sure that everything goes along all right. Again, if the home were nearer town, the expense of its maintenance would be very much less; it would not cost nearly so much to haul supplies to the institution, and medical treatment, when needed, would be much handier.

There are scores of reasons that might be advanced in favor of moving the plant to within a mile or two of the town, and every citizen of the county should join in the appeal of the ladies for a new home.

FREE WILL BAPTIST COLLEGE

Schools and colleges are a great asset for any town, and the more there are in a town, the better off that town is. Just now the Free Will Baptists of this section of the state are planning to move their college away from Ayden. They are casting about over the adjoining counties for a suitable location and are looking with favor upon one or two towns. Thus far nothing has been done by any one in Greenville looking toward bringing the institution to this town. We have already shown that we appreciate having in our town the East Carolina Teachers Training School, and we like it so well that we would like to have another here. Greenville can very easily take care of another institution of this kind, and it will be a long, long time before another such opportunity as the present one comes to the town. No permanent location has been settled upon by the Baptists for the new home of the college, and if action is taken at once, there is yet time to present to the proper authorities the claims of our own. Other towns that want the college are already hard at work trying to bring the location their way, and Greenville can attract just as much attention if the matter is taken up by our people at once.

We fought a hard battle for the Training School and went out, and we believe that we can fight and win out. Let the citizens awake to this opportunity.

MAKE NO CONCESSIONS

Steady persistence in any kind of a fight or campaign is half the victory. If North Carolina is to have relief from unjust freight rates she cannot afford to let up in the fight that has been started. In many sections, it seems, there comes the cry for a compromise and for a substitute for lower freight rates. If this method of pursuit is kept up, there is not likely to be any reduction in the rates charged. The proposal of Commissioner A. J. Maxwell to establish a steamship line from Wilmington to northern ports is a good plan, but we fear too many people are being attracted to this idea and that the rate fight is losing friends because of this. It would seem to us that the thing to do is to bend every energy toward the present unjust freight rates that are being forced upon the state by the railroads. Then, if the state is unable to do anything with the railroads, let us establish the steamship lines and do our own business. Or, if the state fails to get a satisfactory reduction, establish the steamship lines in addition to what has been accomplished.

Commissioner Maxwell's plan to form a gigantic steamship company whose ships would ply between Wilmington and the north, would no doubt result in a lowering of freight rates on shipments made to North Carolina cities. But there should be no letup in the freight rate fight. If the railroads would come down then, they ought to be made to come down now. However, it would be no harm to establish such a steamship line as Mr. Maxwell advocates. No matter what the states does, the railroads will not lower their rates to a par of what freight could be handled for by water, and some corporations might make a good business venture by establishing such a line.

An enormous freight traffic is handled in and out of Greenville, and we see no reason in the world why an association should not be organized here to join the other cities and towns of the state in an effort to have the railroads give a better and a more reasonable rate. Surely we are discriminated against about as much as any of the other cities in the state in proportion to the amount of business that is done here. We believe our people are just as anxious as any of the rest to have this matter adjusted in a satisfactory manner as soon as possible.

The man living in the country, with a farm and good crops, a happy family about him, and who has all the eggs, milk and real butter, and other good things that go with the farmer's life; who rises in the morning at the call of the song bird, and goes to bed with the chickens; certainly that man has no right to envy the fellow in town who stays up attending the theatre until in going to bed he almost meets himself getting up, and who is wakened by an alarm clock, or the rumbling of a street car, or the yell of the milk boy, or the driver of the ice wagon.

Lowering the tariff on cotton goods will be no detriment to our great southern industry. It seems that every time a change is to be made in favor of the majority of the people, some of those capitalists have to kick, but after the will of the people has finally won out, and the thing tried for several years and proved a success, they are ready to come across with their acknowledgement.

It was one of the best things that could have happened to them.

In the death of Dr. Robert S. Young, of Concord, the state lost one of its foremost physicians. He was for many years considered the leading physician in his home town, and his reputation was wider than Concord and Cabarrus county, and even that section of the state. He was a man to whom the people of his home town turned as the final authority in a severe case of sickness and his ability was never doubted.

Farming land in Pitt county is so fertile that it needs but very little guano; yet the farmers here make two or three crops on their land every year. Those homeseekers who turn away from this section when looking for a country home, evidently do not know a good thing when they see it.

The Charlotte Chronicle says: "The small cities of North Carolina are coming right to the front not only from an industrial and economic viewpoint, but also in the matter of local government." And, neighbor, just keep your eye on Greenville, it shall be in the front ranks.

We are told that there is not an empty house in this town, and that the demand for dwellings is far greater than the supply. But if we were to get in a pinch, we believe enough hands could be secured to supply the demand without making any demands upon the other places of employment in the town.

Another Jap has arrived in this country to "round the sentiment" of the people in regard to the California alien land law. And, when he has sounded his sentiment, he will doubtless find that Americans do not propose to sit up and allow those little yellow men to dictate the policy of a sovereign state, or of the national government.

An automobile owner in Charlotte complained recently about the street cars over there exceeding the speed limit. We know of a certain city not far from here where a law should be passed to make the cars speed up a little, especially when a fellow is trying to catch a train and has only a few minutes to get there.

A headline in speaking of a recently married couple, says that they "were quietly married." Sometimes these affairs are so quiet that the invited guests can hardly hear what either of the two says. But we imagine it must be somewhat of a nervous affair for those most interested.

In the matter of Greenville getting the Free Will Baptist College, there is more at stake for this town than our people seem to realize. Other towns have already put in their bids for it and are now planning to make a campaign for the institution, but if Greenville will get a move on her, we shall stand as good a chance as any of the others.

Three or four teams in the Carolina League are certainly having a hot race for the pennant. And as the weather gets hotter and hotter, the fight will warm up in proportion. Here's to the Durham Bulls. Go 'em, Jim.

Now that the Congressional Record is to be supplied free no longer, those undelivered speeches of Congressmen, liberally interspersed with applause will probably disappear, or at least be materially decreased.

ANOTHER COLLEGE FOR GREENVILLE

A meeting of the Carolina Club has been called for tonight, and one of the principal matters to be discussed is the bid that Greenville is to make for the Free Will Baptist Seminary. We are glad that interest has at last been aroused in this project, and Greenville's chances for getting the school are good. This institution is now located in Pitt county, and it keeps it here while we have it. Pitt county will be the loser if some other county bids above us and gets the seminary. We believe, however, that the trustees cannot afford to refuse them if they are properly presented. Every business organization in this town ought to make a personal appeal to the authorities, and, if this is done no one need feel uneasy about the result. This is a denomination at school, but that is nothing in the way of our people making a concerted effort in behalf of the interests of the town.

The location here of the East Carolina Teachers Training School is responsible in a large measure for the great progress our town has made since the school came here, and with two such institutions in Greenville, the growth of the town would only receive that much added impetus toward its advancement. The interests of the town are at stake, and it is the duty of every member of Carolina Club to be on hand tonight. Make it your business to be there if you are a member.

CHEAP LITERATURE

Parents who do not exercise any care or judgment as to the kind of literature their children read, may well accord to take warning from the incident that happened in Washington City Monday when that eighteen-year-old boy attempted to shoot the Allen gang stunt and shot up the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia. We have known of instances where boys were permitted to read this sort of literature, and never a kick or a protest was made by the parents. Such stuff as this, for "stuff" it is, and worthless as that, contributes its share, and a large share toward filling the jails and penitentiaries of our land. As a rule, children love to read. Many of them will read anything they can get their hands on. It is good that they love to read, and this habit should be encouraged in the youth of the nation in every way possible. But it should be the business of the fathers and mothers of the nation to see that their children get hold of only the very best literature that can be had.

TO THE MEMORY OF "STONEWALL" JACKSON

In yesterday's issue of The Reflector was published an appeal from the Stonewall Jackson Monument Association with regard to the proposed monument which is to be erected in Richmond to the memory of this great military chief of the Civil War. To him was due many of the brilliant victories that were won during that awful conflict of the sixties, and more than once did his wonderful presence of mind save the day for the forces of the Confederacy. In spite of the fact that he stands next to General Lee, and in the opinion of some people on an equal with him, only a small bronze statue but a few feet high, stands to remind the world of the great daring of this man. This association is working to raise funds with which to erect a monument in the Capitol of the Confederate States that will in whatever small way it may, serve to remind future generations of what he did for the cause. He believed to be right. We hope our readers will contribute to this fund as they feel themselves able.

The bill introduced in congress yesterday by Representative Roddenberry, of Georgia, is one that will receive the hearty support of the fellow who is accustomed to writing from twenty to forty pages to his girl, and having to pay extra postage to get Uncle Sam to carry it to her.

It makes a fellow feel mighty hot to have to sit back in an office and work and read those advertisements of the summer resorts down where the breezes roar, or up where the snow still caps the tops of the mountains. Whew!

Greenville's first cotton blossom, which was brought in yesterday, is the first that we have heard of in Eastern North Carolina. Another evidence of Pitt county's superiority over some of these other counties.

It may be that President Wilson is treating those congressmen as though he were their "daddy", but everybody knows that some of them are to have "daddies" to make them too the mark sometimes.

The thing has about come to the point where conferences with railroad officials amount to but very little. It is now time for the state's representatives to go into secret session.

Just about this time last year T. R. was making his last stand at Chicago. Thank goodness, he is just about where he will not be able to make this town go, would be the expression.

What is the use of having a speed limit for automobiles if the law is not going to be enforced? A child has to burn his finger before he will keep out of the fire.

They may not succeed in organizing that Amateur League in this section, but interest is increased to a much larger degree when you have a percentage column to watch.

The greatest need of the times in Mexico is for some Bull Moose to stand at Armageddon, and lead the progressives to victory.

Wrightsville Beach ought to shine this week when all those glittering jewels get down there.

New Real Estate Firm

Roy C. Flanagan Is Treasurer and General Manager of New Firm. Quarters in Edwards Building

No enterprise that has been established here has indicated so much for the progress and development of not only this section, but the whole of Eastern North Carolina, as the Standard Realty Company. While the company had been doing some business for about a month, it did not get down to active work until the 15th inst., when Mr. R. C. Flanagan, the treasurer and general manager, was relieved of his former duties as postmaster which he resigned with three-and-a-half years yet to serve, in order to engage in the real estate business.

One has but to look at the personnel of this new company and consider their financial standing and business qualifications, to realize its capacity for development and ability to carry through whatever is undertaken. While they are all comparatively young men, each has made for himself a reputation in the business world that takes first rank. The combining of the young blood, the capital, the integrity, and the business capacity represented by the eight men composing the Standard Realty Company, brings together a force that is represented in few enterprises.

The officers of the company are: H. A. White, president.
T. M. Hooker, vice president.
H. M. White, secretary.
R. C. Flanagan, treasurer and general manager.

Directors: J. H. Randolph, J. W. Perrell, H. A. White, R. G. Flanagan, T. M. Hooker, C. S. Carr, R. C. Flanagan.

Mr. J. H. Randolph is a capitalist and international railroad builder. He is a Pitt county boy who several years ago went to South America, engaging in railroad building both there and in other foreign countries. He is a man of great energy and skill. He has amassed a fortune. His love for the old home brought him back to the place of his nativity, and his means are being liberally invested in development.

It is useless to refer specifically to each of the officers and directors of this new concern, as their reputations among our home people are well and favorably known to all. They are recognized leaders in business and financial circles, and active in those things that go for building up their community.

Not only do these men rank high in business, but they have capital, and can carry through a deal of almost any magnitude. The company will buy farms and city property of all descriptions. They will also look to the placing of colonies on large farms and to general development.

At present their quarters are in the Edwards building, but as soon as the new building of the Greenville Banking and Trust Co. is erected they will have handsome offices in the second story of that building.

Chevers who have tried Black Eagle say it is the best sun cured tobacco they ever used. We sell it, J. R. and J. G. Moye. 619 3m

"LEST WE FORGET"

"Stonewall" Jackson
An association has been formed in Richmond for the purpose of raising sufficient money with which to erect in Richmond a suitable monument to the memory of "Stonewall" Jackson. Under the above heading the following letter has been sent The Reflector to which space is gladly given:
Fifty-two years ago at Manassas we was as always, brilliant and fearless in defense of the hearth stones and liberties of our southland and under this biting test of real fire no man then or thereafter fought faint but the clear shen of pure metal, it was on this field that a knightly comrade about to die, called him "Stonewall".

This new name represented to Jackson's comrades, those sturdy gentlemen who made up the rank and file of the Confederate Army, the synonym of strength and steadfastness, and was peculiarly suitable to his character, and until his death on the field of battle his life stands as a

First Blossom of Season

The first cotton blossom of the season was brought to The Reflector office this morning by Frank Moye, a colored employee on the farm of J. G. Moye. Mr. Moye's farm is located about one mile and a half from town and is one of the finest in this section.

Frank Moye has brought in the first cotton blossom of the season for four or five years past, and he has always presented it ahead of most other farmers in this section of the state. The farm where he works is filled by scientific and intelligent farmers, and by men who know how to get large yields to the acre in whatever staple they plant.

Alleged Slayer on Trial
Mt. Vernon, Ind., June 23:—The case of Walter Pociel, indicted on a charge of first degree murder, was called for trial here today. The case was brought here on the charge of venue, as he had killed Policeman Hitch from Princeton, Where Pociel is al-urday night, injured several miles from town. The young man, accompanied by another young fellow, left the city Saturday night for his home, some nine miles in the country, near the little village of Arthur.

When the party had reached a place several miles from town, Crawford, in some way lost contact with the machine and it ran into a ditch. The machine was overturned and the driver sustained a few slight bruises. The other young man was in the machine was not hurt in any way at all, and immediately called medical attention for the injured man, when it was found that he was suffering from a serious permanent nature had been suffering.

The car was a Ford runabout, and was not being driven at a very rapid rate of speed. Had the speed been greater the results would probably have been more serious. Both young men were back in the city yesterday and appeared not to be in the least incensed because of their experience.

colors had the richness of the rising sun.

But when the devil came into the world the rose grew thorns, according to the Persian of Zoroaster.

The Persians tell a different story. Their first rose bloomed in Gulistan at the time the flowers demanded the from Allah a new sovereign because the drowsy lotus would slumber at night. In one of their old curious tales all the birds appear before Solomon and charge the nightingale with disturbing their rest by his plaintive strains o' faint music. The nightingale tells that it has been his love for and tells that it has been his love for the rose that has driven him to despair—how he beat its wings against his white breast until they bled—and the red rose was born. It may have been the king's sense of justice, or it may have been the beauty of the blood red rose, that formed the king's decision—the nightingale was acquitted.

The Arabs hold that the first rose sprang from a drop of sweat that fell from the brow of Mohammed. They never tread upon a rose petal or suffer one to lie on the ground.

The Christian religion believes that the first rose bloomed in a terrestrial and they must needs be replaced with new ones?

Our friend desires to know what the present situation is. No one that I know of, that makes no difference. We can afford to give it away rather than call down the vengeance of Almighty God upon us for neglecting our poor.

"Who has a piece of land near town?" "I have a piece of land near town," says to unload on the county at an exorbitant price? "More the pity" that some people have been fed on demagoguery until they suspect everybody of graft and fraud. No one would wish to see land at an exorbitant price for such an enterprise. What is the land worth, Mr. Nott, de Plume, on which your fall stands? Are your criminals worthy to rest their wicked bodies on more costly dirt than your poor?

Then our friend wishes to know who is slated for the position of superintendent after the removal of Mr. Jesso, non de plume, I hope. Paul says those who have love for the poor are the best. The suspicious man makes life miserable for himself and others. It is just such people who stand in the way of real progress. Why does not our friend object to a keeper for the jail and courthouse?

"Why are the Kings Daughters anxious to have the home near Greenville?" etc. Because they have in them a different heart to Mr. Jesso. They love the poor and wish to do of service to them. They want the home where they can have a few of the modern comforts of life which they themselves enjoy. Because they are willing to spend their own money much less a little tax to take care of earth's helpless ones. These good women have no axe to grind. They are the tool of no grafters, or office-seekers, and I take it as a grand insult to the good women of Greenville that any man with three spoonfuls of sense should even make such insinuations. No sir, these are honorable, upright, God-fearing, pure and true to be the tool of any; and God be praised there is still left in my soul enough of the old time chivalry to defend them and their cause to the last drop of blood in my veins.

Go on, good women; you have the love and respect of all gallant men who yet respect your sex, and love God and his poor ones.

E. M. HOYLE, Greenville, June 25, 1913.

Mayor Woodley Replies to "Jesso".

"Jesso," Jesso it is, with the man whose mind is poisoned with greed. Your deplorable state of mind prompts you to suspect that your fellowmen are selfish, even dishonest without the slightest foundation for your suspicions. I defy you or any other man to successfully say that any person connected with the effort to improve the condition of the county poor house has in that connection a selfish purpose.

Your insinuating questions are plainly for the purpose of creating the idea that those who are endeavoring to have built a respectable and comfortable home for the county's dependent poor are dishonest in their purpose. Such idea is untrue, and being without foundation is a base insinuation.

Your insinuating questions reflect dishonorably upon the business judgment and integrity of our county commissioners. Who, besides you, "Jesso" (Jesso you be) would insinuate that W. L. McLawhorn, B. M. Lewis, M. T. Spier, J. E. Taylor or W. E. Broderick would permit the county poor house of land to be sold at a sacrifice, or permit a site for a respectable county home to be bought at an exorbitant price? "Jesso" your insinuating questions are strongly suggestive of what you would do if you were in a position to buy and sell land with the "people's money".

Enough for those foolish questions! Another fact is disclosed by your open letter. You made no reference to the welfare of the inmates of the poor house. You contribute not one suggestion by which their misery might be lessened, nor one suggestion by which they might be made less uncomfortable in those miserable shanties now sheltering them. You ignore the human lives, by misfortune, consigned to the poor house and lay stress upon preserving the almighty dollar. Your miserably insinuating open letter shows a man who is not for love for the angel "I pray thee then write me as one who loves his fellowmen."

F. M. WOOLLEN, Greenville, June 25, 1913.

1339—Total defeat of the Turkish army by Ibrahim Pasha on the Euphrates.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS

WINTERVILLE, June 24.—Mr. J. J. Cooper left Monday for Morehead City, where he will spend his summer vacation.

The little infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Manning died Saturday and was buried Sunday. The parents have our sympathy in their bereavement.

A new lot of nice felt mattresses just in at A. W. Ange and Company. It will pay you to get your prices before you buy.

Ice cream. You will find at Cox and Hargrove; also cold drinks and cigars.

Arrington, Barber and Co., are selling their stock of summer dresses goods at a great reduction in price; it will pay you to see them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rollins returned Monday after spending a short vacation at Morehead City.

We regret to hear that Mr. M. T. Spier has been confined to his bed for several days with malaria. We trust that he will be out in a few days.

Mr. A. W. Ange and children came home yesterday after spending a few days in Ayden visiting friends and relatives.

See Harrington, Barber and Company for moving machines and rakes. We are in position to save you money on every purchase.

We have a plenty of soda and top dress on hand. A. W. Ange and Company.

Miss Lina Wade of Morehead City, left this morning for the Training school where she will resume her studies.

After spending a few days with friends in our city, Miss Lina won many friends while here in school last year.

Free Trip! Left Monday for the "land of the sky," Miss Alice expects to spend her summer vacation at Ridge Crest.

For the next fifteen days we will sell all our dry goods and notions at cost, making a general inspection of the new plant.

Prof. F. C. Nye returned this week from Bertie county where he made several educational speeches, and visited the homes of several of the old students. He reports a good trip.

Mr. John Griffin of Ayden was in on good yesterday.

Miss Horne Ragsdale, of Greenville is here visiting Miss Mimie E. Cox this week.

Mr. Derwood Tucker of Greenville happened to a bad accident on last Sunday while coming to Winterville.

Mr. Tucker was on a horse-drawn wagon when his buggy wheel became entangled with that of the wagon. The buggy was up set and torn to pieces, but Mr. Tucker only received slight injury, as he was thrown from the buggy when it first became entangled. The horse ran for a short way and then jumped into the yard at Mr. Joe Barber's. The horse was not damaged more than a few skinned places. It was only luck that more damage was not done, but sorry that Mr. Tucker happened to the accident.

Mr. Paul Harrington, near here, had a stroke of paralysis Sunday. We understand that his condition is quite critical.

The marriage of Miss Mimie Elizabeth Cox to Mr. Herbert Jenkins will take place Thursday evening at nine o'clock in the Baptist church. All friends are invited to be present at the wedding and also at the reception which will follow at the home of the bride's parents. No cards issued in town.

Remarkable How Zemo Clears The Face Of Pimples And All Other Skin Diseases.

With the finger tips apply a little Zemo to the skin, then see the pimples and blackheads vanish. Zemo is a liquid, not a smear, leaves no trace, just simply sinks in and does the work. You will be astonished to find how quickly eczema, rash, dandruff, itch, liver spots, salt rheum and all other skin diseases are cured.

Zemo is put up by the E. W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., and is regularly sold by all druggists at $1 for the large bottles, but you can get a liberal size trial bottle for only 25 cents. And this trial bottle is guaranteed. You surely will find Zemo a wonder. Get a bottle now from Basnight's Pharmacy.

Doubleless the visitors to Gettysburg next week will before leaving feel like employing the united forces of the Blue and the Gray to make war on the prices that they will have to pay for board and lodging.

Man Beat His Daughter Until Blood Flowed From Wounds

Only The Stars and Stripes to Fly At Gettysburg Next Week

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 24.—Charges that he fastened a chain around the neck of his fifteen year old daughter because he could not control her, a meat hook in his butcher shop and then beat her with the butt end of a buggy whip until the blood flowed freely from wounds on her shoulders and body, were made against J. J. Johnson in the recorder's court this morning.

There are three specific charges against Johnson: disorderly conduct, beating and assault with intent to murder. On motion of the defendant's attorney, the hearing was continued until Friday.

Police Officer R. M. Moore, who arrested Johnson, states that he was called to the Johnson meat market last night by a telephone message from neighbors who heard the girl's screams. The policeman stated that when he reached the shop he found Johnson's daughter, Nellie, hanging from a meat hook, suspended by a chain, which had been wrapped twice around her neck and locked.

Moore arrested Johnson, who was refused bail by the authorities and locked in the jail. Johnson told the authorities he had whipped his daughter because he could not control her.

Mr. Calvin McGlohan has a son that has not been able to walk a step since last September. Dr. Dixon is preparing to take him to Richmond for an operation.

A class of Odd Fellow orphans from the home at Goldsboro will give their concert in the seminary auditorium on July 9th at 8:30 p. m. Hope to see a full house.

Miss Lina Wade of Greenville is visiting relatives in Ayden.

Two young men were baptized at the church of the service at Christian church Sunday morning. Four others took membership as a result of the service.

The Le Grand's meeting at old Antioch church which meeting closed Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. A. W. Ange and children of Winterville, spent Sunday here with relatives.

A sale of personal property of the late J. R. Haddock will take place at his old home Wednesday, June 26th at 10 o'clock a. m.

The Odd Fellows will install their officers next Monday night, as follows:

J. J. LAWRENCE, N. G. C. F. COOPER, V. M. H. G. MURTON, Financial Secretary. C. M. HOLTON, Recording Secretary. R. W. SMITH, Treasurer. Car top dresser and fertilizer at J. R. Smith and Bro.

The degree team of Ayden Odd Fellows will visit to Greenville Wednesday night to confer the initiatory degree on five candidates.

The bridge across Contentnea creek at Beaufort has been completed. Plenty of Mason and economy fruit jars, rubbers and lids at J. R. Smith and Bro.

From the examination of the negro it appears that he entered the store by the back way, and was seen by the storekeeper. The negro was sometimes yesterday afternoon at a time when no one was in the rear end of the building. Atkinson took off his shoes and stealthily walked into the bedroom of Mr. A. C. Holloman, who sleeps in the rear of the store.

He remained there until late in the evening when the store had been closed and the employees had left for the day. He then began his raid. The first place visited was to safe, which Mr. Hadley had temporarily left unlocked, intending to come back to the store before leaving for the night. It was dark when the negro in some way got his hands upon a pocketbook. The pocketbook, however, contained no money, but only valuable papers, though the negro probably thought that he had a roll of bills. It seems also that he must have had the cash register open, but did not get anything there.

Not many minutes after the negro began his pillooting about the store, Mr. Hadley returned to balance his books for the day's business, and to transfer the contents of the cash register to the safe. The negro must have heard the noise of some one approaching, and he hid under Mr. Holloman's bed. Mr. Hadley was quick to see that some one had been in the office and he at once cut off all lights, locked the doors and put the cash register in the safe.

He returned to the store and found with Officer George Clark, and the search was begun. All of the doors of the store were carefully looked, and the lights in all parts of the building were turned on. The office and every part of the store were searched, but no one was found anywhere, though the evidence was plentiful that some one had been in the building. The two men went up the stairs to the second story, and while they were gone the negro crept into another hiding place where the men had already looked, and though that he would be safe there.

When Mr. Hadley and Officer Clark returned from upstairs, they looked over the office again, and this time found the negro. He had only the pocketbook mentioned above, and this, as has been stated, contained no money whatever, only valuable papers.

ATTEMPT MADE TO ROB HARDWARE STORE

The Negro Was Given A Hearing This Afternoon And Bound Over To August Term Of Superior Court

A near robbery occurred last night about 8:30 o'clock, when Preston Atkinson, a negro, was caught with the goods in the rear of the hardware store of Hart and Hadley on Main street. It was not until a thorough search that the negro was apprehended and an untold amount of money was saved for the firm.

The negro was brought before Mayor or Woodley this morning and given a hearing. He was tried for attempted larceny, and was put under a bond of $500, which he was unable to give and he was remanded to jail to await trial at the August term of superior court.

From the examination of the negro it appears that he entered the store by the back way, and was seen by the storekeeper. The negro was sometimes yesterday afternoon at a time when no one was in the rear end of the building. Atkinson took off his shoes and stealthily walked into the bedroom of Mr. A. C. Holloman, who sleeps in the rear of the store.

He remained there until late in the evening when the store had been closed and the employees had left for the day. He then began his raid. The first place visited was to safe, which Mr. Hadley had temporarily left unlocked, intending to come back to the store before leaving for the night. It was dark when the negro in some way got his hands upon a pocketbook. The pocketbook, however, contained no money, but only valuable papers, though the negro probably thought that he had a roll of bills. It seems also that he must have had the cash register open, but did not get anything there.

Not many minutes after the negro began his pillooting about the store, Mr. Hadley returned to balance his books for the day's business, and to transfer the contents of the cash register to the safe. The negro must have heard the noise of some one approaching, and he hid under Mr. Holloman's bed. Mr. Hadley was quick to see that some one had been in the office and he at once cut off all lights, locked the doors and put the cash register in the safe.

He returned to the store and found with Officer George Clark, and the search was begun. All of the doors of the store were carefully looked, and the lights in all parts of the building were turned on. The office and every part of the store were searched, but no one was found anywhere, though the evidence was plentiful that some one had been in the building. The two men went up the stairs to the second story, and while they were gone the negro crept into another hiding place where the men had already looked, and though that he would be safe there.

When Mr. Hadley and Officer Clark returned from upstairs, they looked over the office again, and this time found the negro. He had only the pocketbook mentioned above, and this, as has been stated, contained no money whatever, only valuable papers.
