EVERYBODY SAID SO ALWAYS OTHER FISHES
By F. H. LANCASTER.
"Without a wrinkle." That is what the teacher said about her school when she wrote to the superintendent. "Everything smooth as a summer sea. Sam pl." She was rather proud of the French she had picked up.
It was this way, mon ami. Somebody had been cutting logs off the public land. The school was in a hurry to get the logs off the public land. Everybody said so, everybody but the 12 little Spridions that came stepping lightly to school over the pine straw. Rain or shine, never late, never noisy. Brown by the sun, healthy with hard work, lean from light feeding.
"Treason." Everybody boy in the school had been fought for that. It was worth just one bloody nose to say "stump" to one of the little Spridions.
But Lucie Spridion did not fight. She was not even disdainful—save toward Lee Nadjarow, who sat next to her in class—she was always head down, and she worshiped her utterly from the sole of her slim bare foot to the topmost of her tossing curls. Small boy did get of his love affair.
"The poor Lucie! He wanted to knock down every boy in the school, to slap the face of every girl—save Lucie. He wanted to tell Lucie that he loved her. And all he did was to lose his pencil. And little Eed found it!"
Lucie's little brother arose in his seat at the sight of that long, red pencil.
"Miss Nell, Eed stole my brother's pencil," he cried.
"Little Eed jumped up. He could not speak English. He pointed helplessly at the road. 'Je trouve,' he whimpered.
Lucie spoke up promptly. "That's all right, Miss Nell, give it to him."
"May I speak?" asked Lucie, and barely waiting the teacher's consent, she was across the room and had snatched the pencil from the hand of the little Eed. And Lucie's pencil was on his desk again.
Lucie stood up little. "May I speak?" he demanded, and before all the school he said to little Eed: "That's yours. Keep it."
The little fellow looked at his sister, his lip quivering with a bitter pain of retribution, but he returned so haughtily as a baby may: "Je n'en ai pas besoin." And Lucie went back to his seat with his pencil. He slumped in the seat, and he made the whole school. It made him mad. He headed Lucie off on the way home.
"What for you didn't let Eed take that pencil?" he demanded, overtaking her.
"Eed say he didn't want it," she replied, without looking at him.
"That's not my papa cut those legs."
"No."
"The blood ran up to the boy's hair at the sight of her voice."
"I know, you be cut them."
"That's what I know," she cut in, coldly.
"If I prove your papa didn't cut those legs, you going let Eed keep that pencil he find?"
"The girl's tone changed wonderfully. 'May be I let him keep that pencil—' you give him," she said, softly.
"But it would seem that all the sweetness of that changed tone was lost on Lucie. He said, stolidly, 'You going be at the horse race Sunday? I prove it then.'"
"I want you to take this now. May be I won't see Eed next Sunday." She took it—the red pencil, looked at him wistfully, and started up the hill.
Sunday! A long, straight track through the forest, and a crowd of happy people hurrying to the start of the first race. Everybody had come to mass. Now for the horse race. Eed! Lucie rode his own bay mare, a slim-necked little beauty, full of fire and long of wind. He was first race. Dice rode the white horse, and the white had already been three times a winner.
There was a wild leap of excitement, a shout of red, and a cheer that shook the pines. Ha! and Lucie made herself look.
Dice was dismounting slowly from the beaten white horse, and Lucie, delivered by Henry Allen Smith to Richard Wingate, one Book E-10, page 212, and recorded in Book E-10, page 87, and the other dated Oct. 1st, 1912, and recorded in Book E-10, page 233, in the register's office of Pitt county, the undersigned, Clerk for the county, at a special called meeting of the board of county commissioners this afternoon, $8,000 was voted for good roads, conditioned upon the raising by private subscription of an additional $6,000.
School began this morning with an enrollment of 120, a considerable gain over the opening day last year. Rev. G. T. Page is again the principal.

It Always Helps
The Woman's Tonic
Get a Bottle Today!
Mrs. Sylvia Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill.
I wish every suffering woman would give Cardui a trial. I still use Cardui when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good."
Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.
Needless Worry.
A patient young angler was diligently plying his rod and line.
"Do you know," howled the frate owner, appearing on the scene, "that you are fishing in forbidden water? Yes, sir; preserved water. And perhaps you will allow me to inform you that I have been to considerable expense in well stocking it with fish."
"Ah, yes," exclaimed the angler, languidly. "And what fish, may I ask, have you so liberally replenished the stream?"
"With roach, sir; my favorite fish."
"Ah, well, then, in that case," blandly observed the youth, "there's no need for you to worry further, for I am fishing for trout!"
To War on Materialism.
The people of the town of Ocos, Guatemala, have just lost their lighting plant in a rather strange way. For four years ago a steamer of the Comoro Line ran ashore on the shoals in the lagoon without, however, sustaining any damage. The Ocos authorities conceived the original idea of using the dynamo on board the vessel for lighting the town. The necessary connections were made without difficulty and the plant was a great success. But an engineer employed by a wrecking company arrived and decided to float the steamer. This was done; the electric plant put to sea, and the people of Ocos were left to return to their discarded oil lamps.
Why Some Women Break Down.
The average woman is a human being, and she is a human being. Even in her sleep she dreams of unfinished tasks. And she awakens to the realization that there is another day of "catching up."
Partly because she has inherited her temperament from many generations of toiling, toiling women.
Partly because she is too conventional, too bound by traditions to systematically her work and to demand the labor-saving devices to which her position in the home entitles her, and to cultivate that particular brand of laziness which leads her husband and son to seek the easier, the quicker method of accomplishing the task.
Less Coal Used in Making Coke.
The quantity of coal required to produce a ton of coke is much less than formerly. The average gain in 1912, compared with ten years ago, is probably at least 100 pounds. The reason for this is that the actual yield of coal in coke exceeded 60 per cent, whereas in 1912 it was 67 per cent, according to the United States geological survey. This gain is largely due to the increase in the production of by-product coke, in which the yield of coke from a ton of coal is very much higher than in making beehive coke.

TO BE SEEN IN A CEMETERY
All Kinds and Descriptions of Misguided Persons There in Their Last Resting Place.
Take a walk through the cemetery alone and you will pass the resting place of a man who blew into the muzzle of a gun to see if it was loaded. A little farther down the slope is a crank who tried to show how close he could stand to a moving train while it passed. In strolling along you see the monument of the hired girl who tried to start the fire with her torch, and a girl who was killed that covers the boy who put a cob under the mule's tail. That tall shaft under a man who blew out the gas, and the shadow of the boy who cast a shadow on a moving train. Side by side the pretty creature who all ways had her corset laced on the last hour, and the intelligent idiot who rode a bicycle nine miles in ten minutes sleep unmoored. At repose is a doctor who took a dose of his own medicine. There with a top of a shoe he drives over his head is a rich man who married a young wife. Away over there reposes a boy who went fishing on Sunday, and the woman who kept strychnine powders in the cupboard. The man who stood in front of the moving machine to oil the sickle is quiet now and rests beside the careless brakeman who had tried to get on the seventy-ton engine, and near by may be seen the grave of the man who tried to whip the editor—Pike County Post.
DAINTIEST OF BIRD'S NESTS
Maple Leaf of Ordinary Size Will Conceal the Home of the Humming Bird.
The most exquisitely dainty home built by the bill and feet of birds is that of the ruby throated humming bird, says a writer in the Craftsman. When completed it is scarcely larger than an English walnut and is usually added on a small horizontal limb of a tree or shrub frequently many feet from the ground. It is composed almost entirely of soft plant fibers, fragments of spiders' webs sometimes being used to hold them in shape. The eyes are thickly lined with white, and the entrance is a small hole in the side of the man who can distinguish it from a knot on the limb. The egg is the size of a quinine pill.
Although the humming bird's nest is exceedingly frail, there appears to be nothing on record to show that any great numbers of them come to grief during the summer. However, it is called upon for a long time of occupancy. Within three weeks after the two little white eggs are laid the young have departed on their tiny wings.
Advice to Consumptives.
The only safe course for a person suffering from consumption is to seek a good physician, and be guided by his things by that physician's advice.
If a new cure is discovered during your illness your doctor will know it. If the cure is a new one, it is a duty to be the first to insist on applying the new remedy to your case. If the so-called cure is a fake his caution will save you from further loss of time and strength pursuing will-o'-the-wisps.
Meantime, while waiting on new discoveries, he will keep you on the common sense of a good diet, plenty of rest, plentiful diet, and all the fresh air there is. This regime has cured tens of thousands of cases of tuberculosis, and will cure hundreds of thousands more.
Jenny Lind's California Debut.
At Monterey, Cal., formerly a part of Mexico, and ceded to the United States by the Mexican war, the first public building built in California and now a broken-down, weathered wreck of adobe, relates the magazine, was the first California debut. When the local grand enthusiasm miners had thrown upon the stage after her performance was a police station which is built within the braces of an oil derrick, and for unique buildings certainly establishes a record.
Abducted in Her School Days.
The mistress was a school teacher of the village woman's club, and was particularly interested in the courses of reading and literary criticism, which were the subjects of written essays.
One day she had occasion to remind her maid-of-all-work of some shortcoming. This led to a week's notice. The ten scholars that have opened, not including the local grand enthusiasm, furnish employment to forty-three teachers. Only one school has but a single teacher, while the number varies as high as eleven, which is in Farmville.
County Superintendent Ragsdale stated today that he could very well use a large number of additional teachers if the county was able to pay for them. He said that if the school fund were at least $20,000 larger than it is, every cent of it might well be spent to employ teachers with greater and better results.
The graded school at Winterville has not as yet opened. This is due to the fact that the town has no accommodations for its children. Prior to last year, the children of the town had been attending the Winterville High School, but the four lowest grades in that institution have been cut out since the close of the past session. A two-room school building is being erected at Winterville and will be ready for use very shortly.
Farmers' National Congress.
PLANO, Ill., Sept. 23.—Several thousand farmers and experts in agriculture are gathered here for the thirty-third annual session of the Farmers' National Congress, which opened here today for a session extending over four days. It is believed to be the largest national gathering of farmers ever held in this country.

SAUNDERS SCORES IN THE LIBEL CASE
Judge Manning, His Counsel, Gets in Evidence Detrimental to Aydlett and Keeps Out Some Vice-Versa
Elizabeth City, Sept. 23.—The State did not fare so well today in the taking of testimony in the case of State vs. Saunders, editor of The Independent, upon the charge of criminal libel upon E. F. Aydlett.
The attorneys for the defense managed to get before the jury business transactions which have appeared in the newspaper for the purpose of impeaching the character of Mr. Aydlett, the State's witness. They also succeeded in having ruled out of the testimony an affidavit of the late Clay Foreman in regard to the transaction between Mr. Aydlett and the Browne or New York and himself.
This testimony was considered by the State of vital importance, and the defense scored a victory when it was ruled out.
Mr. Aydlett spent the greater part of the day on the stand in cross-examination which was conducted by ex-Judge Manning and in re-direct examination.
The cross-examination will be concluded tomorrow morning when the argument will begin. A mistrial or an acquittal is freely predicted by those who have attended the trial since the evidence.
SPEAKERS AT HIGH SCHOOL
Rev. C. W. Blanchard and C. J. Jackson Address Winterville Students.
WINTERVILLE, Sept. 24.—Rev. C. W. Blanchard, of Kinston, was a welcome visitor at the Winterville High School today. He conducted chapel exercises and then made a short talk to the students.
Mr. C. J. Jackson, state Y. M. C. A. secretary of Tennessee, was also present and responded to the call for a speech in a most pleasing and helpful manner. He is a native of this county and former student of W. H. S. and the school and county may be justly proud of him.
Both talks were full of earnest, thoughtful endeavor to point out to the students that they are worth while in life and that they are of value to all who hear them.
There is so much work to be done here that everybody, even fathers, workers, merchants, manufacturers, contractors, and farmers are all in need of more labor, and there is not a man here who does not believe that it is a good thing to have a good thing to do for someone with capital to invest to build some houses?
ODD FELLOWS TO INITIATE.
Local Lodge Will Take New Club of Fifteen at Early Date.
Covenant Lodge No. 17, I. O. O. F., has just received the application of fifteen new candidates for membership in the local lodge, eleven of which were proposed at a meeting held one week ago last night, and five of which were received last night. Odd Fellows lodge all over North Carolina are making a special effort during the fall months to bring into the order as many new members as they can get and the local lodge is determined to do its share in the work. Committees are now at work on the list of candidates that have been received, and as soon as these men are elected to membership, the degrees of the order will be conferred upon them.
Whether we get a boat line or not, our people should not allow this matter to slip by unnoticed.

BIG BREAKS ON TOBACCO MARKET
Large Amount Tobacco Was Brought Here Yesterday
THE SALES WERE BLOCKED
Prices Are Good and at the Present Time Average Twenty Cents.—This Is Far Above Average.
Sales of tobacco on the Greenville market during yesterday, and that part of today which was occupied by the sales that ran over from yesterday, have been record-breakers of the season on this market. One estimate of the number of pounds that were yesterday brought here for sale placed the figure at 700,000. This may and it may not be accurate, but some have expressed their belief that the market contained about that much yesterday.
Seven hundred thousand pounds of tobacco is the most that has been on this market during the present season, and yesterday's sale was one of the only three that have been blocked this year, thought it was much the larger of the number. Two warehouses in all failed to dispose of all the weed on their floors during the day, and their sales were continued until this morning. Indeed, the first sale today beginning with the houses scheduled, the two selling forces went to the houses that failed to get through yesterday.
While the sale today is thought to be a little above the average, it is believed that all of the weed on the local market will be disposed of before the hour for the day's work to be done.
It can be stated that prices for tobacco have scarcely ever been better than they are at the present time. The average for the past few days was given this afternoon at nearly twenty cents, and this is said to be high and very good.
STUDENTS STILL COMING IN.
Training School Faculty Busy Registering Large Number Students.
The second day of the opening of the session of the Training School finds a much large number of young ladies in the roll than was the case yesterday. All day the officers of the school have been busy registering the students, and practically all of the students who had previously signed for rooms have now arrived.
Young ladies are still coming to town to attend the coming session of the school, and the attendance will be considerably larger than the number that can be accommodated at the Training School, as it is known that not a few have secured rooms and board in town. The formal opening exercises will be conducted tomorrow morning in the chapel of the administration building.
AT THE GRADED SCHOOL.
Several New Pupils Entered The Classes Today, And Work is Begun.
Regular class work was started at the graded school today, and by this time everything is in good running order. The opening of the school this morning found several new students on hand to enter some of the classes. A few of them for various reasons could not come to school yesterday, but are present on the opening day, and that partially accounts for their tardiness in entering.
FAMOUS DIVORCE CASE WAS REOPENED TODAY
BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 24.—The famous divorce case of Rantoul vs. Rantoul, which was heard in February last, and in which the complaint, Mrs. Rantoul, avowed her love for Chester C. Rantoul, a wealthy society man of Boston and New London, who had been a classmate of her husband at Harvard, was reopened today, when the petition of Mrs. Rantoul for a modification of the divorce decree came up for hearing in the superior divorce court at East Cambridge. The proceedings in the divorce case were quite sensational and owing to the social prominence of the parties concerned, attracted considerable attention. Mrs. Rantoul charged her husband with cruel and abusive treatment and was given a decree, giving her the custody of the children during the eight months of the school year, and alimony amounting to $150 a month. In her petition Mrs. Rantoul claims that Mr. Rantoul has violated the terms of the decree in several respects and she demands more alimony.
CIVIL ANTI-TRUST SUIT AGAINST SOUTHERN PACIFIC
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Attorney General McReynolds will soon bring a civil anti-trust suit to compel the Southern Pacific Railroad to relinquish its control over the railroads in the United States. In accordance with the announcement he made in connection with the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution.
The entire $80,000,000 of Central Pacific stock is owned by the Southern Pacific. Mr. McReynolds has not yet determined where the suit will be brought.

In the county. We realize that to fall in our desire to accomplish the greatest possible outcome will hurt further work very much.
Is there a chance to get from the department anti surveying, or an inspection or supervisor while the work is being done?
Assuring you that we will greatly appreciate an early reply and any help you may be in a position to offer, I am,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) O. L. CLARK, President, Bladen County Good Roads Association.
Our limited appropriation of $5,000 annually makes it not only impossible to meet the requests for road work, but to carry on the educational work in the way of addresses, which are being called for all over the state. In every other state, where highway work is being carried on successfully, there is a highway commission, organized along political and party lines, rather than as a department of the state. If this is not established, it is more than likely that the major part of the money now being raised for road work will be foolishly expended. In a great many instances, the engineers are refusing to work for county officers, because their surveys are not accepted; and roads continue, even in this enlightened age, to be located by local politics, and where such is the case, no competent engineers will stay on the job.
Those who have studied road matters feel that the state has reached a more or less crucial point, and extreme steps are taken in the right direction in the matter of furnishing state aid, we are going to make a big mark on the extent of which only the future will reveal.

BUSINESS MEN GO TO RALEIGH MEET
Large Delegation From Greenville
at Freight Rate Conference
Resolutions Adopted Condemning the Latest Proposals of the Railroads in the Conference.
Gathered on the eve of the great convention of its kind ever held in this state, the members of the Pitt County Just Freight Rate Association of the court house last night unanimously passed strong resolutions condemning the latest proposals of the railroads in the matter of the dispute over freight rates in North Carolina. The association met at the call of the president, and the members of the association met at the call of the president, and the members of the association met at the call of the president.
To a man the audience assembled in the court house last night will be there from in arms against the discrimination in the rates toward North Carolina manufacturers and shippers. They were thoroughly aroused to the importance of the meeting that is today being held in Raleigh, where, in the big city auditorium, many hundreds of business men of the state are discussing this same proposition, and are planning some method of crushing the unjust treatment according to this state at the hands of the railroads doing business in the state.
As a proof of the position in the matter about one dozen of the foremost business men of the town left this morning, and yesterday afternoon for Raleigh to be present at the meeting of the state organization of the freight rate association. Those who will be there from Greenville are, aside from the local representatives, in the General Assembly: E. H. Biggs, C. M. Warren, J. J. Laughinghouse, R. R. Cotten, W. L. Hadree, E. G. Flanagan, W. H. Moore, C. B. West. The following resolutions were passed last night and will be presented to the meeting in Raleigh today:
First, That we endorse the suggestion that the legislature create a railroad commission composed of two members to be appointed by the governor.
Second, That we strongly oppose the acceptance of the terms of compromise as submitted by the railroads.
Third, That we demand that the state of North Carolina be dealt with fairly and justly in establishing freight rates.
Fourth, That we hereby request our representatives in the General Assembly to exert every effort to this end.

WILLIAM SULZER MUST BE TRIED

First Defeat for Governor Came
Last Week

VOTE TAKEN IN SECRET

Only One Man Voted the Governor's Way—Decision Means That the Legislature Acted Within Its Rights.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Gov. William Sulzer must go to trial. This was decided by the high court of impeachment tonight, when, by a vote of 51 to 1, its members overruled the motion of the governor's counsel to dismiss the proceedings on the ground that he was unconstitutional. The impeachment was brought because that body was in extra session when the impeachment was brought. Senator Gottfried H. Wendel, of Buffalo, Democrat, an ardent supporter of the governor, cast the solitary negative vote.

The governor's defeat was the second that has marked the battle waged by his attorneys to annihilate the impeachment proceedings. Last week the court thwarted their attempt to prevent four senators from sitting as members. Their remaining ammunition consists of arguments that certain of the offenses charged against the governor are not impeachable. These arguments will be heard tomorrow.

Tonight's vote was taken in secret session after an afternoon devoted to speeches by the opposing attorneys. When the time came for the decision, Presiding Judge Cullen announced that he did not feel inclined to use the power granted him under the rules to be the first to express an opinion.

"My brethren," he said, "you will readily appreciate that the point which has been discussed goes to the very foundation of this proceeding. If decided in one way the proceedings must necessarily stop. You have the power to clear the court for private consultation under the rules."

This was done on motion of Judge Cullen (another judge), but the vote was later announced in another brief public session, and the record of the proceedings immediately was made public. It showed that a tentative roll call on the motion was immediately taken and that the majority judge delivered a long opinion on the points at issue when his name was called, thirteenth on the list.

Judge Cullen's opinion, in substance, was that the provision of the constitution which limited the acts of the legislature in extra session to such subjects as were recommended to it by the governor should be given a reasonable construction. It upheld that the provision referred to the legislature as a whole and not to the assembly as an independent body.

"So construed," said Judge Cullen, "these subjects all relate to what the legislature, as a body, can do, and not to the power vested in one branch of the legislature."

The tentative roll call was followed by a viva voce vote and then a final roll call, with the same result. Senator Wendel explained his negative vote in a brief argument in which he held that when the assembly knew some weeks before reconvening to bring the impeachment articles "they foreclosed their right to act upon any question of impeachment when called together in extraordinary session."

Indiana Labor Men Meet.
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 22.—With a larger attendance than ever before in its history the Indiana State Federation of Labor opened its 29th annual convention here today. The convention will continue through Wednesday and Thursday and is being held at the Hotel Hamilton.

Major L. Saunders Gerow, commandant of cadets, is a distinguished graduate of the Virginia Military Institute and was prominent in many lines at the institution. He is very popular with the cadets. He comes to Bingham with the high school recommendations in every line. Capt. Allen Huffman, the new teacher of music, is already much thought of. He teaches wind, band and stringed instruments, vocal music and piano and has had a wide experience in directing a number of years in orchestra and band work, his special instruments being violin and piano. Cadet Capt. Kesler Cobb and Cadet Adjutant Charles B. McCutchen will be instructors at Bingham this year. Both have been leaders at the institution for some years.

Mr. Henry Blanchard, who is one of the best baseball players in the South, will coach the baseball team, and Mr. Max Zielinski who has made a fine record in football, will take charge of the football squad.

Extensive improvements are now going on at Bingham. A first class electric light system is being installed. The best quality of Madax lamps have been put in as they have been found to be the best for purposes of study and have been so recommended by the Bingham Public School Committee on lighting. The very best shades have also been purchased. Col. Gray has also had a number of grades made and is expecting later in the fall to install coal grates in place of the former method of heating which has been in use.

BINGHAM SCHOOL.

Improvements Made.—New Faculty Members.—Student Arriving.
BINGHAM SCHOOL, Mebane, N. C., Sept. 22.—The session of 1913-14 of the Bingham school at Mebane is beginning today.

The faculty which is one of the best that has served the institution in years is on hand ready for work. Major L. Saunders Gerow, commandant of cadets, is a distinguished graduate of the Virginia Military Institute and was prominent in many lines at the institution. He is very popular with the cadets.

Capt. M. W. Hester, teacher of English, Latin and French, is a very prominent graduate of the Citadel, the military college of South Carolina. He comes to Bingham with the high school recommendations in every line. Capt. Allen Huffman, the new teacher of music, is already much thought of. He teaches wind, band and stringed instruments, vocal music and piano and has had a wide experience in directing a number of years in orchestra and band work, his special instruments being violin and piano. Cadet Capt. Kesler Cobb and Cadet Adjutant Charles B. McCutchen will be instructors at Bingham this year. Both have been leaders at the institution for some years.

Mr. Henry Blanchard, who is one of the best baseball players in the South, will coach the baseball team, and Mr. Max Zielinski who has made a fine record in football, will take charge of the football squad. Extensive improvements are now going on at Bingham. A first class electric light system is being installed. The best quality of Madax lamps have been put in as they have been found to be the best for purposes of study and have been so recommended by the Bingham Public School Committee on lighting. The very best shades have also been purchased.

Col. Gray has also had a number of grades made and is expecting later in the fall to install coal grates in place of the former method of heating which has been in use.

GRADED SCHOOLS ARE NOW AT WORK

School Has the Largest Attendance In Its History

ONE TEACHER IS ABSENT

Miss Elizabeth Gray, of Charlotte, Teacher of the Second Grade, Is Sick, and Could Not Come.

With the largest attendance in its career, and with every teacher present save one who is sick, the Greenville Graded Schools opened this morning for the annual session. Of course, at this time, before reports were received in the office from the various teachers, it is impossible for the exact number of students now in the school, but it has been placed at between six and seven hundred in all. Superintendent Hoy Taylor stated this afternoon that he had a full house at the school building, but that he was always ready to do the best he could toward handling all others who may knock at the door for admission. He is very busy getting the affairs of the school in shape for the year's work and has his hands full doing things that have to be done immediately following the opening of the session.

One teacher, Miss Elizabeth Gray of Charlotte, is absent. Word from Miss Gray stated that she is sick, and that it will be impossible for her to be in Greenville to take up her work within several days. Until she is able to make the trip here and take up the duties of her class room, her grade, the second, will be taught by Miss Nellie Pender of this town.

Most of the pupils were supplied with the list of books that they have to have, as the greater portion of them had prepared themselves for the first day of school. No time was lost this morning in getting down to work, and all of the students were assigned lessons. Regular class work will begin tomorrow.

Says Ocracoke People Did Not Pillage Wrecked Vessel.

To the Editor of The Reflector: I note in a recent issue of your paper an article concerning the wrecked schooner Geo. W. Wells which stranded about eight miles from our village during the storm of September second and third. I take the liberty to state that the charge made against our people in said article is absolutely untrue, and it has caused great indignation here. It is a positive fact that not a single person from Ocracoke has been aboard the schooner Geo. W. Wells since she stranded. She lies eight or nine miles from the village and in order to board her one would have to go out of Ocracoke Inlet and go a distance of ten miles on the Atlantic ocean, owing to the roughness of the bar since the storm there would be a hazardous undertaking in small boats.

I have been informed, however, that some people from Hatteras have been aboard of the doomed vessel since she stranded. They can easily get to her as they are nearer to the wreck. Inlet smoother. Yet, I haven't the slightest idea that they are guilty of such charges. In fact I was talking with one of the men a few days ago (and he is reliable) about the schooner, and he said that no one took anything from the vessel except what the captain gave them as souvenirs. He took a Maltese cat and brass padlock. The vessel contained no cargo; all the cabin furniture and belongings to the crew had been previously taken aboard.

None of the crew nor the captain have been in our village. They took refuge in the life saving stations 14 miles from Ocracoke.

Please copy this at once in your paper and ask the other papers of the state to copy.

Oblige,
T. W. HOWARD, Postmaster,
Ocracoke, Sept. 17, 1913.

Oklahoma State Fair Opens.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 23.—Some of the most interesting and sensational features ever offered at a state fair have been promised for the Oklahoma State Fair which opened here today under the most auspicious conditions. The fair will continue until October 1, and there will be many special days and celebrations during that time. Horse races and automobile races will form a conspicuous feature, but there will be no pool selling or betting on the various racing events, although the new anti-betting law does not go into effect until after the close of the fair.

Daniels Says President Wilson Favors His Armor Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Establishment of a great naval armor plant, owned and operated by the government, is favored by President Wilson, Secretary Daniels today told callers, with evident elation. The secretary has been advocating this proposition ever since he came into office and found the three big armor plate plants of the country submitting identical bids for furnishing battle-ship material. Today he said he had been encouraged by promises of congressional support and soon would have a conference on the subject with Admiral Dewey, president of the general board of the navy.

FROM THRIVING WINTERVILLE.

Every House in Town Taken and More Room is Needed.

WINTERVILLE, Sept. 20.—Winterville, as we have been informed, has not a single house for rent, that is any size. There are several causes for this. There is a great demand for labor. The business of the town is increasing and is taking more labor. The new saw mill erected here something like a year ago is working all the labor it can get and needs more. It has orders which it cannot supply at once owing to the lack of men. The A. G. Cox Mfg. Co., have put in an extra boiler and engine and have rearranged their other machinery. They are now well equipped for work. They too, have orders filed on them which they are not able to fill, just because they can't get enough labor to turn out the work. The oil mill which was burnt here last Christmas will soon be replaced which will make the call for labor still greater. It can readily be seen how that by all of the manufacturing plants being increased it has called more laborers in town and they are occupying the houses.

The merchants, too, have been keeping pace. Within the last twelve or fourteen months eighty percent of the stores have been remodeled or changed. There have also been some new firms to open up during that time. Every time they have changed or remodeled their stores it has taken more labor, thus increasing the demand. Whenever the laborer came here it took a little more of the house room for him.

Then, last, but by no means the least, the High School and Christian influence of the town have caused many to come, who live anywhere near and learn what the Winterville High School stands for and what the Christian influence of the town is worth are only too glad to move here. Is it any wonder the houses are all occupied in such a place? If Winterville is still to keep her record of progress the people will have to wake up on the line of building and make room for more laborers.

Three Killed and Forty are Injured in Trolley Wreck

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Three persons were killed and 40 injured early today in a head-on crash of two Long Island railroad electric trains at College Point, Long Island. Of the injured one will die.

Most of the injured were mill employees on their way to work. The trains, running 40 miles an hour, rounded a curve from opposite directions almost simultaneously and the crash was inevitable. The steel cars buckled, but did not telescope. This fact doubtless saved many lives.

A hotel near the scene and a number of residences nearby were thrown open for use as emergency hospitals. Many ambulances and a corps of physicians were summoned to the scene. The Pennsylvania railroad issued a statement saying that the accident had been caused, so far as could be determined, by the negligence of the operator at Whitestone Junction.

Walter Maize, 30 years old, who was in charge of tower "JC" at Whitestone Junction, late today was arrested by order of the coroner and held in $20,000 bail. Maize denied he was responsible for the accident.

Channel of Tar River is Being Deepened and Advantage of This Opportunity Should Be Taken.

According to plans now on foot the members of Carolina Club will, at their next meeting take up the proposition of providing better transportation facilities for this town by means of the establishment of a steamship line between Greenville and Norfolk. One of the principal reasons for the advancement of this project is that some sort of a competitive line may be put into influence a better freight rate over the Norfolk Southern railroad from Greenville to Norfolk.

The matter of establishing a steamship line from this town to Norfolk is not a new project. It has been discussed by some of the principal business men and wholesale merchants of the town for some time. Added impetus, however, was given the movement a few days ago upon the receipt of a letter from a bunch of Northern capitalists who seem to be interested in the new boat line. It is believed that such a project would be a paying proposition, and it is pointed out that even though a corporation or a private company may not be able to make a fortune in the business, it would be to the interest of the merchants and wholesalers of the town to band themselves together and finance the project themselves. It is believed by men in position to know, that unless the railroad of the state grant a considerable reduction in the freight rates charged the merchants of North Carolina, and a part of which discrimination Greenville people are given, that the line would mean a considerable loss to the town.

Already several coast cities and towns in this state have lines running to Norfolk, and all of them realize the immense saving that is netted them by the advantages of such a line. The town of Washington at the present time enjoys a much lower freight rate than does Greenville and that because of her water frontage.

Advocates of the new project say that the federal government is spending its money to dig a six-foot channel in the Tar River up to this town, and that the merchants should show their appreciation by taking advantage of the opportunity thus given them for securing better and cheaper freight rates. "The concern in the town which has written here for information on the subject seems to be very much interested, and Carolina Club will take up the matter at its next meeting."

Presently Bert exclaimed: "I hate all how empty this house seems without that bird!"

Marjory wiped away a tear. "I've had the blues all day," she said. "I've missed Dickie so. If Dorothy had been the least bit appreciative she would have let me keep him a few weeks longer, anyhow."

The young manling Morton on his way to his office stopped at a bird store and purchased a canary.

Mrs. Morton, before keeping her apartment at the dressmaker's, went to a bird dealer and purchased a canary.

Bert, recollecting the empty bracket on a shelf in his room, and the bird that had been dropped in at a department store and purchased a canary.

Marjory, by this time firmly believing that no family is complete without a bird, took her savings and purchased a canary.

That evening each member of the family entered the dining room carrying a bird. They all held their birds in a cage that was hanging on the bracket. There was a card attached to the book. On it Dorothy had written: "I hope this bird will partly take the place of the one you so lovingly cared for."

"Let's keep them all!" exclaimed Marjory.

"All but one," amended Mrs. Morton. "Mildred confided to me this morning that she has given Mopsy away, as she thinks she would rather have a bird than a kitten for a pet."—Chicago Daily News.

WINNING A WELCOME

"Well, what have you there?" exclaimed Mrs. Morton as Marjory, all out of breath, entered the room.

"Wait and see," mysteriously answered her daughter as she unfolded the wrapping paper.

"A canary!" cried Mrs. Morton. "What will you bring home next? Where and how did you get this bird?"

"Dorothy sent for me this morning and said that although she was all ready to go to Atlantic City she couldn't leave until she knew that her bird would be cared for during the summer. Her relative absolutely refused to take the poor thing, and she declared that if I was any kind of a friend this was my opportunity to prove it. Go what could I do?"

"But, my dear, we never owned a bird. We don't understand anything about their food, drink, bath or habits. And every one says a bird is a dreadful care—they're always catching cold or molting or something."

"I know, I told Dorothy all that and so she gave me written instructions, cautioning me to follow them implicitly."

"Listen!" said Marjory, unfolding a slip of paper and reading aloud. "On Thursdays. Cages to be covered at 8:30 each evening. Small lettuce leaf Mondays and Wednesdays. Sliced apples on Tuesdays. Fresh seed and water daily. Cages cleaned daily. And 1,000 other directions."

"It's an imposition!" declared Mrs. Morton. "It's not necessary for Dorothy to promenade the boardwalk at Atlantic City while we sit at home and worry over her pet."

After Morton had worked an hour that evening adjusting a bracket for the cage he said peevishly: "One does impose on one's friends abominably. Here we have a rank outsider simply thrust upon us through no fault of our own. Some people have—well, what you might call nerve."

At eight o'clock the next morning Mrs. Morton's brother Bert came to breakfast with a scowling face.

"Where did that blooming bird hole from?" he demanded. "He has kept me awake since five o'clock with his everlasting singing."

Marjory's married sister soon ran in with her pet kitten, as was her custom.

"What Have You There?"

tom. She was greeted with a scream from Marjory. "Mildred, don't you dare stop into this house with that cat! Can't you see Dorothy's bird? Please, please go home—quick!"

"Very well," answered Mildred in tones. "If you care more for Dorothy's silly bird than for me and my darling Mopsy we shall not trouble you any more with our unwelcome presence. Then the rate sister marched out of the room."

"I wish I had never seen that horrid bird or Dorothy, either!" lamented Marjory.

After two months' absence Dorothy returned and claimed her canary. The first evening after the bird's departure Marjory noticed that both her father and her mother kept gazing at the empty bracket where the bird had swung and sung.

Presently Bert exclaimed: "I hate all how empty this house seems without that bird!"

Marjory wiped away a tear. "I've had the blues all day," she said. "I've missed Dickie so. If Dorothy had been the least bit appreciative she would have let me keep him a few weeks longer, anyhow."

There Were Several Divorce Cases, All of Them Being From Colored People and Were Granted.

After hearing and disposing of a large number of cases on the docket, some of which were the most important of any in court history for a long while, the September term of Pitt county superior court adjourned late Saturday afternoon. There were no cases of any very great importance, though two or three occupied much of the court's time.

In the case of Tucker vs. Adams Judge Webber finally agreed to reduce the amount of money called for in the verdict of the jury from $3,000 to $2,000 provided Mr. Adams would pay the amount. At the time of going to press Saturday the defendant in the case had not indicated just which course he would take in the matter, but later he decided that he would prefer paying $2,000 cash instead of carrying the suit to a higher court and running the risk of losing there.

This September term of civil court was to have lasted two weeks, and should have continued on through the present week, but, owing to the fact that many of the members of the local bar had cases to be brought before the supreme court, necessitating their presence in Raleigh, the second week of the term was postponed.

The following cases were disposed of during the past week:

G. W. Jefferson and Brother vs. Cherry Bryant et al. $75 awarded the plaintiff.

Emma Hardy vs. Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company. New trial. Isaac Edwards vs. Security and Annuity Company. Compromise by payment of $300 by the defendant.

Thelma Highsmith vs. William Highsmith, colored, suit for divorce, which was granted.

William Lewis, vs. Laura Lewis, colored, suit for divorce which was granted.

H. C. Nichols, Administrator of E. S. Nichols vs. the Town of Fountain, not suited.

M. W. Morris, of San Francisco, the only American on the train, is said to have escaped injury, but was robbed.

Two dynamite mines were set off by electricity, it is said. The first class coach was only derailed but the baggage, express and two second class coaches were blown to pieces.

This evidently was the occurrence referred in a despatch from Mexico City which said that a train had been dynamited near the town of Vinegas this morning. The official report as received at Nuevo Laredo, however, indicated that it occurred last Friday.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22.—Rebels dynamited a southbound train on the Mexican national railroad early today at Vinegas, in the northern part of the state of San Potosi, blowing up the locomotive and the two forward coaches. The casualties are not yet known.

Teachers Are Very Anxious That All Students Be Supplied as Soon as Possible After the Opening.

Superintendent Hoy Taylor, of the Greenville Graded Schools, has given out the list of books that will be used in all the grades of the schools during the coming session. In publishing the list, Mr. Taylor says that he is very anxious that all of the pupils secure their books as soon as possible and that they have them with them when they reach their class rooms next Tuesday. Regular recitations will begin on Wednesday morning, and the superintendent and his corps of teachers are very anxious that all students be supplied with the books that they will need.

But very slight changes have been made over the books that were used last year, and it is not expected that there will be any trouble or delay in supplying all students who buy their books at once. The book store has on hand a good stock of books, and the proprietors are anxious that the students get what they will need as soon as possible.
