FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1914.

Tomorrow "Remember the Sabbath Day to Keep it Holy."

Of course Greenville is in the winning class. That is her way.

This weather would make one think that winter was taking a back track.

The world owns over 2,000,000 automobiles but in many instances walking proves that it is still good.

The Guilford county negro that worked four hours with a broken neck certainly shows some grit.

It certainly looks like Mr. Jerome has done about all he can or in other words has reached the end of the rope.

The defeat of the suffragettes sustained in the senate did not dishearten them in the least so they say. Woman like.

If some people would use a fly swatter as often as they do their tongue for knocking purposes they would prove to be really desirable citizens.

Mr. Duke's warehouse plan may be all right, but what's the matter with the farmers, they can't do this without the assistance of any one.

Attorney Jerome got a fee of $25.00 for the part he took in trying to get "That" returned to the asylum. That was pretty fat pickings.

This cold snap will add more trouble to the tobacco growers of this section. Just grin and bear it, as the sun can't shine every day in the same place.

Hardly a day passes but what are seen in Greenville faces of new people who have come to cash in their lot here. We want them all to feel that it is "Our Greenville, Yours if You Come."

We can't get all the people to think as we do, and lots of them can't get us to think as they do. There will always be a majority and a minority in every community. We have often wondered, however, how it is that the minority makes the most noise.

What a world of shadow—multitudes, both of men and women, seem to live under the shadow. It seems that a great host of souls shrink beneath the cloud of some nameless, unspoken grief. It may be merely a disappointment in their life-plans. Yet that very disappointment seems to have conquered them. It may be simply a failure in business or an unattainable ambition, yet the darkness seems to have gripped them. In some instances there is a blighted hope, an unrequited affection, some sad mistake, and the brightness of their day is turned into a gray.

A long time ago the Gallean Teacher spoke words of blessing upon those who mourn and one of the olden time writers said, "Nothing teaches the soul so many things as sorrow." Sometimes it seems that sorrow and suffering are set in the life program of some souls. They appear to be a part of the earthly lot. The babe smiles—the same babe weeps. When we have grown too old and too proud to weep—we still, like the babe, suffer. There is surely a purpose in the shady side of life.

Much of the heart-ache in this world comes from a maladjustment of personal relation. There are many chronic misunderstandings, even with the most intimate friends. Sometimes those who have grown from very baby hood together seem to be unable even to speak to each other without exciting some antagonism or sympathy. It appears that there is always some petty difference, some little jangle or jam of difference temperament. The pain is in the heart—there may be a smile upon the lips but the sound of joy is suppressed and the voice is silent, and the life goes on in a wearying and weakening manner as of inward bleeding.

Many people carry the marks of some inward bruise, inflicted all a lifetime. They are heavy-hearted because they are over-weighted with sensitiveness. They feel every look, they catch every tone, they seem to sense every breath of criticism of disapproval. Sometimes they crave sympathy and they long for appreciation. They seem to feel that it is rather neglect and they either in loneliness. The world is moving, thoughtless of any inflicted sting and the sensitive ones loiter behind, over-looked, unconsidered, and apparently forgotten, and then, immediately they take it for granted that they are considered "nobodies."

Others, like caged birds, beat their wings against the bars of hard unyielding circumstance and are wretched because of unsatisfied desire. They long for—but perhaps, with string, active impulse, they do not know exactly how or where to place themselves and the world is busy and does not wait for them to find themselves. The soul is gripped with longing—ambition drives like a hater—but the soul does not exactly know and the end is despairing failure—then comes darkness, seeming sorrow.

A movement is on foot throughout North Carolina for the establishment of a school for the diseased organs of sound minds in the state. This plea should touch the hearts of everybody as our money couldn't be invested in a more worthy cause.

What will be learned by the average college student from now until the end of the school session would no doubt fill the sporting columns of some daily journal in their Sunday's issue.

The announcement that Ex-Governor Glenn will deliver the commencement address at the Training School this year is heard with delight and the school is fortunate in securing the services of an orator with national reputation as he.

After all—it is a small business to be feeling our feelings and worrying our moods. "Happy, my brother," said Carlyle, "First of all, what difference is it whether thou art happy or not? Today becomes yesterday so fast; all tomorrows become yesterday; and then there is no question whatever of the happiness, but quite another question. Nay, thou has such a sacred pity left, at least for thyself, thy very pains, once gone over into yesterday, have become joys to thee. Besides, thou knowest not what Heavenly blessedness, what in dispensable sanitary virtue is in that Thou shalt only know it after many days, when thou art wiser."

While we sit brooding over our troubles and the hardship of our lot—the world goes tranquilly on, the infinite sky still covers us, the everlasting order abides and "God is where he was." If we keep our souls in patience, if we hold fast to our faith and hope and love, the soft streams of healing will flow into us and through us.

Sale of Real Estate.
By virtue of a power of sale contained and delivered by W. L. McLawhorn and wife, Annie McLawhorn to Greene Manning, dated 30th day of September 1909 and duly recorded in the Register's office in Pitt county, in book 4, page 401, the undersigned will on Monday the 29th day of April, 1914 exposed to public sale before the court house door in Greenville to the highest bidder for cash the following described tract or parcel of land, to wit:

"Situating in Contentnea township, Pitt county, North Carolina, beginning at the mouth of Peter's Run where it enters into Contentnea Creek and running thence a straight line to the mouth of Marl branch thence up the eastern course of said branch to the mouth of W. Oulmer's cove, thence with said Oulmer's line north 37° 20' west 106 4-5 poles to a stake, a walnut tree stump, thence south 49° 2-3 west 167 poles to a stake on the great Contentnea creek near a small pine-needle down the various courses of said creek to the beginning, containing 385 acres more or less. This sale is made to satisfy the terms of said mortgage deed. This 17th day of March, 1914.

A LIVE LITTLE TOWN.
A few days ago we had the pleasure of visiting one of the liveliest towns for its size in Eastern Carolina—Ayden. Like a majority of the larger towns in this part of the state it is making rapid strides in every way—especially in the line of buildings. It requires co-operation among the citizens of any town in order that it may go forward, and this is particularly noticeable in Ayden, and we commend its people for their shoulder to shoulder spirit.

There are several buildings under construction there and among them a new home for the Bank of Ayden, a structure when completed that will be second to none in Pitt county.

Keep it up neighbors, and ere long you will have some of the larger towns looking to their laurels.

GET BUSY.
What's the matter with the movement to get a play ground for the children?

That's a movement that ought not to be overlooked. In a short while or a few years from now it will be almost impossible to get a good playground grounds any where in the central part of the town. Why not get busy now while you can get a choice location.

A movement is on foot throughout North Carolina for the establishment of a school for the diseased organs of sound minds in the state. This plea should touch the hearts of everybody as our money couldn't be invested in a more worthy cause.

What will be learned by the average college student from now until the end of the school session would no doubt fill the sporting columns of some daily journal in their Sunday's issue.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." So wake up to the sanitary conditions of our city.

There are two classes of people who go hand in hand a sport and a fool, sometimes these hands belong to the same individual.

No Americans were injured in the clash with the Mexican troops Sunday, which proves that an American is safer over there than a soldier than a citizen.

The time for the Confederate Monument Campaign is not far distant. Be in readiness to loosen up your purse strings.

Richmond, Va., reports the biggest snow of the season fell last night to the depth of seven inches. Aren't you glad you don't live in Richmond?

It is reported that some of the candidates for county offices have taken the cold feet and withdrawn. Don't be a quitter, the more the merrier.

The Republican Senator that attacked President Wilson on the Panama tolls question no doubt wish he had taken the second thought before he spoke.

We hope England will have no serious trouble in the Ulster uprising. In this day of enlightenment and peace, differences ought to be adjusted amicably without a resort to conflict and bloodshed.

A certain young man in town intimates that he is getting blooming tired of looking at snow every time he passes a shady corner. He expressed a hankering for a game of base ball but he could sit on a bleacher, chew peanuts and sweat in the sunshine. That is better than a blizzard any day.

Some of them over in Virginia are arguing against prohibition in that state, because of the large revenue received from the sale of liquor, and say the state would soon be bankrupt if deprived of this revenue. We have heard that gag before. It was sprung in North Carolina and worked for all it was worth. But North Carolina went for prohibition in defiance of such argument and the state has since prospered as never before.

In the meanwhile the opportunity is here for those who have seen the light of blessing and success to extend a strong arm and with a mighty grip help the sorrow stricken soul's mental force in another direction. Outward, forward, upward, so it is from the sore point. Suggest that room be made for other thoughts, feelings, interests. Attempting to drown woe in sensual intoxication or coarse stimulants brings no relief, the better way is to seek higher thoughts and higher power.

Feeding farm animals.
The feeding of farm animals not only enables the farmer to return from 45 to 90 per cent. of the fertilizing value of the crops to the soil, but in growing such crops as peas, alfalfa, clover and other legumes there is more nitrogen stored in the soil than is sold in the form of animal products.

Woes in the "Movie" Business, Too.
Devoes in theatrical managers who have to deal with jealous actresses and tawny stars, and exercise diplomacy a thousand times a day, need not think the lesser "movie" managers have any troubles of their own, says the Kansas City Star. "In all my experience in the show business," remarked the manager of a motion picture place on Thirty-sixth street, "I never had such a time as I had last night. I have two machines. One of them lost the governor belt, the other snapped a tension; three keys on the piano stuck, and the trap drummer broke the head of the snare drum."

"What's that you call your mate?"
"I call him 'Corporation,'" answered the old colored man.
"How did you come to give him such a name?"
"I am studyin' de animal an' de book de papah, dat mule gets mo' blame better than anythin' else in de townshipp, an' goes ahead havin' his own way jus' de same."

COLDS & LA GRIPPE

HOLD DEER IN REVERENCE

Peculiar Regard for Animal is Entertained Throughout the Japanese Empire.

From time immemorial deer have been held in reverent regard by the Japanese. Herds are kept in compounds, and the highest respect is paid to the animals. In older times the shogun gave the people such a strict order to protect the sacred animals that if anyone happened to hurt or kill them he was put to death on the spot. It was a period of terror.

Even at the present day the deer are so tame and abundant in the shrine grounds that they, in fine weather, stroll round to the streets by twos and threes and surround passers-by, asking for food, and sometimes holding their sleeves in their mouths in an affectionate manner.

Once a year some of the deer are caught by means of a net with a handle by several tamers (in service of the Kasuga Shrine Office) and taken to an enclosure, where their splendid horns are cut off with a saw, while a crowd of spectators watch the work with breathless interest (admission ten sen, equal to about one cent). This done, some of the sacred horns are, as a custom, awarded to the spectators by means of lottery.

Imagination.
An obsolete form of power, at one time used in making countries, religion and literature, but now superseded by the higher psychology. In former times imagination was employed by children in playing games, and in the making of mud pie out of mud and real soldiers out of wood. It is the father of many dead heroes, among whom may be mentioned Theseus, Jack the Giant Killer, King Arthur, Caliban, Robinson Crusoe and Santa Claus. It is still discovered in the extremely young. At one time, when man was crude, imagination was thought to be servicable. The notion, however, along with mythology and other fables, has long since been exploded, the greatest efficiency having been demonstrated to be along the lines of least resistance, which includes among other things, playground supervision, department store tactics, child labor, white slavery and currency reform.—Lilo.

Fans Unhealthy.
Though the electric fan brings refreshing coolness to hot places, it does not ventilate a closed room, and Langlais and Satory, French experimenters, have found that the ordinary fan tends to lessen the air's purity instead of increasing it, the stirring up of dust being probably responsible for a large addition to the bacteria.

During dancing in a ballroom the number of bacteria per cubic yard of the air rose from 4,000 to 720,000. For ventilation an ozone generator may be used with the fan, or an exhaust fan may be placed in a hole in the outer wall so as to pump out the vitiated air, when, of course, fresh air will take its place.

Great Classical Works Lost.
There are more ways of destroying a book than burning it. The old monks were adepts at another form of destruction with what they considered valuable works. Nilsson was good. To get up at five on freezing winter mornings; to sweep their own floors and make their own beds; to go two-by-two to the pump for a scanty supply of water; to live on an endless round of mutton, potatoes and beer, none of them too plentiful or too good; to sleep in a dismal cell with out chair or stool. And the quality of boys whose parents could not afford to pay for a private room. Some of these underwent privations that might have broken down a cable boy. It would be thought inhuman if inflicted on a galley slave."

School Boys Badly Used.
Early in the last century many boys at Eton, England, had to undergo a rough training. An old Etonian who left the school in 1834 describes his experiences there as "worse than that of many inmates of a workhouse or gaol. To get up at five on freezing winter mornings; to sweep their own floors and make their own beds; to go two-by-two to the pump for a scanty supply of water; to live on an endless round of mutton, potatoes and beer, none of them too plentiful or too good; to sleep in a dismal cell with out chair or stool. And the quality of boys whose parents could not afford to pay for a private room. Some of these underwent privations that might have broken down a cable boy. It would be thought inhuman if inflicted on a galley slave."

Brand-New Excuse.
Casey announced to his wife, Ellen, that he was going to the ball game. All day he was gone. Night came, but no Casey to take his place at the head of the table. Midnight and no Casey—one o'clock—two o'clock—three o'clock—no Casey.

As the six o'clock whistles began to blow Casey stumbled up the front steps into the house and awakened his wife by his efforts to negotiate the stairs. He hopped out of bed and met her better half in the hallway.

"Well," said Mrs. Casey, determination written on her Amazon face.
"Shillyho, Illin," said Casey, weakly.
"The game was called on account of daylight."

Mr. William Bernard Greene died Friday night at 10:45 o'clock at his home on Dickinson avenue of ulcerated chronic colitis of which he had been a sufferer for more than twelve months, but not until about eight weeks ago was he forced to take his bed. He was taken to a hospital. A few days after his sickness was considered serious, but it was discovered that nothing could be done for his recovery and three weeks ago he was brought back home. Even though cognizant of his serious condition, he conversed with friends a few hours previous to his death in his usual cheerful and joking manner.

Mr. Greene was born in Greenville about forty nine years ago and had spent his back home. He was a member of the Episcopal church, where the funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock by the rector of the Scotland Neck church. Interment being made in the Episcopal cemetery.

Besides his wife and one son, two sisters and three brothers survive. They are: Mrs. F. M. Hodges, Miss Betsey Greene, Dr. J. C. Greene and Mr. Robert Greene, of Greenville, and Dr. Edward Greene, of Raleigh, N. C.

PURE-BRED VS. SCRUB RAMS
Results of Test Made at Missouri University Show Poor Animals Curtail the Income.

The University of Missouri has published a circular giving results of a test in which pure-bred rams were compared with scrub rams as producers of lambs. The average gain of lambs sired by a pure-bred ram was over two and a half pounds more at three months of age than the gain of lambs sired by a scrub ram at four months of age. And the scrub lambs at 59 per cent. more gain than the lambs from a pure-bred sire. On the market the deliberated lambs brought $7.35 per hundredweight, while the scrubs brought $4.50 per hundredweight. The use of pure-bred sires has been advocated for so long and the economy of using such rams has been so repeatedly demonstrated that it would seem that such tests were no longer necessary. But still many sheep raisers are using scrub rams, possible incomes from their flocks by using cheap rams—anything that can get lambs.

Fresh Water Essential.
Pure, fresh water is an absolute essential to successful breeding, and if you do not use it, you are not running a successful system. Pure water is the best water for the colts. See that the colts get fresh water regularly daily, in clean receptacles. In the winter the same care must be taken as to watering.

PROFESSOR W. H. RAGSDALE PASSES AWAY

Served County as Superintendent of Education for 25 Years DEATH CAME FRIDAY NIGHT

Greenville and Pitt County Suffer Great Loss in His Death. Always Foremost in the Advancement of Education.

(From The Daily Reflector.)

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale passed away at 9:20 o'clock Friday night after a long illness extending nearly three months. Early in life he was afflicted with a severe attack of grippe, from which tuberculosis developed, from which tuberculosis gripped about five weeks ago. From the time this dread destroyer fastened upon him, his decline was rapid until the end came.

The death of no man could have occurred that a greater loss to Greenville and Pitt county than the passing of this good man, and it fills thousands of hearts with profound sorrow. Possessed of a nature most kind and gentle, always greeting every one with a cheerful word, a recognized organizer and leader, he drew all to him and everybody loved him.

R. W. NEWMANN (Columbus, Ohio. Address all mail to Lock Box 1420.

Spings, and T. D. Ragsdale of Smithfield.

Prof. Ragsdale in his early years united with the Baptist Church, and for years was a deacon of Memorial Baptist Church and served many years as superintendent and later teacher in the Sunday school. In his church work and devotion to the cause of Christ he carried the same order and enthusiasm that characterized his life. He lived in the sunshine of a happy life here, and died in the joy of a blissful life beyond.

Prof. Ragsdale was an Odd Fellow, a Mason and a Royal Arch Mason, and was ever faithful to the teachings of the fraternities. He will be buried with Masonic honors.

The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with services in Memorial Church led by his pastor, Rev. C. M. Rock. The interment will follow in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

All sections of Pitt county, as well as several outside portions of the state were represented in the large gathering here Sunday afternoon at the funeral of Prof. W. H. Ragsdale. It was an assemblage that did fitting honor to the memory of this good man who had done so much for his county and state and showed how highly he was esteemed in life by all people.

At 2 o'clock, under an escort of the Masonic fraternity, the casket and honorary pall bearers and a large number of friends, the remains were taken from his late residence in Memorial Baptist church. The church, except the pews reserved for the family and pall bearers, fraternity officials and other representatives, was all ready filled with those anxious to pay their respects, and a great throng stood outside. Hundreds of others who knew the church could not near accommodate the vast concourse, went directly to the cemetery. Not in the history of Greenville has there been so large an attendance at a funeral as at this one.

In the church a quartet choir beautifully sang "Sometime We'll Understand" and "Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping," both songs being favorites of the deceased in his life. After the scripture lesson an especially remarkable educational progress that has come to Pitt County, raising the schools from a low standard to the highest rank of any in the State. Filled with energy and enthusiasm he threw his heart and life into his work, and no man ever more fully gave himself to the service of others. In the campaign for the establishment of East Carolina Teachers Training School he took leading part, and it is due largely to him that we have this splendid institution. His wisdom, counsel and leadership was constantly sought and always gladly given. The influence of his work will live on after him.

In September, 1885, Prof. Ragsdale married Miss Bettie Sutton, his wife dying in 1902. To them were born five children, all of whom survive. They are Misses Hennie and Willie Ragsdale, Messrs. Hugh, Sherwood and Jennings Ragsdale. He was a devoted husband and father and his home life was beautiful. He is also survived by three brothers, Messrs. E. J. and Robert Ragsdale, of Feqary Springs, and T. D. Ragsdale of Smithfield.

Cemetery the funeral cortege was augmented by the two hundred students of East Carolina Teachers Training school, teachers and delegation. Several other schools in the county, representative classes of the Baptist Sunday school, and representatives of societies. Arriving at the cemetery, as the flower covered casket rested near the open grave about to receive it, besides that of his wife who died in 1902, the Training School body in double column filed by and formed a half square back of the concourse. It was an impressive scene.

After a prayer by Rev. J. M. Daniel, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, and singing "The Christians Goodnight" by the quartet, the casket was lowered and the impressive Masonic burial ceremony followed, about a hundred Masons participating in this.

The floral tributes were magnificent. These came from far and near as expressions of sorrow from friends. The number of beautiful designs was so large that a list in advance of starting with the remains they were moved to the church and arranged about the pulpit and platform before the funeral began. After the procession left the church the tributes were removed to the cemetery and at the conclusion of the funeral service the graves were completely covered both the graves of Prof. Ragsdale and his wife, and the space between them, making all appear as one mass of exquisite flowers.

All work at the East Carolina Teachers Training School was suspended on Saturday because of the death of Prof. Ragsdale. Arrangements are being made for appropriate memorial exercises to be held at the Training school at some time in the near future.

The loss that the school feels in the death of Prof. Ragsdale is incalculable. As a member of the faculty he has been a constant source of inspiration to the president, faculty and students. In his work as county superintendent he was in daily contact with actual conditions existing in the schools. Through him his colleagues kept in touch with the practical educational problems near at hand. His long experience in school work, his understanding of vital problems in education, his sagacious judgment, optimism, nature and never failing tact made him invaluable as a member of the faculty. The school, in turn, was a source of inspiration to him. His long experience in school work, his understanding of vital problems in education, his sagacious judgment, optimism, nature and never failing tact made him invaluable as a member of the faculty.

He was married three times—first to Miss Mary L. Edwards in 1866, who died in 1891. Two children survive this marriage, Dr. A. A. Moye and Mrs. J. L. Carper. His second marriage was to Mrs. Delphia Q. Hines in 1895, she passing away in 1905, leaving no children. His third marriage was in 1906 to Miss Lucy Johnston, who with one son, Robert, survives him.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows and held high rank in the fraternity. Funeral services were held Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock at the Christian church and the interment was near the family burying ground near Farmville.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the funeral services over the remains of the late Mr. E. A. Moye, Sr., were held in the Christian church, and the casket in which this noble character was held was taken to the church by a large concourse of relatives and sorrowing friends that began to fill the church from the early morning. Long before the arrival of the procession that followed the remains from the home not a seat could be obtained at the church. The casket was borne to the church by the hands of Drs. Laughinghouse and Carter. Little Stella is doing fine to day and it is hoped that it will only be a few days before she will be able to get out again.

SUCCUMBED TO HEART TROUBLE EARLY SATURDAY

Mr. Elbert A. Moye Dies in His Seventy Second Year HIS LIFE LONG AND USEFUL

An Earnest Christian and Upright Citizen in Both His Public and Private Life.

(From The Daily Reflector.)

At 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning Mr. E. A. Moye, Sr., passed away at his home on Dickerson avenue, after an illness of little more than a week, though his health had been poor for the past year. He was 72 years of age. A just and upright citizen, an earnest Christian a true friend and neighbor lost in his death, for men of his character and usefulness are rare, and his position with the local Disciple church will never be filled.

He was born May 11th, 1842, near Farmville and spent his life in Pitt county, coming to Greenville in 1885 in 1877 he represented his county in the lower house of the General Assembly, and was member of the state senate in 1879. He moved to Greenville in 1885, having been appointed clerk of the Superior Court to succeed Mr. B. W. Brown, deceased. He was elected to the same office three successive terms, serving fourteen years in all. At his death he was secretary of the Pitt Lumber and Manufacturing Company and a director in the First National Bank.

Mr. Moye was a member of the Christian church and it never had a more constant and zealous member. He served several years as president of the state missionary convention of the Disciple church and was vice president at the time of his death.

He was married three times—first to Miss Mary L. Edwards in 1866, who died in 1891. Two children survive this marriage, Dr. A. A. Moye and Mrs. J. L. Carper. His second marriage was to Mrs. Delphia Q. Hines in 1895, she passing away in 1905, leaving no children. His third marriage was in 1906 to Miss Lucy Johnston, who with one son, Robert, survives him.

eyes among that large congregation. All realized how appropriate the words and sentiment of the hymn was to this beautiful Christian life. After the reading of the Scripture lesson and singing of "Sometime We'll Understand" the pastor very impressively related a portion of the life of the deceased; in his younger days the manner in which he served his people as their representative in public offices of the state and county; and then of his later years when in private life there were several hundred friends from that immediate section and various other parts of the state awaiting the arrival of the remains.

At the grave the order of Odd Fellows, of which fraternity the deceased was a member, participated in the burial services, which was very impressive. The floral offerings were beautiful, many designs being sent from his friends throughout the state, and when placed the grave of Mr. Moye and that of his first wife were covered.

The pall-bearers were: Active Messrs. J. A. Hixson, J. S. Tusnell, A. B. Ellington, H. Bentley, Harris J. F. Nelson and W. T. Forrest. Honorary: Col. Harry Skinner, Ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis, Messrs. A. J. Outterbridge, G. F. Evans, D. S. Spain, T. W. Whitehurst, H. L. Coward and T. E. Hooker.

REV. JNO. MATTHEWS.

The Rev. Jno. R. Matthews of Ohio, formerly arch deacon of the Diocese of Southern Ohio, who is one of the most successful and learned evangelists of the Episcopal church, has accepted an invitation to conduct a mission in St. Paul's Episcopal (Greenville) and is expected to arrive in the city next Monday evening and begin his services at once. This week Mr. Matthews is conducting a mission in St. John's church, Knoxville, Tenn.

Mr. Matthews is a master of arts of the University and is said to be one of the greatest Bible students, not only in this country, but in the world. His daily readings which will be at 10:30 o'clock in the mornings will at this time be held in Gerrard Hall Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

The schools which will have representatives in the track meet are: Raleigh, Graham, Hick Point, Asheville, Washington, Oak Ridge, Sanford, Friendship, and Hendersonville. A trophy cup will be awarded the school whose representatives run up the highest number of points.

FOUR CANDIDATES OUT FOR SHERIFFS OFFICE.

Up to the present time there are four candidates out for the office of Sheriff of Pitt county, and if rumors can be depended upon there are probably three or four more that have not as yet made their announcement in print. Several names are being whispered around for other county offices but none have been made public.
