

Furniture and its Makers

NO. 3. JEAN HENRI REISENER

Copyright '1913 by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

The early years of the life of Jean Henri Reiserer would seem to indicate that he was born under a lucky star. But long before his death, at the age of seventy-one in the first decade of the nineteenth century, his star had set. Before the outbreak of the French Revolution he commanded enormous prices for his work. One small table he constructed is said to have been sold for more than a thousand dollars. Yet in his old age he was only saved from utter ruin by his son, a portrait painter.

Oben, the famous and successful furniture maker, under whose name the property and the fortune, died some widow, one of the largest work-shops in Paris and a large fortune. The young man promptly married the widow, and upon her death six years later came into possession of both the property and the fortune. Three years later he married the daughter of a citizen of Paris; but again his marriage proved of short duration, for after a few storm years of wedded life he took refuge in the new divorce laws of the country and returned again to the state of single blessedness.

Oben, his master, had been commissioned by King Louis XV of France to make a bureau. King Louis was called the "well beloved," although he was really hated by the majority of his subjects. This bureau contributed greatly to Reiserer's fame; for its construction took three years, and Oben having died in the meantime, his pupil completed it.

The massive bronze doors of this royal bureau were ornamented with elaborate and intricately modeled figures, and the whole was fashioned after a complete and miniature model. The degree of craftsmanship that was brought to bear upon this historical piece of furniture was of such a character that a second bureau, built similarly, was begun and completed by a competitor before the original was finished.

Reiserer became a greater artist than his teacher Oben, and was recognized as one of the leading furniture makers of his time. His great activity is shown by the quantity and elaborate detail of the furniture he made.

At the beginning of the French Revolution evil days came upon Reiserer. Those wealthy customers who did not flee and who escaped the guillotine were made bankrupt. In 1793 he held a sale of his prized collection of furniture; but he was forced to buy most of it back himself. A little later he tried again to realize some money on the furniture; but this also was a failure.

His son, who had joined the army, returned to Paris and saved the aged furniture maker from starvation. Every day a different human interest story will appear in The Reflector. You can get a beautiful intaglio reproduction of the above picture, with five others, equally attractive, 7 x 9 1/2 inches in size, with this week's "Mentor". In "The Mentor" a well known authority covers the subject

Business Men of State Discuss Freight Rates

Great Gathering in Raleigh on Next Wednesday
CALL ISSUED BY MR. TATE

On next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there will assemble in the auditorium in the city of Raleigh a great concourse of business men from all parts of North Carolina. The purpose of the big gathering will be to consider and to discuss ways and means of reaching some sort of an agreement with the railroads doing business in this state whereby the manufacturers and shippers of North Carolina may have their freight hauled to its destination at a rate that is fair and reasonable. Many of the foremost men of the state will be at the meeting. Fred N. Tate has sent out letters and notices to all parts of North Carolina asking cooperation among the business men and in Raleigh when the meeting is and he expects to meet several thousand to order next Wednesday.

All of the members of the General Assembly of North Carolina, which will on that day, at the call of Governor Locke Craig, convene in extraordinary session for the specific purpose of some sort of a remedy for the outrageous discrimination now being practiced by the railroads, will be invited to attend in a party the meeting of the Just Freight Rate Association in the auditorium. It is expected that there will be a full attendance of both houses of the legislature at the time, and that the sympathy and cooperation of the members may be had.

The letter below, written by Mayor F. N. Tate, of High Point, president of the state organization, to Mr. E. B. Higgs, president of the Pitt county association, explains itself, as well as gives information as to the nature and character of the meeting. Mr. Higgs expects a large number of the business men of Greenville to attend the meeting in Raleigh, and will be glad to communicate with any and all who contemplate making the trip. Mr. Tate's letter follows:

Mr. E. B. Higgs, Pres., Greenville, N. C.
Dear Sir:
Our call for the great mass meeting to be held in the city auditorium at Raleigh on Sept. 24th at 2:30 p. m. has been published in the state papers as you have doubtless seen. It is the purpose of the Just Freight Rate Association to bring to Raleigh on that date, the largest body of representatives citizens ever assembled together, and each person is expected to come with a definite purpose, that of showing by his argument, experience and by his interest in the paramount question which now confronts our people, that nothing short of strong and adequate measures will be acceptable to the various commercial and farming interests of our state.

It is hoped each county branch association will bring at least one hundred delegates—some counties will bring many more—and when the meeting is called to order, we hope every delegate will be in his place ready to do his full duty. All of the members of the general assembly will be invited and expected to participate as citizens in the meeting with us, and we will be addressed by the Governor and others who have made this question their chief concern and who are in position to lay the bare, cold facts of outrageous discriminations before us. The light will be turned on in a manner to make us all realize the urgent demands upon us at this hour for quick, certain and decisive relief. Proper legislative bills will be ready, bills which every honest and free citizen of the state made by the advocate and support, and there should be no delay in deciding once and for all time, the sovereignty of our great state.

Huerta Representative Visits United States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Diplomatic Washington is wondering just what the significance of the visit to this country of Senor Manuel de Zamacona Esplan, former Mexican ambassador to this country and supposed representative of Provisional President Huerta.

Though he has been in the United States several days Zamacona has not revealed the purpose of his coming. At the state department and at the Mexican embassy no information can be obtained. It is believed, however, that he is commissioned by President Huerta to negotiate a loan from New York bankers if possible. He has spent several days in New York. In all likelihood Zamacona is a Huerta envoy, and he may attempt to see President Wilson before his return to Mexico. The attitude of the president and of Secretary Bryan is not to receive any envoy who does not come to carry forward the negotiations begun by Mr. Lind and who does not proceed with the understanding that the points made by Mr. Lind have been settled chiefly, that Huerta is to be considered as eliminated from the presidential race.

Senor Zamacona is recognized, even by the opponents of the Huerta government as a very shrewd man, and therefore his movements are being closely followed by every one concerned in the Mexican situation. His claim that he is in the United States "on private business" is considered as a diplomatic statement.

TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF.
Has Since Changed His Mind and Now Wants to Get Well.
GREENSBORO, Sept. 16.—George M. Reynolds, a young white man of the Pomona mill village, is at St. Leo's hospital here recovering from a self-inflicted wound in an effort to commit suicide Saturday night. The attempt of Reynolds on his life was kept quiet and few knew of the man's rash act Monday. Reynolds is about 26 years of age and Saturday night while in his room at a boarding-house in the mill village drew a razor across his throat. The fact that Reynolds is still living, and that he is able to recover, is due to the fact that he didn't sink the sharp blade deep enough in the throat. Reynolds' act, it is said was the result of temporary despondency from which he has completely recovered and is now anxious to linger yet awhile.

WERE EVIDENCES OF HIS COUNTERFEITING
New York, Sept. 16.—A plate from which counterfeit ten-dollar gold certificates may have been struck, found in the rooms of Hans Schmidt, the confessed murderer of Anna Muller, led to the arrest today of Dr. Ernest Arthur Muret, a dentist on a charge of counterfeiting, and Herbert Zeck, twenty-one years old his housekeeper, as a material witness.

Schmidt's rooms were later ransacked by detectives who found a receipt bill for rent paid by "George" Miller for an apartment where the detectives allege they found a complete outfit for the manufacture of photographic prints such as might be used in making counterfeit bills, and half-burned parts of several impressions of ten-dollar gold certificates. Examination disclosed that these probably were printed from the plate found in Schmidt's room.

Greenville Supply Company Is now in its New Quarters

Within the past few days the Greenville Supply Company has moved into its new quarters just to the rear of the Atlantic Coast Line passenger station, and the firm is now occupying store rooms that will serve its purposes much better, and which will enable them to do a much larger and a more prosperous business.

In the old quarters on Dickinson avenue, the store was not large enough to accommodate the large and growing business of the firm and it was found necessary to build a new building. The new home of the firm is two stories high, with a basement below. At the present time preparations are being made to lay a concrete floor in the basement and when this is done, much more additional room will be had for the storing of the coarsest groceries. The Coast Line will extend a spur track to the back door of the store building, and already a comfortable place has been arranged for loading drays. It is one of the finest wholesale houses in town, and is now prepared to grow and prosper as never before in its history.

SOME "VITAL STATISTICS" REGARDING GOVERNORS.
DENVER, Colo., Sept. 17.—Some "vital statistics" regarding the governors who attended the recent conference of governors at Colorado Springs were published here today. A local wag, whose waggishness runs to "small data" regarding "big people" has classified some of the chief executives and former chief executives as follows:
Governors Dunne, Ammons, Oddie, Hodges, Carey, and McDonald are bald.
Governors Slaton, Baldwin, and McGovern are getting bald.
Governors McGovern, O'Neal, Miller, McDonald, Stewart, and Dunne, and former Governors Adams and Gilchrist wear ferocious mustaches.

DEATH SUSPICIOUS.
Miss Warfield's Body to be Examined and Investigation Made
BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Upon a peculiar series of events preceding and following the sudden death of Miss Ella Warfield, at her farm near Sykesville several days ago, state's attorney Went announced that he would make a charge of investigation at once and ordered the body of Miss Warfield exhumed. At the same time the state's attorney announced that he had learned that Miss Warfield's mother, to whom she left all her property, has become mentally unbalanced.

Despite the fact that a bottle said to have contained cyanide of potassium was found in the bed in which Miss Warfield died and a mysterious letter found beneath the bed, Coroner Miller, of Sykesville, who was Miss Warfield's cousin, issued a burial certificate without ordering an autopsy or holding an inquest.

Dr. Sprechter, who was called after Miss Warfield was found dead in bed, said he gave a certificate of death from "acute indigestion" at the request of Coroner Miller.

SOCIALIST WOMEN AND BIRTH STRIKE

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—At the party convention of the socialists which is in session here, the birth strike of socialist women is being discussed. Rosa Luxemburg and Clara Zetkin, two most famous women leaders of the Socialists, are strongly opposed to the birth strike.

Miss Zetkin declares that the reduction of cannon food for the government would also effect a reduction of the number of revolutionists. If individual families decide to limit the number of children, she says, it is a personal matter, but she is opposed to make it a party policy.
Dr. Moses comes out in a vigorous defence of the birth strike. He declares that it would be the quickest, most effectual and most certain way of raising the status of the working classes. He tells of attending working mothers who had fifteen or eighteen children, while ten or twelve children in the family of a workman were numerous. He contemplates the physical ruin of mothers, no workman could even half way rear, feed and educate such a number of children in the present conditions.

IMPROVEMENTS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday School Rooms are to be Built at Once
PUT IN HEATING PLANT
Also Brick Veneering Will Be Erected on the Outside Wall of the Church.—Will Spend $1,500.

Contracts have been let and work will immediately be started on improvements that are to be made at the Christian church at the corner of Dickinson avenue and Pitt street. Upwards of fifteen hundred dollars will be expended by the church in making improvements and in adding other conveniences.
A Sunday School room is to be erected, this having been found necessary on account of the increased attendance upon the services of the Sunday school. Additional classes will be formed as rapidly as the attendance will justify such a course, and it is believed by the membership of the church that with the completion of their new rooms more young people, and adults as well, will be attracted to the Sunday school.
A new, modern steam heating plant is to be installed at once, this is to be ready for use by the first of December. It will cost nearly $600, and will be complete in every respect. A basement to make room for the installation of the furnaces and storage apartments for the plant will be made underneath the church, and the plant will be modern in every respect.
Contracts have been let also for the construction of a brick veneering over the entire outer wall of the church, this to cost in the neighborhood of three hundred dollars.
When all of these improvements and additions to the church have been completed, the membership of the local church will have a place of worship of which they may justly feel proud, and one which will compare very favorably with the other edifices in this section.

CUPID SPECIAL.
Arrives in Washington With Twelve Couples Bent on Matrimony
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The cupid special from Richmond, Va., under the direction of Conductor Mrs. J. R. Gill, made a record run to the national capitol Monday with twelve passengers to the land of Hyman as its principle cargo. By nightfall five of the couples had secured licenses and had been married.
Mrs. Gill runs the cupid special from Richmond to Washington three or four times a year. She has personally conducted over five hundred marriages in the last ten years and prides herself on the fact that not one of her couples has ever sought release in the divorce courts.

Last year it was arranged that two schools should be added to the list this year and these have now been named. One is at Alamance in Pamlico county; the other at Mills River, Henderson county.

THE POOL ROOM MATTER.

A bare quorum of the members of the board of aldermen last night took advantage of the absence of three men and voted to grant license to pool rooms in Greenville. Of course, the game played at the meeting last night was one of politics, and it appears to have been well handled.

We do not believe that the ordinance formerly passed refusing license to pool rooms could have been repealed had the other three members of the board been on hand to cast their ballot in the matter, and are sorry that the four members present favoring pool rooms saw their duty to take the action that they did.

One member of the board remarked this morning that he would do all in his power to repeal the action taken last night, and that the very first time his supporters were present at the meeting of the board, he would call the matter again, and demand that some action be taken. If this is done with every member of the board present at the meeting, and all of them vote as they did some time ago, the whole question will again be put up to the mayor to decide, and everybody knows that, unless he has changed his views on the subject, he will rule that licenses be not granted.

The member of the board who gave out the information that he would have the license revoked, stated that he was not taking these steps as a means of bluffing the would-be pool room owners out of getting licenses, but that if they wished to pay out a license of fifty dollars for every table installed, they might do so with the risk of losing all of it when the ordinance of last night is revoked, as he says it will be.

The majority of the members of the board, including the mayor, have decided that Greenville should not have pool rooms, and since a majority of this board decides such questions as this, it would seem that no consolation in the way of securing pool rooms for the town. The better element of the people here, for the most part, do not want pool rooms in the town, and the aldermen certainly have no right to go against the will of the people.

Nothing is to be gained by the action of the board last night, and we believe that the ordinance will be revoked. The reestablishment here of pool rooms will only mean the reestablishment of loafing joints, and if there were no passing of money not honestly earned, these places would not be patronized by many who make it their business to frequent them.

Let the aldermen decide this thing once for all. It has been decided once in the manner it has been carried every time a vote is taken when there is a full attendance of the board, and it seems that the matter should be allowed to rest where it is, when a majority of the board pass upon the question.

Secretary McAdoo is reported as saying that his favorite beverage is buttermilk. The same might be said of some of the rest of us if we could get all of it we wanted whenever we wanted it.

The Reflector's linotype operator is unable to be at his machine today, and we are getting out the issue under difficulties.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE A FAILURE.

The coming to this country of Mrs. Emmaline Pankhurst, the noted British militant suffragette will serve to focus the attention of this country on the question of granting the ballot to women. Of course, Mrs. Pankhurst's tactics will have but little influence on the better and more sensible element of the women of this country, as the majority of the women of the nation are, we believe, too broad-minded to permit themselves to be swept off their feet by a woman who seeks to accomplish her goal by any such methods as those employed by this woman.

However, there are women who will hear this lady speak who will be swept from their feet by her mere personality, and will rush madly into an issue which, by the closest observers, has been declared a failure. A large number of the western and central states of the Union have granted the ballot to women, and in many cases scores of good women who were during the campaign ardent advocates of the cause have become disgusted with the results and have forsaken the ranks of the associations.

The old-time argument that women would purify politics has, as was predicted at the time it was advanced, proved a falsehood. In those states where women have been given the ballot, they have not only failed to purify the political ranks of the men, but have themselves become politicians of the most corrupt character.

A woman who is as anxious to vote as a man is a woman who will resort to means just as low and as trifling as a man will, and there is no truth in an argument that a woman with such ideas will serve to purify the politics of the country.

If any laws for the good of the home have been written upon the statute books of the equal suffrage states that would not have gone there without the votes of the women legislators, we have yet to hear of them. And, besides, why should women want the ballot for this purpose? Their influence properly brought to bear upon the men who make the laws will easily secure almost any measure desired.

That man that claims that equal suffrage is a success, and that it will do so much in so many various ways, might do well to investigate the matter for himself before he leaps into the advocacy of any such measure.

The Wilmington Dispatch declares that a scientist has recently discovered that there are no germs in kisses. No, Cowan, this is no recent discovery, for years ago some fellow who claimed to know what he was talking about declared that all lovers were at liberty to practice all they cared to without fear of communicating microbes.

New York's mayor adds nothing to his fame because of the fact that the first job he ever had paid him only four dollars a week. There are plenty of little fellows right around Greenville who will work for less than that, and things are not as cheap now as they were when Mayor Kline was a little boy.

The incident where a Catholic priest in New York married a girl against the laws of his church, and later killed her, is only another proof of the fallacy of any church having such laws.

The bunch of scientists who descended twelve hundred feet into the crater of Mt. Vesuvius would have had no one to blame save themselves if they had been blown sky-high before getting out.

Baseball will soon give way to football, then football to basketball, tennis running all the while, and by the time of spring, all will again give way to baseball. And so the world goes on. But what would we do without all these things?

No matter how long the Congress is in session, nor what they will do with the currency reform bill, the average man will be but little interested unless it hatches up some way by which he may get more money in his pocket or bring down the high cost of living.

Now comes the Charlotte Observer and tells us that the merchants and jobbers are declaring that the cost of the necessities of life are to be increased to a still higher figure. If it gets much worse, all of us will have to join the "back to the farm movement."

SATISFIED CUSTOMERS.

So far during the present tobacco season, there has been but very little dissatisfaction among the farmers of the county as to the treatment accorded them at the Greenville tobacco warehouses and the prices paid them for their tobacco. The prices have exceeded the expectation of even the most optimistic forecasters, and the weed is selling for what it appears to be worth. The grade of tobacco that is being brought here by the farmers is much above the average, and is such that the buyers do not mind paying good prices to get it.

There is at the present time no indication of a fall in the price of tobacco or in the grade of the staple that is being placed on the floors of the local warehouses, and the market never has been in better condition than it is at the present time.

Big Tim Sullivan, politician and Tammany man of national reputation, is gone. For some time he was an insane man, and though under the watch of three guards, he managed to escape them, and finally wandered away and was killed by a fast train. He was a politician, backer of prize-fighters, Wall street speculator, and a congressman sent up by Tammany Hall. His one redeeming asset was his liberality to the poor with whom he came into contact. It is said that were he to start down Broadway with $100 in his pocket, and walk a mile, that he would not have one cent by the time he reached his destination. A score of members of the House of Representatives, of which Big Tim was a member, were detailed by Speaker Clark to attend the funeral held in New York city yesterday.

It does seem that Wilmington men can't keep out of trouble when they get to New York city. One has just been arrested for attacking a night watchman at St. John's Cathedral. It has come to be such a common thing for those fellows to get pinched or arrested, that we imagine New York policeman could guess right about half the time.

The fact that a California court has held that a stenographer's relations to her employer are not confidential does not license the young ladies to go out and tell all they have heard and seen.

Again we are told that the crisis in Mexico will come this week. It has been on the way so many times and then had a wreck before arriving that we wonder if it will really get here this time.

The United States government may appropriate all the money it may wish for the purpose of aiding in the construction of good roads, yet those counties which refuse to help themselves should receive none of the government's bounty.

The Clinton News Dispatch says "Give us good roads all over Sampson county and our people will be happy." And, brother, blessings and prosperity will attend them the rest of their days.

Rocky Mount is now after the national convention of The Ladies Auxiliary to the Trammelen, an organization that usually holds its conventions in cities the size of Chattanooga. Where? Where will such egotism end?

A salesman has announced that he collected from various breweries in New York state a sum of $50,000 for Salzer's campaign fund, but who knows but that Tammany has bribed him into making that statement?

Let us hope that the Democratic congress will not put the currency bill on ice, and go home, leaving it there. By George, it is hard enough to get without having a freeze-up at the source of supply.

Oscar Underwood is a much bigger man as floor leader of the Democratic house of representatives than he would be in five or ten years grow to be in the senate, and he had best remain where he is.

Another day done, and no new dwellings houses started in Greenville.

By this time tomorrow Sulzer will have passed through the beginning of the end.

The morning after the night before has come and gone—also the following afternoon.

Isn't it strange how some friends always hobs up and says that the murderer is insane?

Evidently there are not many people in this town who have any religious scruples about going to a circus.

The South surely is a big place, but really it has not as many entrances as there are cities claiming to be gateways.

Now that the Frank trial is a part of history, Atlanta has sprung another sensational murder case to occupy the boards for a while.

By actual count, exactly one half of the editorials in Monday's issue of an afternoon contemporary that reached this office last night were written about Harry Thaw.

It will be noticed that some of those fellows who are accusing Governor Sulzer the most, are men who failed to land government jobs.

It is reported that officials think Americans are safe in Mexico, yet if we were there, we should not care to risk our life upon any such assertions.

No set of business men in the state should plunge the state government into doing anything that they themselves would not be willing to risk in their own business affairs.

Catholic priest in New York declared that he killed Anna Amulder because he loved her, but we are of the opinion that there are but very few girls who would cherish a love of that sort.

The same argument that was used when it was said that the ministry of the church could not be judged by the acts of Pastor Richeson might also apply with equal truthfulness to the case of the New York Catholic priest.

But what we want to know is how Mrs. Pankhurst ever got out of that British jail. The last we remember hearing she was on a furlough for the purpose of filling her stomach preparatory to another long fasting spell.

Nine days more and the legislature will begin grinding out nothing. If the Wake county convict guards are guilty, let them be given what the law prescribes, for the men in their keeping are also human beings.

Wonder what Dr. Carter would have said had he visited some of the creeks and ponds over the river, and had been bitten by a dozen or more of those full-grown gallinippers.

DIONIGIO, THE GENTLE

By FRANK M. SPALDING.

When Pietro Borsini quarreled with his cousin Botta, Botta killed him in the manner of the Italians, and then sent the barber Fuselli to tell the news to Papa Borsini. And Fuselli came away in fright when he saw the blazing eyes of old Dionigio.

"Gentle Dionigio," they called him, because he had a tender heart. He kept a wine shop near the Mill Pond bridge, and was known for his charity.

When they came from the funeral, the people stole glances after the man, whose white hair was blowing into the corners, and said: "Poor old Dionigio, his heart is broken."

And all the while Botta swaggered and grew fat with glory.

But one day the shutters were opened, the puppies sent away and the door left ajar, so that one could see the mirrors and the legs of more than all, Gentle Dionigio himself, with his towel on his arm, and the word went from one to another, until one by one all the toppers came—all but one, and he was Botta.

And so it was for a week, when Botta himself came smiling and insolent and showing no fear. It was then that the old rum seller's lips grew white, and as he glared he snarled: "Smile now, Botta, so that you may look pleasant when your time comes."

Botta laughed, but his eyes grew white underneath and his hand shook as he drank.

Again Botta came, laughing and jesting with his cronies, and when Gentle Dionigio was not looking, but he grew silent when his uncle turned to him and said, softly: "Take care, my nephew, God has told me to kill you within two weeks."

And, on the night after two weeks, Botta was there again. And now, when his uncle came toward him, he drew back with a start, and put a chair before him as a shield.

"Have no fear," said the old man. "I would have killed you last night, but God came to me in a dream and said, 'One week longer, Dionigio.'"

All the evening Botta sat with his glass undrained, thinking sick thoughts, with slight and furtive glances at Gentle Dionigio. For he was afraid. As he went home he said to himself, "It is not right that he should bring God into this business. Why does he not try to kill me, as any one else would do? I could defend myself then."

He did not appear at the wine shop for a long time, but stayed in his room whitening the carvings that he sold on the streets in the daytime. One day he stopped, for he found that always his fingers took the look of old Borsini and leered and laughed at him under the lamplight, and chilled his limbs.

In time the shadows in the room drove him to the wine shop. He drew courage from thinking, "Old Dionigio has forgotten. He lies when he says that he is against me."

And when he came he grew bold, laughing and jesting as in the other times. In demerence, he waited until the others had gone, and then swung round to the door. When old Dionigio tapped him on the shoulder he turned in an instant, his knife in his hand. He thought, "It is now!"

But Dionigio was looking upon him with eyes as soft as a nun's.

"Listen, Botta," he said, "God is merciful to you. On the night before your doom he came to me in my sleep and said, 'Dionigio, the murderer of your son must live until the day of the Holy St. Peter. Until then he must live.'"

"But why do you not try now?" stammered Botta, the knife trembling in his hand. "Now!" and he clutched his unchained eyes of old Dionigio.

"No," said gentle Dionigio, flinging Botta from him. "God has taken your strength from you and I could slay you now, as you slayed my poor Pietro. But God's will shall be done, and you must live until the day of St. Peter."

"For a long time the toppers did not see Botta."

"He stays locked in his room," said one. "And I saw him peering out one day with the look of a mad dog."

One day the barber, Fuselli, came into the shop and said, "Have you heard the news, Papa Borsini? They have sent Botta to the insane asylum; you have lost your vengeance!"

"Bah! What a blockhead you are!" answered gentle Dionigio.

At the end of the week he sent some rays to the orphanage of the Holy Father.

"In the name of God, the avenger," he said to himself.

Lighting Plant Sails Away.

The people of Occo, Guatemala, have just lost their lighting plant in a rather strange way, for this lighting plant has borne away to sea. Four years ago a steamer of the Comoro line ran aground on the shoals near the town and remained aground in the lagoon without, however, sustaining any damage. The Occo authorities conceived the original idea of using the dynamo on board the vessel for lighting the town. The necessary connections were made without difficulty as the plant was a great success. But an engineer employed by a wrecking company arrived and decided to float the steamer. This was done; the electric plant put out to sea and the people of Occo were left to return to their discarded oil lamps.

Why Some Women Break Down.

The average woman is a human creature that never runs down. Even in her sleep she dreams of unfinished tasks. And she awakens to the realization that here is another day of "catching up."

Partly because she has inherited her temperament from many generations of bustling, bustling, bustling women. Partly because she is too conventional, too bound by traditions to systematize her work and to demand the labor-saving devices to which her position in the home entitles her, and to cultivate that particular brand of lassitude which leads her husband and sons to seek the easiest and quickest method of accomplishing the task.

Less Coal Used in Making Coke.

The quantity of coal required to produce a ton of coke is much less than formerly. The average yield in 1912, compared with ten years ago, is probably at least 160 pounds. It is doubtful if in the ordinary year the actual yield of coal in coke exceeded 60 per cent, whereas in 1912 it was 67 per cent, according to the United States geological survey. This gain is largely due to the increase in the production of by-product coke, in which the yield of coke from a ton of coal is very much higher than in making beehive coke.

HIS FIRST PUBLISHED WORK

Probably Nothing More Did in After Life. Gave Benjamin Franklin More Exquisite Pleasure.

My brother had, in 1720 or 1721, begun to print a newspaper, relates Benjamin Franklin in his autobiography. It was the second that appeared in America and was called the New England Courant. The only one before it was the Boston News Letter. I remember him being dissuaded by some of his friends from the undertaking, and after having worked in composing the types and printing off the sheets, I was employed to carry the papers through the streets to the customers.

He had some ingenious men among his friends, who amused themselves by writing little pieces for the Courant, which gained it credit and made it more in demand, and these gentlemen often visited us. Hearing their conversations and their accounts of the approbation their papers were received with, I was excited to try my hand among them, but, being still a boy and suspecting that my brother would object to printing anything of mine in his paper if he knew it to be mine, I contrived to disguise my hand and, writing an anonymous paper, I put it at night under the door of the printing-house. It was found in the morning and communicated to his writing friends when they called in as usual. They read it, commented on it in their hearing, and I had the greatest pleasure in finding myself with their approbation, and that, in their different guesses at the author, none were named but men of some talents and ingenuity. I suppose now that I was rather lucky in my judges, and that perhaps they were not really so very good ones as I then esteemed them.

MANY AND STRANGE DIALECTS

In Standardizing Her Language China is Facing a Problem England Has Not Yet Solved.

China has to start on a kind of standardization of her language, as we started, seriously, in the fourteenth century. It isn't only a matter of words and grammar; more important still are construction and pronunciation. Our English dialects are probably as diverse as any. Put a Cornish miser and a Northumberland miner together for the first time and each would only have a faint glimmering of the meaning of the other's speech.

At first, it has been contended, men used both arms indifferently, and those who when fighting pushed the right side forward had the advantage of shielding their hearts and so lived to produce descendants who inherited their tendencies. He is as it may, there is no doubt that the two sides of the brain have different functions, and right or left-handedness is by no means restricted to the arms alone. One investigator was very often able to recognize left-handedness by the examination of the left eye. The center of speech is on the left side of the brain of a right-handed person, and on the right side of a left-handed person. Children show unmistakable evidence of two speech centers, though one atrophies owing to the preference given to the hand. Nevertheless, experiments show that it can be successfully resuscitated.—Knowledge.

EARLY AUTUMN FROSTS MAY OCCUR TOMORROW

Weather Bureau Makes the Prediction For Middle and New England States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Early autumn frosts in the lower region, the middle Atlantic states, New England and the extreme northwest are predicted by the weather bureau for Tuesday. The weekly forecast tonight says:

"The week will open with rains continuing in the southern states, and extending into the Ohio valley and the middle Atlantic states, rainy weather will prevail over all counties and northern sections east of the Mississippi river. There will also be local showers early in the week over the Rocky Mountain region and the northwest, but by Wednesday and Thursday, generally, fair weather should prevail over all districts.

"There are no present indications of any unusually high or low temperatures during the week, but frosts will occur Monday morning over the lower lake region, the middle Atlantic states, New England and the extreme northwest; on Tuesday morning over the northwest generally, the middle plateau and the central Rocky Mountain region and by Wednesday or Thursday morning probably over the northern and western upper lake region.

"Temperatures will be rising over the northwest and west after the middle of the week, accompanied by falling pressure, and by the end of the week the weather over those sections will again be unsettled and somewhat cooler."

Water in Tar River at Normal Stage After the Storm

Water in the Tar River is again at its usual height, and all signs of the storm, have passed away with the exception of the small puddles of water remaining in the low places, and the mud line on the shrubbery and trees. During the time of the high water farmers living along the river suffered from the loss of cattle and hogs, though it is believed that this loss is not as great as was at first thought. All along the river may be seen trash and rubbish that was brought down the stream by the high water, and which was not washed away with the water.

CARELESS HANDLING OF PISTOL CAUSES DEATH

What is believed to be careless handling of a pistol resulted last Saturday afternoon in the death of Weldon Harrison, a negro boy sixteen years old, living in the Pacolous section of the county. While it is not known exactly whether the boy was a suicide or if he came to his death by accident, it is believed that the latter course is the more probable.

With another boy, Harrison went out about 11 o'clock Saturday morning to look for cows in a pasture, and both of the boys had guns. They hunted for cows and roamed the woods for the greater portion of the morning and far into the afternoon. It was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon when Harrison mounted a log and began looking for a tick which he said had crawled on him. Theron Daniel, the other boy who was with him, stated that when he himself stepped from the log, he heard the gun fire. Looking around he saw Harrison fall, and heard him exclaim, "I'm shot." He struggled to get up, but he fell again and died, whereupon Daniel ran to the house and told the boy's father.

To the coroner's jury the father of the dead boy said that the young fellow was found lying with his head in this position that the coroner's jury found him.

Coroner J. C. Green held the inquest yesterday morning, and found that Harrison came to his death at the hands of a pistol in his own hands.

MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

All Clues Have Failed to Reveal the Identity of Dismembered Girl.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Once again the mystery of the murdered girl, parts of whose body was found in the Hudson river more than a week ago, is a puzzle, all clues having failed to reveal her identity or the manner of her death.

The body is not that of Annette Day, the Brooklyn girl, who has been missing since August, as has been believed. Salvador Day and his sister, Mary Day, today went to the Hooker-Morag and carefully viewed the upper and lower portions of the dismembered body. They stated positively that the fragments were not those of Annette's body; the marks were not identical they said. Later Francis Day admitted that the body was not that of his sister.

The police of New York now have no tangible clue in the case. They have no idea as to the identity of the murdered, or her murderer.
