WINSLOW-KITRELL NUPTIALS.

Popular Young Couple Married in Griffon Wednesday Afternoon.

A most charming event was the wedding of Miss Anna Belle Kittrell and Mr. Lamar Herbert Winslow, of Wilson, on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Griffon.

The brightness of a cloudless sun shone outside but evergreens and trailing vines made twilight trinkle in the church, soft gleams trickling through, casting becoming rosy shadows over all.

Against the background of the pulpit, great branches of the famous long leaf pine, their graceful plumed heads nodding their approval, formed an appropriate setting for the pure white altar, where myriads of candles aglow with loves fire, twinkled and gleamed.

Yellow Dahlias and Golden-glow lent their sunshine to "Love's Altar," and white rose buds peeped from among the greenery. Cascades of ferns and polka plants followed a screen of tropical beauty and profusion.

This Hymenal Altar (the white of purity) holding the yellow, sunshine flowers, typifying the gold of the heart, with the steady burning flame of Love, all surrounded with the never changing evergreen, was in itself a prophesy of good omen, that these two lives, joined in their youth and purity by the God who is Love, would keep through life the gold of their hearts aglow, and Love's light brightly burning.

Miss Louie Delle Pittman, of Bridgeton, presided at the piano. Miss Daisy Winstead, sister of the groom, in her lovely soprano charmingly rendered "Mine." To Mendobson's Wedding March the ushers, Mr. Joshua Tucker and Walter C. Messinger, followed by the groom and his best man, Mr. Groves L. Herring, of Wilson. They took their places and awaited the bride and her attendants.

Mrs. J. T. Herring, of Rocky Mount, in white silk crepe de moulin carrying a shower bouquet of white carnations was Dime of Honor, followed by the Maid of Honor, Miss Lilly Tucker, cousin of the bride in white brocade crepe de moulin, also carrying carnations, also carrying carnations.

The ring bearer, dainty little Miss Jean Harvey, in white chiffon over pink Messaline, carried a ribboned brass basket, in the center of which a perfect bride rose, held in its fragrant heart the wedding ring; that golden circle, symbol for ages of the marriage vow.

The bride never lovelier than in her radiant beauty, in white chiffon charmeuse and real lace, entered on the arm of her father, Mr. W. J. Kittrell. The bride carried a magnificent bouquet of bride roses.

Dr. J. C. Caldwell, president of the Atlantic Christian College, performed the ceremony in a clear and convincing manner, making the service very impressive.

Miss Kittrell was a well beloved daughter of Griffon, and Mr. Winstead a promising young man of character and integrity, and their friends rest assured that God has joined them in His holy bonds and His blessings will go with them even unto life's end.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headaches so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theford's Black-Draught, and quite taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it. I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it. I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me." Theford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. NEGRO MAN AND WIFE UP BEFORE MAYOR CHARGED WITH MAKING ATTACK UPON EACH OTHER SATURDAY NIGHT.

Six citizens of Greenville were brought up before Mayor James this morning for violations of the law, and six of them received fines with the exception of one negro who appealed from the decision of the town's chief executive.

Two negroes were up for disorderly conduct in Daniel King's restaurant on last Saturday night, and both appeared to have been raising riot much of a disturbance at the cafe in the western section of the town. After a rather lengthy examination of the two offenders, the mayor fined each $3.00 and costs.

A negro man and his wife were in the court charged with a mutual assault. In other words, they agreed that they would have a little scrap and each, without giving the other any advantage to get the advantage in the beginning, went for the other with main strength. Neither seems to have the best end of the fray, as both fought best and appears to have been pretty equally matched. The man was fined $5.00 and costs, and the woman $2.00 and costs.

Another man was brought up for driving a horse through the streets at a very reckless rate on Saturday night. He was fined $2.00 and costs.

A negro man was charged with running a dray without license, and the mayor decided to put him off with no charges save the costs when he appealed the case. The costs would have been only $1.55 had the negro allowed the matter to drop where it was, but when an appeal was taken, the mayor was forced to put a fine of $5.00 additional upon the negro. The appeal to the superior court was taken, and will be heard at the next term to be held here in November.

VALUABLE SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

The Move or Anderson Farm, consisting of eighty-three acres, almost within the city limits. Great opportunity for investors to double their money in short time.

The offer for sale either as a whole or in subdivisions to suit the purchaser, the Move or Anderson Farm, located about three-quarters of a mile from the corporate limits of the thrifty, progressive city of Greenville, and not more than twelve or fifteen minutes' walk from the business center.

This property is probably the most desirable land for truck farming in any part of Greenville. Two sand clay roads lead from the property into Greenville and at the present rate of increase in population of Greenville it will in a very few years become valuable as building sites.

This land is several feet higher than the town and is the most beautiful and desirable for suburban home of any property near the town. The land is a light gray loam underlaid with clay subsoil and produces all crops common to this section. Although considered at the time the price was $100 per acre, it has since run down, we have averaged a little more than a 500 pound bale of cotton to the acre during the last three years. This is in reality a great opportunity for the best town in eastern N. C. It is conservatively valued at $100 per acre, and in consequence values that today seem high will appear marvelously cheap high will appear marvelous when you are aware of it.

POSTAL INSPECTOR VISIT GREENVILLE

Will Come in Interest of Free City Delivery System

POSTMASTER IS INFORMED

Receives Official Notice From Post Office Headquarters in Washington—Free Delivery Soon.

Notice has been received by Postmaster D. J. Whitehead that a postal inspector from the post office department in Washington has been detailed to visit Greenville in the interest of the installation here of the free city delivery system.

Postmaster Whitehead has recently returned from Washington City, where he went in the interest of the installation of the new service, and states that the department has taken the matter in hand, and that it will be put in as soon as possible. While in Washington Mr. Whitehead told the department officials that the town would be ready with its part of the preparation before the postal department could possibly install the system here, and this was gratifying news to the men having this work in charge.

For some time the matter has been under consideration, but it was not until recently that the town was notified, but the local postmaster, alive to the needs of his town, has steadily kept in mind the project, and has quietly been proceeding with the preparations for the new system.

It will, of course, require some time for the government to install the free delivery system in Greenville, but once they start a movement, they are not those who allow it to drop and die in its infancy.

The town will be shortly have all of its business numbered, and all of the sidewalks will be in condition for the business. In the meantime the government officials will proceed with their end of the work of preparation, and it is a matter of only a few months until the city carrier may be seen making his twice-a-day rounds in Greenville.

Children's Teeth. Children's crooked teeth should be seriously considered in our every day life. We, careful mothers are not waiting until permanent teeth disappear and permanent ones come in, for the time to begin on crooked teeth as soon as they show themselves irregular.

Crooked teeth is going to get the attention of all classes of people who do good cheer work, because it is true that irregular rows of protruding teeth not only make the youngster backward but morbid as well. People who are trying to aid children realize that you can get sympathy for a club foot quicker than for a facial deformity—and yet crooked teeth, the effort, the development, mental, and physically, of youth. Notice the little girl with bold tuks protruding, and you will see her always in the back of the group; after a time if her parents are poor, she plays more in groups—further and further she gets apart from her kind, and then the brain and body grow slowly in the child's development.

RUNAWAY YESTERDAY.

The bass was returning from one of the afternoon trains, and had in it one passenger who escaped injury. Sam Short was bruised a little, but there were no serious results to the driver or his passenger.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROMOTION DAY

VERY IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES HELD AT THE METHODIST CHURCH YESTERDAY AT MORNING SERVICES

"Commencement Exercises," as they were called, were held at the Methodist church yesterday morning by the Sunday School of the Church. Plans for the occasion had been made some time before, and the children had been practicing for the event for several weeks.

The Methodist Sunday School uses the graded system of lessons which are a comparatively new venture in the church, and the exercises of yesterday marked the close of the first year that this method of teaching has been used here. The day was observed as promotion day, and that is why it was called the "Commencement Day." Every child in the school who had made sufficient progress and who had done his work well enough, was advanced to a high grade. The various classes in the Sunday School are numbered just as are the grades in a public school, and the same method of teaching, to an extent, is followed in the Sunday School. Diplomas, or certificates, as they are called in the church, were presented to all those advanced to higher grades.

The regular Sunday school lesson was dispensed with at the Sunday School hour, and this time was consumed on changing the classes and in showing the scholars to their new rooms, and in acquainting them with their new teachers.

There was no preaching at the church at the morning hour, and this time was taken up by the rendition of a very delightful program by the children of the Sunday School. The members on the program that were rendered by the children in the beginners' department were especially enjoyed by the big congregation which filled the main auditorium of the church. The program was carried out in a happy and interesting manner, and the recitations were very pleasing to those present. Especially mention is due the excellent duet, "Hear the Rally Cry of Jesus," by Misses Doris Overton and Edith Foley. All of the exercises were well carried out.

At the night services at the Methodist church Dr. J. T. Gibbs, presiding officer of the Washington district, preached a very able sermon, and administered the Lord's Supper.

PRESIDENT WRIGHT SPOKE. Made Interesting Talk at the Y. W. C. A. Services. The Y. W. C. A. services at the Training School on Sunday evening were led by President R. H. Wright. He had his audience study with him the first chapter of James. The young ladies followed with intense interest the reading, comments and application. The two main points, that Christian character is made strong by resisting temptation and proves itself by good works, were impressed upon them.

President Wright's active interest in the work of the association is a constant source of inspiration. The music committee furnishes excellent music for each service. Miss Mavis Evans sang a solo.

SMALL FIRE.

Blaze Sunday Evening Created Excitement for Short While. A small fire in the rear of the Postal Telegraph office Sunday evening about 7:30 o'clock created some excitement in town. The fire occurred shortly after most of the congregations in the various churches had gathered for the evening services, but the alarm was not sufficient to attract the crowds. Only the fire bell rang, as the engineer at the municipal plant did not receive warning in time to blow his whistle.

The firemen were early on the scene of the fire, and found that it was a small shack was ablaze, and this was quickly extinguished without much damage.

Car Is Held Up Twenty Minutes Until She Is Released. SALISBURY BEACH, Mass., Oct. 5.—The entire schedule of the North-western Massachusetts railroad was disrupted because a woman weighing in the vicinity of 300 pounds became wedged between two seats on one of the cars.

The combined efforts of several policemen and a half dozen civilians was necessary to extricate her from her position. Before she was freed, the car had been held up about twenty minutes and the whole schedule was thrown into disorder.

HE FINISHED HIS WORK

By J. A. TIFFANY.

The man was old and broken in spirit. His life had been a failure, as all lives are, measured by the degree to which they fulfill the dreams of youth. He had been a failure, as all lives are, measured by the degree to which they fulfill the dreams of youth.

At two-and-twenty he had mistaken the flush of enthusiasm for the fire of genius. He had been a failure, as all lives are, measured by the degree to which they fulfill the dreams of youth.

His wife had been a failure. Now, she was a poor, faded, common-place creature. Her husband, too, were all gone, like her beauty, and, worse than that, the man's illusions in regard to her were dead also.

Of gentle birth, she still retained some traces of refinement, in spite of her long sojourns in Bohemia. But the novelty, the charm, the mystery of the life were gone.

The next morning when she saw Billy going to the station with his mother, she almost wept. "I didn't know I was so fond of Billy!" she wailed.

She had no buoyant spirits to quench when she saw Billy. She was so quiet and dejected during dinner that Philip Reeves finally abandoned his attempts to converse with her.

Three wretched days passed in which Allen managed to maintain a demeanor that satisfied her father's ideas of decorum, although she felt horribly unnatural. Then came the reaction. Her father received an urgent summons to a neighboring town.

Free and alone! She hadn't felt so untrammelled since her childhood days. She flew to the piano, and the room rang with the maddest music forth in her repertoire. Then her voice burst forth in gay, little snatches of song that revealed her exuberant spirits.

"How long have you been in here?" she asked faintly. "I came at the first sound of the music. It is just the kind I like. I am not educated up to classical music."

Nature's Provision for the Preservation of Health When the Mercury is Soaring.

It is hardly necessary to tell the summer girl to add fruits to her beauty diet. There is a whole medicine chest hidden in every cabin of the fruits, and these are nature's remedies which leave no ill effects.

The remedial powers of the pineapple are truly remarkable. If your throat is sore, or your stomach is irritated with dirt after a fascinating motor trip on summer roads, try gargling it in pineapple juice.

Physicians Now Enabled to Perform Rare Operations With the New Bronchoscope.

An instrument known as the bronchoscope has been introduced at the Medico-Chirurgical hospital, Philadelphia, to aid in the examination of the lungs and to remove foreign substances therefrom.

The bronchoscope is U-shaped. One of the legs is hollow and is surmounted by a small mirror and an electric light. To remove a foreign body from the lungs, the hollow leg is inserted in the mouth and permitted to pass over the vocal chords.

Dr. R. S. Killern and his five assistants, the most skillful in the department of the institution are skilled in the manipulation of the bronchoscope, and have been performing some of the most delicate operations in the chest.

FIND JOKE HARD TO FORGIVE

Detective Burns Aroused Ire of Female Fellow-Passengers, and Also Their Curiosity.

Detective W. J. Burns was blessed by the pope the other day. Half a dozen well-to-do ladies reading that statement earnestly hoped that the blessing is a defective and instancious one, because Burns played a joke on them that they can never forgive.

"Please, Mr. Burns," they said to him, pleadingly and working their eyes, "please make us a speech in the cabin this evening. Tell us about the wonderful detectaphone."

Then they remembered themselves, and pretended they were just fixing their skirts and sat down again, and from time to time they glanced their cheeks to restore their color.

Yes, She Probably Would. "Does anybody ever kick you in the nose?" said the ass.

BASEBALL WILD.

Never in the history of any country has so much time and money been given over to any sort of sport as is poured into the coffers of baseball in America today. Not even the Olympic games in ancient Greece, as important as they were, created such a stir as does a World's Series in America in this day and generation. And it seems that interest in these great contests is ever on the increase. Where will it cease? Men count no sacrifice too great to make, nor any time too valuable to give, to see a big game of baseball or to sit and hear the reports, play by play, of a mighty struggle such as is now going on at alternate days in New York and Philadelphia.

The wires of all the telegraph companies are taxed to their capacity to flash over a breathlessly waiting nation the results of every move made by the man at the bat and the man at the diamond scrambling for the ball. Into every nook and corner of the nation this report goes, and in only a few minutes after the last batter is out the world knows the result of the game. Thousands of dollars are spent every day, and anxious fans wait outside the gates all night in order to gain a vantage point from which may be viewed the struggle as it progresses.

Baseball is a good thing. When it is clean and honestly played, no better or more popular form of amusement can be found. We would detract not one iota of interest from the great national game, but we think it would not be amiss to ask where all this madness will finally end.

THE FREIGHT RATE SITUATION.

If the press of the state may be relied upon for an accurate estimate of the sentiment of the people of the state with regard to the acceptance or the rejection of the latest proposals of the railroads, it would seem that sentiment is pretty nearly equally divided in the matter. Some of the papers are commending Mr. Clark's "pass voters" bill, which, of course, bears directly upon the freight rate proposition, and others are saying that the fight should be pressed on to the final culmination. Some are recommending that the legislature accept the latest offer from the railroads and let the matter drop right where it is.

There are those, of course, who favor the course advocated by Governor Craig, and who want the matter closed. The Just Freight Rate Association has performed a great service in this fight, and the members of this organization, as a rule, are far more vitally interested in a proper adjustment of these differences than most of the members of the legislature. While we do not think that the whole thing should be left with this business men's organization, we firmly believe that the legislature should not attempt a solution without considering the demands of these men. The Just Freight Rate Association will not be satisfied with the latest offer of the railroads unless there is a guaranty with some backing that better things are in store, and that these will be forthcoming in the very near future.

Now that the fight has reached its present stage, we do not believe that the business men should step in the midst of a big victory. If we could make the railroads come to the present terms, we can make them come to what we want and what is just. And we want no more than justice.

FIFTEEN CENT COTTON.

With the rise of the price of cotton to fifteen cents per pound Republican hopes go glimmering. Before this campaign last Fall the leaders of the G. O. P. were prancing about over the tulle telling the farmer that if they put the Democrats in power the price of their cotton would fall to eight and nine cents. The people refused to believe these fairy stories and cast their ballots for Democracy and better times.

On last Friday night President Wilson signed the first Democratic tariff bill that has ruled the country in nearly twenty years, and today the price of cotton is higher than it has been in many years under the rule of Republican administrations. If politics does affect the price of cotton it would seem that the Democrats party has done the farmer a good turn, and the farmer would do well to keep these fellows in power for a long time.

The truth of the whole business is that the administration of the affairs of government at the present time is in the proper hands, and in charge of men who have a conscience, and who are honest and reliable. They are men whose ideas and opinions of justice cannot be swayed by the coffers of big business, and try to give the country honest service.

Yes, cotton has gone to fifteen cents, and is staying right close to fourteen cents. The farmers are happy, and the country is prospering, and the Democrats are in power. So be it, Amen.

COTTON MILL FOR GREENVILLE.

The news that Greenville is to have a cotton mill will be welcomed by the citizens of the town. For some time there has been an agitation here for such a movement, but until recently has anything really tangible been attempted. Realizing that the town needs more business enterprises, and believing that a cotton mill would be a paying proposition here, a number of local capitalists have banded themselves together and have subscribed enough stock to erect and operate a mill here. This is but another evidence of the rapidly growing town. Outsiders believe in Greenville, and this will be well shown and seen before the cotton mill is put into operation. Many citizens have for some time been of the opinion that a cotton mill is needed here, and they are determined that there shall be one if it is possible to secure it.

The new project means another hundred thousand dollar enterprise for the town. Of course, the movement is yet in its infancy, and the exact terms of its completion cannot possibly be stated now, but the directors and stockholders have faith in the undertaking and will push it with all possible haste. Men who know the cotton mill business will be put in charge of the plant, and Greenville people will boost, and the town will grow and expand as it has never done before.

People in distant sections of the state sometimes ask where Greenville, North Carolina is, and say that they never heard of it before, but all of this talk is gradually dying away. Our Greenville may sometimes be confused with our sister in Bleasdom, but the day is near at hand when there will be no confusion, and when all of the state will know that there is a Greenville in this state, and that there is not another town that can touch it in its onward road to progress. And the new cotton mill will do much to bring about this condition. If you can't take any stock in it, boost it with all your might.

THAT BOAT LINE.

If any town ever had an opportunity to grow and prosper, the town of Greenville is right now in position to take on the proportions of a city. Never did a better chance present itself to a town than is right now knocking at the door of this little city. No matter what sort of a freight rate the railroads of the state give on the material that is to be shipped here, we can reach out a little and get the benefit of a very low water rate from Norfolk.

And there is no logical reason why the town should not have a water outlet for carrying on its commerce. We are told, and on good authority, that there are four wholesale firms in Greenville which alone would justify the establishment of a water line between Greenville and Norfolk.

Race segregation in the South, or at least in most places in the South, could apply only to the negro, while in the North and Middle West, the settlements of the low class of foreign settlers must be given consideration. It will be interesting to watch the developments in the various legislatures where this matter is under discussion. The course taken by these law making bodies will have a great influence, perhaps, upon the future solution of the race problem in all sections of the country, whether it deal with the white man, the black man, or the yellow Mongolian.

Seems a long time to endure the awful burning, itching, smarting, skin disease known as "tetter"—another name for Ecema. Seems good to realize, also that Dr. Hobson's Ecema Ointment has proven a perfect cure. Mrs. D. L. Kenney writes:—"I cannot sufficiently express my thanks to you for your Dr. Hobson's Ecema Ointment. LEFT YOUNG MOTHER GASPING

Mrs. O'Leary's Well-Meant Words of Compassion Contained a Meaning That Shocked.

There are still two opinions concerning red hair. She was a very good young mother. All the old matters had never painted such a bambino, had never imagined such a cherub as hers. Quite simply she believed it. And the baby's hair was red. It did not occur to her that red hair was anything but completely and wholly admirable. The little shining copper colored head seemed to her the sum of all that was radiant and lovely.

"I've come for the baby's wash, ma'am." It was Mrs. O'Leary, the washerwoman—a rawboned, dejected soul—who spoke. Evidently there was for her no inexpressible glory shining amid the blue and white draperies of a basin. How hard the water of the young mother and proudly drew back the cover from the baby's rest. "Come and look at my little daughter," she said. "See, she has red hair."

A flash of some strong feeling—could it be compassion—illumined the dejected features of Mrs. O'Leary. The proud young mother felt her hand gripped in a grasp of iron, and a warm Irish voice sounded in her ears. "There, there," it said soothingly. "Don't you fret. Don't you fret. You can't never tell what you look like when they're small. Some of 'em grows up into real good lookin' girls. They do that!"

Dog Caused Boy's Death.

A boy was drowned by a dog he had on a leash jumping into the water and dragging him and his brother, walking with him, after it. The boys and a companion were walking along the towing path of the canal, at Rochdale, Lancashire, England, and had passed the lock, before the accident happened. An alarm was at once raised, and one of the brothers was rescued by some boys who were playing near. An elder brother of the boys came on the scene and plunged into the canal. He succeeded in finding the other boy, but artificial respiration proved unavailing.

Unearthed Bones of Roman Soldiers.

The discovery has been announced from Rome, Italy, of a large ossuary or place for the deposit of the bones of the dead, near the port of Telamon. The discovery is on the scene of the battle of Telamon, fought in the year 225 B. C., during the invasion of Italy by the Gauls, when the invading hordes were defeated by the Romans. The ruins of a Temple of Thanksgiving, erected by the Romans in memory of this victory, were unearthed in 1822. Further important discoveries are expected as a result of the present excavations.

"Let Jane do it" is the new law in California since women got the vote. "Nowadays," says Miss Helen Todd of San Francisco, "when a man is approached by political slave drivers, who ask him to serve on all kinds of tiresome committees, he just says: 'Well, I'm too busy, boys; just ask my wife—she knows more about it than I do, anyway.'"—From "Below the Rio Grande."

Local School Sempelled to Add More Work in Order to Prepare Students for College Entrance.

Desiring to raise and keep the standard as high as possible with that of any other graded school in North Carolina, the school board at a meeting held on last Thursday night, decided unanimously to add another grade to the curriculum of the school. Before graduating the students will be required to be compelled to finish the work of eleven grades now instead of ten as has been the case heretofore. It is explained by the school board that all of the colleges and higher institutions of learning in the state have raised their standard, and in order for the local school to prepare its students for entrance into these institutions it is necessary for the standard to be raised here.

It has been rumored over the town, and especially among the students of the school, that there will be no graduation this year. This, however, is a mistaken idea. Whether or not there shall be any one to graduate depends altogether upon the ability and progress of the individual students. The extra work will be put on the students of the grade that will be held by any student now in the tenth grade, and if any student can make all of the work of the two years in this up so as to make more room for be allowed to graduate, and will be given his diploma. Professor Taylor says that he hopes that there will be some students to make the work and that it will be possible for him to graduate with the students now in the highest grade in the school, but all this, of course, depends upon the student and not upon the superintendent, or the school board.

Nothing more than this was done by the school board at its meeting Thursday night, with the exception of making an order for putting in the school building. It is planned to cut this up so as to make more room for the accommodation of the students

Unitarians in Conference.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Liberalism in religious thought is to be the principal theme of the twenty-fifth biennial session of the general conference of Unitarian and other Christian churches, which assembled in this city today for a four days' session. Dr. Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard University, is presiding over the sessions.

Valuable Land For Sale

We offer for sale either as a whole or sub-divided to suit the buyer the Moye or Anderson farm located about one half mile from Greenville on the Tarboro road. There are 32 acres in the farm 70 cleared and in cultivation, balance in river low land. The land is a light loam with clay subsoil and produces all crops grown in this section. There is no better truck land in the county and no lawn in the state needs truss farmers as much as Greenville.

It is the most beautiful site in or around Greenville for a suburban home. It is several feet higher than the town and the broad stretch of open country to the south and west insures a pleasant breeze at almost all times. It is indeed an ideal spot for a home. Address

John Muir Relates an Incident Which Shows the Courage of the Wild Gray Goose.

John Muir tells in his "Story of My Boyhood and Youth" about many of the birds of Wisconsin, and especially of the common gray geese, which would arrive hungry and wing-worn, with nearly an inch of snow on their backs. But they never lost their seaward, and the hunter who would secure a trophy must hide himself before the birds arrived, for no one could approach them afterward. "It was the ambition of boys to be able to shoot these wary birds. I never got but two, both of them in one so-called lucky shot. When I ran to pick them up one of them flew away, but as the poor fellow was sorely wounded he didn't fly far. When I caught him after a short chase he uttered a piercing cry of terror and despair, which the leader of the flock heard at a distance of about a hundred rods.

"They had flown off in frightened disorder, and I had not got into the regular harrow shape order when the leader heard the cry, and I shall never forget how bravely he left his place at the head of the flock and hurried back screaming and struck at me in trying to save his companion. I dodged down and held my hands over my head, and thus escaped a blow of his show. Fortunately I had left my gun at the fence, and the life of this noble bird was spared, after he had risked it in trying to save his wounded friend or neighbor or family relation.

Farmer Swallowed Horrible Compound Rather Than Have Fellow Diners Laugh at Him.

"My, but this coffee tastes good!" said Mr. Lackey, as he ate a late supper after a long day at the county school. "It didn't taste very sweet to me," replied Mr. Lackey, with a chuckle. "Wasn't there any sugar on the table?"

"Oh, yes, there was plenty of sugar on the table," replied Mr. Lackey, "but you see I made a mistake, and put in a spoonful of salt."

"Mersey me!" exclaimed Mrs. Lackey. "You surely didn't drink it, Hiram?" "I had several cups," replied Mr. Lackey. "You see there was a young fellow sitting right by me, and I saw right away that I had done something wrong, because he said 'Mr. Lackey, but you see I made a mistake, and put in a spoonful of salt.'"

Quinine Factories.

Java produces about two-thirds of the world's supply of cinchona, and it has for years been regularly shipped to Holland. The large quinine factories, mostly situated in Germany, supply themselves with the raw material in the Dutch market, and of late years the manufacturers have combined to keep the price at such low level as to render the cinchona cultivation unprofitable, although the manufacturers of quinine have been earning large dividends.

Smoked and Wrote in Comfort.

Inventive smokers do funny things, says the Faculty Doctor. Carlyle smoked up the chimney with a degree of thoughtfulness for the feelings of others not universal in his conduct. The famous Bishop Burnett, who like many another author, found composition facilitated by puffings of the reductive weed, disliked the interruption of removing his pipe constantly while he was writing. In order to combine the two operations with due comfort to himself he bored a hole through the broad brim of his hat, and putting his long pipe through it, puffed and wrote and puffed with the most philosophical calm.

Bill in Legislature By Representative Clark, of Pitt

Having as his aim the securing for the people of the state of a flat rate of two cents per mile on all passenger trains traveling within the state, Representative D. M. Clark, of this county, has introduced in the state legislature a bill providing for such accommodations. The fact that this bill has been introduced is not at this late date a matter of news, but so far the bill has not been published. When the old rate was creating such a wide discussion in this state during the year 1908, Governor R. B. Glenn called the legislature into special session to deal with the matter. The regular session passed the bill creating a uniform rate of two and one-half cents per mile, but the railroads refused to put it into effect on the date set for, and the governor proceeded to take steps for the enforcement of the law. It is to be the law. Since the settlement of the fight at that time little has been said to reduce the matter until recent years, and an agitation has been started to reduce the fare to a flat rate of two cents. Virginia has a flat rate, as well as several other states of the south, and there are many people who believe that this state should be given the same favors.

Minister Praises This Law

SEA BATHING IN THE TROPICS

Water Becomes Heated to a Remarkable Degree and a Plunge is the Height of Luxury.

Those who live in temperate and cold climates do not realize the effect of the sun's direct heat on the sea.

On November 21, 1909, we bathed at Moo-foe, north Queensland, in shallow water, on the edge of an area of degraded coral reef fully two miles long by a mile broad.

The first plunge provoked an exclamation of amazement for the water was several degrees hotter than the air, and it was the hottest hour—three o'clock in the afternoon—of a very hot day.

On another day, January 10, 1910, between noon and three o'clock in the afternoon, the sea, scientifically tested, was heated to 90 degrees.

Contradictory Terms. An American visitor to Cambridge, England, sought explanation of some unfamiliar terms, which a genial Don was delighted to elucidate.

Reciprocity. "Jemima," said Mr. Hangan to his wife, as he entered the house with a huge package in his arms, "you remember last week when you secured such a wonderful bargain in shirts at 99 cents, and neckties at three for a shilling, for me?"

VALUABLE LOT OF DUROC JERSEY SWINE

To Be GIVE AWAY To the Farmers of this Section.

We have twenty head of as fine a lot of Duroc Jersey hogs, male and female, as were ever raised in Eastern North Carolina that we are going to give away, absolutely free of charge, to the farmers of this section.

How To Get One of These Hogs

To the farmer, white or colored, who comes nearest guessing the number of pounds of tobacco that will be sold on the Greenville market this season up to December 1st, will be given the choice hog in the lot, and to the farmer who guesses the next nearest to the number of pounds sold, will get the next choice hog in the lot, and so on until the entire lot are given away.

Every farmer who sells a load of tobacco at the Star Warehouse will be entitled to a guess, and will have the opportunity of getting one of these choice hogs free of charge. Twenty farmers will get them, and the twenty guessing nearest to the number of pounds sold by December 1st will be the lucky ones.

In order that the farmers may have an intelligent idea of what will be sold on the market to December 1st, we are publishing what has been sold on the market up to this time, and also what was sold on the market last year up to December 1st.

Now, put on your studying cap, take the sales last year and compare them with this, make your estimate of what will be sold to December 1st this year, bring on your load of tobacco, and we will register your guess on your bill, and keep a record of it also ourselves, and when the Secretary of the Board of Trade reports the sales up to December 1st, we will then award the hogs to the twenty farmers who have guessed nearest the number of pounds sold.

Now, remember please, that it doesn't cost a cent to enter this contest. It is a perfectly plain proposition. We are going to give away twenty pure blood Duroc Jersey Hogs to the customers of the Star Warehouse who guess nearest the number of pounds of Tobacco that will be sold on the Greenville Market to December 1, this year.

The sales on the Greenville market last year up to December 1, were 11,212,257 pounds. The sales to October 1, this year are 6,597,373 pounds.

THE QUESTION IS: What will the Greenville market sell this year up to December 1st.

The twenty farmers coming nearest to the correct answer to this question will get twenty as fine Hogs as were ever raised in this county.

No employee of the Star Warehouse will be allowed a guess in this contest.
