Poetry.

GOOD AND EVIL. CHARES MACKEY.

If fortune with a smiling face Strew roses on our way,
When shall we stoop to pick them up?
To-day, my friend, to-day!
But should we frown with face of care
And talk of coming sorrow.
When shall we grieve, if grieve we must?
To-morrow, friend, tomorrow!

If those who've wronged us own their fault
And for our pity pray,
When shall we listen and forgive?
To-day, my friend, to-day!
But if stern justice urge rebuke And warmth from memory borrow, When shall we chide, if chide we dare To-morrow, friend, to-merrow

If those to whom we owe a debt Are harmed unless we pay, When shall we struggle to be just? To-day, my friend, to-day! But if our debtor fail our hope And plead his ruin thorough, When shall we weigh his breach trust?

To-morrow, friend, to-morrow! For virtuous deeds and harmless joys The minutes will not stay, We're always bound to welcome them To-day, my friend, to day! But care, resentment, angry words, And unavailing sorrow Come soon enough if they appear To-morrow, friend, to-morrow.

Wilson Mirror. There comes a time in the life of every man when he devoutly wishes for a change. If he be a merchant he sorrowfully casts his eyes towards the banker, as that individual carelessly rolls by in his carriage. The banker, with outstanding loans and speculations, rides by the neat trim cottage of the independent laborer, and would gladly exchange his luxurious surroundings for the peace of mind that the poor man ought to possess. The poor laborer can see no pleasure in his lot and he turns with a groan from the sleek, well dressed politician, who, since the election, passed by him unnoticed. The politician, in an idle hour, drops into the little ivvover grown church and listens in envy to the sacred word as preach. ed by the pure faced, blue eyed minister, who reflects in tones and gestures the love of a pure undefiled and immaculate Saviour. His life with all its wire-pulling and scheming, its betrayals and promises he would-gladly give for the peace and contentment of this man, and yet the mild, pure, blue-eyed parson is not content; he would fain change places with any man. His congregation is illiberal, unjust, miserly. It does not even thank the Lora for the gift of such a man, but on the contrary speaks fretfelly, P. T. A Lady's Perfect Companion.
Our new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in childbirth, but results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to over come and prevent morning sickness and the many other evils attending pregnancy. It is highly endorsed by physicians everywhere as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out: it will save you great pain, and pos ibly your life. The improvedmethod of fastening strings of Pianos, invented by us, is one of the most important improvements ever made, making the instrument more richly musical in tone, more durable, and less liable to get out of tune.

Both the Mason & Hamlin Organs and Pianos excel chiefly in that which is the chief excellence in any musical instrument. quality of tone. Other things, though important, are much less so than this. An instrument with unmusical tones cannot be good. Illustrated catalogues of new styles, introduced season, sent free.

Ho! What's This?

Culley in the way of helping the afficted. By calling on or addressing the above named barber, you can procure a bottle of Preparation that is invaluable for eradicating dandruft and causing the kinkies hair to be perfectly soft and glossy, only two or three application a week is necessary, and a common hair brush is all to be used after rubbing the scalp vigorously for a few minutes with the Preparation. Try a bottle and be convinced, only 50 cents.
