It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill. I wish every suffering woman would give a trial. I still use Cardui when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good." Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

Grimesland, N. C., Feb. 13, 1914. Messrs. Hart & Hadley, Greenville, N. C., Gentlemen:

In regard to the J. I. Case Tobacco Transplanter will say; that I am well pleased with it. I couldn't ask for one to work any better and it was just as you represented it to be. It worked to perfection and I am satisfied it save me several hundred dollars.

I set my entire crop of seven acres with it and it was dry weather when I set it. I used six barrels of water first setting. I set some parts of per acre and got a perfect stand the rows all through my patch by hand.

just to try it and I found that which I set with the Transplanter grew better the season through. I also set some for several of my neighbors and they say that theirs grew better than they set by hand, and they are begging me to set theirs for them the coming season. I also have friends at a distance of fifteen miles from me who want me to set their crop for them. I can't say too much for your machine and wouldn't be without one for Five Hundred Dollars and as to your services, I couldn't ask for better. Yours truly, JESSE H. SMITH.

FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1914.

It takes a man to say NO.

Look out for that Easter frost.

Villa swears but never surrenders.

Some men are great and others just make a great noise.

Now is the time to take a correspondence course in swimming.

Gentle spring is as temperamental as a Prima Donna.

Spring fever is a new name for laziness.

Houses for rent in Greenville are scarce items.

Wit is the cream of interest that ill nature sours.

That Confederate monument certainly looks good at a distance.

When the average man drops into politics he drops clear through.

If money had some other name perhaps it would be just as hard to get.

The weather forecast promises that there will be no damage done to that new tide.

They say liquor must go, but what concerns us most is where or how it will go.

We couldn't buy an Easter suit so why should we worry about the thermometer.

It makes no difference how tough looking a fellow may be, a girl just can't help but admiring him if he will only flirt with her.

If you wish to be successful in any movement you may undertake, spend every possible penny at home, then you will realize a come back. Once tried will be sufficient.

That which you do not know about your friends are the very things that makes you like them so much. If you only knew a little more about them
you'd have less friends.

Do not ask any of the monument
workers to call again when they approach you for a contribution, but make your subscription at once. The fund needed must be pledged in two days more.

The campaign is on to raise the fund
for the erection of the Confederate monument on court house square. Be ready to make your contribution as soon as called upon, and let it be as liberal as the cause deserves.

Freezing temperature and Easter
hats seem to conflict a bit.

They should have waited until Mr.
Bryan got rid of that cold.

A great many people went to Baltigh Wednesday just to see what really happened.

If we ever do have to take charge
of things in Mexico better give Texas
the contract.

If tomorrow should bring about a weather we fear many of the fair sex
will be unable to control their temper.

There was many a sad heart yesterday because the weather was so bad that Easter suit or dress could not be worn.

It is stated that more than 20,000
ministers of America belong to the Mcsomic order.

Easter Hats, Easter Weather and holy week had got most of the ladies upset a trifle.

Thirty aviators were killed in three months time. That's a pretty fair record for the high flyers.

The way Mexico towns are being reported to have fallen, they will all be down if it keeps up.

Kinston has passed an ordinance which will declare carnivals from the incorporate limits of the city.

"I am strenuously well," wires the Colonel. Wonder does he think that is interesting news to us?

Candidates for sheriff are coming
a plenty, but as to the other county offices little is being said.

Why not put up the little hammer that you have been knocking your town with and get a fly swatter?

Now that Rocky Mount and Tarboro
are looking horns in the barge transportation movement it would be to Greenville's interest to join the ranks.

L. Mills Kitchen, son of Congressman Kitchen, is now owner and editor of the Scotland Neck Commonwealth.
Brother Kitchen has the ability and we wish him success as one among us.

The week stand shows must either thank Greenville has a money tree, or that her people are an easy mark. At any rate they almost run on each other to get here, and whether good or bad or indifferent they get a good crowd.

Whereas the Board of Commissioners of Pitt county have decided to dispose of the old county home property
and to establish a county home near Greenville, the Board on March 20, 1914 appointed a committee consisting of B. M. Lewis, J. G. Taylor and Julius Brown to divide the present county home land and buildings for the purpose of selling the same. And whereas said committee has divided said tract of land in four lots, dividing the land lying on the east side of the Greenville and New Bern road in two lots and the land lying on the west side of the Greenville and New Bern road into two lots. Lot No. 1 is the northern portion lying on the east side of the Greenville and New Bern
road and contains 60.60 acres more or less of which about 15.60 acres is cleared land and said lot will retain five buildings. Lot No. 2 is the southern portion of the land on the east side of the Greenville and New Bern road and contains 33.50 acres more or less of which about 8 acres is cleared land
and said lot is to have three buildings, buildings Nos. 2, 3, and 4. Lot No. 3 consists of the southern portion of the land on the west side of the Greenville and New Bern road and contains 56 acres more or less and on said lot there are now three buildings and building No. 5 is also assigned to said
lot, there is about 7 acres of cleared land on said lot. Lot No. 4 consists of the northern portion of the land on the west side of the Greenville and New Bern road and contains 25.30 acres more or less of which about 9 acres is cleared land. There is a good building on same and building No. 1 is allotted to said lot. A complete map of said division is in the office of the Register of Deeds for inspection. And on report of the committee to the board on Tuesday, April 7, 1914 the board approved the report of the committee and ordered the committee to sell the land on May 4, 1914.

Therefore by virtue of the orders of the Board of Commissioners of Pitt county above referred to and understand will on Monday the 4th day of May 1914, at 12 o'clock M., before the court house door in Greenville, N. C., explore the above described land as public auction to the highest bidder
in shares as above set out and as a whole, provided any bidder bids more for the said land as one whole tract than the total sum bid for the four tracts separately. Terms of sale 25 per cent cash, 25 per cent October 1, 25 per cent November 15 and 25 per cent January 1, 1915. Possession to be given January 1, 1915. This the 9th day of April 1914.

B. M. LEWIS,
J. G. TAYLOR,
JULIUS BROWN,
Committee.

Never was there such a clamor for the man who knows his trade. Whether with pen or hammer, whether with a brush or spade, he's equipped, the world demands him. Calls upon him for his skill, on pay day gladly hand
him rolls of roubles from its till.

When women themselves, refuse to vote for each other, how on earth do they expect some one else to vote for them?

What Hon. Claud Kitchen said about the Panama Tolls question in that speech published by the Greenville
News was certainly enough.

With many of the trees just beginning to bud it hardly looks like their foliage can attain full growth by the 10th of May, the time the leaves are usually said to be grown.

Champ Clark has almost kicked himself out of the Democratic party since he has been keeping company with W.
R. Hearst. Better watch yourself
Champ or you will soon be a lonesome statesman.

The campaign committee in charge
of raising the public part of the fund
for the erection of a Confederate Monument on the court house square, has
this week mailed circulars to thousands of the citizens of the county.

Next week, from the 14th to the 18th,
a canvass will be made to receive subscriptions to the fund, and it is hoped the people will respond promptly and liberally.

You are constantly hearing a howl about the high cost of living. Do you hear even one faint whisper about
the high cost of loafing?

Many a married man thinks he sees charms in other women when just because he doesn't know her as he knows his wife.

Delinquent Tax List For 1913

I have this day levied on the following described Real Estate to satisfy the taxes due to the state of North Carolina and the county of Pitt, for the year 1913 and the said
Real Estate so levied on will be sold at the court house door in the town of Greenville, N. C. on Monday the 16th day of May, 1914 at 12 o'clock M.
unless said taxes and legal charges
and expenses arising from the failure to pay the same within the time required by law, are paid by that date.

MADE HIS MEANING CLEAR

Neat Explanation of Witness Turned Laugh on Famous English Cross-Examiner.

At a trial between two London music publishers before the court of King's Bench in 1915, the matter in dispute being a violation of the copyright in the song of "The Old English Gentleman," Thomas Cooke, a composer of some note in his day, was subpoenaed as an expert witness. On cross-examination Sir James Scarlett questioned him as follows: "Now, sir, you say that the two melodies are the same, but different. What do you mean by that?"

Tom promptly answered: "I said that the notes in the two copies were alike, but with different accents, the one being in common time, the other in six-eighths time, and consequently the position of the accented notes was different."

"Now, pray, sir, don't beat about the bush, but explain to the jury, who are supposed to know nothing about music, the meaning of what you call accent."

"Certainly," said Cooke. "Accent in music is the stress laid upon a particular note in the same manner as you would lay stress upon a word, for the purpose of being understood. Thus if I were to say, 'You are an ass,' it rests on ass; but if I were to say, 'You are an ass,' it rests on you, Sir James."

Shouts of laughter followed this explanation. Silence at length having been obtained, the judge, with much gravity, inquired:

"Are you satisfied, Sir James?"

Sir James, who had become scarlet in more than name, in a great huff replied:

"The witness may stand down."

HUNGRY CROWS KILLED CAT

Pussy Had No Chance Against the Numbers and Ferocity of Her Attackers.

Fuzzy-Wu, a small parti-colored Japanese cat, which had been presented recently by a friend returning from the Orient to Ralph Marton, owner of a farm in the Christian Hook section of Oceanville, L. I., wandered a short distance from the farmhouse and was stalking sparrows when a flock of hungry crows descended on it.

The leader of the crows swooped like a hawk on the cat, attacking with claws, wings and beak. Fuzzy-Wu tried to run away, but crows swarmed in from all directions. From his house the owner saw the huge black birds flapping their wings a few feet above the ground and then darting awkwardly downward. When he approached them the flock took flight, leaving only a few feathers on the ground the remains of a Japanese cat. Hunger, increased by the present cold spell, is believed to have been the motive of the crows, which normally are content with worms, insects and grains.

Man of Spirit.

Few persons ever stop to consider, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, that when they speak of "a man of spirit" they are really, however unwittingly, employing the language of the days of Claudius Galen, a noted Roman physician, born A. D. 130. That the term is used is testimony that the old doctrine of spirits is not obsolete. Galen perhaps had a conception of nerve trunks as conductors of something—he called it spirits—to and from the brain and spinal cord. The natural spirits were that property which gave to blood the capacity of nourishing the tissues of the body. The vital spirits were acquired in the heart, and when at last the blood with its vital spirits went to the brain and experienced a sort of refinement for the last time, the animal spirits were separated from it and carried to the body by the nerve trunks. The animal spirits of Galen have become the nerve impulses of today. These are not electricity, but they produce it, and can be manifested by it.

Rebuked.

The Germans—at all extensively traveled persons know—are great sticklers for titles. One must not only say Herr Cancellarius Holz, Herr Doctor Baron Meier, Professor Schmidt; one must also say Frau Cancellarius Holz, Frau Doctor Baronin Meier, Frau Professor Schmidt. Also there are fine distinctions in titles. If one title is higher than another by so much as a hair's breadth, the way-faring man must not call the rightful owner of the higher title by the lower title. Never.

A certain public school teacher who already enjoyed the title of master was promoted to head master. Next day young Fritz, quite unaware as yet of the honor that had come to his instructor overnight, greeted him with his usual cheery "Good morning, master."

"Perhaps," said the new head master with dignity, "perhaps you'd rather just call me Adolf."—New York Evening Post.

Early Inured to Cold.

Perhaps the most extraordinary of all methods of warding off cold is that adopted by some of the tribes of the Canadian northwest. It is a matter of discipline. The boys when young are first whipped in order to make their flesh tight, and then sent to bathe in the half frozen rivers.

On entering their teens they are made to lie out of doors at night without clothing. The consequence is that those who survive are able to go naked in any weather without the slightest discomfort.

NEED NOT FEAR FOR CANAL

Fortifications to Guard the Great Waterway Through Panama Will Be Made Impregnable.

Having invested nearly $375,000,000 in the canal, the United States is intensely upon safeguarding that tremendous outlay against the possibility of damage through foreign war. Fortification of the canal has been undertaken purely as an insurance matter. It is sought to make it impossible in time of war for any enemy to take possession of the waterway or to damage it to such an extent that the ships of the United States could not use it at will.

Guns of 14 and 16-inch caliber will be placed at forts guarding both the Pacific and Atlantic entrances, commanding a radius of 15 miles. The forts at the Pacific entrance are constructed on three islands in Panama Bay, at the very beginning of the canal. Flamenco, Perico and Naos. There are huge masses of volcanic rock, behind which, safe from the fire of any ship, no matter how powerful, the forts stand. The great Miraflores locks are seven miles inland from the forts, and no gun at the present time is powerful enough to send a shell the miles intervening between the outside of the zone of fire from the forts, and those locks which control the canal. Even with the marvels of modern gunnery, it would be as difficult to place a shell, even if it could be thrown that far as for a rifleman to lead a lead pencil at a distance of 2,000 yards.—Popular Mechanics.

NOT APPRECIATED AT FIRST

Fitzgerald's Translation of "Omar Khayyam" Once Sold at the Ridiculous Price of Two Cents.

How Edward Fitzgerald's "Omar Khayyam" was rescued from neglect and obscurity, a London contemporary tells. Mr. Bernard Quaritch, the editor, published the book, and finding that it did not sell, he relegated it to the penny box in his shop. Its subsequent success was due to a fortunate accident. Two of Dante Gabriel Rossetti's friends came across the poem, and thought it worth reading. Rossetti read it, and recommended it to Swinburne.

"Having read it," Swinburne wrote, "Rossetti and I invested sixpence apiece, or possibly threepence—I would not wish to exaggerate our extravagance—in copies at that not exorbitant price."

"Next day, we thought we might get some more for presents among friends, but the man at the stall asked twice the price! Rossetti expostulated with him in terms of such humorously indignant remonstrance as none but he could ever command. We took a few, and left him. In a week or two, if I am not much mistaken, the remaining copies were sold at a guinea. I have since seen copies offered at still more absurd prices. I kept my pennyworth—the tidest of the lot—and have it still."—Youth's Companion.

Believed Him Honest, But—

Mayor Hunt of Cincinnati said the other day of a notorious political boss: "They who call this fellow honest have to stretch the truth a little. They have to stretch it like the old colored farmer of Paint Rock."

"This old farmer said to a young chap: "'Look, hesh, Calhoun, Ah don' min' yore cotin' mah gal Lillian, but Ah'd rather yo' wouldn't come round mah house no mo'."

"Time for de las' vot yo' wuz heah, Calhoun, Ah missed a watah bucket, and de las' time de bridle wuz gone, and now as Ah has use fo' de saddle, Ah'd rather yo' wouldn't come round no mo'."

"Ah don't say yo' hain't honest, fo' Ah believes yo' is; but sich cuh's things happens whin yo's in de neighborhood, so, jes' for please an ole man, wot ain't enjyin' de best er health, please don' come round dis house no mo'."

Looking Forward.

Marconi's successful experiment, in the course of which he lighted an incandescent lamp six miles distant from his power plant without the aid of wires, is prophetic of the wonders to be wrought in the future.

Hertian waves will heat as well as illuminate the dwellings of our descendants, who will preserve in museums rare specimens of the dirty furnaces with which their ancestors once wrestled.

No more ashes!

No more clinkers! Our children or our grandchildren will fly across the Atlantic at pleasure in aeroplanes unburdened with fuel; in airships driven by electricity which has been shot from shore to motors.

Talking around the world then by means of radio-telephony will be as easy and cheap as conversation with Chicago is now over what we proudly call the long distance.—Boston Globe.

Irish Superstition.

The mystery surrounding the finding of a human skull in the garden of a Donegal merchant's residence has been unraveled by Sergeant Mulholland of the local constabulary.

A few years ago, the sergeant states, a man was gathering brambles near Magherabeg, where still remain the ancient and crumbling walls of a religious monastery, when he came upon the skull, to which were attached a few teeth.

Believing in the superstition that there was a curse for toothache in a tooth extracted from the skull of a dead person, he carried it home, where it remained until his son, through fear or from some other cause, buried it.

LUSCIOUS CRAB APPLE

QUEEN OF ALL THE VARIETIES OF PRESERVES.

Maine Editor Pays Deserved Tribute to Fruit, Insisting by Boyhood Memories of Its Superlative Toothsome Qualities.

It demands a hungry boy who has taken hearty exercise in the open air to steal native Maine crab apples for the sake of eating them, asserts the Bangor News. Even the red hawthorne plums after the frosts fall and the entire time of one of the office employees to receive from and deliver messages to those in charge. When questioned regarding the new phone system, an official advised The Reflector representative that the company had had this improvement in mind for several months, but after consideration decided to wait until the new addition was completed, because if it had been installed before it would have been necessitated tearing down and rebuilding the entire system. The installation was made by the Home Telephone Co., employees under supervision of Manager H. M. Phillips.

While making the trip through the building our attention was attracted by modern pieces of machinery in operation that enables them to do better work and with dispatch. Many of the machines are not used even in larger manufacturing concerns, and this is one among many points in favor of the local establishment that gives it rank among the foremost buggy manufacturers.

We are glad to have had the opportunity of going through the plant and sincerely appreciate the courtesy shown us by the officers and employees, who led us over that tremendous building into each department, explaining the working and out put of the factory.

We venture to say that had a small per cent of not only Pitt county's population, but of Greenville, the home of the John Flanagan Buggy Company, had the slightest idea what a large establishment they have in their midst, and should have an opportunity to go through the building they should avail themselves of it, because it will prove of interest as well as pleasure. And it will cause them to boost their town and county in the future far more than they have in the past.

The plant has 60 employees with a pay roll of about $600 per week, and has a capacity of twenty-five buggies a day.

Ups and Downs of Oyster.

The total number of persons engaged in the oyster industry of the entire United States is 47,257, with yearly wages amounting to $10,875,801, and the capital invested, excluding the value of the private beds, is $16,889,032. The yield of oysters for 1912 was 37,938,515 bushels, an average of a third of a bushel for every man, woman and child in the country.

Every restaurant, however humble or wherever situated, as well as every great hotel, is expected during the season to have oysters on the bill of fare. In olden times the epicures of Athens and other cities close to the ocean had an abundance of shellfish such as we use, and enjoyed them very much. But to the Jews this kind of food was forbidden by their law, which, allowing certain kinds of fish, rejected much sea food, including the oyster, which was probably but little known to the ancients. "And whatsoever hath not fins and scales ye may not eat; it is unclean unto you." (Levit. 11:10.)

No more ashes!

No more clinkers! Our children or our grandchildren will fly across the Atlantic at pleasure in aeroplanes unburdened with fuel; in airships driven by electricity which has been shot from shore to motors.

Talking around the world then by means of radio-telephony will be as easy and cheap as conversation with Chicago is now over what we proudly call the long distance.—Boston Globe.

Irish Superstition.

The mystery surrounding the finding of a human skull in the garden of a Donegal merchant's residence has been unraveled by Sergeant Mulholland of the local constabulary.

A few years ago, the sergeant states, a man was gathering brambles near Magherabeg, where still remain the ancient and crumbling walls of a religious monastery, when he came upon the skull, to which were attached a few teeth.

Believing in the superstition that there was a curse for toothache in a tooth extracted from the skull of a dead person, he carried it home, where it remained until his son, through fear or from some other cause, buried it.

telephone system that is connected from the business offices through each and every department of the plant. This proves not only convenient but a great time saver, as it permits the office force to converse with the foreman of any department about matters pertaining to said department. It requires nearly the entire time of one of the office employees to receive from and deliver messages to those in charge. When questioned regarding the new phone system, an official advised The Reflector representative that the company had had this improvement in mind for several months, but after consideration decided to wait until the new addition was completed, because if it had been installed before it would have been necessitated tearing down and rebuilding the entire system. The installation was made by the Home Telephone Co., employees under supervision of Manager H. M. Phillips.

While making the trip through the building our attention was attracted by modern pieces of machinery in operation that enables them to do better work and with dispatch. Many of the machines are not used even in larger manufacturing concerns, and this is one among many points in favor of the local establishment that gives it rank among the foremost buggy manufacturers.

We are glad to have had the opportunity of going through the plant and sincerely appreciate the courtesy shown us by the officers and employees, who led us over that tremendous building into each department, explaining the working and out put of the factory.

We venture to say that had a small per cent of not only Pitt county's population, but of Greenville, the home of the John Flanagan Buggy Company, had the slightest idea what a large establishment they have in their midst, and should have an opportunity to go through the building they should avail themselves of it, because it will prove of interest as well as pleasure. And it will cause them to boost their town and county in the future far more than they have in the past.

The plant has 60 employees with a pay roll of about $600 per week, and has a capacity of twenty-five buggies a day.

Ups and Downs of Oyster.

The total number of persons engaged in the oyster industry of the entire United States is 47,257, with yearly wages amounting to $10,875,801, and the capital invested, excluding the value of the private beds, is $16,889,032. The yield of oysters for 1912 was 37,938,515 bushels, an average of a third of a bushel for every man, woman and child in the country.

Every restaurant, however humble or wherever situated, as well as every great hotel, is expected during the season to have oysters on the bill of fare. In olden times the epicures of Athens and other cities close to the ocean had an abundance of shellfish such as we use, and enjoyed them very much. But to the Jews this kind of food was forbidden by their law, which, allowing certain kinds of fish, rejected much sea food, including the oyster, which was probably but little known to the ancients. "And whatsoever hath not fins and scales ye may not eat; it is unclean unto you." (Levit. 11:10.)

Believed Him Honest, But—

Mayor Hunt of Cincinnati said the other day of a notorious political boss: "They who call this fellow honest have to stretch the truth a little. They have to stretch it like the old colored farmer of Paint Rock."

"This old farmer said to a young chap: "'Look, hesh, Calhoun, Ah don' min' yore cotin' mah gal Lillian, but Ah'd rather yo' wouldn't come round mah house no mo'."

"Time for de las' vot yo' wuz heah, Calhoun, Ah missed a watah bucket, and de las' time de bridle wuz gone, and now as Ah has use fo' de saddle, Ah'd rather yo' wouldn't come round no mo'."

"Ah don't say yo' hain't honest, fo' Ah believes yo' is; but sich cuh's things happens whin yo's in de neighborhood, so, jes' for please an ole man, wot ain't enjyin' de best er health, please don' come round dis house no mo'."

Looking Forward.

Marconi's successful experiment, in the course of which he lighted an incandescent lamp six miles distant from his power plant without the aid of wires, is prophetic of the wonders to be wrought in the future.

Hertian waves will heat as well as illuminate the dwellings of our descendants, who will preserve in museums rare specimens of the dirty furnaces with which their ancestors once wrestled.

Mrs. Martha Fluke

Today at 2:30 p. m. the funeral of Mrs. Martha Fluke one of the oldest members of the Methodist Church of this town was conducted from the house of her daughter, Mrs. Lillie Smith. Had she lived until today she would have been seventy-five years old. She was born near Greenville, spent most of her life in or near that place. She was twice married, but both husbands preceded her to the great beyond. She leaves behind four children to cherish her honored memory: Mr. J. J. Cory, Sam Fluke, Mrs. Lillie Smith and Mrs. Luther Joyner.

Early in her life she united with the Bethlehem Methodist church, and was both an earnest and devoted follower of Christ. She took an active interest in Sunday school and church as long as her health permitted and by her humble way was a useful servant to her master and her church. She had been in declining health for some time but her faith was steadfast until the end. On Monday, April 13th she passed away to meet her master. Honor to her memory and peace be to her ashes.
