

THE REFLECTOR
Solicits your patronage for 1890
Its purpose will be to please every reader.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR

THE REFLECTOR
HAS A JOB PRINTING
Department that can be surpassed no where in this section. Our work always gives satisfaction.
Send us your orders.

D. J. WHICHARD, Editor and Proprietor.

TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION.

TERMS: $1.50 Per Year, in Advance.

VOL. IX. GREENVILLE, PITT COUNTY, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 9, 1890. NO. 25.

The Eastern Reflector GREENVILLE, N. C.

D. J. WHICHARD, Editor and Proprietor. Published Every Wednesday

General Directory.

STATE GOVERNMENT. Governor—Daniel G. Fowle, of Wake. Lieutenant-Governor—Thos. M. Holt, of Lenoir. Secretary of State—William T. Saunders, of Wake. Treasurer—Donald W. Bain, of Wake. Auditor—George W. Sanderlin, of Wayne. Superintendent of Public Instruction—Simeon M. Fingers, of Catawba. Attorney General—Theodore F. Davidson, of Buncombe.

Democratic Nominees.

For Solicitor—Third Judicial District: JOHN E. WOODARD, of Wilson.

Poetry.

LONG YEARS AGO. In the sweet days of Long Ago, A little friend to me was given; The love I gave her none may know— But she is now in Heaven! Yet, oftentimes the thought will come, When I am sitting all alone, "Both her pure heart, in that dear home, A love for me still owns!"

"Lis True, 'Tis Pity."

Chicago Specimen. How very much it may be regretted by those who are disposed to "give woman a chance" in business life, it is true that the commercial development of women is not in harmony with the best interests of society.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT.

Superior Court Clerk—E. A. Moye. Sheriff—J. A. K. Tucker. Register of Deeds—David H. James. Assessor—J. H. Greer. Surveyor—J. S. L. Ward. Coroner—H. B. Harris. Commissioners—Council Dawson, Chairman, Guilford W. Worthington, C. V. Newton, John Flanagan, T. R. Keel. Board of Education—Henry Harding, Chairman; J. S. Conington and J. D. Cox. Public School Superintendent—H. Harding. Sup't of Health—Dr. F. W. Brown. Standard Keeper—Cernelius Kinsaul.

A Great Mistake.

Wilmington Star. We published yesterday the letter of Senator Vance to Elias Carr President of the North Carolina Farmers' Alliance, a letter called for by the numerous reports in reference to his position on the sub-treasury bill, and also by certain events which have taken place in our State since the sub-treasury bill was introduced in the Senate by him, at the request of representatives of the Alliance and the Industrial Union, one of which doubtless was the "demands" of the Alliance, presented to candidates for Congress.

Stray Bits of Fun.

Baked Together by the Bad Boy for Those Who Love to Laugh. Marshall music—"You are my prisoner." "Light" opera—A dog howling at the moon. You give me a pane—said the window—frame to the glazier. Some of the cook—Hold the fork, fry ham coming.

Strong Words on Pensoin Laws.

Charlotte Chronicle. The annual meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa chapter of Harvard College, was made interesting by a brilliant address by Bishop H. C. Potter, of New York, on "The Scholar and the State."

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest Occurring in North Carolina.

AS REFLECTED FROM OUR EXCHANGES. A negro was run over and smashed by a train near Cary, on Monday. Raleigh has a new hook and ladder truck that weighs 4,000 pounds. There are 192 newspapers in North Carolina, only 5 of which are Republican. Jimmie Cook, a 14-year-old Georgia evangelist, has been preaching in Charlotte. Salisbury people, guessing at its population, go as high as 4,998. None so far have claimed as much as 5,000. According to the Weldon News more tobacco has been planted in Halifax county this year than ever before.

Dangerous Delusion.

Richmond State. A Florida paper commenting upon the craze in Boston over "hypnotism," asserts that there is more delusion among the people of the North than among the negroes of the South. It is now the fad in Boston to be hypnotized, and many young ladies there are eager for the experiment. Is this assertion of the existence of more delusion in the North than among the negroes of the South true? At first glance it appears overstrained and, doubtless, it will excite the ire of our Northern brethren. To liken the cultivated Bostonian to the deluded plantation negro of the South is not flattering to the Bostonian, and it is the similitude indeed exists, then it supplies the enemies of culture with a strong argument. That delusion is strong in the North is true. That it is as dangerously existent among the people of the North as among the negroes of the South is not true in the sense of being injurious to the people of the North; but is true in the sense of being injurious to the people of another section, namely, the South. The North, and especially the "cultivated" North, looks with horror upon what it delusively considers the deplorable condition of the negro in the South. The horror takes the shape of compassionately compulsory measures which, instead of aiding the negro, make real the troubles now imaginary, and increase the growth of these delusions which are hurtful to the section in which he lives and is supported. And these delusions impair the ability of the Southern whites to take care of the blacks, for this ignorance is worked upon by a depraved class of whites, called Republicans, because the title appeals to the fancy of the negro. The Lodge Federal Election bill comes from Massachusetts. That bill and its companion measures get inspiration from the deluded Northern and the bitter anti-Southern Northern. This delusion is as strong as is the delusion of the Southern negro. A social fad is the thing of a moment, but a political delusion is a menace full of danger to millions and leads to the perpetration of crimes deadly to the vitality of justice, and also deadly to general prosperity.

A Surprised Clerk.

New York Tribune. Senator Harris, of Tennessee, had an experience some years ago with a new committee clerk at the capitol. He went into the room of the committee on claims one afternoon and asked the clerk to show him the papers in a case under consideration by the committee.

Don't Know What They Want.

Charlotte Chronicle. When the Democrats had the presidency and the majority in the House, they were continually taunted by Republicans with being incapable of framing any great measure upon which the party would unite. The familiarity of the Republicans with legislative methods, their experience, and the ability to accomplish something practical, was an argument offered in favor of their reinstatement to power.

Advertising Pays.

There never was a time in the history of the country that newspaper advertising was so effective in a business sense as it is at the present. The tendency in this direction dates back a number of years, but has increased of late in a most wonderful ratio. In more primitive times, when business was far less diversified than now it was comparatively easy for the memory of men to take and retain the details of current transactions and the newspaper was not absolutely essential as it is at present, but business has become so diversified in its nature and its forms, and the number of trading firms has so much increased that the memory can no longer bear the burden, and so ink and types must come in as relief from a burden too great to be born. Were a man now who has a house to rent or a farm to sell go up and down the street asking if any one could tell him where he could find a customer, people who suspect him of being ignorant of the value of what he had to dispose of; and indeed, the suspicions would not be unreasonable in the case of a man who would spend a week in making an announcement which would be more thoroughly given by the newspaper in half an hour.

Advertising Pays.

There are isolated cases where the young girl must enter the arena of commercial life, but these cases are not so plenty as many people imagine. The majority of girls and women who engage in lucrative pursuits do so for the sake of the added comforts and the independence afforded by the possession of a little cash—and not because necessity forces them to earn a livelihood. In very few instances do they experience greater difficulty than the other sex in securing positions.

Advertising Pays.

It would be immeasurably better for the morality of the country if those who are so industriously engaged, through mistaken zeal, in opening the doors of commercial life to the young women, would seek rather to instruct them in their higher duties, and through such wise and beneficent ministrations assist in making the homes of this land the moral bulwark of a virtuous and honorable nation. To develop a better state, mentally, morally, socially and financially. To constantly strive to secure entire harmony and good will among all mankind, and brotherly love among ourselves. To suppress personal, local, sectional and national prejudice; to all unhealthful rivalry and all selfish ambition. To assuage the sufferings of a brother and sister, bury the dead, care for the widows, and educate the orphans; to exercise charity toward offenders. To construe words and purposes in their most favorable light, granting the honest of purpose and good intentions to others, and to protect the principles or the Alliance unto death. There is nothing in this declaration of purposes that any citizen who loves his country and wishes well to his fellow men cannot conscientiously and heartily subscribe to, whether he be a farmer or not. There is nothing in them that Senator Vance as a man, citizen and Senator, could not endorse, and there is nothing in them that ex-President Cleveland, to whom the finger of fate again points as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the most conspicuous figure in the party, could not endorse and did not endorse when they were presented to him. Such an organization, based upon these principles and actuated by these high resolves must become a powerful factor for good, but the very moment it, as an organization, enters into the political arena, and mixes up in party contentions, it abandons to a great extent its high moral ground, lowers its character, lessens its influence, and is powerful only to the extent of the votes it may be able to control. It would not be long before it, as a political organization, would be on the same plane with other political organizations, and aspiring men with little and great ambitions, would endeavor to use it to further their ambitions. They would succeed to a greater or less extent unless that organization was managed with more consummate wisdom than any other political organization in this country ever was. Then the jealousies, the contentions and rivalries would be fed, and its influence and usefulness be destroyed forever. There are many of the very best citizens of North Carolina in the Alliance, the great body of them are true and good men, who love their State and wish her well, and we cannot and will not believe that they will commit their great order to a course which in the end would be destructive to it and ruinous to the State.

Advertising Pays.

There is nothing in this declaration of purposes that any citizen who loves his country and wishes well to his fellow men cannot conscientiously and heartily subscribe to, whether he be a farmer or not. There is nothing in them that Senator Vance as a man, citizen and Senator, could not endorse, and there is nothing in them that ex-President Cleveland, to whom the finger of fate again points as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the most conspicuous figure in the party, could not endorse and did not endorse when they were presented to him. Such an organization, based upon these principles and actuated by these high resolves must become a powerful factor for good, but the very moment it, as an organization, enters into the political arena, and mixes up in party contentions, it abandons to a great extent its high moral ground, lowers its character, lessens its influence, and is powerful only to the extent of the votes it may be able to control. It would not be long before it, as a political organization, would be on the same plane with other political organizations, and aspiring men with little and great ambitions, would endeavor to use it to further their ambitions. They would succeed to a greater or less extent unless that organization was managed with more consummate wisdom than any other political organization in this country ever was. Then the jealousies, the contentions and rivalries would be fed, and its influence and usefulness be destroyed forever. There are many of the very best citizens of North Carolina in the Alliance, the great body of them are true and good men, who love their State and wish her well, and we cannot and will not believe that they will commit their great order to a course which in the end would be destructive to it and ruinous to the State.

Advertising Pays.

There is nothing in this declaration of purposes that any citizen who loves his country and wishes well to his fellow men cannot conscientiously and heartily subscribe to, whether he be a farmer or not. There is nothing in them that Senator Vance as a man, citizen and Senator, could not endorse, and there is nothing in them that ex-President Cleveland, to whom the finger of fate again points as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the most conspicuous figure in the party, could not endorse and did not endorse when they were presented to him. Such an organization, based upon these principles and actuated by these high resolves must become a powerful factor for good, but the very moment it, as an organization, enters into the political arena, and mixes up in party contentions, it abandons to a great extent its high moral ground, lowers its character, lessens its influence, and is powerful only to the extent of the votes it may be able to control. It would not be long before it, as a political organization, would be on the same plane with other political organizations, and aspiring men with little and great ambitions, would endeavor to use it to further their ambitions. They would succeed to a greater or less extent unless that organization was managed with more consummate wisdom than any other political organization in this country ever was. Then the jealousies, the contentions and rivalries would be fed, and its influence and usefulness be destroyed forever. There are many of the very best citizens of North Carolina in the Alliance, the great body of them are true and good men, who love their State and wish her well, and we cannot and will not believe that they will commit their great order to a course which in the end would be destructive to it and ruinous to the State.

Advertising Pays.

There is nothing in this declaration of purposes that any citizen who loves his country and wishes well to his fellow men cannot conscientiously and heartily subscribe to, whether he be a farmer or not. There is nothing in them that Senator Vance as a man, citizen and Senator, could not endorse, and there is nothing in them that ex-President Cleveland, to whom the finger of fate again points as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the most conspicuous figure in the party, could not endorse and did not endorse when they were presented to him. Such an organization, based upon these principles and actuated by these high resolves must become a powerful factor for good, but the very moment it, as an organization, enters into the political arena, and mixes up in party contentions, it abandons to a great extent its high moral ground, lowers its character, lessens its influence, and is powerful only to the extent of the votes it may be able to control. It would not be long before it, as a political organization, would be on the same plane with other political organizations, and aspiring men with little and great ambitions, would endeavor to use it to further their ambitions. They would succeed to a greater or less extent unless that organization was managed with more consummate wisdom than any other political organization in this country ever was. Then the jealousies, the contentions and rivalries would be fed, and its influence and usefulness be destroyed forever. There are many of the very best citizens of North Carolina in the Alliance, the great body of them are true and good men, who love their State and wish her well, and we cannot and will not believe that they will commit their great order to a course which in the end would be destructive to it and ruinous to the State.

Advertising Pays.

There is nothing in this declaration of purposes that any citizen who loves his country and wishes well to his fellow men cannot conscientiously and heartily subscribe to, whether he be a farmer or not. There is nothing in them that Senator Vance as a man, citizen and Senator, could not endorse, and there is nothing in them that ex-President Cleveland, to whom the finger of fate again points as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the most conspicuous figure in the party, could not endorse and did not endorse when they were presented to him. Such an organization, based upon these principles and actuated by these high resolves must become a powerful factor for good, but the very moment it, as an organization, enters into the political arena, and mixes up in party contentions, it abandons to a great extent its high moral ground, lowers its character, lessens its influence, and is powerful only to the extent of the votes it may be able to control. It would not be long before it, as a political organization, would be on the same plane with other political organizations, and aspiring men with little and great ambitions, would endeavor to use it to further their ambitions. They would succeed to a greater or less extent unless that organization was managed with more consummate wisdom than any other political organization in this country ever was. Then the jealousies, the contentions and rivalries would be fed, and its influence and usefulness be destroyed forever. There are many of the very best citizens of North Carolina in the Alliance, the great body of them are true and good men, who love their State and wish her well, and we cannot and will not believe that they will commit their great order to a course which in the end would be destructive to it and ruinous to the State.

Advertising Pays.

There is nothing in this declaration of purposes that any citizen who loves his country and wishes well to his fellow men cannot conscientiously and heartily subscribe to, whether he be a farmer or not. There is nothing in them that Senator Vance as a man, citizen and Senator, could not endorse, and there is nothing in them that ex-President Cleveland, to whom the finger of fate again points as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the most conspicuous figure in the party, could not endorse and did not endorse when they were presented to him. Such an organization, based upon these principles and actuated by these high resolves must become a powerful factor for good, but the very moment it, as an organization, enters into the political arena, and mixes up in party contentions, it abandons to a great extent its high moral ground, lowers its character, lessens its influence, and is powerful only to the extent of the votes it may be able to control. It would not be long before it, as a political organization, would be on the same plane with other political organizations, and aspiring men with little and great ambitions, would endeavor to use it to further their ambitions. They would succeed to a greater or less extent unless that organization was managed with more consummate wisdom than any other political organization in this country ever was. Then the jealousies, the contentions and rivalries would be fed, and its influence and usefulness be destroyed forever. There are many of the very best citizens of North Carolina in the Alliance, the great body of them are true and good men, who love their State and wish her well, and we cannot and will not believe that they will commit their great order to a course which in the end would be destructive to it and ruinous to the State.

Advertising Pays.

There is nothing in this declaration of purposes that any citizen who loves his country and wishes well to his fellow men cannot conscientiously and heartily subscribe to, whether he be a farmer or not. There is nothing in them that Senator Vance as a man, citizen and Senator, could not endorse, and there is nothing in them that ex-President Cleveland, to whom the finger of fate again points as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the most conspicuous figure in the party, could not endorse and did not endorse when they were presented to him. Such an organization, based upon these principles and actuated by these high resolves must become a powerful factor for good, but the very moment it, as an organization, enters into the political arena, and mixes up in party contentions, it abandons to a great extent its high moral ground, lowers its character, lessens its influence, and is powerful only to the extent of the votes it may be able to control. It would not be long before it, as a political organization, would be on the same plane with other political organizations, and aspiring men with little and great ambitions, would endeavor to use it to further their ambitions. They would succeed to a greater or less extent unless that organization was managed with more consummate wisdom than any other political organization in this country ever was. Then the jealousies, the contentions and rivalries would be fed, and its influence and usefulness be destroyed forever. There are many of the very best citizens of North Carolina in the Alliance, the great body of them are true and good men, who love their State and wish her well, and we cannot and will not believe that they will commit their great order to a course which in the end would be destructive to it and ruinous to the State.

Only ten deaths in Wilmington during the month of June—all colored.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR, Greenville, N. C. Local Sparks.

{HOT WEATHER} {HOT WEATHER}

WEARING WEARING APPAREL APPAREL

Painters are at work on the new depot. Cheap—Car load solid Corn at the Old Brick Store. The Alliance had a meeting here the 4th. White Mountain Ice Cream Freezers for sale by Latham & Pender. The seasons continue splendid for the crops. J. B. Cherry & Co. carry a nice line of Ladies Shoes, and sell cheap. Four to six trains a day are nothing unusual now. 20,000 lbs Beeswax wanted for cash at the Old Brick Store. Cut another notch—train in on time Saturday evening. Fresh Boss Biscuits for the well and sick at the Old Brick Store. Latham & Pender continue to have large sales of tobacco fines. Best Shoes ever had for $1, both Ladies and Men's, at J. B. Cherry & Co's. The colored folks had a good time at their 4th of July celebration. The finest loaf of bread I ever ate was made of Point Lace Flour, at the Old Brick Store. Stephens had right much fun with his apples and the boys, Saturday afternoon. Go to Brown Bros. and see their cheap White Goods and Embroideries. Capt. White has just had a tin roof put on the shed in front of his row of brick stores. A big lot of Sample Notions just received and will be sold at New York cost at Higgs & Munford's. The boat race and the 4th of July have passed. What shall be the next amusement? SAMPLE NOTIONS—A big lot of Sample Notions just received and will be sold at New York cost at Higgs & Munford's. Did the census enumerator miss you in making his rounds? If so notify the REFLECTOR. 35 per lb for Lorillard Sweet Scoot Snuff. 5000 lb sold in Pitt Co, which is a guarantee of its superiority, at the Old Brick Store. Gus says he could sing "Way down on the old Tar river," if he could only get the pitch. Walter A. Wood Mowers and Horse Rakes. We have just received a new lot of these excellent machines. Send for circular and price. F. S. ROYSTER & Co., Tarboro, N. C. The editor thanks Mrs. W. R. Whichard for a basket of nice apples and other favors. NOTICE—I will change my grinding days from Wednesday and Saturday to Tuesday and Friday. Will commence fourth Friday in this month. I am better prepared to make good flour than heretofore. Come and see. BRYANT TRIPP. A squad of men were at work all day Sunday on the draw of the rail road bridge here. Alley & Hyman, Photographers, have made some great reductions in the price of pictures. See advertisement in this paper and avail yourself of the opportunity to get photographs low down. We have received a catalogue of Greenville Female Institute. Fall session opens September 1st. Watermelons are plentiful enough to be no rarity now, but the price of them is something rare as yet. The Congressional Convention is the next contest in which our section is politically interested. Date not yet set. Mr. R. Lang has a large, new advertisement to day. He is offering specialties in his line of summer wearing apparel. Mr. A. Forbes is having the dwelling on the corner of Washington and Fifth streets repaired and considerably improved. Elsewhere will be found the advertisement of the University of North Carolina. Fall term will begin September 4th. To-morrow and next day the county Superintendent of Education will examine applicants for teachers' certificates. The Teachers' association meets next Saturday. It will be an interesting session and every teacher who can should be present. Special services are being held in the Episcopal church this week. Rev. Mr. Arnold, of Wilmington, is assisting Dr. Hughes. A catalogue of Wilson Collegiate Institute for young ladies has been received. Fall session opens September 1st. See advertisement. The Greenville Guard received their fatigue uniforms last week. The boys have not been out in them yet but Lieut. Smith says they are o. k. Mr. T. A. Nichols tells us his crop this year is the best for the season and his prospects for a large harvest the brightest he has had in 19 years. The progressive business man says advertising pays—he tried it and knows. The non-progressive man don't try it, his business stands still and he does the grumbling. The last Scotland Neck Democrat has this to say about a Greenville boy: "It is generally remarked by almost every one what a clever jeweler Mr. M. Heilbronner is." Washington had another large fire Monday night in which Farrow's shipyard, Stewart's machine shop and a dwelling house belonging to a colored man were burned. Greenville has a beautiful depot now, and pick the world over there could not be found a more accommodating, obliging and gentlemanly agent than Mr. J. B. Cherry.

Make yourself comfortable for the summer months. Below we quote quite an array of hot weather goods for those who wish to make the most of life during the summer. All our Lawns and Shallices reduced to the uniform price of 5 CENTS. { } 5 CENTS. { } 5 CENTS. Many among them worth double the money.

Choice display of Satens, Gingham, etc. New lot Embroidered Robes just received which we are selling for merely 75 cents on the dollar.

Nice line of Sun Umbrellas. Nice line of Sun Umbrellas.

Full line of Summer Coats.

SEERSUCKERS, ALPACCAS, SERGES, FLANNELS, DRAP E' TR, MOHAIR, PONGEES.

Special line for Clergymen and Stout Men.

Stylish array of all styles and qualities. Nobby Clothing.

World's Fair Hat. Just received.

All these goods must be sold within 30 days even at a sacrifice. Our loss is your gain.

M. R. LANG.

Greenville, N. C. Evans Street near Telegraph Office, Evans Street near Telegraph Office.

Personal. Mr. H. A. Blow is now serving as Deputy Register of Deeds. Rev. W. R. Ware, of Washington, was in town Monday. Miss Havens Cherry is at the Boston Conservatory of Music. Misses Hortense Forbes and Nana Fleming are visiting in Washington. Mr. Wiley Powell, of Warrenton, is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. H. Tucker. Miss Smithwick, of Martin county is visiting Miss Bettie Johnson, near town. Miss Mamie Duckett is spending this week with Miss Lizzie Salisbury, at Hassell. Mr. C. L. Tyson began teaching Monday, in the school house at Briery Swamp. Master Will Blow is performing the telegraphic delivery service now and makes a good messenger. Mr. W. R. Whichard, Jr., opened a school on Monday in Brown's school house near Bethel. Mr. M. R. Lang, accompanied by Mrs. Lang and Master Larry Heilbronner, left Monday morning for Nags Head. Mr. Jackowsky, the tailor, left Greenville last week and has located in Washington. He is a splendid workman. Mr. Alex. Heilbronner is enjoying the summer months at that popular summer resort, Hotel Macon. And ditto Gus. Mr. Morris Jacobs died in Tarboro on the 2nd inst. He had friends in Greenville to whom the news of his death was very sad. Rev. J. L. Winfield conducted services in the Baptist church last Wednesday night and Rev. Mr. Summrell on Sunday night. Messrs. C. L. Whichard and O. L. Joyner left this week for Lexington, Ky., to take special courses in the University Business Colleges at that place. Mr. Richard Hosier, of Suffolk, Va., a few weeks ago moved his family to Greenville and is living at Mr. J. D. Williamson's. Mr. Hosier is stepfather of Mr. Williamson. Capt. Harry Whedbee, one of the Kershaw boys, leaves this morning for Nags Head to spend the summer. He and our Bad Boy will be greatly missed from the office.

More Water. The more attention should be given the public water supply of the town was strongly exemplified last Friday. The very large crowd in town soon exhausted several of the wells and there was some difficulty in getting enough water to drink. If the supply can be drunk up so easily what would become of us in case of a fire? Better Than Drilling. We over heard a conversation between two base ball boys the other evening out at practice. The two boys seemed to be rivals and they concluded to settle the matter by agreeing that the first one that muffed a ball should discontinue his visits to a certain place. It is needless to say that every ball was caught. 3000. Is It Correct? The census enumerator for Greenville gives the town 2,000 population. There are many who believe the population of the town is above that number by at least a hundred or so, but the enumerator says to the contrary. We had no figures to place our feet upon, but the Reflector thought the town ought to have 2,300 inhabitants. However, we will go a wagger that the population of Greenville is no less than 5,000 when the next census is taken 10 years hence. Sad but True. The pastors of both the Methodist and Baptist Churches here have recently preached sermons bearing upon the relation between parents and children. The people of Greenville need any amount of preaching of that kind. Taking for a guide the proverb "He that spareth the rod hateth his son" there must be a wonderful lack of parental love in this day and generation. The average boy of to day appears to be under no paternal control whatever, and in some instances hardly more can be said of the girls. Instantaneous Freezing. The boss machine in the way of a liquid freezer was exhibited here last week and Mr. A. N. Ryan purchased the county right for the sale of the machine. We saw the machine at work—a very simple looking contrivance in itself—and were surprised to see how readily milk was poured into a funnel at one end and came out ice cream at the other. Water was also tried and came out shaved. The machine is a Georgia patent and will work a revolution in the way of ice cream making. Be Getting Ready. One thing that Greenville needs to give her a good bound forward is a good crop or so in the country surrounding. One of these is already in sight and the pulse of the town is throbbing in expectation. The outlook for a big business is bright and now an important step for the business men to take is to begin organizing, to lay plans and get matters in shape for the march of progress. The old town cannot stand still much longer, and those not ready to march with her will be left behind. Mark the prediction! The Depot. On Monday morning we saw Mr. F. A. Applegate, foreman of the work at the depot here, who gave us some points about the building. He said the class of building is what is termed a strictly first-class depot, and he added, "there is not a better one anywhere on the Coast Line." The main front of the building is facing Dickerson Avenue, the reception rooms and offices in that end, with the large freight room extending back to the South parallel with the railroad tracks. This warehouse is 30x70 feet with baggage room in one corner, the ticket office and telegraph office is 12x30 feet, and the two reception rooms each 18x18 feet. The front of the building is two stories high with two rooms above the reception rooms the size of those below. There are large platforms around the whole building and the freight room is furnished with immense platform scales. There is a hood on both sides the warehouse and also around the passenger rooms. The design of the building is excellent and the finish is to be beautiful. The offices and reception rooms are to be left in natural wood, hand smoothed and finished in oil. The outside of the building will be handsomely painted. There are about 80,000 feet of lumber in the structure, and in the chimneys and foundations were used 35,000 ordinary brick and 2,500 pressed brick. Work commenced on the 15th of April, and the carpenters will be through this week. An average of 8 carpenters have been upon the building, and some days when the masons and day workmen were all engaged there would be 30 men at work. As we stated last week the building is a most substantial one. The architect of it can nowhere be surpassed. It is the admiration of all who visit it. Surely it is a credit to Greenville, and our people ought to feel thankful to the railroad authorities for giving us such a beautiful depot. Died from His Wound. Mr. John M. King, who on the 28th of April was shot in an altercation with Messrs. Joseph Rawls and W. A. Hyman, died on Friday morning July 4th, after nearly ten weeks most intense suffering, blood poison and heart failure resulting from the wound. Mr. King was shot twice with a 38 calibre pistol, one ball going through the flesh of his arm and spending its force against an account book in his breast pocket, the other striking inside his left thigh, breaking the bone in pieces. The latter wound caused his death. Mr. King was not quite 41 years old at his death. In September, 1897, he was married to Miss Lucy Jones, of Farmville. She died in 1884, and in 1887 he was married again to Mrs. L. C. Atkinson. Eight children by his first wife and one by his second wife are now living. He was a brother of Deputy Sheriff E. W. King of this town, of Mr. B. E. King, a merchant of Falkland, and Mr. H. T. King, editor of the Tarboro Banner. He was buried near Farmville on Saturday. Rawls, who was charged with the shooting and who was also wounded in the altercation, left the county soon after the difficulty and his whereabouts are unknown. The steamer Beaufort will make a weekly trip from New Farmville to O. C.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers should not be forgotten, for to see Capt. George Smith at the throttle is all the assurance the passengers need that they are in the best of hands and will reach their destination in safety. And Mr. Langston handles his freight train like he knows his business. The service here is admirably conducted, and if the railroad authorities would only change the A. & R. schedule or make some arrangement whereby the passenger train for Greenville will not have to wait an hour or so at the junction every evening, they would have no more complaints from the Reflector.

Mr. C. L. Whichard, who for about 15 months has been the self-styled "Bad Boy" of the Reflector office left Monday for Smiths Business College, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, to take special courses in telegraph, shorthand and type writing. While with us he has learned telegraphy and becoming more attached to that than printing, decided to go and equip himself thoroughly in the professions mentioned above. His aptness in mastering whatever he undertakes leaves no doubt of his becoming expert in these. While called the "Bad Boy," a better young man was never connected with the Reflector, or one more upright and manly in all his dealings. It was with many regrets that we gave him up. A Warning. The railroad agent here has asked us to request the parents and guardians of Greenville to keep their children away from the depot unless accompanied by persons who will keep them from danger. There are several boys who are around the depot most of the day, running over the tracks, jumping on and off trains, and heed not the warnings of agent or train men. It is useless to argue the danger that surrounds this practice, and if it is continued there need be no surprise if one or more of the boys get killed by the trains. Only last Friday a little boy was killed in Weldon in just this way, the train completely severing his body in twain. Parents in Greenville, your boy might be the next to get killed. Would it not be better on your part to compel your boy to keep away from the depot rather than run the risk of his being brought home a mangled corpse? Good Service. Greenville certainly ought to feel proud of the railroad facilities and accommodations the town has. A superb road, the prettiest depot on the line, the most obliging depot agent, and just the best conductors that ever carried a punch. Capt. Whitaker on the passenger and mail just captures everybody who rides with him, he is that clever and courteous to his passengers, and Capt. Willford on the freight grows in popularity every day. Both of them are who-souled men and generally liked. And the engineers

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR, Greenville, N. C.

ANOTHER PAGE. BY CARINE. Another page in life's great book...

Seemingly Liberal.

Tarboro Southern. Sometime since the W. & W. railroad announced to the legislative...

That proposition has been made and accepted by the committee, subject of course to the ratification of the next General Assembly.

The conditions upon which this agreement is to be made are extremely favorable to the road. How much it will save by being exempt from municipal taxation...

How Duluth Grows.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., June 29. The managers of the Evening Telegram allege that they have secured evidence of "crookedness" on the part of Duluth persons in the census count.

On a New Mash.

"Same Old Boy" at his Same Old Tricks. C. F. Wilson in Wilson Advance. Born of the South wind and the June sun...

In Consumption Incurable.

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris Newark, Ark. says: "Was down with Anemia of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable Consumptive..."

An Important Decision.

The newspapers of the State ought to call the attention of their readers to a decision of our Supreme Court, that shows the importance of administrators and executors publishing the notice to creditors required by section 1421 of the Code.

Arsenic and Potash

Three Times a Day for Twenty-Five Years. I have been taking S. S. S. (Swift's Specific), and feel it to be my duty to state its results to others who are similarly affected...

R. R. Kouse, Dealer in Machinery, 31 and 33 West Maryland Street, Indianapolis, Indiana. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

On a New Mash.

"Same Old Boy" at his Same Old Tricks. C. F. Wilson in Wilson Advance.

Born of the South wind and the June sun, she flits, a dainty, rosy, dimpled apparition, clad in gowns that disclose and yet conceal her myriad charms across the leaf-embowered stage of summer.

Supper.

This is what you ought to have, in fact you must have it to fully enjoy life. Thousands are suffering for it daily, and mourning because they find it not.

We see from the State papers that there is a growing desire for a History of North Carolina. Our experience as a teacher justifies us in saying that the history of the United States and of North Carolina is very inferior.

The Alliance has reached that point now that it will have either to fight or hold out the white flag. Those hostile to the order are organizing and concentrating their forces to defeat the great object for which the Alliance was instituted.

More backs are drawn out of shape by the old-fashioned see-saw, rubbing, twisting, wrecking way of washing clothes and cleaning house than by any other means.

Convincing Proof. In many instances it has been proven that C. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), made by Bessie Bell Co., Atlanta, Ga., will cure blood poison in its worst phases...

Jesse Pomeroy's Prison Life. Studying Chemistry and Trying to Construct a Self Sharpening Pencil. An interesting pamphlet on "Criminals," prepared by Dr. Charles D. Sawin for five years physician at the Massachusetts State Prison...

Dangers of Travel. If one wants to get a lively sense of what it means to rush through space at fifty or sixty miles an hour he must get on a locomotive.

Without doubt his intellect and moral sense must have improved to a certain degree, since he has not been associated with other prisoners, and he hasn't passed through any stage of 'devolution.'

The steam train does its work twice over. The saving is about 60 per cent, which is a clear net gain. Very few people know, although it is a fact, that of the steam that goes from a boiler into an engine only about 15, or at the most 20 per cent, is actually utilized to create power.

It is a Superb Butterfly. One day, when off the savage island of Malaita of the Solomon group, Mr. Woodford and others, went to bathe in a pool.

Clouds and Their Heights. For practical purposes clouds are divided into four classes—cumulus, stratus, cirrus and nimbus. Meteorologists, however, recognize many different forms in each class.

LEGAL NOTICES

Notice. All persons having claims against the estate of T. R. Cherry, dec'd, are hereby notified to exhibit the same on or before the 7th day of May, 1891.

Notice to Creditors. Having duly qualified as Administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Mrs. Sallie E. Vick...

Notice to Creditors. The undersigned having duly qualified before the Superior Court Clerk of Pitt County...

Notice. All persons having claims against the estate of Harriet A. Yellowley, dec'd, are hereby notified to exhibit the same on or before the 20th day of June, 1891.

Administrators Notice. The undersigned having been appointed by the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County as administrator of the estate of William Mills deceased...

Notice. Ex. of Harriet A. Yellowley, dec'd. Ex. of Harriet A. Yellowley, dec'd. June 25th-6w.

Rev. E. C. Glenn's Appointments. Bethlehem, 1st Sunday at 11 o'clock. Langs School House, 1st Sunday at 8:30 o'clock.

R. L. HUMBER, AGENT FOR Steam Engines & Boilers. Improved Brown Cotton Gin, Saw, Grist and Shingle Mills.

MILKMAID BRAND CONDENSED MILK. None Richer in Cream. BEST ON EARTH.

GREENSBORO FEMALE COLLEGE, Greensboro, N. C. The Seventy-first Session of this well-known Institution will begin on the 27th day of August, '90.

The Sparta Mills. Has just been repaired and are making good FLOUR & MEAL.

DEAFNESS & HEAD NOISE CURED BY THE USE OF THE EAR, EYE AND NOSE TREATMENT.

DETECTIVES. For Sale, Whiskey and Whisky cured at home without pain.

H'AD'S ROOT BEER. The most refreshing and wholesome beverage known in the world.

OPUM and Whisky cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.

FARKER'S HAIR BALM. Cleanses and beautifies the hair, and restores it to its natural color.

DELIGHTFUL SUMMER RESORT. GRAND MPROIUM. For Shaving, Cutting and Dressing Hair.

AT THE GLASS FRONT. Under the Opera House, at which place I have recently located, and where I have everything in my line.

MODEL BARBER SHOP. With all the improved appliances, and comfortable chairs.

PHOTO-ENGRAVING. IS PAID TO ILLUSTRATE YOUR BUSINESS. Portraits, and cuts of colleges, hotels, factories, machinery, etc.

KNIGHT'S Blood Cure. A standard household remedy in successful use more than 20 years.

JAMES A. SMITH, TONSORIAL ARTIST, Greenville N. C. We have the "Clippers," the easiest Chair ever used in the hair. Clean towels, sharp razors, and satisfaction guaranteed.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL. With Hypophosphites. PALATABLE AS MILK. Adds to Scott's Emulsion, and in its composition or solicitation induce you to accept a substitute.

RALEIGH BUSINESS COLLEGE. N. B. Broughton, Pres. BOARD OF DIRECTORS: HON. E. READE, Pres., National Bank of Raleigh, etc.

FOR MEN ONLY! VIGOR AND LUST. Dr. J. M. McLean's Sarsaparilla. The most popular medicine in the old world.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Printers and Binders, RALEIGH, N. C. We have the largest and most complete establishment of the kind to be found in the State.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Printers and Binders, RALEIGH, N. C. WE WEDDING STATIONERY READY FOR PRINTING IN ANY QUANTITY.

PATENTS obtained, and all business in the U. S. Patent office or in the Courts attended for.

ATLANTIC & N. C. RAILROAD. TIME TABLE No. 16. In Effect 6:50 A. M. Saturday, June 1st, 1890.

DELICIOUS SUMMER RESORT. GRAND MPROIUM. For Shaving, Cutting and Dressing Hair.

AT THE GLASS FRONT. Under the Opera House, at which place I have recently located, and where I have everything in my line.

MODEL BARBER SHOP. With all the improved appliances, and comfortable chairs.

PHOTO-ENGRAVING. IS PAID TO ILLUSTRATE YOUR BUSINESS. Portraits, and cuts of colleges, hotels, factories, machinery, etc.

KNIGHT'S Blood Cure. A standard household remedy in successful use more than 20 years.