PRECEDENT AND PRECEDENT

The press of the country has taken knowledge of the fact that of late a precedent long ago established in the location of cabinet appointments has been very much violated. Until within the past year it has been the rule that no two cabinet officers should come from the same State, but President McKinley chose Postmaster General Smith and afterwards Attorney General Knox from Pennsylvania, and now President Roosevelt has selected his new Secretary of the Treasury from the same State from which Secretary of Agriculture Wilson hails. And why not? Cabinet officers, as other public officials, should be chosen with reference to fitness—not with regard to where they live. In North Carolina has grown up the United States Senators the one from the east and the other from the west, and yet the State was never more creditably represented in the upper house of Congress than when both the Senators were from the same county—Orange. It is not always a bad idea to violate precedent.—Charlotte Observer.

Tutti's Pills

After eating, persons of a bilious habit will derive great benefit from taking one of these pills. If you have been DRINKING TOO MUCH, SICK HEADACHE, and nervousness which follows, remedy. Take no Substitute.

In his weekly Washington letter, published in yesterday's issue of The Observer, Hon. Amos J. Cunnings told of the great benefit reaped by the action of certain States in keeping one set of men in Washington as their representatives. Maine, he says, leads in respect of seniority of its members, and her people have been directly benefited by many Federal appropriations for public work in the State, and also have gotten about everything they ever asked of Congress. It is really surprising, when one comes to dwell on the subject, why a good man should ever lose his seat in Congress except for a political revolution at home. The fact that a seat in the national capital is a reward for political service is certainly one which should be abandoned by all parties. A Congressman should be the servant of the people he represents, and if he is the right kind of man it would appear to him in his duty to attend to business as he should. Private affairs are carried on in this manner and why should not the people at large be allowed the same privilege? Rotation in public office, such as that of Congressman, certainly results in injury to the people who remove the system.—Charlotte Observer.

THE BEST OF ALL.

The Children's Entertainment a Great Success.

Those who were at the opera house Friday night were charmed and delighted with the entertainment most given by the children under the management of Miss Minnie Quinn. The program consisted of a child's play, "Naughty Joe," drills, choruses, songs, and tableaux. No one who took a part was more than 12 or 15 years of age and a large majority of them were very small children. To say that they did all well does not tell half. It is positively true that they could not have done better. Such facility with their parts and the ability to act them well have rarely been seen in children. We would like to call each by name and give each credit for the exhibition of special talent and training, but there were so many that it would consume our entire space in today's issue to then justice, and we must therefore content ourselves with general mention.

The drill, "Stars and Stripes," had been gone through with many times before, but all agreed that it was even more beautiful to them than at the first presentation. You never saw pretty little girls go prettier than they did. Then came the chorus, "When the Harvest Days are Over." In this the children showed that Greenville will some day be a place to be proud of her talent for vocal music.

The next chorus, "Mamie," was so delightfully rendered that the audience gave a hearty encore which was responded to even more happily than at first. The next on the program was the play, "Naughty Joe," which had been displayed in assigning the parts, each one appearing specially adapted for the part taken. Every one knew perfectly his or her part and the presentation of it would have done credit to person double their ages. It was wonderful how well some of them did, and the audience showed its appreciation by frequent applause, especially at the text scene.

Between the two acts of the play came a song and chorus that were so beautifully given that the audience would not let the curtain remain when it was lowered.

"The Sentinel Asleep," was sung at the conclusion of the play, and several in the audience requested us to say that it had been a long time since they had heard anything more beautiful than this song.

The entertainment was concluded with tableaux, "Death of Virginia," and "Good Night," which were as lovely as we ever saw, and the eyes of all were to linger upon such pretty girls, so artfully arranged and shown to such advantage by the beautiful electric lights.

Miss Clara Bruce Forbes was piano accompanist for the entire entertainment and added much to its pleasure.

The entire credit for the preparation and presentation of this entertainment is due to Miss Minnie Quinn. She has tact and talent or such things as is always shown when she has given anything to the public. We know of no young woman who can do so much with them as Miss Minnie can, and it is hoped that she will often favor the public with some kind of exercises by the children.

The gross receipts of the entertainment were about $12.

The REFLECTOR has given a list of changes among the clerks in town, and today took another trip around the stores to note those staying on their old places, and let our readers know, as "Bo" Chery says, "what the stand-by is in the land of the living, doing business at the old stand."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2.

The beautiful garment of unanimity which clothed the republicans majority at the opening of Congress is being rent asunder during the holiday recess and there is reason to believe that when Congress meets again the republicans will be divided into two camps, one for the famous cats of Kentucky. Already there are the high protection wing and the moderate protection wing in the near future. The members who proposed the first named faction are, from conviction or the persuasion of their favored proteges, committed to the most extreme protection.

The second faction believes in some modifications of the House Philippine tariff bill because the tariff has been one of the wisest of the people in this matter and it is anticipated that when those congressmen who have spent the holidays in their districts return to Washington the sentiment will take definite form. Any effort to prove the attitude of the Navy Department will be largely opposed by the President who well knows that were a Congressional investigation undertaken, nothing could save from ignominious defeat the Secretary of the Navy and the entire clique which has assiduously persecuted Admiral Schley.

There is little doubt that the attitude of the people would be in favor of Congress to almost any length to vindicate Admiral Schley and expose those who have been responsible for his humiliation. On the other hand Mr. Roosevelt will lead his influence to prevent even the implied vindication of Schley which would result from Congress passing a bill giving him full pay, instead of the retired pay which he would otherwise draw.

The people of the United States will learn with relief that the little shipyard at Baltimore, which the factory the Brough & Horne company with their hand engine shop had a good steam pouring into the machine. They did fine work and deserve much praise. How fine company were also on hand promptly with their engine steamed out, but after taking the engine down to the house was again taken down for the house was, and by the time they got back the hand engine had practically put the fire out, so the steamer did not turn on a steam.

Part of the time the factory was full of smoke that it was hard for the firemen and others to stay in the building, but they all stuck to their places and a serious loss was averted.

An estimate of the loss sustained cannot be made yet, but it is covered by insurance. The only damage to the machine on the floor in it, and the damage to the factory, is the hanging in the factory. It is a pity that the monthly reports of the tax collector, police officers and committees were made and accepted, and several petitions for retail liquor licenses were granted. At demand J. L. Sagg voted against all liquor licenses.

An appropriation of $50 for the benefit of the Greenville Light Infantry was made. There was a spirited discussion over this appropriation, some of the members being in favor of the appropriation, and some of the members being in favor of the appropriation.

The Board of Aldermen met Friday night to complete the business of the monthly meeting in which they were interrupted by fire alarm Thursday night.

The discussion of the petition to open a retail fish and oyster house somewhere on Fifth street near Five Points was resumed. The matter was disposed of by referring it to the market committee. This will probably be the end of it, for if it ever comes back from the committee an address recommendation will likely accompany it.

We overlooked stating that on the first night of the meeting the special committee previously appointed to look into the advisability of making a photographic exhibit at the Charleston exposition, reported that they found space on the high project had been abandoned.

The street committee also reported that they had yet been unable to do anything relative to the straightening and opening side walks on Dickinson avenue, and further time was granted in which to look into the matter.

A few matters of minor importance were disposed of. Accounts amounting to $8 were allowed and ordered paid. Among the accounts presented was one from J. A. Bray for damage to his store by Christmas Eve fireworks, and one from Mrs. R. H. Horne for damage to furniture and clothing caused by a tree the town was having cut down near their residence falling on and crushing a portion of the house. These bills were referred to committees for investigation.

SMALL FIRE
In Machine in A. T. Co's Factory.

About 8:30 o'clock Thursday night while the night force at the American Tobacco Co. factory were at work drying a lot of soap tobacco and getting it ready for packing, flames were seen to burst through the top of the automatic drying machine. How the fire got in the machine is unaccountable, and why they advanced is only surmised. The stream which gave an alarm and the factory force went to work on the fire. All the steam possible from the boilers was turned into the machine and this kept the flames confined until the fire department arrived.

THE ALDERMEN.

Met Last Night to Complete Their Session.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2.

The beautiful garment of unanimity which clothed the republicans majority at the opening of Congress is being rent asunder during the holiday recess and there is reason to believe that when Congress meets again the republicans will be divided into two camps, one for the famous cats of Kentucky. Already there are the high protection wing and the moderate protection wing in the near future. The members who proposed the first named faction are, from conviction or the persuasion of their favored proteges, committed to the most extreme protection.

The second faction believes in some modifications of the House Philippine tariff bill because the tariff has been one of the wisest of the people in this matter and it is anticipated that when those congressmen who have spent the holidays in their districts return to Washington the sentiment will take definite form. Any effort to prove the attitude of the Navy Department will be largely opposed by the President who well knows that were a Congressional investigation undertaken, nothing could save from ignominious defeat the Secretary of the Navy and the entire clique which has assiduously persecuted Admiral Schley.

There is little doubt that the attitude of the people would be in favor of Congress to almost any length to vindicate Admiral Schley and expose those who have been responsible for his humiliation. On the other hand Mr. Roosevelt will lead his influence to prevent even the implied vindication of Schley which would result from Congress passing a bill giving him full pay, instead of the retired pay which he would otherwise draw.

The people of the United States will learn with relief that the little shipyard at Baltimore, which the factory the Brough & Horne company with their hand engine shop had a good steam pouring into the machine. They did fine work and deserve much praise. How fine company were also on hand promptly with their engine steamed out, but after taking the engine down to the house was again taken down for the house was, and by the time they got back the hand engine had practically put the fire out, so the steamer did not turn on a steam.

Part of the time the factory was full of smoke that it was hard for the firemen and others to stay in the building, but they all stuck to their places and a serious loss was averted.

An estimate of the loss sustained cannot be made yet, but it is covered by insurance. The only damage to the machine on the floor in it, and the damage to the factory, is the hanging in the factory. It is a pity that the monthly reports of the tax collector, police officers and committees were made and accepted, and several petitions for retail liquor licenses were granted. At demand J. L. Sagg voted against all liquor licenses.

An appropriation of $50 for the benefit of the Greenville Light Infantry was made. There was a spirited discussion over this appropriation, some of the members being in favor of the appropriation, and some of the members being in favor of the appropriation.

The Board of Aldermen met Friday night to complete the business of the monthly meeting in which they were interrupted by fire alarm Thursday night.

The discussion of the petition to open a retail fish and oyster house somewhere on Fifth street near Five Points was resumed. The matter was disposed of by referring it to the market committee. This will probably be the end of it, for if it ever comes back from the committee an address recommendation will likely accompany it.

We overlooked stating that on the first night of the meeting the special committee previously appointed to look into the advisability of making a photographic exhibit at the Charleston exposition, reported that they found space on the high project had been abandoned.

The street committee also reported that they had yet been unable to do anything relative to the straightening and opening side walks on Dickinson avenue, and further time was granted in which to look into the matter.

A few matters of minor importance were disposed of. Accounts amounting to $8 were allowed and ordered paid. Among the accounts presented was one from J. A. Bray for damage to his store by Christmas Eve fireworks, and one from Mrs. R. H. Horne for damage to furniture and clothing caused by a tree the town was having cut down near their residence falling on and crushing a portion of the house. These bills were referred to committees for investigation.

Only a few, special number of old maids and old bachelors, were invited, and if the whole universe had been there we could not have had a nicer time. For good old fun and a fine time generally, old maids and we other fellows just take the cake for we are old enough to know a good thing when we see it, and by no means too old to enjoy it. When Miss Laura comes home we are going to invite Mrs. Cox to invite us again, and we'll be there.

Comrades were Once About to Bury Col. Cowley.

Colonel W. H. Cowley was once saved from a death by the sword, but he was killed and was once prepared for burial during the war between the States. Col. J. D. Cardwell, of Columbia, S. C., said he passed the litter on which Col. Cowley was stretched out for dead, an old soldier digging over his body and the soldiers digging the grave to bury Cowley and several other dead soldiers. But the colored revived and did not occupy the grave that had been prepared for him, though he carried all his life a hole in his head as a mark of the terrible wound. He and Colonel Cardwell went 20 years after the war and the latter said it was a pity that a dead of a generation before had suddenly come to life.

It is told that years after the war Colonel Cowley sought out the grave of the man who had received the wound that he would have borne and erected a monument over his grave with this inscription: "Greater love hath no man than this that he give his life for his friend."—Baltimore Sun.
