FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1915.

The fellows who cornered butter also got the country's goat.

It looks as if some nations like some individuals can't stand prosperity.

Col. Roosevelt seems to be doing his best to get somebody else to sue him for libel.

There is only one business that it doesn't pay to advertise and that is outwitting.

Judging by what they bring back some men must go fishing just to amuse the fish.

If we are to believe the many changes and counterchanges, nothing is fair in war.

It looks like hard winter on the orchestras, but we hope the violinists will scrape through.

Apparently Gen. Carranza is no mean strategist, having dug himself into the national box office, with the road clear to a foreign refuge.

President Wilson avoids the words in that part of the dictionary where President Roosevelt used to get the kind that stirred things up.

Now a tidy little police flotilla to keep the fighting away from these coasts would help a good deal and would prove an excellent example to Europe.

Before we enter into any union of neutrality with South America the latter should be required to promise not to ship us any more tango dances.

The University of North Carolina has at last reached a goal it has long coveted. This was reached last week when the total registration mark was 1000 students enrolled for this session. During the past few years the growth of the University has been very fast indeed. The attendance has increased in every department and the new departments as added are generally in possession of all the students they can handle in a short time after establishment. The University is widening its field of endeavor and is turning out better equipped men each year. We are glad to note the fact that the enrollment has at last reached the 1000 mark and we are quite sure the alumni of this institution are pleased to learn this news.

A bill is now pending in the Legislature providing for the establishment of a state home for fallen women. This is a good bill and one that should be passed and the home established. Because of the unjust double standard of morals which we have in this country the woman is made to suffer for the least infraction of the social law while her partner in this violation, who is equally guilty has no blame attached to him. Fallen women are ostracized and even if they should desire to reform at present there is no chance for them. If this home were established it would help many a girl and woman who have no hope now to reform and get started on the right track again. This state needs such a home and we hope the Legislature will pass this bill.

The man who does not stop to talk about present business conditions but goes on and looks after his work does not find conditions so very much different from what they were last year before the war started.

It is said that over $1,000,000 were spent in Pennsylvania to elect Senator Penrose to Congress. According to these figures he must be a valuable man to somebody, and who is that somebody?

The fellow who howled about the hard times before the present war started when there was nothing to howl about now has a chance to go, in some real howling and many of them are overworking their opportunity.

The New York subways are now the target for the whole country's criticism. If the managers of this system could follow the advice that has been offered the subway system would be absolutely perfect according to some people's way of thinking.

The statements of the different banks in this county which are now being published show that the conditions of these banks are very good indeed. They show the usual amount or an increase in the amount of deposits and other items are equally as favorable.

The Wilmington Dispatch has just completed its twentieth year of continuous publication and during the whole time it has been under one management. This paper which is one of the best publications in this part of the state is a welcome visitor to our desk and we are very glad to learn that it is now enjoying fine health.

After an investigation the German dum-dum charges fell flat. It appears that the dum-dum bullets which they exhibited would not fit a single model of the rifles now in use by the allies. If such things continue the allies will have a strong case against Germany without having to exert themselves except to submit the charges to neutral investigation.

The amendment to the contempt law which has been introduced in the Legislature is a much needed law in this State. As it is at present a judge can act as judge in matters in which he is one of the litigants. Such a procedure is entirely wrong and is unnecessary as it is wrong. And it will be in the Legislature will remedy this evil it should be passed. We are heartily in favor of the passage of this bill and the ending of this form of judicial tyranny.

Greenville made a fine record last year in building operations. A number of new factories and plants were erected, several office and store buildings and quite a number of residences. Building does not seem to be hurt by the war conditions which now prevail. Buildings already started are being rushed to completion and new buildings are being planned. On the whole last year was a very successful one for Greenville and if present indications are to be relied upon this year will be equally as successful along this line.

The bill to tax dogs seems to be popular among the papers in this State a great many of which are in favor of its passage and it seems to be a law that is wanted and badly needed. We hope that this bill will get through and that it will be enforced when it becomes a law. This law would encourage sheep raising because has almost been stopped because of sheep killing dogs.

Refugees Cross United States
San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 19.—Fifteen women and children, German refugees from Japan, will begin another long lap of their journey toward today, Uncle Sam has removed all restrictions to their landing and crossing the country, so that they may reach relatives in Germany. Their husbands and fathers were held by the Japanese. This one of the few cases on record in which the United States has permitted refugees to pass through the country.

Squibs From Other Squibbers

The Question.
President Wilson says he did not mean his Indianapolis utterance as a second term announcement. That's merely the difference between tweedle and tweedlum. The question arises as they say in South Carolina: "Are you going to run again?"—Wilmington Dispatch.

Disperse Gloom.
Join the valiant army which is endeavoring to disperse gloom. This is a time when a man with a pipe dream is more companionable than a man who has a nightmare to enter for the stakes. Shoot the nightmare! Do we shoot 'em? Yes-s-s.—Wilmington Star.

Some Are Just Good.
The trouble with many so-called "good" people is that they have no force. Their goodness is of the passive kind—and very passive it is. The evils in this world are never given to be put out of business by a mixture of weakness and goodness. What is needed is a goodness that has got some force in it, and that means strong men and women.—Snow Hill Standard Laconic.

Dog and Pistol Law.
Here's hoping the State-wide dog law and the law taxing the owners of pistols will have safe passage in the Legislature but The Landmark's faith is a trifle weak on both propositions.—Statesville Landmark.

Back to The G. O. P.
Having found out that the G. O. P. had no idea of going to the Progressive party, the Progressives are going back to the Republican party. The renegades are received with joy and are being favored and not subjected to reproach. That sets a good example for the Democratic party in the treatment of prodigal sons and repentant Republicans who show that they want to lead a better life by allying themselves with the party of the people.—Wilmington Star.

Negro Shot at Farmville.
Saturday night Constable Vance Belcher at Farmville went into the negro section to arrest a negro who was wanted by the authorities. The negro resisted arrest and as a result Mr. Belcher shot him in the hip. The negro was given medical treatment and his wound found not to be serious. At last report it was reported that the negro would soon be all right.

Robbery at Winterville.
Saturday night at about 2 o'clock four or five citizens of Winterville were aroused by the noise of an explosion and upon investigation found that the safe in the Coast Line station had been blown open and the contents stolen. Nitro glycerine was used and the safe was completely blown to pieces. It was evidently the work of professionals. The robbers did not secure much money there being only about $12 in the safe. No arrests have been made and no clue to the robbers identity has been found.

Close Enique Contest.
Paris, Jan. 19.—One of the most unique geographical contests ever held is that which closes here today, under the auspices of La Vie Parisienne, a noted French magazine. $2,000 in cash is offered for the best map of Europe showing the frontiers when the war is over. Of course the decision will be postponed until the treaties have been adjusted.

CERTAIN RESULTS
Many a Greenville Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.
Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Greenville. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:
Mrs. Laura M. White, 414 Latham St., Greenville, says: "I had a dull aching pain across my back, which worried me. I also had a dizzy headache which lasted for days at a time. The kidney secretions were two frequent and scanty in passage. There were other symptoms of kidney trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured some at the Warren Drug Co., and they gave me relief, strengthening my back and relieving the headaches. The other symptoms of the complaint left. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a very good remedy for kidney complaint."
Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. White had. Foster-Milburn Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

SHOULD SHE TELL?
 By CLARA CROSS.
 "If you could have seen his profile!" murmured the girl with the unburned neck. "Anyhow, I will think Emily ought to have told me! She was so lovely."
 "I always thought Emily had a lovely nature," objected the girl in the new blouse waist.
 "She may have a lovely nature," agreed the young woman with the sunburn, "but she beamed me to stay over with her when the rest of the house party left, just to keep me from going back in the same crowd with Wayne Hippie! How could I help it if Wayne was nicer to me than he was to her?"
 "If it wasn't for Wayne, then who was it?" demanded the girl in the wrinkled blouse.
 "Emily said I simply must stay because I loved nature so, and now that most of the cottagers had gone home there were oceans of nature lying around loose and unappropriated, and, anyhow, her mother was going in to Chicago, and she'd be so lonesome all alone. She was so mournful about it that I had to stay, or make myself out a perfect brute."
 "I went out to fish," said the girl with the sunburned neck. "Not at all because I like to fish, but because there was nothing else to do, and the meat hadn't come. Emily said that unless I caught some we'd have no dinner. So I took the rowboat and rowed around the bend into the bayou. The fish!"
 "The man, right in the spot where I thought he was a native because of the old straw hat till he turned, and it was there."
 "The man, right in the spot where I thought he was a native because of the old straw hat till he turned, and it was there."
 "Well!" she called, addressing her words to my handsome friend. "No wonder the meat has been late for over a week, if this is how you spend your time when you should be delivering it, Hoskins! And you should have seen Hoskins leap for shore and the butcher's cart concealed in the shrubbery!"
 "I am sure that Emily knew all about it from the first and never told me, just to be hateful! If she tells Wayne Hippie—"
 "Oh, she will!" comforted the girl in the new wrinkle blouse—Chicago Daily News.

Economy in Flour.
 The scarcity of flour drove the British privy council to some remarkable summary recommendations in 1795. All families were begged to give up puddings and pies, and the privy council announced that they proposed to set an example by confining themselves to fish, meat, vegetables and household bread, partly made of rye. One quarter loaf a week was recommended as the maximum allowance per head, and the loaf should be put on the table for each to help himself, so that there might be no waste. Rich people were urged to do without soups and gravies, to take only the prime cuts and leave the rest for the poor. The poor should be taught how to make soup and rice pudding, rice being a new food which until then had been little used.

Being Contemporaries as They Are.
 After all, the test of a vacation is the renewed zest with which we take up our work on our return. The person who lives among his contemporaries all the time has no idea what interesting people they are. They appear even romantic when one returns to them from a short trip abroad. There is a moment before we begin again to do things, when we have leisure to see things.
 Of course, we must take up our responsibilities again. Our serious business with our contemporaries is to improve their conditions, their morals and their manners. We do not have too much time for this work. But before we begin again the attempt to make them what they ought to be, we may enjoy the moment when we have enough freshness of vision to see them as they are—Atlantic Monthly.

 was then I was smitten dumb by the profile. And the eyes! And the general look of being somebody! I knew immediately he had buried himself in the wilds to rest, and I was so thankful that I had on the newest style of middie and be perfectly oblivious and self-posessed, so I proceeded to stop and fish as I had first intended. A man always admires an unflustered girl. I couldn't help it, could I, if

GOOD SHOW COMING.
 "The Prince of Tonsils," coming to the White's Theatre, Friday, Feb. 5th is imaginative, melodious, regally arrayed and in point of color light movement and melody almost beyond imagination. Its changes of costume and scene are bewildering in their frequency—and the final picture—an al fresco banquet with banks of flowers and lights—is as brilliant a moment of spectacle as one could desire. It is here that the prettiest song in the play happens—a voluptuous, undulating affair called "You're A Dear Old World After All," in which there is all the melodious swing and sway of the Viennese importations which it resembles.
Exit Blessie.
 Columbia, S. C., Jan. 19.—The retirement of Governor Coleman Livingston Blease today removes a unique character from the realm of executives. With consistent regularity he has opened the jail doors of the state and freed or paroled the criminals of the state in such number that severe condemnation was voted in all parts of the country. He outstripped all other pardoning records. During the four years of his occupancy of the governor's chair he has granted pardons, commutations and paroles to some 3200 criminals. Governor Blease is an able lawyer and has served his state in many capacities.
 The new governor is Hon. Richard I. Manning.

Health Problem Presented
 Of the best ways for safe-guarding the health of school children is the Medical Inspection of Schools, which has been tried in various places for many years with great benefit. This school brings together children from all kinds of homes, and all kinds of parents. This greatly multiplies the danger of diseases unless preventive measures are actively used. Medical inspection is the antidote for this evil.
 Inspection is of two kinds—one for the prevention of the spread of infectious and contagious diseases, and another for the detection of physical defects which impair a child's mental efficiency.
 For the first a school nurse is often considered sufficient. She keeps the children under inspection and reports serious cases to a physician who in turn takes charge of the child and gives the needed treatment. The amount of prevention thus accomplished in such diseases as measles, mumps, whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever etc. is beyond an estimate.
 Inspection for physical defects is generally made by a physician, who remedies the defect, or refers the child to a professional expert. Adnoids, diseased tonsils, spinal curvatures, deafness, imperfect sight, etc. all fall under this head and if not remedied will impair the mental efficiency of the child. Many children who have been considered stupid, have made satisfactory progress after some simple operation.
 Medical inspection of schools is not a new idea. It has been in use abroad for 80 years. In the last 25 years it has become a world wide movement, limited only by the degree of enlightenment of a nation. It is no longer an experiment, having been tested and found good in England, France Germany Norway Sweden Austria Switzerland Belgium Japan Australia and Tasmania. In the United States it began in Boston, in 1894, where the city schools were divided into 50 districts and each district placed under the care of a physician. This was thought necessary because waves of contagious diseases had several times almost broken up the schools and this remedy was adopted to stop the suffering and often death which resulted to say nothing of the loss of time from the school. This was so successful that other cities adopted the same preventive measure, followed in some States by mandatory laws for Medical Inspection. Now 9 states have compulsory inspection in all schools, while in 9 other states it is optional in the communities.
 North Carolina and 29 other states have no laws for such inspection. Louisiana and West Virginia being the only Southern States so progressive.
 Of course it costs some money but no investment gives better returns.
 Compulsory education laws cannot reach a sick or a defective child, and so it falls short of its full value unless compulsory inspection and subsequent treatment enables the child to attend school, and grow strong mentally and physically.
 Defective children are those who from physical defects are not able to keep up with their more robust mates and so rank as dull and stupid. Such children are found to have some physical defect, such as diseased tonsils, bad teeth, imperfect digestion, defective vision, or improperly nourished. When these defects are remedied the child becomes normal and education possible. The school nurse is always the best medium of communication between the home and the school and for the best results there must be co-operation between the nurse, the teacher, and the home.
 In some States a physician examines each child annually. In other States the inspection is done by the school nurse who reports to a physician while in others the teachers makes the inspection in the various rooms, and report physical defects to the proper person, or excludes from the school any child suspected of contagious or infectious disease, thus preventing its spread. The States having compulsory inspection always have the best results, and this has caused a wave of popularity for Medical Inspection, and in many States agitators for it are going on. Everywhere club women are working for it, and they are trying to interest all women in it, because it involves the welfare of all children—and all women should unite to secure the welfare of children, and to promote their health.
 With these facts before us is there any need to make a plea for Medical Inspection in the schools of North Carolina? To have an intelligent, capable citizenship in the future, we must make healthy the children of today, else our literary status will be low in the future—for a sound mind can only do its best in a sound body—and a weak mind will do better in a sound body—and so blessed will be the people who make possible, by care, the future health and success of those who follow them.

 seated Currituck County.
 Two years later a new state government was authorized by the Great Reconstruction Act of Congress and Capt. Jarvis was elected the following year to represent the people of Tyrrell County in the New Legislature. He was one of the few who really had the interest of the state at heart. Small though it was the little band of patriots formed a nucleus of a movement that injected into the legislative body of 1870 an element that restored peace and order and opened the way for the white people to get control of their government. So great was the ability and wisdom of Capt. Jarvis that he was elected Speaker of the House on this eventful session.
 Miss Mary Bridgman then gave a review of the years from 1876-1885.
 "In 1875 he was a member of the constitutional convention that put an end to the negro rule in the eastern counties. In 1876 he was elected Lieutenant-governor, and in 1879 he became governor of North Carolina. In 1880 he was elected to serve a full term. The two most important things that he accomplished were, perhaps his management and sale of the western North Carolina Railroad and his advancement in the cause of education throughout the state. He also built the Governor's Mansion. The people of North Carolina have never put an "ex" before the governor. He is now and always will be "Gov. Jarvis."
 Miss Bettie Spencer's review covered the years from 1885-1895.
 In 1884 he was appointed minister to Brazil, and this runs well into the third decade of his public service. No man in the diplomatic service performed his duties with more dignity and honor. Because of a change in the administration he was called home from Brazil and he resumed his law practice which since 1872 had been interrupted by his public service.
 He became United States Senator, sitting out the unexpired term of Senator Vance, after which, he again resumed his law practice as though there had been no interruptions. As a lawyer he has been one of the state's greatest; standing first as a pleader.
 The decade of years from 1895-1903 was reviewed by Miss Irene White.
 In the last two decades he has held no high official state position, however, his influence has been none the less great. As a private citizen he has continued on all state questions, in all public crises to be the people's counselor. In the great suffrage campaign of 1900 when the negro was becoming a menace, once again, he gave his best service to the state. This time he was the wise adviser; the counselor of the people and not the leader. No man in the state has greater influence in state and political questions than he has, but his influence does not stop here. Whatever relation he bears to life in his home, town, in his church, among his friends, he touches it closely and always helpfully.

 From 1905 to the present 1915 was given by Miss Kate Tillery.
 The last of the five decades of public service are so intimately and peculiarly ours, and we are debtors for so many services that it is difficult for us to say which stand out as the greatest. His power to touch life closely, and the power of imagination, enabled him to visualize the future clearly and to see and grasp the needs of old and educational institution in Eastern North Carolina; and once seeing it he went straight for it. Since 1909 as chairman of the executive committee of this institution he has kept in close touch with the School and has been a constant inspiration.
 There has lived in N. C. no man whose life is a greater force for good than that of Gov. Jarvis.
 As a legislator, governor, senator diplomat, lawyer, private citizen he has impressed the state as few have done. This rounds out a full 50 years of public service and the other twenty nine years were years of preparation for this service.
 Gov. Jarvis was then called upon by President Wright and arose and said that his mind had been busy running over the events of his life analyzing them and looking into his motive. He said that, after carefully thinking he could truthfully say that he had always tried, as best he knew to serve his fellow man—whether wisely or not he could not say. He gave instances when, in opposition to the advice of friends and threats of others, did things they said would be digging his political grave. He said "I have tried to weigh every political question and after I have made up my mind as to what is best, I have stood by my convictions, regardless of how it affected my political or personal future."
 He referred to the fact that the day of his birth was on Monday, and that on Monday, exactly thirty years ago he laid down the office of governor. He pulled out his watch, made of North Carolina gold, which was given him at that time. It has been his guide and time keeper ever since. He told the students what he would do for the school if he could and of realization of the importance of training those who train children.
 He closed by telling the young ladies that there was only one way to be assured of happiness and peace and joy at the end of life—and that is by giving their lives to the service of their fellow beings.
 President Wright read letters that had been sent to him to be delivered to Gov. Jarvis from Gov. Craig, Dr. J. Y. Joyner, and Mr. W. G. Rogers. A telegram from Rev. and Mrs. M. T. Plyler arrived during the dinner.
 At the close Pres. Wright said: "I vote the settlement of every one here when I say we hope that you may be spared to a number of years and that your usefulness may continue in the future as it has been in the past."

By virtue of power vested in me by that Deed of Trust executed to me by W. C. Smith, and of record in the Office of the Register of Deeds for Pitt County, in Book T-10 at Page 185, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the Court House door in Greenville, on the 4th day of February, 1915, at 12 o'clock M., the following described parcel of real estate, lying, being and situated in Greenville Township, County of Pitt, and State aforesaid, and more particularly described as follows:

quiring a jury trial His Honor took no unnecessary time but at once announced his decision. Up to the time of going to press an unusually large number of cases had been disposed of and at the present rate the docket will soon be cleared. The dispatch with which the business of the court is finished is creating a good impression on those concerned for it is seldom that a judge disposes of as many cases in such a short time as Judge Whedbee has today.

Senator Hobgood. The pledges of both parties in the balance, practically every Senator and Representative in some form or other having individually pledged himself wholly or partially to the proposition, the question as to the primary bill merely remains one of form.
Senator Nash of Orange introduced a bill to simplify the form of deeds and mortgages. The bill was introduced last week. When objection appeared on the floor, the Senator introducing the measure asked that it be placed on the calendar as a matter of special order, for noon on Tuesday.
Senator Ward renewed his opposition to the bill, and Senator Nash took the floor in its defense. He stated that the bill which he was introducing aimed at the simplification of deeds and mortgages was not a new thing. In essence, it is the same as now in use in twenty-four states of the union. It has been the form of deeds and mortgages in Illinois for over thirty years.
The significant aim of the bill is to reduce the number of words in the deeds from 304 to 36, and in mortgages from 518 to 37. When it is considered that something like a hundred thousands deeds are filed in North Carolina each year, this means a considerable saving in the way of words.

Telephone Court Service
Report Favorably Bill Allowing Sheriff to Seize Notices.
Raleigh, Jan. 27.—No longer need the high sheriff or his deputy mount his trusty horse and notify you personally to appear before the grand jury.
Senate Judiciary Committee No. 2 yesterday decided to report favorably a bill allowing him to phone you.
The bill follows:
"That sheriffs, constables and other officers charged with the service of any court process, other than a summons, may serve the same by telephone and such service shall be valid and binding on the party so served."
The bill was introduced by Senator Winborne.

German Cruiser Torpedoed.
Russian submarines in the western portion of the Baltic Sea have torpedoed the German cruiser Gazelle which however, reached port with the assistance of a Swedish steamer. Their activity has stopped the trade carried on by German steamers between Germany and Sweden.
Two Ships Lost in Collision at Sea
New York, Jan. 26.—In a collision near the Fenwick Shoals lightship early today the American Hawaiian Line freight steamer Washington was sunk and the American schooner Elizabeth Palmer, which rammed her, was abandoned, with decks awash.
One life was lost that of a water tender. The other persons comprising the officers and crews of the two vessels were landed in New York tonight by the Old Dominion Line steamer Hamilton near Norfolk which picked them up near the scene of the accident 20 miles southwest of the Delaware breakwater.
The Washington sank with ten minutes after she was struck and all aboard were ordered to the boats. It may be a water tender on the Washingtonian was missing when the men were mustered for roll-call on the decks of the rescuing ship.

WAKE FOREST PILES UP LARGE SCORES
Wake Forest, Jan. 26.—Wake Forest defeated Atlantic Christian College tonight on the home floor by a margin of 70 points allowing the visitors one point in the first half and 2 in the last. The work of Holding at forward for the Baptists featured. Of the total score 24 points were registered by Holding from eight goals and Hall with seven. Hensley put up a good defensive game allowing his man only one field goal during the entire game and finding the basket for four field goals himself.
The visitors were outweighted and out classed in every department and were unable to cope with the speedy passing of the Baptists. The end of the first half found the score 36 to 2 against them. Forty more points were added by the Baptists in the last half while Farmer succeeded in shooting one field goal the score ending 76 to 5.
