There is nothing like Asthmaline. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails. The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa, Ridge, Ill., says: "Your bottle of Asthmaline received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and asthma for ten years. I de spaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle." We want to send to every sufferer a trial treatment of Asthmaline, similar to the one that cured Mr. Wells. We'll send it by mail post, absolutely Free of Charge, to any sufferer who will write for it, even on a postal. Never mind, though you are despairing, however bad your case. THE S. S. SOCIETY.

To Mrs. J. J. Perkins we are indebted for the organization of the Sunshine Sisterhood, a society which has for its chief object, as its name implies, the scattering of sunshine into the homes of those of our members, to whom physical suffering has entered unhindered, and also to minister to their bodily wants.

Our object in meeting together from time to time is to enjoy the sweet solace of pleasing new ideas and thoughts, and of thoroughly enjoying ourselves, so that we may be the better equipped for the duties which may await us.

On the evening of the 2nd the society met at the residence of Mrs. J. J. Perkins. After the usual business of the hour, pleasure unalloyed held sway.

First on the program was a literary observation table, prepared by the hostess. This was enjoyed immensely, each one striving to surpass the other in guessing the titles of books and botanical names that the objects represented. Miss Lina Sheppard was the successful competitor of that prize and looked charming as she would pass back and forth from the table, in that graceful style peculiarly her own, to inscribe her answers.

The next thing presented for our entertainment was the author omnium. This prize was won by Miss Bessie Jarvis, and the sweet surprise look she played upon her face as she was informed of her success, was most bewitching.

The marriage of the flowers was both unique and fascinating. The prize for this was also won by Miss Sheppard, the champion of the evening.

"The drummer has done more than anybody else to help the breach between the North and the South," said Dr. Charles D. McIVER, president of the State Normal College, who was a visitor in the city a few days ago. "After the civil war the three great educational factors—the pulpit, the college and the school teacher—were embittered and biased at the North, and, consciously or unconsciously, their efforts were directed toward fostering the feeling of enmity. And the South was proud, an arrogant, ungracious Northern viewpoint and prejudiced against all things Northern. They came to his interest—to take the most radical view of the matter—to represent to his customers that his people at the North were kindly disposed folk and sought friendship and peace in spirit as well as in deed; and he also found it policy to tell his employers—in truth—that the Southerners were not so bad as they had been portrayed. The tribe of drummers is credited with a credit for harmony between the two great sections. Crossed and forward, at all seasons of the year, they traveled, carrying the message of brotherhood and good will. They came from every part of the North and went to every nook and corner of the South; their influence as peace-makers was insistent and beneficial. They encouraged the travel of Northerners to the South and of Southerners to the North, while they stood at elbows in pleasure's name and tried to assist everybody in being friends and in having a good time. The drummer was an envoy of peace and he has nobly fulfilled his mission."—Charlotte Observer.

REFLECTOR ANNIVERSARY.

Something of the Growth of the Paper During its Twenty Years Career.

This is the anniversary of the birth of THE DAILY REFLECTOR. It is the general custom with newspapers to have something to say of themselves on such occasions, and believing that our readers will be interested in a sketch of the paper they have helped to make, we feel like saying a little more than usual on the subject today.

Nearly twenty years ago THE EASTERN REFLECTOR shed its first rays upon the public. To be more exact, it was on the 25th day of January, 1882, that the first copy of the paper was issued, and its birth place was in the old building that then stood in the corner of our mother's yard, on Pitt and Third streets, a portion of which she used as a school room. The paper was then only a small sheet of four pages of four columns each, and after continuing that size about a month it was enlarged to seven columns. It was founded by our brother, Mr. J. R. Whitchard, and after continuing that size about a month it was enlarged to seven columns. It was founded by our brother, Mr. J. R. Whitchard, and while the present editor, who was then conducting a job printing office, had no ownership in the paper, it was printed on our job press, and we felt more or less interested in and identified with it.

Four years previous, in 1878, in co-partnership with our brother, we took charge as owners of the Greenville Express, a paper which had been started the previous year by Mr. L. Thomas for whom both of us worked as printers. Neither first dollar in the world of the press, but there was blank paper enough on hand for a few weeks, so we rented the outfit and kept the paper going. This writer was then less than 16 years old and his newspaper career dates from that age. Friends willing to help boys make an honest living stood by us, and though there were many hard struggles it was sink or swim, and the determination was to swim. We conducted The Express to gether until the fall of 1881 when some changes came resulting in the writer getting out of the paper and starting a small job printing office. A complication with an outsider then interested in the paper led to the suspension of The Express to be followed two weeks later by the birth of THE REFLECTOR on the date above stated.

THE REFLECTOR continued for about two years in the old building where it started, when finding it a little inconvenient for business the paper and job office were moved down town, our brother in the meantime having purchased a hand press and some type for the paper. Sometime in 1884, when the holdings of both were considered about equal, and both working together as usual, the business was consulted dated and the writer became owner in THE REFLECTOR and again put on editorial harness, the same year taking charge of the telegraph office also and working all together.

In April, 1887, our brother deciding to go elsewhere, the writer purchased the entire business and became sole proprietor. From that day to this we have continued the business alone, and while our readers are perhaps well familiar with our career, at least most of them, they will pardon us for this bit of talking about the paper today. Really, it is their paper, so what is being said is as much about what they have done as what we have done. The place THE REFLECTOR won in the confidence of the people and the liberal patronage they gave it is what helped it to stay here and to accomplish what it has.

Nearly twenty years ago THE EASTERN REFLECTOR shed its first rays upon the public. To be more exact, it was on the 25th day of January, 1882, that the first copy of the paper was issued, and its birth place was in the old building that then stood in the corner of our

A very tiny sheet at first, and after continuing that size about a month it was enlarged to seven columns. It was founded by our brother, Mr. J. R. Whitchard, and while the present editor, who was then conducting a job printing office, had no ownership in the paper, it was printed on our job press, and we felt more or less interested in and identified with it.

HOME OF THE REFLECTOR 1901.

place the printer, has delayed in getting into that part of it until they can provide other suitable quarters, but after doing business on the corner for now nearly a year THE REFLECTOR is feeling very much at home. It is the best building and location for a newspaper home to be found in the town.

More might be said in detail of the career of THE REFLECTOR but perhaps this is enough. It has had its struggles, some of them hard and trying, but by God's help and a constant trust in Him, they have been overcome one by one. While THE REFLECTOR has never come up to our ambition, we are not ashamed of its career of what it has accomplished. It is no great paper, yet it has long ago lived down the old saying that a young man cannot accomplish anything at his home. This writer was born in Greenville, has always lived in Greenville, and has never been out of the town a whole month at one time in his life. We learned long ago that patient perseverance, integrity and a willing-ness to work do not go unrewarded. There were times when opportunity offered to go elsewhere, but we loved Greenville and Pitt county to well and felt that the path of duty for us was here.

While thanking God for all prosperity and blessings we can never feel otherwise than grateful to the people for their support. Looking over our list of subscribers we find names that have been there since the first issue nearly twenty years ago, and our advertising columns year in and year out show the confidence the business men have in THE REFLECTOR. If you feel that your paper is a credit to your town and county, you have helped to make it so.

The only promise we have to make for the future is going right ahead doing the best we can at all times.

Summons has been served upon Governor Aycock in the suit brought by the State of South Dakota against the State of North Carolina for the redemption of Western North Carolina railroad bonds. The case is set for trial in the United States Supreme Court at Washington on the 3rd of next March.

Andrew Carnegie has made an offer to donate $10,000,000 to the United States for the purpose of establishing a university for higher education in Washington City. The President will submit Mr. Carnegie's offer to Congress with a special message.

North Carolina week at the Charleston E position has been changed from January 20th to April 7th. There will be much better weather in April than in January and so doubt the exposition will be better then.

In the report of 'Thanksgiving donations sent to the Oxford Orphan Asylum, as published in the last issue of The Orphan's Friend, Greenville made the largest contribution of any lodge in the State.

Mrs. Loris Smith, from near Coville, and sister, Miss Minnie Smith, of Clay Root Neck, were the guests of Miss Lizzie Holloway Saturday night and Sunday.

The A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. have recently constructed a log bunk for the hauling of large and heavy logs that is a credit to the ingenuity and progressiveness of this firm. The bunk will naturally meet the approval of all mill and lumber men as it will prove an important factor in aiding and making easier the work in their special line.

Santa Claus Coming—To our friends, customers and the public generally we wish to state that we are carrying a nice and better selected stock of Xmas toys and confectionaries than ever before. We are earnestly soliciting your patronage. Yours to please—Harrington, Barber & Co.

ON A WHEEL.

The rider frantically grasps with disaster. A very handy and efficient doctor to have with you when an accident happens in a bottle of Mexican Mustang Liniment.

Ulcers or Running Sores need not become a fixture upon your body. If they do it is your fault, for MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT will thoroughly, quickly and permanently cure these afflictions. There is no guess work about it; if this liniment is used a cure will follow.

YOU DON'T KNOW how quickly a burn or scald can be cured until you have treated it with Mexican Mustang Liniment. Ask each dealer it stands at the very top.

OUR MEMBERS AND THEIR NEIGHBORS.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The North Carolina members in the House are most pleasantly situated and especially are they in good company.

Mr. Post has as his near neighbor Mr. Spakman of Florida, while just one seat removed from him is Mr. Claude Kitchin who sits between Mr. Spakman and Mr. Lever, of South Carolina. Just back of Mr. Claude Kitchin and in speaking and touching distance is Mr. W. W. Kitchin his brother, who sits between Mr. Davis of Florida, and Mr. Butler of Missouri. Mr. Kluttz is in the row of seats just ahead of Mr. Claude Kitchin and is next to Mr. Bartlett, of Georgia. Just a few seats from Mr. Kluttz and on the same row is Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, the seniority floor leader. Mr. Small has a seat next Mr. Claude Kitchin, Mr. Ball, of Texas, being on the right and Mr. Snodgrass, of Tennessee, being on his left. All these North Carolina members are in the middle tier of seats on the Democratic side. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Bellamy did not fare so well in securing seats. They are on the extreme right of the speaker and near the rear. Mr. Thomas has Mr. Patterson, of Tennessee, for his near neighbor, while just in front of him is Mr. Robinson, of Indiana, who will probably be in charge of Mr. Thomas' contest in the House. The proximity gives Mr. Thomas constant opportunity for consultation.

Just two talks to Xmas. The little folks are talking about what Santa Claus is going to bring them. L. F. Ross caught a raccoon that weighed twenty pounds dressed. Good for Mr. Ross.

Novel Uses For Kits. Kites have been used with great success as a means to stop particles rising and flying from cover where it is wished to keep them from shooting. The birds will not rise when kites are flying above them, fearing, doubtless, attack.

Arizona Tree Jewels. The petrified forests of Arizona were recently examined under the direction of the general land office. The petrified logs lie in the greatest abundance within an area of eight square miles in Apache county. In some places they lie more thickly than they could have stood while living as trees, and it is thought that they must have been carried there by swift currents of water in the mesozoic age. Some of the petrified wood was examined with a microscope and was found to resemble the association pine of the southern hemisphere.

The American Conquest. Modern office furniture, from the desk to the door, is made by an American in every up to date London establishment. One sits on a Nebraska sivel chair before a Michigan roll top desk, writing one's letters on a Syracuse type writer, signing them with a New York fountain pen and drying them with a blasting sheet from New England.—London Mail.

"Could never stop," remarked the Subalternian casually, "wherein the 'sacred concert' differs from the ordinary concert." "Why, that's simple enough," replied Wags.

"Certainly, the 'sacred concert' is given on Sundays only."—Philadelphia Press.

One Point Ahead. Jones—The big newspapers beat the magazines. Brown—How's that? Jones—Well, when you buy a big newspaper you get a lot of magazine news, but when you buy a magazine you don't get any newspaper news.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Circus Business. Mamma—Oh, see, Willie, your little brother can stand all alone! Aren't you glad? Willie—Yes, I am. Now I can get him to stand up against the fence while I throw knives around him. Can't I?—Catholic Standard and Times.

Much Building. Speaking about the trouble it is to get carpenters to do any small jobs of work, a gentleman in a position to know remarked that any one would be astonished to know the amount of building that is going on around town. There is hardly a section in which buildings are not going up. Mr. W. R. Parker says the lumber yard and the sash door and blind factory receive orders faster than they can be filled.

Geromino's Sword.
An amusing controversy followed the recent surrender of General Geromino, the Filipino leader. The federal party of Filipinos laid claim to his sword on the ground that he had killed it to them as a souvenir in recognition of their instrumentality in bringing about his surrender. Colonel Thompson of the Fort-second regiment considered the sword the property of Geromino as he had been delivered to him when Geromino surrendered. Then it was found that this particular sword the chief had turned over was not his own, but one he borrowed for the occasion. Finally the federal party resigned all claim to the sword, leaving Colonel Thompson in possession of it. It now comes to light that the real weapon worn by Geromino in the war is actually in the hands of still another officer.

A Life of Accidents.
Rebecca Wampler, said to be 100 years old, who died the other day in Dublin, Ind., had met with many accidents during her life. At the age of 6 years she fell from a picket fence and broke her finger. In 1852 she broke her ankle, in 1865 she fell down and broke her hip. In 1888 she slipped and fell on a pavement, breaking her left hip; in 1893 she broke her left leg at the knee; in 1895 she fell from a fence, breaking her arm; in 1898 she fell out of bed, breaking her right arm, and in 1900 she broke her right hip for the second time.

Fascinating Abdul Hamid.
The character of Abdul Hamid must obtain to have many facets. The latest of his visitors is Dr. Herzl, the Zionist leader, who reports that he is perfectly charming. "The sultan spoke to me with the greatest kindness. I found him a courteous, charming gentleman. One almost forgot he was this mighty potentate. He has kept himself in touch, I found, with all the latest developments of modern life and evidently is far from having those notions which some of our some associates with the Ottoman Empire."—London Mail.

BAND CONFERT.
A Mark of Appreciation.
As a mark of appreciation of the many kindnesses shown them by the people of Greenville, the Oseola Band will give a band concert, with a few specialties, on Friday night, Dec. 20th. While the concert is free to all, an opportunity will be given those who attend to help the poor of the community enjoy Christmas. For this purpose a contribution box will be placed at the head of the stairs to receive whatever anyone may desire to put in, from a penny up. The fund thus raised will be turned over to Mrs. J. B. Cherry, County Secretary of The King's Daughters, for distribution among the little children who are not able to have Santa Claus come to see them. All who do not feel able to contribute to this fund are as welcome to the concert as those who do contribute.

In case the weather is cold a fire will be kept in the opera house all day so as to have it thoroughly comfortable. Seats will be reserved for the ladies.
