Poetry. THE OLD ARM CHAIR. ELIZA COOK. I love it, I love it! and who shall dare To chide me for loving that old arm chair?

the fields, the waving masses of garden truck, and the fresh scent of the grass. All was new, like to an unexplored world, to him.

But Teddy did not stir. There was a troubled look in his eyes. Johnson turned again and asked, a little impatiently: "What you thinking about? Come on and eat."

Selected Story. Teddy Burke.

He was a gamin on the street. His clothing was not much to speak of, and the soft morning wind blew through them with the greatest freedom.

He replaced the pennies in his pocket and started toward Whitehall street. When he reached it he stopped to look at some horses standing at Hamilton ferry waiting for the gate to open.

"I guess dem is torobreds," he soliloquized, and turned to go up town and purchase his papers, when one of the men in charge of the horses shouted: "Hello, there, you boy. Do you want a job?"

"Dat's a whack," said he, and giving a leg to the man was hoisted on the back of a race horse in transit from Baltimore to Sheepshead Bay track.

The journey was an uneventful one in one sense and an eventful one in another. The boy was asked his name and he gave it. Teddy Burke was all the name he knew of, though it might have been anything else, as he didn't remember his father or mother.

"What do you do for a living?" asked the trainer, who rode alongside.

"I sills papers and does anything what I cau for to make a few cents. I sleep in the dock."

"How would you like to be a stable boy and learn to be a jockey?" kindly asked his employer.

"Just as leave do that as not. Any money in it?" "I'll give you $3 a week and board, and by and by, when you learn to ride, you can make hundreds of dollars in a week."

who was present did all in his power to resuscitate him. Teddy opened his eyes and gazed wildly about. They rested on Arcola's owner.

As promised in my last, I write you now, giving you a few points as to my opinion of Dawson, and this portion of Georgia.

In size, Dawson is a little larger than Greenville, and contains about the same number of inhabitants.

There are a few of the points in which Greenville excels Dawson, and now I will tell wherein this town is ahead of you all.

Beaufort Record: One of the menhaden crews put their nets around a school of blue fish last week and caught about 225 barrels or more and then distributed the remainder to the poor, the lame, the lazy, the halt and the blind.

Raleigh News & Observer: Applications have been made to the Governor for permission to organize military companies at the following places: Reidsville, (the second at that place) Plymouth, Winston, Lumberbridge, Cumberland county, Warrenton, Newberne (colored company) all infantry.

Beware of Old Corks.

"It is strange," said a physician the other day, "that in spite of the great interest taken nowadays in the purity of food and drink, no one calls attention to an abuse that is as dangerous as it is dirty."

In fertility I think the lands in Pitt county and Eastern Carolina are far ahead of any I have seen in Georgia, but the farmers here use much more fertilizers and work harder than do ours.

Industry, sobriety, honesty and economy are the weapons to fight poverty. A man who has a good share of these qualities can own land if he wants it; without these, land will not prevent poverty.

There is a vast deal of truth in the old saying that "every man is the architect of his own fortune."

Smart men like Henry George can easily make men believe that their poverty is attributable to some one else's conduct; they are half inclined to believe this any way.

But after all, common sense suggests that nine-tenths of the cases of extreme poverty are brought about by the conduct of those thus afflicted.—New Berne Journal.

An Exchange says. Ministers sometimes report how many sermons they have preached in a year, how many pastoral calls they have made, how many miles traveled, and the aggregate looks very big.

She reports: "During my 'vacation' I have made one hundred and twenty pounds of butter, milked and skimmed one thousand three hundred and forty-four quarts, got up about one hundred and twenty-two meals, and made one hundred and thirty beds."

Now how would it do for other women about the end of the year, to present to their husbands or fathers a classified numerical account of their labors?—Monroe Enquirer-Express.

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 2, 1887.

GREENVILLE, N. C., AS SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.]

It is said that Governor Lee, of Virginia, will be at the Weldon Fair this week.

That the population of the world is rapidly increasing is shown from a computation of the birth and death rates for the world at large.
The birth rate is put down at 79 a minute while the death-rate is 68 a minute, leaving a gain of something over one million people every year.

The weather and the fairs appear to be very much against each other this year. Thus far every fair has been ushered in with rain.
As an old dakey is quoted in the in the Raleigh News & Observer:
"Ole Marster's jes' hittin' 'em right and left. I believe dar's sumfin wrong wid dese fairs."

We occasionally stumble over a peculiar specimen of mankind whose ideas seem very far-fetched, and one of the rich cases recently read about is a man in Boston who was accused of selling cigars on Sunday and pleaded that he had a right to sell them because tobacco is a drug. He was fined $10 for the offence and appealed to a higher court.

It seems that dreadful scourges are threatening the country on various sides, and if there ever was a time when thorough sanitation is needed and every precaution taken to prevent the spread of disease, it is now. Cholera has been discovered on board another vessel in New York harbor and a few deaths have occurred. Last week the yellow fever at Tampa, Fla., was reported to be increasing and causing more alarm. It is hoped, however, that the early approach of cold weather will abate that.
And on the 25th ulto. three cases of small pox were discovered on board a ship at Savannah, Georgia.
Should either of these dread diseases get a hold upon the cities and towns of the nation direful results would follow.

This Ends Our Say.

Last week's Washington Progress devoted just three and a half columns to "scoring" the RE-FLECTOR for what we in former issues had said of that paper's misrepresentations and "jesting" business. As our brother was kind enough to publish all that the REFLECTOR had said in connection therewith any further comment upon the whole of it is deemed unnecessary. We are perfectly willing for the articles to stand for themselves in comparison with the comments of the Progress, for we doubt not that every unbiased reader of that paper who made close comparison has already discovered its inconsistencies and discrepancies. Nor will the REFLEC-TOR notice the matter further save briefly upon just three points and then we have done.

First—The Progress seems imbued with the idea that all the REFLECTOR has said was prompted by a spirit of malice and enmity. We hasten to correct that. No such feeling has ever existed. It is not necessary that a man should lose his friendship for another because he wills to speak out independently and fearlessly.

Second—The Progress tries to maintain the argument that the bitter with the Gazette was only "jesting" notwithstanding the fact that we published a statement from the editor of the latter paper to the contrary. It further declares its lack of knowledge as to how far Mr.
Latham was responsible for what was attributed to him, when at the same time the Progress was in possession of a written statement from Mr. Latham that the REFLECTOR had reported him correctly and he endorsed it.

Third—Concerning the "figure head" business, to which we referred and about which the Progress said it did not know our informant, we simply say that our principal informant was from Mr. Jacobson himself, which perhaps he will remember by reverting his mind to a conversation we had in the Merchant's Hotel in Washington last spring. However it may be that he was only "jesting."

There is no use in saying more.
We are glad to learn that Mr.
Jacobson is editing the Progress, a fact that he also should have discovered sooner and not "jest" with other papers.

And yet he acknowledges not being responsible for what the Progress had previously said, then denounces us for commenting upon what it had said, even after we had declared that our remarks were not intended for Mr. Jacobson, but intended for the Progress whoever its editor might be, and in consequence of what it had hitherto contained. Of course a paper that does not bear the name of its editor always has something to hide behind, even if it is a "jest."

There is an old saying that "If you lie down with a dog you may expect to get fleas on you." So the low and undignified things the Progress has said about the REFLECTOR are no more than might have been expected by our condescending to notice it.
But we suppose it was only "jesting," therefore under no circumstances shall we notice it further.

Thanksgiving Day.

It has become a very beautiful custom to set apart one day in every year as a time for general thanksgiving to Almighty God for His bounteous mercy and loving kindness to the human race. Every heart should rejoice at the approach of such a day—rejoice that it is our privilege to lift our hearts to God and reverently, sincerely thank Him for the manifold blessings we enjoy.
How much there is that we should be thankful for! Life, health, strength, prosperity and thousands of blessings and comforts are bestowed by Him who daily watches over us. After all, what are the few feeble thanks man can offer as compared to the goodness of God? Just think how much worse our lot could be, then more than we deserve be left! It behooves us to be ever thankful, and not forget Him who in a moment could deprive us of all we have. Below we publish the proclamation by the President setting apart Thursday, the 24th inst. as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.
This injunction from the Chief Executive of our Commonwealth should be truly complied with.
We hope Greenville will prepare to give the day due observance.
More will be said upon this subject as the day draws nearer.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

"The goodness and mercy of God which has followed the American people during all the days of the past year claim their grateful recognition and humble acknowledgement. By His omnipotent power He has protected us from war and pestilence and from every national calamity. By His gracious favor the earth has given a generous return to the labor of the husbandman and every path of honest toil has led to comfort and contentment. By His loving kindness the hearts of our people have been replenished with fraternal sentiment and patriotic endeavor and by His unerring guidance we have been directed in the way of National prosperity.
To the end that we may with one accord testify our gratitude for all these blessings, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 24th day of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer, to be observed by all the people of the land.

On that day let all secular work and employment be suspended, and let our people assemble in their accustomed places of worship and with prayer and songs of praise give thanks to our Heavenly Father for all that He has done for us, while we humbly implore the forgiveness of our sins and the continuance of His mercy. Let families and kindred be required to attend worship on that day, and let their hearts, filled with kindly cheer and affectionate reminiscence, be turned in thankfulness to the source of all their pleasures and the Giver of all that makes the day glad and joyous; and in the midst of our worship and our happiness, let us remember the poor, the needy and the unfortunate, and by our gifts of charity and ready benevolence, let us increase the number of those who, with grateful hearts, shall join in our thanksgiving.

In witness whereof I have set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed.
Done at our city of Washington, this, the 25th day of October, the year of our Lord 1887, and of the Independence of the United States the 112th.
GROVER CLEVELAND.

By the President:
Thos. W. Bayard Sec'y of State.

Encourage Young Men.

The REFLECTOR would like to see what rightfully belongs to North Carolina reentered into her.
"Give unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's." It would like to see the strength of the youth of the State put forward and push the State onward to the place she ought to hold. It seems at first glance that this rightfully belongs to her—that whatever of talent, of ability, of energy and of vim the young men of North Carolina possess, should be exerted towards advancing her name and fame. This seems but her just due for whatever they are North Carolina has made them and it would seem that their first thought their first effort, should be for her.
Yes, this is so. But what does the State offer them in the way of inducements? As much as any State or country in the world.
That has been so often presented to our readers we deem it useless to again do so. But there is one thing very striking in the treatment they receive, and that is the manner in which young men are treated by their elders. They receive no recognition for their services, for their efforts, from those who are in a position to do so. Politically, for instance, a young man gets no credit, no recognition for his services to the party his convictions have led him to join. His elders and superiors (in point of position only) almost entirely ignore him and he has only the consciousness of duty well done to solace and comfort his spirits. This is all good and proper in theory; but young men are human after all and the best of humanity like to see that their services are appreciated. The young men of our State have to remain in the rear while some old political favorite, for the simple reason, perhaps, that he is a favorite, is pushed to the front and the young men, many of whom may be more deserving are expected to shout and hurrah and elect him. If they complain of this manifest injustice they are told that the success of their party demands this course of action and because it is politic they must keep silent; being thoroughly imbued with a love for party and profound spirit of patriotism that they place paramount to all else, they are easily silenced.
Should this be done? Is it any wonder, with such treatment, that the best of our young men are not content with North Carolina and are seeking homes elsewhere. Appropos the above, we clip the following from that sterling old paper, the Fayetteville Observer, and its intelligent editor, Haigh, has never been more correct in his deduc-tion than at present:

"There is no paper in the State that desires more to see our young men remain at home than the Observer, for in the past twenty years nearly all of our young men have invariably shown that their training was good and that they were made of the right stuff. But while we hate to see them go, we are satisfied that if they had remained at home, that the energy they have shown would have never been developed. It is a rare instance, when one stays in the place of his birth, unless he has qualities greater than the majority, that he rises to any degree of prominence—he remains until he reaches near the meridian of life—the same boy—and with rarely a handle to his name, he is not liked of all, and consequently there are as many to pull him down as to raise him up—and consequently he remains in statu quo. Besides this the incentive to work is not as great when one stays at home as when one goes away to battle with the world and to bring forth his latent energies. "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country" is as true to-day as when first uttered."

Such cannot continue without seriously endangering the good the prosperity, the development and the wealth of our State.
Shall the young men push themselves to the front without regard of who or what suffers? We would not so advise. Such a course might do untold harm.
What then shall be done? They should receive the recognition they merit. Their efforts should be encouraged and no one should get the credit for doing what they have not. Keep them here—here in the "Old North State," the home of our fathers, the graves of our mothers, the place of our birth, the dearest spot on earth to each and all, the land endeared to every native heart by the devotion, the sacrifice, the heroism of our forefathers, made sacred by the heroic blood that, at duty's call, flowed like water in defense of our sacred rights, our honor and our liberty. If they are needed now, to put their shoulder, mighty in the strength of young manhood, of youthful ardor, and patriotic fire and enthusiasm, to the wheels and roll this glorious old commonwealth, "the noblest Roman of them all," on to the position she should rightfully and properly occupy in the Sisterhood of States—in the Nation's bright galaxy of Stars hers should be not less bright than the rest, should be untarnished by the rust of inactivity and not veiled by the curtain of illiteracy.

And to the young men alone we must look for these results. They assume the responsibility for our State's future. They should receive a just recognition of their talent and abilities and should be made to feel that upon them devolves a great responsibility. Treat them fairly and there will be no need of preaching "stay at home" to them. They are not blind to North Carolina's resources—nor to her disadvantages, either.

November. Mud everywhere. Tarboro fair begins next Tuesday.

Superior Court in Wilson this week.

The eleventh month of 1887 is with us.

Sloppy does not begin to express it.

You can now look out for wintry weather.

Another big fresher in the Tar this week.

No, there is not much cotton in town this week.

Is it a blizzard we've been having this week?

The Thanksgiving turkey now goes up to fatten.

After all a circus has struck the State to the West of us.

Plenty of mud on the streets with numerous bad crossings.

Personal Mr. J. J. Harris is quite sick.

Mr. John James has been quite sick for a week.

The wife and son of Mr. Jobb Tyson are both quite sick.

Hon. L. C. Latham returned Saturday from across the Sound.

Miss Margie Garret, of Plymouth is visiting Mrs. Charles Skinner.

Hon. Louis Hilliard, of Norfolk, was in town a day or two of the past week.

Mr. L. H. Wilson, our Register of Deeds, is attending Court in Jones county this week.

Messrs. J. M. King, E. A. Moyer and D. W. Winstead attended the Richmond fair last week.

Miss Havens Cherry has accepted a clerkship at the Racket Store of Messrs. Ryan and Redding.

Mr. Moses Ellick, who for some time was a clerk in the store of Mr. A. Arnheim, left last Thursday for Richmond.

The examinations for the first quarter of the present session of Greenville Institute begin to-day.

Preparations are beginning for the holiday trade. One of the prime things to do is advertise.

It has become popular to hold fairs in the rain. It has a decidedly dampening effect upon ribbons and races.

Another issue of the REFLECTOR gets into the hands of its readers there will be a wedding. Don't all ask at once.

The daily issue of the Raleigh News and Observer has been enlarged. That paper has improved in many ways of late.

In November we have five Tuesdays and five Wednesdays, so you may look for the REFLECTOR five times during this month.

Last week was a rough one on housekeepers. The weather was bad, the market stalls closed and provisions in great demand.

It may be hard times with a dearth of money, but we would have you bear in mind there is no scarcity of mud just at this time.

The REFLECTOR returns thanks for a complimentary ticket to the Weldon fair which began yesterday and continues through the 4th.

The Greenville Guard received an invitation to attend the Tarboro fair next week. We are sorry to learn that the company cannot attend.

The Raleigh Evening Visitor has lately begun a new volume. It reaches us in the morning but every visit is nevertheless greatly enjoyed.

We learn that a family in town has two very sick members who are in need of attention from the ladies. We publish this, feeling sure the necessary attention will be given at once.

This is November. We emphasize this from the fact that a young lady who received a letter from Greenville about two weeks ago, which was dated November 21st, sends us a request to publish the coming of the month as soon as "it gets there."

Who wrote that advanced letter? is the question.

Another Curiosity Mr. J. G. Sheppard, of Beaver Dam township, brought a very large bone into town, one day last week, which had been taken from a marl pit upon his plantation.

The bone was of a peculiar shape, weighed 37 pounds and is thought to have belonged to some animal or fish—probably a whale—of centuries ago.

Bad to Worse The weather pays no attention to the indications that are wired every day. Three times during the past week the signals called for fair weather but it failed to put in an appearance.

On Monday, one of the days when a fair weather report was received, we had rain, snow and everything else but fair weather.

Why Not Published We received Saturday a communication from a subscriber at Vanceboro relative to the shooting affair in the Church near Gardner's X Roads. The facts, as this correspondent who was an eye witness send them, are substantially the same as we published last week, hence the communication is useless. Thanks, to you "Witness," just the same.

Deaths The infant child of Mr. James Speight of this town, died on Thursday last week. Our sympathies are extended.

Mr. Aaron Morris, of Tarboro, aged 71 years, died Wednesday night of last week. He was the father of Mrs. A. Arnheim, of this town. Our people sympathize with Mrs. Arnheim in this severe grief.

Mr. J. W. Tucker, a citizen of this town, died of rheumatism of the heart on last Friday morning. He was about sixty years of age and had been a sufferer from rheumatism for some time. His death was unexpected, however, as he had only been confined two or three days. The remains were taken to the family burial grounds, about five miles from town, for interment. The family have our sympathy in their bereavement.

The Weather We have made no special observation in that direction during our day, but heard a man of advanced years say, the other day, that this rainy spell was the worst he had ever noted in October.

Truly the weather has been on the extreme and for ten days not a ray of sunshine has been enjoyed. Rivers are overflowed, creeks and small streams all swollen, and the public roads—well, they are just dreadful to look upon.

Immediately after this sermon Dr. Huffman announced that it was the desire of the Union to dedicate the church building at Bethel which had just been completed, but that a debt of $700, that remained upon it must first be raised. After a brief statement upon the workings of this church since its organization last March with fourteen members, and of the efforts put forth and the trials they had undergone to push the house to completion, he proceeded to ask for subscriptions. Every body knows the result of matters of this kind that fall into the hands of Dr. Huffman, and it was but a short while before $25 more than was asked for had been secured and the house was duly dedicated to the use of Almighty God.

The little flock at Bethel truly have done noble and excellent work. The building they have erected in such a short time is a beautiful one. Complete in every arrangement, splendidly located, elegantly furnished, large, commodious and comfortable, it is indeed an ornament to the town and section.

We have not in a long time seen two such happy men as were Mr. W. A. James, Jr., who had been the mainstay of the work during its progress, and Rev. G. W. Dowell, the pastor in charge, when the debt was all raised and the building dedicated. And the hearts of all were united with them in their rejoicings.

Sunday night Rev. J. A. Leslie preached an excellent sermon which the congregation greatly enjoyed.

The next Union will be held with the church at Rocky Mount, beginning Friday before the fifth Sunday in January.

And now a word about Bethel and her citizens. It was the unanimous expression of the visitors to the Union that the hospitality of the town could not have been surpassed. The citizens threw open their doors and cordially invited all to come in and be at home. The people were so kind that many of us felt an inclination to wish that we were so constituted as to be able to accept of all their hospitalities at once.

The editor is under obligations to many friends there, and especially to the family of Dr. R. J. Grimes, Mrs. J. L. Nelson and Mr. W. A. James, Jr. The latter is proprietor of the Bethel Hotel, and we do not believe a more generous hearted, hospitable man ever lived.

While in the town we spent a short while among the business men, and are glad to note the material prosperity of Bethel goes steadily onward. The town has several prosperous merchants, and some energetic cotton buyers. It also has good schools, something no prosperous town can afford to be without. We look for great things from Bethel's future.

Burr! Just before getting the REFLECTOR in press the sun made its appearance, for the first time in ten days. We hope the back bone of the bad weather is broken.

At 2:30 o'clock, p. m., Dr. J. D. Huffman spoke upon "The History of the Baptists, their work and future prospects." Those who know what an earnest speaker, profound thinker and ripe scholar Dr. Huffman is, and the pathos with which the words of peace and love fall from his lips, can well imagine the feast enjoyed by his hearers.

At night Rev. K. E. Peele preached from St. John 1, 5 and 12 "And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." His style of preaching is different from that of any minister to whom we ever listened. He uses many plain, practical illustrations, but in none of them does he lose sight of the truth to be conveyed, and his words carry great force with them.

Sunday morning at 9:30 the discussion was upon "Sunday Schools—why the Baptists believe in them." This was led by Rev. Mr. Peele, followed by Mr. Whitley, of Hamilton, and several others. At 11 o'clock Rev. J. W. Wildman preached, his subject being the incident of the widow casting her two mites into the treasury. This sermon was an excellent one, as was also the one he delivered on Friday night. We heard numerous compliments paid him, and it was frequently remarked, that the Greenville Church was fortunate in having such an able minister.

Advertisements J. A. Bynum offers land for sale. We will tell you something next week in connection with the new advertisement of Higgs & Munford, on first page.

We failed last week to call attention to the advertisement of J. L. Nelson, who offers carriage shops at Kingston for rent. Be sure to read the advertisement.

Among our professional cards this week will be found the name of James M. Norlett, attorney-at-law. He has moved into the office adjoining Messrs. Tucker & Murphy where those desiring his professional services can find him. His insurance business will also be carried on at his new office.

Capturing a Wild Hog. Mr. W. R. Whichard, of Pactolus township, writes us under date of Oct. 28th, concerning the killing of a wild hog in his field. We will let him tell it in his own words:

"I guess you remember the story of the colored man, in regard to the wild hog, when you were at our house last week. Well that hog (or those hogs, for there were two) came in my field every alternate night, and for the last three or four nights Claude and I have been paying our best respects to them; not with any success however, till last night. So last night, as it was very rainy, we concluded to try our luck in the rain, and took our overcoats and guns, and sure enough found them in. We set the dogs upon their track and soon had them at bay, when a brisk little engagement ensued, which lasted 15 or 20 minutes, during which six shots were fired and two caps popped. We captured one, but as we had but one dog the other escaped, not without having two or three shots fired at him as he went, however. The one captured weighed 171 lbs dressed.

The Union at Bethel. The editor left Greenville last Friday afternoon, in company with Rev. J. W. Wildman (by the way of parenthesis let us here return thanks to Mr. P. Matthews for the kind use of his conveyance to make the journey) to attend the meeting of the Roanoke Union of the Tar River Association, held with the Baptist Church at Bethel. The Union commenced at 10 o'clock, a. m. but we only arrived in time for the night service therefore heard none of the discussions during the day. The ministers present were Rev. G. W. Dowell, of Hamilton, who was Moderator of the meeting, Dr. J. D. Huffman, of Scotland Neck, Revs. C. L. Dowell, of Williamston, J. A. Leslie, of Tarboro, J. W. Wildman, of Greenville and R. E. Peele, of Conococtary. There were also many members from the different churches.

Friday night Rev. J. W. Wildman preached from the words "Be ye faithful even unto death." Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the discussions were again taken up, the first subject being "The need of the Church." This was led by Rev. C. L. Dowell, followed by Rev. J. W. Wildman. The next subject was "Foreign Missions, what Baptists are doing for them," led by Rev. J. A. Leslie, followed by Rev. J. W. Wildman. These questions were ably discussed and the views of each speaker presented in an interesting and edifying manner.

At 2:30 o'clock, p. m., Dr. J. D. Huffman spoke upon "The History of the Baptists, their work and future prospects." Those who know what an earnest speaker, profound thinker and ripe scholar Dr. Huffman is, and the pathos with which the words of peace and love fall from his lips, can well imagine the feast enjoyed by his hearers.

Notice! To My FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS—I deem it but just to you and myself to inform you that I have no connection with another establishment, and if you wish me to repair your Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc., you should be careful that it is delivered to me individually. My long experience as a practical workman is well known to all. Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, and Spectacles for sale and repaired in a skillful and workman-like manner. Thanking you for past favors I hope, by strict attention to business, to merit a continuance of the same. Respectfully, A. J. Griffin, Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Engraver. At the old stand!
