"COULD YE COME BACK TO ME, DOUGLAS DOUGLAS."

MISS MULLOCK, AUTHOR OF "JOHN HALE, FAX, GENTLEMAN."

Could ye come back to me, Douglas, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

In the old likeness that I knew; I would be so faithful, so loving, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

Oh to call back the days that are not! My eyes were blinded, your words were few;

Do you know the truth now up in heaven, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true?

I never was worthy of you, Douglas, Not half worthy the like of you; Now all men beside seem to me like shadows, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

Stretch out your hand to me, Douglas, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

Drop forgiveness from heaven like dew; As I lay my hand on your dead hair, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

Selected Story.

The Letter.

It was at Saint-Valery-en-Caux, during the bathing season, that Mme. Alice Vivien first met Roger de Beaumont.

Roger was finding the hours quite tedious at that domestic resort.

He had noticed Mme. Vivien, who was, by far, the prettiest of all the fair bathers at the place, and he thought that courting her would be a very pleasant way of varying the monotonous life he was leading.

Mme. Vivien dwelt in a pretty cottage by the seashore. Her husband, detained in Paris by his business, could only manage to come down once a week and remain with her from Saturday to Monday.

At the age of seventeen she had been married to Mr. Vivien, a gentleman 35 years of age, whose devotion to her was a blending of love with fatherly tenderness.

She was an honest, upright woman, who would have repulsed Roger de Beaumont had he begun to make love to her.

But the young man was too shrewd to proceed this way. He understood the young woman's ingenuous heart, and he endeavored to gain her confidence by slow degrees.

He was the ideal of her most secret thoughts; in a month's time he had gained her love, even before she herself was aware of it.

Roger himself was beginning to take an interest in the game he was playing. He even felt a growing passion for that adorable and artless young woman, and one evening, while with her at the pier-head, where they had gone to enjoy the breeze, he exclaimed, in a voice full of emotion:

"I love you!" She tried to make him hush, to show that she was offended; but he, whose ardor and boldness seemed heightened by the charm and poetry of the delightful evening, continued, in a passionate tone:

"I loved you since the first day I saw you! And you love me, too! I know it, I feel it! Only let me worship you. Don't avoid me, don't repulse me."

"Hush! for Heaven's sake, hush!" "Oh! do not answer me in that way; me, who adore you; let me hope that you will say that you love me!"

As he looked at her she seemed ready to faint; shining tears dropped were welling in her eyes, and her little hand quivered like a captive bird.

"Let me go," said she in a voice scarcely audible. He escorted her to her gate, and, bowing low, he said: "I shall expect an answer; it will be a sentence of death or a command to live."

An avowal would perhaps have escaped from Alice's lips had not the noise of footsteps and the sound of voices fallen on her ear.

Dreading to be seen, and already as timorous as a guilty person, the young woman withdrew and hastily entered the house.

"I love him, too! I love him!" murmured she, and remembering how anxiously the young man had wished for an avowal of her love, feeling her heart overflowing, she hastily wrote with a feverish hand:

"Roger, I love you, and shall impatiently wait for to-morrow, ALICE."

She smiled while thinking of the gladness that would fill Roger's heart when he read her letter, and, notwithstanding the lateness of the hour, she hastened out to drop it in the letter box.

husband, so confiding and loving. The next day, from the moment she awoke, she had but one thought, to get back her letter.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon she went to the casino, where she was sure to find Roger, who, as soon as he saw her, advanced with outstretched hand, his eyes beaming with triumphal joy.

"Sir," said she, "yesterday I had a moment of folly; forget it, please. I do not love you, I wear it. I shall never love you—no never!" Roger, disappointed, looked at her, a wicked smile playing about his lips.

"You are an adorable capricious woman," said he, somewhat insolently, to conceal his vexation.

"Oh, sir, do not be unkind. Please give me back my letter I so foolishly sent you!" "But I appreciate your letter very much. It is charming!"

"Sir, I am a faithful wife and I love my husband."

The young man smiled again, and leaning toward Alice he looked straight into her eyes as he said:

"I haven't your letter with me. I carelessly locked it up at home." The young woman stepped back instinctively.

"Be generous, for heaven's sake! Do what I ask. I do not wish to see you again. Send me back my letter, I beseech you. Return it to me through the postoffice."

She begged him with clasped hands, her face pale with anguish.

"Perhaps!" replied the young man, deliberately, bowing gracefully as he started off.

She felt like following him, to tell him how angry she was, but some of her friends coming up, she was obliged to stop and talk to them about indifferent and frivolous matters while her very soul was tortured by impatience and feelings of shame.

It was Thursday, and she thought of leaving the next day, as soon as she got her letter back, picturing to herself the happiness she would feel in rejoining her husband.

She slept very badly, at times certain that Roger would return her letter, and, at others, dreading that he would not do so, especially when she remembered his insolent, ironical look.

About 6 in the morning just as the fatigue brought on by her emotion was setting her asleep, she was awakened with a start by the sound of hurried footsteps.

Some one rapped at the door. "Alice, it is I," called out Mr. Vivien's joyful voice.

She hastened to let him in, exclaiming with transport: "Why, is it you already? I was not expecting you for two days yet?"

"I wished to surprise you. I was able to finish all my business a little ahead of time, but did not dare send you word, as I was afraid that at the last moment something might have sprung up to detain me in Paris."

The young woman's heart was overflowing with happiness in being again with her husband, who loved her so tenderly, while at the same time it was oppressed with feelings of shame and remorse.

All of a sudden she gave a start; the clock was striking 8; the postman would soon arrive with newspapers and letters, and among them would be that cursed letter of hers.

She would have been glad to find some excuse to send her husband off, but ideas flitted so rapidly through her mind that she could grasp no single one. With her eyes fixed on the clock, she could only repeat to herself: "The postman is coming with my letter!"

"I am hungry!" said Mr. Vivien. "Suppose we go down to breakfast. I have been traveling since midnight."

And both went down together. As luck would have it, the postman was behind time that morning. To Alice, the voice of her husband sounded as it would have done in a distant dream, as she pictured to herself the row that was going to take place.

She looked at him eating so heartily, his eyes beaming with tenderness and confidence, and she thought how soon all that quiet happiness would vanish, and all through her fault.

At last she heard the postman's footstep, and soon after, the servant laid the mail on the table.

Mr. Vivien looked mechanically at the envelopes; there were three letters.

Alice, overcome with terror, felt the blood coursing through her temples and buzzing through her ears as she closed her eyes, almost ready to faint away.

"Who writes to you in this place?" asked her husband, handing her a small, scented envelope addressed in a strange handwriting.

"I don't know," stammered she. "Look and see." But Alice held her letter withdrawn to open it.

letter?" insisted Mr. Vivien. Then, with a movement of despair, she abruptly handed him the letter, saying:

"Read it yourself!" and she awaited, expecting to see every thing fall to pieces about her.

She heard the noise of tearing paper, and then, after a few seconds of mortal agony, her husband said:

"The letter is signed Roger de Beaumont. He is secretary of a benevolent committee, and requests your aid in raising funds for the orphans."

A few days later Mr. Vivien took Alice back to Paris. The young woman had not seen anything of Roger, and she was terribly worried by the thought that her letter had remained in the young man's possession.

The remembrance of that letter became the torture of her life.

At times she would have a crazy notion of throwing herself at her husband's feet and acknowledging her moment of folly, but she was terrified at the thought that it might destroy their quiet happiness. Another fear also oppressed her and choked down the avowal that her overburdened heart wished to make.

"Will my husband really believe that man obtained only those few lines of love from me?"

She would occasionally see Roger at the play, at the race or on the promenade; in looking at her he would always smile in such a mocking way that she would tremble from shame and anguish.

Ten years went by in this way. At last, they met by chance one evening at a grand ball. Roger came forward to engage Alice for a dance. It was only by superhuman effort that she did not faint, but on reflecting that she would perhaps never again have an opportunity of speaking to the man who held her honor, nay even her life, in his hands, she accepted his invitation.

"Sir," said she in a low voice, "for heaven's sake have pity on me this time. Give me back my peace of mind. During the past ten years of my life I have been tortured almost to death. For pity's sake, return the letter which I so foolishly wrote to you."

Roger burst out in a loud, careless laugh, while the woman stood panting with impatience and anger.

At last he answered frankly, his voice still ringing full of fun:

"Why, do you think that I have been keeping all the love letters that I received during my life? On my honor, I swear it, I lighted my cigar with your very day you left the seaside, when I saw that all hope was lost."—Translated from the French of Morand for The Times-Democrat.

"Git There."

Shelby Aurora.

The editor of Aurora paid fifty cents to hear, last Thursday, Sam Jones lecture in his quaint and racy style from the text "Git There" in the Atlantic Baptist church, over which the famous Rev. Dr. Hawthorne is pastor.

From the first sentence to the close of an hour's address his crowded audience was held captive by his magical power, wit, sarcasm, invective, slang, pathos and anecdotes.

He is a "daisy," a rara avis, without a peer in his peculiar style; he is Sam Jones indelible. Some may call him a crank, a lunatic, a slang slinger, but he "gits there" all the same; he is a genius who can draw a larger crowd than any other man in America.

"Why," "how," "what is his forte?" are questions I cannot answer. A small, dark-skinned, black-eyed, modest looking man, with a black mustache, black hair and a wiry active body weighing 135 pounds, began with no oratorical gushes, his desultory rambling lecture which provoked frequent laughter and loud applause in the church.

He is a magnet that attracts you, yet you would condemn his slang, and disapprove his style which pleases the populace. He is a power in the land, but he degrades the pulpit. He is doing a nobler and grander work than any other minister in South therefore we must overlook some of his character.

The sun has large spots on its disk; then let us be lenient to the dark spots of Sam Jones, whose brilliant light points man to a nobler and purer life above.

We have on our books the names of subscribers who have been taking the paper for three and four years, and have never paid a cent for it—Covard Times.

Our brother has more patience than we. There may be a few men who would read a newspaper on four years' credit, and then pay for it, but where one will, how many won't! An instance would strike us with the force of a prize out of the Louisiana Lottery.—Hendersonville Times.

Washington Letter.

Special cor. to REFLECTOR. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29th, '87

After resting a few days, to recuperate from the exhaustion of the great tour of nearly 5,000 miles through seventeen States, the President, with characteristic energy and earnestness, has resumed his public duties—being now chiefly engaged in studying the various annual reports of the different Federal Departments with a view to preparing his message to Congress.

There are at least three important officers to be appointed by the Executive soon—Supreme Court Justice, First Assistant Secretary of State, and Minister to Mexico.

Congressmen are coming into the Capital on nearly every train and those not now en route will probably be packing their baggage soon.

All of the Cabinet have returned from their vacation, and are diligently at work, and the Supreme Court has been in session several weeks—the docket containing a remarkable number of interesting cases.

In fact, I may say that the National Capital, pleased at the prospect of all the wheels of the Government resuming their revolution, is throwing off the air of dullness that, to some extent, has encompassed it since the close of the short session of Congress, and all Washington is delighted that the long term, which will probably continue far into next summer, is near at hand, for you must know that the presence of the National Legislature is almost the life of this beautiful city.

Recognizing the fact that Washington has again become the great centre of news and politics, the newspaper correspondents are flocking in and resuming their work on the famous thoroughfare which is familiarly known as "newspaper row."

One of the Senate Committees is already in session—that of which Senator Cockrell is chairman, which was appointed to investigate and report upon the methods of conducting business in the departments. Each bureau has made a detached report of the class of work done by it, and the manner of doing it—making altogether, after being carefully condensed, two volumes of convenient size.

One gratifying result of this investigation is the discovery that all of the work is much nearer up to date than when the Democratic Administration came into power.

The information thus gleaned, if it serves no other good purpose, will be useful as a book of reference to those not familiar with the methods of conducting the public business.

In Republican platforms and newspapers one frequently sees the brazen assertion that no rasals have been turned out, and no government money found missing under the Democratic regime, when, as a matter of fact, as shown by the records of the Post-office Department, former Republican postmasters are proved to have defrauded the Government of enough funds to more than pay President Cleveland's salary for eight years—the amount, prolonged being a round half million.

These rasals have not only been turned out, but they have been compelled to turn in their ill-gotten gains, and the United States is so much the richer for the rule of reform Democracy.

Then, another considerable item is the stealing of $30,000 by the Republican financial clerk of the Patent Office—the two together totalling up $530,000, and furthermore, I doubt if the half has been told. Still, the dear good Republicans—immaculate souls that they are—have stolen nothing from Uncle Sam—that is, if we accept their bold assertions as facts.

President Cleveland shows his true Democracy and his earnest desire for the success of the Democratic candidates on the New York State ticket by contributing his good wishes and five hundred dollars to the party campaign fund and Col. Laumont, the President's private Secretary also sends a liberal contribution for the same purpose, accompanied by a cheering letter.

The third and fourth-class postmasters of the country want more pay, and will meet in convention in this city in a few weeks to urge their wishes upon the attention of Congress, with strong hopes of securing the desired result.

Hillsboro Recorder. A young lad in Orange, without any assistance except an old mule, cleaned up the ground, broke it up, planted it, worked it and made 10 barrels of good corn, and did the most of the house work besides. This young lad is good looking and quite young.

No Principles to Fight For.

New York Herald, Ind. The Republicans have no principles to fight for, or they conceal them very successfully. What the country needs and must have if it is to be prosperous is an administration that represents the whole republic from Maine to the Pacific and from the lakes to the gulf. Now, the Republican party never has done that. It was not born to do it. It is essentially a sectional party, and never has been anything else. It has not only neglected the millions of the South, but it never indorses a party platform without expressing a suspicion of them. Its business at the present moment is not to unite North and South, but to keep them sunder. It is as plain as a pikestaff, therefore, that the next President ought to be a man who can see Georgia just as well as Ohio, and no Republican has had the vision ability to do that. The people of this country are not blind to the condition of affairs. They are clear headed on the subject, and are ready to give fair play to everybody, South, North, East and West. Your State elections may go as they please, then, but when it comes to voting for the perpetuity of our national institutions and a solid commercial and patriotic union of all sections under a common flag, why, the Republican party has not grown up to such a conception, and is therefore unfit for power. The only party that can represent the whole country is Democratic.

The State Over, From Our Many Exchanges.

Happenings and Events Concerning the "Old North State"—What Our People Are Doing and Saying.

Durham Plant: Mighty near as many people go to church in Durham as attend free shows. That is a good showing, and few towns can say the same thing.

Louisburg Times: We suppose every farmer in Franklin who knows how, will raise some tobacco next year. Those who tried it this year have nearly every one been successful, and have made money.

Scotland Neck Democrat: Mr. Moses Oppenheimer on Monday night last had a butcher knife in his hand when a window fell and drove the knife through his hand, almost severing the thumb from his wrist.

Hillsboro Recorder: We learn that the protracted meeting under the charge of Rev. J. G. Nelson, at Walnut Grove, is doing great good in that neighborhood, 28 have professed and several still seeking earnestly.

Winston Republican: On Tuesday, October 18th, the jail of Ashe county, at Jefferson, was burned to the ground. A prisoner named Girtman set fire to the floor of his cell which caused the conflagration. All efforts to subdue the flames were unavailing and the destruction was complete.

Even the Vanderbilts are taking advantage of Western Carolina as a summer and winter resort. The Asheville Citizen says: "Mr. George Vanderbilt has engaged for his mother, Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt, and others of her family seven rooms at Battery Park Hotel, the occupancy to continue for several months."

Edenton Fisherman & Farmer: The Engineer of Str. Bartie was found dead in the engine room on yesterday. The officer at the wheel sounded the bell but received no response. A messenger was sent to ascertain the cause and found to his astonishment that it existed in the old man's death. Cause of death was unknown.

Maxton Union: On last Wednesday, a colored boy, Owen Van, was kicked by a mule and killed outright for about an hour, but finally was restored. He has been kicked by mules and horses eleven times. This is the third time he has been killed by the kicking of mules within the last year or two, and was struck once during that time by lightning.

Raleigh News & Observer: Another native of North Carolina comes to the front from Monroe county, Ind. His name is Riley Smith. He is 7 feet 6 inches tall and wears a No. 17 shoe that will hold a quarter of a peck of corn. Once a year he orders a pair of plow shoes. They weigh 10 pounds and have very broad heels. They are 16 inches long. He was born in this State, went to Indiana in 1850, is forty-five years old, is married and is the father of two children. Verily are none of the products of the Old North State to be sneezed at.

What the President Costs.

Boston Post

The Salary of the President, as everybody knows, is $50,000. His official and household staff including private secretaries, clerks, messengers, doorkeepers, steward, fireman, etc., cost for salaries, $33,864; for the "contingent expenses" of the executive office, on official account, the sum of $8,000 is provided; for "care, repair and furnishing the executive mansion" $16,000 per year is granted by Congress, to be expended as the President may direct; fuel for the executive mansion, greenhouses and stable cost $3,000 per annum; for cars and necessary repair of greenhouses there is a regular annual appropriation of $4,000.

Countryman—What is this Tariff about which I hear so much? Editor—It is legalized robbery. So the Supreme Court regards it. It is a cunningly devised instrument reaching out in over four thousand directions with its crushing fingers, and drawing the substance of the people into the capacious maw of monopoly. It is a mill fashioned that all men are compelled to bring grain to it, and the toll taken is three, four, five, ten times as much as there is real necessity for or that justice and fair dealing would allow. It is a High Chinese Wall fixture erected to shut out all foreign competition but that also works to shut in American products. It is a monopoly that robs the workers to make rich the nabob or monopolist.—Wilmington Star.

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 9, 1887.

[ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT GREENVILLE, N. C., AS SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.]

Are the Justices Right?

Since writing as we did in our issue of October 26th, relative to carrying concealed weapons, a case has come up before one of our Justices of the Peace. From what we heard of the case we glean the following: The defendant, a negro youth about twenty years old, answered to the charge and submitted. There were two witnesses. One was examined and testified that the defendant exposed to view a revolver. There was no ill blood, no violence, no malice, and no attempt made to use said weapon. But by the act of carrying the revolver concealed the law had been violated! Such is the plain fact under consideration. The J. P. suspended judgment upon payment of cost. The penalty in such cases is thirty days imprisonment and a fine of not more than fifty and not less than ten dollars. Did the Justice do right? It is the question. Well, in the first place, he followed a well established precedent in such cases that is more effective than most statute laws. In the second place the defendant could not more have paid ten dollars than he could have taken unto himself the wings of a dove and flown unto the uttermost parts of the earth. The law says not less than ten dollars shall be fined, so only the imprisonment is left; and that would mean one more mouth for the tax payers of Pitt county to feed, one more useless body for the aforementioned burdened taxpayers to keep warm. And for what end? True the law had been violated; but can such a punishment be sustained at such a cost? Who will not say the Justice was wise in his decision? There is where the fault is generally placed: in a lack of proper enforcement of the law.

The sole remedy then is to repeal the present law! We have no pet scheme to air, to advance, to harp upon. Anything that will subserve the best interests of the people is acceptable, whether a license tax law, a law making it a felony, or aught else. But this is plain: the more thought is given the subject the more the present law appears a failure in effecting the end aimed at.

Ten dollars to some men means as much as ten thousand to some others. The present case before us is probably an example. To this boy, this "beardless youth," it meant more than he had ever known as a surplus. Some men would mind it no more than paying for a glass of beer. Repeat the present law! It cannot be successfully enforced and is not!

The boy was given to understand that "suspending judgment" did not release him from the penalty of the law, and that, if the Justice so desired, the sentence could be passed at some future day. After being admonished to let concealed weapons alone for all time and to behave himself circumspectly in the future he was relieved of an amount sufficient to defray cost of the case and sent home, at least a wiser, if not a better negro.

There is but one way to settle it, after all, and that is to set the populace thinking over the matter, as free-born American citizens exercising one of their natural and sacred rights. We have confidence in the action of the masses when guided intelligently, honestly, fairly and sincerely. They are generally correct in the conclusion reached. The matter should be left to their unbiased minds and then let them inform their representatives how they view the matter and select such representatives as will do their will, and not the bound minions of a "machine" that cares about as much for their welfare as the Republican party does for States Rights.

On yesterday elections were held in Iowa, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The Supreme Court of Illinois rendered a decision against the condemned anarchists, and preparations for their executions are going on. It is the prevailing sentiment, that no mercy should be shown them. The jail in which they are confined is strongly guarded.

Thanksgiving.

Governor Scales has endorsed the day set apart by President Cleveland, the 24th inst., as a day of prayer and thanksgiving to God. His proclamation reads as follows: NORTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

It has been an honored custom in the Union as well as in the States, and one sanctioned by law to have a day set apart, once at least in every year, in which the people shall assemble themselves for purposes of prayer and thanksgiving. In obedience to this pious custom and with a sincere desire to promote and perpetuate it, I, Alfred M. Scales, by virtue of authority in me vested, do appoint and set apart Thursday, the 24th of November, as a day of thanksgiving and praise to Almighty God the Creator and Redeemer of the world, for the goodness and mercy which have followed us all our days as a nation and individuals; and I hereby invoke the people to suspend the ordinary labors of the day and devote it and themselves to humble and sincere worship, to looking after the poor and needy, and especially let us not forget the orphans in our charge.

Done at our city of Raleigh, this 1st day of November, 1887, and in the one hundred and twelfth year of our American Independence.

ALFRED M. SCALES, By the Governor: W. N. SCALES, Acting Private Secretary.

Pete' and the Ark.

MR. EDITOR:—De dratted rummatics hev got me ergin ar' I hev ter stay in de house all day so I'm gwine ter claim de privilege dat all suffurin' humanity accords hiltself (of talkin' erbout hits ailments) I'm gwine ter tell yer all erbout de howcome of mine. Yer see not fur from Hog Woller dar's er little run dat am dignerified wid de entitlement of Possum Crik an' here durin' de spring freshets hit foun' er short cut er cross de fields ter de river. Ever since den hits bin er puttin' on airs an' swellin' up jast lack one ov dem little town boys smokin' his fist segarette. Hit tries ter do jast lak hit sees de big river doin' Well, down 'bout er mile below my house dar's er high ridge 'long side de creek wid er wide stretch ov low grounds all around hit. Sumbudy built three er four houses on dat ridge er long time ergo an' ole aunt Polly Martin's bin livin' in one ov 'em ever since I kin remember. She's er good ole hard side an' had de ridge all ter herself down de country cum up dar ter git shing'es in de swamp an' tuk ter stayin' in dem houses. Day s'prised ole an' Polly so much wid ter card playin' an' whiskey drinkin' dat she's bin profesyin' de judgement ov de Lawd on 'em fur de last month. When de freshet begun risin' last week doin' hit none ov us pay no tention ter hit twell I got up Saturday mornin' an' foun' de ole dungle hen takin' er voyage 'roun de yard on de chicken coop, den I tole de ole woman dat I spects dem niggers down on de ridge was in er bad fix. "Well, Pete," sez she, "I spects yer better take dat ole battow dat yer bin usin' fur er bog trough an' paddle over dar an' see."

I dident lak ter meddle wid dat ole battow much, but I got sum mud an' filled up de cracks an' got me er shovel fur er paddle an' put her in an' sot out. When I got out in de creek de water was er rummin' so strong dat I dident paddle, an' jast es I cum eround de bend above de ridge I seed er yaller hammer er settin' on er lim 'bout two foot over de water er sleep. I concluded I'd ketch dat bird, so I jast let de boat drift er long twell I got clost ter him den I made er grab dat throwed all my weight on one side an' filled de ole battow 'bout half full ov water. I thort I was gwine ter be shipwrecked so I turned my shovel loose an' grabbed de side ov de boat. I had ter set in de bottom an' hol' on ter de sides ter keep it fum turnin' over, an' de water was er bout five inches deep so I wasn't egzactly comfortable. I was most down ter de ridge by dat time an' I begun ter think ov sum way ter git ashore. Ole an' Polly had all dem niggers down clost to de water er holdin' prayer meetin'. She tole 'em dis was er another flood comin', an' I toll yer dey was ermity penent set. Jast before I got dar she looked up an' seed me when she did, she clapped her han's an' she 'lowed ez how: "Yonder cums brudder Kyarter in de good ole ark." An' one ov dem boys dat had bin watchin' me ever sence I cum in de boat, he said, sez he: "Yas, hit is boys an' he's gwine roun' now getherin' up de birds an' beasts, fur I seed him ketch er dam yaller hammer jast now." De boat wasn't very fur from shore jast then, an' I seed my chance, so I jast ris up an' ess in er terrible voice: "Et yer wants ter find safety in de ark, one ov yer had better swim out here an' git er board." Dem niggers was so anxys dat de last one ov 'em jumped in an' cum ter me. When they got 'longside I made 'em take hold ov de boat an' tow her ashore, an' bail de water out. I dident hav' much trouble gittin' back ter de main land den, but settin' in dat water had done give dem rummatics er start so dat I has ter sene myself yer sufferin' friend. PETE CARTER, P. K. Hog Woller N. C. Nov, 7th 1887.

Washington Letter.

SPECIAL COR. TO REFLECTOR. WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 5th, '87. The President has held but one public reception since his return and that was early this week, when he shook hands with 300 persons. It is believed it is not his intention to resume his regular receptions until after the meeting of Congress.

A delegation representing the British House of Commons and the Trades Union Congress waited upon Mr. Cleveland this week in the interest of their scheme of arbitration to settle international differences by peaceful methods rather than the usual resort to armed conflicts. Right Honorable Lyon Playfair, M. P., was the chief spokesman for the visitors, and he set forth the object of their endeavor in an eloquent and impressive manner—the President graciously responded to his address and cordially reciprocating the amicable utterances of the distinguished Englishman.

Preparations are still in progress for the meeting of Congress, and there is much discussion about the preliminary movements, such as the organization of the House and the formation of the important committees. There will be more new members than for many years past, and in consequence, the committees will have to be almost wholly re-organized. Among those relegated to the quiet pursuits of private life are the chairman and three members of the committee on ways and means, three members of the appropriations committee, and nine of the fourteen members of the committee on elections, and so on through the long list—so that the Speaker will have to make room for a great deal of raw material, as it were. So far as the officers are concerned, it is believed there will be no contest, except for the position of door-keeper of the House, for which three or more candidates, including a present incumbent, are offering.

The session will probably be fruitful of new and radical schemes of legislation, among which I will mention in addition to those heretofore enumerated, a bill to restrict foreign emigration—that is, of the vicious element—and the paternal idea to take the telegraph under the fostering care of the general Government, which in its evil and centralizing tendencies may be regarded as a fit companion-piece to the iniquitous Blair Educational bill. If the United States take control of the telegraph system of the country, the next move will be an absorption of the railroad lines. Such legislative measure flourish in despotic governments like Russia and Turkey, but they are foreign to the soil of the land of the free and the home of the brave, and I do not think this unrepudiated legislation can be engrafted upon our tree of liberty, at least as long as the great Democratic party stands as the guardian of the Constitution and the hope of our republican system.

The Postmaster General has raised quite a commotion among merchants by his enforcement of the law prohibiting the mailing of packages of third and fourth class matter in advertising wrappers. It appears that the regulation has been regarded as a dead-letter for years, but in his recent revision of the rules, Mr. Vilas ordered that it be made effective; thus such articles can now only be sent as first-class matter.

Can it be that the office seekers are at last satisfied? It would appear so from the statement of Secretary Bayard, who says that the dignified and responsible office of First Assistant Secretary of State goes begging—that no one will take the place—that is, of those whom he would wish to have. So here is an opportunity for those patriots whose innate modesty has hitherto prevented them from heeding the call of duty to assert their claims to public office.

The reduction of the national debt for the first four months of the current fiscal year was $40,736,035, the total debt now, less cash in the Treasury, being $1,238,692,701, while the interest bearing debt is something smaller. There was a clear gain of two million and a half dollars in Government receipts that month over the amount received for the same time last year.

President Cleveland, Secretary Whitney, and Colonel Lamont have subscribed very liberally to the New York Democratic Campaign fund—the first $1,000, the second $2,500, and the third $250, and besides, many department clerks have handsomely contributed to the same purpose.

LOCAL.

Thanksgiving. Last week we published the proclamation by the President setting apart Thursday, the 24th inst. as a day of Thanksgiving and praise to God, and to-day we publish the proclamation by the Governor of State naming the same day and asking that all business be suspended on that day. Last year Thanksgiving day was more generally observed in Greenville than in any former year, and we hope that on the 24th of this month there will be an improvement even over last year and that not a single business house in the town will be kept open on that day. It is useless to argue why the business houses should be closed. Every man should feel it his duty to observe the day and render thanks for the blessings surrounding him. Let every business house resolve to close on that day and give due notice that no business will be transacted. By doing this nothing will be lost and no one will be disappointed, for the people from the country will not come to town expecting to do any trade on that day if they know all the business houses will be closed. There will be two more issues of the REFLECTOR between this and Thanksgiving, and in those we will publish the names of all the firms that will close that day. These columns are open for the free use of every one who desires to make known the fact of their closing and we hope every one will avail himself of it. Above all make a generous contribution to the poor and needy.

The Largest Yet.

Saturday was a blue day. True Greenville is located sufficiently to be free from danger from freshets, but there was a manifestation of much anxiety for others along the river who were thought in danger of incurring great loss. Not a great many people were in town, as none from across the river could get here except by ferry. All day long the REFLECTOR office was visited by persons inquiring for news from up the river, but telegraphic communication was cut off at Sparta until after 6 o'clock, P. M., when the line was cleared. The water was then reported about on a stand at Tarboro. Sunday thousands of people went down to look at the raging river. The bridge was thronged all day by people from this side, while on the other side the road was filled with people who had come miles to see the largest freshet ever known here. We heard many old men speak of the big freshet of 1842, and even those of us of younger years have a dim recollection of the one in 1867, but the freshet of 1887 goes down on record as the largest within the knowledge of any living man.

Fire on a Steamer.

Saturday night news come by wire that the new steamer Beta, Capt. A. W. Styron, Master, Mr. J. E. Clark, owner, which was up the river on her second trip, was on fire near Sparta just before night and it was thought the Steamer and her cargo were destroyed. Later intelligence stated that the steamer Myers went to the assistance of the Beta and helped to put out the fire. The damage to the steamer was slight, though about forty bales of cotton were destroyed. The Beta passed here Sunday on her way to Washington.

M. R. Lang has a splendid column "ad" in this issue. His stock of goods can not be described, and must be seen to be appreciated. He is no stranger to the readers of the REFLECTOR, and therefore needs no introduction. We are sure he can do all he says. See him when you are shopping.

Marriage Licenses.

During the month of October the Register of Deeds had applications for ten licenses, seven for white and three for colored couples.

THE SPEED OF HEAT AND COLD.

It has been asked which travels faster, heat or cold; and answered heat. Because any one can catch a cold. It therefore follows that every one that keeps Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, which will cure coughs, colds and consumption.

The freshest has been the principal topic of conversation since Friday.

Plantations along the river have suffered serious damage by the freshet.

The Rocky Mount fair will commence on the 16th and continue three days.

Read notice of Land Sale by Ang. M. Moore, special Commissioner, in another column.

Fresh pork has been coming into market the past week. It sold at from 8 to 8 1/2 cents per pound.

The Tarboro fair began yesterday. The steamer Greenville took an excursion party up this morning.

During November the days will freeze down to just 47 minutes shorter than they were on the first.

Every business house in Greenville—and in the county as to that—should observe Thanksgiving Day, 24th.

The river steamers are handling immense cotton freights. They carry full loads on every downward trip.

Telegraphic communication was troubled by the high water last week. At Sparta the wires were submerged.

The street lamp that stood on the corner near the Opera House has been removed to the front of the Market House.

The trees are losing their summer garments of foliage and their bare limbs are becoming exposed to the bleak winds of winter.

Mr. J. M. King recently received a number of fine horses for sale. We tried one of them, the other day, and had a splendid horse back ride.

This has been a disastrous year to persons living along the low lands of the river. Four large freshets have swept over the land.

Personal.

The wife of Capt. C. A. White was sick last week.

Mr. W. H. Zoeller, the skilled photographer, is taking in the fairs.

Mrs. M. R. Lang and Master Larry Heilbronner left Monday for Tarboro.

Mr. J. A. Dupree is clerking with Messrs. Higgs & Munford for the fall season.

Pleased to see our friend Mr. J. F. McKeel of Washington, in town this week.

Mrs. J. W. Goodwin and Master Jack of Philadelphia, are visiting Mrs. P. E. Dancy.

Mrs. M. M. Nelson returned home Monday from Philadelphia where she had been spending several weeks.

We were pleased to have a call from the clever representative of the Wilson Advance, Mr. Paul Bunn, yesterday.

Mr. J. B. Yellowley left last week for Mississippi to be gone some days. He expects to return about the 25th.

Mr. W. A. Stocks has brought his family to Greenville to live, and occupies the house on Pitt street last occupied by Mr. J. B. Ellis.

Mrs. Henry Harding returned last week from Georgia, his territory as agent for the Inter-States Life Association having been changed from that State to Eastern Carolina.

Miss Lizzie Taylor, one of the most beautiful and fascinating young ladies of Washington, will be married to-night in that town to Mr. J. B. Fowle. She has a number of friends in Greenville whose best wishes are with her on this happy occasion.

Miss Mamie Tyer of Bath, Beauport, Co., entered the Institute on Monday. The enrollment now numbers 114. Our town should feel congratulated, that we have the largest school except Col. Davis's in eastern Carolina, notwithstanding the schools in Kinston, Lagrange, Wilson and Tarboro have been established so much longer. This is only the third session of Greenville Institute.

The American Concert Company are billed for the Opera House to-morrow night.

The freshet prevents hundreds of people from this section who would have gone from attending the Tarboro fair.

The warehouses at the wharf had to be vacated on last Friday night. The water rose so rapidly that it was necessary to move the goods in them on the hill near by.

They are just piling in the goods at Ryan & Keddings', both at their grocery house and at the Racket Store. Their holiday goods have just come.

Better weather. At least such was the case when this was written, but we will not vouch for the condition it gets into by the time the article gets into print.

Sunday was almost a perfect day, bright balmy and beautiful. All the churches were open for worship and the people turned out in good numbers to each.

The little folks are looking forward and counting the weeks to Christmas. And that joyous season is not without its delight to some of our older ones, as well.

Wood, corn or sweet potatoes will be taken from delinquent subscribers in payment of what they owe the REFLECTOR. Bring it on. No excuse to longer delay payment.

A lucky printer of Waco, Tex., has fallen heir to an estate of over $2,000,000. He might do the noble act now by offering to make a small division with some of his poor brethren.

We heard policeman Cherry say Saturday that he was the happiest man in town, as he possessed "five dogs, a wife and a peck of meal." Wonder if it would not increase his happiness if he would shoot about five of the dogs?

What was it we wanted to say about Higgs & Munford? Why, those young men are "astounding the natives." They have stacks upon stacks of new, late style goods, and as to prices—well, they are almost giving them away.

The freight rate on cotton has been reduced, the rate from Greenville and points on the river to Norfolk now being 75 cents per bale. This reduction in freight will be of greatest benefit to the farmer as it enables the buyers to pay higher prices for it.

That veritable paper, the Greensboro Patriot, last week celebrated its sixty-fifth birthday. It is bright, progressive, excellent, and though a ripe age has been attained it grows better with the years and has, we hope, a long life before it. May it live to celebrate its centennial.

A large number of the readers of the REFLECTOR promised to pay their subscription just as soon as they sold some cotton. The majority of them have not fulfilled their promise. We believe every one of them is able to pay so small a sum as the price of the REFLECTOR and hope they will not wait longer to pay their just debts. The paper has been furnished them on credit at considerable outlay and now every dollar due us is needed.

Rare.

Capt. Bill Parvin had a tame white swan on the steamer Beauport, Monday, taking it to the Tarboro fair. He called us aboard to look at the bird and we were charmed with its beauty.

Well Trained.

Friend Billy Winstead has got a smart horse, that obeys commands very readily. The other day he drove the animal down on the bridge and told it to go to the rail and drink. The horse walked to the rail, put his head over and took a drink from the river.

The Boys Ahead.

We learn of two slight fires in Washington, Monday, both caused by defective stove flues. The fire department turned out, and in both instances the company composed of boys were the first to get a stream on the fire. The fires were extinguished with but little damage. Hurrah for the boys!

Prisoners.

Sheriff King and his deputies took in four prisoners, all colored the past week, making the number ten now confined in the county jail. The first was George Lewis who was charged with committing rape upon a 12 year old colored girl. The next was Henry Smith who is charged with burning his house. It is said he had given another party a mortgage on his furniture, &c., that he moved the furniture out, set fire to the house and claimed all was burned up. The third was Henry Nobles, charged with stealing a buggy whip. The fourth was George Pointer, who is wanted in Edgecombe county for offences and who was captured in this county. He has been sent to Tarboro.

Horrible Burning.

Mr. G. W. Venters, of Calico, was in town Monday and told us of an awful crime committed not far from his store on Saturday night. Fire was set to a house in which a colored man named George Williams was asleep. The man was not aroused until the house fell in on him, and though he managed to escape from the building he was so fearfully burned that he died Sunday. Suspicion of the burning pointed to Essex Best, colored, and after being arrested he acknowledged setting fire to the house and said that Godfrey Elks, a white man to whom the house belonged hired him to do the act. The house was insured, and Best said that is why it was burned. He also said he thought the man who was burned was off from home. Elks and Best are both under arrest.

Married.

At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. L. K. Purvis, near Hamilton, on Tuesday the 8th inst., Mr. V. L. Stephens, of Greenville, was married to Miss Mamie A. Purvis, of Martin, Rev. J. W. Wildman officiating. The bridal party were expected to reach Greenville yesterday evening and a reception be given at the home of Mr. Stephens, but owing to the lateness of the hour mention of the reception must be deferred until next week. The REFLECTOR desires to join the large number of friends in extending best wishes to the happy couple.

At the residence of the brides father on Wednesday, November 2nd, Mr. Robert Little, was married to Miss Mary E. Clark, the ceremony being performed by Rev. B. H. Hearne. The wedding supper was an excellent one, and several handsome presents were given the bride and groom.

The Flood.

During the past week this section has had the largest freshet that has been in Tar river for scores of years. The water was at its highest on Monday when it was about two feet above the high water mark of 1867. The bridge across the river at Greenville was considerably damaged, the water coming under it until about one hundred yards of it were floating at the North end. That end of the bridge was only saved from being washed away by means of very strong ropes fastened to it and carried to trees above. Reports of much damage came from all along the river. The occupants of stores at Centre Buif were compelled to vacate the buildings. At Sparta the bridge was badly damaged. During Saturday and Sunday it was feared the bridge would go down before the raging current. Near there, where the telegraph line passes through the low grounds the water went over the tops of some of the poles. At Tarboro both the county and railroad bridges were damaged. Railroad men were afraid to run cars over the latter and transfers of passengers, mail, &c., had to be made across the river. Princeton, the settlement of colored people just opposite Tarboro, was almost entirely submerged. Many houses were floated from their foundations and more or less destroyed while nearly all the 400 inhabitants of the settlement had to flee from their homes. They had to be carried to Tarboro in boats and were given shelter and food by the citizens of that town. The creeks and branches making into the river were overflowed for miles up the stream, caused by the water backing up into them. The water began falling at Tarboro Sunday morning and began falling here Monday night. It goes out but slowly as yet. Thousands of barrels of corn have been destroyed along the low lands near the river.

The freshest has been the principal topic of conversation since Friday.

Plantations along the river have suffered serious damage by the freshet.

The Rocky Mount fair will commence on the 16th and continue three days.

Read notice of Land Sale by Ang. M. Moore, special Commissioner, in another column.

Fresh pork has been coming into market the past week. It sold at from 8 to 8 1/2 cents per pound.

The Tarboro fair began yesterday. The steamer Greenville took an excursion party up this morning.

During November the days will freeze down to just 47 minutes shorter than they were on the first.

Every business house in Greenville—and in the county as to that—should observe Thanksgiving Day, 24th.

The river steamers are handling immense cotton freights. They carry full loads on every downward trip.

Telegraphic communication was troubled by the high water last week. At Sparta the wires were submerged.

The street lamp that stood on the corner near the Opera House has been removed to the front of the Market House.

The trees are losing their summer garments of foliage and their bare limbs are becoming exposed to the bleak winds of winter.

Mr. J. M. King recently received a number of fine horses for sale. We tried one of them, the other day, and had a splendid horse back ride.

This has been a disastrous year to persons living along the low lands of the river. Four large freshets have swept over the land.

NEW, BRIGHT AND CLEAN!
UP WITH THE TIMES!
The "State Chronicle" will be what its name implies—a State paper. It is not the Raleigh "Chronicle," and will not be local or sectional. It will aim to keep up with the current news from Murphy to Blanco, or as the politicians put it, from Cherokee to Currituck.
It will be the organ of no man, no ring, no section, no party. It will be Democratic in politics, but will not hesitate to criticize non-sensical measures and Democratic officials.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR
GREENVILLE, N. C.
A SUDE AWAKENING.
She had a face surpassing fair
All men admired her beauty rare—
And I?
Well, I adored her, nothing less;
To be with her was happiness
Three ply.

Of course she knew; she was not blind;
She saw my plights, and she was kind
And good;
For when I looked her in the wad
A chap like me, she blushed, and said She would.

Oh, then the summer quickly flew
Till the time came to say adieu
She promised when I went away
That every single blessed day
She'd write me.

But her first letter drove me mad
Almost, with will I'd quarrel, for sad
To tell,
This lovely maid when I yearned
So longingly, had never learned
To spell.

Why Go to North Carolina.
American Agriculturist.
The attention of the people of the North and West has lately been attracted to the South, but the speculative booms set afloat at Birmingham, Anniston, Chattanooga, and Atlanta have for the moment overshadowed the more permanent and diversified interests as represented in the agricultural districts, and of which so little is known. Take North Carolina, in a zone that has just claim to be called temperate, we find every variety of timber, from the hard hemlock and spruce of the far North, to the magnolia and palmetto of the tropics. All the grain from buckwheat to rice. All saccharine products from maple sugar to the sugar of the cane. All the minerals from the diamond to iron and coal. All altitudes from one mile and a quarter up among the clouds, to the savannahs of the Atlantic coast, and a record on the census reports, of productions of the soil, that fill more of the blanks than any other State in the Union.

When the people of a single State have so much of undeveloped wealth, so great possibilities, so various and extensive fields for the whole circle of agricultural experiment and development to tell of, it gives the impression of exaggeration and in a great measure has been a hindrance to the progress of immigration in North Carolina—the mind becoming confused in making a choice from so many almost equally inviting fields.

What Am I to Do?
The symptoms of Biliousness are undoubtedly too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater.
Too frequently, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.
The digestive system is wholly out of order. Diarrhoea or Constipation may be a symptom of the two may alternate.
There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and vertigo or flatulency and tenderness in the pit of the stomach.
To correct all this it not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

The interstate commerce commission have exhausted the whole appropriation of Congress—$100,- 000—and are somewhat exhausted themselves. It is hinted that most of the money has been spent in trying to find some one who understands the enactment.—

A Boston leather firm sold 1000 feet of grain leather to a manufacturer at ten and a half cents per foot. In a few days the bill was returned to them, with a demand for two cents deduction for one-quarter foot short measure.
They allowed it.

THE MIND CURE.
The theory of the mind cure may do for some hysterical cases, but for chronic bowel troubles, croup, colic, diarrhoea, dysentery, Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial is the surest and best cure. Keep it.

A Hartford man has invented an apparatus for tuning horses.
A clock with three hands—minute hands—minute, second and quarter-second—is started by the official timer. When the winning horse touches the wire the clock is stopped by electricity.
At the same instant the current opens a camera, which photographs the horse and the clock face.

Worth Knowing.
Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake
City, Fla., was taken with a severe Cold, attended with a distressing Cough and running into Consumption in its first stages.
He tried many so-called popular cough remedies and steadily grew worse.
Was reduced in flesh, had difficulty in breathing and was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found immediate relief and after using about a half dozen bottles found himself well and has had no return of the disease. No other remedy can show so grand a record of cures. Dr.
King's New Discovery for Consumption Guaranteed to do just what is claimed for it. Trial bottle free at McG. ERMU's drug store.

THE SPEED OF HEAT AND COLD.
It has been asked which travels faster, heat or cold; and answered back, "Because any one can catch a cold. It follows that heat follows that every one should keep Taylor's Colic Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, which will cure colic, cold and constipation."
