Switzerland, the Land of Scenic Splendors

LEARN ONE THING A EVERY DAY.

One night less than a century ago a little boat grated on the shore of Lake Geneva, and there stepped from a man enveloped in a long black cloak. The man limped slightly. For over an hour he remained all by himself in the historic dungeon. When he had gone a new name was found carved on the post by which Bonnavard had been chained. "That name—Bonnavard—may be seen today by all who visit Chillon.

Bonnavard, the defender of Swiss liberties, was imprisoned in the Castle of Chillon nearly four centuries ago by the tyrant, Charles III, of Savoy. For six years he languished in his gloomy cell chained to a post in the center. For six long dreary years his jailers heard no word of complaint of suffering pass his lips. And when at last he was rescued by his countrymen his first thought was not of himself, but for his fatherland. Pale and emaciated, still chained to the pillar round which he had walked so many years, he was but a shadow of his former self.

"Bonnavard, you are free!" they cried.
He slowly rose. "And Geneva?"
"Free also!" they replied.

To tell of all the tragedies that have been enacted within the walls of the time-worn stronghold would be impossible. One of the most terrible is the story of the hundred Jews who were tortured and then buried alive on the foolish suspicion that they have poisoned all the wells of Europe.

But the tragedy of Bonnavard is the most famous of them all, and this is due to the poem, "The Prisoner of Chillon," written by Lord Byron. And strange to say, Byron's "Prisoner" was a purely imaginary person. The real Bonnavard's story was quite different.

The Lake of Geneva, the lake of poetry and song, is sometimes also known by the name of Lake Lemman. Its waters form a beautiful blue crescent, forty-five miles long and eight miles wide. It is said that Neptune, the sea-god once came to see the Lake of Geneva, and was so charmed with its beauty that he gave it his own likeness in miniature.

The names of many men of genius are associated with this famous lake. Byron often sailed upon its surface. The poet Shelley nearly drowned there. Madame de Staël lived at one point along its shore. Voltaire, the great genius of France, held his court there for many years. Gibbon finished "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" near its waters.

"Many have praised the Lake of Geneva," Fraydall said that its water is "the purest natural water ever analyzed; Voltaire declared it to be the 'First of Lakes'; Alexander Dumas compared it to the Bay of Naples. It is indeed a lovely place, and only to linger on its shores for a few days is a delight not to be excelled the world over.

FATAL CUTTING AFFRAY IN JOHNSON COUNTY
Festus Warren Dead; Noah Raynor May Die—Others Participated in Fatal Mele
BENSON, July 25.—Festus Warren was cut to death and Noah Raynor was stabbed, probably fatally, in a cutting affray which occurred two miles east of Benson Sunday afternoon in which Arthur Hodges, Joe Bryant and Julius McLamb are said to have engaged. Raynor is in a Willson hospital for treatment, but is not expected to recover. Hodges and Bryant were arrested and taken to jail at Smithfield Sunday. Festus Warren, who was a son of Thomas Warren, a prominent farmer, was 24 years of age, had a family and is said to have been a quiet and unassuming man. Raynor also has a family. Arthur Hodges, who is a son of Alex Hodges, is only about 17 years of age.

It seems that the trouble started Sunday morning at Benson's pond at a baptizing, when Julius McLamb accused Noah Raynor of stealing corn. After the baptizing, Hodges, McLamb and Bryant are said to have followed Raynor and Warren to near Warren's home, where they overtook them, and according to the dying statement of Warren, Julius McLamb and Joe Bonnavard held Warren and Raynor for Arthur Hodges to cut them to death, completely dismembering them.

Afterwards McLamb, Hodges and Bryant went to Banner's Chapel church, for which a disturbance, it is alleged, and raised they were arrested and brought to Benson to jail before it was learned that they had cut Warren and Raynor.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble
When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengel, Plainfield, N. J., writes "For several months past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising books came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all druggists.

Ground Floor Be Used For Drug Store and Other Establishments, While Upper Stories Be For Offices
Plans are now being completed for a fine new four-story office building to be erected on Five Points in this town, and work on the new structure is to start as soon as the architect reaches town and his specifications in shape to be turned over to the contractors.

When completed the building will be the finest in Greenville, and there will be but very few in Eastern North Carolina that can compare with it from beauty and service. No pains or expense are to be spared by the men who are behind it to make it modern and up-to-date in every respect. For some time they have had under consideration the construction of the building, but their delay has been due to a desire on their part to have everything in readiness for making the building something that all of the people of the town might well feel proud, and something that would really be a credit to the town. This they have done, and as soon as all of the buildings can be removed from the site at Five Points, actual work on the structure will be started.

The building is to be modern in every respect. One or two electric elevators will be installed, which will run from the basement to the fourth story, and which will afford every convenience for the public reaching the offices that will be opened. The elevator will be one of the best now in use, and will be large enough and fast enough to handle all of the patronage that it will receive.

Steam heating will be put in, and every room in the building will be so equipped as to be perfectly comfortable at any season of the year. The vacuum cleaning system, which is one of the very best methods of cleanliness and sanitation, will be in use in every part of the four-story structure. There will be running water in every room in the building, and every modern convenience will be afforded those who have occasion to use the building.

On the first or the ground floor store rooms will be fitted up. One of these will be a drug store, and which, at this early date before a brick has been laid, has already been rented by a Williamston man, Mr. Higgs. The other store rooms have not as yet been applied for, but there is no doubt but that they will be taken by the time they are ready for occupancy. Both will be large enough to accommodate a big business, and will afford a fine place to catch the patronage of the public going and coming.

The wooden buildings now standing on the lot will be removed as rapidly as is possible, and as soon as they are out of the way work on the new store will be started. This, it is expected, will be about the first of October, and it is believed that within a year from this time, the store rooms and offices may be occupied.

1590—William Kemmler executed at Auburn, N. Y., the first to be legally put to death by electricity in the United States.

Funds for the construction of the building are being furnished by the following men, who will be the proprietors: Messrs. D. W. Hardee, the Higgs Brothers, and Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse.

San Diego's great faith in the immense project she is carrying out is shown in contributions through bond issues and cash subscriptions to the amount of the exposition to the amount of three and one-half millions of dollars, up to the present time.

President of the San Diego Exposition, makes the positive statement today that the buildings will be completed by the middle of 1914, and that all of the parkings, roadways and general ground work will be done by November of next year.

All foreign countries, states and counties of the United States, and all exhibitors who are to provide buildings of their own, are compelled to have their structures up and ready for occupancy by August, 1914, leaving ample time for the installation of all exhibits and exposition features by the time the exposition gates will open on January 1, 1915.

It is anticipated now that in its entirety the San Diego Exposition will involve an expenditure of ten millions of dollars. Added to the three and one-half millions already in hand, and less than one-third of which has been expended to date, the participation of foreign countries and the states and counties of the United States, together with that of corporations and private concerns who will have buildings of their own for exhibit purposes, will be a total of not less than six and one-half millions, thus bringing the grand total to ten millions.

SIR FRANCIS DRAKE'S "ESTATE" NOT LOCATED

If He Left Any Was Absorbed by His Legitimate Heirs Hundreds of Years Ago

LONDON, August 4.—Certain anxious heirs in the United States have been informed by a firm of attorneys that the estate of the great English navigator, Sir Francis Drake, is ready for distribution, will be disappointed to learn that the most diligent search has failed to reveal the existence of this property.

The American embassy in London has recently received a number of letters from people in New York saying that certain persons representing themselves as the American attorneys of the Drake estate had informed them that their claims to the property of the scourge of the Spanish main could be substantiated. The attorneys demand a percentage of the estate, and incidentally a few dollars in advance to defray the expense of collection.

An investigation at Somerset house, where all estate records are kept, does not reveal the slightest foundation for the claims of the New York attorneys, and if Sir Francis left any estate it was distributed to his heirs several hundred years ago.

Blind Tiger Joint Raided At Galloway's Cross Roads Sunday

As a result of a raid on a blind tiger joint made yesterday morning by Sheriff Dudley, Jim Hardy, colored, is now in jail awaiting trial, and the next term of court, and Galloway and a half of the real "boozers" are now in the hands of the authorities awaiting the disposition that will be made of it later. Sheriff Dudley went to Hardy's place at Galloway's Cross Roads expecting to make a raid, and he was so certain that he had his man that he stopped after he reached the place only long enough to read to the negro the warrant provided by the recently enacted search and seizure law.

Upon seeing the sheriff the negro looked very much like he was scared, and remarked to Mr. Dudley that he hoped he had not come after him that time. But the sheriff had read his warrant and ordered the old darkey to open shop. He went in and began his search. Under a pile of sacks he found a half quart, and the negro, who had just been told by the sheriff that he surely would not get him this time, remarked that he had that only for his own personal use. But Sheriff Dudley was not the man to turn back after once he put his hands to the plow. Further search revealed a whole quart, and Jim told the sheriff that he had forgotten to tell him about that bottle.

The search was continued, and a gallon receptacle was found in another part of the store. The negro openly denied that that belonged to him, but the sheriff finally prevailed upon the blind tiger to make the trip to town with him in his automobile, and Jim is now in jail.

From what could be learned of the affair, Hardy had been running almost an open bar room. He had his place well fixed up, with glass setting on his counter ready to serve his customers. Sheriff Dudley says that he had good evidence that there was a great deal more liquor on hand than he was able to find, but that several other negroes who were present when he drove up, saw the goods getting into the car, and they were escape with the spiritous fire water.

The Astor Baby

What's a baby worth? Well, that depends. When a baby's life is in peril we are ready to give the line as much as we can for as far as human endurance and our means will permit. When Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, widow of the late John Jacob Astor, who perished with the Titanic, gave birth to a son, somewhere between $40,000 and $45,000 was spent for medical attention. Mrs. Astor was probably worth about thirty million dollars.

Funeral of Infant Held Sunday

Funeral services over the remains of little Helen Elizabeth Rowlett, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rowlett, were held at the residence of the parents on Pitt street Sunday afternoon and were attended by a number of the friends and relatives of the bereaved ones. Rev. J. J. Walker, pastor of the Christian church conducted the services, and was in charge of the short ceremony that was held at the grave, all of which were simple but very impressive.

Funeral Editor Preached at the Methodist Church Sunday

Rev. L. S. Massey, of Raleigh, editor of the Raleigh Christian Advocate, the official organ of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist church, filled the pulpit of the Methodist church in this town on Sunday morning and preached a very helpful and inspiring sermon to a large congregation which came out to hear him. Mr. Massey was here in the interest of his paper, which is one of the best Methodist journals in the south. He has been very successful in his efforts to increase the interest of the Advocate, and has secured the subscriptions and renewals of many of the Methodist people here. He preached in the Methodist church in Aiden last night, and was heard by a large and an appreciative congregation. His sermon yesterday was taken from James 4:17: "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." The preacher emphasized the magnitude of the sins of omission, and said that Jesus came here to do things that God required of them. The entire sermon was full of good thought, and showed that the preacher had given it thoughtful consideration.

Hurt While Running to Small Fire

Friends in Greenville of Mr. Leo Stewart, of Washington, will learn with regret of the accident which befell him a few nights ago in his home here started to a fire. It finally turned out that the fire was so small as hardly to warrant the young man going, but he started, and in leaving his home, he struck his foot on the hedge in front of his house and fell to the pavement below. The injury was very painful, an account of which is given below as taken from the Washington Daily News of last Saturday:

Mr. M. T. SPIER DEAD

Following an illness extending over a period of time more than a month, death came Friday afternoon to Mr. M. T. Spier at his home in Waverlyville. The end came about three o'clock, after a long suspense of several days, during which time death was looked for almost instantly. Mr. Spier had been ill for sometime, but not until recently did his ailment take on a very serious turn.

Mr. M. T. SPIER DEAD

Mr. Spier was one of the best known men in the county. For two terms he had served as county commissioner of Pitt county, and was a member of the board at the time the long bridge was constructed across Tar River at the foot of the street. He was one of all of the town. He was one of a very great interest in the project, and gave much of his time and thought to the work.

Mr. M. T. SPIER DEAD

At the time of his death, Mr. Spier was a resident of Waverlyville. Prior to that time he lived in Paeonias township, where for many years he was a justice of the peace, and where he enjoyed the friendship and respect of every one who knew him. It was there that he was engaged in farming, and there that he was recognized as one of the best authorities on crops, where for many years he was a member of the board of the Waverlyville mercantile business, and it was in this business that he labored at the time of his death.

Mr. M. T. SPIER DEAD

Mr. Spier was forty years old and leaves a wife and six children. To the sympathy of their hundreds of friends will go out in this time of bereavement and trouble. The funeral services were held this afternoon at three o'clock at the family burying ground in Paeonias township.

Routes that run through or selected of each of the districts, and when a fire occurs the company's wagon will at first start out on this central street. By the time this street is reached, there will be plenty of chance to ascertain accurately the correct location of the fire and the boys will be better able to handle the trouble. On the contrary, streets of the district no part will at the most be more than two or three blocks off.

A system of alarms has been arranged whereby the firemen from the various parts of the town can know at the first alarm just what district the fire may be in, and they may know for sure which direction they are to travel. These alarms are as follows:

Second district—One long blow, two short blows.

Third district—One long blow, three short blows.

American Novelists
No. 1. HENRY JAMES
Copyright 1912, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

A number of years ago Henry James was at work on a volume of short stories. "And when will it be ready?" he was asked.

"Oh, I never know," he said. "I work by easy stages." That sentence gives the keynote to the character of the great novelist himself and to his writings. He writes carefully, easily, and neatly.

Born in New York City on April 15, 1843, Henry James spent most of his boyhood days in Europe. His father was Henry James, the theological writer, and from him the novelist derived his idiosyncratic, picturesque English. His brother became Professor William James, the psychologist and philosopher, who died in 1910.

Henry James entered Harvard Law School in 1860; but found out soon that he cared more for literature than for law. His first short story was published in 1865, and many stories and sketches quickly followed this.

Since 1869 he has made his home in England, living in London, or Rye in Sussex, for the most part. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and in 1911 received the degree of L. H. D. from Harvard. Mr. James dictates all his work to a secretary, and he rewrites and polishes it from a typewritten copy. With his writing he takes infinite pains. His sentences are long and involved at times; but in spite of this confusing fact his verbs are of the same number as his nouns. That is to say, his sentences are balanced and complete.

His whole life shows the same ordered neatness as his books. His library is carefully selected and shelved. His letters are always arranged in little piles of the same size. One man tells that during a call on the novelist he saw him, when the ash had collected on the end of his cigarette, walk the length of his study and snip it out of the open window.

Henry James has been called modern of the moderns as a novelist. He describes contemporary life; but his characters are people of the world; but they are subtle and complex. The human element predominates. He is not widely read because the public finds him hard to read. As someone said, "His books needs to be translated for the average reader." This due in part to his use of long and involved sentences, and in part to his subject matter.

His career has been a happy one. It has been long, and has been free from serious mistakes. His talent and point of view are personal. He has had a crowd of imitators; but none of approached the master in greatness.

There is on side of the character of Henry James, the man, of which few people know. Never has a man in need come to him whom he has not offered to help. Years ago, when James was deriving an income of less than $1,500 a year from his writings, a novelist died in England. He died in poverty, leaving two little children absolutely alone in the world. A friend assisted the children and wrote to other literary men asking for help. One literary man, whose income was over $200,000, was appealed to in vain. Among those from whom aid was asked

BIBLE HAS LONG HISTORY
That Used in the Supreme Court Probably the Oldest Connected With the Government.

It is a tiny little book, only five and one-half inches long and three and one-half inches wide. It is bound in bright red Morocco leather, with the words "Bible" printed in diamond gold letters on the back. But one does not see that red Morocco cover unless he removes the little black leather slip which protects it.

Long, long ago the little red Bible began to show wear, and then the black leather slip was made to protect it—no long ago, in fact, that 15 of those covers, made to protect the venerated little volume, were worn out in the service. It is without doubt one of the oldest Bibles, if not the very oldest Bible, connected with the government, and is certainly the most historical.

It is the book upon which since 1800 every chief justice—with the single exception of Chief Justice Chase—and every member of the Supreme court has taken the oath of allegiance when accepting his position. More than that, every attorney who has practiced before the Supreme court since that date—1801—has pledged his allegiance over the little volume. All with one exception also, and that exception was Daniel Webster.

It is told even yet of the Supreme court that day that Mr. Webster's fame as an orator had so preceded him that on the occasion when he came to argue his first case before the court the clerk, Mr. Caldwell, in his eagerness to hear the great speaker, forgot to administer the oath—Christian Herald.

HISTORIC SPOT IS UNMARKED
Location of Nation's First White House, in Philadelphia, Known, But That Is All.

Excepting for a few months, Washington lived in Philadelphia during his entire administration as president of the United States, and John Adams did likewise during his term. There was no White House, but a brick house, and as quite generally known, it stood on the south side of Market street between Fifth and Sixth streets. The house itself long ago disappeared, and it seems strange that Philadelphia has never taken the trouble to make in a suitable way the spot where the nation's executive mansion stood when occupied by the Father of His Country.

When Washington came to Philadelphia to attend the continental congress before taking command of the army, he lived in the swiftest boarding house in the city. It was kept by Mrs. Trist, at the southwest corner of Fifth and Market streets. But while more fashionable, the house has been far less famous than the more modest one, two blocks farther west, at the southwest corner of Seventh and Market streets. It was in the latter that Jefferson boarded, and on the second floor, corner room, in which he wrote the Declaration of Independence.

According to John Adams, who would have qualified as chief gossip at any gathering party, Philadelphia was then away ahead of Boston and New York as a fashionable center. The great patriot told his impressions in those voluminous letters to his wife. He was quite awed by the local splendor.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Glasgow journalist, who was careless of his personal appearance was assigned to write something about a show at a leading Glasgow theater. He presented his card at a box-office. The manager came out and looked at the disheveled visitor dubiously. "Did you come here to write something about the play—to work?" he asked.

"Did you think I'd come to your theater for amusement?" asked the journalist as he stalked out.—Saturday Evening Post.

Fire Without Flame.
An engineer has invented a way to have fire without flame. His apparatus consists of a porous plate or mass of fire resisting fragments, within which he mixes inflammable gas and air in the right proportions. When the gas is first turned on and lighted it burns with a flame at the surface of the plate. When the flame is turned on the flame disappears, but the heat increases. A temperature of 3,200 degrees is claimed. Just of what use this invention can be made is yet a question.

GOOD NEWS
Many Greenville Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby
"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Greenville are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame, weak and aching back is had no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with this tested remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. L. Mangum, 416 Dickinson avenue, Greenville, N. C., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are by no means a new remedy to me. I have used them and have found that they are a remedy of great merit. Kidney complaint and backache made me miserable and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills from the John L. Wooten Drug Co., that I found relief. Recently I again got a supply of this remedy and it helped me as promptly as before."

Forward to the Land League

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 6.—The first conference of the newly organized forward to the Land League assembled in this city today and will continue in session until the end of the week. The league aims to bring superior results to the farmer, to eliminate frauds in the settlement of lands and to inspire social life in rural districts. The movement is designed also to make farm life so attractive as to promote a general exodus from the congested sections of the large cities, thereby bringing relief to the tenement dwellers and eventual extermination of the slums.

The fact that such a very noticeable increase has come about during the last season of the year makes the showing all the better. That Greenville should do this amount of business for July, a month when most persons are away on their vacations, and when less business is being done, certainly in Greenville than at any other time of the year, perhaps, should make the citizens feel proud of the showing that has been made.

The past administrations at the post office made very creditable showings, and in their day and time their increases were in proportion to the business that was done here. The public is by this time becoming more and more used to the parcel post system, and are now becoming accustomed to its use and its value. The receipts from this source have, of course, aided in swelling the post office receipts, but all the same it speaks well for the town, and for administration of the affairs.

Several changes have been made at the post office recently, as was noted in The Reflector several days ago, and these have tended toward making the place much more comfortable than ever before. The force of employees know well their work and perform their duties in a manner most satisfactory to the public.

VOLUME XXXIV. GREENVILLE, N. C., FRIDAY AFTERNOON, AUGUST 3, 1912. NUMBER 29

LOCAL TOBACCO MARKET TO OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

AUGUST THE NINETEENTH

Every Thing is in Readiness for What is Believed Will be Greatest Season in History of Greenville

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS HAVE BEEN SPENT ON IMPROVEMENTS

Two New Warehouses Have Been Built This Year, and One Old One Has Changed Hands. Floor Space Best and Largest Ever Had in Pitt County. Greenville's Envious Position as Tobacco Market for Eastern North Carolina. Something of the Tobacco Market and of How This Year's Crop Compares With Former Years.

On next Tuesday, August 19, the tobacco market for the season of 1912, will open in Greenville. It is expected that on that day the town will be crowded with a large number of farmers from every section of Pitt county and adjoining counties who will come here for the purpose of getting some idea of how things will go, and of forming some sort of an opinion as to what the market will afford this year.

Prospects for the best season on the tobacco market that Greenville has ever had, were never brighter than they are right at the present time. For fully three months, and longer, farmers, buyers, warehousemen, business men, and in fact the entire town, have been preparing for and awaiting the arrival of next Tuesday. Business in this town, as everywhere else, has been dull for the most of the summer months, and the opening of the tobacco market is a signal for all forms of activity to pick up and the busy season to begin.

The life of this town is said to depend, in a measure, upon the business of the tobacco season, and it is for this reason that so much attention is always given to the preparations for the opening of the market, and for the proper conduct of the business during the whole season.

This Year's Crop

As for the prospects for a big crop this year, a few statistics that have been gathered and presented might be of interest. It will be noticed that during the past five years the tobacco crop has been on the decline, and that the estimated crop for 1912 is by far the smallest of the list. Farmers and buyers, as well as the warehousemen, may be left to form their own opinion as to just what effect this will have on the market price of the staple. The crops for the past five years, including the least estimated crop of 1912, were as follows:

1909	1,058,765,000
1910	1,102,415,000
1911	995,109,000
1912	862,855,000
1913 (estimated)	896,000,000

According to these figures the crop this year is 7 per cent short of that for last year. It is 12 1/2 per cent shorter than the average crop of the past four years, and if the five years' production is added together and the average is taken, it will be found that the crop for 1912 is 18 per cent short. The size of the crop does not, however, as every one knows, necessarily affect the quality of the weed, and it is believed that this is equal to the average this season.

The Warehouses

Greenville is this year better than ever before prepared to handle the crop that will be brought here, at every facility for the convenience and welfare of the farmers has been provided. No stone has been left unturned by the enterprising business men who have faith in the local market, and who have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in the interest of bringing to this town the greatest quantity of tobacco that has ever been sold here in a single season. They have unreservedly given their time and their money to advertising the advantages of the market in this town, and have thought no sacrifice too dear to make that the farmers might have the opportunity of getting what their crop is worth.

Thousands upon thousands of dollars have been spent on improvements of the warehouses, but also in various factories that do business here. Principal among these might be mentioned the new and commodious additions that have been made to the Imperial Tobacco Company's factory. Their floor space and working capacity has been increased by one-fourth, all of this making it all the more convenient for them to handle the tobacco that they will buy on the local market during the coming season. Another great improvement has been made at the plant of the American Tobacco Company, and they are said to be in better position to handle tobacco this year than has been the case in former years.

As a matter of fact, everything is looking good for a great season. All of the farmers are optimistic as to their crops; the buyers are ready to hand over the best prices that can be offered, and the warehousemen have everything in the pink of condition for the handling of the weed on their floors. Nothing seems to be standing in the way of a great and a successful season. The new Munford Bros. warehouse across the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad from the Imperial Tobacco Company's plant is now receiving the finishing touches, as is the case also with that of Johnston and Foxhall's new house. All of the other warehouses are old and well known to the farmers of Pitt and neighboring counties. One other change of this season is the Star Warehouse, which this year is under an entirely new management, it being controlled now by Messrs. O. L. Joyner and B. B. Sugg. Both have been on the Greenville market for a long while, and know the business well.

The Greenville market is amply able to care for all of the tobacco that will be brought here, and this is not underrating the amount that will be brought to this town to be sold. It is simply a statement that can be made after one considers the increased facilities for handling the crop this year over and above those of former years. There has never been a time when more money was spent during one season than has been the case this year, and all of this money has been put into improvements on the warehouses and the tobacco plants in the town. There is ample warehouse and factory space for handling the product.

It is said that there is no better tobacco market in all of Eastern North Carolina than is to be found in this town. This is made possible by the advantages and better facilities for handling the weed here than anywhere else in this section. Prices on the local market are as good as the prices on the outside, especially on the markets where such small quantities of tobacco are sold.

The buyers who will be on the Greenville market this year are all men of intelligence and experience and they will treat with courtesy every man with whom they do business.

Every citizen of Greenville and Pitt county is proud of the local market. It contributes its share, and a big share, to the life and existence of Greenville. It brings business here, and holds business in the town. The people of Greenville are always, as is characteristic of them, glad to have the farmers come here to buy and sell. All of those who come here on Tuesday, however, will find the opening of the market, but throughout the entire season, will find a warm welcome at the hands of the people of the town, and it is believed that they will find all of the warehousemen and buyers of their tobacco men of integrity, and who are honest and who will do whatever they can to make the country people enjoy their stay in town, and feel that they are among friends.

A list of the following firms, said to be the largest buyers and manufacturers of tobacco in the world, has been handed to The Reflector as having representatives on the local market:

The American Tobacco Company, The Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., of Great Britain and Ireland. Export Leaf Tobacco Company. Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company. P. Lorillard Tobacco Company. David Brothers, of Atlantic Coast Line Railroad from the Imperial Tobacco Company's plant is now receiving the finishing touches, as is the case also with that of Johnston and Foxhall's new house. David Brothers, of Atlantic Coast Line Railroad from the Imperial Tobacco Company's plant is now receiving the finishing touches, as is the case also with that of Johnston and Foxhall's new house. All of the other warehouses are old and well known to the farmers of Pitt and neighboring counties. One other change of this season is the Star Warehouse, which this year is under an entirely new management, it being controlled now by Messrs. O. L. Joyner and B. B. Sugg. Both have been on the Greenville market for a long while, and know the business well.

The Greenville market is amply able to care for all of the tobacco that will be brought here, and this is not underrating the amount that will be brought to this town to be sold. It is simply a statement that can be made after one considers the increased facilities for handling the crop this year over and above those of former

GREENVILLE MEN MUCH ENCOURAGED

ARE BACK FROM CONVENTION

Six Men, Representing Many of the Most Important Kinds of Industries, Went to Raleigh Yesterday

Six men, representing many of the most important kinds of businesses carried on in this town, journeyed to Raleigh yesterday morning to be present at the meeting of the North Carolina Joint Freight Rate Association. The meeting was held in the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce rooms, and was attended by more than a hundred of the representative business men of the state. Following the meeting of the association, there was held at twelve o'clock in the senate chamber in the capitol building, a conference between the representatives of the railroads, on one side, and the men from the freight rate association, on the other. The freight rate commission, and the legislative committee on the other.

Those men who went up from Greenville were very much impressed with the seriousness of the business men in attendance upon the meeting, and are of the opinion that the manufacturers and shippers of the state will never let up in their fight until they have received from the railroads everything that the state has demanded, and which, they say, of right ought to have.

The propositions that were made to the corporation committee, and the legislative committee at Old Point Comfort a few weeks ago by the railroads was, of course, rejected. Not a single man could be found in the entire conference, outside of course the representatives of the railroads, who wanted the state to accept the terms that had been proposed by the railroads. The freight rate association in the session held at ten o'clock yesterday morning voted unanimously to turn down the proposals of the railroads.

Governor Craig gave permission to the freight rate association to appoint ten members from its body to become a part of the committee representing the state in the conference with the railroads, and this is to be done immediately. In the selection of these men, however, it will be borne in mind that every business interest of the state, so far as is possible, will be represented in the men to be named, and the geographical lines will not be entirely lost sight of. The six men from Greenville have returned to their home very much encouraged over the outlook for an early and a satisfactory settlement of the differences between the railroads and the people of the state.

E. B. WHICHARD IS COMMISSIONER OF PITT COUNTY

To Fill Out Unexpected Term of the Late M. T. Spier

IS FROM CAROLINA TOWNSHIP

Comes From Prominent Family of Pitt County, and Is a Capable and Responsible Young Business Man

Superior Court Clerk D. C. Moore, of the southern part of the county, has appointed Mr. E. B. Whichard, of Carolina township, county commissioner to fill out the unexpected term of the late Mr. M. T. Spier, whose death some weeks ago caused a vacancy on the board.

Mr. Whichard is twenty-nine years old, and is one of the youngest men ever to hold the office of county commissioner in Pitt county. He has for two terms already been a justice of the peace in his township, and he is now serving his third term in that capacity. He comes from a fine family, and one of the oldest and most distinguished in the county. He is the youngest son of the late Mr. Whichard, who, though he has been dead several years, is well remembered by the older inhabitants of the county. For many years he was one of the leaders in every good movement for the advancement and prosperity of his township, and of the county as well. He was a member of the Primitive Baptist church, and was one of the best and most faithful communicants of this church.

Mr. E. B. Whichard, the new county commissioner, inherits many of the fine qualities which were so noticeable and attractive in the life of his illustrious father. He is an industrious farmer and a young man of ability and integrity. For some time he has been one of the leaders of public opinion in Carolina township. Last year he was strongly urged as a possible candidate for the state legislature, but through modesty and because of a lack of ambition to get into politics, he did not enter actively into the race.

The new commissioner is a son-in-law of former sheriff G. M. Moorhead, who is prominently known in the county.

People in Carolina township, and all over the county, will hear with pleasure that the clerk of the court has appointed Mr. Whichard to fill out the term of Mr. Spier. He has many friends in every part of Pitt county, and they all know him and have sufficient confidence in him to be willing to risk in his care at least a part of the work of the county that he will have to look after during his term as commissioner. Though young, Mr. Whichard has many times and on many occasions, displayed his admirable business ability, and no one doubts that he is the right man for the place, and that he will make the county a useful and capable commissioner.
