AS LIFE VIEWS LOVE.

BY TASKER POLK.

CHILDHOOD.

It is a spark, my mother says, Hid in my heart, which coming days Will fan to flames, whose light will fill My life with joy, or else will kill My happiness, and work me woe-- What this may mean, I do not know; But thus she said, and I must beso.

YOUTH.

'Tis something that I can't explain A mixture both of joy and pain-- A night of storm--a rising sun-- A Hill and Heaven both in one-- A fearful doubt--a blessed hope-- A barren waste--a stony slope-- A beacon on the banks of life-- A smiling rock with dangers rife-- An angel-form to guide and bless-- A friend to poison with excess-- A God to turn your night to day-- A Devil to mislead your way-- A flower blooming on a thorn-- A passion, which is virtue-born.

MANHOOD.

'Tis coming home when work is done, And sinks the evening's setting sun. To see, upon the doorstep, stand A smiling face with outstretched hand; 'Tis folding in impassioned arms A form of sweet and willing charms; A form of sweet and willing charms; A God to turn your night to bliss, And buying Heaven with a kiss.

Cotton Bagging for the South.

Address of the Committee.

MAY 21, 1889.

To the members of the Alliance, the Wheel and the Union:

The undersigned were appointed a committee at the meeting recently held at Birmingham, Ala., to present the advantages and necessity of using cotton bagging by cotton producers, and the same convention, composed of delegates representing the organizations above mentioned, adopted the following resolutions and urged their endorsement by every one interested:

Resolved, That we, from all the States before us, recommended to this body the permanent use of cotton bagging as a covering for cotton.

We further recommend the appointment of a committee of three, their actual expenses to be paid by the organizations here represented, whose duty it shall be to secure from purchasers and manufacturers of cotton covered in cotton bagging, an allowance of at least eight pounds on each bale, to be settled for at market price when sold.

And we still further recommend that in the event of any cotton buyer refusing to grant said premium on such cotton, then we advise the members of the Alliance, Wheel and Union not to sell until such concession is made.

This may be thought by many to be not only a bold, but one of doubtful expediency. Your committee are aware of the serious difficulty in presenting these determinations of the National Alliance to a people used altogether to a different covering for cotton, and a very different method in the securing of that covering. Not only so, but we apprehend that an earnest effort will be made by those whose interests lie in a different direction, to persuade our people that this "much ado" about cotton bagging, is simply a scuttling grounded in opposition to an "imaginary bagging trust" and as sensible men they should "stick to business methods and the most economic covering for their cotton jute bagging." If no bagging could be bought at one-half the present price, the same reasons would exist then as now, for the exclusive and permanent use of cotton bagging. It is a saying "that it is an ill wind that blows no one some good," and "that all is well that ends well." So the bagging combine of 1888, may yet prove a "God send" to cotton producers. The abuse of power or privilege always works its own cure. If those controlling jute bagging and its manufacture had displayed the least wisdom or tact in 1888, they could have gradually increased the price of the same for a series of years, and not one single effort perhaps, would have been made to supply a substitute, but such an uncalculated and determined effort to force upon the cotton producer, jute bagging, at an increase of from six to eight cents per yard in one season, and that in the face of an organization that was increasing rapidly, with the open and avowed purpose of resisting such monopolies, was simply suicidal on their part and has worked, in our opinion, vastly to the benefit of those whom they intended to oppress. This is but an additional demonstration that over all men and their actions there is One that is just and doeth His will in the ar-

Obituary.

On Tuesday, April 30th, 1889, SAL JOYNER, left this world of toil and driving for rest everlasting. She was the much valued horse of Andrew Joyner, of Whipoorwill Valley. During the rain of the previous week, negroes burned the rails which enclosed a well thirty feet deep, and in ploughing, a one-eyed negro literally drove her into the well and to her death. All efforts by kind neighbors and friends to save her were futile. From 6 o'clock A. M. until 11, her suffering was pitiful. Her groans had a note of human agony. The heart sickens at thought of the horrible, hopeless physical pain the faithful, dumb creature must have endured through those long hours. She neighed just before death ended her misery. So it can truthfully be said that her painful communication was "Nay," obeying the Scriptural injunction in her last expiring groan. She was buried in the well.

The subject of this sketch was more than a mare--she was an institution. Daughter of Arapaho, a celebrated racer, owned by Henry Edmunds, she was purchased in 1882 (when two years old) of Mr. Arthur Forbes.

Never was the adage "Judge not merit by appearance" better exemplified than here. Sal, like many homely women, could be had for the asking in a strange market. And like most of them, she was the most dutiful and tractable and useful creature conceivable. She was positively ugly, raw-boned, gaunt, high, slim and sprig-tailed. She presented anything but an attractive appearance. Her owner, it is said, once invested in Cully's celebrated "Bald Head Specific," to grow hair on her narrative, but so great was the power of the medicine, it kept the aforementioned appearance in a vertical position, making her present a less pleasing aspect than before, and causing an abandonment of the remedy.

She moved awkward, but she moved. From Paotulus to Greenville, from Penny Hill to Greenville, one hour was all she required when necessary to make the fifteen miles, and any child could drive and manage her.

Her last service in a buggy was on Sunday before her death, when she came from Falkland home, six miles, in twenty-one minutes by the watch.

Her family was greatly attached to her, her master and wife especially, as he did his only effective coping in her company. She never said or did an unkind thing. A rare record.

She lies, with truth, in the bottom of the well. Like some people her chance for heaven will leak through a mighty small hole. Departed Sal! If there be transmigration of souls, and thy spirit, should mingle with a cloud of his--beautiful in feature she? Nay! but like you, industrious, ambitious, gentle, strong and true as steel she'd be!

Life's pleasures have ended, His troubles have past, And Sal's has kicked The bucket at last.

The one eyed negro But drove too well, And Sally no more With us will dwell.

Her virtues were many, Her vices few, And love was the only Law that she knew.

But death e'er seeks A shining mark, And so it extinguished The vital spark.

A long farewell to thee Poor old Sally The joy and pride of Whipoorwill Valley A FRIEND.

Invest Small Savings.

Baltimore Manufacturer's Record. Two of the most powerful factors in the building up of any community are building associations and savings banks. The one permits the erection of homes by the working classes which could not otherwise be readily secured, and the other enables the moderately circumstanced to lay by small amounts which ultimately reach considerable proportions. There is no doubt that the foundation of the thrift of the working people of New England is the savings banks deposits made in that section. We should be glad to see a savings bank and a building association established in every Southern town. Such organizations would have the effect of combining local capital, and could not but prove beneficial. We would urge our Southern friends, therefore to pool their savings and invest them in home enterprises.

(Our special correspondence.) NEW YORK, May 29, '89. IRON TOWER.

The great iron tower upon the northernmost point of Astoria, L. I., which is opposite 92d St., of this city, built originally by the United States Government for a lighthouse to illuminate by night the dangerous and turbulent waters which rush through rock-bound Hell Gate, after standing more than five years has been razed to the ground.

During the latter part of the year 1883, work was begun on the tower, an appropriation of $20,000 having been made for its erection. Four holes, from ten to fifteen feet in depth, were dug down to the solid rock, and, on this as a foundation, four massive piers of concrete were built. Upon these were placed the iron legs of the tower, and the structure built 256 feet 6 inches high. The tower was illuminated for the first time in August, 1884. Twelve electric lights were used, and the light could be seen for forty miles. This very intensity of light finally sounded the tower's death knell for it blinded the eyes of the pilots and increased the danger of Hell Gate instead of lessening it. Complaints from the mariners became so numerous that the tower was officially condemned after being used for less than a year and a half.

A junk man in South street bought the tower a short time ago as old iron for $150, and on Saturday it was pulled down with a mighty crash and carted away.

ELECTRIC SUGAR.

The trial of the persons engaged in the electric sugar conspiracy this week is attracting a great deal of attention. The president of the company and others have been examined and a great deal of the mystery as to how the money was obtained is being explained. But the mysterious "secret" as to how the sugar was refined by electricity is not yet out. The only explanation on this point yet given is that the raw sugar was taken into the secret room and gotten rid of through the sewer pipes, while the refined sugar was taken in boxes; as "machinery" and then passed out through the chutes as the product of electricity. Such frauds as this will probably continue as long as there are people who believe they can make a fortune by investing a few hundred dollars in some scheme and letting some one else manage it.

COACHING CLUB.

Last Saturday was the gala day of the season to a large portion of New York's "upper ten," because on that day the annual parade of the Coaching Club took place. Preparations were in progress all the week both in stable and bon-doirs. Coaches were painted and polished and dusted, and horses groomed till it was hard to tell which presented the glossiest surface. Promptly at 5 o'clock in the afternoon the start was made from the cross road at Eighth avenue and 50th street entrance to the park. There were eight "drags" as the coaches are called with four horses each on which were seated some of the wealthiest and best known men and women in town. In the bright sunlight the display of so much beauty and wealth is simply dazzling, and the great crowds who witness the parade prove that it is a great attraction. It must be remembered that the paraders sit on the top while the "flunkies," or footmen, sit inside.

Wilmington Star.

The time was when the cotton plant was cultivated for the lint alone, and everything else about it was considered of little or no value.

The stalk was plowed under, and the seed, if used at all, was used as a fertilizer. Now the cotton seed oil industry has become a great one, annually increasing, and the oil is rapidly winning favor for various uses, and for culinary purposes in place of lard, in universal use before the cotton seed oil was introduced. The time is not far distant when the stalk will be utilized in the manufacture of paper, and the butt in the manufacture of bagging as a substitute for jute.

Mr. Edward Atkinson once remarked that if the New England people had the cotton plant they would get rich out of the stalk and plant, if they had to throw away the lint. If there be any people on the earth who would get rich out of what other people saw no money in it is the New England people. Mr. Atkinson's remark was not intended so much to compliment the thrift of the New Englander, as to express his opinion of the inherent possibilities wrapped in the bark of the cotton plant. But a new use has been found for the hull and the cotton seed meal after the oil has been extracted. The meal has been used mixed with other articles as feed for stock, but now cattle are stalfed for beef on cotton seed hulls and meal alone, and it is said they fatten quickly upon it and make fine beef. The Atlanta Constitution states that a firm in that city cleared $20,000 last year by fattening heaves, to which cotton seed hulls and meal were fed and nothing else.

If this be so, there are possibilities in the cotton seed which were not taken into account when the cotton oil industry was established, and an additional value of no small proportions is added to it. It makes stock raising in the cotton belt, where grass and grain culture have been neglected or deemed impracticable, a new and a profitable business, and it should and will not only encourage stock raising, but also the introduction and fostering of better grades.

It seems scarcely credible that the Cattle King of the west may find a competitor in the cotton planter of the South, and yet as strange things have happened. It has been said that King Cotton must yield the sceptre to King Grass, but it may be that King Cotton will again assert his regal supremacy and King Grass be compelled to abdicate. A few years ago the man who asserted that the South would enter the field of the iron industry and compete successfully with the iron manufacturers of Pennsylvania, or the field of the cotton manufacturing industry and compete successfully with the long established cotton manufacturers of New England would have been pronounced a visionary, yet she has done it in an astonishingly brief period of time.

Rockingham Rocket.

Wilmington Messenger: Mr. William Bonitz, for many years proprietor of the well known Bonitz Hotel in Goldsboro, has leased the Commercial Hotel in this city, and will at once thoroughly renovate, refurnish and remodel the house and endeavor to furnish good accommodations to the traveling public at very moderate prices.

Raleigh News & Observer: News was received here yesterday evening from Goldsboro that a lively encounter occurred there yesterday between two brethren of the quill. Bro. Joe Robinson, editor of the Argus, it seems, executed a lively luttow upon the corporosity of editor Roscower, of the Headlight, with a horsewhip.

They had had a journalistic misunderstanding of some kind, in which it seems that Mr. Roscower made allusions which Mr. Robinson considered too personal. Mr. Robinson met Mr. Roscower on the street, and stepped into a hardware store borrowed a horsewhip, with which he sallied upon Mr. Roscower with a vim which absolutely took the latter's breath away.

MAIL MATTER.]

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23rd 1883.

From all over the land there are complaints about the irregularities of the mails. The ignorant set of "coons" that Harrison and Wanamaker have sent out as mail agents are wholly incapable of discharging the important duties that fall upon such positions.

The rain storm last Friday seems to have been general in its nature as from all over the country come reports of the destruction it wrought. The State of Pennsylvania suffered most disastrously. Several towns were swept away by flooded rivers and the number of lives lost is counted by thousands.
The accounts are fearful.

There is not much argument now as to how the surplus in the national treasury shall be disposed of. The Radical brigade that hold the keys and superintend the giving out process will get away with it very readily.
The fact that it will require a hundred million dollars or more to pay off the pensions this year will give some idea as to how the surplus will go.

Pitt county takes the lead and sets an example worthy of imitation. Her Board of Magistrates took the view that marriage should be encouraged rather than have obstacles put in the way by taxation, and they voted not to put any county tax upon marriage licenses. Now let other counties in the State chime in with this movement and by the time the next Legislature meets there will be a general sentiment in favor of removing the State tax from such licenses.

The REFLECTOR once had no special opposition to public executions, but it was only necessary to witness one for us to be turned against them forever, and since the last one occurred here we have favored their privacy in future. We notice that wherever public executions are occurring in the State the press is raising its voice against the harrowing and appalling scenes that are presented. Let criminals be executed only in the presence of the authorities and sufficient witnesses to see the laws properly complied with.

Our attention has been called to a matter which, if true, reflects no credit upon Greenville.
We are told that since the Business Association has been organized a gentleman, who controls between a fifteen and twenty thousand dollars capital, became impressed with the spirit of enterprise that seemed to be showing itself and paid the town a visit with the view of locating and engaging in business. He tried to purchase a site upon which to build and the owner of the land wanted to charge twice as much as it was worth. The man left, sufficiently amused with his efforts to purchase Greenville dirt. This is the way it is told us. We do not know who either the would-be-purchaser or seller are, but the matter was discussed by gentlemen on steamer between Tarboro and Greenville not many days since. We had rather know the report to be without foundation. If it is true, the property holders could be taking no more effective steps to hold the town. If land is to be held up for fancy prices we had just as well knock in the head all efforts to advance Greenville. To secure permanent settlers and have the town built up, cheap building sites must be the first inducement held out. This matter should be looked into by the Business Association.

Since writing the above we are informed that the report is true, but it occurred prior to the organization of the Association. It would be better to give a man a building site than run him from it.

An Observing Observer.

OBSERVATION 1.—People don't judge of a man's character these days on the strength of merit.
It doesn't make much difference whether he's got any claim to respectability or not. The question is not often asked, "Is he worthy or meritorious?" but "Has he got plenty of money?"
If the answer be in the affirmative, his name is enrolled on the list of the Bon-Tons, and he is petted and lionized. Just give a man an abundance of money, and he will soon become a "bright particular star" in the social firmament. A man's morals may be on par with the devil's, his life may be steeped with filth and slime, but gold and silver will conceal every defect, will atone for all sin and uncleanness, and give him a character as brilliant as the sun, and as fair as the moon. No wonder there are so many rascals in the world, when it has come to pass that money not only hides rascality and covers up crime, but gives men character and elevates them to positions of honor and trust. There are numbers of men who wear fine clothes and gold rings and diamond studs, and drive spirited horses, who ought to be in the penitentiary, wearing striped shirts, and shoes and hats of their own manufacture. They failed in business at somebody else's expense, and are cutting "didoes" on somebody else's cash. They bought their character with stolen funds; but it is recognized as pure and spotless. Money gives to man a name that he could never gain by any other means, or through any other channel. Those who want large sums to enjoy, take a pleasure trip to Canada. Others who are sharp enough to cover their tracks stay at home, and roll in luxury and ease.

OBSERVATION 2.—The man that wears the longest face, and draws the deepest sigh, and drops the biggest tear, is not the purest and best saint in the earth. Religion never was designed to make a man ugly or sour or wrinkled; and yet some apparently devout people seem to be afraid to laugh or even smile, lest they might commit the never-to-be-forgiven sin. Better watch that professing saint that carries none of the joy of religion on his face, or reflects none of its light in his life. He'll fool you, certain, if you give him the half of a chance.
Rather see a christian a little too gay than too awfully solemn.
These pickle-faced Christians are always better than any one else, (in their own estimation) and the way they do lampoon a brother or sister that chances to smile once too often in the course of a day. They do more mischief with their tongues than their too flippant brethren could possibly do with their smiles. A religion that doesn't make a man lively and happy isn't worth having.
In fact when these things are not perceptible, religion is a scarce article.

OBSERVATION 3.—That church member who dodges round the corner to keep from paying the man he owes, is a sorry stick.
There are hosts of people who join the church to get "credit," but as a general thing their "credit" doesn't last long. They don't set a proper valuation on it.
They almost give it away. Sometimes they sell it for twenty-five or fifty cents. The merchant may consider himself fortunate, however, if he can purchase on such easy terms. It often costs him a great deal more. Very many times he is a heavy loser.
He not only loses his goods, but he forfeits the friendship of the man he so kindly favored. Just let a dishonest man get in debt to a merchant, and he hasn't got any more use for him except to slander and vilify him. Strange what bitter enemies kindness makes of some men. It may be that they hate the friend who has obliged them, because they didn't swindle him out of more while they had the opportunity. The church member who doesn't try to pay his honest debts is a humbug, and the church member who tries to get out of paying his just debts is no better than a common thief. He who tries to get to heaven by the way of a back alley or behind closed doors, is a thief and a robber. He would betray his Lord for a few shillings if the chance were accorded him.

Pitt County lost two of her officers by death in a single week. Mr.
Marion Manning, Surveyor, died on the 27th ult., and Rev. Josephus Latham, Supt. of Public Instruction

Elder Josephus Latham.

Many hearts were made sad on Wednesday morning last when the unwelcome news reached us that Elder Josephus Latham was dead.
I feel that I cannot permit the sad event to pass by without saying a word expressive of my high appreciation of the character and qualities of this good man whose death we mourn.

I knew him well. He was my friend. Our friendship grew warmer, closer and more confiding with increasing years. For his kindness to me I shall always have a feeling of affectionate gratitude.

From early manhood his was a career of good and useful service.
He tried to do his full duty to his fellow-man and his maker. His life was helpful to all who came within the circle of its influence. It was spent in doing goodly deeds and kindly acts.

A generous, kind, noble hearted man. Generosity and kindness were striking traits of his character.
I never heard him say an unkind word or an unpleasant thing of any living person. He was a man of great purity and delicacy of feeling, full of sweet sympathies and noble impulses. His heart was stainless and void of offence towards any one. In his pure heart there was no room for bitterness, envy or hatred.
An inexhaustible kindness glowed like sunrise there.

He was a man of great religious fever. In his life we have a lovely example of christian purity and fidelity. He was an active leader and worker in his church, and a firm enthusiastic believer in the gospel of Jesus of Nazareth. He knew his God as sure as he knew the beauty of the morning or the glory of the stars. There can be no question as to his eternity.

After a long and heroic struggle against resistless disease, his struggle spirit winged its way from this earthly abode to that mansion above not made with hands—to an eternity of peace and joy. He had so lived among us, and done his Master's work, that we can say of him truthfully,

"After a rough day of toil Enjoys a sleep without dreams."

The deceased was liked by all who knew him. He enjoyed a wide popularity. Wherever his acquaintance extended there his popularity also. He was a public officer of the county at the time of his death.

From the incipency of his public career he impressed the public with his unflinching honesty of purpose and fidelity to duty. As superintendent of the Public Schools he was vigilant, active, and industrious, and there is little of educational work in our country upon which he has not left his impress.
It seemed almost impossible for him to be lukewarm or apathetic in any task that he undertook to perform.
The office which he filled with credit to himself and with lasting benefit to the county, he regarded as a trust held in use for others, and so discharged its every duty.

He loved his home, his family.
Nothing could mar the calm delights of his hearth-stone. To his family he consecrated his holiest affections and unbounded love. They have lost a devoted husband and a kind affectionate father. In this race we all life he gained an inheritance priceless indeed, and, dying, he leaves the partner of his life and home "dowered with the fragrance of an exemplary life, and his children rich in patrimony of his stainless name."

Our friends are no more. My sym-paties for those whose hearts are crushed by this heavy blow are most sincere and tender, for in his departure I myself suffer a personal bereavement. G. B. K.

Redalia Items.

Last Thursday and Friday rain just fell in torrents. Many of the older citizens say they never saw larger. It was almost impossible to travel the public highway on account of bridges being washed away —bridges never known to have over-reached by high water before, raised from their bearings and washed down the stream to be replaced by the skill and exertion of men.

Crops are very fine through this section. Corn will be ready for reaping in a few days. Corn is excellent in some fields, though Mr.
Biggs Cox, Sr., claims the lead. He has planted peas and will be ready to lay-by in two or three weeks.
Mr. Jos. Cox has cotton squares though a considerable proportion in the neighborhood is very young and seems to have been injured by the frost and winds some days since.

The closing exercises of Miss Nannie Cox's school took place last Friday night, though the weather was very inclement, there were many people in attendance, so the reporter has been informed. At the close of the exercises three prizes were awarded to the three who made the highest average in mental arithmetic and one to the one who made the greatest improvement in penmanship. The first was presented by Dr. Cox to Misses Mattie Stock, Argie Munford and Pillie Cox; the latter by Mr. A. J.
Cox to Eddie Jackson, with short speeches. After this the school through Dr. Cox presented a fine autograph album to the teacher.
Everything was conducted in a quiet and orderly manner, and every one seemed to have thought his time well spent while listening to the recitations. Parents were especially delighted at the vast improvement their children had made while under Miss Cox's instructions. She has built quite an enviable reputation as a teacher, and before long her equal as a teacher will be hard to find.

The writer understands that Mr.
A. G. Cox anticipates erecting a large flouring mill shortly. This would be a long needed step for Contentment.

Antioch church is getting a coat of whitewash.

Mrs. M. L. Cox, of Dunn, has been visiting her parents, Mr. C. L.
Patrick and lady, for some time, will return in a few days.

Billie's Appreciation

Of Pete Carter's Letter—A Heartly Welcome in Store for Him.

BACHELOR'S RETREAT,
Greenville, N. C., June 3, '83.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:
The communication in last week's REFLECTOR from the pen of Uncle Pete Carter, P. K., of Hog Wober, N. C., caught me all over. I want to meet that "person of the colored persuasion" and when he comes in town again I want you to introduce me and let me shake his paw. He spoke of almost "dancing a jig" when he read my answer to the
A. & L. O. W. communication, and I can truly say when I read his in regard to me, why, Mr. Editor, I felt just like jumping up and cutting the "Pigeon Wing," it did me so much good I fairly shouted, Uncle Pete when I do meet you I am going to "set 'em up" to any thing you want from a gooseberry to an elephant. Now "you heard me rattle."

I was very sorry to hear as how you got caught by the A. & L. O. W., and truly sympathize with you. I expect if they could get me in their sanctum sanctorum, they would almost skin me alive. Eugh! the thought of it makes me shudder.

I, too, Uncle Pete have seen them monkeying around giving their signs and muttering something and I watch them mighty close.
What did your wife do with you when you got home and told her as how they had "done you up?" She put you "in the soup" didn't she?
Well the next time you come to town you keep away from them and you may get along better.

Come in and see me for I shall be on the lookout for you and you will be heartily received by Lovingly yours,
BILLIE.

OFFICE OF BOARD OF ED-UCATION, PITT CO.,

of the universe in his wise providence has seen fit to remove from

Resolved, That in the death of this good man the cause of popular

Attend the meeting of the Business Association to-morrow night and get all others you can be to present. Every person of the community should be interested in the matter.
The Policemen will now be noticing about for violators of the town ordinances. We would simply remind all would-be-offenders that "the gobline will get you if you don't look out."

What do you think of a man just married, who in writing up an account of a marriage, extends his "warmest sympathy?" We knew of something of that kind recently. -BAD BOY.
There were more drunken people than usual on the streets last Saturday and several fusses resulted. The Mayor's court was kept busy until well into the night disposing of the violators.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve ice cream next Tuesday night and during Wednesday in the vacant room adjoining the office of Messrs. Tucker & Murphy. They invite the patronage of the public.
ENTITLED TO THE BEST.—All are entitled to the best that their money will buy, so every family should have, at once, a bottle of the best family remedy, Syrup of Figs, to cleanse the system when constive or bilious. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

Bethel items received too late for this issue. Will appear on first page next week.

Thanks to the Board of Education for a copy of the School Laws of North Carolina.
That popular resort, Oeracoke, is advertised in this paper. It can be safely counted that many of our people will visit there this summer.

Of the thirty days in this month five are Sundays, five are Saturdays and five Fridays.—Wilmington Star.
Mistake, brother. Tell us how you get the five Fridays.

Miss Higgs' dancing school had a pleasant soiree in Germania Hall Sunday night. The closing soiree of the season will be held next Monday night. The ladies are invited.
There was too much rain in some sections and the crops suffered materially in consequence. In those sections where the rain fell was not excessive the outlook is more favorable.

Did you ever see it rain so much? We heard last Saturday morning that Grindie Creek had washed away, but have learned since that it was a mistake, that traces of it are still to be seen.—BAD BOY.
On Monday Mr. D. C. Moore told us that a murder was committed at Mildred in Edgecombe county. Fred Hyman killed Solomon Williams, both parties colored. Hyman made his escape.

The case of Smith against Quinberry, which was being tried here last week, adjourned Saturday for want of certain witnesses. It is probable the case will not be called again until sometime in August.
Bring some extra pocket change with you to court next week, and don't forget the REFLECTOR. If you find us on the street drop in to see us. The little amount you owe is sadly needed. This is for who have not paid up.

Mr. Asa Garriss, living near Haurahans, told us yesterday that he had lost twenty-two hogs from cholera in the last two months. We suggested that he kill and bury all such hogs as a preventative to the further spreading of the disease.
The steamer Greenville left Tarboro for this place after the arrival of the train Monday evening. The first thirteen miles of the trip down the river was made in an hour. Pretty good time on the river. The high water helped the speed some.

Friend Ryan is one of the cleverest merchants we know, and it is frequently the pleasure of the REFLECTOR force to acknowledge his kindness. His latest remembrance was a pitcher of excellent lemonade which was greatly enjoyed.
Thanks to Cadets H. W. Wedbee and E. C. Yellowley for an invitation to the celebration of the literary societies of Davis School June 12th. E. C. Yellowley is one of the marshalls and C. M. Moutere one of the declaimers. Dr. B. F. Dixon, of Oxford delivers the address.

This week the REFLECTOR office received a nice lot of new type for its job printing department. We are constantly making improvements to our outfit as means will permit and can do good job printing at as reasonable prices as first class work can be done. Give us an order.
The Bad Boy downed the editor the other day. We were all going to dinner when the B. B. asked, "What tree is most prominent on this street?" "The elm, of course," said we, thinking he alluded to our beautiful shade trees. "Not much," said he. "It is the axle-tree." We rolled him on.

Married.
At the residence of Mr. G. C. Griffin, near Bell's Ferry, on the 29th ult., Mr. Joel Patrick and Miss Julia Griffin, the Rev. J. L. Winfield officiating. The REFLECTOR wishes Mr. and Mrs. Patrick a long and happy life, and trusts that no cloud of sorrow or adversity will ever eclipse their present happiness.
Water Everywhere.
We don't remember ever to have seen a harder rain than fell here Friday night. The sewers overflowed and for a short while the streets were flooded. At several places right in town the people were water-bomb and could not pass the streets. Along the course of the Academy branch, as it is known, bridges and fences were washed away.

Error.
The Tarboro Southerner says it bears that dysentery is epidemic in Greenville. The Southerner is misinformed, as the report is by no means true. There have been several cases, but the number is hardly in excess of other spring seasons, nor the number greater in proportion to population than any of the neighboring towns. The health record of Greenville is hard to beat.

Run Away.
George Winn, the little boy whom Mayor Fowler, of Wilmington, sent to Mr. A. J. Griffin, of this place, some months ago, ran away last week. Mr. Griffin told George to do some work about the garden, but after he had gone to his store George went in the house, procured his clothes and left. The mail driver reported that he saw the boy near Sparta and that he was making towards Tarboro. He was only 14 years old.

He Did Too.
A man with more liquor aboard than was ever intended for one person to carry, was expatiating upon the merits of a horse he possessed. He said "yer cant (hie) ketch that 'ere critter with er streak er lightnin'," and he can trot to Tarboro quicker (hie) news can go over them eyes than er horse. Pretty fast-horse, but the owner found out that the Police could catch him very easy if he did not "let up" on his neck.

The Way of the Transgressor is Hard.
Two white men who were arrested for drunkenness and disorder Saturday evening, were working out their fines upon the streets on Monday and yesterday. How much better for them had they kept sober on Saturday. No doubt their crops are in need of the work which they are required to put upon the streets of the town, and we expect their money is sorely in need of the money they wasted for whiskey.

New Officers.
There were three vacancies to fill by the board of county Commissioners at their meeting on Monday. Dr. J. P. Redding had previously resigned the office of Coroner, the death of Mr. Marcus Manning made vacant the office of Surveyor, and the death of Rev. Josephus Latham made vacant the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. To fill these vacancies the Board elected Mr. H. B. Harris as Coroner, Mr. J. S. L. Ward as Surveyor, and Maj. Henry Harding as Supt. of Public Instruction. The selections are good ones.

Marriage Licenses.
Were issued by the Register of Deeds to the following couples during the month of May:
W. J. Manning and Minnie Nichols, Edward C. Cannon and Melissa Harris, Charles M. Buck and Emily Cobitt, O. A. Coley and Fannie Cobb, Allen Tice and Julia Braxton, Joel Patrick and Julia F. Griffin, E. N. Hatton and Pennie Langley.

George Hicks and Sophia Tucker, Willie Bergerson and Della Paton, Wiley Mills and Martha Ann Williams, George W. Ellison and Mary Eliza Grimes, Joe Harper and Martha King.
To His Last Rest.
The remains of Rev. Josephus Latham, whose death occurred last Wednesday, and about whom kind friends have made just tributes in this paper and truthfully portrayed his character, were brought to his home, four miles from Greenville on Thursday, for interment. Funeral services were held at Mt. Pleasant Church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Howard. Many of his warm friends from Greenville and the country surrounding attended his funeral.

Truth Too.
Two of the REFLECTOR crew seem to entertain thoughts matrimonial, hoping for a consummation of the same sometime in the dim and distant future, and the knowledge that the Justices had decided to place no county tax upon marriage licenses caused them joy unspeakable. One dropped his stick and jumped three feet high, striking his feet together twice before landing on the floor.

We Decline.
The Wilmington Star advises us to emigrate to the North pole in order to get rid of rats and flies. We have already got the best of the rats and exterminated that rodent but the pestiferous fly is here in all his unmercifulness. And we are afraid to try the North pole, for these flies are great things for freezing up and then thawing out with the coming of spring. Our auburn locks might produce such a change in that now frigid region as to make it healthy for flies.

Send for the Boys.
Mr. Thos. E. Little, who lives on Pine Log Swamp, in Beaver Dam township, told us Monday that the rabbits were about to take possession of his premises. He planted one-fourth of an acre in beans and the vines came up nicely. Thinking they were getting large enough to work he went out one day only to find that the rabbits had eaten up the whole patch. Another day he went out in the woods to get some straw and at one stroke of his rake he pulled out three rabbits. If he would come a day to Greenville and get a cart load of guns, dogs, traps and turn them loose after those rabbits he'd see a mighty thinning out of them.

Base Ball.
Ball to the bat Mr. Pletcher!
The young men of Greenville have come to the front with a first-class base ball club, in which they intend to "make Rome howl" or some club take water. They mean to stand to the rack, fender or no fender. Their battery is a strong one and can do good work. Last week they organized with the following names and position: Bert Moyer, catcher; J. H. Randolph, pitcher; R. S. Clark, 1st base; W. B. James, 2nd base; W. W. Moore, 3rd base; F. D. Dancy, S. S.; S. T. Hooker, R. F.; H. T. Hooker, L. F.; Robt. M. Moyer, C. F.; Alex. Heilbronner, umpire.

The battery gave a relief but we were unable to secure their names before going to press. All challenges should be addressed to R. D. Cherry, Sec. and Treas.
Persons.
Several warrants addressed to persons in Pitt county who are entitled to receive pensions, were recently returned to the State Auditor at Raleigh from the postoffice in Greenville, marked "unclaimed." The Auditor wrote to the Superior Court Clerk of Pitt county and asked him to make investigation and see if the persons to whom the pensions belonged could be found. Mr. Moyer has furnished us with a list of the names which the Auditor sent him, and we publish them. They are Mrs. Martha Ann Simpson, Mrs. Susanna Spain, two for Mrs. Susan Ritta, one '87 and one for '88) two for Mrs. Maria Cunningham, (for '87 and '88) and two for Mrs. Elizabeth James. (for '87 and '88). Any reader of the REFLECTOR knows where either of the above named persons live and will bring or send their full postoffice address to the Superior Court Clerk at Greenville he can procure the warrants for them. No doubt the money is needed by the persons to whom these pensions belong and we hope they can be found at once.

Magistrates.
A meeting of the Magistrates of the county, thirty-three being present, was held in the Court House on Monday for the purpose of levying the taxes for the county as well as for the Board of County Commissioners meeting jointly with them. It was found that the government of the county for the next year could be run on a smaller taxation than last year and the Boards made a reduction of 2 1/2 cents in the levy for this year, fixing it at 22 1/2 cents on the $100 valuation. The poll was levied at 62 1/2, reduction of 7 1/2 cents from last year. On all schedule taxes the same levy was made for the county as has been made for the State except upon marriage licenses, no county tax whatever being placed upon them. There was one amusement when the question of not levying any tax upon marriage licenses was raised, the Justice who made the motion saying he did not think the county should exact any revenue from a man's necessities. A majority of the magistrates concurring in his opinion no tax was levied. The Board of Education was unanimously elected, viz: Messrs. Henry Harding, J. R. Congleton and J. D. Cox. The entire action of the Justices will be heartily commended by the people of the county. This reduction in taxes is an indication of the faithfulness of the Board of Commissioners in the management of the county finances.

A Good Man Gone.
MR. EDITOR:—Will you give me space in your paper to give to the public a short account of the death of one of our distinguished and most noble citizens. Rev. Josephus Latham departed this life May 29th, 1889, at 3:30 A. M. He was taken ill while on his mission to one of his churches in Beaufort county, and stopped at the residence of Mrs. Mary Hodges in whose home he breathed his last. He was one of the most patient sufferers I ever saw, and bore his pain without murmuring. During his entire sickness he was perfectly conscious and could at any time recognize any face he knew and call the person by name, to within a few minutes of his death. He was devoted to his wife and children, and when he knew that death's icy touch was upon him and that his spirit was fast plunging for flight, he would take anything that was offered for the satisfaction of his wife. When she would enter the room and ask were he asleep he would reply: "No, my sweet little angel." He always addressed her in these words of endearment. Occasionally he would say "I want to die, dear Saviour, so I can live with thee," and when the summons came he seemed thankful, and pointing heavenward, said "an' goin' up higher." His last moments were full of faith in his Saviour, and his countenance was joyous that he would soon be in the realms of happiness above. His parting devotion to his family were very touching. His fond wife sat by his side until death claimed him, and to the last there were expressions of deepest devotion from each other. Would that the vows of holy wedlock could always be kept as sacred as was manifest in this couple.

His nurse W. P. NORCOTT.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR. GREENVILLE, N. C.

A HERO. We know a man, a brave, true hero, who, when the mercury drops to zero, will hold the babe, as few men could.

WORSE THAN MARRIAGE. A bachelor old and cranky was sitting alone in his room; His teeth with the gout were aching, And his face was o'erspread with gloom.

No little one's shouts disturbed him, From nose the house was free; In fact, from the attic to the cellar 'Twas quiet as quiet could be.

No medical aid was lacking; The servants answered his ring, Respectfully heard his orders, And supplied him with everything.

But still there was something wanting, Something he couldn't command; The kindly word of compassion, The touch of a gentle hand.

Contagious Blood Poison. The farmer who raises his own supplies at home may not handle as much money as the farmer who devotes every energy to the cultivation of cotton.

is the constitutional blood disease which has for several centuries past been infesting mankind with its annoying features and destructive results.

Unity of action is a great thing in private or public enterprise. When everybody pulls one way something will certainly move; when some pull one way and some another no progress can be made.

A Female Paradox. A lady old, and growing older still, (As ladies will, you grow old, you know) became, in spite of age, as young as youth, but ill.

Laughable Reflections. And Mirth Provoking Sentences as Compiled by the Reflector's Bad Eye.

There were no flies on Noah; he succeeded in floating a company when the rest of the world was "in the scup."

Judge—What sort of a man, now, was it whom you saw commit the assault?

Consable—Sure, yer honor, he was a small, insignificant craitur about yer own size, yer honor.

Mistress—Mary, have you made the dressing for the turkey?

Mary—Sure, ma'am, an' I've made his pants, but I'm havin' hard work wid his coat, for it's no wardrobe I am at all, at all!

Dr. Tanner was not the first man who lived on water for forty days, said Smudge.

"Of course not." "Of course not?" "Of course not?" "Well, what's the matter with Noah?"

Alms giver—"Are you one of the men who are agitating the labor question?"

Tramp—"No, yer honor. O'm one of the men what the labor question is agitin'." Bad luck to it!

"Why do you look so sad, Miss Etzel?" "Sister Helen is going to marry the Reflector's Bad Boy."

"The worthless young reprobate! No wonder you are sad." "Oh, it is not that. I wanted to marry him myself."

"Which do you love most, your papa or your mama?" "Charlie's love mama most."

Charlie's mother—"Why, Charlie, I am surprised at you. I thought you loved me most."

Charlie—"Can't help it, mamma: we men have to hold together."

"Who's ducky is oo'?" "He—Oo's!" "She—Forever and ever and ever?" "He—Ess, I is."

"Has oo dot five dollars for oor ducky dear?" "He—"Thunder Melinda. Think I'm made of money, don't you?"

Fond Mother (proudly)—Yes, Johnnie won the reading prize at school. Come here, Johnnie, and tell Mrs. Brown how you won the prize.

Johnnie—"Oh, I took it hands down. Billy Waffles got it for readin' good, but I played marbles for it an' won it."

This is what you ought to have, in fact you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not.

There's nothing like it. Use It Now! "Having used your Paine's Celery Compound this spring, I can safely recommend it as the most powerful and at the same time most gentle restorative."
