It seems that nothing is being said about good roads.

Always there is a black spot in our sunshine; if its nothing else but our own shadow.

The limit of cheerfulness should be applied to some of us more frequently.

Better turn these corners easy boys.

How easy it is to sneer at Mr. Carnegie's gifts to the cause of peace! Yet the rest of us are not doing so much for the cause.

Some surprise is expressed because George W. Vanderbilt left only $20,000,000. However, if he had possessed any wealth he doubtless would have left that too.

Buffalo Bill's avowal that he has a great life work to perform before he crosses over would imply that he belongs with those eleventh hour recruits.

Whether Texas will repeat history in the present crisis and lick Mexico as she did in 1846 and 1847 depends largely on her many Croquetts and Houstonians can be found in Chihuahua.

Greenville today mourns under a double portion of sorrow in the death of two of her best and most beloved citizens. Two better men than Prof. W. H. Ragsdale and Mr. E. A. Moxley, Sr. are not known. They gave their lives to the service of God and their fellowman. Both will be badly missed.

We are told that a big business man of one of our neighboring cities claims to be the metropolis of Eastern Carolina was forced to come to Greenville to borrow money to build a dwelling in his home town. We haven't any money trees, but your coin will accumulate in your pockets in Greenville. "Our Greenville, Yours if You Come."

WINTERVILLE ITEMS

timid couple skipped out—went to another store, spent $150 and paid for an hour, looking, spent fifty cents. The clerk continued his conversation with his friend. The store lost a sale and lost a permanent customer. Efficient store service would have saved both.

It takes tact to handle the customers in a rush. But it can be done. It would be very easy for a clerk to slip up to a new corner and with a pleasant smile say—Kindly wait a few minutes and I will be able to wait on you. Just look around at our stock and feel at home." In truth, sometimes you will find clerks so efficient that they can wait on two customers at the same time—but that is asking too much of them. The last word in efficient service, it counts. It pulls trade. It builds regular purchasing.

The Republicans and Progressives of West Virginia have decided to hold a joint primary the nominee of which will be supported by the rank and file of both parties in the general election.

A Western man who inherited about a million dollars agreed to let five men help him spend it. If he'd only come down to Greenville and get some of us I think one would be enough help.

In selecting a successor to Prof. W. H. Ragsdale as county superintendent the board of education should look well to find the best man possible for the position. They cannot afford to stop the pace set by Prof. Ragsdale for Pitt county's educational progress.

A Chicago woman speaker says: Women who want their rights must take to the stumps. "Well it's all right if they will carry along a step ladder or take to the stump before the crowd gathers to see how the trick is done."

The merchants of Greenville are to be commended for their concurrence in the suggestion of the King's Daughters that they close their stores at 7 o'clock in the evening between April first and September first. In carrying this out they will begin the early closing tomorrow evening.

Attention is called to a meeting of the Carolina Club, the purpose of which is set out in another column of today's paper. We note that all of the business men of the town are requested to be present at this meeting whether a member of the club or not and we earnestly hope that all who can will attend this meeting. Mr. Bernhard is a noted expert on a subject that is certainly of vital interest to the town at this time and everybody can arrange to go to Washington, Friday evening should surely do so. Get out tonight to the club meeting and arrange your business so that you can make the trip to Washington and learn something about a subject of great importance to the material growth of the town. We should not allow the opportunity the government has given, to pass by. Get busy, business men.

The best way to keep out of a pickle is to keep cool as a cucumber.

Two words—service and efficiency—are being worked double duty these days. But there's a reason. Men of affairs are coming to realize the importance of the dues behind the two words. Especially is this true if the modern retail business establishment. Retail merchants have learned the value of the long time customer with established patronage. The once in a while customer is wanted—but the regular stand by is wanted more. As a result customers requires "service" and why not say "efficient service."

Good service can not be rendered at a minimum cost without proper equipment. Especially is this true of the business house during the rush hours. Equipment needs modern methods of management. Bad equipment, lost motion and antiquated methods result in loss of profits and in addition the loss of customers. Recently in a certain shoe store the clerk spent twenty eight minutes looking for the particular shoe wanted by a customer. The total time occupied by that salesman in making the sale was fifty minutes. Bad equipment, ancient method of stock keeping and old time method. The customer went from the store determined to try another establishment the next time—too much lost time.

Have you ever wondered why the "down the street" crowd was crowded and your customers were few? You are as good a judge of quality and style as your yard. You sell as close to the margin as he does. Why his crowded floors? Think it over—study the question, and you will find that it is the little thing. You will call it a little thing—a friendly word, the casual greeting, the pleasant smile, the personal accommodation, the unusual touch of efficiency, the extra service. Those matters count and count far more than you realize. The cheery "good morning"—spoken, not as a matter of duty, but as if were really meant, pleases people. The briskly advancing salesman, coming to meet you, with a smiling countenance, determines very largely your fortune business.

Four avowed aspirants are in the field for the Democratic nomination for United States senator from Ohio, in succession to Senator Burton. They are ex-Congressman John J. Lentz of Columbus, John L. A stranger today said he thought that there was a million dollars worth of buildings in Greenville and his thoughts are pretty much on the level.

What has become of the proposed whitening campaign to raise the fund for the erection of the Confederate monument? There ought to be some whirling going on if the monument is to be a reality this year. One fourth of the year has already gone by.

President Wilson has promised Miss Tyler, the Courtland, Va., postmistress, that he would see what could be done in her behalf that she may retain her position. It will be remembered that when the department issued orders some months ago requiring all postmasters in fourth class offices to stand the civil service examination that Miss Tyler refused, and entered protest when she learned that another had been appointed in her stead. What the President will do is hard to foretell.

Attention is called to a meeting of the Carolina Club, the purpose of which is set out in another column of today's paper. We note that all of the business men of the town are requested to be present at this meeting whether a member of the club or not and we earnestly hope that all who can will attend this meeting. The membership of the United Mine Workers of America is said to have almost doubled in the past two years.

It Was Through the Efforts of the King's Daughters That Such is Realized by Employees.

For several weeks the King's Daughters have been striving to have the business men of Greenville consider the number of hours that their employees are forced to work to constitute a days task and have at last convinced a majority of the business houses that their clerks need more rest and recreation.

The ladies are to be commended for the part they have taken in this movement, and the employees of these places should feel grateful to them for their efforts.

The work was completed yesterday when all merchants, excepting three, signed a petition agreeing to close their places at seven o'clock in the evening. The following is the petition circulated with the signatures of those favoring the early closing hours:

We, the undersigned merchants and business men of the town of Greenville agree to close our places of business beginning April 1st 1914, at 7 o'clock P. LONDON FULL OF BEGGARS

Mendicants and Gaddags Appear in the Great Metropolis in All Sorts of Disguises.

There are many professional beggars in London, who have their own copyright methods of extracting coin from a sympathetic and credulous public. You may perhaps have come across the distressed governess, out of a situation, who asks you in Oxford street the way to walk to Turnham Green, and is so staggered at the distance that you ask her to accept the job fare.

Then there is the transatlantic journalist stranded in the metropolis. He is too proud to seek aid from some of his millionaire friends at the Cecil, but if you could—ad perhaps you do.

Most articles of old mendicants is the old lady of grandmotherly appearance dressed in black silk. She is in London for the day, and some one has robbed her of her purse. She has called on her solicitor, but unfortunately he was out. What shall she do? You give her the train fare and she promises to send the money on to you if you will give her your address. But if you are wise you decline, and thus escape a shoal of begging letters. For addresses of benevolent persons have a market value among the leading fraternity in London Chronicle.

Whiskey Said to Have Played Great Part in Wilson Murder

WILSON, March 29.—The killing of Luther Winstead by his half uncle, Joe Winstead, on the carnival grounds last night, adds another chapter to the long list of crimes charged up to pistol toters and swindlers of blind tiger whiskeys.

After the shooting the slayer was tracked through town by Messrs. Al Fleming and Phillip Simms, and when they reached the Atlantic Coast Line tracks they called on the railroad watchman, Mr. John Walton, saying: "Arrest that man; he has committed a murder." He was arrested and turned over to Sheriff Woodcock by the watchman and Messrs. Fleming and Simms, and when searched a weapon was found on his person. The prisoner came to Wilson last night with Mr. Freeman Briggers on a buggy from the S. W. Wilbanks section, and from there he went to the big room on which Mr. Briggers was sitting and attempted to get in, and it is said that Briggers told him to leave or he would be arrested.

Deceased was shot through the heart and died instantly. He was in the employ of Hackney Bros. and is spoken of as having been of good character.
Claims Killing Accident.
The prisoner was interviewed in jail this morning. He says he is responsible for his nephew's death, but that the killing was an accident.
Those who seem to know say: Both men had been paying attention to the same young lady; that the uncle had warned his nephew to cease paying to her; that the nephew was of peaceful disposition and to avoid trouble had discontinued his visits; that the nephew had talked about his uncle and when they met on the carnival grounds last night the uncle said to deceased: "You have got to eat what you have been saying about me," (and producing a pistol cartridge case) and before deceased could reply the fatal shot was fired.

Preliminary Hearing.
A preliminary hearing was heard in the court house here this afternoon. Efforts of officers to learn the name of the place from which the telegram was sent were unavailing, the telephone company's manager stating that the rules of the company forbid him revealing the contents of private messages. It is believed the courts have been enjoined to compel the telephone company to give the information desired. The alleged murderer, it is believed, has left Norfolk and is in a place farther North. Officers here are confident that with the heavy roids hand-grip on his neck every police officer in the cities of several states will be watching for him. Lynch will soon be in custody.

Minnesota Democrats Active.
ST. PAUL, Minn., March 30.—Believing they have a good opportunity to win the state election next fall the Democratic workers of Minnesota have arranged to hold a state delegate conference here tomorrow to consider the welfare of the party and its organization. While the call for the conference does not say anything about endorsing a candidate for governor it is considered probable that such action will be taken. So far the only announced candidate for the head of the Democratic ticket is Dan W. Lawler of St. Paul. Falling to persuade Congressman W. S. Hammond to enter the race the Lawler opposition is now discussing Judge Charles W.

Chapel Hill Gamblers Make an Assault on Newspaper Correspondent

CHAPEL HILL, March 29.—An outbreak of mob like spirit, crystallized by the parties implicated in the gambling trial and their anti-press sympathies, was the reception which met the news story in Sunday morning News and Observer, exploding the nefarious gambling operations charged as taking place at Chapel Hill. Floyd Booker, whose name was included in the list of professional gamblers and whom the town has recognized under the bond of $25 for his appearance at court, incited his cohorts charged with gambling to make a personal attack on the writer of the article.

Floyd Booker Alleged Leader.
Booker, whom the town authorities say has persistently engaged in gambling since last October, J. D. Kernodle, a member of the freshman class, and Ralph Andrews, a member of the freshman class, gathered at the post office events showing this to be to violence to the person of the writer Booker was overheard to say: "I am going to beat H. out of him" and the other members of the party just mentioned, stationing themselves just outside of the postoffice door. All the events go to show that they had their traps for the author of the news story waiting his departure from the postoffice.

Friends advised your correspondent not to leave the postoffice lobby other than the back door, that would be thugs had threatened that they would beat him into a jelly fish, they threatened Booker and his cohorts with a heavy reprimand in the shape of a student sympathizer. These particular students, a great many of whom there have been strong suspicions that they are veteran gamblers, have so far eluded the strong arm of the law. They, too, it is reported had sworn allegiance to members of their criminal kind.

J. D. Kernodle Attacks Winstead.
In the meantime J. D. Kernodle, of Graham, a member of Carolina's football squad, has eased his way into the postoffice lobby and pounded the writer of the article. "Why in the H. did you write the article," was his question. Immediately the crowd gathered in the lobby intervened, and no further licks were passed. In the interior some students went in search of a policeman, anticipating further trouble just outside the door where Booker had gotten his claim charged with having midnigh gamblers and sympathizers.

Artists Absorbing Topic.
All day long where groups have assembled the single topic of conversation has been the arrest of the parties alleged to be professional gamblers and the anticipation of the outcome. The great body of students seem to have been crystallized into a real fighting force to rid the community of the "cray" and poker dens in which gambling has gone on. The fight is one of proportions, since one well competent to speak on the subject estimates that one hundred members of the student body contemned gambling. A speaker at the luncheon banquet some weeks ago felt constrained to venture the estimate that 200 members of the student body engaged in or countenance gambling in some form.

Student Council on the Trail.
Only a fortnight ago the student council called to task a big bunch of student students around whom strong suspicion rested that they had been nightly visitors around the poker table. They were dismissed on lack of conclusive evidence, each member of the crowd swearing to protect his fellow, and had to express himself unconvinced. Highway officials said that the robbery occurred while the train was proceeding three blocks. The robber is believed to have boarded the train at the passenger station in the center of the city. The hold-up today is the third of its kind within the past two years. No arrests have been made in the two previous robberies.

Y. W. C. A. News.
Rev. J. J. Walker of the Christian church in Greenville conducted the services of the Y. W. C. A. at the Training school on last evening. He gave the students a striking vision of the goodness of God using as his text Matthew VI. 30. He made plain the fact that God has provided for the needs of man in physical, mental, aesthetic and spiritual ways, but that the responsibility rests on each individual in order that one may gain satisfaction from these needs, especially the last named.

Student Body Hears Ex-Gov. Jarvis on Reconstruction Days.

Ex-Gov. Jarvis gave a talk on the Reconstruction period to the students of the Training School by request of Miss Davis of the history department. Miss Davis had classes studying this period of the nation's history, and for the purpose of making it more vivid to them, he realized the value of such a speech she gave the whole school the opportunity of hearing it.

Gov. Jarvis was at his best and delivered a great speech with freedom and fluency. In the hour he spoke he gave to his audience vivid pictures of the time, and clearly showed the cause and effects of the military government. He made his listeners again live through it all by the way in which he depicted the scenes of the Reconstruction. Gov. Jarvis gave thrilling experiences of his audience vivid pictures of the times the state government and at the same time gave the audience the advantage of using the courses of it. He spoke convincingly of the period because he was in the midst of events and one of the leaders who brought the state out of its trouble. He was a member of the legislature throughout the time and speaker of the house when Gov. Holden was impeached.

Gov. Jarvis began his speech by referring to Mr. Ragdale as a man who took conditions as he found them and from these marked out the best results. This was a peculiar trait of our fathers and mothers out of which came a new civilization and a united country. He first gave a clear explanation of why this period was called the "Reconstruction period."

In reviewing the events of the period he made the students realize the terrible state of affairs. He made them understand as they never understood before the Union League and Ku Klux Klan. The ease with which Gov. Jarvis recalled the names of the men with whom he was associated made the students feel that they were again living in those times. He closed by impressing upon the students the fact that disaster always follows when bad men rule and good men are excluded when the wicked rule the people mourn.

First Queen to Visit America

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1.—President Wilson, who has confessed his extreme distaste for formalities and ceremonies that are necessarily a part of his daily life, seems destined by the irony of fate to be the first occupant of the White House to be called upon to entertain a reigning Queen. Some time back the cable dispatched to the United States on the visit of Queen Eleonore of Bulgaria to the United States. These have now been officially confirmed and the time of the visit fixed for next month.

It will not be the first time that the monarch of the Lord have visited the United States. Most memorable of all the visits of royalty was that of all Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII. The Grand Duke of Oldenburg, a reigning sovereign, paid a visit to this country many years ago. Dom Pedro of Brazil, Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the German emperor; the Duke of Connaught, uncle of King George; several Russian grand dukes and the Infanta Eulalie of Spain and numerous other representatives of royalty have been here from time to time. Even Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the consort of Queen Eleonore, has been a visitor to the United States. But Queen Eleonore will have the distinction of being the first reigning Queen who ever stepped foot on this country.

The visit of Queen Eleonore is not to be a visit of state. Nor is she coming over to be entertained by the social lights in New York and New port. The primary purpose of her visit is to inspect the hospitals and kindred charitable organizations in this country. These are matters in which the interests of her whole life have been centered. While in this city she will confer with the officials of the Red Cross society. Not only has her Majesty intimately acquainted with Red Cross work, but she is an expert nurse with years of practical experience.

In the Russo-Japanese war Queen Eleonore who at that time was Princess Eleonore of Russia, wore the uniform of the Red Cross sisters and followed an ambulance train sent out by the Grand Duchesse Bladimir. Through the entire war Princess Eleonore lived on board this train, traveling back and forth with the armies in Manchuria and staying always as near as possible to the actual scene of the conflict. On more than one occasion the windows of her car were smashed by flying bullets. Upon her return to St. Petersburg after the close of the war she received a popular welcome and was showered with honors by the Russian court.

More recently the Balkan war brought into strong relief the Queen's personality, and her prompt action in organizing Red Cross work in Sofia as soon as hostilities began did much to mitigate the terrible condition of the wounded soldiers in the campaign. She also devoted much attention to the relief of the homeless and destitute who poured into the Bulgarian capital by the thousands as the war progressed.

Queen Eleonore's entire life prior to her marriage to Prince Ferdinand was spent on the Reuss estates in Lower Austria, so that she is to all intents and purposes an Austrian. From her girlhood she devoted herself to good works in her father's principality, particularly in the neighborhood of the Monastery of Prince Berne. It was generally believed that the Princess Eleonore preferred philanthropy to matrimony. She had reached middle life when six years ago, she became the second wife of the ruler of Bulgaria. The Queen is a very accomplished woman and speaks several languages fluently. Immediately after her marriage she set herself to learn Bulgarian, which is a very difficult language. In this and other ways she soon found herself to the hearts of her adopted people. Incessantly she has worked for their well-being. She has opened numerous schools, established hospitals and founded homes for orphans and the children of parents too poor to give their offspring a good education. Her Majesty was the first to introduce into the east the western custom of opening bazaars, hospitals and concert in general during the last few years.

It is now thirty-five years since King Ferdinand visited the United States. At that time he was a Prince of Saxe-Coburg. For it was some ten years before he was made the ruler of Bulgaria. He was on his way home from Brazil, where he had been the guest of his brother, Prince Augustus of Saxe-Coburg, who had married a daughter of Emperor Dom Pedro. After arriving in New York the Prince visited Philadelphia, Washington, New York and other places of interest before sailing for Europe.

The Minnesota supreme court has upheld the nonpartisan primary law of that state.

PAUL BALAFAS HAS RETURNED TO THIS CITY

Tells Interesting Story of Late War in Which He Took Part in SERVICE 13 MONTHS

Left Greenville Fifteen Months Ago When Greece Issued the Call to Arms Against Turks and Bulgarians.

Paul Balafas, the proprietor of the Busy Bee Cafe, who left Greenville fifteen months ago for his home country, it being about that time war was declared among the foreign countries in which Greece participated returned here last Saturday and tells a very interesting story of the war and the battles in which he took part.

Paul states that the laws of his government compel all natives to return home in time of war, it matters not in what country they may be, and those failing to meet these requirements of the law are not allowed to return to Greece at any time, under any circumstances, and on this account he answered the call to arms during the time he was in Greece.

He was engaged in seven battles, one with the Turks and six with the Bulgarians, and Paul spoke of the battle with the Turks at Geanasa as the fiercest of the entire war, lasting for two days and nights with the loss of many soldiers on both sides. The small command of which he was a member lost two hundred men. Paul added that during that combat the soldiers had neither food nor water, and near the close he had almost seen death from hunger and thirst, starting him in the face, hardly being able to stand upon his feet. He spoke of his own battles as being not quite so severe, but had enough sufficiently to amuse him. Paul told of the cold winter they experienced in 1913 when for hours and hours his company would be compelled to stand on guard duty in snow almost up to their knees, and he would suffer for weeks with cold-bitten feet.

He tells that he had five cousins in the same company with him, and that in the very first battle, being with the Bulgarians, one of his kinsmen was shot seven times, almost at an instant which proved fatal, but he was saved through the war without a scratch.

It was especially interesting to hear him tell of a gun used by the Bulgarians that after being loaded, the pressure of a button would discharge it, bring five hundred shots at once.

As serving his government for thirteen months, he was honorably discharged and spent nearly two months in his home before returning to announce that our stables and water and three by rail in making the trip from his home to Greenville.

Plans have been made and are being carried out for the establishment of a quarterly magazine by the East Carolina Teachers Training School to be called the "Training School Quarterly" for a long time the school has felt a need for some means of reaching the public through some publication of its own and it was decided by the faculty that a magazine to be issued quarterly by the co-operation of students and faculty is the best means.

The Senior Class of 1914 asked for and was granted the privilege of launching the magazine. The first number, therefore is to be in the hands of the Senior Class and it is to be issued some time during the spring term.

A faculty advisory board was elected by the class consisting of Miss M. D. Graham, Miss M. E. Jenkins, Miss D. B. Walt who give the publication direct faculty supervision. From the class a board of editors was elected: editor, Miss Mattie Bright; Managing editor, Miss Annie Snow; associate editors, Misses Emily Grace Smith, Blanche Lancaster and Marion Alston. During the spring term permanent plans for issuing the regular numbers during the coming year will be made.

SEATS PLACED ON THE COURT HOUSE SQUARE.

The benches owned by the county and used in the city hall at which place the county courts were held between the time of the burning of the old court house and the building of the new, was yesterday given to the town by the county commissioners to be used on the court house square as in the century. The city wagons were busy this morning hauling the benches and after they are placed it is the purpose of the authorities to have same painted and when this is done it will add much to the beautifying of both places.

With Walsh, Schalk Chappell and a few lesser lights on the hospital list, it looks as though the White Sox may be up against it at the getaway.
