

EASTERN REFLECTOR.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

D. J. WHICHARD, Ed. & Owner

Entered at the Post Office at Greenville, N. C., as Second-Class Mail Matter.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1900.

What is imperialism? Well, every time you lick a stamp to put on a check or a telegram, imperialism comes forcibly home to you. Do you like its taste?

In both Michigan and Maryland, the peach crop has been enormous but in neither state have the growers reaped the benefit, as the canning trust, which buys three-fourths of the output, refused to pay more than a bare starvation price for the fruit.

Thousands of negro voters are being colonized in West Virginia and Kentucky, in preparation for the election this fall. If either state permits its vote to be stolen by this means, it will deserve the sort of rulership that it will assuredly get.

It is hard to satisfy some people. Mr. Bryan spoke on imperialism first and the Republicans charged him with abandoning free silver and other issues. Then he spoke on silver and they said that he was afraid to tackle the trusts. Now he has spoken on trusts, and they are saying he is too diffusive in his jokes that he cannot be devoted to any one of them.

One of the meanest tricks recorded has been perpetrated by the Census Office. Recently, Director Merriam promises promotion to all clerks who should do a certain amount of work daily. Now hundreds of these clerks have attained the required proficiency only to find that they will get no promotion unless they also bring "influence" to bear upon Director Merriam.

FIRE AT STOKES.

Loss About Two Thousand Dollars.

J. L. Perkins & Co., of Stokes, lost their entire mill plant by fire Wednesday night about 2 o'clock. The mill fire caught about 12 o'clock when they discovered it and put the fire out as they thought at the time, and left it to retire again. But it seems that it was only stopped temporarily as the fire rekindled against 2 o'clock and had gained such headway that it was impossible to reach the eminence held by them. I shall constantly endeavor, if chosen, to attain a position creditable to myself and honorable to my State. And may I not point to my brief service in the Senate as an earnest of my constant effort to serve my State and my people faithfully and well.

Mr. Perkins tells me that he thinks the fire originated by heat from the boilers igniting the plank work around the boilers. It was a heavy loss to them and also to the community.

BETHEL ITEMS.

BETHEL, N. C., Sept. 19, 1900. Miss Pearl Edmondson and Maggie Nelson are in town today. Miss Elmer Jenkins returned to Tarboro Tuesday. R. H. Keel is on the sick list. Ed. Davenport, of Danington, was in town Monday. H. McCallan and A. D. Minor were in town Tuesday on business. The barrel factory here will begin work October 1st.

Baker Warnick and D. A. Moore were in town Wednesday. Large crowd left here Tuesday on excursion train for Wilmington and returned Wednesday morning.

The trouble with the unsuccessful actor is that it's all work and no play.

LETTER FROM GOV. JARVIS.

Announcing His Candidacy For The Senate.

Greenville, N. C., Sept. 19th 1900. TO THE DEMOCRATIC PRESS AND PEOPLE: I have so long enjoyed the courtesy and kindness of the Democratic Press of the State that I can hardly call the use of its columns for a word with the Democratic voters. I shall publish this letter in my home paper and I respectfully and earnestly request all Democratic papers to give it to their readers. I am so confident they will do me this favor, no matter whom they prefer, that I beg to thank them in advance.

On the 4th of March, 1901, some Democrats will take his seat as the Senator from North Carolina, in the greatest deliberative body on earth. Who that man shall be is for you to say. It is the first time in the history of our party, in this State, when you have had the opportunity of determining such a question by a direct vote, at a Primary election, held for that purpose. For one I believe in this method of indicating our party's choice for Senator, and I trust this Primary, in all its phases from start to finish, will be conducted in a manner so fair and honorable as to be free from complaint and above criticism; and that the system will commend itself to all fair minded Democrats who believe in the rule of the people. I feel a special interest in the success of this system because I believe I was the first man in the State to publicly advocate it. Since then it has grown in popularity far, 'till at the last State Convention of our party, it was adopted and ordered to be held. I therefore feel glad to be the first Senator chosen by this method and I hereby announce myself a candidate for that high honor.

In making this announcement I am aware that I am aspiring to a high and responsible position. A Senator is not only charged with the duty of taking part in the discussions and determination of great questions of national importance, but he is a part of the treaty making power, and upon his action may depend important events in our foreign relations. There are but few fields which open up so great opportunities for labor, usefulness and honor as the Senate of the United States. I trust I properly appreciate the dignity and the importance of the position I am seeking.

I am also aware that it has been the policy of our State to choose her most experienced and best equipped men for this high position, and these grave duties. The fact that these men had already held high offices was not a hindrance but a help to their selection. From this class of their distinguished citizens our State has chosen men who became great Senators and whose names we love to revere, and whose services are a part of our country's history. While I cannot hope to reach the eminence held by them I shall constantly endeavor, if chosen, to attain a position creditable to myself and honorable to my State. And may I not point to my brief service in the Senate as an earnest of my constant effort to serve my State and my people faithfully and well.

I sometimes hear it said that I have already had the party's support, and the people's honors to a remarkable degree, and that I ought to retire to private life. I acknowledge with feelings of the profoundest gratitude that I have been greatly honored, but I affirm that I have tried to be true and faithful to the public interests in every trust that has been confided to me. While the fact that I have held these positions is being urged as a reason why I have had all I deserve, may it not be said in my behalf that the training and experience I gained in them have only the better qualified me to discharge the grave duties which devolve upon a Senator.

I also hear it said that this is the day of the young Democracy. I do not understand by this that the day has come, in the history of our party, when the door of honor, the reward is to be closed to those who have been faithful and true in storm and in sunshine and who have fought its battles in the days

ASLEEP IN JESUS.

"Before thy heart could learn in waywardness to stray; Before thy feet could turn The dark and downward way; Ere sin could wound thy breast, Or sorrow wake the tear; Rise to thy house of rest; In yon celestial sphere!"

Little Paul, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McArthur, died at 4 o'clock P. M. Monday, 10th Sept. Age four and one half months. In the absence of their pastor, Dr. Morton, the burial was conducted by Rev. N. M. Watson. The interment was made Tuesday afternoon in the family burial ground about ten miles from Greenville.

HORRORS OF CHINESE WAR.

Lieut. Lyman Cotton Writes Home of What He Sees in China.

U. S. S. ZAFIRO TAKU, CHINA, Aug. 2nd 1900. MY DEAR MOTHER: I have just received your nice long letter written in Milwaukee and enjoyed it very much. I hope the papers will come soon, so I can read about the Mother's Congress. I know you enjoyed your trip out West. I also had two letters from father recently.

WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Sept., 22nd. Liberal inducements will be offered any worthy enterprise desiring suitable location in a prosperous and well surrounded country.

Now is the time to sell your cotton seed. A. G. Cox is paying the highest cash prices. Bring them along. He will buy all you have for sale.

Small farms and town lots desirably located for sale on reasonable terms by A. G. Cox. If you wish to make a good investment see him at once.

Our town seems to have a deserted appearance for the last few days owing to the absence of many of our male population, who are in attendance upon court at Greenville. Some of us are still here, however. And thank goodness the girls are here too! So it's all right. We are satisfied.

Simon Owehas added a nice assortment of shoes to his line of merchandise. He does a nice business.

Everything here is so busy there is no time for darning or getting mended but the cutting list is never forsaken. We are indeed a prosperous and happy people. If you don't believe it come down and live among us and see.

R. H. Hunsucker went to Kinston yesterday. That is a mighty nice place for some folks. Folks who don't take honey in their ears either.

25 Points Higher.

Means 1-4 Cent per pound more for your COTTON.

THAT IS WHAT YOU GET ON COTTON THAT WE GIN FOR YOU.

We have just established at Greenville one of the best equipped Gins to be found in Eastern North Carolina and solicit your ginning. We turn out the best cotton you can get anywhere but our charges are no higher than others. BRING US YOUR COTTON.

EASTERN REFLECTOR.

NOTICE. If there is a CROSS MARK in the margin of this paper it so to remind you that you owe THE EASTERN REFLECTOR for subscription and we request you to settle as early as possible. We need what YOU owe us and hope you will not keep us waiting for it.

LOCAL REFLECTIONS. W. C. Hines has re-opened his restaurant on Evans street.

Election day nearer and no Bryan and Stevenson club yet. Anybody loafing now it is his own fault. There is work for all who want it.

S. M. Schultz's store will be closed on Monday Sept. 24th. Holiday.

Just one month to the State fair at Raleigh. The railroads are announcing special rates.

Register of Deeds Moore issued five marriage licenses the past week, all for colored couples.

Horse shoeing by a first-class white workman, at W. O. Barnhill's shop on Dickinson avenue.

The Greenville Light Infantry was out Friday evening. The boys are getting in good marching trim.

Miss Hattie Leggett will be in Greenville the first of October with a big line of millinery. Wait for her.

Way out yonder, in the west they have commenced putting on winter hats. They have actually had a snow storm.

This little touch of cooler weather reminds us that our wool-pulling subscribers can begin filling up our wool house.

WE ARE HERE!

And the Goods are Coming Daily.

Our Second Trip North was a Great Success in BARGAIN FINDING, And These Bargains Are Yours For The Asking.

The great markets like New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore have been searched for Bargains and we have them. We are going to sell for less money than anybody else. Why? Because we buy more goods than any other store in town and get larger discounts; and we sell for the smallest possible margin of profit, depending on a large volume of business and no rents to pay.

THE TOBACCO CROP, PRICES AND NEED OF GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.

President J. Bryan Grimes, of the North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Association, addressed a letter recently to Mr. O. L. Joyner, warehouseman of prominence at Greenville, N. C., in which this request was made:

"In view of the reduced acreage in tobacco in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, it would appear that the type of tobacco, the production of which is confined largely to those States, should of necessity advance. What is your opinion of the outlook for prices this fall? I will be glad if you will give the organization of tobacco farmers careful, serious thought, and embody your views of the outlook and remedy in an article in the Southern Tobacco Journal."

Mr. Joyner's article follows:

HON. J. BRYAN GRIMES, Pres. N. C. Tobacco Growers' Association, Grimesland, N. C.

MY DEAR SIR:—Since I received your communication of August 8 I have given the subject to which you refer considerable thought. If we are to judge from the report of the shortage in acreage and the crop condition, which in my opinion are not exaggerated, it would seem that the price of tobacco should advance very materially over last season.

It has been argued that there has been a surplus of tobacco made for the last five years, and this will, it is said, tend to keep the price down to some extent. How true this is I do not know, but I do know unless the price of tobacco advances, especially the better grades of it, very much over the prices of last year, the thousands of idle barns in the fields of eastern North Carolina next year will emphasize the fact that this section of the State will no longer contribute to keep the surplus up.

Farmers are generally slow to act, usually take a conservative view of the conditions surrounding them, and will continue longer at a losing game and keep up better cheer than any other class or profession of men in the world; but like a herd of buffaloes frenzied and crazed by heat, when they stampede for some stream from which to quench their thirst are headstrong and determined, so it is with the masses of farmers. They continue from year to year to plant tobacco, hoping that each year will bring better prices, and they have gradually seen prices go lower and lower until now they are on a verge of a headstrong stampede for the first relief that is offered; and here in eastern North Carolina, where our lands are generally in a high state of cultivation, that relief is offered in the cotton crop.

Cotton is selling at better prices now than it has brought in ten years. Our farmers primarily prefer to grow cotton, because they have inherited it to some extent and it is less laborious. The same cause which has advanced the price of cotton—the great law of supply and demand, and which is just as inconvertible as the laws of gravitation—will in my opinion surely advance the price of tobacco when the supply only equals demand.

I do not say, however, that supply and demand absolutely control prices, for systematic organization and combination of tobacco buyers, even when the supply is less than the demand, can and will do a great deal toward controlling the price; but I do assert that the law of supply and demand is the chief factor in controlling prices, and by thorough organization of the tobacco farmers I shall attempt to show conclusively that the growers can be complete masters of the situation and from their own position dictate prices. The trouble is getting at an approximately accurate estimate of the supply. When this is known, in my opinion this chief controlling influence will begin to assert itself. There are other very powerful agencies which operate to oppress the price of tobacco, chief among which is the lack of organization, harmony and concerted action on the part of the farmers themselves in planting and marketing their tobacco.

Notwithstanding there is a universal consensus of opinion that the crop in the three principal bright tobacco growing States is reduced in acreage and condition something near forty per cent, yet if farmers begin marketing their tobacco so as to sell all of it in two or three months, it is sure to follow that there will be glutted markets, blocked sales, broken down buyers and warehousemen and consequently low prices. These foreboding sales, as I may call them, give the impression also that the crop has been underestimated, because those who are governed by the supply place their orders on the several markets, and thus judge the crop by their receipts as compared with a similar period last year. Hence when the crop is thrown upon the market in a short time, say two or three months, the receipts for this time may be heavy in a crop of forty million pounds as if it were a seventy million pound crop.

In reference to the organization of the tobacco farmers of the bright tobacco growing States, I should say by all means let the work be pushed continuously and vigorously, from the counties that produce the smallest quantity of tobacco to those which produce the millions. Let the work of the organization and education be carried on until every man, from the poorest plowman with his one acre patch to the mightiest landlord with his vast estates are enlisted and their names enrolled as collaborators and joint partners in the same cause.

There can be no possible objection by any one to an organized effort on the part of the great tobacco producers for the betterment of their condition. Organization will bring the farmers together; thus the work of education begins by an interchange of thoughts, ideas and views. Education is nothing but the broadening and expanding of the natural talent of sense, and if by coming together and exchanging ideas and opinions we liberate the mind to a more generous construction of our position and our duty one to the other, the effort will not have been in vain. By complete and thorough organization such can be affected. If the farmers, or a few of them in each community, will take an active interest in it a better understanding of the situation can be had. One half the misery of the world—nearly all the disagreement between man and his fellow man—is the result of not properly understanding the position each occupies. The relation of the producer to the manufacturer is mighty closely allied, and yet how far apart are they in the conception of duty each to the other.

By organization he who sweats and toils to make it possible for the manufacturer to make wealth and comfort from his scanty support can and will get closer together in their relation to each other, and when we understand the motives which prompt each other's action, the responsibility can be located and from the vantage ground thus gained our rights can be enforced and our wrongs made right.

If the manufacturer converts your raw material into greater profits than you have realized, it is simply because he is better organized; has the advantage and uses it. If special laws are passed that protect his interests, it is the result of a combination of organized effort.

If your crop of tobacco, that has cost you seven cents a pound in actual outlay of cash on an economic basis, saying nothing about the risk of drought and flood and the sleepless nights you have spent in curing it, sells for ten cents a pound it does not sell for more because you are not organized, and do not work in harmony. Your energies are wasted in an aimless effort to accomplish something without the knowledge how to start. Hence, I repeat, organize and educate. In these two words lie the salvation of the tobacco farmer. Let the work of organization begin at once and continue until this compact of farmers shall be in control practically of every acre of tobacco from the red hills of old Virginia and the rocky cliffs of Tennessee to the wave-washed shores of the entire south Atlantic coast.

I shall not attempt to point out the innumerable benefits to be derived from such an organization, but will say if nothing else is not Completed save the collection of data relative to the supply and demand and the regulation of the acreage to supply only the demand, together with a systematic arrangement of marketing the crop, it will result in incalculable benefit. Wisdom and conservatism should control organization. The accomplishment of the greatest good to the greatest number without impairing the interest of any one should be the highest object aimed at. Wild, revolutionary and impractical measures; such as seem to be the disposition of some, should not be allowed to gain serious consideration. The efforts of the organization should be directed in uplifting and bettering the condition of the grower without trying to drag down and ruin any one. Let the organization be governed by the highest standard of right regardless of consequences, and the effort will not be a failure.

J. J. Martin, Republican nominee for congress in the second district, is postmaster at Tarboro; Spencer Blackburn, in the eighth, is assistant district attorney; Jim Moody, in the ninth, was major of the baked beans department in the Spanish war; Holton, in the seventh is brother to the district attorney for the western district, and was revenue officer if he is not now; Joyce, in the fifth, is stamp clerk in the revenue office; Jenkins, in the fourth, is supervisor of the census. The other nominees will also be federal officials or controlled by them.

That is the kind of "business men" the Republicans will ask the North Carolina people to vote for as representatives in congress.

Every one of these fellows used his influence to defeat the constitutional amendment, and they are all running on a platform that declares that our amendment is "revolutionary."

The Republican party in North Carolina puts up today the same stripe of negro-voting politicians they have been nominating for thirty years, and then has the effrontery to appeal to the "business men" to vote to undo the vote they cast in August. It will not avail them.—News and Observer.
