CONDENSED STORIES. How the Committee on Military Af-fairs Got an Appetite.

"Will you lunch with me at the country club?" asked Secretary Root, and all the members of the committee on military affairs said

Yes."
If some of the committeemen had only known where the Country club is situated, this story could not be told. As it was, they immediately concluded that the Country club and the Cheyy Chase club were one and the same, and out to the Chevy, they arrived they learned that the country club was another place enirely. "It is over there," said the Chevy Chase steward, waving his and indefinitely toward the west-

Senator Hawley and Representative Jett, reconnoitering along the highway, bargained with a passing yokel for a horse that was knockthat seemed about to drop to pieces, like the old one hoss shay. They rode off in triumph. No other vehiele being in sight, Representatives Mondell, Brick, Prince, Ketcham and half a dozen more started on a tramp across the Chevy Chase golf course and finally reached the Ten-rallytown road.
"How often do the cars run?"

asked Mondell, hailing a native. "Once every hour, and one has just gone down," said the unfeeling citizen, grinning with delight.
