Poetry.

"NOW I LAY ME."

[The Wichita (Kan.) Eagle says the following poem was left at the office by an unknown man, who came to ask for work.]
Near the campfire's flickering light, In my blanket bed I lie, Gazing through the shades of night At the twinkling stars on high.
O'er the spirits in the air Silent vigils seem to keep,
As I breathe my childhood's prayer,
"Now I lay me down to sleep."

Sadly sings the whippoorwill In the loneliness of yonder tree, Laughingly the dancing rill Swells the midnight melody.
Faintly the birds of night Peem as may be lurking near In the canyon dark and deep, Low I breathe in Jesus' ear:
"I pray the Lord my soul to keep."
Mid those stars one face I see—One the Savior turned away—Mother, who in infancy Taught my baby lips to pray.
Her sweet spirit hovers near,
In this lonely mountain brake—Take me to her, Savior, dear, "If I should die before I wake," I pray the Lord my soul to take."

Pactolus Items.

Pactolus, N. C., July 29, 1889.
ED. REFLECTOR—I cannot recall the time when I saw in the columns of the REFLECTOR an article, or summary of items from Pactolus, so will send you a few, as gathered in the gaddings of a horny handed tiller of old mother earth.

The farmers are about through ploughing corn but it will be some time in August before they finish ploughing cotton, as most of it in this section is yet quite small, and they do not care to turn it over yet to be looked after by Gen. Green in its infantine appearance.

Last Friday this section was visited with very heavy rains, and several hard ones since, and the land is too wet to plough in a good many places, and will be for several days yet, it we have no more rain.

Crops are not on an average with latter years for the last of July.
Rice is looking and doing well, as it requires rather a wet season to make a good crop of it.

There is not so much sickness around our little village on the Tar as was prevalent some time back.
Mr. Thomas Sheppard, an aged and much respected citizen of Carolina township, has for several weeks been confined to his room. We are pleased to learn that he is much improved, and if no relapse will be out soon.

Rev. J. W. Wildman preached to a large congregation at Pactolus yesterday. We are indeed sorry that it is his last appointment, which leaves Pactolus Baptist church without a pastor.

Quite a number of our young people expect to hie away to Oronoke next Tuesday where they can enjoy the gentle breeze that's wafted over the bosom of the briny, deep, blue sea. May they all enjoy their trip, and fall in (love).

News is scarce, and trade is dull specially when the cash is called for,
as it comes hard and goes quick.
Miss Sudie Mayo, of Falkland, spent last week in Pactolus visiting Miss Ida Gay, much to the delight of our boys. She returned home last Sunday, Miss Ida accompanying her, hope she will come again soon.

Bert, we miss your kind and genial face from our midst, but while we lose you here, we hope it will be your gain there, and may every wish and hope that your fancy has depicted be realized to the fullest extent. And then on let us drift along in the smooth sailing ship with the muse, and dedicate to you a few lines of poetry as our closing wish.

May thy passage down life's dark road Be ever with roses strewn, Roses that yield no piercing thorn, Roses from virtue grown.

May thy passage over life's rough sea Be crowned with knowledge deep,
And may life's stern realities Never rise to make thee weep.
And, when old age shall over thee creep, Remember thee to make thee weep.
That wrote these lines and oft pressed yours
In friendship's strongest band.

Not.
[The last paragraph of the above was dedicated to our "Bad Boy," who formerly wrote the "General Items" signed "Bert."—Ed.]

Perry Nelson, wealthy farmer, known as the stingiest man in South Wisconsin and also as a wife beater, was tarred, feathered and whipped by White Caps.

New York Letter.

The City Blind Pensioners.—The Workmen's Expedition.—Five Executions in one Day.

(Our special correspondence.) NEW YORK, August 1st, 1889.
The annual payment of city money to the blind, took place in the building of the Charities Department, corner of Eleventh Street and Third Avenue, one day last week. Twenty thousand dollars are appropriated every year for the relief of the blind who are not in institutions, or for whom no other provision is made.

The amount given to each person varies according to the number entitled to receive it. This year there were 513 and they each received the sum of $37 in hard cash. Every recipient is obliged to make application for the money several months in advance. A blank is furnished which has to be filled out, giving the age, occupation, nationality, etc. of the applicant, and this has to be signed by two responsible persons as references. The applicants must show by doctor's certificate that they are destitute, have not been arrested during the year, and that they have during no regular support from any organized charity since last pay day.

The sight of these five hundred and more of the city's blind pensioners drawn up in line to receive their money is something worth going a long way to see. Many of them are well-known characters about the city, and as they totter up to the desk to receive their tickets their joy and gratitude is unceasing. As no one who has an abundance of this world's goods can receive a share or this money, it is easy to understand how this day is regarded by the recipients as one of the red-letter days of the year.

THE WORKINGMEN'S EXPEDITION.

About forty picked workmen of the United States sailed last week from this city for France, where they will inspect the great Exposition at Paris. They have been selected by what is called the "Scripps' League," which is a number of western newspapers banded together and which pays all the expenses of the trip. They were accompanied by Charles T. Thompson of the Detroit Sunday News, director and editor of the expedition; Julian Hawthorne, L. T. Atwood, of the Cincinnati Post, C. B. Williams, of the Cleveland Press, and F. W.
Graves, of the Detroit Sunday News.
The party will visit the principal manufacturing centers in England, France and Germany, although, of course, the Exposition will be the chief object of interest. Before leaving here on the "City of Rome" for Liverpool, the delegates visited Mayor Grant who gave them a hearty welcome. Every individual has been selected for some special aptitude in the business to be investigated.

FIVE TO BE HUNG.

The fact that five men are to be hung on the same day in this city, is causing a great deal of discussion.
This is the largest number that we ever hanged in this city on one day and the result is that a large number of curious people are endeavoring to obtain permission to see the executions. They will all be disappointed however as only the near relatives and advisers of the condemned besides the officers will be allowed at the hanging. Preparations are already being made for the executions which will take place on Aug. 23, and it is said that three of the condemned will be hung first and two afterwards. Evidently hanging is not played out yet.

The reported "dissatisfaction" at the way in which the fund for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers has been handled and distributed by the committees appointed by Governor Beaver, has culminated in a big mass meeting at Johnstown, in which speeches were made and resolutions adopted denouncing the methods pursued and condemning Gov. Beaver for the appointments made on the commission. It was stated that it costs more than twenty-five per cent of the gross amount of the fund to distribute the goods under the methods employed, and it was further asserted that the statement attributed to Gov. Beaver, that a million and a half dollars had already distributed, had no foundation in fact. A suspicion prevails that the fund has not been honestly handled.—Wilmington Star.

Ex-Senator Stephen W. Dorsey is under arrest for contempt of court.

A sea turtle ten feet long, five feet wide and weighing 1,000 pounds, was caught recently in a trap off South Harwich, Cape Cod.
This monster is estimated to be fully 200 years old. As it stands the distance between its fore flippers is over ten feet.

The Fight.

The newspapers to a great degree are responsible for the barbaric fights between the bruisers. Some of the big newspapers do more harm than good. One of the best and ablest of American newspaper s, the New York Evening Post, has an editorial in which this abuse of newspapers in giving so much publicity to slugging and other refined Northern sports, is properly handled. It says of certain leading papers—the N. Y. World, Sun and N. Y. Herald and the Boston Herald:

"All these virtuous commentators shut their eyes to the fact that the public interest which they deplore is largely of their own creation.
They have been working like beavers for the past month to excite it.
They have published every scrap of information which they could find anywhere about the two brutes who were preparing to pummel each other for no other purpose than to show which of them was the biggest brute."

It gives in tabular form what space was devoted in each of the three New York sensational sheets before and after the fight, beginning 25th June and ending 10th July. From fourteen to sixteen days those papers devoted great space to this American savagery.
It shows that before the fight the space devoted was as follows:

World, 20 columns; Sun, 31 1/2 columns; Herald, 19 1/2 columns.
After the fight:

World, 19; Sun 15 1/2; Herald 15 1/2.
Grand total: World, 48; Sun, 46; Herald, 35.

The Evening Post well asks:
"What prompted three thousand people to go to that remote spot in Mississippi and pay an aggregate of $8,000 in gate money alone to see two ruffians pound each other? Was it not the incessant talk in the newspapers more than anything else?"

This is a disgraceful chapter in Northern journalism.—Wilmington Messenger.

I have used S. S. S. for debility resulting from chills and fever, and have found it to be the best tonic and appetizer that I ever took. It also prevented the return of the chills.

A. J. Anylin,
Eureka Springs, Ark.
Dick Hornbaker is a respected and well-to-do colored citizen of Springfield, Mo. He says that one bottle of Swift's Specific cured both himself and wife of a troublesome eruption of the skin.

Mr. White is engineer on a boat on the Arkansas river, and his address is Little Rock. He says that S. S. S. has relieved him of blood poison, which was the result of malaria, and that it prevents chills and fever by toning up the system. He takes it in the spring and summer months to prevent sickness from the malaria of the swamps on the river.

Mr. L. M. Genella, of Vicksburg, Miss., says that his system was poisoned with nicotine from the excessive use of tobacco in smoking cigarettes. He could not sleep, his appetite was gone, and he was in a bad fix generally. He took S. S. S. which drove out the poison and made a new man of him.

A Bronze Statue.

Sanford Express
We hope the confederate veterans of Moore county will erect a bronze statue of a Confederate Soldier on the court house square at Carthage as an object lesson to teach their children the valor and patriotism of the Confederate Soldiers when all the soldiers have gone from the earth. Such a thing ought to be done at every county seat to teach coming generations what they were and how much their fathers esteemed the cause for which they fought and bled. Every generation is inspired by a knowledge of the sacrifice courage and moral stamina of its fathers. Put a bronze statue there to teach the youth.

The object of a conference between Postmaster General Wanmaker and Postmaster Van Cott, of New York City, it said to be to induce the city to buy the present New York Post Office building, in which case the government will build another Post Office uptown.

Laughable Reflections.

And Mirth Provoking Selections as Compiled by the Reflector's Bad Boy.

B. Flathers, Esq.—"I suppose you don't speak to the common herd any more, Miss Luckeigh?" Miss L.—"Why, certainly, Mr.
Flathers. How do you do?"

A BREAK.

Woman (in aside show)—"What a funny little man! Were you never any larger than that?" Dwarf—"Yes, ma'am, when I was a baby; but I was brought up on condensed milk and I shrank."

ARTLESS INNOCENCE.

Mother (gazing at her daughter's dressing cushion)—"Why, where did you get so many gentlemen's scarf-pins?" Daughter—"I don't know myself.
I find one in my hair almost every night after Gus calls, and to save me I can't imagine how they get there."

Guest (to restaurant table girl)—
"What have you got for dinner?" Table girl—"Roast beef, fried potatoes, Indian pudding, dandelion and corn."

"First Omaha"—"I've been told that you have made an invention that will bring you great wealth.
What is it?"
Second Omaha—"A pocket circular saw, designed to cut restaurant and hotel beefsteak."

AN AWFUL REQUEST.

De Smythe—"There was only one thing I ever asked of De Jones that he refused." Merritt—"I'm surprised to hear that, for he's very generous. It must have been something unreasonable." D. S.—"I asked him for some money he had borrowed."

Bessie—"You refused Mr. Tempel when any other girl would jump at an offer from him." Maud (just graduated)—"Oh, I know his handsome, but I never could marry such an ignorant man.
Why, I asked him a few questions about the differentiation in plotoplasmic molecular bivalves, and do you know, all he said was, 'I suppose so!'"

GETTING HIS EYES OPEN.
Candidate's son—"I say, pa, are you going to Halifax before the election?" Candidate—"To Halifax? What do you mean, boy?"
"I heard your bosom friend, Deceiver, tell our butcher last night that he would see you in Halifax before he voted for you."

Miss De Sweet—"I'll never touch another chew of gum as long as I live." Proud mother—"I am glad to hear you say so, my dear; but what has reformed you so suddenly?"
"Last evening Mr. Richfellow proposed to me just at the moment my jaws got stuck, so I couldn't say anything, and he went off."

A MODERN INNOVATION.

"Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"
"No, sir; I haven't time to be."
"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting whom would you support?"
"The same man I have supported for the last ten years."
"And who is that?"
"My husband."

Mrs. Dolliver—"Oh, Henry, I have dropped the water pitcher out the window, and I saw it light on an elderly man." Mr. D.—"Great Scott, Jane! You don't know what damage you may have caused!"

Mrs. D. (in tears)—"Yes I do. It's pure china, and can't be replaced for less than $20. Oh, what shall I do?"

Flossie is six years old—"Mamma" she asked one day, "if I got married will I have to have a husband like Pa?"
"Yes," replied her mother, with an amused smile.

"And if I don't get married will I have to be an old maid like Aunt Kate?"
"Yes."

"Mamma," after a pause—"it's a tough world for us woman ain't it?"
"You think you need a wife, young man, do you?" said Mr. Kajones, he looked at the agitated youth;
"and my daughter would fill the bill would she?"
"She would, indeed, sir," replied the young man, trying to appear at ease. "As the young men who start newspapers sometimes say in their prospective, she would fill a long went fault—I mean, of course, a long went fault—no, wrong fault—well—indeed she would, Mr. Kajones," persisted the bewildered youth, "though I should have said a fang."

"George," said Mr. K., coming to his relief, "have you said anything to Laura, yet?"
"No, sir; I thought I ought to speak to you first."

"Well, George," he said kindly,
"take my advice; if you can't get that prospectus antedated before you see her again, you'd better send a more experienced canvasser."

An Unknown Hero.

Deep down in a mine in Wardley Colliery, Newcastle, England, there is a brave boy who deserves to be called a hero. In a situation of sudden peril he used precautions which prevented a dreadful explosion, simply by behaving with courage and presence of mind.

He noticed that his lamp flared up—a sure sign of the presence of dangerous gas. Had he hastily rushed away, his light might have burst through the wire gauze which surrounds a miner's lamp, and sitting fire to the gas, caused a heart-rending accident.

The lad did nothing so silly.
When questioned by the superintendent as to how he had found out that there was gas in the neighborhood where he was at work, he replied, "Because my lamp flared."

"And what did you do then?" asked the gentleman.
"I took my picker, and pulled down the wick, but the lamp still flared."

"Well, my boy, how did you manage then?"
"Why, I put the lamp inside my jacket, and covered it up tight, and the lamp went out."

Of course the lamp would not burn without air. To think of the right thing to do, and then promptly do it, boys, that is what makes the difference between a common man and a hero. This little fellow, whose name is not mentioned—Mike, or Ted, or Jack—has in him the making of a grand man, cool, resolute and clever.

Fortunately an overseer was near him, who, when he heard from the lad about his lamp, went bravely through the gas in total darkness and set open a door, the closing of which had forced the gas into the mainways of the mine.
All honor to them both!

Noblemen Neglected.

Scotland Neck Democrat.
In all the after dinner speaking at Chapel Hill last week there was nothing said of the University men as farmers. Did it occur to those present that some of the noblest and best and most praiseworthy men who have gone out from the University are farmers? Is it not the case with all our institutions of learning that they too often forget and neglect those men who are the bone and sinew of our land?

No wonder that ambitious young men do never turn their thoughts for the first time to the farm as a place where they may do well and satisfy their laudable ambition by doing a great work in the field.
They are too seldom honored for their toil and their pains.

When will the time come when farmer boys may learn and delight to remember the words of the embroider farmer which this writer learned when a mere child!

They come back to us now:
"I am a little husbandman, Work and labor hard I can;
I am as happy all the day At my work as if I were play."

Let the boys be taught this principle and then let them be recognized when they have done well as farmers, and there will not be among our ambitious boys and young men such an aversion to farm life. It is not because they dread the work; but because they see no future and little distinction in it.
Hold up the hands of the farmer, for he holds up the world.

An interesting table exhibited at the Paris Exposition shows the relative civilizations of the several countries from the Postoffice standpoint, by showing the number of letters per capita passing through them. Great Britain leads with forty per head. Australia is next with thirty-five, and Switzerland with thirty. The United States, Germany and Holland have twenty and Belgium leads them at twenty-five. The other countries of Europe gradually descend in the scale till the zero mark is almost reached in Russia, which reports only two letters a year per head.

The South has but recently become the object of interest to the great capitalists of the world in its untold mineral wealth and easy means of development and transportation. Thirty years from to day it will probably be the centre of the great iron industries of the world.
These, together with the growth and manufacture of the great staple, will put it on a plane of unsurpassed wealth and power.

The physicians attending Wilkie Collins, the novelist, pronounce him out of danger.

A Trip to the West.

By this caption the reader must not infer that our Faber is raised to sing the praises of the "Great West," or of the Pacific regions, where the scum of all Europe is centering in inauspicious numbers and where anarchy is rife; where the man who in peace partakes of his morning meal and goeth forth for the day, hath no assurance that he will not return on a dynamite stretcher, or be stuffed into a sewer on the way. Not so. "We haven't been there and we ain't a going." But our West is a far more beautiful region. It is none other than along the sunset slopes of grand old North Carolina, where lofty hills and towering mountains rear their peaks Heavenward; where the hills and vales form pictures upon which the eye never tires in looking; where delightful breezes and cool refreshing waters bring health and happiness to man, and where the visitor is taken into the home of the people and made to feel the generous, unstinted hospitality which abounds there.

We embarked from home on the 22nd ulto, our destination being Lenoir, the place designated for the holding of the 17th annual convention of N. C. Press Association. The committee in whose hands it rested were wise in their selection of a place that afforded every attendant upon the convention such unbounded pleasure. Lenoir is a town of about 1,000 inhabitants and is the capital of Caldwell county. It lies about 20 miles out from Hickory, and is reached by a narrow gauge railroad which passes that town. The people are extremely clever and hospitable and there is a general degree of refinement seldom seen in small towns. The town seems to be a centre of artistic talent that is seldom equaled even in cities. An art exhibit had been arranged for the enjoyment of the visitors, in which were more than a hundred fine paintings, all the work of home talent, many of them being pictures from nature sketched from the beautiful scenes surrounding the town.

The Press Convention assembled in the large hall of Davenport College on Wednesday morning and was called to order by President Thad R. Manning of the Henderson Gold Leaf. The session was opened with religious services conducted by one of the resident ministers. About 40 editors were in attendance. We have been present when the number was larger, but for a bona fide representation of editors and those engaged actively in newspaper work this surpassed any convention yet held. Those of us who have long been members of the Association (this writer joined in 1878 when a little less than 16 years of age) and wished to see it raised to the highest standard of dignity and credit to the profession, rejoiced that the labors to that end had proven successful and that the body had been cleared of all dead heads and hangers on. There were men of brain and intellect present and the sessions of the Association were vastly interesting. President Manning read a very excellent address which was referred to a committee, who suggested various topics from it for discussion. This discussion was set apart for Thursday and occupied part of the session for that day.

Wednesday night the Association heard an address of welcome from Mayor W. C. Erwin, which was responded to by Mr. Josephus Daniels of the State Chronicle. After this the annual oration was delivered by Mr. V. W. Long, of the Winston Sentinel.

Thursday afternoon officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President—W. W. McDermid, Lumberton Robesonian.
First Vice President—D. J. Whitchard, Greenville Reflector.
Second Vice President—J. D. Kernodle, Alamance Gleaner.
Third Vice President—D. F. St. Clair, Sanford Express.
Secretary and Treasurer—J. B. Sherrill, Concord Times.
Historian—Jerome Dowd, Mecklenburg Times.

Orator—Robt. Haydn, Charlotte Chronicle.
Poet—W. E. Christian, Charlotte Democrat.
Stationer—L. L. Polk, Progressive Farmer.

Executive Committee—J. P. Caldwell, Statesville Landmark, Josephus Daniels, State Chronicle, T. B. Eldridge, Davidson Dispatch, W. W. Scott, Jr., Lenoir Topic, J. A. Thomas, Franklin Times.

Delegates to the National Editorial Association which meets at Detroit Mich., this month—W. E. Christian, Charlotte Democrat, Josephus Daniels, Raleigh Chronicle, T. B. Eldridge, Lexington Dispatch, with the president and secretary.
During our stay at Lenoir the headquarters of the writer was at the Austin House, which is presided over by Mr. W. F. Austin and his excellent wife. We also partook of the hospitality of Mr. J. Berg and of Rev. Mr. Beal. All the editors had a delightful time, as everyone present at the closing session Thursday night found out. Everyone wanted to say something nice about Lenoir and her hospitable people, and they did it, too, for those who did not "speak out in meeting" about it stood up and voted loud on the resolution of thanks, most of them wanting to vote twice. When the matter of selecting the place for holding the next meeting was mentioned one enthusiastic brother wanted to make Lenoir the permanent meeting place. The selection was left with the Executive Committee.

The brightest lights in the convention were Haydn and Christian of Charlotte, (fine team) Caldwell, of Statesville, (handsome and possessed of a well balanced intellect), Daniels of Raleigh, (as brilliant as a sunbeam), Eldridge, of Lexington (big brained with clear long head), McDermid, of Lumberton, (sparkling with wit and humor), with Manning, Kernodle, Dowd, Thomas, St. Clair, Deal, Scott and others playing no minor part. Col. Cameron, of Asheville, and Col. Polk, of Raleigh were sages of the body.

There were several invitations to the Association to visit certain points after the adjournment of the body. Perhaps these caused as much merriment as anything else during the session. Whether they should go to Blowing Rock or Hickory occupied the leisure time of the sessions, and when Christian, Haydn and Eldridge put in there was all the fun one could look for.

The vote was for Blowing Rock, though only 15 or 20 went. However, we were among that number, which left on Friday morning for the top of the mountain, and a delightful journey it was. What we saw there as well as on the remainder of our trip will be told next week.

It was our pleasure to travel a day in company with Judges R. F. Armfield and J. G. Bynum, while on our homeward journey last week. Though somewhat fatigued from travel, we greatly enjoyed the conversation of these wise jurists. Both were enroute to hold court in eastern counties.

Col. Roger J. Page, editor of the Marion Times-Register, was assassinated on the night of the 22nd of July. Since his death Mr. C. C. Daniels, editor of the Wilson Advance, has succeeded to the control of the Times-Register. However, we are glad to know that Charlie will remain at his post in Wilson and will send somebody else to manage the paper at Marion. We wish him success in this new venture.

2. That if any member of this Alliance violate this pledge, he shall be subjected to censure or expulsion as the Alliance deems necessary.
3. That we request all Sub-Alliances of the county to adopt this or similar resolutions.
4. That a copy of this be forwarded to the EASTERN REFLECTOR and Progressive Farmer with a request to publish.

Also the following appeal was unanimously adopted with the request to be published in your columns.
APPEAL.
To the farmers who are not members of the Farmers Alliance, Greeting:
At a meeting of the representatives of the twelve Southern States, at Birmingham, Ala., it was unanimously resolved to use bagging made of cotton. The object of this meeting was to thwart the unjust movements of the jute bagging trust, who have set their means, skill and ability to extort from the cotton farmers millions of dollars.

In order that we may accomplish our purpose the New Orleans, New York and Liverpool Cotton Exchange have agreed to deduct five so as to make cotton equal to jute. The members of the Farmers Alliance will uphold the Birmingham resolution, and the trust has found it out. Now, in order to break us down, the trust proposes to sell its bagging cheaper than ever, hoping that you are under no obligation to use cotton covering.

Brother farmers, we take this method in asking you to stand by us and not the arrogant jute bagging trust. If we fail now you may look in the future for cotton bagging to be sold at exorbitant trust prices.
SECRETARY.

The Jury System.

[Communicated.]
The jury system has almost become to be a farce in this land. No man can reasonably expect justice in a court house these days. It is a kind of chance game more uncertain than lottery tickets. Nine tenths of the men who go into the jury box, have not got sense enough to comprehend the simplest points of law. The idea of men acting in the capacity of jurors—interpreters, you might say, of the law, because their decision is immutable—who are not possessed of brain sufficient to enable them to remember a simple sentence three inches in length! Just think of a set of ignoramuses from the uncivilized pine and black-jack settlements, who know no more about law than a mule knows about psychology, sitting as judges among the people! Think of a set of men who are infatuated with the idea that the louder a lawyer hollers the greater the weight attached to his speech, passing judgement upon the conduct of the best and most refined men in the land! Think of a prisoner, with the assistance of his counsel, being allowed by law to pick out just such a jury as he thinks will give him, not justice, for he don't want that—but the benefit of their ignorance! And then look at the bribery and corruption that are brought into play to clear rascals, and thus make the laws on our statute books of none effect. The client who has the biggest pile of money is the only man who may reasonably look for a favorable verdict from an average jury. Money is the power behind the throne. It makes no difference how rascally a man may have acted—it makes but little difference what sort of a crime he may have committed—if he's got plenty of money he can just step to the front, and pay the costs, and he goes forth from the court house a free man but a rascal still. And yet those little bob-tailed orators, who are about on an equality with the average juror in intellectual ability, will jump upon the stump and almost go into ecstasies over this great, this delightful land of justice and equal rights. There is no more corrupt land on the face of God's green earth than this United States. Corruption reigns in every department of the government. Money carries the elections and then the successful candidates steal out of the treasury what they paid for campaign purposes. Oppression holds the reins and is treading men beneath her feet. Trusts are in full blast, and are robbing the poor of their hard-earned mites. The land fairly groans under its load of iniquity. This may be a great land, and if it is, God pity the small ones. Rife, as it is with wickedness and corruption it can't stand long.

Washington Letter.

From our regular Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2nd '83.
Mr. Harrison will probably wish the Virginian republicans in a much warmer climate than Washington, if they don't stop worrying him. He had scarcely shaken the dust accumulated on his trip from Deer Park to Washington yesterday out of his clothes before he was pounced upon by three different crowds of Virginia Republicans each demanding the appointment of a different man to be Postmaster at Richmond. Mabone of course, has a man, then Gov. Brady and John S. Wise, the whole anti-Mabone crowd have a candidate and the third would-be postmaster is backed by State Senator Waddell, who hopes to get his name in as a compromise. Doubtless the President wishes some of the harm which is claimed to exist among the "Old Dominion" republicans could be brought to bear on this postoffice. The Commission investigating the rating of pensions have determined to make a preliminary report to Secretary Noble next week. This is taken to mean that the investigation has not in the opinion of the investigator so far sustained any of the charges made, and that the preliminary report it made to give the Secretary of the Interior a good excuse for ordering the investigations stopped. If should turn out that way there is certain to be a Congressional investigation of the whole business.
"We have put our foot in it now," said a Naval officer referring to the seizure of the Canadian Sealing vessel "Black Diamond" by the U. S. Revenue cutter "Itash" for the alleged illegal taking of seals in Behring sea. "We tried the same trick three years ago, but when the British government demanded the release of the vessels Secretary Bayard had to accede to it, or rather he thought it right to do so. The laws have not been changed since the seizure referred to, but this administration seems to put a different construction on them. It is to be hoped that it will now have the necessary courage to refuse to surrender the seized vessel.
Considerable commotion has been created in naval circles by the report that the plan of the battle ship "Texas," now under construction at the Norfolk navy yard are so defective that she would not float if finished on the present lines. The officials at the navy department are all mum on the subject, but from other sources it is learned that several experts are now at work on the plan trying to discover whether, it is possible to modify them sufficiently to save the vessel. A court martial may come of it.
Gov. Wilson of West Virginia, was here this week. He says the contest now going on before the legislative committee for the Governorship is bound to result in Fleming's favor, and that as soon as the committee is ready to report he will call a special session of the legislature to receive it.
Representative Campbell of Ohio who will, it is thought here, be the Democratic candidate for governor that State is here. He thinks that, if nominated he will have a good fighting chance to carry the State. Mr. Harrison will leave here Tuesday morning for Bar Harbor where he goes to visit Secretary Blaine. He will go to New York by rail and from there to Boston, when he will remain all day Wednesday, by Steamer. He will be met at Boston by Walker Blaine who left here yesterday to arrange the programme in that city. He expects to remain at Bar Harbor about ten days.
Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt and Ex-Postmaster General Frank Hutton, now editor of the Washington Post, seem about ready to indulge in a quarrel on account of the hard knocks Hutton is giving the Civil Service law. Roosevelt speaks of Frank Hutton, as a "spoilsman" in a newspaper interview, and Hutton comes back at him by charging in an editorial in his paper that Roosevelt has received, aside from his salary, more money from the Government during the past three months than he (Hutton) did during his entire connection with the public service. And now everybody is asking every body else what Hutton meant.
Quite a rumpus has been raised among the members of the labor union by the removal of E. W. Oyester, one of the foremen at the Government Printing office. He was once a Republican, but worked hard for Cleveland.
Postmaster Paul of Milwaukee, who was so severely criticised in the recent report of the Civil Service Commission has forwarded his resignation.
The government will take control of all the telephone lines in France within a year.
So far twenty-two persons are known to have lost their lives in the West Virginia floods.
A portion of the business part of Little York, a small town near Monmouth, Ill., was burned last week. Loss, $25,000.
The presence of the militia at West Superior, Minn., has served to prevent trouble. The miners show no disposition to renew rioting.
The den of William C. Burns, the green goods swindler of New York was raided, and a great variety of trick furniture and $5,000 in gold money were seized.
All the miners examined by the Board of Arbitrators at Brester, Ill., testified that they averaged less than $30 a month, and were unable to make a fair living.

SOLICIT YOUR SHIPMENT OF COTTON, &c.

We have had several years experience at the business and are prepared to handle Cotton to the advantage of shippers.
All business entrusted to our hands will receive prompt and careful attention.

Notice,
The bad health of Mr. D. Gardner has compelled him to discontinue the management of the carriage business for me, which has left a nice stock of good material bought cheap for cash, on my hand. I will close out the stock at a liberal discount, or will make easy terms with the purchaser, or I will also make easy terms with any good reliable man to carry on the carriage business for me. There is no better opening for a carriage business in the county than at this place. I have also a large stock of general merchandise for sale cheap for cash or on time, such as Meats, Flour, Corn, &c. bought in large lots also a nice lot of West Indies and New Orleans Molasses, nice selected stock of Shoes, Hats and Straw Goods, nice lot of Clothing, Ladies Dress Goods, in fact everything that can be found in a General Store.

Yours truly,
