Our Boasted Government.

We boastfully speak of this Government as being of, by, and for the people, and of this country as being controlled by the majority of its voters. In both we are, to a great extent, mistaken. Here are the facts, let us carefully consider them, for sooner or later the time will come when this very condition of affairs will endanger the very existence of this republic. On the 4th day of November, 1890, an unprecedented majority of the voters rendered a most emphatic verdict against the Republican Congress and administration, by more than two-thirds of the House of Representatives. In Monarchical Great Britain such an election would have compelled an immediate and entire change of administration, with the exception of the Queen, who is after all but an expensive and almost powerless figure head for that government. What is the result here? Practically nothing, so far as the policy of this Government is concerned. The newly elected House will not meet until the first Monday in December, 1891, more than a year hence, unless called together in extraordinary session by the President before that date. And when it does meet it cannot do anything or cross a bill in any law upon our statute books without obtaining the consent of the President and a majority of the Senate, powers, which notwithstanding the rebuke of the people, exists to thwart the will of a majority of the country's voters. The House of Representatives of the Fifty-second Congress although more than two-thirds democratic, can do little more than furnish the country the evidence of the good intentions of the democratic party, or even should there be republican Senators enough who would vote with the democrats to modify or repeal the obnoxious and unpopular McKinley tariff law, which is extremely doubtful, the republican President, whose term lasts exactly as long as that of the Fifty-second Congress, would be certain to veto all such measures. It will require another victory in 1892 to enable the people to realize the fruits of the one just won over the republican party. This will never be a real Government, of, by, and for the people, until such changes have been made as will enable the response to the popular will, on the part of the governing powers, both executive and legislative, to be immediate.

The South's Progress. The Manufacturers' Record of November 22, in its weekly review of the South's industrial progress, says: Notwithstanding the excitement in the great financial centers of the world, there has not been halting in the South's industrial progress. It is already demonstrated that capitalists driven from Wall Street stock speculations by such troubles as we have been passing through, are turning their attention to the South where investments are safer and the profits are greater. The South moves along as though there had been no sign of financial trouble anywhere. This is very strikingly shown in the record of new enterprises reported during the week. A $1,000,000 company has been organized to build a cotton mill at Huntsville, Va.; a $500,000 mill will be built in Union county, S. C.; a large mill is to be moved to Alabama from Delaware, and a $100,000 mill in Mississippi has been sold and will be enlarged to a $1,000,000 plant; Nashville, Tenn., has organized a $1,000,000 stock-yards and packing company; Glasgow, Va., a $500,000 steel car building company; Beaumont, Texas a $500,000 car company; Bedford City, Va., secures a removal of a $200,000 engine works from Pennsylvania; a $2,000,000 company is building a 7,000 horse-power canal in North Carolina for furnishing power to many new enterprises; Dalton, Ga., has organized a $200,000 quarrying company; Grottoes, Va., a $50,000 plumbers' supply company; Tyler, Texas, a $50,000 lumber company; Murphys, N. C., a $50,000 improvement company; Newport News, Va., a $2,000,000 improvement company; Buena Vista Va., a $500,000 company; Louisville, Ky., a $100,000 lumber company; Pensacola, Fla., a $50,000 manufacturing company; Norfolk Va., is to have $200,000 car works; 40,000 acres of coal land in West Virginia will be developed by Northern capitalists.

These are but illustrations of what the South has done during the past week. Not a complaint has been heard of any bad influence from the Wall Street troubles, but on the contrary, it is everywhere recognized that the South is on a solid substantial basis that insures rapid growth regardless of financial difficulties elsewhere.

The Press

Scotland Neck Democrat The glections are all over and everything has passed off quietly and just as well as the people could wish it. Everybody has again settled down to the usual line of business and every energy will now be bent towards needed improvements and the general development of the country. Truly it has been a year of unprecedented blessings to the people of this country—certainly unprecedented since the war. Republican rule has again been put down, and this, with the beautiful crops that have blessed the land, makes our people more than ordinarily happy.

As to the political glory that has swept over the land, no one took time during the fight to look for the causes that were working out this grand victory. Many have been the means of the success achieved, and notably among the powers that have wrought out this triumphal day of rejoicing for the American people, has been the heroic newspaper men. From one end of this land to the other the democratic press has fought manfully and heroically for the success of the people's rights. The Richmond Dispatch recently made some observations editorially concerning the work of the press in Virginia which apply most appropriately to the press of North Carolina, and the whole country as well. It says:

All honor to the orators, committeemen, and other party-workers whose labors achieved the victory of Tuesday. They deserve the handsome things that will be said of them, and we are always ready and willing to be the vehicle to convey the public appreciation of such deserving men.

We beg leave, however, to say a word also for the newspaper folks—the editors, reporters and correspondents. Without their help success would have been scarcely possible. They gave it not in a perfunctory way, but heartily and freely. Where speakers addressed scores of voters they reached hundreds. They relentlessly exposed the enemy's record and happily compared ours with it. They kept up contact between the leader and the people and not only published the best thoughts of our speakers, but added to the literature of the campaign great treasures of fact and argument. Finally when the drowning of over confidence was setting upon the citizens of Virginia they sounded the alarm so long and loudly that the voters were aroused to a proper sense of duty.

For our part in estimating the forces that accomplished the overthrow of the enemy in Virginia we shall not stint praise to Chairman Ellyson and his associates, to district, county and city chairmen, and their co-laborers, to the gentlemen who sacrificed time and money to make speeches, to those who assisted by liberal contributions of funds, and to all others who in anywise helped according to their means and opportunities, but we shall also award a good, hard share to the newspaper men. There is a popular misconception that it is "all in their line" and they "made money out of it." No such thing. It is gratuitous service. It brings in no money at all and few thanks, while it costs much in cash and work.

So while the people are rejoicing over their great victory let them think of the newspaper men as among those who gave to the campaign something that was valuable and praiseworthy.

They do Their Duty, But They Want no Office, But They Deserve to Live.

Chatham Record.

The newspapers of North Carolina deserve much credit and praise for the sweeping Democratic victory at the late election. While the chairman of the State committee did all that he could do in having the State thoroughly canvassed, yet on account of the small number of canvassers and the scant supply of money at his command, the canvass was not pushed as vigorously as it otherwise would have been. Great praise is due and should be given to those gentlemen who so ably canvassed the State, and doubtless many of them will receive their reward in the shape of some office, but the chief credit for our glorious victory is due, and should be given to those Democratic papers which (without any hope of reward) so fully explained the issues of the campaign and so thoroughly aroused the people to the importance of maintaining Democratic supremacy in our good Old State.

There are no more patriotic or public spirited citizens of our State than the hard working and poorly paid editors, who are always doing their utmost to promote the prosperity of our people, and in political campaigns are ever foremost in arousing the people to do their duty. And while they do not engage in the unseemly scramble for office, but leave to others the spoils of the victories won by them, they do deserve and should receive the hearty and substantial support and encouragement of all citizens who desire good government.

It is not this true! If it is, then see to it, dear reader, that you do your duty!

HOPE FOR CONSUMPTIVES—PROGRESS IN PICTURE MAKING—SIMPLICITY IN TRANSFER OF REAL ESTATE.

New York, Nov. 24th, 1890.

The experiments of Prof. Robert Koch, of Berlin, upon a cure for consumption, are creating more interest on this side of the water than any other thing in the medical line since the "elixir of life" excitement of last year. This time, owing to the great eminence and conservatism of Prof. Koch, the prospect of success is much more promising than is usual, and we may reasonably hope that he has at last secured for this most dreaded disease. The particulars of the new process are so far known only to Prof. Koch and his principal assistant. It is understood to consist in the main of an injection, under the skin, of a lymph, the precise constituents of which are not publicly known. Prominent physicians say that sufficient data are not yet at hand from which to draw a definite conclusion as to the merits of the cure, but concede Prof. Koch's claims to respectful attention. Koch has not yet made any claim to a conclusive result, though it is said he has cured two cases of slight consumption. The German Kaiser has taken a deep interest in the experiments and the Government has furnished the professor with a hospital.

THE CAMERA CLUB EXHIBITION.

The exhibition, during the past fortnight, of photo-mechanical pictures, by the N. Y. Camera Club, has not only been interesting because of the excellent quality of the work, but of practical value to artists, printers, etc., in showing the different styles of photo-engraving processes. The advancement that is being made in this line is something to be wondered at. Already, some of the pictures are superior to the finest wood engravings, and others compare well with engravings on steel and copper. The reproductions of old manuscripts, time stains and all, are perfect; while the photo-gravure process gives us some finer results than are obtained by photography itself. This kind of work is rapidly eadearing itself to the public and is destined to make illustrations cheaper and better than ever.

A REVOLUTION IN LAND TRANSFERS.

The block system of registering real estate, which is looked upon as a great step toward simplicity, will go into effect in this city on Jan. 1st. On a complete map of the city all the blocks are laid down, each having a permanent number—also recorded in an index book. At the head of each index of a block will be placed a diagram of the block, under which will be entered the book and page of the recorded instruments. This method will largely simplify real estate transactions, and very likely make it possible for title owners of real estate in this city to transfer it with the same facility as personal property. If the experiment proves a success here it will be tried in other cities, and may work a revolution in land transfers in this country.

EDWIN ARLINGTON.

Death of Rev. J. T. Harris.

Raleigh News and Observer 20th.

Rev. Junius T. Harris, recently elected Superintendent of the Oxford Orphan Asylum, to succeed Dr. B. F. Dixon, and Presiding Elder of the Durham District of the North Carolina Methodist Conference, died yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock, at Durham, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. J. S. Carr.

The Durham Sun, of yesterday afternoon, says: He had been in feeble health for some time, and it was thought that his excessive labors at the Asylum, to the Superintendency, of which he has been recently elected, hastened his end.

Mr. Harris was a graduate of Trinity College, was an able minister, and a man of fine business capacity. He had filled many prominent places in the Conference, having been stationed at Statesville, Goldsboro and other points; and previous to his taking charge of the Durham District, had been four years Presiding Elder of the New Berne district.

Mr. Harris joined the Conference at Greensboro in 1870, and was about 47 years of age. He leaves a wife and five children, and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

Given with a kind tender and genial nature, and blessed with an amiable disposition, his companionship was most agreeable. He was a man of great zeal and piety and in his death the State and the Church lose a valuable worker.

Comparisons are odious, as every one must have heard again and again but thoughtless people will persist in making them. A young doctor, wishing to make an impression upon a German farmer, mentioned the fact that he had received a double election, as it were. He had studied homoeopathy, and was also a graduate of a "regular" medical school. "Oh, dot was nothin'," said the farmer; "I had once a calf got suckled 'two cows, and he made nothin' but a common sechter, after all."—American Medical Journal.

There's a patent medicine which is not a patent medicine—paradoxical as that may sound. It's a discovery! a golden discovery of medical science! It's the medicine for you—tired, run-down, exhausted, had received a double election, for you suffer from diseases of skin or scalp, liver or lungs—its chance is with every one, its seasons always, because it aims to purify the fountain of life—the blood—upon which all such diseases depend. The medicine is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The makers of it have given confidence in it to sell it on trial. That is, you can get it from your druggist, and if it does not do what it's claimed to do, you can get your money back, every cent of it.

That's what its makers call taking the risk of its success.

God Gave the Baby.

A lady walking along a street came upon a little girl wheeling a baby carriage.

"What a beautiful baby!" exclaimed the lady as she discovered a pink face. "Come up in a cream coloredshawl."

"Whose child is it?" "Mine," the little girl answered.

"Oh, you mean that it is your little brother or sister?" "No; I mean that he is not my brother, but is mine—my child."

"You are a very young mother."

"I ain't no mother."

"Then why should you say that the baby is yours?" the lady mischievously asked.

"Cause God sent it to me. My mamma asked me if I didn't want a little baby in the house, an' said if I prayed for one God would send it, an' then I said I would pray for a little sister, 'cause I like girls better than boys, but mamma said I'd just better pray for any kind that God has a mind to send, but I didn't pray for a little girl, but God took an' sent a boy anyway, an' I guess it was because he didn't have any girls on hand. Then I said I would pray to God to send a girl as soon as he could, but our folks said that I needn't put myself to any trouble on that account.—Old Home-stead.

Insomnia.

Lucia Redding Thompson, Philadelphia

The latter half of the nineteenth century is characterized by a struggle for precedence, and with this ever increasing mental strain upon American men and women it is not surprising that we hear more and more of the widespread prevalence of insomnia, the etiology of which deserves the careful consideration of physicians.

We are, in many cases, unable to determine the causes of sleeplessness, since we do not know the cause of sleep. It is a cyclical event, the salient feature of which is the cessation of the automatic activity of the brain; it is the diastole of the central beat. The sleeping brain, in many respects, resembles a quiescent but still living ventricle. Both are at rest; both may be awakened by a stimulus, just as a single prick will awaken a ventricle which has been motionless; so a loud noise will awake a man from sleep into a long day of wakefulness. We are not at present in a condition to trace out the events which culminate in this inactivity of the cerebral structures; nor can we make dogmatic statements concerning the nature of the molecular changes which determine this rhythmic rise and fall of cerebral irritability.

It has been said that during sleep the brain is anemic. If we admit this, we can consider it a subsidiary event, rather than a primary cause. The fact that the products of protoplasmic activity obstruct such activity has suggested the idea that the presence of the products of nervous metabolism is the cause of sleep. If this accumulation were the cause, why should we ever have the hope of waking? This alternation of sleeping and waking, or the ancient sequence of nights and days, is but a manifestation of all bodily periodicity. Within the day we have the constantly separated cycle of the cardiac shuttle, which must keep at its work, throughout the whole web of the body's life, and cease only at death.

Insomnia may be looked upon as a symptom, directing our attention to some condition which may shake off into disease. It is frequently a preliminary symptom of organic mental disease, which is not relieved by removal of its cause.

It is seen in those who have experienced excessive bodily fatigue. Persistent sleeplessness seen in a male, and in those struggling against the opium habit, is familiar. The excessive use of coffee, tea and tobacco must be numbered among the numerous etiological factors of insomnia.

The treatment of insomnia is a matter of difficulty. Let us suppose that care and anxiety has been the cause; the removal of such cares becomes a difficult problem to the physician. If due to that excessive exercise of emotions, or that condition characterized by a partial or complete suspension of all inhibitory influence—hysteria—its treatment will come a still more difficult problem. The routine treatment is familiar, but he is a wise physician who abandons all thought of careful consideration of the various points in each case.

Accepting the idea that this functional inactivity is favored by a condition of anemia, we should diminish the circulation in the brain as much as possible, by directing the blood to the less noble organs of the abdomen. Warmth to the abdomen favors dilatation of those arteries which supply the intestinal tract, and consequent cerebral anemia. A large poultice, or a wet compress, consisting of linen or flannel wrung out of warm or hot water covered with oiled silk, with a dry flannel placed above it, is useful. Warmth in the interior of stomach has a similar action. Thus a glass of warm milk is favorable to sleep. The fact that this condition is unknown among savage races should serve as an important indication.

This condition is so frequently seen in those who spend their lives in continual excitement; first to attain a happiness never found; then to escape a misery but too surely found. Thus moral measures may become more efficacious than all the remedies of the pharmacopoeia. All constitutional conditions such as dyspnea, cough, pain, palpitation should be relieved by appropriate treatment. Massage and electricity intelligently used are of service. Narcotics should not be used.

The idea of relieving pain has descended to us from Hippocrates; to secure the desired sleep we think of one of a hypnotic or narcotic. We should never forget the long train of evils which may follow; the possibility of the formation of a habit which may render our patient a physical and moral wreck. These powerful drugs should be reserved for those in whom insomnia is secondary to pain, cough, etc., while we choose rather moral, hygienic, dietetic and physical measures.

Postmaster General Wanamaker instructed Postmaster Van Cott of New York to disburse from the service the six carriers and a clerk who were discovered to be in league with green goods swindlers in delivering mail matter to selected victims.

Eternal advertising is the price of trade. Some argue that it is expensive to advertise. It is the most profitable expense you can have, if you handle it properly. This is not a mere assertion, but a demonstrated fact, proven by the prosperity of all successful advertisers.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest Occurring in North Carolina.

AS REFLECTED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Within the next 90 days, Durham and Raleigh will be connected by telephone.

New Berne Journal: The Pamlico county jail which was located at Bayboro was entirely destroyed by an incendiary fire Tuesday night.

Mrs. S. M. Lockhart, of Weldon, has sold her farm in Northampton county, known as the Bell place, to Senator M. W. Ransom for $9,500.

Washington Gazette: In the case of State against Adams for the murder of Cox, at Mount's Creek, tried at Hyde Court, the verdict was "not guilty."

Wilmington Review: There is one lady in this city, residing on Dock street, between Eighth and Ninth, who has a large garden full of magnificent chrysanthemums, all now in full bloom. It is said that she has several hundred varieties of these beautiful fall flowers.

The Adjutant General of the North Carolina State Guard announces that the second annual election of field officers of the Guard will be held on the first Thursday in December. Each regiment will elect a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel and Major. The Company officers of the first regiment will meet at Rocky Mount to hold their election.

Durham Globe: The W. Duke Sons & Co.'s great cigarette factory turned out on their Durham and New York house, 101,000,000 cigarettes and 105,000 pounds of smoking tobacco during the month of October. This is the first time in the history of the establishment that it sold over 100,000,000 cigarettes in a single month. And this is doing well enough.

Goldshoro Headlight: Expriest J. J. Boyle has been heard from again. Not from a monastery in Scotland as was generally supposed but from a Catholic mission in Rome, Italy, whither he has been summoned to disprove the charges made against him by the Catholic clergy of the West. Boyle with his usual brazenness had the audacity to write to Bishop Hayden in this State, to send him a letter of recommendation in order to prove his good character while in North Carolina. This information we received from Justice Barbee, of Raleigh, a prominent member of the Catholic church there.

How a Marriage Was Broken Off at Winston.

The Twin City Daily tells a story in this fashion: "A young man of the Twin-City, after making the necessary arrangements for his wedding day by erecting a cosy cottage and furnishing it with those things which are needed in house keeping, announced to the girl of his choice that 'all things were ready for the marriage.' The reply that came back was: 'Am not ready yet; will take another week to make my preparations.' The young man grew angry and sent word back that he 'would marry then or never.' These words were instrumental in ending what might have proven a happy matrimonial event. The young man disposed of his household goods and is still leading a life of bachelorhood."

Executed or Suicided.

Under the eaves of the Methodist church is a favorite resort for English sparrows, and people were interested a few days ago by seeing one of these birds hanging by a string from the eaves of the church, dead, dead, dead. Its fellows went in and out and chattered and fought and made merry, but none of them cut the dead bird down. The question is whether it committed suicide or was hanged as a malefactor. A number of English sparrows have on different occasions been seen to jump on some sparrow and put it to death, and there are eleven instances in the books of these birds having hanged some offender among their number. Was this one hanged, and if so what was his offence?

Jno. H. Goodwin Esq., of Cedar Island, N. C. Williams of Portsmouth, and other prominent gentlemen of Carteret, who are deeply interested in the oyster interest of the state in its every aspect, very wisely suggest that an oysterman's convention be held at some point central to the oyster sections, say Ocracoke Island, for the purpose of fully discussing the oyster question, preparatory to memorializing the next General Assembly in regard to legislation upon the matter. The plan suggested by Messrs. Goodwin, Williams and others, is that primary conventions be called in all the usual voting precincts in the counties interested, and delegates be appointed and instructed to attend the general convention and that all men who are interested in the matter be and are hereby requested to attend, and participate in said convention to be hereafter appointed. Expressions from all parties in regard to the subject is requested through their county papers.

The oyster interest of the state is one of the greatest importance, and should receive prompt legislation with it, at the hands of the next General Assembly.—Atlantic Seaside

THE REFUGE.

With his ear a little girl With hair of gold, and eyes and curl Like living sunshine—-all alive, Kept flitting up and down the aisle; Now here, now there, from seat to seat, Danced merrily the little feet. The sunny face now pressed the pane, Now called the sunshine back again.

All loved her as from place to place She flattered with a bird-like grace; And now with this one, now with that, Opposed to exchange a smile or chat, And eyes were ever watching still. So long her journey we beguiled, Her blue eyes could so friendly be; Nobly knew whose treasure she.

But suddenly from sunlight plain Into a tunnel rushed the train. Ah, then we knew whose arm should hold The little one with locks of gold. "Papa, papa," she was crying out, And groping to her father's side; As out into the day we pressed, Her head lay on her father's breast.

'Tis so with us—when life is fair, We, too, forget our Father's care. And under whose roof we will, But oh, He's watching and still. And when the shadows round us fall, He hears and heeds his children's call. We run to him with fear oppressed, He folds us to his gracious breast.

A Sensational Runaway.

A Raleigh Negro and a Johnson County White Girl the Eloping Pair.

Raleigh Intelligencer.

At police headquarters yesterday morning, a gentleman by the name of Johnson from Johnson county reported the elopement of his daughter, a fair blond of 18 summers, with a bright young mulatto by the name of Henry White. Until recently, it seems, the latter has been for several years, a trusted employee of Mr. Johnson's; at the present time, however, was residing in this city.

The particulars as far as could be ascertained from the unfortunate father was as follows: Monday afternoon Miss Johnson walked away from her home, but as this was common no special notice was taken of it. But she did not come back, and early after midnight her father began to make inquiries for her. His search soon developed the astounding fact that the negro in question had procured a horse and buggy in Raleigh on Monday and had driven out to a place near the home of the young lady according to a previous arrangement.

It was learned that the couple had returned to Raleigh and had taken the West-bound midnight train with tickets to Richmond.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR,
Greenville, N. C.

D. J. WICKIARD, Editor and Proprietor.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT GREENVILLE, N. C., AS SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 26th, '90.

Come Let us Reason Together.

The REFLECTOR wants to have a little talk with its readers this morning and desires that they lend an attentive ear—especially the delinquents. This paper is being run as a matter of business and as a business enterprise—though from what we shall show below it will appear that many who read it every week do not look upon it as such. All we have invested in this business, upon it we have to depend for a support, and by it our family is fed and clothed. Surely, then, every fair-minded man is ready to say "you deserve and ought to have every dollar you earn." Well, we do not get it, and for that reason this article is written. While we have made a little money on the REFLECTOR each year since it came into our management—enough to pay for the plant, to keep out of debt, and to procure a modest living—there is one branch of the business that we have lost heavily upon, and that is the subscription list. If every subscriber would pay for his paper promptly—that which he owes and is due us—we would have a few hundred dollars to lay up each year, and would not have to live in somebody else's house instead of one of our own. But hardly an average of two thirds of them pay each year, and because the others fail to pay there is now owing us—scattered about in small sums here and there—an amount aggregating nearly $3,000.

Here is the way the above estimate is arrived at: We take it that this year's record ought to average up as well as any since 1885, when the REFLECTOR came solely into our control (and with such good crops this year payments ought to be far better than the others) and an examination of our books shows that for 1890 the following number of subscriptions have been paid each month; January, 69; February 50; March 45; April 19; May 26; June 18; July 18; August 21; September 39; October 45; November (up to and including the 18th) 33; then to get an estimate for a whole year we take from the 19th of November 1889 to the close of the year, during which time 93 paid, making a total of 476. To sum up in round figures and allow a full estimate there are not over 500 subscribers to the REFLECTOR who pay up or in part what they owe each year. Our circulation is a few over 900 and allowing that 100 of these go to exchanges leaves 300 papers for which we get no pay, there is $1.50 show a dead loss of $450 per year. Take this average for six years and you get an idea of what is now owing the REFLECTOR.

The people who read the REFLECTOR have no right to expect us to lose that much each year because of indulging them and trusting their honesty to pay a small debt. If they expect it, we do not feel called upon to continue it and will not longer submit to it. And here is the remedy against such loss in future: Beginning with January, 1891, THE REFLECTOR WILL BE SENT TO NO PERSON UNLESS IT IS PAID FOR IN ADVANCE. During December we will make up new subscription and mailing lists and NO NAME will go on these lists unless THE CASH goes with them. It will be hard to get the people into the habit of paying in advance all at once, and as an inducement to bring them to it the subscription price for next year will be made only ONE ($1) DOLLAR. We do not promise to keep the subscription price at $1, future developments will determine that. The REFLECTOR is well worth $1.50, but if our subscription list grows large enough to justify it the price may not be changed again. However, you can get it next year for ONE DOLLAR, but not without the CASH IN ADVANCE.

We shall thoroughly advertise this between now and the close of the present year, giving all a chance to get on our new list. In the meantime you will be informed as to how we shall proceed to collect what is now due, and also how these who have already paid in advance at the old price will be credited. REMEMBER YOU CAN GET THE REFLECTOR NEXT YEAR FOR ONE DOLLAR CASH IN ADVANCE.

Railroads, and the Commission

One matter that will come up for consideration in the next General Assembly of North Carolina is the establishment of a railroad commission. Mention this to a railroad man and it does not set well on him. He thinks, no doubt that it is unjust and that the people are unreasonable in making demands for a commission. But let's look at it a little and see if the railroads themselves are not to blame for this sentiment against them.

There are some things that the average man cannot see into, and one of these things is that it should cost more to carry a piece of merchandise or a bale of cotton one hundred miles than it does to carry the same two hundred miles. Perhaps to illustrate with figures will make this point a little clearer, though from what we shall show below it will appear that many who read it every week do not look upon it as such. All we have invested in this business, upon it we have to depend for a support, and by it our family is fed and clothed. Surely, then, every fair-minded man is ready to say "you deserve and ought to have every dollar you earn." Well, we do not get it, and for that reason this article is written. While we have made a little money on the REFLECTOR each year since it came into our management—enough to pay for the plant, to keep out of debt, and to procure a modest living—there is one branch of the business that we have lost heavily upon, and that is the subscription list. If every subscriber would pay for his paper promptly—that which he owes and is due us—we would have a few hundred dollars to lay up each year, and would not have to live in somebody else's house instead of one of our own. But hardly an average of two thirds of them pay each year, and because the others fail to pay there is now owing us—scattered about in small sums here and there—an amount aggregating nearly $3,000.

Again, Before the railroad and boats combined and the freight on cotton from Greenville, Grafton and Kinston was advanced to $1.40 per bale it was carried from these points—at each of which there was water competition—at $1, while from Ayden and points north of Greenville where there was no competition $1.50 was charged. And Elder David House, who gave the road a free right of way right through his best cotton land, and also a site for a warehouse, either had to pay $1.50 to get a bale of cotton shipped from his place or haul it 3 miles to Greenville and ship from here. Did such discriminations as these make any friends for the road?

What is true of these instances cited from the Wilmington & Weldon road is true of every other road operating within the State. Wherever an opportunity is presented for them to get any advantage of the people they seem to have no scruples against using it. The REFLECTOR does not write this because of any ill will toward railroads or any desire to do them injury, but to show, as asserted in the outset that this sentiment for a railroad commission that is getting such a hold upon the people is blameable only to the management of the railroads. Nor does the REFLECTOR write this in advocacy of a railroad commission. On the contrary, with our present limited information upon the subject, we could not intelligently declare our position either for or against the commission. But if the people want the commission they have the right to demand it, and if after fair trial it should be deemed impracticable it could be easily repealed.

However one thing the REFLECTOR is ready to declare itself in favor of, is railroads. We believe in them, want to see more of them, and as before said in these columns think they are, when operated in the interest of the people, one of the greatest blessings and advantages that come to a community. We think further that when a railroad comes to a community the most friendly relations should exist between it and the people. In our humble opinion, if the railroads would reach out and take the people by the hand and say "here, we are your friend; we are going to work for your interest, and want you to work for our interest," there would never be heard another word about a railroad commission. There would be no need of a railroad commission.

Now that the Durham Globe has shot off its snout at the few editors who want to go to Raleigh in the capacity of Reading Clerk of the House or Senate, and impugned their motives for laboring in the interest of the party to "the dim hope of securing a job at the Legislature," what has it got to say for the balance of them who used full loaded articles, praised the ticket and put roosters to crowing, and who do not want to go to Raleigh to spend the winter at the expense of the State. When the Globe says "all the newspapers men are candidates it is not a disguise of G. W. Wainwright.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

For this reason we again invite the people to call and examine our stock. We have but that is marked in plain figures on every article in our store. We only ask you to examine our goods and compare our prices with those of others. We are willing to leave the result to your good judgment. We have no shoddy second-hand goods. (If we had we should be more than glad to sell you at any price to get them out of our house.) But we have a full, new, clean stock of—which we will sell you so cheap you will see at a glance it will not pay you to buy second-hand goods.

ONE PRICE! ONE PRICE!

DRY GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS AND GROCERIES.

BOUGHT FOR CASH! BOUGHT FOR CASH!

after the rush was over. We were therefore able to pick up a great many—

"JOB LOTS," "JOB LOTS,"

which we bought at a sacrifice to the manufacturer, and from 10 to 20 per cent. cheaper than some of our competitors. We are willing to give you the benefit of this. Besides our goods are—

Marked Down at Least Ten Per Cent. Less Than they are usually sold. We therefore guaranteed to save you 20 per cent. in every dollar's worth of goods you buy from us. It will cost you nothing to come and look. This is all we ask you to do.

Very truly yours,

YOUNG & PRIDDY.

Georgia's Senatorship.

While we do not especially rejoice at the election of Gov. John B. Gordon to the United States Senate from Georgia, yet we are glad that it is instead of Mr. Pat. Calhoun. Gov. Gordon has long been one of Georgia's chief favorites. He has the love and confidence of the people of Georgia about as well as Hon. Z. B. Vance has in North Carolina. To get any office within the gift of the people he had only to ask for it. He has been in the United States Senate once, when he resigned and was succeeded by Hon. Jos. E. Brown. For the last two terms he has been Governor of Georgia, and is now elected to the United States Senate again for six years.

Several months ago it was made known that he wished to be Senator again, and for a long time there was no thought of opposition to him. But when the fight in several Congressional districts was made on the Sub-Treasury plan, and its advocates came out victorious, and the Farmers' Alliance, seeing that they would be well represented in the House, thought they ought to have a leader in the Senate, Col Livingstone was first mentioned, but he being elected as Congressman, no organized effort was made in his behalf. Mr. Pat. Calhoun was finally pitted against him, but the sturdy Democrats of the Legislature being Alliance men as well as Democrats could not be fooled into voting for a railroad attorney, although he tried to ingratiate himself into their favor by advocating the union of the Sub-Treasury plan and the national banks for the benefit of the farmer. The election of Mr. Calhoun would practically have been the Alliance selling itself out to the railroad corporations. This the Alliance men knew, hence the result. We hope other States will do the same way, and not elect men who are in any way connected with corporations or monopolies. We hope and believe the Legislature of North Carolina will do so by electing Mr. Vance to succeed himself. He is no friend of corporations or monopolies.

"It must be highly gratifying to the Democrats to know that jubilee meetings have been held all over Europe to celebrate the Democratic victory, which over there is regarded as the first step towards free trade."—The North Carolinian.

Well, yes, we would say it is gratifying to know that other nations think the American people have come to their senses at last, and are throwing off a yoke that has held them down with hollow pretensions and unfulfilled promises for the last thirty years. While the Democrats believe in revenue only for the expenses of the government economically administered, they prefer free trade to a system of plutocracy which tends to gobble up what the many make into the hands of the few. It is also gratifying to know that "the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow" has learned that high protective taxes have not made his wages higher, but have made the price of everything which he has to buy higher; and it is gratifying to know that he has voted for a reform along this line.

We acknowledge an invitation to The Southern Inter-State Immigration Convention to be held at Asheville Dec. 17th. The object of the Convention is to secure united and harmonious action in all the Southern States in regard to bringing more people and capital to the South. We hope the Convention will take some decided action in this matter. The South needs more men and capital, and while we wish to see them here, we do not want such as have been going to the Western Territories for the last two decades. We want and need men whose influence will be building up the South, morally, socially and financially. Liberal inducements should be held out to such men, and steps should be taken to prevent any other from coming.

Davis and Gregory,

OXFORD, NORTH CAROLINA.

Have the Leading Warehouse for the Sale of Leaf Tobacco.

Oxford is booming, no doubt about that, and no firm or business is keeping more even pace with the spirit of progress awake there than the firm whose name heads this article. Every tobacco shipper in Eastern North Carolina knows Davis & Gregory, or know of them. Those who know them are aware that their warehouse is the place to get good prices for fine tobacco—and those who know of them from what others have said are ready to testify that they never heard any man say to the contrary. What everybody says is so must be so. Why is this so? Because there is no better market than Oxford, and because no warehouseman in the State has a better building in which to operate. Again—and this must not be considered a small thing—they have ample capital to pay for all the tobacco that is placed on their floors, and pay good prices therefor. Davis & Gregory's warehouse is an immense brick building,

We wish to say to our customers everywhere that we have the largest and best selected stock that it has ever been our pleasure to place before you. And beg of you that you will inspect our stock and compare quality, quantity and prices given you anywhere else by any first class house. We realize that competition is the life of trade but we are fully abreast of the times and feel able to meet any competitor fairly and squarely.

We give our customers the very best that can be bought for the MONEY invested in that article. We are with the people in their demands that they shall buy goods cheap. And we promise all who shall give us their patronage that they shall have them cheap. If you fail to get as good bargains, when you buy of some one else, as your neighbor gets who buys of us, you have only yourself to blame, because we have invited you time and again to come in and see us.

Our invitation to all people is this: LEARN OF US, KNOW US, BUY OF US. With these three injunctions ringing fresh in your ears every week, we again ask you to come and examine the following lines of General Merchandise:

Staple & Fancy Dry Goods, Notions, Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes, Hardware, Farming Implements, Heavy & Fancy Groceries, Flour a Specialty, Crockery & Queensware, Wood & Willow Ware, Tinware, Stationery, Trunks and Valises, Harness and Whips.

After a business experience of twenty-five years we do not hesitate to tell you that we can and do offer you bargains that have never before been heard of in this county, and each succeeding season we are at work trying to serve your interests faithfully.

FURNITURE

We are headquarters in this market for Furniture and ask you to look at our line of Suits, both Walnut and cheaper woods, Bureaus, Bedsteads, single and double, Mattresses and Bed Springs, Children's Beds, Cribs and Cradles, Washstands, Cane and Wood seat Chairs, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Rocking Chairs, Children's Chairs, Centre and Dining Tables, Lounges and Cots, and lots of other things too numerous to mention. We thank you for past favors and trust and believe that you will continue to patronize us, for we work not alone for our interest but also for yours.

Our Boasted Government.

We boastfully speak of this Government as being of, by, and for the people, and of this country as being controlled by the majority of its voters. In both we are, to a great extent, mistaken. Here are the facts, let us carefully consider them, for sooner or later the time will come when this very condition of affairs will endanger the very existence of this republic. On the 4th day of November, 1890, an unprecedented majority of the voters rendered a most emphatic verdict against the Republican Congress and administration, by more than two-thirds of the House of Representatives. In Monarchical Great Britain such an election would have compelled an immediate and entire change of administration, with the exception of the Queen, who is after all but an expensive and almost powerless figure head for that government. What is the result here? Practically nothing, so far as the policy of this Government is concerned. The newly elected House will not meet until the first Monday in December, 1891, more than a year hence, unless called together in extraordinary session by the President before that date. And when it does meet it cannot dot an "i" or cross a "t" in any law upon our statute books without obtaining the consent of the President and a majority of the Senate, powers, which notwithstanding the rebuke of the people, exists to thwart the will of a majority of the country's voters. The House of Representatives of the Fifty-second Congress although more than two-thirds democratic, can do little more than furnish the country the evidence of the good intentions of the democratic party, for even should there be republican Senators enough who would vote with the democrats to mollify or repeal the obnoxious and unpopular McKinley tariff law, which is extremely doubtful, the republican President, whose term lasts exactly as long as that of the Fifty-second Congress, would be certain to veto all such measures. It will require another victory in 1892 to enable the people to realize the fruits of the one just won over the republican party. This will never be a real Government, of, by and for the people, until such changes have been made as will enable the response to the popular will, on the part of the governing powers, both executive and legislative, to be immediate.

The South's Progress.

The Manufacturers Record of November 22, in its weekly review of the South's industrial progress, says: Notwithstanding the excitement in the great financial centers of the world, there has been no halting in the South's industrial progress. It is already demonstrated that capitalists driven from Wall Street stock speculations by such troubles as we have been passing through, are turning their attention to the South where investments are safer and where the profits are greater. The South moves along as though there had been no sign of financial trouble anywhere. This is very strikingly shown in the record of new enterprises reported during the week. A $1,000,000 company has been organized to build a cotton mill at Huntsville; a $500,000 mill will be built in Union county, S. C.; a large mill is to be moved to Alabama from Delaware, and a $100,000 mill in Mississippi has been sold and will be enlarged to a $1,000,000 plant; Nashville, Tenn., has organized a $1,000,000 stock-yards and packing company; Glasgow, Va., a $500,000 steel car building company; Beaumont, Texas, a $500,000 car company; Bedford City, Va., secures a removal of a $200,000 engine works from Pennsylvania; a $2,000,000 company is building a 7,000 horse-power canal in North Carolina for furnishing power to many new enterprises; Dalton, Ga., has organized a $200,000 quarrying company; Grottoes, Va., a $50,000 plumbers' supply company; Tyler, Texas, a $50,000 lumber company; Murphy, N. C., a $50,000 improvement company; Newport News, Va., a $2,000,000 improvement company; Buena Vista, Va., a $500,000 company; Louisville, Ky., a $100,000 lumber company; Pensacola, Fla., a $50,000 manufacturing company; Norfolk, Va., is to have $200,000 car works; 40,000 acres of coal land in West Virginia will be developed by Northern capitalists.

These are but illustrations of what the South has done during the past week. Not a complaint has been heard of any bad influence from the Wall Street troubles, but on the contrary, it is everywhere recognized that the South is on a solid substantial basis that insures rapid growth regardless of financial difficulties elsewhere.

A child learning his alphabet is sometimes block-headed. A man suffering with cancer and not trying Old Bull's Cough Cure may be called a block-headed.

The Press

Scotland Neck Democrat

The elections are all over and everything has passed off quietly and just as well as the people could wish it. Everybody has again settled down to the usual line of business and every eye will now be bent towards needed improvements and the general development of the country. Truly it has been a year of unprecedented blessings to the people of this country—certainly unprecedented since the war. Republican rule has again been put down, and this, with the bountiful crops that have blessed the land, makes our people more than ordinarily happy.

As to the political glory that has swept over the land, no one took time during the fight to look for the causes that were working out this grand victory. Many have seen the means of its success achieved, and notably among the powers that have wrought out this triumphal day of rejoicing for the American people, has been the heroic newspaper men. From one end of this land to the other the democratic press has fought manfully and heroically for the success of the people's rights.

The Richmond Dispatch recently made some observations editorially concerning the work of the press in Virginia which apply most appropriately to the press of North Carolina, and the whole country as well. It says: All honor to the orators, committeemen, and other party-workers whose labors achieved the victory of Tuesday. They deserve the handsome things that will be said of them, and we are always ready and willing to be the vehicle to convey the public appreciation of such deserving men.

We beg leave, however, to say a word also for the newspaper folks—the editors, reporters and correspondents. Without their help success would have been scarcely possible. They gave it not a perfunctory way, but heartily and freely. Where speakers addressed scores of voters they reached hundreds. They relentlessly exposed the enemy's record and happily compared ours with it. They kept up contrast between the leader and the people and not only published the best thoughts of our speakers, but added to the literature of the campaign great treasures of fact and argument. Finally when the drowsiness of over confidence was setting upon the citizens of Virginia they sounded the alarm so long and loudly that the voters were aroused to a proper sense of duty.

For our part in estimating the forces that accomplished the overthrow of the enemy in Virginia we shall not stint praise to Chairman Elyson and his associates, to district country and city chairmen, and their co-laborers, to the gentleman who sacrificed time and money to make speeches, to those who assisted by liberal contributions of funds, and to all others who in anywise helped according to their means and opportunities, but we shall also award a good, large share to the newspaper men.

There is a popular misconception that it is "all in their line" and they "made money out of it." No such thing. It is gratuitous service. It brings in no money at all and few thanks, while it costs much in cash and work.

So while the people are rejoicing over their great victory let them think of the newspaper men as among those who gave to the campaign something that was valuable and praiseworthy.

They do Their Duty, They Want no Office, But They Deserve to Live.

Chatham Record.

The newspapers of North Carolina deserve much credit and praise for the sweeping Democratic victory at the late election. While the chairman of the State committee did all that he could do in having the State thoroughly canvassed, yet on account of the small number of canvassers and the scant supply of money at his command, the canvass was not pushed as vigorously as it otherwise would have been. Great praise is due and should be given to those gentlemen who so ably canvassed the State (and doubtless many of them will receive their reward in the shape of some office), but the chief credit for our glorious victory is due—and should be given to those Democratic papers which (without any hope of reward) so fully explained the issues of the campaign and so thoroughly aroused the people to the importance of maintaining Democratic supremacy in our good Old State.

There are no more patriotic or public spirited citizens of our State than the hard working and poorly paid editors, who are always doing their utmost to promote the prosperity of our people, and in political campaigns are ever foremost in arousing the people to do their duty. And while they do not engage in the unseemly scramble for office, but leave to others the spoils of the victories won by them, they do deserve and should receive the hearty and substantial support and encouragement of all citizens who desire good government.

It is not true!
If it is, then see to it, dear reader, that you do your duty!

New York Letter.

HOPE FOR CONSUMPTIVES—PRO- SIMPLICITY IN TRANSFER OF REAL ESTATE.

New York, Nov. 24th, 1890.

The experiments of Prof. Robert Koch, of Berlin, upon a cure for consumption, are creating more interest on this side of the water than any other thing in the medical line since the "elixir of life" excitement of last year. This time, owing to the great eminence and conversation of Prof. Koch, the prospect of success is much more promising than is usual, and we may reasonably hope that a cure has at last been discovered for this most dreaded disease. The particulars of the new process are so far known only to Prof. Koch and his principal assistant. It is understood to consist in the main of an injection, under the skin, of a lymph, the precise constituents of which are not publicly known. Prominent physicians say that sufficient data are not yet at hand from which to draw a definite conclusion as to the merits of the cure, but concede Prof. Koch's claims to respectful attention. Koch has not yet made any claim to a conclusive result, though it is said he has cured two cases of slight consumption. The German Kaiser has taken a deep interest in the experiments and the Government has furnished the professor with a hospital.

THE CAMERA CLUB EXHIBITION.

The exhibition, during the past fortnight, of photo-mechanical pictures, by the N. Y. Camera Club, has not only been interesting because of the excellent quality of the work, but of practical value to artists, printers, etc., in showing the different styles of photo-engraving processes. The advancement that is being made in this line is something to be wondered at. Already, some of the pictures are superior to the finest wood engravings, and others compare well with engravings on steel and copper. The reproductions of old manuscripts, time stains and all, are perfect; while the photo-gravure process gives us some finer results than are obtained by photography itself. This kind of work is rapidly endeavoring itself to the public and is destined to make illustrations cheaper and better than ever.

A REVOLUTION IN LAND TRANSFERS.

The block system of registering real estate, which is looked upon as a great step toward simplicity, will go into effect in this city on Jan. 1st. On a complete map of the city all the blocks are laid down, each having a permanent number—also recorded in an index book. At the head of each index of a block will be placed a diagram of the block, under which will be entered the book and page of the recorded instruments. This work will largely simplify real estate transactions, any very likely make it possible for the owners of real estate in this city to transfer it with the same facility as personal property. If the experiment proves a success here it will be tried in other cities, and may work a revolution in land transfers in this country.

Death of Rev. J. T. Harris.

Raleigh News and Observer 20th.

Rev. Junius T. Harris, recently elected Superintendent of the Oxford Orphan Asylum, and Presiding Elder of the Durham District of the North Carolina Methodist Conference, died yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock, at Durham, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. J. S. Carr.

The Durham Sun, of yesterday afternoon, says: He had been in feeble health for some time, and it was thought that his excessive labors at the Asylum, to the Sperris tendency, of which he has been recently elected, hastened his end.

Mr. Harris was a graduate of Trinity College, was an able minister, and a man of fine business capacity. He had filled many prominent places in the Conference, having been stationed at Statesville, Goldsboro and other points; and previous to his taking charge of the Durham District, had been four years Presiding Elder of the New Bern District.

Mr. Harris joined the Conference at Greensboro in 1870, and was about 47 years of age. He leaves a wife and five children, and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

God Gave the Baby.

A lady walking along a street came upon a little girl wheeling a baby carriage.

"What a beautiful baby!" exclaimed she as she discovered the pink face come up in a cream colored shawl.

"Whose child is it?"

"Mine," the little girl answered.

"Oh, you mean that it is your little brother or sister?"

"No; I mean that he is not my brother, but is mine—my child."

"You are a very young mother."

"I ain't no mother."

"Then why should you say that the baby is yours?" the lady mischievously asked.

"Cause God sent it to me. My mamma asked me if I didn't want a little baby in the house, an' I prayed for one God would send it, an' then I said I would pray for a little sister, 'cause I like girls better than boys, but mamma said I'd just better pray for any kind that God has a mind to send, but I didn't; I prayed for a little girl, but God took an' sent a boy anyway, an' I guess it was because he didn't have any girls on hand. Then I said I would pray to God to send a girl as soon as he could, but our folks said that I needn't put myself to any trouble on that account—Old Home-land."

It would be an extremely difficult task to find a neighborhood in the United States that does not contain clients for whom Messrs. C. A. Snow & Co., the successful Patent Solicitor's Opp. U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C. has obtained patents. They know their business and conscientiously attend to it. See their advertisement in this paper.

Babies cry because they suffer; and the most reliable remedy for the so-called "croup," is Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. Only 25 cents a bottle.

Some favor a tariff for revenue only, some a tariff with incidental protection, and some a tariff for protection, per se; but a large majority favor the free use of Salvation Oil. Price 25 cents.

An endless chain of certificates verify the excellence of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents.

Comparisons are odious, as every one must have heard again and again but thoughtless people will persist in making them. A young doctor wishing to make an impression upon a German farmer, mentioned the fact that he had received a double election as a member of the local assembly, and also a graduate of a "regular" medical school. "Oh, dot was noding," said the farmer; "I had once a calf 'twoked 'two cows, and he made noding but a common scheiter, after all."—American Medical Journal.

There's a patent medicine which is not a patent medicine—paradoxical as that may sound. It's a discovery! a golden discovery of medical science! It's the medicine for you—tired, run-down, exhausted, nerve-wasted men and women; for you sufferers from diseases of skin or scalp, liver or lungs—its chance is with every one, its season always, because it aims to purify the fountain of life—the blood—upon which all such diseases depend. The medicine is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The makers of it have enough confidence in it to sell it on trial. That is—you can get it from your druggist, and if it doesn't do what it's claimed to do, you can get your money back, every cent of it.

That's what its makers call taking the risk of their words.

Tiny, little, sugar-coated granules, are what Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are. They are small, but very powerful; active, yet mild in operation; cure sick and bilious headaches. One a dose.

God Gave the Baby.

A lady walking along a street came upon a little girl wheeling a baby carriage.

"What a beautiful baby!" exclaimed she as she discovered the pink face come up in a cream colored shawl.

"Whose child is it?"

"Mine," the little girl answered.

"Oh, you mean that it is your little brother or sister?"

"No; I mean that he is not my brother, but is mine—my child."

"You are a very young mother."

"I ain't no mother."

"Then why should you say that the baby is yours?" the lady mischievously asked.

"Cause God sent it to me. My mamma asked me if I didn't want a little baby in the house, an' I prayed for one God would send it, an' then I said I would pray for a little sister, 'cause I like girls better than boys, but mamma said I'd just better pray for any kind that God has a mind to send, but I didn't; I prayed for a little girl, but God took an' sent a boy anyway, an' I guess it was because he didn't have any girls on hand. Then I said I would pray to God to send a girl as soon as he could, but our folks said that I needn't put myself to any trouble on that account—Old Home-land."

Insomnia.

Lucia Redding Thompson, Philadelphia

The latter half of the nineteenth century is characterized by a struggle for precedence, and with this ever increasing mental strain upon American men and women it is not surprising that we hear more and more of the widespread prevalence of insomnia, the etiology of which deserves the careful consideration of physicians.

We are, in many cases, unable to determine the causes of sleeplessness, since we do not know the cause of sleep. It is a cyclical event, the salient feature of which is the cessation of the automatic activity of the brain; it is the diastole of the cerebral. The sleeping brain, in many respects, resembles a quiescent but still living ventricle. Both are at rest, both may be awakened by a stimulus, just as a single prickle will awaken a ventricle which has been motionless; so a loud noise will awake a man from sleep into a long day of wakefulness. We are not at present in a condition to trace out the events which culminate in this inactivity of the cerebral structures; nor can we make dogmatic statements concerning the nature of the molecular changes which determine this rhythmic rise and fall of cerebral irritability.

It has been said that during sleep the brain is anemic. If we admit this, can we consider it a subsidiary event, rather than a primary cause? The fact that the products of protoplasmic activity obstruct such activity has suggested the idea that the presence of the products of nervous metabolism is the cause of sleep. If this accumulation were the cause, why should we ever have the hope of waking? This alternation of sleeping and waking, or the ancient sequence of nights and days, is but a manifestation of all bodily periodicity. Within the day we have the constantly separated cycle of the cardiac shuttle, which must keep at its work, throughout the whole web of the body's life, and cease only at death.

Insomnia may be looked upon as a symptom, directing our attention to some condition which may shade off into disease. It is frequently a preliminary symptom of organic mental disease, which is not relieved by removal of its cause.

It is seen in those who have experienced excessive bodily fatigue. Persistent sleeplessness occurs in a patient, and in those struggling against the opium habit, is familiar. The excessive use of coffee, tea and tobacco must be numbered among the numerous etiological factors of insomnia.

The treatment of insomnia is a matter of difficulty. Let us suppose that care and anxiety has been the cause; the removal of such cares becomes a difficult problem to the physician. If due to that excessive exercise of emotions, or that condition characterized by a partial or complete suspension of all inhibitory influences—hysteria—the treatment becomes a still more difficult problem. The routine treatment is familiar, but he is a wise physician who abandons all thought of careful consideration of the various points in each case.

Accepting the idea that this functional inactivity is favored by a condition of anemia, we should diminish the circulation in the brain as much as possible, by directing the blood to the less noble organs of the abdomen. Warmth to the abdomen favors dilatation of those arteries which supply the intestinal tract, and consequent cerebral anemia. A large poultice, or a wet compress, consisting of linen or flannel wrung out of warm or hot water covered with oiled silk, with a dry flannel placed above it, is useful. Warmth to the interior of stomach has a similar action. Thus a glass of warm milk is favorable to sleep. The fact that this condition is unknown among savage races should serve as an important indication. This condition is so frequently seen in those who spend their lives in continual excitement; first to attain a happiness never found, then to escape a misery but too surely found. Thus moral measures may become more efficacious than all the remedies of the pharmacopoeia. All constitutional conditions such as dyspepsia, cough, pain, palpitation should be relieved by appropriate treatment. Massage and electricity intelligently used are of service. Narcotics should not be used. The idea of relieving pain has descended to us from Hippocrates; to secure the desired sleep we think at once of a hypnotic or narcotic. We should never forget the long train of evils which may follow; the possibility of the formation of a habit which may render our patient a physical and moral wreck. These powerful drugs should be reserved for those in whom insomnia is secondary to pain, cough, etc., while we choose rather moral, hygienic, dietetic and physical measures.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest Occurring in North Carolina.

AS REFLECTED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Within the next 90 days, Durham and Raleigh will be connected by telephone.

New Bern Journal: The Pamlico county jail which was located at Bayboro was entirely destroyed by an incendiary fire Tuesday night.

Mrs. S. M. Lockhart, of Weldon, has sold her farm in Northampton county, known as the Bell place, to Senator M. W. Ransom for $9,500.

Washington Gazette: In the case of State against Adams for the murder of Cox, at Blount's Creek, tried at Hyde Court, the verdict was "not guilty."

Wilmington Review: There is one lady in the city residing on Dock street, between Eighth and Ninth, who has a large garden full of magnificent chrysanthemums, all now in full bloom. It is said that she has several hundred varieties of these beautiful fall flowers.

The Adjutant General of the North Carolina State Guard announces that the second annual election of field officers of the Guard will be held on the first Thursday in December. Each regiment will elect a colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel and Major. The Company officers of the first regiment will meet at Rocky Mount to hold their election.

Durham Globe: The W. Duke Sons & Co.'s great cigarette factory turned out their Durham and New York house, 101,000,000 cigarettes and 105,000 pounds of smoking tobacco during the month of October. This is the first time in the history of the establishment that it sold over 100,000,000 cigarettes in a single month. And this is doing well enough.

Goldboro Headlight: Ex-priest J. J. Boyle has been heard from again. Not from a monastery in Scotland as was generally supposed but from a Catholic tribunal in Rome, Italy, whither he has been summoned to disprove the charges made against him by the Catholic clergy of the West. Boyle with his usual brazenness had the audacity to write to Bishop Haydn in this State, to send him a letter of recommendation in order to prove his good character while in North Carolina. This information we received from Justice Barbee, of Raleigh, a prominent member of the Catholic church there.

How a Marriage Was Broken Off at Winston.

The Twin City Daily tells a story in this fashion: "A young man of the Twin-City, after making the necessary arrangements for his wedded life by erecting a cosy cottage and furnishing it with those things which are useful in house-keeping, announced to the girl of his choice that 'all things were ready for the marriage.' The reply that came back was: 'Am not ready yet; will take another week to make my preparations.' The young man grew angry and sent word back that he 'would marry then or never.' These words were instrumental in ending what might have proven a happy matrimonial event. The young man disposed of his household goods and is still leading a life of bachelorhood."

Under the eaves of the Methodist church is a favorite resort for English sparrows, and people were interested a few days ago by seeing one of these birds hanging by a string from the eaves of the church, dead, dead, dead. Its fellows went in and out and chattered and fought and made merry, but none of them cut the dead bird down. The question is whether it committed suicide or was hanged as a malefactor. A number of English sparrows have on different occasions been seen to jump on some sparrows and put it to death, and there are eleven instances in the books of these birds having hanged some offender among their number. Was this one hanged, and if so what was his offence?

Jno. H. Goodwin Esq., of Cedar Island, W. O. Williams of Portsmouth, and other prominent gentlemen of Carteret, who are deeply interested in the oyster interest of the State in its every aspect, very wisely suggest that an oysterman's convention be held at some point central to the oyster sections, say Ocracoke Island, for the purpose of fully discussing the oyster question, preparatory to memorializing the next General Assembly in regard to legislation upon the matter. The plan suggested by Messrs. Goodwin, Williams and others, is that primary conventions be called in all the usual voting precincts in the counties interested, and delegates be appointed and instructed to attend the general convention and that all men who are interested in the matter be and are hereby requested to attend, and participate in said convention to be hereafter appointed. Expressions from all parties in regard to the subject is requested through their county papers.

The oyster interest of the State is one of the greatest importance, and should receive prompt legislation. Just to all, at the hands of the next General Assembly.—Atlantic Seaside

THE REFUGEE

With the car a little girl
With hair of gold, and tress and curl
Like living sunshine—all alive,
Kept flitting up and down the aisle;
New here, new here, where'er we will,
Danced merrily the little feet.
The sunny face now pressed the pane,
Now called the sunshine back again.

All loved her as from place to place
She fluttered with a bird-like grace;
And now with this one, now with that,
Stopped to exchange a smile or chat,
Our eyes were ever on the child,
So the long journey we beguiled,
Her blue eyes could so brightly be,
No body knew whose treasure she.

But suddenly from sunlight plain
Into a tunnel rushed the train.
All, then we knew whose arm should hold
The little one who led us of gold.
"Papa, papa," she's trembling cry,
And groping to her father's side;
As out into the day we pressed,
Her head lay on her father's breast.

'Tis so with us—when life is fair,
Too, forget our Father's care.
We know not where we lead of gold,
But oh, He's watching, watching still.
And when the shadows round us fall,
He hears and heeds his children's call.
He folds us to his faithful breast,
He folds us to his faithful breast.

A Sensational Runaway.

A Raleigh Negro and a Johnson County White Girl the Eluding Pair.

Raleigh Intelligencer.

At police headquarters yesterday morning, a gentleman by the name of Johnson from Johnson county reported the elopement of his daughter, a fair blond of 18 summers, with a bright young mulatto by the name of Henry White. Until recently, it seems, the latter has been for several years, a trusted employe of Mr. Johnson's; at the present time, however, was residing in this city.

The particulars as far as could be ascertained from the unfortunate father was as follows:

Monday afternoon Miss Johnson walked away from her home, but as this was common no special notice was taken of it. But she did not come back, and early after nightfall her father began to make inquiries for her. His search soon developed the astounding fact that the negro in question had procured a horse and buggy in Raleigh on Monday and had driven out to a place near the home of the young lady according to a previous arrangement.

It was learned that the couple had returned to Raleigh and had taken the West-bound midnight train with tickets to Richmond.

The police station here is using its best efforts to intercept the runaways by telegraph. Boston is believed to be their objective point, though telegrams have been sent to all of the principle cities North and South, with description of the parties and orders to arrest. As we go to press no information has been received about them.

Are the Preacher's Paid.

It is getting along toward the end of the calendar year. The church year of one of the leading denominations of our State has just closed and that of another one is about closing. Have the preachers been paid up? They are promised but a pittance and if they are paid every cent of it they are still on short commons. It is a scandal to their charges if the beggarly sums pledged them are not paid. We mention this matter because at this period, when so many strolling minstrelers are doing so well in a worldly way, we wouldn't have these humble, every-day men of God forgotten. They are with us from year to year and are our every-day friends; they baptize our children, bury our dead, comfort us in our affliction and from Sunday to Sunday point out the way of life. They are the bulwarks of society; they hold our civilization together. Their influence is continuously with us for

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR, Greenville, N. C.

D. J. WELCHARD, Editor and Proprietor.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT GREENVILLE, N. C., AS SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.]

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 26th, '90.

Come Let us Reason Together.

The REFLECTOR wants to have a little talk with its readers this morning and desires that they lend an attentive ear—especially the delinquents. This paper is being run as a matter of business and as a business enterprise—though from what we shall show below it will appear that many who read it every week do not look upon it as such. All we have invested in this business, upon which we have to depend for a support, and by it our family is fed and clothed. Surely, then, every fair minded man is ready to say "you deserve and ought to have every dollar you earn." Well, we do not get it, and for that reason this article is written. While we have made a little money on the REFLECTOR each year since it came into our management—enough to pay for the plant, to keep out of debt, and to procure a modest living—there is one branch of the business that we have lost heavily upon, and that is the subscription list. If every subscriber would pay for his paper promptly—that which he owes and is due us—we would have a few hundred dollars to lay up each year, and would not have to live in somebody else's house instead of one of our own. But hardly an average of two thirds of them pay each year, and because the others fail to pay there is now owing us—scattered about in small sums here and there—an amount aggregating nearly $3,000.

Here is the way the above estimate is arrived at: We take it that this year's record ought to average up as well as any since 1885, when the REFLECTOR came solely into our control (and with such good crops this year payments ought to be far better than the others) and an examination of our books shows that for 1890 the following number of subscriptions have been paid each month; January, 69; February 60; March 45; April 19; May 26; June 18; July 18; August 21; September 39; October 45; November (up to and including the 18th) 33; then to get an estimate for a whole year we take from the 19th of November 1889 to the close of the year, during which time 93 paid, making a total of 476. To sum up in round figures and allow a full estimate there are not over 500 subscribers to the REFLECTOR who pay up or in part what they owe each year. Our circulation is a few over 900 and allowing that 100 of these go to exchanges leaves 800 papers for which we get no pay, there at $1.50 show a dead loss of $450 per year. Take this average for six years and you get an idea of what is now owing the REFLECTOR.

The people who read the REFLECTOR have no right to expect us to lose that much each year because of indulging them and trusting their honesty to pay a small debt. If they expect it, we do not feel called upon to continue it and will not longer submit to it. And here is the remedy against such loss in future: Beginning with January, 1891, THE REFLECTOR WILL BE SENT TO NO PERSON UNLESS IT IS PAID FOR IN ADVANCE. During December we will make up new subscription and mailing lists and NO NAME will go on these lists unless THE CASH goes on with them. It will be hard to get the people into the habit of paying in advance all at once, and as an inducement to bring them to it the subscription price for next year will be made only ONE ($1) DOLLAR. We do not promise to keep the subscription price at $1, future developments will determine that. The REFLECTOR is well worth $1.50, but if our subscription list grows large enough to justify it the price may not be changed again. However, you can get it next year for ONE DOLLAR, but not without the CASH IN ADVANCE.

We shall thoroughly advertise this between now and the close of the present year, giving all a chance to get on our new list. In the meantime you will be informed as to how we shall proceed to collect what is now due, and also how these who have already paid in advance at the old price will be credited. REMEMBER YOU CAN GET THE REFLECTOR NEXT YEAR FOR ONE DOLLAR CASH IN ADVANCE.

Railroads, and the Commission

One matter that will come up for consideration in the next General Assembly of North Carolina is the establishment of a railroad commission. Mention this to a railroad man and it does not set well on him. He thinks, no doubt that it is unjust and that the people are unreasonable in making demands for a commission. But let's look at it a little and see if the railroads themselves are not to blame for this sentiment against them.

There are some things that the average man cannot see into, and one of these things is that it should cost more to carry a piece of merchandise or a bale of cotton one hundred miles than it does to carry the same two hundred miles. Perhaps to illustrate with figures will make this point a little clearer, though our illustrations be somewhat of a local nature. We have been told that the Wilmington & Weldon railroad was a short time since taking cotton from Weldon to Norfolk, between which points there was strong competition with the Seaboard road—for 90 cents a bale, taking this cotton via Halifax, Scotland Neck and Hobgood, thence over the Norfolk & Carolina to Norfolk, while at the same time the charges per bale from Scotland Neck to Norfolk—a much nearer distance according to the route traveled—was $1.50. Our informant also said the shippers of Scotland Neck resented this discrimination against them by having their cotton hauled six miles to the nearest point on the river, at a cost of 40 cents, and shipped from there to Norfolk by water for $1, a saving to the shipper of 10 cents per bale over the railroad price. Scotland Neck gave $25,000 to help build the railroad, too. Now does any one suppose that such discrimination on the part of the railroad made it any friends among those people? Does it pay in the long run to incur the ill will of a whole community just for the sake of getting 50 cents a bale on a few hundred bales of cotton?

Again, before the railroad and boats combined and the freight on cotton from Greenville, Grafton and Kinston was advanced to $1.40 per bale it was carried from these points—at each of which there was water competition—at $1, while from Ayden and points north of Greenville where there was no competition $1.50 was charged. And Elder David House, who gave the road a free right of way right through his best cotton land, and also a site for a warehouse, either had to pay $1.50 to get a bale of cotton shipped from his place or haul it 3 miles to Greenville and ship from here. Did such discriminations as these make any friends for the road?

What is true of these instances cited from the Wilmington & Weldon road is true of every other road operating within the State. Wherever an opportunity is presented for them to get any advantage of the people they seem to have no scruples against using it.

The REFLECTOR does not write this because of any ill will toward railroads or any desire to do them injury, but to show, as asserted in the outset that this sentiment for a railroad commission that is getting such a hold upon the people is blameable only to the management of the railroads. Nor does the REFLECTOR write this in advocacy of a railroad commission. On the contrary, with our present limited information upon the subject, we could not intelligently declare our position either for or against the commission. But if the people want the commission they have the right to demand it, and if after fair trial it should be deemed impracticable it could be easily repealed.

However one thing the REFLECTOR is ready to declare itself in favor of, is railroads. We believe in them, want to see more of them, and as before said in these columns think they are, when operated in the interest of the people, one of the greatest blessings and advantages that come to a community. We think further that when a railroad comes to a community the most friendly relations should exist between it and the people. In our humble opinion, if the railroads would reach out and take the people by the hand and say "here, we are your friend; we are going to work for your interest, and want you to work for our interest," there would never be heard another word about a railroad commission. There would be no need of a railroad commission.

Now that the Durham Globe has shot off its snout at the few editors who want to go to Raleigh in the capacity of Reading Clerk of the House or Senate, and impugn their motives for laboring in the interest of the party to "the dim hope of securing a job at the Legislature," what has it got to say for the balance of them who used full led articles, praised the ticket and put roosters to crowing, and who do not want to go to Raleigh to spend the winter at the expense of the State. When the Globe says "all the newspaper men are candidates it is not a disciple of G. Washington."

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

For this reason we again invite the people to call and examine our stock. We have but

YOUNG & PRIDDY.

Georgia's Senatorship.

While we do not especially rejoice at the election of Gov. John B. Gordon to the United States Senate from Georgia, yet we are glad that it is he instead of Mr. Pat. Calhoun, Gov. Gordon has long been one of Georgia's chief favorites. He has the love and confidence of the people of Georgia about as well as Hon. Z. B. Vance has in North Carolina. To get any office within the gift of the people he had only to ask for it. He has been in the United States Senate once, when he resigned, and was succeeded by Hon. Jos. E. Brown. For the last two terms he has been Governor of Georgia, and is now elected to the United States Senate again for six years.

Several months ago it was made known that he wished to be Senator again, and for a long time there was no thought of opposition to him. But when the fight in several Congressional districts was made on the Sub-Treasury plan, and its advocates came out victorious, and the Farmers' Alliance, seeing that they would be well represented in the House, thought they ought to have a leader in the Senate, Col Livingston was first mentioned, but he being elected as Congressman, no organized effort was made in his behalf. Mr. Pat. Calhoun was finally pitted against him, but the sturdy Democrats of the Legislature being Alliance men as well as Democrats could not be fooled into voting for a railroad attorney, although he tried to ingratiate himself into their favor by advocating the union of the Sub-Treasury plan and the national banks for the benefit of the farmer. The election of Mr. Calhoun would practically have been the Alliance selling itself out to the railroad corporations. This the Alliance men knew, hence the result. We hope other States will do the same way, and not elect men who are in any way connected with corporations or monopolies. We hope and believe the Legislature of North Carolina will do so by electing Mr. Vance to succeed himself. He is no friend of corporations or monopolies.

"It must be highly gratifying to the Democrats to know that jubilee meetings have been held all over Europe to celebrate the Democratic victory, which over there is regarded as the first step towards free trade."—The North Carolinian.

Well, yes, we would say it is gratifying to know that other nations think the American people have come to their senses at last, and are getting off a job that has

held them down with hollow pretensions and unfulfilled promises for the last thirty years. While the Democrats believe in revenue only for the expenses of the government economically administered, they prefer free trade to a system of plutocracy which tends to gobble up what the many make into the hands of the few. It is also gratifying to know that "the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow" has learned that high protective taxes have not made his wages higher, but have made the price of everything which he has to buy higher; and it is gratifying to know that he has voted for a reform along this line.

We acknowledge an invitation to The Southern Inter-State Immigration Convention to be held at Asheville Dec. 17th. The object of the Convention is to secure united and harmonious action in all the Southern States in regard to bringing in more people and capital to the South. We hope the Convention will take some decided action in this matter. The South needs more men and capital, and while we wish to see them here, we do not want such as have been going to the Western Territories for the last two decades. We want and need men whose influence will be building up the South, morally, socially and financially. Liberal inducements should be held out to such men, and steps should be taken to prevent any other from coming.

Davis and Gregory,

OXFORD, NORTH CAROLINA,

Have the Leading Warehouse for the Sale of L. of Tobacco.

Oxford is booming, no doubt about that, and no firm or business is keeping more even pace with the spirit of progress awake there than the firm whose name heads this article. Every tobacco shipper in Eastern North Carolina knows Davis & Gregory, or know of them. Those who know them are aware that their warehouse is the place to get good prices for fine tobacco—and those who know of them from what others have said are ready to testify that they never heard any man say to the contrary. What everybody says is no must be so. Why is this so? Because there is no better market than Oxford, and because no warehouseman in the State has a better building in which to operate. Again—and this must not be considered a small thing—they have ample capital to pay for all the tobacco that is placed on their floors, and pay good prices therefor. Davis & Gregory's warehouse is an immense brick building

Ask any Pitt county farmer who sold there if he did not get good and satisfactory prices for his tobacco and he will give an affirmative answer. There was a warehouse recently, and every man who had tobacco there came away rejoicing. Their tobacco brought prices that pleased them, they received the cash for it and returned home happy. Reader, if you are a tobacco grower, you can be made as happy as your neighbor if you will follow his example and ship your tobacco to Davis & Gregory. SUPPLEMENT.

The blood must be pure for the body to be in perfect condition. Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood and imparts the rich bloom of health and vigor to the whole body.

Ice one inch thick is to be seen in the Catskills.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

A freshman was killed in a riot at McLean University.

Children who are troubled with worms may be quickly relieved by giving them Dr. J. H. McLean's Liquid Vermifuge. It kills and expels worms.

The painting "Angelus" was sold to the French government for $150,000.

The circulation of the blood—quickened and enriched—bears life and energy to every portion of the body; appetite returns; the hour of rest brings with it sound repose. This can be secured by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

One half of the potato crop of Washington county, N. Y., has been ruined by rot.

For rheumatic and neuralgic pains, rub in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, and take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. You will not suffer long, but will be gratified with a speedy and effective cure.

John T. Walker, Son & Co., silk importers, of New York, have failed for $1,100,000.

If you feel "out of sorts," cross and peevish—take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla; cheerfulness will return and life will acquire new zest.

The grave of Roscoe Conkling, near Utica, N. Y. is daily bedecked with flowers by loving hands.

Don't irritate your lungs with a stubborn cough when a pleasant and effective remedy may be found in Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm!

If you are all run down—have no strength, no energy, and feel very tired all the time—take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will impart strength and vitality to your system.

Local Sparks

Cooper's Warehouse Henderson, N. C. is the leading place for farmers to sell tobacco. If you want the highest prices Don't fail to ship your tobacco to Cooper's, Henderson, N. C. Cotton 8 1/2 to 8 3/4. Go to Brown Bros. for Shoes. One month to Christmas. Highest cash prices paid for cotton by H. F. Keel. Fish and oysters plentiful. Nice children's and ladies' Shoes at Brown Bros. Thanksgiving, then Xmas. Ladies, examine Brown Bros.' line of Dress Goods. The fair season has closed. Go to C. D. Rountree for your Christmas goods. Weldon is talking electric lights. The most excellent Boss Biscuits at the Old Brick Store. C. D. Rountree is the place to buy your groceries. But a few more days of this month. Brown Bros. are selling good Calico for 5c per yard. Black suspenders are all the rage. Try some of the new corned mullets at the Old Brick Store. Let everybody give thanks to-morrow. C. D. Rountree bought his goods cheap and will sell them cheap. Thanksgiving turkeys are trembling. Fresh Boss Biscuits for the well and sick at the Old Brick Store. Let us all observe Thanksgiving Day. Dixon's custom made Shoes for children and ladies, at Brown Bros. A very cold winter, says the prophets. Ready in five Minutes, Prepared Buckwheat, at the Old Brick Store. The Tar River is low and clear as mud. Glasgow Evans has just received a fine load of horses direct from Richmond. Wild ducks are reported as flying about. For a fine drive or work horse call on Glasgow Evans. A new lot just arrived. Winter is upon us, shoo! I smell 'em breath. Davis and New Home Sewing Machines for sale by J. C. Lanier, office at Brown Bros. Store. The hammer and saw are getting up a hum. Brown Bros. don't sell at cost nor below cost, but as near to it as any reliable firm in town. The children are in high glee talking Christmas. The finest loaf of bread I ever ate was made of Point Lace Flour, at the Old Brick Store. The weather is much cooler than a week ago. COTTON SEED—Highest cash price paid for cotton seed. Bags furnished on application. G. E. HARRIS. Gobble, gobble, gobble, oh, that turkey to-morrow. 35 per lb for Lorillard Sweet Snuff. 5000 lb sold in Pitt Co., which is a guarantee of its superiority, at the Old Brick Store. Many peanuts are being shipped from this section. 400 Tons coal, 500,000 Shingles, 1,000,000 Laths. For sale by J. J. Cherry. The price of meat and flour both declined last week. Iceing Sugar, Citrons, Oranges, Raisins, Dates, Lemons, Apples, Nuts, Coconuts, Bananas, Candy and Cakes in stock at the Old Brick Store. Where did you—did you—did you—get that beaver, Gus. We offer for Thanksgiving Presents at Lowest Price a fine line of Cook Stoves, Heaters, Lamps and other useful articles for the household. LATHAM & PENDEE. The newly elected county officers will qualify next Monday. Send for E. Pachaly's Holiday and Buyer's Guide Catalogue. Has everything in it in regard to Merchandise and Holiday Goods. E. Pachaly, General Supply House, 3000 Westworth Ave., Chicago, Ill. Watch Greenville, and you will see the old town coming yet. Anything you buy from our market, if not satisfactory you may return it and your money will be refunded. We keep fresh beef, pork, mutton, kid, poultry, &c., and solicit your patronage. Johnson, Norcott & Co. Lots of strangers in town every day. Travel is large. The cotton seed oil mill at Tarboro started up last week. The rich need Christian charity, but the poor the other sort. We hear that the Alberta Gallatin Co. is writing here for dates. Put boxes on the lamp posts on Thanksgiving for the orphans. Farmers in some sections say that potatoes are beginning to rot. Several real estate transactions recently. The market is active. New uniforms are being made for the Rough & Ready Fire Company. The REFLECTOR received a handsomely printed copy of Gov. Fowle's Thanksgiving proclamation, which we overlooked mentioning last week.

Personal Mr. C. F. Wilson, of the Advance, spent Sunday in town. Miss Jennie Savage returned home Monday from a visit to Farmville. Judge Geo. H. Brown of Washington was in town one day last week. Mrs. A. L. Blow has returned home from a visit to Richmond and Baltimore. We were pleased to have a call from Mr. H. D. Teel, of Tarboro, on Monday night. Mr. A. N. Ryan recently returned from the North where he purchased a large stock of holiday goods. Mr. James E. Moore of Williamston, N. C., was in town last Saturday, on legal business we presume. Mr. Simon A. Kittrell, a very excellent man, died at his home a few miles from Greenville on last Friday, 21st. Mr. E. C. King, telegraph operator at Falkland, was in town last Friday and spent a short while at the REFLECTOR office. Mr. W. A. James and daughter Miss Carrie, of Asheville, are visiting the family of Mr. D. H. James, Register of Deeds. Mr. Jas. L. Harris left here on last Saturday morning to accept a position on the Wilson Advance. Ah! there, Jimmie! Mr. B. F. Sugg has moved his family into the Baker house, on Washington street. The house on Dickerson avenue that he vacated will be occupied by Mr. J. J. Cory. Mr. R. M. Johnson representing the Wilmington Messenger was in town last week; also Mr. B. W. Cobb representing the same paper passed through Monday night enroute for Washington. The Greene brothers have purchased the Jobb Tyson house from Mr. W. W. Leggett, and Mrs. E. S. Greene will occupy it. We understand that Mr. Leggett's family are preparing to move to South Carolina. Dr. L. R. Thompson, of Philadelphia, has been spending the past week with relatives here. On the first page of the REFLECTOR to-day appears an article on insomnia from her pen contributed to the September number of the Medical and Surgical Reporter. Hon. T. G. Skinner, of Hertford, N. C., our Congressman from this district, came to Greenville last Saturday to see his brothers, Messrs. Chas. and Harry Skinner. He expects to leave for Washington next Monday. He says he has no idea that the present Congress will pass the force bill. Mr. P. G. Mayo, of Falkland, who has this season been a tobacco buyer on the Oxford market, was in Greenville Saturday. He told us that in January he and Mr. Parham, of Oxford, will open a general commission and brokerage office in Greenville, and will make a specialty of handling fertilizers. Mr. Mayo was looking after some of the arrangements while here Saturday. Mr. E. B. Moore, of Lewistown, is spending a few days in town this week. He brought Mrs. Moore and the children over with him and they will remain with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Warren, until early spring. It affords pleasure to her numerous friends to know that Mrs. Moore has sufficiently recovered from her severe sickness to be able to take the trip over here, and though yet quite feeble she is slowly regaining health. There are numerous peddlers in this section. Ice several mornings the past week, and heavy frosts. Several large real estate sales will take place next Monday. The Guard was out for drill last Friday. 21 men in rank and file. The Washington Gazette says corn is scarce down there. Send up to Pitt. To-day the Thanksgiving turkey will be slain in readiness for to-morrow. J. L. Jackson brought us a twin apple raised on his father's plantation. An Italian band has been in town this week. They made charming music. L. L. Kittrell executor of S. A. Kittrell, deceased, has a notice in this paper. Why is Jim Smith, the barber, like a boy after a bath? Because he is a clean shaver. The express office will be open on Thanksgiving day from 8 to 10 A. M., and from 5 to 7 P. M. House servants can be more easily employed now since there is not much fleece for them in the cotton patch. Before another issue of this paper building and loan payments will be due. Shareholders should be prompt. Mr. Glasgow Evans brought in a nice lot of horses from Richmond last night. Go around and see them. It is said that Dr. Marquis, the dentist, guarantees all his work, and is recommended very highly by his patients. The recent financial panic North put the price of cotton so low that for the time being trade lost much of its briskness. Thanksgiving services at the Baptist Church to-morrow at 11 A. M., a sermon on "Our Country" by Pastor, Public invited. Young & Priddy have a pumpkin, as big as ever seen; Guess how many seeds it has. And get a fine machine. Greenville's population continues on the increase—two additions Monday morning that will be voters in about twenty years. Mr. William Baker of Washington, has rented two stalls in the market house here and keeps well supplied with fish and oysters. A Western Union force in charge of Foreman J. A. Nobles, is extending the railroad wire from this place to Grifton and Kinston. A colored couple who were married in town last week set a new precedent. The bride elect was a widow and selected widows for bridesmaids. Don't forget to take up a collection for the orphans to-morrow and report the amount to the REFLECTOR. We want to know how much is raised in the county. A Mrs. Braxton, who died near Greenville on last Wednesday, was buried in Baptist Church yard here on Thursday evening, Rev. A. D. Hunter conducting funeral services. Founding. Last Friday evening just after dark a dray backed up to the rear piazza at the Methodist parsonage generally loaded with all sorts of edibles for the pastor and his family. This expression of kindness is highly appreciated. The donors were so numerous that it would be difficult to thank all personally, and I hereby express our gratitude to our many friends. R. B. JOHNS.

To The Farmers. Col. I. A. Sugg will furnish to the farmers renting land to tenants printed agreements that are of value in the renting of lands. Go and see him. Every farmer should have a written agreement with his tenants and thus save much trouble and litigation. Pumping. Last Friday evening just after dark a dray backed up to the rear piazza at the Methodist parsonage generally loaded with all sorts of edibles for the pastor and his family. This expression of kindness is highly appreciated. The donors were so numerous that it would be difficult to thank all personally, and I hereby express our gratitude to our many friends. R. B. JOHNS. Watch in a Pumpkin. Since last issue we have examined into the matter a bit and find that it would not have been a violation of the law to have printed what our Grimesland correspondent said about the big pumpkin. The substance of what he said is that J. O. Proctor & Bro., the purchasers of the pumpkin, will receive guesses as to the number of seeds contained in the pumpkin, the person who guesses the correct number or comes nearest to it to receive a handsome gold watch. Roll of Honor, Greenville Institute, First Quarter. Mittie Baker, Ora Whichard, Gertrude Williams, Ella Tucker, Lina Sheppard, Aylmer Sugg, Pattie Smith (Carrie Latham, Sudie Hadlock, Minnie Cox. The highest average 97 1/2 was made by Miss Pattie Smith. PRIMARY DEPARTMENT. Olive Daniel, Blanche Flanagan, Sarah Hooker, Bessie Price, Hugh Sheppard, Willie Daniel, Richard White, Emily Higgs, Fred Forbes. Snakes All Dead. We hear of some big potato jokes. Mr. Wall, a saw mill man near Farmville, said that Mr. Edwards, the overseer on Mr. Elbert Moye's farm, had been to him bringing to borrow a cart to haul some big potatoes to the mill to get them sacked up, the boards to be used in covering a potato house and the sawdust to make potato puddings. Another man about Grifton is reported to having made so many potatoes on a small piece of land that he had to rent more land to bank them up on. We All Chew. Last Thursday Mr. Henry Archbell, of Kinston, representing the Southern Pines Chewing Gum Company, of that town, was in Greenville introducing the article. He presented the REFLECTOR with a whole box and since then the force has been well supplied with something to chew. This gum is made from the balsam of the long leaf yellow pine and possesses valuable medicinal properties. Several of the merchants here will keep it for sale. Rates to House and Grindool. Capt. Whitaker informs us that he has received rates for passengers to and from House and Grindool. From Greenville to the former station the rate is 15 cents 1st class and 10 cents 2nd class, and to the latter station it is 40 cents 1st class and 35 cents 2nd class. Riverton has been abandoned and in future trains will not stop there. Heretofore passengers getting off at House or Grindool had to pay full fare between Greenville and the Junction, and thanks are due Capt. Whitaker that he kept after the company until they gave rates to these new stations. Commendable. Our thanks are extended to Misses Annie Sheppard and Florence Williams, committee, for an invitation to a Japanese party to be given on Thursday (Thanksgiving) night, in Germania Hall. The object of the party is for pleasure, and a booth will be opened for the display of curiosities. Five cents to gaze on the many curiosities they will have, and the proceeds will go to the orphans at Oxford. The participants will be dressed in regular Japanese style. We hope the booth will be liberally patronized, as the object is a worthy one. It is very commendable in these young ladies to undertake this and they ought to be encouraged. A candy stew will be in order and lots of fun ahead. Entertainment. At an early day a dramatic entertainment will be given in Skinner's Opera House, the proceeds of which will apply toward raising a fund to build a Presbyterian Church in Greenville. The entertainment will be under the direction of Mrs. G. Jarvis, and her management assures its being of unusual interest. Mrs. Jarvis has the experience of an extensive travel both in own and foreign lands, has witnessed the very best presentations in dramatic art, possesses the highest culture, and has never undertaken anything that came short of success. In the entertainment, she will be assisted by the best talent of the community. Programme and full particulars will be made known later. An interesting occasion will be afforded our people. Arrivals at Hotel Macon During Past Week. Dr. W. L. Best, Grifton; H. L. Finlayson, Walter H. Grimes, Raleigh; A. M. Wall, Jas. L. R. Patterson, Baltimore; R. M. Johnson, J. J. Mackay, B. W. Cobb, Wilmington; John C. Wagner, Kinston; C. W. Taylor, N. C.; L. S. Mayo, steamer Greenville; O. J. Carroll, Goldsboro; Wilson G. Lamb, John D. Biggs, James E. Moore, Williamston; C. F. Skinner, Hertford; three Italian musicians from Baltimore. Riverside Nursery is now shipping large quantities of various kinds of trees, filling the orders that have been taken during the year. Why all the people of this eastern section do not get trees from nursery that are already acclimated this we are unable to see.

Death of Mr. F. E. Patrick.

New York Herald.
 Mr. Frank E. Patrick, who died yesterday morning at the private hospital of Dr. J. A. Wyeth, in New York, where an operation was performed on him last Friday, was one of the largest provision dealers in Richmond, Va., and a prominent man in social and club life. About three weeks ago Mr. Patrick was the victim of a stroke, and remark that he was as sound physically as a Mexican dollar. A day or two afterward he complained of a pain in his right foot and in a few hours he found that he had very little use of his right leg, and from that time on he gradually became paralyzed. Dr. Keith White, his physician, who came to the conclusion that the trouble was in the brain. After consulting eminent specialists Mr. Patrick was brought to New York last week and Dr. Wyeth, assisted by Dr.
 Gray, performed the operation, but the tumor being in the substance of the brain, it was not reached. Mr.
 Patrick's estate is estimated at $50,- 000. This includes a life insurance policy for $20,000, which is for the benefit of his wife. Mr. Patrick married Miss Mamie Lewis, of Raleigh, N. C. There was no issue by this union. Mrs. Patrick is now at Clinton, N. Y.

Happy Boilers.

Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Ila-ville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "I feel like a new man." J. W.
 Gardner, hardware merchant, same place, says: "Electric Bitters is the best thing for a man who is run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he don't lose strength, good appetite and feel just like he had a new lease on life."

Not Able to Walk.

I was confined to my bed for six months with Rheumatism, not able to step. All of the remedies usually prescribed for this disease having been employed to no effect, I commenced taking S. S. S. I have now taken 11 bottles of this excellent medicine and am on my feet, attending to all my house work as of yore.
 I feel that I cannot sufficiently express my thanks for the benefit I have received from the use of this medicine.

Another Honest Man.

Durham Globe.

A special to the Star from Washington says: "A somewhat painful problem presents itself in the death of the late Justice Miller as to what is to become of his widow. There is no son to support her. She has two married daughters, one widow, and herself without adequate means of support. It is stated as a positive fact by those in a place to know that the wife of the great jurist, Abraham Lincoln's friend, will have to keep a boarding house, or rent, or sell, homestead to make a living. Justice Miller left no other property of any amount, except his house on Massachusetts Avenue.

The above is the press report,
 and it speaks volumes. Justice Miller was in a position, had he chosen to be dishonest, to have made mints of money. He was on the bench of the highest judicial tribunal in this country, and it was often his dissenting opinion which gave down even handed justice to those who sought it. His salary was not large; his expenses were naturally greater than his income.
 But he withstood temptation knowing that end was near, and left his wife who had been his companion and help mate through all his stuggles penniless and dependent. How many men in public life do this?
 How many are there who are not wanting some one to cast and anchor windward, as Mr. Blaine would say; how many who want to go in on the ground floor and promise in advance not to prove a deadhead in the enterprise? But Justice Miller sprang all offers of corruption; he attended to his business and let speculation go, and after all was over, one of the most eminent jurist of the age died without a penny saved. Here is a monument, but how many will pause to admire it!

Remarkable Placuit.
 Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her.
 Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle, and to her delight found herself benefited from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her usual household work as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this cure, at J. L. Wooten's Drug Store, large bottles $5, and $10.
