THE STAR. A GREAT NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER. The STAR is the only New York newspaper possessing the fullest confidence of the National Administration and the political battle ground of the Republic. Jeffersonian Democracy, pure and simple, is good enough for the Stall. Single handed among the metropolitan press, it has stood by the men called by the great Democracy to redeem the government from twenty-five years of Re-publican wastefulness and corruption and despotism to the South. For these four years past it has been unswerving in its fidelity to the administration of Grover Cleveland. It is for him now -for Cleveland and Thurman-for four years more of Democratic honesty in our national affairs, and of continued national tranquility and presperity.

United Democracy of New York, the

For people who like that sort of Denocracy the STAR is the paper to read. The STAR stands squarely on the National Democratic platform. It believes that any tribute exacted from the people in excess of the demands of a government economically administered is essentially oppressive and dishonest. The scheme fostered and championed by the Republican party-of making the government a miser, wringing millions annually from the people and locking them up in vaults to serve no purpose but invite wastefulness and dishonesty, it regards as a monstrous crime against the rights of American citizenship. Re-publican political jugglers may call it

"protective taxation;" the STAR's name for it is robbery. Through and through the STAR is a great newspaper. Its tone is pure and wholesome, its news service unexcep-tionable. Each issue presents an epitome of what is best worth knowing the world's history of yesterday. Its stories are told in good, quick, pictur-esque English, and mighty interesting in literature and art are represented in
