Rev. R. W. Stancill Reflects on the Ring Fight.

Sullivan Has Done Nothing to Benefit Himself, Yet He is Applauded as the Greatest Hero of the Age in Which He Lives.

Troy (N. Y.) Telegram.

The Rev. R. W. Stancill, pastor of the Sixth Avenue Church of Christ, discoursed last evening on the novel subject: "The Pugilists."

He took his text from John ii, 16: "The pride of life is not of the Father, but is of the world."

The clergyman proceeded: "How vain is all beneath the skies! How transient every earthly bliss! How slender all the fondest ties That bind us to a world like this.

"The evening cloud, the morning dew, The withering grass, the fading flower Of earthly hopes are emblem true, The glory of a passing hour.

The past week has been one of great excitement. Two noted characters, one from Boston and the other from Baltimore, have been the center of attraction.

Judging from the space given in the secular press, containing in detail an account of the fight between the pugilists, and the eagerness with which the populace has perused every column upon the subject one might think that the greatest battle that was ever fought, and the greatest victory ever achieved, took place on the borders of Mississippi and Louisiana, under a scorching summer sun, on the 8th of July, 1889.

John L. Sullivan has gained for himself a world-wide reputation, and his name is to be handed down upon the pages of history to generations yet unborn as the champion pugilist of the age.

No doubt even now some historian is busily engaged in penning the wonderful history of the greatest battle (?) and the greatest victory (?) and the most wonderful defeat (?) ever known to man.

The world so long in need of some great leader—a champion of men—a star of equaled brilliancy, has at last found its much needed desire in the person of John L. Sullivan, of Boston, Mass.

Has he done to make his name so famous? Has he made the world ricker, or happier or more prosperous, by his wonderful achievement? History informs us of men who by deeds of love and charity have gladdened the hearts of many, and enriched the world by their noble self-sacrificing lives.

But here is a man who has never, so far as is known, accomplished a single deed for the benefit of his God, his country or his fellowmen, and yet at the age of 30 he stands before the world as the champion of heroes, the wonder of the age! Simply because, with his fists, he whipped Jake Kilrain. He fought as one beating the air, but a wonderful victory. The notoriety given this boxer shows the tendency of the age. The pride of life is not of the Father. Most admirers of such noted pugilists and their wonderful achievements fall far below the plane of enlightened humanity, and American civilization.

Such characters as Sullivan might have flourished during the dark ages, or far back in some barbarous time, but the greatest wonder to us is that such men should, in this enlightened age receive so much applause from the world. The people say that

Sullivan is a wonder, but they have within the last week, by their applause of the prize fight, proven themselves a greater wonder than the so-called hero of Boston.

"Man being in honor abideth not; he is like the beasts that perish. The world passeth away and the just thereof." Of all the vain pursuits of man it seems to me that fist fighting is the most degrading. "God made man upright, but he has sought out many inventions," and the most useless of all inventions is that of prize fighting, and those who spend their time in such vain pursuits should be discounted and have their lives, and in death should go down to their graves "unswept, unhonored and unused." As long as such games as prize fighting and upholds the pugilists as it has, those who have been so conspicuous during the last few days, just so long will men degrade themselves in pursuits of such void honors.

Numbers will press after them with all their mind and strength, and in their haste to possess them they sacrifice all that which is good and holy, all that is benevolent and divine." It often costs them much to enable them to accomplish their ends. They expend peace of conscience, ease, and often life itself. Nay, the soul's salvation, the favor of God, eternal life, immortality in heaven, are exchanged for this empty nothing. True wisdom condemns prize fighting as valueless, and all pugilists as useless upon the stage of life.

How different the honors which come from above, and those who spend their lives in glorifying God and making their fellow-man happy.

"The righteous shall be had in ever-lasting remembrance, but the memory of the wicked shall perish."

The honors of the earth come from inconstant mortals; the honors which are spiritual flow from the unchangeable Jehovah. The honors of earth are sought by trampling on the rights of others; the honors of God are sought by the increase of human happiness. Earthly honors are unsatisfactory when obtained. The honors of God fill the soul with bliss. Earthly honors are transitory like the source from whence they spring; the honors of heaven are abiding like their Divine author.

Let us ever strive for those honors which God on man bestows. It is vain to spend our money for that which is not good. Life is too short and eternity too long to spend our time in pursuit of earthly glory. The world needs our help. The cries of thousands in distress go up daily before God. What are we doing to help? Let us fight for an incorruptible crown that fades not away in the heavens.

Asking for Advice.

Sanford Express.

This writer is in receipt of the following letter from a friend at Laurenburg:

"I have for some time been thinking of entering the journalistic arena, and I want to draw on your time for an honest confession, as to whether there is any money in the profession, when energy and push are active.

I have access to your paper at times of late and hold it up as approximating my ideal of a public journal.

YOUR OLD COLLEGE MATE.

We suppose our young friend means to ask whether or not we are making any money publishing the Express and whether or not of our own knowledge there is any money to be made in editing a newspaper in North Carolina.

We simply say we are making no money on the Express. We have heard that a paper here and there in North Carolina is making a little money. We have to 10 other evidence of the fact, while on the other hand we have seen a great many die and have heard the groans of a great many more. The country papers in North Carolina are fast becoming a great credit to country journalism. They are becoming clean, well printed and are filled with intelligent, well written matter. They are living on the principle that it is more blessed to give than to receive. They are more than reciprocal. They are in most cases conducted by some of the best talent in the State, but certainly not for the purpose of making money and wealth. The towns are too small and there is too much illiteracy to publish a newspaper in North Carolina for the gold there is in it.

Beggars—"Please help a poor cripple."

Passer-by (giving him money)—"Poor fellow! Where are you crippled?"

Beggars (pocketing the money)—"In my finances, sir?"

Laughable Reflections.

And Mirth Provoking Selections as Compiled by the Reflector's Bad Boy.

CONFORMING TO THE LETTER. Tommy—"Won't you kiss me Nellie?"

Nellie—"No, mamma says I must not kiss the boys, but you may kiss me."

A BRILLIANT IDEA. Hardware dealer—"Now, Mr. Rusticus, there's what I call a bargain. That stove has a quick oven, and the draught is so arranged that it will save one-half your fuel."

Miss L. (who is a student of economics)—"La sakes, pa! why not get two and save all the fuel?"

NATIONAL PRIDE. Frenchman (proudly)—"You have not got in ze German Empire anything so tall as ze great Eiffel Tower."

German (indignantly)—"No, you don't get no oddings so stouhd like Limburger cheese!"

AWAITING HER CHANCE. Elderly Spinster (at Navy Department)—"I understand that you are going to open a lot of sealed proposals here to-day."

Official—"Yes, madam, we are."

Elderly Spinster—"Well, I guess I'll sit down and wait. I'm not going to throw away any such chance as this."

Husband (after some words with his wife)—"Well, let us drop it. I don't care to say any more about it. And, besides, I like to talk to a sensible person when I am talking."

Wife (with a sarcastic laugh)—"You don't always do it, then?"

H.—"I don't?"

W.—"No. I sometimes hear you talking to yourself."

TO PARIS FOR THE HONEYMOON. Angelina—"At last we are together, my Edwin. Do get my feather rug from the stateroom. You dear! you think of everything."

Edwin—"What would I not do for you, my sweet wife?"

Angelina—"Nothing shall come between us now, Edwin."

Edwin—"My cup is flowing over, darling."

Angelina—"So, dear, is—Oh, Edwin! fetch me a basin quick."

WHAT HE WAS. Elder—"So, deacon, ye've got back from livin' in the city, hev ye?"

Deacon (who has lost a farm in speculation)—"Humph!"

"Party fine place, I s'pose. Make much money in Wall street, deacon?"

"No 'tence, deacon, but which was you, a bull or a bar?"

"Neither; I was a blasted, long-earred, unharnessed jackass."

Citizen (to reporter)—"Why in the Old Nick didn't you publish my name in connection with that affair of our last night?"

Reporter (meekly)—"Because you requested me not to."

Citizen (wrathfully)—"What of it? A man in your business is expected to know something about human nature."

"The Cities are Swollen and the Fields are Stripped."

Sanford Express.

Not only the wealth, but the talent of this country is being concentrated in the cities. This is the most apprehensive feature of centralization. The talent of the Southern States before the war, was to be found on the plantations, handling slaves, and enjoying all the luxuries of culture and refinement then to be had anywhere. The new order of things sends the educated and ambitious young men to the cities, where now the government, predominating brain of the nation is concentrated. A young man of much ambition and talent, does not entertain the idea for the moment of staying in the country villages and small places to practice any one of the learned professions. These are no longer intellectual centres, and talent will seek talent so sure as water will seek its level. It goes to the cities almost as fast as it springs from the loins of the country.

From the loins of a back country farmer springs a youth of intellect and aspiration. His natural thirst is for intellectual environment, and he is going to have it if he has to flee from his father's farm to get it. He goes, and the fields are stripped and the cities swollen.

Agriculture is to-day more or less a pursuit of slavery, simply because it does not command its share of the brain and intellect of the governing, thinking people, and how to get thinking men to farm is now a pressing problem with men of other pursuits. If other pursuits are to continue to rob it of its best brain and blood and only return to it that which they positively refuse to have, it cannot be anything but a failure.

Seventy per cent of the population of this republic are engaged in farming. We saw at

Some Telling Sentences From His Sermons.

"I will tell you, sir, it is an awful thing to sin, and one of the most awful things about sinning is that you have to reap the consequences, though it has been forgiven."

"Here are some of you with the sledgehammer of sin driving the spokes of iniquity deep into the door-posts of your soul, some of them spikes of adultery, some of profanity, some of drunkenness. God Al! mightily in sovereign grace some day, and I hope very directly, may come down and extract those spikes of iniquity from the door-posts of your soul. But, dying man, the sears are there, the consequences are there, and so certain as God lives you will reap those."

"Dear young man, you think it fun to sow wild oats; it may be hell to reap them, it may be perdition and loss even in this world."

"Heaven is too high, and hell is too deep, and time is too short, and eternity is too long, and souls are too valuable to be quibbling over mere matters for controversy's sake."

"There is the principle laid down that in the sight of our fellow men we, who claim to be Christians, are justified by works? And why by works? Because we could not see anything else. We can't see a man's faith; we can't see his heart; we can see his works, and by his works we can see that he is justified and we could not see it any other way."

"If your faith and your works do not tally, there is something wrong as certain as God lives."

"Regeneration is the pivot upon which heaven and hell turn so far as you and I are concerned."

"And sometimes I am really puzzled about what you are going to do with just such a class as this if they are going to get to Heaven at all, these card-playing, theatre, pleasure-loving sort of people."

"It is the character that determines destiny. Character is what a man is; a man's moral character is what a man morally is in the sight of God. When you enter eternity, the thing that will decide whether you go up to Heaven or down to Hell will be the character which you have when you die."

"I would rather have one verse of the Bible to read to a dying penitent than to give him an hour's talk."

"Let science go to the ends of the earth; let philosophy take care of itself, and poetry and rhetoric and essay and things of that kind go. Let us preach God's plain, glorious blessed, eternal truth. It is all that will keep me out of Hell, and keep souls from dying."

"No man has a right to say that anything in God's Word is a type of something else in God's Word, unless he can find authority for it in God's Word."

Nashville Argonaut: The American Cotton Seed Oil Company, will build in time for the fall trade warehouses at Nashville, Rocky Mount, Whitakers, Battleboro and Weldon for the purchase and handling of cotton seed for the Wilmington Cotton Oil Mills.

Goldsboro Argus: The many friends in this city of Mr. Collier Cobb and of his father Rev. N. B. Cobb, and brother of our esteemed townsman Dr. W. H. H. Cobb, will learn with sincere regret that this talented young gentleman is dangerously ill at Cambridge, Mass.

Concord Standard: Last Friday at Lower Stone church, in Rowan county, the little two year old child of Rev. Mr. Heller, swallowed a wood screw 2 1/2 inches long. The family are quite uneasy about the results of this occurrence. It is thought that serious results may follow, as the child is so young.

Reidsville Review: The prospects for a large crop of corn in this county is very flattering, indeed. Tobacco is looking fine for the season of the year. We are pleased to learn that the wheat has not been damaged so badly by the wet weather as was supposed to be the case a few days ago. A good deal of it had been housed and stacked before the rain.

Weldon News: The change of schedules by which trains on the Seaboard Air Line fail to connect at this point with trains on the Coast Line is a source of great inconvenience and annoyance to at least a part of the traveling public. If a person living on the line of the W. & W. road wishes to go to some point on the R. & G. road he must spend the night in Weldon and vice versa.

The Atlantic Coast Line is making the permanent survey from Greenville to Kinston. The route decided on passes about three miles above Bell's Ferry. We are informed that the road will certainly be built to this place if there is no difficulty experienced in securing the right of way, and there ought not to be any such difficulty.

Wilmington Messenger: For a town of some 8,000 or 8,500 whites Wilmington will compare in the cost elegance, size and beauty of its churches with any Southern town of corresponding white population. We have been from Maryland to the Gulf and up the Ohio and have visited many towns in Kentucky, as well as in several other Southern States, and we do not know its rival in churches in towns of but 8,500 whites. Another large and handsome church will be added to the list within a year. The foundation of Fifth Street Methodist Church is nearly complete, and by next July the building will probably be ready for worship. It will be a very tasteful and attractive structure with two steeples. It is intended to seat 1,150 persons and to cost $17,000.

Personal. Mrs. Gov. Jarvis is at Morehead. Miss Ella Monteiro left for Morehead yesterday. Mrs. J. B. Cherry and son left for Morehead Monday. Mr. F. C. Harding is teaching school in Beaver Dam township. Mayor James is home again. Mr. B. S. Sheppard acted in his absence. Miss May Harris from Pitt county is visiting Mrs. Foust.—Salisbury Herald. Miss Lucy Tyson spent a day or two in town last week visiting Miss Maida Williams. Misses Myrtle and Lillie Wilson have been visiting Mrs. L. C. Terrell, in Tarboro. Mr. W. S. Bernard returned last week from a trip to Wilmington and Wrightsville. Mr. Moses Faison, the clever clerk at the new drug store, is visiting his mother near Warsaw. Mr. Rip Ward has so far recovered from his recent spell of sickness as to be in town last week. Mr. J. A. Moore, from the country, was visiting his son, Mr. E. B. Moore, at Hotel Macon last week. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Quinerly, of Centreville, were visiting the family of Sheriff King last week. Mr. B. F. Sugg accompanied the Guard to Wrightsville and remained with them through the encampment. Mrs. H. B. Clark, of Washington, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Langley, in Greenville. Mr. Z. M. Potts, of Washington, came up Sunday to take charge of the telegraph office during the editor's absence. Mr. J. J. Cherry, Jr., wife and child, left yesterday morning for an extended trip of several weeks at Morehead City. We were pleased to meet Mr. Will Harris, formerly of Wilmington, on his way to Baltimore, on our streets yesterday. Miss Mattie Moye gave a nice little party Wednesday afternoon of last week in honor of Miss Nannie King, of Greenville.—Kinston Free Press. Mr. R. R. Cotton and family, Mrs. Monteiro and the children of Col. Harry Skinner and Mr. W. B. Brown were among those who left for Oeracoke yesterday morning. Through a private letter received from Mr. J. J. Daney, Jr., we learn that he is settling along nicely, and they have formed a temperance society among the boys and he has been elected president. Misses Maggie and Lizzie Fleming honored our office with their presence a short while one evening last week. Visitors are always welcome, especially ladies—and those who want to pay their account. We learn with pleasure that Mr. B. B. Brown, a former employe of the REFLECTOR, was united in marriage to Miss Sallie Duggan, on Sunday last at Tarboro. We extend our hearty congratulations, "Duck" wishing you a pleasant journey through life. Mr. C. J. Terrell has been appointed Train Dispatcher of the Carolina Central Railroad, with headquarters in the Superintendent's office. He'll make a good one, and will do the work with neatness and dispatch.—Wilmington Star. Our congratulations, Charlie. Rev. Dr. N. C. Hughes and family, Misses Ann Delaney and Henrie Williams, Mr. D. J. Whitehead and wife, Master W. B. Whitehead and Mr. Henry Sheppard left Monday for Western North Carolina. Master Billie Whitehead goes to join his father, the editor of the Herald, at Salisbury. We are glad to hear that our old friend and fellow citizen, Ang. M. Moore, has arrived at his new home in Mitchell, Dakota. Mrs. Moore writes to friends here that they enjoyed their ride westward very much, and were especially struck with the fine views often seen while enroute. She described the appearance of Johnstown, through which they passed, and says that it looks almost like superhuman to see how houses are overturned, railroad iron twisted as though they were strings, boilers, engines and cars overturned and lying submerged in the river. They arrived at their destination on July 4th, and speak of the inhabitants as kind, courteous and obliging. It was soon learned that Mr. Moore was a Confederate soldier and this fact commanded their utmost kindness and respect. It was a great undertaking for persons of such advanced years to leave kindred and friends and make home in the far West, but we wish them abundant success and trust that their highest hopes will be realized.—Edenton Advocate. Rev. J. W. Wildman preached two very fine sermons on Sunday last to good congregations. He will preach here on next Sunday night at 8:15, his last for some time. Doings at Oeracoke. We received a letter from Spencer Bros. relative to a grand ball to be given at Oeracoke on the nights of the 23rd, 24th and 25th, but it did not arrive in time to make any mention of it in last week's paper. Fare at the hotel and on the steamer was reduced for the occasion. We were also informed that John L. Sullivan was expected to be there to-day, 24th. A Beautiful Sight. It was our pleasure to visit the residence of Mr. M. R. Lang on Saturday night to see the beautiful night blooming cereus in all its glory. It was very large plant and on Saturday night it had eight blooms and Sunday night four, making twelve in all. A great many of our citizens had the pleasure of seeing it. It was the largest and had more blooms on it than any we ever saw, it had to be seen to be appreciated. Thanks to his good lady for one.

Your attention is called to the Notice to Creditors in this issue of T. R. Cherry, Adm'r of Arcena Joyner, dec'd. The commercial travelers are looming up in considerable numbers. They are taking orders for fall goods. Attention is called to the notice to creditors by Jesse Cannon, administrator of Mary Hancock, deceased. So many of the town's population have gone to the summer resorts that their absence is apparent on streets. The Foreman returns thanks to Mr. V. L. Stephens for a half dozen of those fine "Pilgrim" cigars he has just received. There were five or six hundred visitors Sunday afternoon to see the railroad, a shower came up and such scattering you never did see. Ex-Postmaster Blow has been having trouble with the mumps in his family. Four members were afflicted at one time last week. Manufacturing enterprises would do much for Greenville. Every convenience for shipping, both by rail and water, are now at our doors. Dr. W. H. Bagwell, of Pactolus, was in to see us last Wednesday. He says there is not as much sickness now as there was a few weeks ago. Elder W. A. Ross placed us under obligations Saturday for a sack of nice apples. Uncle Alfred does raise some of the best apples, to be sure. Some of our exchanges are remarking that katy-did say there will be an early frost this fall, so its no use to argue further on that line. While the railroad hands were laying the track near town last week, large numbers of people went out every day to see the work going on. Now we have another watermelon prize to offer. We will give the REFLECTOR for one year to the person bringing us the largest melon this season. Attention is called to the summons by E. A. Moye, Superior Court Clerk, in the matter of R. Greene, Jr., and others against J. C. Albritton and others. Mr. Jesse Cannon, of Contentnea, was in our office Friday. He says that in his neighborhood the crop prospects are poorest they have had in twenty years. Greenville should celebrate the completion of the railroad. Speak out, men, and get everything ready for a grand jubilee by the time the train gets over into town. On the first page of this issue we publish the sermon of Rev. K. W. Stauch, a native of Pitt county, now a pastor in Troy, N. Y., upon the Sullivan-Kilrain fight. Unt down the weeds on your premises. We hear of several snakes being seen in and around the yards. It will be too late when some of you are bitten by them. Greenville wants an increase of one thousand in population doing the next twelve months. The proper unity and enterprise on the part of our citizens will bring them here. The railroad force are now building the trestle across the river low grounds. As soon as that is completed the bridge will be constructed and the track brought on into town. We return thanks for an invitation to a basket picnic at Grimesland on Wednesday, August 7th. A big time is in store for every body. We have just printed some very handsome invitations. The Register of Deeds is complaining of the backwardness of merchants and dealers in giving in their purchases. The course prescribed by law may be taken against some of the delinquents. The Sun Beam Society of the Baptist church will give a party at the Academy grounds on next Monday night for the entertainment of its members. The Society will invite the Sunday-school. Mr. H. F. Keel brought us some of the nicest peaches we have seen this summer. He says he has several trees just loaded down and breaking to pieces. They were hugely enjoyed and we return many thanks. We have the best Devil of any office in the State, he keeps front on our table all the while.—Rovovoke News. Perhaps you have brother, but ours can "knock out" two gallons per day. The water is low in the river again, making it troublesome for boats to get through to Tarboro. If the river keeps up the style it will be spreading out with another freshet in less than a month. We heard one of the soldier boys say that there was at least $5,000 lying around on poker tables in Camp Latimer every day. Taking that as an index the encampment was as much of a gambling school as it was a military school. Mr. E. S. Neal, civil engineer for the railroad works, tells us the examination of the bottom of the river, last week, reveals a good foundation upon which to build the bridge. The bottom of the river is sand underlaid with blue mud. The REFLECTOR is in the hands of the printers this week and will so remain till the editor gets home again. The Foreman bosses the work, the Bad Boy superintends the business, and the Devil—well, he always knows how to play his part. The Bad Boy thinks he's awfully smart but he gets downed sometimes. He was asked the other day, "How do you know that this hat's your mother's?" He finally gave it up and was told that it was because a girl was always trying to get her mother-in-law.

A thief broke into the store of Messrs. R. Williams & Son one night last week, the entrance being effected through one of the rear windows. A few goods were all that was missed. The thief went out through the back door which he unlocked. Harry Lewis a well-known colored man of Tarboro, and truckman for Mr. J. K. Grannis, was accidentally killed last week by the running away of his team. The horse and wagon struck him in the breast and he died in a short time afterwards. Geo. S. Lloyd, M. D. will be at the King House in Greenville on Monday and Tuesday, July 29th and 30th, to treat all diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat. He is permanently located in Tarboro and will visit Greenville at stated intervals. Our people needing such service should see him. The REFLECTOR office is constantly turning out and artistic job printing. With new type, best material and experienced workmen we cannot fail to suit you. Send a trial order, anything from a visiting card to a thousand page pamphlet. No trouble to show specimens. Get prices before ordering elsewhere. The Greenville Guard arrived home from the encampment at 7 o'clock Thursday evening, having come down from Tarboro on the steamer Myers. The Washington Light Infantry was on the same steamer enroute for home. Some of our boys are pleased with the camp and others are not. The report of misconduct on the part of some reflects no credit upon them. Oeracoke seems all the rage among our people. There left on the Steamer Greenville Saturday morning Mrs. Higgs, Mrs. Glenn, Misses Rosa Forbes, Dora Carr, Beattie Tyson, Beckie R. C. H. O'Hagan and Messrs. R. D. Cherry, C. T. Munford, S. F. White and Robert Moye. "Uncle" John Cherry also returned. And by the way the hotel proprietors have a mascot in "Uncle John." Every time he comes home and tells about the times they are having at Oeracoke he takes back a crowd and they do say if he comes once or twice more he will have the hall of Pitt county down there.

Upstairs and Down

From Garret to Cellar, in the Laundry, Kitchen, Butler's Pantry, and Bath Room—JAMES PYLE'S PEARLINE has its place. There's nothing too coarse—nothing too fine for it.

With the aid of PEARLINE a delicate woman can clean house and wash clothes. It virtually takes the place of hard work, and is perfectly harmless; in fact, your things last longer, because you do not have to rub them to pieces to get them clean. PEARLINE is for sale everywhere, but beware of the numerous imitations which are peddled from door to door—they are dangerous.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR. GREENVILLE, N. C.

THE TROOPER.

Only a common trooper
Firm and steady of hand,
From his charger riding,
Awaiting the sharp command.

Drawn up in line and squadron
For the king's parade and show,
And the multitude that pushes
On the wide, wide plain below.

There must the squadron rally,
Near the straying sea of life:
Attack, retreat, and rally
As if in battle strife.

Only a common trooper,
Unknown to any fame;
He wears the king's own colors,
But the king knows not his name.

The loud command is given,
And the trooper starts to ride,
While thundering hoofs of horses
Taste clouds of dust on high.

Down past the thronging thousands
Like a whirlwind fierce and wild,
When suddenly before them
Starts a little child.

There's a sudden cry of terror,
There are faces pale with fear,
And a whirlwind fierce and wild,
Of the danger drawing near.

St. night toward the child the trooper
Oh, manly see him ride:
That mightiest and the bravest
None can stop or turn aside.

But the trooper as he gallops
Bends downward to the ground;
He grasps the child in his arms,
And he holds him safe and sound.

Erect he stands onward,
No moment has he lost,
And with the child before him
Wishes forward with the host.

The multitude applaud him
With loud huzzas and cries,
The king looks down upon him
And he bows his head in pride.

Only a common trooper,
And I do not know his name;
But his noble deed is written
On the scroll of deathless fame.

—I. E. Dickson.

Down East Dialect.

A person whom I can truthfully describe as "an esteemed correspondent" sends the following:

Dear TAVENNER—Your challenge of Saturday last reminds me of a remark overheard by a visitor at a farm house early on a summer afternoon. An old man, a white-headed man, said to me, "You ain't no today, but you ain't no yesterday."

If this did not give the hearer an appetite for breakfast, he must have been beyond the reach of toxins.

Secure, a farmer, packages inclosing grammatical gems have also reached me from down East. One brings the somewhat familiar phrase, "He done splended," in this case said to have been spoken by a woman of "some wealth and more pretension" with regard to her son's proficiency at school. The other specimen is thus presented by my correspondent:

A woman called upon a friend who was recovering from a long illness, and the following conversation ensued:

Well, Gustia, how be you today?
Be? Glad you is.
Other gems must "stand over," as editors say, until a more convenient season, but I shall find room for the following—also in the form of a dialogue:

Lumber in the Long Age.

Lumber figures now and during the war furnish a wide difference. Then the highest figure received for rough flooring was eight inches and upwards in width, was $43, and for common and dimension $40. For very long lengths I received as high as $50 and $60 per 1,000 feet. I remember finding here until 1858, when the completion of up river lumber cut in Mississippi railroad with 400 car loads of material in 1863 at $42 per M. There was no inspection or grading in those days, everything being sold straight measure.

The first lumber brought to this market from other states was as early as seventy years ago, coming from the Allegheny regions of Pennsylvania. Pittsburg lumber continued to find a market in this section as early as 1860, and here until 1858, when the completion of up river lumber cut in Mississippi railroad with 400 car loads of material in 1863 at $42 per M. There was no inspection or grading in those days, everything being sold straight measure.

A Teaching Ordinary.

The following lines are copied from the obituary column of a rural New York journal:

"It is with deep regret that we chronicle the death of G. H. M., of New York. He passed away on Monday morning, March 22d, from an illness of little more than three days. We had been acquainted for five years. We began in the poultry business at the same time, both buying Wyandotte eggs of the same man. The writer soon gave up the breed and kept only Langshans. But George kept his Wyandottes, and though we have been many years birds, we know of few which lay more and larger eggs or breed finer chicks than his do. We have had many fourths and eggs of him, and would as quick trust him as outside to ship eggs or to select stock."—Harper's Magazine.

The Earnest Blacksmith.

The Blacksmith (Mc.) Journal has an interesting sketch of a learned blacksmith, who used to live in Kennebec. One winter a course of lectures by a number of the "leading lights" in Kennebec was arranged, and afterwards solicited to venture the ground, he consented to speak and to deliver his lecture first. It created so great an impression that the other orators refused to speak after him, and the learned blacksmith's address constituted the whole "course."

Gloves of Human Skin.

"Gloves which are sold as kid are often made of human skin," said Dr. Mark L. Nardiz, the Greek physician, article in the Boston Herald, yesterday.

"The skin on the breast of the present physician, is soft and pliable, and may be used in the making of gloves. When people buy gloves they are apt to question about the material of which they are made. The shopkeeper himself may be in ignorance, and the purchaser has no means of ascertaining whether the material is human skin or not. The fact is, the tanning of human skin is extensively carried on in France and Switzerland. The product is manufactured into gloves, and these are imported into this country. Thus, you see, a person may be wearing a pair of constant relative's body and not know it."

"Then the doctor drew from a drawer a brand new pair of black gloves," he said, "Is it a fine article made from the skin of a dead human skin or not? The fact is, the tanning of human skin is extensively carried on in France and Switzerland. The product is manufactured into gloves, and these are imported into this country. Thus, you see, a person may be wearing a pair of constant relative's body and not know it."

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to overcome the work on my farm. It is the best medicine ever made."

Jose Middlewater, Deatur, Ohio, says: "Had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, I would have died of Lung Trouble. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at McE. Ernal's drugstore.

Books About the Jews.

A well known book publisher was remonstrated with the other day for selling the sensational book about the Jews compiled by the Greek "educationalist" who has figured extensively in the papers of late.

"Why," said the publisher, "I am a friend of the Jews and some of my best customers refer you to the following named gentlemen who will testify to the truth of my assertion: ELLI, JOSEPHUS LATIUM, Greenville, N. C.; C. H. MORRIS, Newark, Ark.; ROY GREENE, Sr., Greenville, S. C.; ALFRED CULLEY, Greenville, S. C.; JAMES A. SMITH, TONSORIAL ARTIST, Greenville, N. C."
