TRE SHOCK KILLED HER.

We learn of the very sad and sudden death of Mrs. R. A. Parker, of Belvoir township, that occurred Tuesday under unusual circumstances.

On Monday night some one placed an anonymous note on Mr. Parker's gate the substance of which said that if he (Parker) did not leave the neighborhood in 30 days he would be a dead man. Unfortunately Mrs. Parker was the first one to discover and read this note next morning, and being in a delicate condition and having already undergone some excitement and fear over some trouble her husband had recently had about stock and his having to take the matter into court, this shock was more than she could bear. She was prostrated from reading the threat on her husband's life, and was taken with spasms from which she never recovered, and died during the day.

This is a sad case indeed. It is not known who was the author of the white cap letter, but if possible the guilty party should be found and punished.

It is thought that the reading of this white cap note having such fatal effect upon Mrs. Parker was due to her apprehension of danger to her husband growing out of the trouble over his stock and his being prosecutor in a case in the recent term of Pitt Superior Court in which J. A. Walston was defendant. Some one had killed a hog belonging to Parker and hauled the animal off in a cart to a creek. The cart was tracked from Watson's field to where the hog was thrown out and back, whereupon he was indicted for the act.

The evidence brought out in the case was such that the jury found a verdict of guilty against Walston and Judge Robinson ordered that judgment be suspended over him upon payment of costs. In the trial Walston plead his own case, and after it had ended he told the Judge he was unable to pay the cost and would have to go to jail, and his unparticularities to the Court were such that the Judge instructed the Clerk to recognize Walston for the cost and let him go, adding "If he does not pay the cost I will pay it myself."

The above appeared in THE DAILY REFLECTOR of Thursday J. A. Walston has made the following statement, which he says he makes because he was the party with whom Mr. Parker had had the trouble over his stock. Mr. Walston says: "I am informed that the note was placed on Mr. Parker's gate on Saturday night, at which time Mrs. Parker was already at the point of death, and that she died on Monday without having any knowledge whatever of the note."

BURNED THE LOCKUP.

And Lost His Life in the Fire.

(Special to Reflector.)

TARBORO, N. C., Jan. 25.—Anderson Brodie, colored, set fire Friday night to the lockup at Enfield, in which he was a prisoner, and succeeded in burning the building and cremated himself in it.

Brodie was wanted for shooting and killing another negro, some time ago with whom he had had a dispute over a pair of boots. He was captured and locked up at Enfield about 4 o'clock Friday evening, and set fire to the prison about 11 o'clock at night.

Horrid in Edgewoods.

(Special to Reflector.)

TARBORO, N. C., Jan. 22.—Last night at Knight's, a small station on the Norfolk & Carolina railroad about 8 miles from here, a white man named Lee shot and killed a negro named Stephens.

It seems that Lee's son had, in the morning, struck his (Lee's) mother for some cause, and this negro, Stephens, appeared against young Lee in the trial. So young Lee's father went to Stephens' house last night, called the latter out and shot him with No. 1 shot, killing him almost instantly.

Both the Lee are in jail here.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE.

WHICHARD, N. C., Jan. 20, 1897.

About 10:45 this morning just after the southbound freight had passed, one of the Greenleaf Johnson Lumber Co.'s train loaded with logs collided with material train No. 110.

Three cars of the material train were derailed and the engine of the log train lying both in and up in the ditch a total wreck.

The entire crew of the log train jumped off before the collision and no one was hurt except engineer Bissell whose back was sprained in the fall. No blame is attached to anyone as the log train had stopped for the freight to pass and not knowing the material train was coming started to cross the track just as the material train pulled out.

BEAUTIFUL HOME MARRIAGE.

Two Popular Young People United.

At 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at the home of the bride on Dickinson avenue, Mr. Jesse Rountree Moye and Miss S. Novella Higgs were united in marriage by Rev. N. M. Watson, pastor of the Methodist church. A number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present to witness the beautiful ceremony.

The house was handsomely decorated, and in the front parlor were two silver arched, with burning tapers suspended from the larger one and a white wedding bell from the smaller one. Underneath these the couple stood to be made man and wife.

As they entered the room preceded by Messrs. J. G. Moye and J. W. Higgs the wedding march was rendered by Miss Annie Sheppard. The bride was attired in an exquisite white satin dress and the groom wore a suit of black.

Mr. Moye is one of our most popular young men and a member of the large mercantile firm of J. B. Cherry & Co. The bride is an exceedingly charming and beautiful young lady, much admired by all our people. Their popularity is well attested by the large number of bridal presents received. We never witness of a more elaborate display of elegant presents.

It was reported that his marriage should take place in the Methodist church at 7:30 A. M., and the couple depart on a bridal tour, but owing to the sickness of the groom for a week the change was made to a home wedding.

The couple will make their abode temporarily at the home of Mr. E. B. Higgs, brother of the bride, until the groom regains his health sufficiently to permit them to take their trip.

ALMOST A FIRE.

About 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night cries of fire were heard on the street. People rushed out and found that Smith & Hooper's livery stables were on fire. All the firemen were on hand promptly and in a brief space of time the flames were extinguished and no damage done to speak of.

The discovery of the fire was very fortunate. Sam Allen, one of the stable hands, had been on a trip in the country and returned about the time above mentioned to put up his horse. All the others had left the stable, and when he got down to open the doors he heard a noise like fire popping in the office room in the front of the building. He investigated the cause, saw a light blaze in the room and gave the alarm.

When the firemen arrived the flames were just creeping through the ceiling into the fodder and hay loft above where a large quantity of dry feed was stored. Five minutes later it would have been beyond all human power to stop the fire. The stables being located in a row of frame buildings in the heart of the town, the result would have been a disaster had the fire once gained headway.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by the explosion or upsetting of a lantern that had been left burning on a table in the office.

The rain Wednesday night almost filled up the fire cistern. There is a good supply of water in it now.
