Poetry.

MY LOVER.

CLARA F. DOSS.

Years ago, in days of youth,
I married a man for aye;
I never asked if my love would last Until we both should die.
He is grown stout and stooping now,
His head is gray and bald;
And sometimes I half forget me He ever was sought but old.
But I had a handsome lover!
A bold, bad woman am I?
How could I resist his sweet, sweet kiss,
As well as his heart's desire?
When his strong young arms enfold me,
His red cheeks laid to mine, And my soul is drunk with loving As men are drunk with wine?
My husband leans o'er my shoulders, He sees what I have writ;
I clasp, like a band, his dear old hand And slip my own in it.
This handsome and gay young lover
As well as his heart's desire,
And we worship him together,
For my lover is my son.

THINGS THAT NEVER DIE.

The pure, the bright, the beautiful,
That stirred our hearts in youth;
The impulse in a wordless prayer,
The dream of love and truth,
The longing after something lost,
The spirit's yearning cry,
The striving after better hopes—
These things can never die.
The timid hand stretched forth to aid A brother in his need,
The kindly word in grief's dark hour,
That gives a friend indeed,
The plea of mercy softly breathed When justice threatened high,
The sorrow of a contrite heart—
These things shall never die.
The memory of a clasping hand,
The pressure of a kiss
And all the trifles sweet and frail That make up life's short bliss;
If with a firm, unchanging faith,
And holy trust and high,
Those hands have clasped, those lips Have met
These things can never die.
The cruel and the bitter word That wounded as it fell,
The chilling want of sympathy That never can be felt,
The hard rebuke that chilled the heart Whose hopes were bounding high, In an unfeeling record kept—
These things shall never die.
Let nothing pass, for every hand Can find some work to do, Lose not a chance to waken love,
Be firm and just and true,
So shall a light that cannot fade, Beam on thee from on high,
And angel voices say to thee—
These things shall never die.

Kicking up a Row.

A N. C. Republican Threatens to Run this Country—Big Braggadoo.

Some talk has been heard for the past few days with reference to the great pretensions of Republican Congressman Brower, from this State. The following extract from the New York Star gives the situation:
"President Harrison claims to not be much disturbed over the movement of Congressman Brower of North Carolina for the Speakership of the House, but there are Republicans who see behind it a widespread disaffection among Southern Republicans, and the complete shattering of Mr. Harrison's elaborate "Southern policy."
"North Carolina in particular has made quite a stir in national politics lately, and now her politicians have threatened to organize the next House on a revised and unexpected schedule. The announcement of one of her Congressmen as an independent candidate for Speaker of Congress is an outgrowth of the dissatisfaction. Brower claims that he has sufficient strength under his influence to carry him through. He asserts that he has hidden forces behind his scheme that are not and will not be disclosed until put in action. When the House meets, his supporters, he says, will show themselves. The movement is the result of the disaffection among the political Stalwarts in the old North State. A multitude of her aspirants for political responsibility have not got what they wanted. Some of the party leaders in the State have been left entirely out of recognition in the distribution of the Government's plums. Many, heavily indebted by their party, have not come in for a share in the national dividend."
"J. C. L. Harris, editor of the Republican organ of North Carolina, wanted the postoffice at Raleigh.
He claimed long and ardent party service and the solid support of the Republicans of the State. He did not get it. J. B. Young applied for the collectorship of revenue of the Raleigh district. He had the backing of the Republican members of both Houses of the State Legislature, but did not get there. General Hawkins also asked to be appointed to the same office. He was endorsed by most of the Congressmen of his State. He was left out.
Colonel Cooper wanted the Collec-torship of the Western district of North Carolina, and had a good showing of party support. He was not appointed.

Progress of Inventions Since 1845.

In the year 1845 the present owners of the Scientific American newspaper commenced its publication, and soon after established a bureau for the procuring of patents for inventions at home and in foreign countries. During the year 1845 there were only 502 patents issued from the U. S. Patent Office, and the total issue from the establishment of the Patent Office, up to the end of that year numbered only 4-347.

Up to the first of July this year there have been granted 406,413.
Showing that since the commencement of the publication of the Scientific American there have been issued from the U. S. Patent Office 402,166 patents, and about one third more applications have been made than have been granted, showing the ingenuity of our people to be phenomenal, and much greater than ever the enormous number of patents issued indicates. Probably a good many of our readers have had business transacted through the offices of the Scientific American, in New York or Washington, and are familiar with Mann & Co's mode of doing business, but those who have not will be interested in knowing something about this, the oldest patent soliciting firm in this country, probably in the world.

Persons visiting the offices of the Scientific American, 461 Broadway, N. Y., for the first time will be surprised, on entering the main office, to find such an extensive and elegantly equipped establishment, with its walnut counters, desks, and chairs to correspond, and its enormous safes, and such a large number of draughtsmen, specification writers, and clerks, all busy as bees, reminding one of a large banking or insurance office, with its hundred employees.

In conversation with one of the firm, who had commenced the business of soliciting patents in connection with the publication of the Scientific American, more than that he had made application for patents for upward of one hundred thousand inventors in the United States, and several thousands in different foreign countries, and had filed as many cases in the Patent Office in a single month as there were patents issued during the entire first year of their business career. This gentleman had seen the Patent Office grow from a sapling to a sturdy oak, and he modestly hinted that many thought the Scientific American, with its large circulation, had performed no mean share in stimulating inventions and advancing the interests of the Patent Office.
But it is not along the patent soliciting that occupies the attention of the one hundred persons employed by Mann & Co, but a large number are engaged on the four publications issued weekly and monthly from their office, 361 Broadway, N.
Y., viz.: The Scientific American, the Scientific American Supplement, the Export Edition of the Scientific American, and the Architects and Builders Edition of the Scientific American. The first two publications are issued every week, and the latter two, the first of every month.

Others who were not provided for remained. The unprovided legion became demonstrative and restless. Congressman Brower had a grievance. He rested under a cloud. He voted for the Mills bill.
He was not in favor of the White House. He was not consulted in the distribution of North Carolina officers! His friends who had applied for places were not getting them. Brower joined in with the faction of growlers. They resolved themselves into "kickers." If they could not get what they wanted, they proposed to take what they get next to it. Brower proclaimed himself some days ago a candidate for speaker of Congress. He has made a national commotion from Maine to California with his sudden declarations. He says he expects a following from other Southern Congressmen from other States, where similar conditions and grievance abound and contemplates a sufficiency of votes to dictate the organization of the House. He states that their programme is that these dissatisfied Southern members will hold a private caucus in Washington, in advance of the assembling of Congress, and will digest the situation and mature their policy, and state their demands, and announce the terms on which they will act in electing a Speaker of the next House. He says one of the demands will be the abolition of the internal revenue tax, which is a united wish of his district. Brower claims his scheme is well organized, fully equipped, and his force behind it. But he does not disclose what the names of his supporters are. As both of the Republican members of Congress from North Carolina have published cards disclaiming any intention to join the "kickers," it becomes interesting to know who Brower's cohorts are and where they are to be found, and how many of them will rally to his bugle call at the assembling of Congress next winter. He says the Southern Republicans must have the Speakership.

The President has expressed his sentiments to the effect that he did not care what the kicking brigade did in the organization of the House or did not do. He had had his life half worried out of him, he said, by their scurrying after offices and dissensations among themselves, and he would not lose any more sleep over their moves, and had barely no concern about their revolts.

Justice—"Drunk and disorderly.
What have you to say?"
Prisoner—"Hic—take something." Justice—"Thanks; I'll take $10."

Laughable Reflections.

And Mirth Provoking Selections as Compiled by the Reflector's Bad Boy.

A MORE PRESSING DEBT.
"I owe you an apology, old boy," said Giles.
"Never mind the apology," replied Merritt; "just let me have the V you borrowed."

REAL ESTATE QUIET.
Eastern man—"Anything stirring in real estate out your way this season?"
Western man (gloomily)—"No-o, not even a landslide."

Boston suitor—"And now may I ask your father for your hand in marriage, dear?"
Chicago lad—"Better ask ma; what she says goes."

She—"I never saw you act silly but once."
He—"When was that?"
She—"The time you proposed to me."
He—"Was silly then."

"TWO-FORS."
"Did you get that box of cigars I sent you?" inquired his fiancée.
"Yes, dear."
"How did you like them?"
"The box was very nice indeed," he said softly.

"What's the matter?" asked the teacher.
"Back's sore m'am."
"What made it sore?"
"Pop pounded his thumb with the hatchet this morning, and I laughed."

A WISE EXPEDIENT.
Maud—"So you are going to marry your father's cashier?" Isabella—"Yes. Pa says if he runs away with the bank's funds, the money will still be in the family."

HE WAS PREPARED.
Jon—"Why don't you lay something up for a rainy day?" Brown—"I have done so. I'm keeping that umbrella Smith loaned me a week ago."

A QUIET AFFAIR.
Bloodgood—"I understand that Browne was married yesterday?"
Posey—"Yes, I was there."
B—"Rather a quiet wedding, wasn't it?"
P—"Decidedly. Both the bride and groom were so scared that they could hardly speak above a whisper."

First impecunious gent—"I've discovered the fountain of everlasting youth." Second ditto—"What I want is a square meal!"
First ditto—"Well that's just it.
I've found a boarding house kept by a short-sighted woman. We can always see her first when she comes to collect a bill."

Agony from a Buried Foot.
Cincinnati Inquirer.
Seven years ago last Saturday (says a Franklin dispatch of July 30) Harry Gillespie, a young man of this place, had his foot injured by a reaping machine so seriously as to necessitate amputation. The foot was buried on the farm where the accident happened. Mr. Gillespie has an artificial leg and foot. On Saturday afternoon he felt severe pains in his foot and applied to a doctor for relief. The pain continued to such an extent that he was compelled to stop work, and he had the appearance of a man attacked by a severe sickness.

Monday morning at the suggestion of friends, he went to the grave of his foot, and dug it up, finding nothing but the bones. Around the toes the roots of a pear tree had become entwined. Mr. Gillespie says he took them, cleaned them off and reburied them, and from that time the pain ceased.

The young man, who seemed very much in earnest as he told his story, said he had felt no pain to speak of previous to Saturday, when his foot was buried, and he had the feeling of his receiving the injury.

She Crosses the Ocean to Meet Her Love.
The Orange County Observer tells a romantic little story. It says:
"About two and a half years ago, Mr. Julian Brown, of Hillsboro, left home with Dr. Florence Cheek under contract to work with the Doctor five years in Siam. Since leaving home Mr. Brown and Miss Omie Forrest, of Orange, have been carrying on a correspondence which resulted in their engagement. Recently Miss Forrest received a letter from Mr. Brown telling her to come to Singapore, where he would meet and wed her, as he could not get off to come to this country. On Tuesday, July 30th, Miss Forrest took leave of mother, sisters and brothers, at the old home near Hillsboro, and took the cars for New York, from which place she will sail for Singapore. Miss Forrest is about 25 years of age, rather good looking, and has a fair education."

The Drummer's Ruse.

[Bangor Commercial.]
A short time ago a drummer from abroad called at a Bangor livery stable and wanted a double team for a ten day's trip into the country, and the stable man refused to let him have one on the ground that he was a stranger. There was much discussion over the matter, and finally the drummer said:
"What is your team worth?"
"Four hundred and fifty dollars," was the reply.
"If I pay you that sum for it, will you pay it back again when I return?" asked the customer, and upon receiving the affirmative reply, he promptly put up the cash. Ten days later he returned, and driving into the stable he alighted and entered the office, saying, "Well here is your team, and now I want my money back."
The sum was passed to him and he turned and was leaving the place when the livery man called out, "Look here, aren't you going to settle for that team?"
"For what team?" asked the drummer in a surprised tone.
"For the one you just brought back."
"Well, now," drawled the drummer, "you ain't fool enough to suppose that I would pay any one for the use of my own property, are you?" and he shook the dust of his place from his feet.

August Superstitions.

Whether it be a matter of luck or of learning, many of the astrologists's prophecies for July have been fulfilled. Those for June were almost unanimously proven, while those made for July were verified to a reasonable extent. For August the forecasts are more general and extend over a greater geographical space. The United States is included in the following general prophecy: "There will be many sad accidents and troubles, many murders and violent atmospheric disturbances. The weather is likely to be hot, with heavy storms of rain and thunder. There will be much sickness, but the number of deaths will be below the average. August will be a month of stirring events and accidents throughout the world."

Thomasville Orphanage.

Charlotte Chronicle.
Rev. A. G. McManaway returned yesterday from the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Baptist Orphanage located at Thomas-ville, of which Mr. Mills is president and Mr. McManaway secretary. On Wednesday an address was delivered by Gov. Fowle, and at the sermon preached by Rev. J. S.
Hardaway, a collection of $250 was taken up by Gov. Fowle, and Rev.
E. A. Osborne, of this city.

During the past year $9,985 has been raised for the building and support of the Orphanage which has only been established four years.
There are at present 105 orphans cared for by this institution.

Raleigh Ahead of the World.

Raleigh Call.
It is not generally known, but the largest gas engines in the world are right here in Raleigh in daily operation. They are in a special building at the Raleigh gas light works and are used to generate the electricity for the electric light system of the city. One of the engines is fifty horse power; the other sixty.
They run three immense dynamos which supply over one hundred arc electric lights of 1,300 (estimated) candle power each. This station is quite a curiosity and very interesting to visitors.

After reading some of the newspaper comments on his trial, Dr.
McDow is said to have expressed an inclination to make a round of the newspaper offices with a shot-gun.
The Doctor is wrong about that.
His plan involves unnecessary risks and waste of time and energy. He should wait until the Press Association meets in Charleston next May.
Henry Watterson is to speak then and most of us will be there. The Doctor can then, by inserting arsenic in the beer and strychnine in the sandwiches, bag the entire gang of us at once, appeal to a jury of his fellow citizens for vindication at the June term of court, and run for the legislature in the fall on a platform of home protection and journalistic annihilation.—Greenville (S. C.) News.

THE STATE.

What is Happening Around Us.

As Reflected from the State Press.

Durham Sun: Mr. W. O. Griffin, route agent between Raleigh and Keyville, has resigned and his place has been filled by a negro.

Tarboro Banner: J. R. Lewis, of Littleton, has been appointed deputy collector by White for the counties of Halifax, Edgecombe, Wilson and Pitt.

Collector White, who succeeds Col. Yarborough, has appointed Mr.
John D. Gimsley, of Snow Hill, Deputy Collector for Johnston, Greene and Wayne counties.

Washington Gazette: Tuesday while Capt. Bonner was cracking a block of ice he found embedded inside a very neat, plain gold ring.
No doubt lost from the finger of some ice gatherer in the far North.

The Oxford Orphan Asylum is now crowded to its utmost capacity.
It contains 225 children. An addition to the building is being made which will enable that institution to accommodate 100 more.

Bills are out for the fruit fair to be held at Winston on August 21st and 22d. It will be rich in special and attractive features. Gov. Fowle will deliver the annual address on 21st.

Smithfield Herald: The quickest house we have ever seen built was the one erected last week for J. T.
Barham, by Mr. J. A. Duvall. It is a neat brick building 20x60 feet, and was put up in three days.

Durham Sun: A letter was received in Durham yesterday that has been eight years reaching its destination. It was mailed in Alabama county in 1881 and it yesterday was received by Mr. J. T. Lea, for whom it was intended.

Goldsboro Headlight: Four little white boys who ran away from their mothers in Raleigh after a three days tramp arrived in this city Saturday night, and as a letter had reached the Mayor from their mothers, they were kept safely until Sunday, when the Mayor bought them tickets and sent them back to their homes. They were from 7 to 12 years old.

The first printing press erected in North Carolina was brought from Virginia to New Berne by James Davis during the year 1749 and was used until the year 1765 in printing the laws and proceedings of the General Assembly, when he began the publication of a weekly newspaper called the North Carolina Magazine or Universal Intelligencer, the first paper ever published in North Carolina.

Raleigh News-Observer: Readers of the News-Observer will remember reading in its columns a few weeks ago of the successful test of Rev.
Bayliss Cade's invention for telegraphing from moving trains. It was heralded all over the world, and appeared in all the leading papers.
It is now announced that the invention has attracted great attention, and that the parties in New York have purchased one thirty second interest in the stock of the invention for $10,000. It looks as if it is destined to prove a valuable possession for Mr. Cade. We wish him success with the enterprise.

There is little fear that Florida will be visited by yellow fever this year. Dr. Jerome Cochrane, State health officer of Alabama has returned from a trip to South Florida and Havana. He went to investigate the yellow fever situation.
He reports that there has been no yellow fever in Florida since January except one case reported in April at Sanford. In Havana he found a little fever, only a dozen to twenty cases a week. He says the general health of the people is exceptionally good, and gives it as his opinion that there will be no fresh outbreak of yellow fever in Florida this summer.—Goldsboro Argus.

Martin Irons who five years ago was a prominent figure in the Knights of Labor organization and led in the great railroad strike on the Gould lines, is now running a fruit stand in St. Louis. Denis Kearny, the sand lot orator, who at one time was a power on the Pacific coast, is driving a dray in San Francisco, and Oliver H. Dockery, of lowering aspirations, has simmered down in a little consulsip. How are the mighty fallen.—Wilmington

What Did Vanderbilt Say About the People.

Evening Post.
Black Mountain is the name of a postoffice in Buncombe county N. C., among the peaks of that Black Mountain range which is of late years becoming so popular with tourists. The office has been in charge of a young white woman, who has performed its duties with entire acceptability. Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson recently removed her, and appointed as her successor, "in the regular routine," at the demand of the local Republican machine, "not knowing the facts," a negro who can neither read nor write. When a person calls to make inquiry for mail, the postmaster says he doesn't know whether there is anything for him, but dumps the entire mail of the office in front of the applicant and invites him to see if there is anything addressed to him.

A distinguished warrior is coming to North Carolina to live. Chief Geronimo and his band of Apaches have been confined in very narrow quarters at Mt. Vernon Barricks, Ala. The War Department, wishing to provide them with sufficient land to make them comfortable homes, sent Capt. John G. Burke, of the Third Cavalry, and Prof.
Painter, of the Indian Rights Association, to select a suitable site.
They have returned with the information that they have chosen the Indian reservation in Swain county, North Carolina, now occupied by 2-000 Cherokees, who are willing to sell out. Geronimo wanted to get back to Arizona, but is glad to get away from his present location, and promises to be a good Indian.—Exchange.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14th, 1883.

A Trip to the West.

That unceremonious flash of lightning that came in upon us last week, so knocked our throats into a "cocked hat" (excuse the slang) and burnt up part of what had been written, that we desisted from saying more of our trip at the time. But according to promise we will try to weave the thread together and tell something of what was seen after departing from the beautiful town of Lenoir, pleasant recollections of whose kind people and the happy hours we spent there will go down with us through the years to come.

Leaving Lenoir, bound moun-tainward, the traveler passes through a strikingly beautiful country. There is so much to attract the eye that, though the trip of 22 miles must be made by hack and consumes six or seven hours, one rarely thinks of getting tired. Seven miles brought us to the little town of Patterson and about this we want to say a few words before going further.
At this point is located a mammoth factory known as Patterson Mills. It is an immense establishment, working extensivelly in both cotton and wool, and giving employment to hundreds of operatives. The mills were reached just at 12 o'clock, when everything stopped for the dinner hour, and while nothing could be seen at work we did not miss the opportunity of going through the building. Our party was kindly shown through by Dr. Beall of Lenoir, who accompanied us that far. He explained the workings of some of the principal machines among the spindles and looms and told us much of interest. Seeing that no material used was raised in that section we asked Dr. Beall from whence came the crude material for work in the mill.
He said the cotton was purchased principally from Charlotte and from South Carolina, and that wool was purchased in various sections. "By the way," said he, "much of the wool comes from down in your section, some of the finest right from Pitt county." This remark put us to thinking, and we resolved forthwith to read our Pitt county people a lecture, not so much for selling their wool, but for not having mills at home and utilizing the cotton and wool where they are made. Here are those mills situated seven miles from a railroad—and they were built long before the railroad got anywhere near them—and must be reached over hilly, country roads that our Pitt county farmers would pronounce impassable.
First the immense amount of heavy machinery necessary had to be hauled in wagons for miles over these roads, then freights on the material used have to be paid to the nearest depot, and must be hauled out to the mills, then after being manufactured into thread or cloth must be hauled back to the railroad for shipment. And everybody knows that freights between eastern and western North Carolina are high, so high in fact that most of the trade that would be carried on between the two sections is driven elsewhere. Notwithstanding all this the mills are operated at a profit. They make money, of course. Now the problem to our mind is why cannot Pitt county build such mills right here where we raise plenty of cotton and can make plenty wool, and by saving such heavy freights and expenses of hauling, make double the money that our western friends do? We believe it can be done, and the people must get to thinking about it.

Monday evening in time for supper we reached Patterson Springs, near Shelby, and remained until Friday. Here is another charming place. Not much for style and show, but lots for solid comfort and enjoyment. It reminds us of a large country home, but one never gets dull for want of amusement. From forty to fifty visitors are there. The table can be surpassed nowhere. The waters, sulphur, iron and free stone. are delicious and health giving. Of such a pleasant place we could say much, but want of space forbids now.

Our faces turned homeward on Friday, August 2nd, and after meeting with two delays on account of washouts, and then tackling a big freshet at this end we finally got here safe on the morning of the 4th.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

We have had a tremendous quantity of rain during the last three weeks which, of course, has filled the streams and ditches to overflow and the sandy lands are badly washed but the crops have improved beyond the expectation of even the most hopeful, as that on the stiff lands we have a fair prospect for average crops where the lands have been properly prepared and cultivated.
Rev. G. L. Finch assisted by Rev.
J. W. Huntly, of Eastern Virginia has been conducting a meeting at the Baptist church here, which began on the 4th Sunday night in July and ended last Friday night with baptism which was witnessed by a very large crowd. During the whole meeting the congregations have been large and considerable interest was manifested, but there were only two accessions to the church. Both of these brethren have made favorable and lasting impressions on the minds of the people in and around Bethel. Bro.
Huntly took the train for Tarboro Friday morning. Bro. Finch left for Greenville Saturday morning.

The Methodist brethren began their protracted meeting here on Wednesday night last conducted by their pastor Rev. E. L. Pell.

Miss Carrie James has returned from her visit to Wilson.

Miss Nora Pitt, of Sparta, is visiting Miss Lucy Knight.

Mr. Lewis, the newly appointed Deputy Revenue Collector for this district, spent Friday and a portion of Saturday at Bethel.

Mr. Jason Tice, of Martin county, was the guest of Mr. J. H. Johnston Saturday and Sunday.

Watermelons have been very scarce but are getting to be plentiful now.

We notice an article in the last REFLECTOR on the "Jury System," signed "J. J." but fail to state where he writes from, as it is known here that your humble servant has done some writing over that signature, I am accused of writing the article referred to, I wish your communicator would just state his whereabouts as we don't want the honor of communicating such an article as that. [Tell those who credit you with the article that they have named the wrong man.—ED.] But as Mr. "J. J." has taken our name and used some very rough language about some classes of people and things that we are peculiarly friendly to, we will take the privilege of paying our respects to his communication in a mild and brief way. We have heard people talk the same kind of nonsense before, and they are most invariably men who have just received some of that article "J. J." says they don't want (justice) at the hands of an honest pious woods jury, and at the suggestion of some of those hollowing lawyers that "J. J." speaks of, he is evidently sore about something and of course it is fair to assume, it is something concerning juries, lawyers and justice, as they are what he is spitting at, for no man who was not inflamed would use such language about the honored old jury system and the respectable jurymen of the country. And from what he says about the corruption of the whole land we think he has a terrible case of the blues, or he knows very little about this country as compared with some others and that he knows less about other countries.

Our County Commissioners would be unworthy to hold their positions if they were to select such an un-godly set of ignoramuses as "J. J." says nineteenths of our jurymen are, but perhaps he does not know the Commissioners have the power to and always do, discard such men as in their wise discretion they believe to be incompetent for jurors, and if the Sheriff should summon a fool for a talisman the parties have a chance to get him off, so that they need not be injured very much by jurymen.
He not only accuses them of gross ignorance and various other kind of manners, among which we find bribery. Now if he were not mad or insane or something nearly akin to it, he would remember that the very best men of our country serve on the jury, and I doubt very much if "J. J." would tell any respectable jurymen of Pitt county that he had been bribed, and he certainly is in no sort of danger of being burdened to death with an overload of knowledge if he does not know the pious woods and blackjack settlements contain some of our best and most honest men. Now, we would not undertake to advise "J. J." oh! no, but will suggest that he devise some nicer and more effectual way to administer justice than the jury system, and suggest further that he take the advice of Blackstone, viz:

"Live honest, harm no one and render unto every man his just does." And St. Paul gives us some wholesome advice on that line in the New Testament, viz: "Be obedient to the powers that be, owe no debts but love, and give honor to whom honor is due." And our Saviour talking on the same line told the people to "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesars and to God the things that are God's." Now "J. J." will just live up to the principles above enunciated, the jury system, and all the hollowing, baittail lawyers combined can not hurt him. But if you will fall into the clutches of the law, the honest pious woods jurymen of your county will deal with you, and the hollowing lawyer will make you pay for trying to shield your pocket and your corpus from their honest verdicts.

We hope he has cooled down before now and is sorry for the harsh things he said about his fellow citizens and his county (if this is his county) and if he will abuse people we would be glad if he could change his signature a little or at any rate tell where he writes from; and as we do not wish to be taken for him, or rather that he should be taken for us again, we will just add another letter to our name.

Very truly,
H. J.

[We will say for the information of our correspondent that it was hardly possible for him to be more erroneous in his opinion of "J. J." than he is in the above. The author of the article on the jury system is a man who has never had the slightest connection with a jury or a court in any manner whatever.
He is a good citizen, and comes as near living up to the scripture which "H. J." quotes as any man we know. We say this much without waiting for him to reply for himself.—ED.]

M. R. LANG. Our office enjoyed a watermelon last Wednesday sent by Mrs. Emily Harris, and a cantaloupe Thursday sent by Mrs. H. A. Sutton.

35 per lb for Lorillard Sweet Scotch Snuff. 5000 lb sold in Pitt Co., which is a guarantee of its superiority, at the Old Brick Store.

The matter of the excursion to Wilmington has not been definitely settled yet, but hold yourself in readiness to go in case it is made up.

M. R. Lang's Column.

A SEVERE TEST.

When you have articles too fine—too delicate to be washed in the ordinary way—the finest laces or embroideries—wash them with PYLE'S PEARLINE, in the manner directed on each package. There is no rubbing, hence no wear and tear of the fabrics.

When you have something exceedingly coarse and soiled—something that you dread the washing of—try PYLE'S PEARLINE on it. There is no rubbing, hence no wear and tear on yourself.

We guarantee PEARLINE to be harmless, but beware of the imitations.

PEARLINE is the modern means for easy and good washing and cleaning.

Manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York.

A View of the Case at Variance with Modern Ideas of Education.

What does your sweet girl graduate know who does not know the meaning of a diploma and loads of flowers asks a gray haired growler in The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Is she fitted for any special calling in life?

In a majority of instances she has received no practical instruction whatever. She is scarcely able to put her clothes on, much less to make or repair them. She is not able to read a sentence, but too often she cannot write good English, nor does she speak it.

She can chatter in French so as to be understood by her teacher, but to her Frenchman it would be about as intelligible as Choctaw. She probably knows an omelet from a steak, but has only the faintest idea of the process by which they are made.

To her the world consists of books and good looking young men, and in the more or less distant future stands a knightly looking man in the shadow of a vine arched gateway, surrounded by all the evidences of wealth and comfort.

Two years after the a. g. g. has received the school diploma she is able to read language to her geometry a puzzle and history a sealed book.

What has she gained?

If she really studied hard she is probably an expert cook and a neat needle woman. She has learned the ranks of the nervous host of women, a deep seated dyspepsia and an irritable temper.

If she didn't study hard she is probably an expert chatterbox. The four or five years that she spent in school were the years in which she was growing out of girlhood into womanhood, and the years in which she should have been receiving the personal care of her mother.

Common sense teaches us that girls should not be sent to college or seminary until after they are 18 years old. From 12 to 18 years of age they are subject to physical culture, and incidentally to mental culture.

This view of the case is at variance with the modern ideas of education. The modern idea is that men are slowly coming to feel that medical scientists and experts in physical culture condemn the modern idea in unmeasured terms. They know that girls should not be sent to college or seminary until after they are 18 years of age, and they can give the best reasons for it.

Even if no other reason could be given than that they are not old enough to be sent to college or seminary, it would be sufficient. What is the use of rushing a girl through a course of studies that is incomprehensible to her? It is an unnecessary waste of time and money, for which she must suffer for the balance of her natural life.

The healthiest, happiest and most useful women in the land today are not graduates of a seminary or high school.

The best teachers and best scholars among our women are those who are educated upon their collegiate course after they are 18 years of age. For in every case it is their doing, and why they were doing it.

There is no doubt but the present system of educating young women is the cause of their imperfect physical development, ill health and general unfitness to become the wives of business men and mothers of a race of stalwart and handsome women.

This is gospel truth.

The average young man stands the college ordeal better than his sister, because he indulges in more physical culture, and has more vitality. For in every case it is his doing, and why they were doing it.

If he is endowed with a reasonable amount of common sense he has a profession in view and studies to fit himself for it, and in that direction he has no need of a college education.

His sister, however, has no profession in view, and can see no purpose whatever in her education. And it is a fact that there is little in her education that is not a waste of time and money. For in every case it is her doing, and why they were doing it.

Whether editor or author has devoted the more time and thought to forming a just opinion? Whether the respect-ful author of "Lead Kindly Light," or the editor of "The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette," is the better? To which man is it more likely that he will be true to his duty? Whether the editor or author has devoted the more time and thought to forming a just opinion? Whether the respectful author of "Lead Kindly Light," or the editor of "The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette," is the better? To which man is it more likely that he will be true to his duty?

When a hundred bottles of sarsaparilla or other pretensions specify fail to eradicate in-born scrofula or contagious blood-poison, remember that B. B. B. (Bottled Blood) has gained many thousands of victories, in as many seemingly incurable instances. Send to the Blood Purifier Co., Atlanta, Ga., for a Book of "Wonders," and be convinced. It is the only true blood purifier.

G. W. Messer, Howell's Road, Ga., writes: "I was afflicted nine years with sores. All the medicine I could take did me no good. I bought B. B. B., and 8 bottles cured me sound."

Mrs. S. M. Wilson, Round Mountain, Texas, writes: "A lady friend of mine was troubled with lumps and pimples on her face and neck. She took three bottles of B. B. B., and her skin got soft and smooth, pimples disappeared, and her health improved greatly."

Jas. L. Rosworth, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "Some years ago I contracted blood poisoning. I had no appetite, my digestion failed, rheumatism crept up my limbs, so I could hardly walk, my throat was cuterized five times. Hot Springs gave me no benefit, and my life was one of suffering until I gave B. B. B. a trial. Surprising as it may seem, the use of five bottles cured me."

A Very Important Lesson.

The Wilmington Messenger says: Perhaps a very important and instructive lesson as to drinking water is to be learnt from the very distressing and extraordinary experiences of the young men and women who attended the picnic by night near Raleigh. Our party consisted of two boys who were present seventeen have been ill from typhoid fever, and of forty-two men eight or nine have had the fever. Two young men and one young lady died. We hear that the well used showed a dead hog or dog in it. It was very poisonous whatever caused it.
