THE GREENVILLE MARKET.

Everything Ready for the Season's Business. The Greenville tobacco market opened the new season's business on Monday, August 2nd. Everything on tobacco row is in splendid shape for business and a very active season is expected.

THE GREENVILLE WAREHOUSE. Evans, Critcher & Co., proprietors, the firm composed of L. F. Evans, A. H. Critcher and R. S. Evans. H. C. Cannon is back with them as book keeper; J. D. Gwynn, of Ridsville, is auctioneer and R. E. Bynum, floor manager.

THE EASTERN WAREHOUSE. Evans, Joyner & Co., proprietors, the firm being G. F. Evans, O. L. Joyner and O. Hooker. D. S. Spin continues with this house as book keeper; B. T. Bailey, auctioneer; I. R. Rucker, floor manager; O. Hooker, cashier.

STAR WAREHOUSE. Roundtree, Brown, Co., proprietors, the firm being C. D. Roundtree, Wiley Brown, H. L. Coward and T. E. Hooker. W. J. Condit is again with this house as book keeper; J. G. Bowling, auctioneer and floor manager; T. E. Hooker, cashier.

The Warrington, Newbern & Norfolk Road. Judge Simonton, presiding in the United States Court at Wilmington, has issued a decree confirming the re-sale of the Wilmington, Newbern and Norfolk railway to Mr. Warren G. Elliott, president of the Atlantic Coast Line, who purchased the road under foreclosure proceedings, at $300,000.

Wild Cat Enters a House. A lady just returned from a visit to the country reports a thrilling experience. The house she was visiting was near a skirt of woods, and one of the household pets was a very large cat.

COLUMBIAN INTELLIGENCER.

QUINERLY, N. C., July 26th, '97. Charlie Butler, of Vanceboro, was here on the 20th, and informed us that thieves broke into his smoke house a few nights since and took quite a lot of bacon.

Mr. Richmond, of Caswell county, is curing tobacco at W. J. Kulpatrik's. 'Uncle' Tom Gaskins, a very successful old farmer of Vanceboro, dropped in to see us on the 21st, and reports crops fairly good in his section.

Miss Julia B. Burgess returned home Friday, after spending a few weeks visiting her sister, Mrs. J. B. Latham. A. M. Meize and H. C. Butler went to Maple Cypress on the 24th. On their way they attended services on Sunday—thats a all.

We were shown an open boll of cotton on the 23rd, by M. C. Smith. Can any one in the county beat it? Spencer Brooks lost a fine mule on the 22nd. We were shown the finest lot of watermelons of the season a few days ago by C. C. Kirkman, of Maple Cypress.

J. B. Gardner, of Maple Cypress, lost two hams, a cotton house, two sets of stables, three mules and about seventy-five barrels of corn by fire on the night of the 23rd. Loss about $800 with $350 insurance. Cause unknown. We have a splendid crop of tobacco drummers just now.

Around the Camp Fire. The Bryan Grimes Camp of Pitt County Confederate Veterans held its annual meeting in the college gym here today. The attendance was larger than at former meetings, were that a hundred old soldiers being present.

Don't Put It Off. The tobacco market opened this week, and in a few weeks the cotton crop will be coming in. Upon the whole the outlook for a lively fall trade is good. Greenville merchants who want to get their share of it should not neglect to put an advertisement in the REFLECTOR.

Did You Know It? Counting freight and passenger trains, the Southern runs sixty five trains in and out of Greenville every twenty four hours.

Facts.

The first nice peach seen here this season were brought in Tuesday by Mr. R. S. Quinerly, of Craven county. Mr. Quinerly says he has a large crop of them. We are sorry he is so far from Greenville.

Greenville the Winner. The 2nd time of the colored Greenville base ball club returned Saturday from Kinston where they played a match game yesterday. The score resulted in 16 to 3 in favor of Greenville.

Sucked Under. The Greenville base ball club returned home Friday morning from Kinston where they played a game of ball with the team there. They were not in it—the score standing 24 to 5. The home boys claim they played first nine men on them.

The partial eclipse of the sun came along on schedule time Thursday. The first traces of a shadow on its face was noticed about 8:30 o'clock and this continued to increase until about half of the sun was obscured. It could be viewed very readily through smoked glass and lots of people were taking observations in this way.

Out of the Ordinary. Mr. James H. Cory brought the REFLECTOR a curiosity. It was a part of a stack of corn that bore 22 ears. There were two ears on the body of the stalk and every branch of the tassel had also branched a small ear, making a cluster of 20 ears at the top.

Lang Sells Cheap. The partial eclipse of the sun came along on schedule time Thursday. The first traces of a shadow on its face was noticed about 8:30 o'clock and this continued to increase until about half of the sun was obscured.
